We say, Glory to the Constitution! and for this reason:—Because being framed to form a more perfect Union, and to preserve that Union when formed, it (the Constitution,) admits of any and every construction necessary to effect the end for which it was framed: even to the trampling on so-called State Rights during an emergency, since the right of Government to self-preservation is paramount to all other rights. This Chief Justice Parsons, if he were alive, would tell us with a sententiousness all his own, and this fact ignored renders all discourses on Chief Justice Parsons, in these times, little better than libelous.

The Farmers' Club, having voted to hold a horticultural exhibition next fall, adjourned to next October. AUDITOR.

THE "ALLIGATOR BATTERY" which was lost in the late furious gale while on the voyage to Port Royal, in tow of the U. S. steamer Sumter (Capt. JOHN WINCHESTER, of this town,) was a vessel designed for submarine operations. The machine was about thirty feet long and six or eight feet in diameter, and with conical ends. It was made of iron, with the upper part pierced for small circular plates of glass for light, and in it were several water tight compartments. By letting the water in the compartments, the machine was submerged, and by first calculating the bearings of the torpedo or ship on which it was intended to work, the operators could approach sufficiently near to it (the machine being steered from the outside) to answer the purpose required, it was believed. The Alligator was to be manned by sixteen men, besides one in submarine armor, who was the explorer, and a captain who was to steer the craft. The motive power was a propellor worked by a crank. An air pump in the centre of the machine, to which were attached to floats, was to furnish air to the occupants—the machine being of course air tight. The entrance was through a man hole at one end, which was covered with an iron plate with leather packing. It was intended by the Navy Department to be used in destroying or rendering harmless the torpedoes which had been placed in the way of our fleet at Charleston.

HORSE RAILROADS.—The Newburyport Herald says that the Boston and Danvers horse railroad is to be extended through Beverly and Wenham to Ipswich, and thence to Essex, where is no railroad, and possibly it may then come to Rowley and Newburyport. A horse railroad is also projected from Methuen through Lawrence to North Andover, and thence to South Andover. These roads promise before long to be as common as were turnpikes fifty years ago.

☞ The New York Sun thinks that General Butler may be a candidate for the Presidency in 1864, nominated by the Loyal Leagues.—Many of our Presidents have had less and few of them more ability than B. F. Butler of Lowell.

☞ If General Banks cannot take Port Hudson, he can capture cotton and sugar as well as compel the negroes to produce them for nothing. But the rebels mean to save their bacon though they lose their cotton.

☞ Gen. Banks has become alarmed for the Gulf Department, and is fortifying all the approaches to New Orleans, believing that 75,000 rebel troops can be concentrated on the city in twelve hours.

CONCENTRATED MILK.—This is a new article and very valuable, as every man can keep a cow without any cost of hay and fodder, and have good sweet milk at hand at all times. We have tried it, and find that one teaspoon of it will not only cream, but sweeten a cup of tea. Some would prefer a little more, but at any rate, it makes the tea, coffee or chocolate very palatable. It comes in little sealed cans, holding about a pint. It will prove a great blessing in the army and navy, where such a luxury is not easily obtained. Every body sending to their friends in the service will be careful to put some in with their other good things. Wilkinson has the article at his depot.

POTATOES.—The first potatoes grown in this country were from seed brought from Ireland by the Scotch Irish who emigrated from the old country in 1718 and in 1719 settled in Londonderry, N. H. They were first raised in the garden of Nathaniel Walker of Andover, and gradually but slowly found their way into general cultivation. They are first mentioned in Newbury in 1732; in Lynn in 1733. In 1737, Rev. Thomas Smith, of Portland, says, "there is not a peck of potatoes in the whole Eastern country." So late as 1750, if any person raised so large a quantity as five bushels, great was the enquiry among his neighbors as to how he could dispose of the enormous quantity.

☞ The new Washing and Wringing Machine, which Mr. Page is introducing into our kitchens, finds favor everywhere, except with the washerwomen, and wherever they have influence in families. They fear that their occupation is gone if that suceeeds, and they are down upon it. By this neat affair, washing clothes becomes one of the fine arts, and all the rubbing, splashing and twisting is done away with. It saves the clothes from the wear of the old mode, and in wringing them out they are pressed so dry that a short exposure to the sun and air fits them for the smoothing iron.

"MCCLELLAN: FROM BALL'S BLUFF TO ANTIETAM."—We have received a pamphlet with this title from Mr. E. B. Waitt, of the Danvers Periodical Store. It is from the pen of George Wilkes, of the New York Spirit of the Times, and is a most spicy production. Our friends in Danvers will always find an abundance of good reading matter at the counter of Mr. Waitt, and at very reasonable prices. This pamphlet is one of the most seathing productions which ever came from the pen of Mr. Wilkes, and is awfully severe on the "Little Napoleon" of the Peninsula.

MILLINERY NOTICE.—Ladies will be interested in the card of Mrs. FLETCHER, the head of the long established millinery depot at the corner of Essex and St. Peter streets. It will be seen that this favorite resort of the ladies of South Danvers has passed into the hands of Miss M. E. CRANE, who will keep up the well earned credit of the establishment for tasteful and elegant millinery goods. As one of our own town, Miss CRANE will be sure to meet the familiar faces of her townswomen at all times, and we bespeak for her an extensive patronage.

☞ The Atlantic Monthly for next month abounds in useful and readable articles. We have been most interested in Hawthorne's "Up the Thames," in which he describes scenes upon and about that sewer of mighty London. Gail Hamilton contributes one of her most racy, sparkling, witty and snarly productions. We might name other able papers in this number, but we prefer to have the reader see them for himself. The Atlantic is to be had, as usual, at Wilkinson's.

TOPSFIELD.—The dwelling house, barn, and out buildings, belonging to Mr. Ephraim Averill of Ipswich, (Linebrook Parish, near Topsfield,) were burned on Wednesday last. A little boy of about four years old applied a lighted match to some hay in the yard, near the barn, and this being connected with the house by a shed, immediately communicated the fire to the house, which, with most of the furniture, was destroyed, together with several tons of hay. No insurance.—Reg.

☞ The Traveller correspondent reports that in the action at Charleston, on board the Nahant, Edward Cobb, Quartermaster, belonging in Salem, Mass., who had been upwards of thirty years in the service, and was on board the ill-fated Cumberland, was in the pilot house, steering, when a shot knocked off a piece of iron, which hit him on the head causing a compound fracture. He died about 3 o'clock the next morning, and his body was sent to Port Royal for burial.

☞ London has progressed from a walled town, covering about 700 acres, with a population half mercantile, half military, living in a labyrinth of courts and alleys, the majority being, as appears from an old proclamation, "heaped up together, and in a sort half smothered," to the majestic city of our day, spreading over more than 120 square miles, and containing 2600 miles of streets flanked by 360,000 houses with a population of 3,000,000, and an assessed annual rental of £13,000,000.

☞ At the Boston Theatre, Manager Marshall has secured the Grand Combination Company of Mrs. Barrow, who appeared on Monday last, for two weeks only. Mr. Geo. Vandenhoff made his first appearance here for five years. W. R. Blake, Mrs. Sedley Brown, Miss Mary Carr, and others of acknowledged celebrity, are with them.

☞ There is a custom in Chili which must be exceedingly pleasant to the lovers of the weed. At the table d'hote of the leading hotel, gentlemen smoke between the courses, and at intervals along the table are placed little three-legged metal cups, containing coals of fire, by which to light the cigaritos.

☞ Harper's Magizine for May keeps up the interest and reputation of this, the cheapest and best of all the illustrated magazines. It closes the twenty-sixth volume, and now is the time to renew subscriptions, South Danvers people at Wilkinson's, and Danvers folks at Waitt's.

☞ Three additional cavalry companies from California, consisting of 350 privates and ten officers, all fully uniformed and provided with sabres, arrived at Readville about ten o'clock on Thursday forenoon.

☞ Godey's Lady's Book for May has reached us, and it is just the best of all the periodicals for ladies. It fairly blooms with Spring fashions.

☞ The recent General Orde
the principles on which regime consolidated, will not be carrie present in Gen. Hooker's army. of the service too many of the be cannot be spared just at this ti army is about to move. Filling up with new recruits will be m the cause, and make the men with their present ranks.

☞ We have received an e from Lieut. W. L. Thompson, Regiment, in which he describ events of the last month in No far as the 5th participated in the that it came too late to insert in

GRACE'S SALVE, of which so ma are published in the papers, is a should be in every family, for t of the kind exceeding it in valu remedy, that has stood the tes has been appreciated on both s lantic. For scalds, burns, chap sores from humors or otherwise speedy cure known. We speak der our own observation, and v its efficiency in healing the w army.—Newburyport Herald.

Our Lady readers will notic ment of JAMES F. ALMY, in our of Goods from New York; an all kinds of Dry Goods will fin ing his most complete and desir they have no need to go out of for variety of choice goods or fa

WORSTED BRAIDS, the best o
P. PEABODY'S.

The attention of ladies is dire vertisement of "New Spring tised by Messrs. BROWNING
They have a fine stock of very

Best Glace SPOOL COTTONS—BODY'S.

Purchasers of Ladies Outside referred to the great variety disp
F. ALMY, at No. 188 Essex stre patterns from New York, and ments made in this city, he is desirable novelties at very low

SUN UMBRELLAS—lowest pr
BODY'S.

A TENANT WANTED.—To let possession, a ten-roomed house, vicinity of some pyroteeknic mi has been entirely rebuilt and be ated since the last explosion, was ejected without notice.

☞ I have for sale one very at $165, and one at $175; als seven-octave Piano-Fortes at $ room, 218 Essex Street, Salem.
Boston or New York instru attended to. S. MACKINT

New Style SKIRTS—at PEA

New RIBBONS and FLOWE
BODY'S.

New Styles GLOVES—at PEA

Best CORSETS $1 35 to close—

CARPETS. A great trade is ca these times of high prices, by th Carpet Company, of Boston.
tisement in to-day's paper.

☞ Try one of Rhoades' N
Wringers, before purchasing sale at the Equity Store, Soutl advertisement.

Warren Five Cents Sa

The Semi-Annual Meeting
tion will be held at the Warre on Wednesday, May 6th, at 7
Per order,
FRANCIS BAKE
South Danvers, April 22, 18

VOCAL CLASS

MANUAL FENOLLOSA,
of some of his friends, respect his intention of forming a

Singing Class in Soutl

for the acquirement of thoro
Instruction in the Art of Singi
Subscription papers for Men found with Mrs. Geo. P. Osb
Elliot, and Mr. Geo. P. Daniel
The class will be organized a ficient number of names are ob its success.
Terms $5.00 for 24 Evening's
So. Danvers, April 8, 1863.

☞ Messrs. D. B. Brooks & sent us from their Music R through their bookstore)—"Th ing,"—a Song and Chorus by W horne. Published by Horace W
Messrs. Brooks & Brother a beautiful seven octave piano, f rich, mellow tone, rosewood and These pianos are giving the best and are warranted in all respect to $250. They have a fine pianos and melodeons to rent.

Port of Dan

Ar 11th, schs Mora, Chadwic
D C; J L Foster, Goodwin, Ne
sch H S Barnes, Raymond, do.

Marriage

In Danvers, 19th inst, by Re
Mr Frederick Wright and Mrs
well, both of D.

Deaths.

In Danvers, 3d inst, Cynthia
6 mos 11 mos.

In Salem, 12th inst, John, and Mary Flinn, 9 years; 14th widow of the late Mr Benjamin erly, 84 yrs; Mrs Johannah, wi
Mr Dennis Cantey, 67; 15th, M ers, 86; Mr Richard Hill, 76; 1 widow of the late Nehemiah A Mrs Mary, wife of Mr James M
Timothy Kirby, 36; 20th, Mrs of Mr Charles C Parshley, 49; 1
ow of the late Mr Henry Lusco
G, only son of Gilbert L and Re er, 8 years 3 mos.

☞ Visit OSBORNE'S Store, and look at the unusual variety of new styles in HATS and CAPS—191 Essex street.

☞ The extraordinary success of Dr. Ham's Invigorating Spirit, seems to stir up an army of Tonics, Bitters, and Cure Alls; but as a general thing they are like the Morning Glory—look very fine in the morning but wilt before the day has past The Dr. has been before the public for years; his Dyspepsia Remedy has been tested and not found wanting; it acts on the Liver, Stomach, Head and the whole system; it is good at all times and for everybody.

Hunnewell's Great Remedies.

WHAT EVERY FAMILY SHOULD HAVE IN THE HOUSE AND WHY;

☞ They should have HUNNEWELL'S UNIVERSAL, COUGH REMEDY, because it effectually cures Colds, Whooping and Common Coughs Sore Throat, Hoarseness, and is the most simple and perfect Soothing Syrup in the world. For old and young, by day and night, it may be used with the greatest freedom, and three-fourths of the deaths by Consumption stopped.

They should have HUNNEWELL'S TOLU ANODYNE, Because it is a perfect remedy for Neuralgia, Nervous or Sick Headache, Tooth, and Earache, Pain in Stomach, or Bowels, Genuine Cholera Morbus, Rheumatism, Distress after Eating, Nervousness, Hysteria, and the chief of all causes of disease, and Insanity, Loss of Sleep. Its character, though active, is simple; its action in perfect conformity to nature; its end cure, or relief

For the pains in Monthly Menstruation a perfect relief, while nature's after work is not disturbed, and one of the most important points in Medicine.

They should have HUNNEWELL'S ECLECTIC PILLS, because with seldom but a single Pill for a dose all derangements of the Stomach and Bowels are cured. They cure Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Headache, when caused by foul stomach, Loss of Appetite, Biliousness, so often and so erroneously treated with Mercurials, Jaundice. For Worms a sure cure.

They act simple, assist nature, do not make a Pill Box of the stomach, as is the most fatal error of taking so many Pills at a dose and then what is important to every Family and every Purse, one bottle goes as far as two or three of what is ordinarily sold.

The confidence of all is asked to test
Hunnewell's Universal Cough Remedy.
Hunnewell's Tolu Anodyne.
Hunnewell's Eclectic Pills.

☞ Fac-simile of J. L. Hunnewell's signature over corks of genuine only.

JOHN L. HUNNEWELL, proprietor,
9 Commercial Wharf, Boston, Mass.
George E. Meacom, Agent for Danvers.
For sale by all dealers in Salem and vicinity.
Apr. 1, 1863—1 y

TO CONSUMPTIVES.

THE ADVERTISER HAVING BEEN RESTORED to health in a few weeks, by a very simple remedy, after having suffered several years with a severe lung affection, and that dread disease, Consumption—is anxious to make known to his fellow-sufferers the means of cure.

To all who desire it, he will send a copy of the prescription used (free of charge,) with the directions for preparing and using the same, which they will find a SURE CURE for CONSUMPTION, ASTHMA, BRONCHITIS, &c. The only object of the advertiser in sending the Prescription is to benefit the afflicted, and spread information which he conceives to be invaluable, and he hopes every sufferer will try his remedy as it will cost them nothing, and may prove a blessing.

Rev. EDWARD A. WILSON, Williamsburgh,
March, 18, 3m Kings County, New York.

M. FENOLLOSA,

TEACHER OF MUSIC,

LETS.....PIANO FORTES, at the lowest rates;
SELLS.....PIANO FORTES, at the Manufacturers Prices;
EXCHANGES....PIANO FORTES, on the easiest terms;

At Rooms No. 7 Central street,
feb 11 SALEM, MASS.

How to Make $5.00 a Day,

When all other Efforts have Failed.

HOOD & CO., 186 Broadway, New York, have just published ONE HUNDRED VALUABLE SECRETS, possessing them, any one, male or female, can easily make $5 a day, without capital, in any city or village. Every one should possess these secrets, for they are worth $500 to any single or married person. Some of these Secrets have been sold for $20 each. One alone cost us $250 for the right to publish it. When you once own them you will never part with them for money. Several persons are now making $120 per month by these Secrets alone. By them any person may make money easily and rapidly. We send one Book of Secrets for 25 cents, two copies, 40 cents, club of three for 50 cts., club of four 65 cts. club of five 75 cts., club of eight copies, $1 Send Government money.

New York, Feb 18, 1863. *3m

MANUAL FENOLLOSA,
TEACHER
OF THE
Violin, Piano and Singing,
Music Rooms, No. 7 Central Street,
SALEM, MASS.

Advertisements.

DRY GOODS
— IN —
SOUTH DANVERS!

NEW and desirable SPRING DRESS GOODS, PRINTS, SHEETINGS, SHIRTINGS, &c., at the Reduced Prices, may be found at the Cheap Cash Store of

GEO. P. DANIELS.

April 22, 1863.

A Card.

Having disposed of my stock and stand to Miss M. E. CRANE, I avail myself of this opportunity to request my friends and customers who have bestowed their liberal patronage upon me, to transfer the same to my successor.

In taking leave of my business friends, I would return my warmest thanks for the generous patronage I have received. I can in the highest terms recommend Miss CRANE, and would bespeak for her your kind consideration and confidence.

I would most respectfully invite those having unsettled accounts to call and adjust the same, either with Miss Crane or myself, at the old stand.

April 22, 1863. M. M. FLETCHER.

Notice.

The Subscriber having purchased of Mrs. M. M. FLETCHER her stock of Goods, and made additions to the same, is now prepared to furnish her patrons and the public with a large and fine assortment of

Millinery Goods,

which we will sell very low for cash. We hope by strict attention to business to merit a liberal share of patronage. M. E. CRANE,
ap 22 cor. of Essex and St. Peter sts.

Tillage Land and Barn to Let.

ABOUT six acres of good level Tillage Land with a Barn, situated upon the "Cross Road" in Rockville. Any one wishing to work upon land a portion or the whole of his time will find this a rare chance.

For further particulars application may be made to either of the subscribers.

S. C. BANCROFT, So. Danvers.
JOHN H. NICHOLS, Salem.
South Danvers, Ap. 22.

To Let.

A SMALL but pleasant and convenient Chamber Tenement, in the house formerly occupied by the late Wood Furness, upon the corner of Washington and Pleasant Streets. For particulars apply to

SIDNEY C. BANCROFT.
South Danvers, April 22. tf

Quincy Mutual Fire Insurance Co.

Available and Cash Capital $500,000.

INSURES Buildings, Merchandize and Personal Property generally, on terms as favorable as any other dividend paying company.

J. D. BLACK, Agent,
april 22—1y At Danversport.

Merrimack Mutual Fire Insurance Co., Andover, Mass.

ONE of the OLD AND RELIABLE OFFICES.

J. D. BLACK is Agent for Danvers and South Danvers. apr 22—1y

Crockery Ware.

A FULL assortment of China and Crockery Ware; Wooden Ware; Table Cutlery; Tea Trays; Britannia Ware and Silver Plated Ware, &c—for sale at the General Furnishing Store for Housekeepers, No. 32 Front street.

ap 22 SC & EA SIMONDS.

Tapestry Brussels Carpets.

AT $1.00 TO $1 25 PER YARD.

AN invoice of 100 pieces we have placed in retail department at the above low prices. This is probably the cheapest lot of Carpets that will be offered in the market this season. As it is but little over half the present prices for these goods, our customers are reminded that they will last but a few days.

NEW ENGLAND CARPET CO.,
75 Hanover St., opp. American House,
BOSTON.

Fine Tapestry Carpets.

ROYAL VELVET MEDALLIONS AND BRUSSELS are selling at low prices by the NEW ENGLAND CARPET CO., No. 75 Hanover Street, Boston. One price and cash systems strictly adhered to.

Fine Carpets Cheap.

OVER 2000 pieces of Fine English Tapestry Brussels—bought before the rise—and will be out up in quantities to suit our customers at much less than the market prices.

New England Carpet Company,
75 Hanover Street, Boston.
One price and cash system strictly adhered to.

Floor Oil Cloths.

OUR retail department is well stocked with the celebrated enameled goods, and selling at less than manufacturer's prices

New England Carpet Co., Boston.
One price and cash systems strictly adhered to

Carpets.

ALTHOUGH prices have doubled to import or manufacture, we have a very complete stock purchased before the rise, and are able to supply our customers for the present at very much under the ruling rates.

NEW ENGLAND CARPET CO.,
75 Hanover Street, Boston.
Boston, April 22. *3w

RARE CHANCE FOR BUSINESS.

For Sale or to Let.

A TWO-STORY SHOE MANUFACTORY, ready for occupancy, 22 by 40 feet, situated on Broad Street, centrally located, near the Lynn Mechanics Bank.

FOR SALE.

IF APPLIED FOR SOON.

1 "Thompson's Sole Leather Cutting Machine," in perfect order.

1 large original "Wilder's Safe," powder proof lock.

For farther particulars inquire at the U. S. Assessors Office, corner of Union and Mulberry Streets, Lynn.

Lynn, April 15, 1863—3w.

Executors' Sale of Real Estate in Danversport.

By virtue of a License from the Court of Probate for the County of Essex, will be sold at Public Auction, on the premises, on FRIDAY, the 15th day of May, at 2 o'clock, P. M., so much of the following Real Estate of MOSES BLACK, late of Danvers, deceased, as shall raise the sum of six thousand nine hundred and eighty-two 33-100 dollars, for the payment of Debts, Legacies, and charges of Administration:

No. 1.—Homestead of said deceased, consisting of a parcel of Land on Water street, in said Danvers, containing seventy-five rods. On said lot is a large three-story Dwelling House, Wood House, Shed, and good Stable; a superior Garden stocked with valuable Fruit Trees of various kinds, Currants, Gooseberries, Grapes, &c.

No. 2.—Large Wool Store, three Stories and two Attics, together with the Lot on which it stands, fronting three rods and thirteen links on Water St., and running back to line of Essex Railroad. Said Store is 40x60 feet, very heavy timbered, and suitable for manufacturing purposes.

No. 3.—The Estate on Water street, adjoining the last, containing about two acres, known as formerly the Estate of the late BRIGGS R. REED, on which are two Dwelling Houses and large Stable. Said Estate will be sold in one or two parcels, as shall appear most desirable.

No. 4.—The Lot on Water street, known as the Proctor Lot. Said Lot is opposite to the Store of A. W. WARREN, and contains about seventeen thousand feet of land, and is the most eligible building lot on said street in the market.

No. 5.—The large Double-House and Lot of over 1-2 an Acre, on Water street, adjoining the last, and now occupied by WM. BLACK, and the family of the late MOSES BLACK, Jr. Said lot has a fine Stable and Wood-house attached, and a valuable Fruit and Vegetable Garden. It will be offered in one or two parcels, as appears to be desirable.

No. 6.—The Morocco Factory on said Water Street, adjoining the Grocery Store of A. W. WARREN, together with the land under the same; said Building is two story and large and well suited for manufacturing purposes.

No. 7.—The large and valuable Coal Wharf, with extensive water and street fronts, on which are several large and good Coal buildings, situated on Water street, and now under lease to POTTER, BATCHELDER & CO., Coal Dealers.

No. 8.—A small House, and Lot of about half an Acre, on River street, adjoining the Estate of M. J. HAGERTY.

Terms and conditions will be made known at the time and place of sale or on application to either of the subscribers.

WILLIAM BLACK, } Executors.
JAMES D. BLACK, }
Danversport, April 14, '63.

PHOTOGRAPH ALBUMS.

BEAUTIFUL and new styles, in great variety:

Card Pictures of the "Prince and Princess," "Father Cleaveland," and others at
G M WHIPPLE & A A SMITH'S.

SUMMER LANDSCAPES,

AND "WINTER SCENES," for Albums—12 different Views for 62 cents—beautifully colored.

G M WHIPPLE & A A SMITH'S

All kinds of Printing done at this office.

Dr. Ham's Spirit.

A Good Milk Route for Sale,

INQUIRE at this office.
South Danvers, Feb. 11, 1863.

James F. Almy.

FROM NEW YORK.

We have received a splendid variety of
FRENCH SHAWLS,
Cloths for Ladies' Spring Garments,
—AND—
RICH DRESS GOODS,
from New York.

JAMES F. ALMY,
ap 22 188 Essex, opposite Central St.

SUN UMBRELLAS.

We have received a large invoice of
SUN UMBRELLAS,
Made from the best materials, upon Fox's English Frames.

JAMES F. ALMY,
ap 22 188 Essex, opposite Central st.

PARIS KID GLOVES.

We have received a full stock of TREFOUSSES PARIS KID GLOVES,
Our regular goods.

JAMES F. ALMY,
ap 22 188 Essex, opposite Central st.

WE HAVE OPENED
ONE CASE TAFFETA STRIPES,
Mode Colors—at a low price.

JAMES F. ALMY,
ap 8 188 Essex, opposite Central St.

WE HAVE RECEIVED
ONE CASE PACIFIC PRINTS,
New Styles—at a low price.

JAMES F. ALMY,
ap 8 188 Essex, opposite Central st.

WE HAVE RECEIVED
ONE CASE PACIFIC DE LAINES,
Choice Styles and Colors—at low prices.

JAMES F. ALMY,
ap 8 188 Essex, opposite Central st.

WE SHALL OPEN NEW STYLES
LADIES' CLOTH GARMENTS,
On Wednesday, April 8.

JAMES F. ALMY,
ap 8 188 Essex, opposite Central St.

WE HAVE RECEIVED
A full line of
PLAIN ALPACCAS,
Mode and Fancy Colors.

JAMES F. ALMY,
ap 8 188 Essex, opposite Central St.

M. A. PORTER,
MANUFACTURES TO ORDER
WATCH SPRING SKIRTS,
At 236 Essex Street,
A few doors from Washington Street,
SALEM, MASS.

REGULATIONS OF THE BOARD OF HEALTH

— OF THE —

TOWN OF SOUTH DANVERS.

Adopted April 11, 1863.

Ordered, That all dirt, saw-dust, cinders, shavings, hair, shreds, manure, oyster and lobster shells, waste water, or any animal or vegetable substance, rubbish, or filth of any kind, in any house, ware-house, cellar, yard, or other place, which the Board of Health shall deem it necessary for the health of the town to be removed, shall be carried away therefrom, by and at the expense of the owner or occupant of such house, or other place where the same shall be found, and shall be removed to such place as shall be directed, within four hours after notice in writing to that effect, given by the Board of Health.

Ordered, That all slaughter-houses or places where animals are slaughtered, shall be so cleansed by removing the offal, and all decaying animal matter, as to be free from all offensive odors to residents in the vicinity, and to those individuals travelling by any such place where animals are slaughtered.

Ordered, That no obstructions, such as posts, bushes, or other collectors of decaying animal or vegetable matters, shall be placed in any of the brooks of the town, or in Wallis Pond,—and that no privy be erected or continued over said waters, or so situated on the margin thereof that the filth shall pass into them, and that no animal or vegetable matters, or whatever will pollute the waters, be thrown or allowed to flow in the same, excepting by special permit of the Board of Health.

Ordered, That no wagon, cart or vehicle, in which night soil, hides or other matter, in a condition to emit fetid and offensive effluvia are being conveyed through any of the streets, highways, or within forty rods of any dwelling house, school house, or other public building in this town, shall be permitted to stand more than five minutes, within forty rods of the same place, except it be at the place or places where the land is received or deposited.

D. C. PERKINS,
GEO. OSBORNE,
JOSEPH POOR,
BENJA. HUNTINGTON,
M. A. SHACKLEY,
ALERSON GALEUCIA,
} Board of Health.

South Danvers, April 15, 1863. 6w

NEW BOOKS,

AT G. M. WHIPPLE & A. A. SMITH'S.

Campaigns of 1862 and 1863, illustrating the principles of Strategy; by Emil Schalk, author of "Summary of the Art of War;"
Annette, by Alex Dumas;
Captain Darrell, by M. E. Braddon;
Statutes at Large, and Treaties of the U. States, 3d Session 37th Congress;
Atlantic, Peterson, Leslie's Gazette of Fashion, &c., for May. 190 Essex street.

George S. Walker.

For Spring and Summer Wear,

GENTLEMEN'S UNDER GARMENTS, HOSIERY, GLOVES,
—AND—
Gent's Furnishing Goods.

MY Stock is now full with seasonable goods, carefully selected in the New York and Boston markets. Many of my goods having been purchased for cash prior to the advance in prices, I offer great inducements to purchasers.

GEORGE S. WALKER,
Gent's Furnishing Store,
ap 22 228 Essex Street, Salem, Mass.

John P. Peabody.

PEABODY'S COLUMN.

OUR NEW GOODS!

Ladies' Cotton Hosiery;
Gent's Cotton Socks;
Misses' Cotton Hosiery;
Children's Cotton Hosiery;
Infants' Merino Socks;

Ladies' Gloves; Misses' Gloves; Children's Gloves; Gent's Gloves; Lisle Thread Gloves; Silk Finished Gloves; Cotton Gloves; Black Gloves;

Our Best Kid Gloves;
Our Best Kid Gloves;
Our Best Kid Gloves;
Our Best Kid Gloves;

White Goods. In this department we have a full stock that was bought before any rise, and which we are selling at the "OLD PRICES." Cambrics, Lawns, Muslins, &c., &c.

Embroideries. Nice Wrought Collars, 25 cts
Nice Wrought Collars, 34 cts
Nice Wrought Collars, 38 cts
Nice Wrought Collars, 50 cts
Wrought Setts, Lace Collars, Bands, Flouncings, Edgings, Insertings, &c., &c.

Ribbons..... In Ribbons we can show some decided bargains, as we have many styles that we bought last season. In plain colors we can give them at last year's prices. We have choice New Styles.

Flowers..... Our stock of Flowers is choice and full. All the latest and best styles, and at our usual low prices.

Ruches..... Nice Hand Made Ruche, 15c
Nice Hand Made Ruche, 18c
Nice Hand Made Ruche, 20c
Nice Hand Made Ruche, 25c

Buttons..... We have all the new and desirable styles of Buttons, in Jet, Jet and Steel, Steel, Gilt, Silk, Crochet, Brocade, Pearl, Pearl Agate, Porcelain, Rubber, Whalebone, etc

Braids..... We still continue to sell the best Worsted Braids—full pieces for 8 cts per piece. We have Mohair and Silk Braids and Galoons by the piece or yard—in all colors.

Spool Cottons. The best Glazed Cottons, 200 yards, 7 cts
Good Glazed Cotton, 5 cts
Good do do per doz 55c
Findlay's Thistle Cotton, 3c
Findlay's do do per doz 30c
These are all under price.

Skirts..... We sell none but the best, and warrant every Skirt we sell to be made of the best Steel Springs, and finished in the best manner. We have all sizes for Ladies and Misses.

Corsets..... We have a new thing in this department that is pleasing every one who gives them a trial. Warranted superior in material, shape and finish.

Rubber Pages	12 1-2 cts;
American Pins	5 cts;
Worsted Braids	8 cts;
Sea Island Cottons	5 cts;
Gold Eyed Needles	6 cts;
Blk Linen Thread	4 cts;
Nice Cord Nets	25 cts;
Invisible Nets,	25 cts;
Nice Linen Hdkfs	16 cts;
Nice Cotton Hdkfs	8 cts;
Indelible Pencils	17 cts;

Read the Prices.

BLACK VELVET RIBBONS!

☞ MOURNING GOODS ☜

COLLARS, SLEEVES,
SETTS,
GLOVES, &c.,
In all the best styles for mourning.

Sun Umbrellas from 162 1-2 up;
Sun Umbrellas from 162 1-2 up;
Sun Umbrellas from 162 1-2 up;
Sun Umbrellas from 162 1-2 up;
Sun Umbrellas from 162 1-2 up;
Sun Umbrellas from 162 1-2 up;

Our whole stock is full and desirable, and we can show many decided bargains.

☞ Our store is open every evening until 8 o'clock. ☜

220 ESSEX ST., SALEM.
JOHN P. PEABODY.

JOHN FARRELL,

DRAPER AND TAILOR,

HAVING removed to his old place of business, 138 MAIN ST., South Danvers, (over Batchelder's Grocery Store), is prepared to Cut, Make, Repair, or furnish Garments, for Men and Youths at short notice.

South Danvers, April 1. tf

THE PIANO FORTES

THAT have attracted so much attention of late, and are so much admired on account of their SPLENDID FULL, RICH, MELLOW TONE, and GRAND FRENCH ACTION, are for sale only at the Office of the Agent,

218 Essex Street, Salem, Mass.,

where reference may be had to many who have purchased. Other Piano Fortes also, are for sale, varying in price from $180 upwards. Please call.

Mch 11 6m S. MACKINTIRE, Agent.

THE CLOTHES WRINGER.

JUST OBTAINED
RHOADES' CELEBRATED
NATIONAL CLOTHES WRINGER,
THE VERY BEST YET INVENTED,
AND REALLY A LABOR SAVING MACHINE.
CALL AND EXAMINE.

For Sale by E. SOUTHWICK,
At the EQUITY GROCERY STORE,
South Danvers, Jan 21, 1863. 3m

A. J. Archer & Co

ELEGANT NEW GOODS.

A. J. ARCHER & CO.,

OPEN THIS MORNING

MANY NEW STYLES OF

DRESS GOODS,

INCLUDING

Rich and Heavy Black Silks,

Rich Plain Colored Silks.

☞ Our patrons are invited to examine these Goods. Prices are still advancing, and money will be saved by buying now.

Salem, February 11, tf

FLANNELS AND COTTONS.

A. J. ARCHER & CO.,

Have on hand a full supply of

BROWN SHEETINGS AND SHIRTINGS;

BLEACHED SHEETINGS & SHIRTINGS;

— Also —

GREY TWILLED FLANNELS;

WHITE FLANNELS.

— Also —

BLANKETS OF ALL SIZES,

which they offer at the LOWEST PRICES.

Salem, January 28—6w

SPRING GOODS!

Entirely New Stock of

CLOTHING.

GEO. H. LANE,

CLOTHIER,

Nos. 31 and 32 Dock Square,

BOSTON,

IS now ready to show to his customers and the public an ELEGANT STOCK OF CLOTHING for MEN'S and BOYS' wear, expressly designed by himself, manufactured on the premises for the present season in all those new and choice selections of fabrics for which Lane's establishment has become celebrated. The stock consists in part of

SPRING OVERCOATS,
FROCK COATS,
BUSINESS COATS
And ONE HUNDRED CHOICE
NEW STYLES OF PANTALOONS,
Suitable for Dress, Promenade or Business Occasions.

MR. LANE having made Large Purchases by Contract before the Unprecedented and General Advance in Prices, has it in his power to give

REAL BARGAINS,

Acting on the principal that

"Quick Sales and Small Profits"

Are the best rules to guide the merchant.

JUVENILE ATTIRE.

Boys' Entire Suits, as

SCHOOL SUITS,
DRESS SUITS,
JACKET SUITS,
SACK SUITS, &C.

All of the newest fabrics and best workmanship.

A year since Mr. Lane advised the public that he had added a Boys' Department, and he has now the satisfaction to announce that he has secured the services of MR. C. H. Boynton, (formerly with J. WALTER READ) to superintend it; and indeed, to make the entire establishment the COMPLETEST IN NEW ENGLAND, the Proprietor has spared no pains to secure the services of REAL ARTISTS in the Cutting Room, and accomplished, obliging, and experienced Salesman in the Show Room; and trusts by strict personal attention, and MODERATE CHARGES, to merit the support of the community.

GEO. H. LANE,
31 AND 32 DOCK SQUARE,
April 1—3m BOSTON.

Choice Spring Pigs for Sale.

THE subscriber offers for sale nice PIGS of Mackie Prince Albert and Chester County breeds, of which the Mackie took the First Premium at the late Cattle Show. Prices reasonable.

BYRON GOODALE,
Near Tapley's Brook,
South Danvers, April 22, 1863 tf

Messenger's Notice.

ESSEX ss. April 7, 1863 A warrant has been duly issued by Hon. GEO. F. CHOATE, Judge of the Court of Insolvency, for said county of Essex, against the estate of

DANIEL F. CATE, of South Danvers,

in said county, carpenter, an insolvent debtor; and the payment of any debts, or the delivery of any property belonging to said insolvent debtor, to him or for his use, and the transfer of any property by him, are forbidden by law.

A meeting of the creditors of said insolvent debtor will be held at the Court of Insolvency, to be holden at the Court House in Salem, in said county, on the twenty-seventh day of April current, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, for proof of debts, and the choice of an assignee or assignees of said estate.

STEPHEN UPTON, Deputy Sheriff,
So. Danvers, Apr 8. Messenger.

Browning & Long.

BROWNING & LONG having finished opening their NEW GOODS, are now prepared to show a splendid assortment in their different departments. Having purchased our Spring Stock at least 20 per cent, less than the wholesale prices now ruling, we shall sell them accordingly low, and as heretofore, offer our goods as

FIRST CLASS, and at the LOWEST PRICES.

Among our NEW GOODS may be found:

POINTE DE GAUZE COLLARS,
THREAD LACE do,
MALTA LACE do,
GUIPURE LACE do,
LACE TRIMMED do,
SWISS do,
SWISS SETTS,
UNIQUE SCARFS,
BLACK LACE VEILS,
EMB'D BORDER VEILS,
REAL THREAD VEILS,
GRENADINE do,
GAUZE do,
MOURNING do,
TUCKED do,
INFANTS EMB'D CAPS,
BLACK AND BL'K AND WHITE BARBES.

Edgings and Insertings.

Cambric, Thread, Valenciennes, Smyrna, Muslin, Malta, Guipure, and Cotton.

A full assortment in the different widths.

Ladies' and Gent's Hdkfs.

A full assortment—in Plain, Col'd Bordered, Hemstitched and Monrning.

Also, a full assortment of Childrens' Hdkfs, in Hemstitched, Plain, and Col'd Bordered.

Corsets and Bodices.

A full assortment in White and Col'd—two qualities. Every pair warranted to fit and give satisfaction, or to be returned.

Skirts.

Our usual large variety in Ladies and Misses. Also, just received the new GORE TRAIL SKIRT.

Hosiery and Gloves.

A full and splendid assortment, consisting of a 11 sizes, in

Ladies' Plain White Cotton Hose,
do do Unbleached do,
do do Mode do do,
do do Black do do,
Openwork—in Unbleached & White.
MISSES' COTTON HOSE, in white, unbleached, mode, brown, mixed, striped;
MEN'S HALE HOSE, in Grey or Blue mixed;
do do do Brown mix'd Striped Plain & White.
BOY'S HALE HOSE, in Grey, Brown, Blue, Striped & Plain White;
INFANT'S 1-2 and 3-4 Hose, in Cotton, a full assortment.

Kid Gloves.

A fresh assortment—In Black, White, Col'd and Embroidered.

LADIES' SILK AND LISLE GLOVES.

We have a handsome assortment, comprising all sizes and a great variety of styles, including ALEXANDRE SILK KID FINISH GLOVE, in small sizes.

MISSES' AND BOY'S GLOVES, in Plain, Mixed and Ruffled.

Also, a full line of WHITE SILK GLOVES 8 sizes.

Dress Buttons, Bugles, Gimps, Beltings, etc., a splendid assortment.

☞ Also, a full stock of Yankee Notions, which we shall sell at the Lowest Prices.

BROWNING & LONG

(Successors to J. MAYER,)

Essex St., 177 Essex St.,
April 15, 1863.

Valuable Real Estate.

The subscriber offers for sale the following parcels of Real Estate, delightfully situated on the highest ground on Mount Vernon street, in South Danvers.

That very pleasant Cottage House, occupied by the subscriber, on the above named street, being well calculated for two families, having eight rooms in the southerly end and four in the northerly end of the house. The lot on which this house is situated is about 75 feet square. Connected with it is a two story Barn, the upper story being used for a Paint Shop.—It is 19 by 24 feet on the ground.

Also, in rear of the above estate, a two story Dwelling House, for two families, which rents for about $78.

Also, a very eligible House Lot on Mount Vernon st, 75 feet square.

Also, on Fulton street, a one story house with four rooms, which is now rented for about $60.

Also, a House Lot on Fulton st., measuring 75 feet front by 75 feet deep.

The above estates will be sold all together or in separate lots, as may be desired by purchasers.

This property is offered at private sale until the last of May, when it will be sold at auction if not before disposed of. It affords an excellent opportunity for a good bargain, as it will be sold on reasonable terms, and at a low price, if applied for soon.

The land not occupied by buildings is well planted with fruit trees in good bearing condition.

For further information, apply to the subscriber, on the premises.

MOSES JEWETT.
So. Danvers, April 15, 1863.

AT COLMAN'S!!!

No. 10 Front St., Salem, Mass.

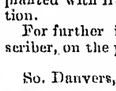
YOU MAY PURCHASE Good, All Wool Hose at 23 cts; Dress Braids, 5 1-2 yards each, at 8 cts; Silver-plated Spoons and Forks at old prices; Crockery and Glass Ware at half importing prices; Knives and Forks; Odd Forks; Carvers; Bread Knives; Pocket and Pen Knives; Scissors; Razors. OLD PRICES. Men's, Women's and Children's Boots and Shoes; VERY CHEAP—One 35 day Regulator, suitable for Church or any other public building.

One 30 hour large Clock, only $3 50.
Three eight-day Clocks at only $3 50.
Two Gothic Clocks at only $2 50.
Gent's Mahogany Writing Desk, only $1 25.
Ladies' Work Boxes (Blk Walnut) only $1.
Under Shirts and Drawers; Braces;
Over Coats, on hand, at less than cost;
Frock and Business Coats at low prices;
Pants and Vests at prices that will suit.

☞ Remember that will sell all our goods at less prices than can be purchased at wholesale.

Salem, April 8—3w w only

To Let on Essex St., Salem,



The STORE and DWELLING HOUSE connected therewith, No. 250 Essex St. The store is neatly fitted up, is one of the best stands in the city, and admirably adapted for Millinery, Fancy, Dry Goods, or any light business.

The Dwelling part contains nine finished rooms, and is supplied with water, gas, etc.—all in good order and very convenient.

To a satisfactory tenant, the above will be let on reasonable terms. Apply at J. PERLEY'S Shoe Store, next door west feb 25

Salem and South Danvers Railroad.

SUBSCRIBERS to the Capital Stock are hereby notified that the same is payable at the SALEM BANK, in four instalments, of 25 per cent. each, on the following days, viz.—

March 2; March 20; April 10; May 1.
Per order,
GEO. D. PHIPPEN, Treasurer.
mch 7 2m

☞ If you want to SAVE MONEY, in purchasing Goods, go to COLMAN'S, No. 10 Front street, Salem. [ap30-

Auction Sales.

WILLIAM ARCHER, Jr.,
Auctioneer, Real Estate and Stock Broker
34 Front Street.
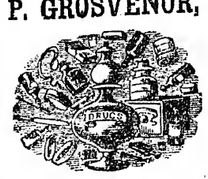
Real Estate, Bank, Railroad and Manufacturing Stock bought and sold on Commission.

REAL ESTATE FOR SALE.

The Dwelling House, No. 144 Boston Street, Salem, will be Sold at Public Auction on FRIDAY, the 24th inst at 10 o'clock in the forenoon.

Salem, April 15th, 1863.

D. P. GROSVENOR, Jr.,



Druggist and Apothecary,
88 MAIN STREET.
Dealer in Drugs, Medicines, Chemicals, Stuffs, and Popular Proprietary Medicines
Personal attention to Physicians' Prescriptions.
South Danvers, May 29, 1861.

GEO. E. MEACOM

Dealer in
DRUGS & MEDICINES
Fancy & Toilet Articles,
126 MAIN ST. 126
Nearly opposite Danvers Bank, So. Danvers

T. A. SWEETSER

Druggist & Apothecary,
37 Main St., So. Danvers.
DEALER IN
Drugs, Medicines, Chemicals, Foreign Leeches, Shells, Herbs, Dye Stuffs, Gums, Acids, Sponges, Shoulder Braces, Trusses and Genuine Patent Medicines.
Also, Imported Cigars of choice brands, Perfumery, Toilet Articles and Stationery.
Physicians' Prescriptions carefully prepared by experienced persons.
37 MAIN STREET.

Potter, Batchelder & Co.
(Successors to M. Black)
DANVERS-PORT,
DEALERS IN
WOOD AND COAL

OF the various kinds usually kept in this market, by the yard. Constantly on hand

Franklin, Locust Mountain, Old Company's Lehigh, Black Heath, Red and White Ash.

Of all sizes, of the best quality, and at as low prices as can be bought elsewhere.

OFFICE—No. 6 Allen's Building.
Order Box at post office, South Danvers, or at post office, Danvers.

G. W. POTTER,
J. Q. A. BACHELDER,
C. T. BATCHELDER. july

GLASS WARE.

CUT and Pressed Goblets; Tumblers in great variety; just opened at SC & EA SIMONDS', 32 Front
mch 25

VALUABLE REAL ESTATE

THE Subscriber offers for sale on favorable terms,—or exchange for a Farm,—his house on Wallis Street, near the Monumentary, consisting of THREE DWELLING HOUSES, which will be sold separately or one Estate.

There are 75 feet of land in front and 150 feet in the rear of the house.

The situation is pleasant, in a good neighborhood, and the houses are supplied with the conveniences for immediate occupation. In ordinary times these tenements would rent for from 330 to 350 dollars.

The Subscriber, having made up his mind to dispose of the property, will sell it low, and it is well worth the attention of purchasers.

Apply to JOHN M'N
South Danvers, Dec. 10th, 1862.

GRACE'S CELEBRATED S

A SURE RELIEF FOR THE SUF

This Salve is a vegetable preparation ed in the 17th century, by DR. WM surgeon in King James's army. Th agency he cured thousands of most seri and wounds that baffled the skill of eminent physicians of his day, and was by all who knew him as a public bene

Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Burns.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Scalds.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Flesh W
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Corns.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Felons.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Frozen
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Wens.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Callouse
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Salt Rh
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Chilblai
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Sore Br
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Sore Li
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Erysipe
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Abscess
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Ulcers.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Chappe
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Ringwo

And from Sores and Wounds of the me nature down to a common Pimple. cates Pimples from the face, and bea skin. There is no preparation before that can equal this Salve in prompt getic action for the speedy cure of ext eases, as those who have tried its virtu Soldiers, Sailors, and Fishermen, wil Salve their best friend.

It has none of the irritating, heatin ties of other remedies, but cools, cle heals the most serious Sores and Every family, and especially those children, should keep a box on hand accident, for it will save them mue suffering, and money. All it want trial to cure old and inveterate Sores,

MANUFACTURED BY WILLIAM GRA
AMESBU
PRICE 25 CENTS PER BOX

Each box has the above cut and the the proprietor's signature attached to it, ly copy righted.

Geo. C. Goodwin & Co., 11 and 12 Ma Weeks & Potter, 170 Washington stree Burr & Co., 26 Tremont street, Boston Agents.

For sale by druggists and at country where.

THE SOUTH DANVERS WIZARD

Is published every WEDNESDAY, at Allen's Building, South Danvers Square. by

CHARLES D. HOWARD, Proprietor.
FITCH POOLE, Editor.

TERMS—Two Dollars a year.

ADVERTISEMENTS inserted at reasonable rates.

Cards.

WILLIAM C. CHOATE,
Attorney and Counsellor at Law,
251 Essex St., Salem.
Salem, August 6, 1862. tf

THOMAS M. STIMPSON,
Attorney and Counsellor at Law,
194 ESSEX STREET, SALEM.
Residence Lewell street, South Danvers.

B. C. PERKINS,
Attorney and Counsellor at Law,
South Danvers—Office in Allen's Building.

JOHN W. PROCTOR,
Counsellor at Law,
Office near the Monument.

A. A. PUTNAM,
Attorney and Counsellor at Law,
CORNER MAPLE AND ELM ST.,
DANVERS.

ALFRED A. ABBOTT,
Attorney and Counsellor,
Office, No. 24 Washington Street, Salem;
House, Main St., So. Danvers.

IVES & PEABODY,
Attorneys and Counsellors at Law,
Have removed their Office to
Rooms formerly occupied by Hon. Otis P. Lord,
NO. 27 WASHINGTON STREET, SALEM,
STEPHEN B. IVES, jr. JOHN. B. PEABODY

SIDNEY C. BANCROFT,
Attorney and Counsellor at Law,
27 Washington Street, Salem.

H. O. WILEY,
Attorney and Counsellor at Law,
Office, Allen's Building, So. Danvers.

Claims against the Government for Bounty Back Pay, and Pensions, promptly attended to

A. S. CRAWFORD
Dentist,
No. 4 MAIN STREET, SO. DANVERS SQUARE
Mechanical Dentistry Neatly Executed.
Teeth Extracted by Electricity without Extra Charge

W. L. BOWDOIN,
SURGEON DENTIST,
No, 208 Essex Street, Salem, (Opposite the Marke
Residence--No. 57 Washington street.
jan 11—1y

F. POOLE
INSURANCE AGENT,
Allen's Building (up stairs),
Deeds drawn, and other common forms.

NEWMAN & SYMONDS,
DEALERS IN
Family Groceries, Flour & Grain,
HARD WARE AND CROCKERY,
Ready Made Clothing, Gents' Furnishing Goods,
Hats, Caps, Boots, Shoes, &c.,
South Danvers Square, opp. Congregational Church
SAM'L NEWMAN. NATH'L SYMONDS.

S. C. & E. A. SIMONDS,
DEALERS IN
Crockery, China and Hardware; Paper Hangings; Solar and Entry Lamps; Paints, Oil, and Window Glass.
No. 32 Front street, Lawrence Place,
feb13 SALEM, MASS.

HENRY L. WHIDDEN,
HOUSE AND SIGN PAINTER,
Glazier and Paperer,
Central Street, South Danvers.
All orders promptly and faithfully executed.
jan2-1y

E. S. FLINT,
DEALER IN
West India Goods, Country Poduce,
No. 2 Main Street, South Danvers.

JESSE SMITH,
No. 262 Essex Street, Salem,
Importer and Dealer in
Gold and Silver Watches,
MARINE CHRONOMETERS,
Aueroid Barometers, Spy Glasses, &c.

MRS. R. C. FLETCHER keeps constantly on hand

A WELL SELECTED ASSORTMENT OF
Millinery Goods,
at Rooms 168 Essex street, Salem. may16

WILLIAM BLANEY,
HOUSE & SIGN PAINTER
Grainer, Glazier and Paper Hanger.
164 MAIN STREET, Corner of Grove.
WINDOWS and BLINDS cheap for cash.
mch6-tf

JOHN MOULTON,
LIVERY STABLE,
Central Street, South Danvers.
Mr. M. will endeavor to keep up the good reputation of his stable, by still keeping good Horses and Carriages. jan 7, 1863.

HEYLINGBERG'S
Hair Dressing Saloon,
24 MAIN ST., SOUTH DANVERS.

TARIFF OF PRICES:

Shaving,	6 cts.
Hair Cutting,	12 cts.
Champooing,	15 cts.
Champooing and Hair Cutting,	25 cts.

No more new Quarterly Customers taken.
In consequence of the scarcity of Change, 18 checks will be sold for one dollar.
South Danvers, Dec 17, 1862.

THOMAS DAVIS,
ADVERTISING AGENT
For the principal New England Newspapers, remains at the old stand, No. 23 Cornhill, Boston, where you will find him still loyal to the Constitution, the Laws, and Advertising.
Boston, Jan 29, 1862. tf

WALKING MADE EASY.

DR. P. KENISON,
CHIROPODIST,
215 Washington St., Boston,
Cures Hard and Soft Corns, Bunions, Club Nails. Nails penetrating the Flesh, Warts, &c., in a manner that will satisfy the most incredulous.

D. W. BOWDOIN,
—ARTIST IN—
PHOTOGRAPHIC PICTURES.
Rooms No. 175 Essex st, Salem, [Downing's Block]
Portraits, Miniatures, and Views, by the Ambrotype, Daguerreotype, Photograph and Stereoscope process—finished in India Ink, Oil and Water colors.
☞ Particular attention paid to restoring old Daguerreotypes, and other pictures—and making enlarged copies, highly finished. may 16

T. HARDY, JR.,
—Dealer in—
DOORS, SASHES, BLINDS,
Glazed Sash, Painted Blinds,
FENCE PALES, STAIR BALUSTERS, FRAMING PINS, &c.,
No. 26 FRONT STREET,
Salem, January 14, 1863—6m

Salem and Danvers Aqueduct Co'y.

ALL persons using the water of the Salem and South Danvers Aqueduct are hereby notified that the water rents, for the six months ending May 1, 1863, are now due, and that they are required to pay the same, at the office of the Company, No 2 Sewall street, on the 1st day of May next. Should the bills remain unpaid for thirty days, the water will be stopped, in conformity to the regulations of the Company.

Office hours, from 9 to 1 o'clock, and from 2 to 5.

Per order of the Directors,
apr 1 WM. JELLY, Collector.

100,000 BARRELS OF THE LODI MANUFACTURING COMPANY'S
POUDRETTE,
111 COMMERCIAL ST., BOSTON, MASS.

This Company, with a capital of $150,000, the most extensive works of the kind in the world, and an experience in manufacturing of over 23 years, with a reputation long established, having also the exclusive control of all the night soil of the great city of New York, are prepared to furnish an article, which is, without doubt, the CHEAPEST AND VERY BEST fertilizer in market. It greatly increases the yield, and ripens the crop from two to three weeks earlier, at an expense of from three to four dollars per acre, with little or no labor. Also, FIFTY TONS OF BONE TAFEU, being a mixture of bone and night soil ground fine, at $45 per ton—a superior article for grain, &c. A pamphlet containing all necessary information may be had free by addressing a letter to the subscriber.

JAMES T FOSTER,
Care of the Lodi Manufacturing Company,
66 Cortland St., New York.

Agents—WELCH & FAIRFIELD, Grocers, Lowell Street, South Danvers. feb 11—3m

SPRING STYLE
DRESS HATS,
NOW READY
AT JACKSON'S,
101 COURT STREET, BOSTON.

Also a large and varied assortment of CAPS and SOFT HATS, for Boys' and Men's wear. Those wishing articles in the above line would do well to call before purchasing.

JOSEPH A. JACKSON.
Boston, April 1, 1863. 3m

NEW ENGLAND
FERTILIZER DEPOT,
No. 111 Commercial St., Boston.

TO FARMERS AND TRADERS!

WE desire to call your attention to our stock of FERTILIZERS, having the largest supply and finest assortment of reliable brands ever offered in this market. Our stock embraces

Coe's
Hoyt's } SUPER-PHOSPHATE LIME.
Rhodes

No. 1 PERUVIAN GUANO.
GROUND BONE, [coarse and fine]
BONE MEAL. LAND PLASTER.
FISH GUANO. BONE TAFEU.
LIME, CEMENT, &c., &c.

We are also Sole Agents for the
LODI MANUFACTURING CO.'S
POUDRETTE.

Get our terms before purchasing elsewhere. We sell at manufacturers' prices. Samples can be seen of all of the above; also a pamplet, with a Farmer's Almanac for 1863, may be had free on application by mail or otherwise.

J. M. & P. RICHARDS,
Sales Office 111 Commercial St., Boston, Mass.
apr 1—3m

TAKE NOTICE.

THAT Dr. Ham's Dyspepsia Remedy has been before the public for the past ten years. And in that time the people who have used it will vouch for the benefit they have derived from it. The character of his article and its reputation can also be obtained from the dealers who sell it, or have sold it for any length of time, to both of those, Dr Ham refers and is willing to stand the test. And also challenges any new compound to produce the same results, let alone delicacy of flavor, of his INVIGORATING SPIRIT, which for ITS EFFECTS UPON THE BILE, A TORPED LIVER, LOW SPIRITS, or when the blood is affected as seen by SKIN DISEASES or its ACTION UPON THE KIDNEYS, in fact for any person who is run down by the wear and care of this world will find relief in this old and well tried remedy.

Astonishing.

TO Dr. Ham, who has modestly put before the public his DYSPEPSIA REMEDY for ten years past, to look back and see the number of tremendous articles within that time, that have sprung up like a rocket, and gone down like the stick which guides it in its glorious assent. Some come out and claim to tell the public they use unknown Barks from South America, with any quantity of rum from the West Indias, &c. Dr Ham takes this opportunity to refer to the MEDICAL FACULTY here and everywhere that his article is in use, as to its qualifications, and challenges any one to produce a person, male or female, who has used it as directed, that will not speak favorable of it for DISORGANIZED STOMACH, Dyspepsia, loss of appetite, want of action of the Kidneys, as well as many other complaints that humanity are afflicted with.

To Ladies.

DR. HAM'S Dyspepsia Remedy is just the thing you require to remove the langour caused by weakness and debility; it invigorates the system, causes the blood to take new life in its varied course through the system, in fact it gives tone to the system and will relieve and remove the thousand irregularities that from various causes you are afflicted with. For Dyspepsia it is a never failing remedy, it has stood the test of years, and we have yet to hear of its failing to give relief to the afflicted thousands who have received health and happiness by its use.

To Gentlemen.

DR. HAM knows that you do not always pay much attention to the many different articles put before you in the paper, but we would refer you to our agents who you will find are the respectable merchants and dealers, in regard to the Invigorating Spirit; some of them have sold it for years, and know well the reputation it has amongst those who have used it in assisting nature to eradicate diseases. It will renovate the system, as it acts directly on the blood, removing all obstructions to the general health, will cure Liver Complaints, Dyspepsia, Nervous Affections, Sour Stomach, Headache, Weakness, Loss of Appetite, as well as obstruction in the Kidney, Bladder or Urinary Organs. Try it. We will guarantee you will be satisfied with the result.

General Depot, 62 Liberty Street, New York. Sold by Weeks & Potter, 154 Washington Street, M. S. Burr & Co., 28 Tremont Street, G. C. Goodwin & Co., 11 Marshall Street, Boston; and in South Danvers by George E. Meacom, T. A. Sweetser, D. P. Grosvenor, Jr., Main Street; and by Druggists everywhere.
Feb 29, 1863 1y

ORGANDIE MUSLINS.

WE shall open new Spring styles of Organdie Muslins to-day.

Ladies will do well to buy now, as prices are advancing daily. ANN R. BRAY, mch 4 76 Federal street.

5 PIECES Lyman Sheetings, very heavy.
3 pieces Laconia Sheetings.
6 pieces Great Falls Sheetings—at the lowest Cash prices. ANN R. BRAY, 76 Federal st.

KEROSENE Stand and Hand Lamps, and Peg Lamps. Also Wicks and Chimneys—for sale by S C & E A SIMONDS, 32 Front st., Salem.

JUVENILE BOOKS,

A VERY large assortment for sale by G M WHIPPLE & A A SMITH.

A FINE assortment of Paper Shades for Kerosene Lamps, just opened at S C & E A SIMONDS, 32 Front st., Salem.

Dr. Ham's Spirit.

W. E. P. SMYTH,
Attorney and Counsellor at Law,
Proctor in Admiralty, and Commissioner of Deeds for the several States.
Frazier's Building, over the Post Office,
LYNN, MASS.

Having peculiar means for prosecuting, with accuracy and dispatch, all claims against Government, especially those for Bounty, Back Pay and Pensions, I have made this a specialty. Several months' residence in Washington enabled me to become thoroughly conversant with the routine of business in all the Departments, through which claims, of whatever nature, are passed, and also familiar with the practice in the U. S. Court of Claims; in addition to which have a partner there resident, and a former partner in the Treasury Department, which advantages give me unexcelled facilities for the successful prosecution of business in any way connected with Government.

Important to Soldiers, Marines and their Heirs.

Persons enlisted in the U. S. Service, Land or Naval, since March 1, 1861, if disabled in the service, are entitled to Pension; Relatives of Persons deceased in the service are entitled to Bounty and Pension; in the following order:

1st. The Widow. 4th. The Mother.
2d. The Children. 5th The Brothers and Sisters collectively.
3d. The Father.

LETTERS OF ADMINISTRATION need not be taken on, in ordinary cases, to enable heirs of persons deceased in the service to obtain Pensions and Bounty.

When a discharge is granted for disability, in no case should the Oath of Identity on the back of the Discharge be filled up. The safest course is, to carry all papers at once to an Attorney, without tampering with them. All those who have claims, should present them without delay, as soon, the pressure will be so great upon the Auditor's Office, by reason of numerous applications, that applicants will be subjected to vexatious delay in getting their claims audited.

NO CHARGE MADE UNTIL CLAIMS ARE PAID.

Claims left at the Post Office, South Danvers, will be promptly forwarded.

Lynn, Aug 27, 1862—1v

H. & H. G. HUBON,
WASHINGTON STREET, SALEM
Manufacturers of
Rose Wood, Mahogany, Black Walnut and Stained Wood
COFFINS and CASKETS.

MAKING this our exclusive business, we are ready at all times and at the shortest notice to furnish Grave Clothes of various styles, as well as Coffins and Caskets of the finest finish. Personal attention given, and delivered without extra charge to any of the neighboring towns. All orders by express or otherwise will receive prompt attention.

Black Walnut and White Wood Boards, Plank and Joists for sale.
dec 14—tf

FRANKLIN COAL.

JUST landed, a cargo of FRANKLIN COAL—the best in the world for domestic use.
POTTER, BACHELDER & CO.,
Successors to M. Black, Jr.
Danversport, May 6, 1861. tf

REMOVAL!

JOHN J. ASHBY,

WOULD inform his friends and the public generally, that he has removed to the store

No. 145 Essex Street,

formerly occupied by JOHN BARLOW, where he has opened a good assortment of

BOOTS, SHOES & RUBBERS,

and will MANUFACTURE to order, all kinds of Ladies', Misses' and Children's Boots and Shoes. Also, Snow Boots, at the lowest Cash Prices.

Repairing of all kinds done on the most reasonable terms. JOHN J. ASHBY,
Successor to John Barlow.
Salem, September 17, 1862.

GAYLE & CO.,
GENERAL COMMISSION MERCHANTS,
DEALERS IN
Flour, Grain and Produce,
Manufacturers' Agents for the sale of
Concentrated Leaven, Soda and Pearlash Saleratus, and Bi Carb. Soda.
PHILLIPS WHARF. - - - Salem.

REMOVAL!
AUGUSTUS HAMMOND,
Manufacturer and Repairer of
BOOTS AND SHOES,

HAS removed from his old place of business to the Railroad Ground, opposite the Old South Church, where he would be happy to continue to receive favors from his friends and patrons. may 21

WHITE LEAD;

LINSEED Oil; Spirits Turpentine; Star Benzele Spirits; Varnishes, etc—constantly for sale by mch 11 S C & E A SIMONDS, 32 Front st.

CAMELS HAIR GOODS.

OWING to the small stock of Camels Hair goods in the market, prices have very much advanced. We shall give our customers the advantage of buying at the old prices, as we have a good assortment on hand.
ANN R. BRAY,
mch 4 76 Federal street.

BLANK BOOKS.

A fresh lot, just manufactured from superior paper, by
G M WHIPPLE & A A SMITH,
190 Essex street,
mch 11 Sign of Five Golden Books.

MISS MUGFORD.

A new supply of "Triumph in Trial."—A Memorial of Sarah S. Mugford—by S M Worcester, D. D,—at
G M WHIPPLE & A A SMITH'S

NEW YORK WHITE LEAD.

2500 L New York White Lead;
Also Fores River White Lead—for sale by
mch 4 S C & E A SIMONDS.

PATENT BOOK STAND.

A new and desirable article—can be used for two Books at the same time, is neat and cheap—for sale at ap 1 G M WHIPPLE & A A SMITH.

PERMANENT GREEN.

A supply of Hampden Green, just received at
S C & E A SIMONDS', 32 Front st.
mch 11

NAUTICAL BOOKS AND CHARTS.

G M WHIPPLE & A A SMITH, 190 Essex street, keep constantly for sale, all NAUTICAL BOOKS in general use—Stationary of all kinds for Seamen.

Also—a complete assortment of CHARTS of all parts of the world—Second hand Charts, which are offered at very low prices.

FISHING CHARTS. The Gulf and River St. Lawrence, Breton Island to Cape Cod, including the Banks and Island of Newfoundland, with additions to 1861, with a Book of Directions. — AFRICAN CHARTS, East and West Coasts.—SAILING DIRECTIONS round Cape Horn North Atlantic Ocean; Western Coast of Africa; Australia. — Collinson's China Pilot; Hongkong to Shanghae; Kings China Pilot; the Coasts of China, Korea, Tartary and Japan 3d ed. 1861, &c &c &c. ap 15.

WIRE GOODS.

WIRE Rat Traps; Broilers; Steamers; Sieves etc., just received at
S C & E A SIMONDS', 32 Front st.

NEW SPRING SHAWLS,

IN Stripe, Plaid and Plain, of rich styles—just received and for sale by mch 4 ANN R. BRAY, 76 Federal st.

Poor Richard's Eye and Ear Water.

Prof. M. G. BROWN.

SCIENTIFIC ARTICLE ON THE EYE AND EAR.

Reader, allow me to call your attention to a fact which hitherto you have not been acquainted with, namely, that there is not a sound eye in the land. The eyes are the only members of the body totally neglected; there is nothing done for the eye; its wants are neither studied or regarded. This untiring servant is the first in action at birth, and the last at death, yet it seems to pass even common observation.

Notwithstanding all the ignorance and neglect of the eye, it is unquestionably true that every department of the human system is dependent on it for life and health.

The Divine Machinator has placed 8000 tubes and glands around the eyes, through which the saltish fountain (same as supplies the tear) is designed to pass as dew, finding its way to every crevice and nook in the flesh, whose chief tendency is to mucus. This fountain is to the body what dew is to the plants. The flesh can only be kept free from mucus (which is the precursor of disease) through the tubes and glands around the eyes being keep open, allowing the teary, saltish fountain to pass freely forward. If the laws of mind and body are disregarded or insulted, these faithful sentinels shut up like a sensitive plant, thus refusing to pass this life, giving dew to the parched flesh, whereby the entire machinery of the human body can alone find its natural moisture. When this fountain is cut off, the system is open to every kind of disease, which first begins with small streaks of blood-shot at the bottom of the ball of the eye; these are streaks of death if not removed. Examine your eyes and you will find these streaks moving over the white of the eye towards the pupil; generally the eye gets scumy and glassy; the ball turns a green or yellowish color, this is a sure indication of the following diseases (which are solely caused by the moisture being cut off from the system): Nervousness, headache, earache, deafness, loss of hair, neuralgia, rheumatism, blotches on the face and skin, diptheria, sore throat, bronchitis, catarrah, soreness of the chest, decay of the lungs, deprivation of the fluids; these, with all other diseases, are caused as above described. One stoppage leads to another, until disease destroys the system.

To secure moisture for a patient is the only hope of the physician. Benjamin Franklin has immortalized himself by such sayings as, an ounce of prevention is better than a pound of cure.

Reader, if you desire to be saved from the kindred diseases which make life a burden, then create an appetite in your eyes by giving them a drink of Poor Richard every morning immediately after you wash, and just before retiring at night. Do not say—Let well enough alone; consider the lilies of the field, they receive the life giving dew while they are in perfect health—go thou and do likewise.

Please read the following letter from the Rev. P. S. Henson, pastor of the Broad Street Baptist Church:

Philadelphia, Oct. 17, 1862.

From injuries received in my right eye when a boy, a chronic inflammation had been produced, in consequence of which I suffered constant martyrdom. Every moment of my waking life was embittered, and I was frequently unable to sleep at night.

A variety of remedies had been resorted to without success, and I entertained the purpose, as a last resort, of having the ball taken out of its socket in the hope of finding thus relief.

In the meanwhile, most providentially I noticed one day in a shop window a bottle of Poor Richard's Eye Water. I had never heard of it before, but determined to try it—and did with the most delightful results. In a very few days the painful irritation was removed—I could bear the strongest light, and went forth as it were to the enjoyment of a new life. I now keep a bottle of it always in the house, and if my eye seems at all disposed to annoy me, I give it a dose, and that is an end of it. I take occasion to say further, that my wife used to suffer severely at times from protracted pain in and over her eyes, and she has found Poor Richard's Eye Water a sovereign specific in her case, giving her almost instant relief.

Grateful to God for the benefit I have personally received, I cannot but recommend the preparation most cordially to all who have been sufferers like myself.

P. S. HENSON,
Pastor of the Broad Street Baptist Church.
Residence 1430 Poplar St., Philadelphia.

Thousands of certificates could be published, of the most remarkable cures on record. It is a perfect restorer of weak sight and dim vision; it cures Deafness, Catarrh, Sore Throat, prevents Loss of Hair, with all kindred diseases.

Directions.—Bathe with a glass tube, at least the ear (many bathe the eyes with the finger). Ask the druggist for the tube—it costs 6 cents.

Poor Richard's Eye Water sells at 25 cents per bottle.

Sold by George E. Meacom, South Danvers, and Druggists everywhere. Weeks & Potter, wholesale agents, Boston.

MRS. M. G. BROWN,
410 Arch St. Philadelphia, Proprietor.

WM. C. HENDERSON,
MANUFACTURER OF
PLAIN AND FANCY
PAPER BOXES,
No. 235 ESSEX STREET,
Sign of "Nest of Boxes,"
July 23 SALEM. tf

THOMAS PINNOCK,
SLATER,
SALEM, MASS.

Orders may be left at his Yard, No. 25 Peabody St., or at his house No. 6 Hancock street, South Salem.

Roofs covered with any kind of Slates, according to order. All work warranted.
Salem, May 7, 1862. tf

CURRIER & MILLETT,
Dealers in

Furniture, Chairs,
MATTRESSES, FEATHERS, &c
259 & 261 ESSEX ST.
Salem, dec 14—1y

AARON T. LOWE,
DEALER IN
BOOTS, SHOES AND RUBBERS,
76 BOSTON STREET, 76.
aug 6 SALEM. tf

E. R. PERKINS,
PHOTOGRAPHIC ARTIST
241 Essex Street, Salem.
Patent Ambrotypes, Stereoscopes,
Photographs, Sphereotypes, Melainotypes, and patent leather Pictures, of various sizes, taken with all the improvements of the art. Portraits, Miniatures, Engravings, &c., accurately copied. Views taken when desired. jan 11

ALL THE NEW BOOKS,

IN elegant and plain bindings, may be found at
G M WHIPPLE & A A SMITH'S,
dec 24 Sign of Five Golden Books.

GREEN PAINT.

HAMPDEN Green, English Green, and Verdigris, for sale by
S C & E A SIMONDS, 32 Front St.

RICH Vases—Match Boxes—Cologne Stands—Card Baskets—Children's Tea Sets and Toys—for sale at
S C & E A SIMONDS', 32 Front st.

DIARIES--1863.

AN excellent assortment at the lowest prices, for sale by G M WHIPPLE & A A SMITH.

Tenements to Let.

ONE of 5 rooms in the rear of Washington Street, on a Court leading out of Aborn street. Rent $54 per year.

One of 5 rooms near Newhall's Crossing, in house lately occupied by C. B. Warner. Rent $42 per year.

One of 3 rooms, near Tapley Brook,—a small house. Rent $24 per year.

One of 3 rooms, in a new house in rear, northerly, of the Old Boston Road, near the Lynn line, with a barn if wanted and several acres of land. Rent reasonable, but dependant on privileges hired.

One of three rooms in the "Granite House," corner of Washington and Granite streets.
SIDNEY C. BANCROFT.
South Danvers, July 23d, 1862.

MUNROE'S
(LATE REED'S)
SOUTH DANVERS & BOSTON
RAILROAD EXPRESS.

Express leaves South Danvers at	10 1-2 a. m.
Freight " " " at	5 p. m.
Express leaves Boston at	1 1-2 p. m.
Freight " " at	5 p. m.

OFFICE at FREIGHT DEPOT, South Danvers Square.
Order Box W. M. Jacobs' store, Main street.
EXPRESS OFFICE, in Boston, 5 Congress Square; Freight Office, 1 Fulton st.
Also an Order Box at 86 Pearl street.
Particular attention paid to removing Furniture, collecting Bills, Notes, Drafts, &c.

ARMY EXPRESS.

Packages received and sent forward daily for Baltimore, Fortress Monroe, Annapolis, Washington, Alexandria, and any other point where the different regiments are stationed:
WM. C. MUNROE,
South Danvers, may 21—tf

E. F. BURNHAM,
SOLE AGENT FOR
SARGENT & CO.S'
MAGIC SOAP
For South Danvers & Salem.
OFFICE—Central St., opp. Lowell Depot, at Burnham's Express Office, So. Danvers.
Price $3.50 per 100 Lbs.
Orders sent by mail or otherwise to So. Danvers will be promptly attended to. tf-oct3

E. S. FLINT,
Manufacturer and Dealer in
INNER SOLES,
AND SHOE STIFFENINGS OF ALL KINDS.
2 MAIN STREET, SOUTH DANVERS.

Are you Insured?

THE subscriber would respectfully call your attention to the fact that he is fully prepared to effect INSURANCE AGAINST FIRE, to any amount, at current rates, on

Dwelling Houses, Barns and their contents, Stores, Stocks of Goods, Furniture, &c. &c., and on buildings in process of erection,

And that he is the authorized Agent for the following responsible Stock and Mutual Companies, viz:

Thames Insurance Co., (Stock,) Norwich, Conn.
Capital—$500,000.
Amos W. Prentice, Pres. Oliver F. Rice, Sec'y
Conway Insurance Company, (Stock) Boston.
Capital and Surplus—$260,000.
James F. Whitney, Pres. David C. Rogers, Sec'y.
City Insurance Company, (Stock) Boston.
Capital—$150,000.
Samuel P. Hayward, Pres. Austin W. Benton, Sec'y
Also, will effect Insurance on the LIVES OF INDIVIDUALS, for one year, seven years, or for the whole term of life, in the Massachusetts Mutual Life Ins. Co., Springfield, Mass.
Capital and Assetts—$375,000.
Caleb Rice, Pres. D. B. Bacon, Sec'y.
William Mack, M. D, Medical Examiner.

WM. ARCHER, Jr.,
18 Washington st. and 34 Front st., Salem.
ej b20-1

Important to the Afflicted.

DR. DOW continues to be consulted at his office, Nos. 7 and 9 Endicott street, Boston, on all diseases of a

PRIVATE OR DELICATE NATURE.

By a long course of study and practical experience of unlimited extent. Dr. D. has now the gratification of presenting the unfortunate with remedies that have never, since he first introduced them, failed to cure the most alarming cases of

GONORRHŒA AND SYPHILIS.

Beneath his treatment, all the horrors of venereal and impure blood, Impotency, Scrofula, Gonorrhœa, Ulcers, pain and distress in the regions of procreation, Inflamation of the Bladder and Kidneys, Hydrocele, Abcesses, Humors, frightful Swellings, and the long train of horrible symptoms attending this class of disease, are made to become as harmless as the simplest ailings of a child.

SEMINAL WEAKNESS.

Dr. D. devotes a great part of his time to the treatment of those cases caused by a secret and solitary habit, which ruins the body and mind, unfitting the unfortunate individual for business or society. Some of the sad and melancholy effects produced by early habits of youth, are Weakness of the Back and limbs, Dizziness of the head, Dimness of sight, Palpitation of the heart, Dyspepsia, Nervousness, Derangement of the digestive functions, Symptoms of Consumption, &c. The fearful effects on the mind are much to be dreaded; loss of memory, confusion of ideas, depression of spirits, evil forebodings, aversion of society, self-distrust, timidity, &c., are among the evils produced. Such person should, before contemplating masrimony, consult a physician of experience, and be at once restored to health and happiness.

Patients who wish to remain under Dr. Dow's treatment a few days or weeks, will be furnished with pleasant rooms, and charges for board moderate.

Medicines sent to all parts of the country, with full directions for use, on receiving description of your cases. Dr. Dow has also for sale the French Capottes, warranted the best preventive. Order by mail. 3 for $1 and a red stamp.

CAUTION
TO FEMALES IN DELICATE HEALTH.

DR. DOW, Physician and Surgeon, 7 and 9 Endicott street, Boston, is consulted daily for all diseases incident to the female system. Prolapsus Uteri, or falling of the Womb, Fluor Albus, Suppression, and other menstrual derangements, are all treated upon new pathological principles, and a speedy relief guaranteed in a very few days. So invariably certain is the new mode of treatment, that most obstinate complaints yield under it, and the afflicted person soon rejoices in perfect health.

Dr. Dow has no doubt had greater experience in the cure of diseases of women and children, than any other physician in Boston.

Boarding accommodations for patients who may wish to stay in Bostou a few days under his treatment.

Dr. Dow, since 1845, having confined his whole attention to an office practice, for the cure of Private Diseases and Female Complaints, acknowledges no superior in the United States.

N. B.—All letters must contain four red stamps, or they will not be answered.

Office Hours from 8 A. M. to 9 P. M.

CERTAIN CURE
IN ALL CASES, OR NO CHARGES MADE.

Dr. Dow is consulted daily, from 8 a. m. to 8 p. m., as above, upon all difficult and chronic diseases of every name and nature, having by his unwearied attention and extraordinary success gained a reputation which calls patients from all parts of the country to obtain advice.

Among the physicians in Boston, none stand higher in the profession than the celebrated DR. DOW, No. 7 Endicott street, Boston. Those who need the services of an experienced physician and surgeon should give him a call. P. S.—Dr. Dow imports and has for sale a new article, called the French Secret. Order by mail. Two for $1 and a red stamp.
April 15, 1863- 1y.

Ladies' Spring Skirts.

ALL of the latest patterns. Woolen Hosier a full line for Ladies and Misses.
oct 22 ANN R. BRAY, 76 Federal st.

DIARIES FOR
1863. Every variety and style—all sizes—for sale at
G M WHIPPLE & A A SMITH'S,
nov 26 Sign of the Five Golden Books,

CHARLES S. BUFFUM,
FURNISHING UNDERTAKER,
Central street, South Danvers,

HAVING provided himself with a HEARSE, is prepared to attend Funerals in any of the neighboring towns, with one or a pair of Horses.

He keeps as good an assortment of

COFFINS AND CASKETS,

as can be found at any establishment, and at the lowest prices.

He will also attend to Laying Out, etc.

All orders from the neighboring towns met with prompt attention. jan 14

SOUTH DANVERS
POST OFFICE.

GENERAL MAIL ARRANGEMENT.

MAILS CLOSE
At 10 3-4 A. M., and 4 3-4 P. M.
MAILS DUE
At 9 1-2 A. M., and 3 P. M.

Post Office open (Sundays excepted) from 7 o'clock, A. M., till 8 P. M. Saturdays open till 8 1-2 P. M.

F. POOLE, P. M.
South Danvers, Oct. 1, 1862.

SLATING. SLATING.
GEORGE FOWLER & COMPA'Y,

NO. 2 ST. PETER COURT, SALEM, respectfully inform their friends and the citizens of this and neighboring towns and cities that they are prepared to execute all orders for Slating, promptly and faithfully.

Roofs covered with any description of Slates, or repaired at short notice.

All work undertaken will be warranted.
Address—Box 366 Salem Post Office.
Salem, January 22—1863. tf

PATTERSON S
LEATHER HANDLING MACHINE

THE undersigned are agents for the above machine. It can be seen in operation at Pinder & Brown's Tannery.

may 7—3m CLARK & GIDDINGS.

MESSRS. CLARK & GIDDINGS,
Wallis Street, South Danvers,
Are Agents for
GEORGE W. FISKE & CO.'S
PATENT EAVE TROUGHS
GUTTERS, CONDUCTORS AND
PIPE FOR DRAINS.
South Danvers, May 22, 1861.

EDWARD C. WEBSTER,
ONE PRICE
HAT, CAP & FUR STORE,
231 ESSEX, and 34 WASHINGTON ST

MUSICAL NOTICE.
Chickering & Sons' Piano-Fortes.

ANN R. BRAY, No. 76 Federal St. would inform her friends in South Danvers, and the public generally that she keeps for sale and to let Chickering & Sons' Piano Fortes. They are selected with great care, and need only to be tried to prove their superiority over every other in the market. The very best terms given.

MANNING & NICHOLS' SERAPHINES
For sale and to let. For power and quality of tone none can surpass them A. R BRAY.
76 Federal str

NOTICE.

THE subscriber being about to leave town for a few months, would take this opportunity to inform his customers and friends that his shop on Pleasant Street will be kept open during his absence by Mr. JOHN P. FRIEND, who will faithfully attend to any orders.

JAMES PERKINS.
South Danvers, Sept. 3, 1862.

R. C. MANNING & CO.
Successors to JOHN DIKE & CO.,
DEALERS IN
COAL, WOOD, BARK, HAY, &c,
183 DERBY STREET,
SALEM, MASS.
N. C. ROBBINS, R. C. MANNING.
oct17

CHEAP FIRE-WOOD.

THE subscriber has on hand 30,000 bushels of
Patent Granular Fuel,

which he will deliver, by wholesale, in lots to suit purchasers, anywhere in this town, Salem, Lynn, Swampscott, or Nahant. Orders sent by mail (or by express,) or left in Salem, at the office, 27 Washington street (3d story), or 17 Briggs st., will receive prompt attention.

List of Prices.

25	Bushels, delivered,	2 25
50	do do	4 00
100	do do	7 50

Orders left at the Union Store, Newman & Symonds, and the Omnibus Office.

BYRON GOODELL.
South Danvers, June 18.

Ann R. Bray,
NO. 76 Federal Street,
—DEALER IN—
Camel's Hair Goods,
Salem, may 12, 1862. tf

Book & Job Printing
OF EVERY DESCRIPTION,
Executed with Neatness & Despatch
AT THIS OFFICE.

E. N. PRICE,
Manufacturer and Dealer in
HARNESSES,
SADDLES, BRIDLES,
AND WHIPS.
— ALSO —
Trunks, Valises and Traveling Bags.

All orders for Manufacturing and Repairing executed with promptness, and in the best manner.

237 Essex Street, Salem, Mass.
mch13-tf

Top Buggy for Sale,

NEARLY NEW, and in good condition.—Inquire at this office, or at 47 Holten St. South Danvers, June 25, 1862.

INK STANDS.

NEW Styles at
G M WHIPPLE & A A SMITH

UNITED STATES LAWS.

NATIONAL Tax Law with the amended act of Mch '63—only 10 cts.

Militia Laws from 1792 to 1863, now in full force;

Conscription Law of 1863—received by ap 1 G M WHIPPLE & A A SMITH'S

NEW NEEDLE THREADER.

DOUBLE-ENDED, Excelsior Sewing Needle Threader and Worsted Threader combined—of great utility for near sighted or nervous people in threading needles, numbering from 4 to 12, and also Darning Needles.

Call and see them, at
mch 4 G M WHIPPLE & A A SMITH'S.

Eastern Railroad.

ON and after MONDAY, April 6, 1863, Trains leave the Eastern Railroad Station, Washington street, Salem, daily. (Sundays excepted):

For Lynn and Boston, *5.50, 7, 8¼, 9, *10, 11 a m., 1, 5½, 7½, p. m.
Beverly, 8½ am., 1, 3½, 5½, 6.55, 7¾ p m.
W. Beach, Manr, Gloucester, and Rockport, 8½ a m., 5¾ p m.
Ipswich and Newburyport, 8¼ a m., 1, 3¾, 5¾, 6.55
Amesbury, 8¼ a m., 1, 5¾ p m.
Portsmouth, 8¼ a m., 3¾, 5¾ p m.
Portland, 8¼ a m., 3¾ p m.

AND FOR SALEM, FROM

Portland, 8¾ a m, 3 p m.
Portsmouth, 7¾ †11¾ a m., †5½ p m.
Amesbury, 7.35, 9.40 a m., 5.50 p m.
Newburyport, 7, 8, 10 a m., 12 m., 6½ p m.
Ipswich, 7 23, 8.25, 10.25 a m, 12.25, 6.40 p m.
Gloucester, 7,

South Danvers Wizard.

VOL. IV. SOUTH DANVERS, MASS., WEDNESDAY, APRIL 29, 1863. NO. 17.

Selected Poetry.

ABSTRACT OF CAMP DUTIES.

In Newbern City we are anchored fast
To wait the Future and to con the Past;
To dig and ditch, and keep upon our muscle,
Till we again shall join the lively tussle.

At six A. M., the loud Reville sounds,
When from his blanket forth each soldier bounds,
Some shivering, shaking (and some growling tall,)
Waiting the Sergeant who the Roll doth Call.

At seven o'clock, with dippers firm in hand,
Around the "cook-house" these "Bold Heroes" stand;
And, watchful, peer through every gaping crack,
And view the counting of those five "hard tack."

At eight o'clock out crawl the weak and ailing,
Up to the Surgeon's tent their pains bewailing,
For quinine pills and other strengthening drugs,
To keep them up and straighten out their "mugs."

At half past eight, in grand and proud array,
March forth the guardians of the night and day,
With burnished arms and ramrods ringing clear
That say, "Inspection I shall never fear."

'Tis ten o'clock. "Come, Boys, be quick, fall in!"
So roars the Sergeant mid the Camp's loud din:
"Come, turn out, Boys, turn out, I say,
Nor think that I can wait the live-long day."

At length "in line," the Sergeant takes a sight,
"Up in the centre, steady so, dress right!
Front! steady again, (attention there!) 'twill do;
Begin now, Boys, and let each rank count two."
"Right face! File left!" and thus they march away.
Thus goes the time, (the Soldier's always "jay.")
Marching and countermarching and on right by file,
To tunes that make the grouty grumbler smile.

Ho! Twelve o'clock! 'tis dinner time they say:
And now, at two, the "colors" move away.
When, after drilling in the full Brigade,
We hurry back to form for Dress Parade.

At half-past eight the final "Taps" will sound.
When, wrapped in blankets, all are sleeping round!
And wo unto the thoughtless, foolish wight,
Who after that shall dare to strike a light.

W. W. D.

CAMP OF 5TH MASS. REGIMENT,
Newbern, Feb. 13, 1863.

Selected.

LOCKED IN.

It was a leaden-looking evening in October, 1858, that the fast sailing packet, Conciliation, steamed out of the harbor, at Holyhead. Dark clouds were gathering overhead, the short, chopping waves slapped the sides of the vessel impatiently, and the thick, black smoke shot straight from the funnel to the receding shore, as if anxious to escape from the restless turbulence of the water, and form a sooty canopy over dry land.

There were but few passengers on board, and a drizzling rain sent them below. One gentleman alone stood his ground upon the quarter deck, and comfortably encased in a suit of oil-skin, puffed his cigar in spite of the weather. He was a tall, fair faced man, with a bright eye, thin, high-bridged nose, and light, wavy moustaches, through which was seen a good-humored and sarcastic mouth. He accommodated himself to the motion of the vessel, like an experienced traveller, and, with well-gloved hands deep in his capacious pockets, looked on the steersman, the funnel, and the light upon the distant pier, and the vibration beneath him and about him, with an easy and comfortable nonchalance of manner that seemed peculiar to him.

Upon an obsequious and curly-headed steward—who kept coming on deck, and then diving down into the cabin upon those purposeless errands which would appear to be the continual employment of those functionaries when on duty—passing near the traveller, he said, 'Have you come to tell me that I must not smoke?'

'No, sir,' said the steward, with the usual deprecating smile; 'you can smoke if you choose, sir; there's nobody on deck but you.'

'Very few passengers to-night,' remarked the gentleman.

'Yes, sir, very few, sir,' replied the steward; 'you're the only cabin passenger on board.'

'Am I?' said the gentleman. 'Then I suppose I shall have my choice of berth.'

'Whichever you please, sir, when you come below. We've only one other passenger, and she's a lady.'

'Ah!' said the gentleman, looking down the sky-light, as if to see if his fellow-traveller were in the cabin, 'I'm afraid we shall have a rough passage.'

'Yes, sir,' answered the acquiescent steward; 'It does look very dirty to wind'ard, sir,'—and he dived down again.

The traveller lighted a fresh cigar, tossed away his old one, looked at the white foam in the vessel's wake, and resumed his march. He was naturally a gregarious, companionable sort of fellow, fond of society, argument, the shock of opinion, and collision of ideas. He had hoped to meet some other well-travelled man, with whom he could have smoked and chatted. He felt that he should bore himself alone, and began to think about the lady who was his sole companion in the boat.

'I wish I knew her,' thought he; 'we could converse some hours away. Twenty years ago, I should have considered this quite an adventure. What fools men are in their salad days! I should have thought that fate had thrown us together, because we were destined for each other. Perhaps she is married, or old, or disagreeable. I shall be horribly bored till we reach Kingstown.'

After half an hour's more walking, he looked down the skylight once again, and saw a lady seated in the cabin taking tea.

'She doesn't suffer, at all events,' he thought to himself; 'I may as well have a look at her;' and he finished his cigar, and descended the brass-bound steps leading to the 'cuddy.'

The lady about whom he felt so interested, was over thirty years of age, and despite a palid complexion and languid, mournful eyes, possessed great beauty.—Her manners were elegant and refined, and a tinge of exhaustion in her face and voice heightened the sense of subdued sentiment that hung around her. Overwrought sensibility and sensitive nervous organization were written in the constant play of her short, thin upper lip, and the perfect taste of her dress completed the charm of a very fascinating invalid.

When the gentleman entered the cabin, she was seated at the table, waited on by a bustling and active stewardess. He took off his cap—as it were—at her, and disembarrassed himself of his oil-skin covering. He coughed in token of his presence, but she took no notice, but continued playing with her tea-spoon, all unconscious of his entrance.

With a glance at the mirror, that betrayed the knowledge of the possession of a good appearance, and a smoothing of a well-tied cravat, the gentleman advanced toward the table, and coughed again. The vessel gave a slight lurch, and the tea-service clattered at the same time. The lady looked up, saw the new comer and bowed slightly.

'I fear we are going to have a rough passage,' began the male traveller, when the lady shrieked, and would have fallen, had not the stewardess run forward to support her. The gentleman turned pale and red, and red again, and trembled in every limb.

'Bring some water,' he said, after a moment's pause. 'Don't be alarmed; it's the—the surprise——Let me'——he wetted his handkerchief and laid it on her forehead, while the stewardess run for her smelling bottle. By the aid of their united efforts, in about five minutes the lady recovered, and looked about her as if just recovered from an unpleasant dream.

'Better leave us,' said the gentleman.

'Do you know the lady, sir?' asked the stewardess, hardly knowing what to do.

'Know her? Yes.'

'You have only got to call, mum; I shall be close to,' said the stewardess.—'Can I do anything more, mum?'

'No—no, thank you,' said the lady; 'I'm quite well now. You—you need not trouble yourself further.'

The stewardess quitted the cabin, leaving the two passengers staring at each other in mute wonder.

'Good God, Maria, is it you?' said the gentleman.

'It seems almost impossible it can be you,' answered the lady, in low faltering tones.

'Are you better now?' inquired the gentleman. 'Can I get anything for you?'

'Nothing, thank you—if it be really you.'

'It seems like a dream,' continued the gentleman—'to think that after ten years, we should be again on this boat! It is the most unexpected accident.'

'Accident!' repeated the lady, with an enquiring look.

'Accident? Yes; real accident.'

'Are you sure that you did not know that I was coming on board this'—.

'How could I?' interrupted the gentleman. 'I only landed at Southhampton last week. Not a soul I knew was in London; so I took a run over to Dublin to visit Vincey Maguire. It's the most impossible adventure to think of man and wife, ten years apart, meeting in the cabin of——are you going, Maria?'

The lady had risen from her seat. 'I see no reason for my remaining,' she said quietly.

'If you cannot bear to breathe the same atmosphere with me, I will retire,' said the husband. 'I will not turn you out of the cabin; I'll go on deck.'

The lady looked up to the sky-light above her on which the rain was pattering furiously.

'Impossible to stay on deck in a night like this,' said she, with a faint return of the interest of a wife.

'Thank you for that, Maria.'

'I did not mean that,' she explained hastily; 'I'——

'You are unkind not to let me think you did,' said the husband. 'At all events, since we have met in this strange way, do not let us meet as enemies.'

'Enemies? No!' replied the lady.

'Yield to a suggestion of mine for once,' continued the husband. 'You were taking tea; do not let me deprive you of that; it will refresh you—or'—his face lighted up, as with a bright idea—'suppose we take tea together.'

'Together!' echoed the lady.

'Oh, don't be alarmed,' said the gentleman; 'you shall pay for your own, and I for mine, and we'll have it on different trays, in the most platonic manner possible.'

Despite the rapid beating of her heart, the lady could not repress a smile, of which her husband took immediate advantage by ordering tea for himself, at the table opposite his wife.

Mr. and Mrs. Thirlby had been married in the year 1846. Miss Harbrowe was a noted beauty, and Francis Thirlby a somewhat erratic bachellor. After a honeymoon, and three or four other moons of unmixed sweetness, spent abroad, amidst grand old ruins, crumbling columns and colossal statues, like ghosts of greatness passed away, under dreamy skies and over pent volcanoes, they returned to cool and cloudy England—its tempestuous winters, mild and murky summers, and carefully concealed domestic hurricanes.

A year passed, and among old friends, old haunts and old associations, easy-going Mr. Thirlby became the usual careless husband, engaged more with his Greenwich dinner and clubs than home, unless he gave a party, when he would shine with his customary brilliancy. When alone with his wife he appeared absorbed in meditation. She resented his want of assiduity, and he resented her resentment. She had been an only child; so was he. Neither would he first to yield! Each was largely endowed with the gift of sarcasm, and used it mercilessly. They stabbed their mutual happiness with epigrams, and battled down their home with the artillery of bitter words. Months passed in fierce storms and lowering, threatening calms. The last provocation was given. Mrs. Thirlby was jealous.

She left the house, and shortly after a separation was mutually agreed upon.

Mr. Thirlby, finding his fireside cold, and his home merely furnished apartments, resolved on adopting a career.—He had interest in the India House, and obtained an appointment in the Civil Service. Years had passed. He had returned; and as he looked at his wife he had once so loved and had so strangely met, he felt that he could begin his courtship once again; the last fourteen years were annihilated; she was before him; the old charm floated around her, and he felt his heart liquify as he traced the well-remembered features and their play beneath the swinging light in the close, trembling, rocking cabin.

Mrs. Thirlby sat with her eyes fixed on the tumbling sea—externally calm, the violet-eyed, impassive and grand. Her husband, leaning his arm on the table, and his head upon his hand, said: 'Upon my word, Maria, you are looking handsomer than ever!'

A flush of pleasure surged up to Mrs. Thirlby's face; she beat it back again bravely, but could not resist a slight smile, for she felt, with the same consciousness of a handsome woman, that her husband had spoken truly, and as he thought.

'This is a remarkable meeting, is it not?' continued he, hardly knowing what to say, yet disliking silence more than hazarding something commonplace. 'By the way, you have a servant with you, havn't you.

'No,' replied the lady.

'No! How is that?'

'Harriet had never seen the sea in her life, and refused to embark. She said we were sure to be drowned; so I came away without her.'

'How odd!' said the husband:—'there's not a single passenger—I mean in this cabin—but ourselves.'

'We are single!' said the wife relaxing to a smile.

'Of course we are—at present!' said the husband.

'And mean to keep so,' continued Mrs. Thirlby observing that her husband's eyes were fixed on hers with an expression of deep interest. Finding that his earnest gaze was noticed, that gentleman swallowed a whole cup of tea at a draft.

'I havn't enjoyed my tea so much for years,' said he, putting down the empty cup—'I may say ten years.'

It was always Mr. Thirlby's practice to jest when he was in earnest, until he felt his way, and his antagonist's power of resistance.'

'Shall I be indiscreet in asking what motive you have in visiting Ireland?' he asked, finding that no reply, verbal or facial, was made to his last observation.

Mrs. Thirlby poured herself out a second cup of tea, and said: 'I am going to pass a few months with——'Oh!'

She shrieked with pain. Thirlby rose with an anxious and portruded countenance.

'What's the matter?' he asked.

'I have scalded my hand,' replied his ex-wife applying her lips to the part affected.

'Allow me,' he said, about to take hold of the injured member.

'Thank you, no,' said the lady, hastily withdrawing it. 'I permit no interference with what is entirely my own property.'

The face of the husband turned red, and the wife felt the cruel pleasure of victory.

'Better put a little dry soap on it; best thing in the world for a scald,' said he: 'I have some in my bag.'

'You are very kind,' answered the wife touched with the attention.

'Not at all, Maria,' said Thirlby, following up the success with the Christian name. 'I am something of a traveller now, and am always provided with these little necessaries.'

He opened a black leather bag, scraped some soap on to a clean white handkerchief, and applied it to his wife's hand, tenderly and carefully. He saw the wedding ring shine over the white skin, and gave ever so small a sigh as he tied a knot just above it.

'Poor little hand!' said he caressingly, as he bent his head down towards it.

'Thank you; that will do very well!' remarked his wife, putting it under the table.

'Nothing like soft soap,' said he, smiling.

'No,' answered the lady, with a placid dignity.

'How the boat pitches! As you are wounded, shall I do the honors?' said he.

'You are very gallant,' she replied.

'Wasn't I always?' he asked.

'Always,' replied the wife; 'but not me.'

'My dear Maria,'——.

'Pardon me; you are forgetting yourself?'

'Not at all,' replied the husband, stoutly. 'I repeat it. Why were you and I so unhappy together?'

The vessel strained and pitched as he spoke, and orders were given upon deck, and the wind howled, and the rain beat down on the sky-light above them.

'There's a storm coming on," he remarked, rather unnecessarily.

'I am afraid there is,' answered the wife,

'But answer my question.'

'What question?'

'O, you know,' said he, irritatedly, 'I asked why we were always so unhappy together?"

'I might as well ask you why you were always so unkind?' said Mrs. Thirlby.

'I recognize you there,' said the husband; you answer one question by asking another. I remember you always did. It used to irritate me"——.

'Everything I did used to irritate you,' interrupted the wife, calm and provoking.

When it was irritating,' amended Mr. Thirlby.

'You found it so,' said the lady, with feminine emphasis.

'Of course it was me,' returned the husband; 'I was the villain—husbands always are."

'No; I was the termagant—wives always are!' repeated the lady.

'My love, you were always good, and right, and pious, and virtuous,' said Thirlby, his love of sarcasm overcoming his better sense. 'You were always provokingly proper—all broken hearted submission; meekness, mildness, and downcast eyes, as if advertising to the world: 'Look here! my monster is breaking my heart; not that I complain; oh, dear, no; I am too good for that. He is killing me, and I am rather glad that he is, I am so angelic and resigned!"'

Mrs. Thirlby knit her brows; for a moment she hesitated between quitting the cabin and replying. Temper triumphed and she spoke.

'If so, you pursued the opposite tactics,' said she. 'You were all smiles, jollity, frankness, and good humor—to the world; a sort of proclamation of: 'See what a fine, generous, open-hearted fellow I am; and yet my wife—my wicked wife—is miserable with me!' Oh, thank Heaven, I am not your wife now!'

The ship lurched again, and Mrs. Thirlby's teacup fell to the floor, but without breaking.

'You needn't get into a passion,' said her husband, 'nor upset the tea-things; you're not at home now, you know.'

'I did not upset it,' said the lady, angrily.

"Yes, you did.'

'No, I didn't.'

'Yes, you did.'

'I did not, sir,' repeated the lady, tapping the table authoritatively with her undamaged hand, and so knocking off the other cup, which broke into a dozen pieces.

'There,' said her husband, picking up the fragments carefully, and arranging them before her, 'perhaps you didn't break that, either?'

It would be impossible to describe the extent to which handsome Mrs. Thirlby was put out by this accident. Her face darkened, and, without losing its beauty, looked a thunder storm—the ox-eyed Juno wrathful with Jupiter.

Thirlby tried to walk the cabin.—'Time has not subdued that awful temper, then?' said he.

'Nor the recollection of your ill-nsage,' she replied. 'Neither ten years nor ten hundred can do that!'

'Ten hundred,' he remarked; 'you'll be a fine old lady by then."

'And so will you,' retorted the wife; 'you're more than forty now!'

'Well, if I am,' answered the husband angrily, 'you're five-and-thirty—no chicken either!'

One of the chief reasons that matrimonial differences are so bitter is, that each party is so well informed of the enemy's weak side.

'Why, positively, you're bald!' said Mrs. Thirlby, who had not before perceived the shining scalp in the center of her husband's cranium; 'yes, quite bald at the top!'

Mr. Thirlby turned white with passion—he was a very vain man—and walked up to her as if about to make some overwhelming reply. Unfortunately, he saw that her hair was as black, as lustrous, and as rich as ever.

His wife guessed his intention, and said aggravatingly: 'Poor old man, was he bald, then?'

'You know you were always a beauty!' sneered the husband.

Mrs. Thirlby rose from her seat, and bowed, as if she said: 'I know it,' which irritated her husband more than ever.

'As lovely as afflicted,' continued he.

'At all events,' replied the lady, 'that Mrs. ——.'

'Silence, madam!' thundered the husband. 'You have too often repeated that lady's name, and I forbid ——."

'You forbid, indeed!' cried his wife. 'And pray, who are you that command me? Why should I not use that woman's—I beg pardon—lady's name? Who is to prevent me? Not her lover, sir,' lashing herself into a rage, 'when he has ceased to be my husband.'

'By Jove!' said Thirlby, 'this is as it used to be; but, you say we are separated;' and he bent his head over the table, and droned: 'for this and other mercies, Heaven make us truly thankful!'

Mrs. Thirlby tore the handkerchief from the scalded hand, and threw it across the table—the fragments of soap fell into the sugar basin.

'What a novel vengeance!' continued he, in a pompous tone. 'What greatness, what magnanimity of soul! and what a brilliant repartee! 'Pon my word, this is refreshing! What a meeting, after ten years absence—the breeze without, the row within. Any one would swear to us for man and wife.'

'Not your wife now, sir!'

'No, not my wife now. As I said a minute ago—for this and other mercies——.'

The lady rose to her feet.

'Do not insult me, sir, she said. "I have been at peace for ten years. Do not raise the feelings that—that—that—.'

'That what?' asked the husband.

Poor Mrs. Thirlby began to feel the effect of the motion of the vessel. 'I—I—don't feel well,' she gasped.

'Ah! excitement,' said the husband, unconcernedly.

'No, sir, the sea—I mean the tea. I shall go to my berth. When we get to Kingston, you can see Franky, and—.'

'Franky! Who's Franky?' asked the husband.

'Mrs. Thirlby looked him full in the face as she answered: 'Your son, sir.'

Another lurch of the vessel threw Mr. Thirlby into a seat, as he repeated: 'My son!' He hardly understood the meaning of the words.

'Your son and mine,' said the lady. My dear, dear boy, Frank!'

Something rose to the husband's throat and eyes as he looked first up and then down at his long lost wife, as the position of the cabin floor hoisted or lowered her.

'He was born three months after your departure,' continued Mrs. Thirlby.

'Why did I not know it?'

'I kept it out of the papers, purposely,' said the wife.

'And you called him Francis,' said the now thoroughly humbled husband.

'Yes—after his father.'

'Thank you, Maria; that was kind.'

'My duty—nothing more,' said the lady.

'How old is he?'

'Ten in August—on the fifth.'

'God bless him,' said the father, 'is he handsome?'

'Oh! very—very handsome,' said the mother.

'A—at all like me?' inquired the husband.

'Like what you were—very.'

'And in his manner?'

'He is passionate in the extreme; like what you were—very. Here is a letter I had from him last Thursday. He is on a visit to my cousin, who was married to Col. O'Grady three years ago.'

The father took the letter, and held it under the shaking lamp. The gale had blown itself into a perfect storm, and he could hardly keep upon his feet as he read the large school-boy hand:

'MY DEAR, DEAR MAMMA,—I am so glad that you are so soon coming. I have no news. I am quite well. Freddy's pony hurt one of his knees yesterday. We go to Sandy Mount every day. Aunt sends her love—so does Freddy. God bless you. Your affectionate

FRANKY.

Merryon Square, Dublin, Ireland.'

The lines were read and re-read till the lines became blurred and indistinct, and a deep sob heaved up from the father's heart as he stretched forth his hand to his wife and said: 'Maria, forgive me!'

But Mrs. Thirbly remained silent and impassive.

'For the sake of our boy,' he urged, 'the child of whose existence I was unaware—till—till—forgive me!'

'Do you wish to keep the letter?' inquired the wife.

"With your permission. Do you ever speak to him about me?'

'Often!'

'O, Maria, let us be friends!'

Mrs. Thirlby answered slowly and deliberately with a pause between every third and fourth word: 'After an absence—of more than ten years—meeting so unexpectedly—you could not control—your violent and sarcastic nature—I pardon what is past—but when I leave this boat—we never meet again!'

'Maria'—he tried to take her hand, but she withdrew it—'can't you forgive me?'

'The past—yes; the future I will not trust in your hands. As I said, when I leave this boat——.'

The stewardess entered the cabin suddenly by the stairs leading to the deck. The door was heard to lock behind, and there was a noise overhead as of shutting and fastening. She staggered forward and said in a low, resigned, but trembling voice: 'If you wish to pray, do so at once; for we are expected to go down every minute!'

Thirlby looked at her for an instant, and then taking his wife up in his arms, rushed to the cabin door.

"We are fastened down!' said the stewardess with terrible calmess. 'The crew is in the rigging. I shall go to the cabin, and meet it there. Oh, pray for your soul's sake, for we have not long to live!' she went to her own little cabin at the side and shut the door.

Husband and wife were locked in each other's arms. How poor and paltry seemed their enmities and jealousies, their poisoned arrows of speech and victories! Eternity was near them, and about them, lashing at the shaking vessel's side, howling for them in the wind, roaring for them in sea! The ship palpitated like a timid hare, as though eager to offer human victims to appease the hungry elements, and save itself. Neither spoke, but a long, endearing kiss proclaimed mutual forgiveness—then, heart beating against heart, hand in hand, and fingers intertwined with each other they knelt and prayed. In his height of health and pride of sarcasm, Thirlby sometimes scoffed at religion, and ridiculed his wife's strict observance with considerable humor—now he felt sure that she was right and cheek to cheek and lip to lip uttered fervent prayers for heavenly pardon and her safety.

Only once during the night the world came back to him, when he sobbed out: 'I shall never see my boy!'

And minute after minute, each longer than the last, passed away; every succeeding shock and lurch of the frail boat they expected to have the floor sink under them and the water pour down into their cushioned sea-tomb.

A violent crash shook the vessel from stem to stern; the cable light fell shivered to atoms, and all was darkness. They clutched tightly hold of each other and thought their time had come.

The night passed. A ribbon of grey light in the horizon separated sea from sky; the grey grew whiter and more bright—it was morning.

Husband and wife looked into each other's haggard faces; they had thought they should never see each other more.

The daylight was a inexpressible relief; they should not perish in the dark. Light was the breath of Heaven. They were not forgotten.

'Think you there is any hope?' whispered the wife, almost afraid to trust the sound of her own voice.

As she spoke there was a noise upon the deck, and the sounds of sea and wind, and straining boards and creaking cordage grew more audible. The cabin door flew open, and the steward, wet as from a bath, and his face bleeding, looked in.

'All right,' he gasped; 'we're saved! saved! Where's my missus? Jane, dear, open the door—we're saved, I tell you!'

The stewardess opened the door, and both couples retired to the deck.

'We shall weather it, praised be God!' said the white-haired captain. 'Who would have thought this, six hours ago?'

'Maria!'

'Hush! we have received a severe and proper punishment for our presumption and our crime.'

A steam tug came out to their rescue, and towed them safely into Kingstown harbor. There was a smiling lady, a moustached gentleman, and a handsome, yellow haired boy awaiting them.

'Mamma!—my dear, dear mamma!' cried the young gentleman, with undisguised ecstasy.

'Franky, my own. Here's papa.'

'Papa!' said the boy, rounding his eyes. 'Papa, from India?'

'Yes, dear.'

'Mr. Thirlby!' said Mrs. O'Grady.

'Had you forgotten me, Eleanor?' said that gentleman.

'Mamma, why hasn't papa been with you before, when——'

'Hush, dear!' said the mother.

Mr. Thirlby did not return to India; and both his own and his wife's name are always set down for a handsome sum, in all subscriptions for life boats or preservations from shipwrecks.

☞ A domestic, newly engaged, presented to his master one morning a pair of boots, the leg of one of which was much longer than the other. 'How come it, you rascal, that these boots are not of the same length?' 'I really don't know sir; but what bothers me most is that the pair down stairs are in the same fix.

☞ A little boy asked his mother what "blood relations" meant. She explained to him that it signified near relatives etc. After thinking a moment, he said—"Then, mother, you must be the bloodiest relation I've got!"

VOCAL CLASS !

MANUAL FENOLLOSA, at the request of some of his friends, respectfully announces his intention of forming a

Singing Class in South Danvers,

for the acquirement of thorough rudimental Instruction in the Art of Singing.

Subscription papers for Membership may be found with Mrs. Geo. P. Osborne, Mrs. I. B. Elliot, and Mr. Geo. P. Daniels.

The class will be organized as soon as a sufficient number of names are obtained to insure its success.

Terms $5.00 for 24 Evening's Instruction.

So. Danvers, April 8, 1863. tf

☞ Try one of Rhoades' National Clothes Wringers, before purchasing elsewhere. For sale at the Equity Store, South Danvers. See advertisement.

Warren Five Cents Savings Bank.

The Semi-Annual Meeting of this corporation will be held at the Warren Bank Rooms on Wednesday, May 6th, at 7 o'clock, P. M.

Per order,

FRANCIS BAKER, Secretary.

South Danvers, April 22, 1863. 3t

☞ I have for sale one very fine Piano Forte at $165, and one at $175; also two splendid seven-octave Piano-Fortes at $300 each, at my room, 218 Essex Street, Salem. All orders for Boston or New York instruments promptly attended to. S. MACKINTIRE, Agent.

Our Lady readers will notice the advertisement of JAMES F. ALMY, in our columns to-day, of Goods from New York; and purchasers of all kinds of Dry Goods will find upon examining his most complete and desirable stock, that they have no need to go out of the city, either for variety of choice goods or for low prices.

Purchasers of Ladies Outside Garments are referred to the great variety displayed by JAMES F. ALMY, at No. 138 Essex street. Procuring patterns from New York, and having all Garments made in this city, he is enabled to offer desirable novelties at very low prices.

Port of Danvers.

Ar Apl 22d, schs Island Belle, Baker, Boston; Munsel, Kelley, do; 23d, Pavillion, Baker, and Amanda, M'Carty, do; 24th, Uncle Sam, Spaulding, Rockland.

Marriages.

In Danvers, April 23, by Rev J W Putnam, Mr John Parker to Miss Ann Wyatt, both of Danvers.

April 26th, by Rev Mr Fletcher, Mr Joel L. Southwick to Miss Maria A. Moser, both of D.

In Boston, April 27th, by Rev Mr Miner, Mr Hoyt M Roberts to Mrs, Hannah K. Prince, daughter of Perley Goodale, Esq., of South Danvers.

In Rutland, Vt., April 21, by Rev Silas Aikin, Lieut. George R. Hall, 5th Reg. Vt. Vols. to Miss Mary F Lowe, daughter of Col. Caleb Lowe, of Peoria, Ill. No cards.

In Edgarton, Wisconsin, April 15, by Rev Mr Jennings, (at the residence of the bride's father), Mr Wm. N. Dearborn to Miss Lois J., second daughter of J. H. Hill, Esq.

In Salem, April 22, by Rev Willard Spaulding, Mr Charles Tucker to Miss Lydia C Norris.

Deaths.

In Salem, April 21, Mr Benj C Hersey, 61½; Mr Nicholas Fay, 60; 22d, Willis, son of Simon and Hannah S Gardner, 13¾ years; 23d, Mary Ellen, daughter of Edward and Julia Mitchell, 3½ yrs; Mr John Crowley, 60; Mrs Lois P, widow of the late Mr Benj Balch, 81; 25th, Caddie E, daughter of James L and Sarah T Austin, 8 mos: 26th, Mrs Margaret, widow of the late Capt Jonathan P Felt, 75 years 9 months.

In Beverly, April 25, Mrs Judith M, widow of the late Samuel Heron, 59 years; 26th, Mrs Louisa, widow of the late Alvah Woodbury, 53.

In Ipswich, April 21, Hon George W Heard, about 70 years.

☞ The extraordinary success of Dr. Ham's Invigorating Spirit, seems to stir up an army of Tonics, Bitters, and Cure Alls; but as a general thing they are like the Morning Glory—look very fine in the morning but wilt before the day has past. The Dr. has been before the public for years; his Dyspepsia Remedy has been tested and not found wanting; it acts on the Liver, Stomach, Head and the whole system; it is good at all times and for everybody.

Hunnewell's Great Remedies.

WHAT EVERY FAMILY SHOULD HAVE IN THE HOUSE AND WHY;

☞ They should have HUNNEWELL'S UNIVERSAL, COUGH REMEDY, because it effectually cures Colds, Whooping and Common Coughs, Sore Throat, Hoarseness, and is the most simple and perfect Soothing Syrup in the world. For old and young, by day and night, it may be used with the greatest freedom, and three-fourths of the deaths by Consumption stopped.

They should have HUNNEWELL'S TOLU ANODYNE, because it is a perfect remedy for Neuralgia, Nervous or Sick Headache, Tooth, and Earache, Pain in Stomach, or Bowels, Genuine Cholera Morbus, Rheumatism, Distress after Eating, Nervousness, Hysteria, and the chief of all causes of disease, and Insanity, Loss of Sleep. Its character, though active, is simple; its action in perfect conformity to nature; its end cure, or relief

For the pains in Monthly Menstruation a perfect relief, while nature's after work is not disturbed, and one of the most important points in Medicine.

They should have HUNNEWELL'S ECLECTIC PILLS, because with seldom but a single Pill for a dose all derangements of the Stomach and Bowels are cured. They cure Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Headache, when caused by foul stomach, Loss of Appetite, Biliousness, so often and so erroneously treated with Mercurials, Jaundice. For Worms a sure cure.

They act simple, assist nature, do not make a Pill Box of the stomach, as is the most fatal error of taking so many Pills at a dose and then, what is important to every Family and every Purse, one bottle goes as far as two or three of what is ordinarily sold.

The confidence of all is asked to test

Hunnewell's Universal Cough Remedy.
Hunnewell's Tolu Anodyne.
Hunnewell's Eclectic Pills.

☞ Fac-simile of J. L. Hunnewell's signature over corks of genuine only.

JOHN L. HUNNEWELL, proprietor,
9 Commercial Wharf, Boston, Mass.

George E. Meacom, Agent for Danvers.

For sale by all dealers in Salem and vicinity.

Apr. I, 1863—1 y

100,000 BARRELS OF THE LODI MANUFACTURING COMPANY'S

POUDRETTE,

111 COMMERCIAL ST., BOSTON, MASS.

This Company, with a capital of $150,000, the most extensive works of the kind in the world, and an experience in manufacturing of over 23 years, with a reputation long established, having also the exclusive control of all the night soil of the great city of New York, are prepared to furnish an article, which is, without doubt, the CHEAPEST AND VERY BEST fertilizer in market. It greatly increases the yield, and ripens the crop from two to three weeks earlier, at an expense of from three to four dollars per acre, with little or no labor. Also, FIFTY TONS of BONE TAFEU, being a mixture of bone and night soil ground fine, at $45 per ton—a superior article for grain, &c. A pamphlet containing all necessary information may be had free by addressing a letter to the LODI MANUFACTURING CO., No. 111 Commercial Street, Boston, Mass.

Price of POUDRETTE, $1.65 per barrell. Seven barrells and over delivered free of charge.

☞ Visit OSBORNE'S Store, and look at the unusual variety of new styles in HATS and CAPS—191 Essex street.

M. FENOLLOSA,
TEACHER OF MUSIC,
LETS .....PIANO FORTES, at the lowest rates;
SELLS .....PIANO FORTES, at the Manufacturers Prices;
EXCHANGES....PIANO FORTES, on the easiest terms;
At Rooms No. 7 Central street,
feb 11 SALEM, MASS.

MANUAL FENOLLOSA,
TEACHER
OF THE
Violin, Piano and Singing,
Music Rooms, No. 7 Central Street,
SALEM, MASS.

Advertisements.

Personal Property at Auction.

Will be sold at Auction on WEDNESDAY, Ap, 29, at 1 o'clk, P. M.

In rear of the residence of the late Emma Dodge, No. 40 Main street, South Danvers:

1 Sofa, 1 Bureau, 1 Mahogany Writing Desk, 1 do Card Table, 2 round Tables, 9 flag-seat Chairs, Wood and cane-seat do, 1 Portable Sink, 2 Looking Glasses, 3 Bedsteads, 2 Staves, 1 Trundle Bedstead and Mattress, Straw Matting, lot Crockery Ware, 2 Woolen Carpets, &c.

THOMAS TRASK, Auctioneer.

So. Danvers, April 29, 1863.

Chickering & Sons' Piano-Fortes.
Hallett & Cumston's Piano-Fortes.
Hallett & Davis's Piano-Fortes.

We select our Piano-Fortes from the above firms and warrant them to give perfect satisfaction. Our terms are reasonable, and all persons in the city and neighboring towns can be accommodated by calling at 76 Federal street.

FOR SALE—Second-hand Piano-Fortes,—Chickering's and others.

ap 29 ANN R BRAY.

Sun Shades and Sun Umbrellas.

A FULL assortment of Green, Brown and Black Sun Shades and Umbrellas, at
ap 29 ANN R BRAY'S, 76 Federal st.

Just Opened,

A SUPERIOR quality corded Taffeta, at 37½ cts At wool Delaines, desirable shades; Domestic Goods of every description.
ap 29 ANN R BRAY, 76 Federal st.

DRY GOODS
—IN—
SOUTH DANVERS!

NEW and desirable SPRING DRESS GOODS, PRINTS, SHEETINGS, SHIRTINGS, &c., at the Reduced Prices, may be found at the Cheap Cash Store of

GEO. P. DANIELS.

April 22, 1863.

A Card.

Having disposed of my stock and stand to Miss M. L. CRANE, I avail myself of this opportunity to request my friends and customers who have bestowed their liberal patronage upon me, to transfer the same to my successor.

In taking leave of my business friends, I would return my warmest thanks for the generous patronage I have received. I can in the highest terms recommend Miss CRANE, and would bespeak for her your kind consideration and confidence.

I would most respectfully invite those having unsettled accounts to call and adjust the same, either with Miss Crane or myself, at the old stand.

April 22, 1863. M. M. FLETCHER.

Notice.

The Subscriber having purchased of Mrs. M. M. FLETCHER her stock of Goods, and made additions to the same, is now prepared to furnish her patrons and the public with a large and fine assortment of

Millinery Goods,

which we will sell very low for cash. We hope by strict attention to business to merit a liberal share of patronage. M. E. CRANE, up 22 cor. of Essex and St. Peter sts.

Tillage Land and Barn to Let.

ABOUT six acres of good level Tillage Land with a Barn, situated upon the "Cross Road" in Rockville. Any one wishing to work upon land a portion or the whole of his time will find this a rare chance.

For further particulars application may be made to either of the subscribers.

S. C. BANCROFT, So. Danvers.
JOHN R. NICHOLS, Salem.

South Danvers, Ap. 22.

PHOTOGRAPH ALBUMS.

BEAUTIFUL and new styles, in great variety:

Card Pictures of the "Prince and Princess," "Father Cleaveland," and others at
G M WHIPPLE & A A SMITH'S.

To Let.

A SMALL but pleasant and convenient Chamber Tenement, in the house formerly occupied by the late Wood Forness, upon the corner of Washington and Pleasant Streets. For particulars apply to

SIDNEY C. BANCROFT.

South Danvers, April 22. tf

Quincy Mutual Fire Insurance Co.

Available and Cash Capital $500,000.

INSURES Buildings, Merchandize and Personal Property generally, on terms as favorable as any other dividend paying company.

J. D. BLACK, Agent,
april 22—1y At Danversport.

Merrimack Mutual Fire Insurance Co., Andover, Mass.

ONE of the OLD AND RELIABLE OFFICES.

J. D. BLACK is Agent for Danvers and South Danvers. apr 22—1y

Crockery Ware.

A FULL assortment of China and Crockery Ware; Wooden Ware; Table Cutlery; Tea Trays; Britannia Ware and Silver Plated Ware, &c—for sale at the General Furnishing Store for Housekeepers, No. 32 Front street.

ap 22 S C & E A SIMONDS.

FOLIO PHOTOGRAPH ALBUMS.

PREFERRED by many persons to any other style—manufactured by
ap 29 G M WHIPPLE & A A SMITH.

FAMILY BIBLES,

FOR sale in great variety and at low prices, at G M WHIPPLE & A A SMITH.

WHITE LEAD AND LINSEED OIL,

OF the best quality—for sale at
S C & E A SIMONDS', 32 Front st.

GREENS.

HAMPDEN Green—Chrome Green—Verdigris and Imperial Green—for sale by ap 29 S C & E A SIMONDS, 32 Front st.

DIAMONDS.

GLAZIER'S Diamonds—for sale by
S C & E A SIMONDS, 32 Front st.

A Good Milk Route for Sale,

INQUIRE at this office.

South Danvers, Feb. 11, 1863.

James F. Almy.

Bargains in Dress Goods — We are selling elegant styl Plaid Alpaccas at 37 1-2 cts- former price 50 and 55 cts. We are also closing a lot the same Goods in dark color at 25 cts. per yard.

Taffeta Stripes. — We have a few pieces remaining of those beautiful fine Taffeta Stripes at 37 1-2 cents.

Dress Goods for 25 Cts. — We are selling the best styles and colors of Mou selin De Laines at 25 c We are selling a choice invoice of English Dress Goods for 25 cts.

Dress Goods for 17 Cts. — We are selling an excellent quality of Plaid and Striped Dress Goods at 17 cts. per yard.

English, French AND American Prints. — We offer a splendid line of English, French and American Prints, a 15, 17, 22, 25, 33, 37 1-2 and 42 cents.

JAMES F. ALMY,

apr 29 138 Essex, opposite Central st.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

We invite attention to our complete stock of LADIES' OUTSIDE GARMENTS, for Spring.

Garments of every description for Ladies or Children, made to order, from measure.

JAMES F. ALMY,

138 Essex, opposite Central St.

We invite attention to our stock of LADIES' CLOTHS.

JAMES F. ALMY,

138 Essex, opposite Central st.

We invite attention to our stock of FOREIGN AND AMERICAN SHAWLS. We offer many novelties.

JAMES F. ALMY,

138 Essex, opposite Central St.

Please call and examine our stock of SUN UMBRELLAS, made from the best Silks, upon English frames.

JAMES F. ALMY,

138 Essex, opposite Central st.

Purchasers of LADIES' KID GLOVES will find our regular Goods (Trefousse's Paris Kid Gloves) of superior quality, elastic and durable. We buy them of the Importer.

JAMES F. ALMY,

138 Essex, opposite Central st.

We offer a full line of BEST WATCH-SPRING SKIRTS at very low prices.

JAMES F. ALMY,

138 Essex, opposite Central St.

Salem, April 29, 1863.

RARE CHANCE FOR BUSINESS.

For Sale or to Let,

A TWO-STORY SHOE MANUFACTORY, ready for occupancy, 22 by 40 feet, situated on Broad Street, centrally located, near the Lynn Mechanics Bank.

FOR SALE,

IF APPLIED FOR SOON.

1 "Thompson's Sole Leather Cutting Machine," in perfect order.

1 large original "Wilder's Safe," powder proof lock.

For further particulars inquire at the U. S. Assessors Office, corner of Union and Mulberry Streets, Lynn.

Lynn, April 15, 1863—3w.

Executors' Sale of Real Estate in Danversport.

By virtue of a License from the Court of Probate for the County of Essex, will be sold at Public Auction, on the premises, on FRIDAY, the 15th day of May, at 2 o'clock, P. M., so much of the following Real Estate of MOSES BLACK, late of Danvers, deceased, as shall raise the sum of six thousand nine hundred and eighty-two 33-100 dollars, for the payment of Debts, Legacies, and charges of Administration:

No. 1.—Homestead of said deceased, consisting of a parcel of Land on Water street, in said Danvers, containing seventy-five rods. On said lot is a large three-story Dwelling House, Wood House, Shed, and good Stable; a superior Garden stocked with valuable Fruit Trees of various kinds, Currants, Gooseberries, Grapes, &c.

No. 2.—Large Wool Store, three Stories and two Attics, together with the Lot on which it stands, fronting three rods and thirteen links on Water St., and running back to line of Essex Railroad. Said Store is 40x50 feet, very heavy timbered, and suitable for manufacturing purposes.

No. 3.—The Estate on Water street, adjoining the last, containing about two acres, known as formerly the Estate of the late BRIGGS R. REED, on which are two Dwelling Houses and large Stable. Said Estate will be sold in one or two parcels, as shall appear most desirable.

No. 4.—The Lot on Water street, known as the Proctor Lot. Said Lot is opposite to the Store of A. W. WARREN, and contains about seventeen thousand feet of land, and is the most eligible building lot on said street in the market.

No. 5.—The large Double-House and Lot of over 1-2 an Acre, on Water street, adjoining the last, and now occupied by WM. BLACK, and the family of the late MOSES BLACK, Jr. Said lot has a fine Stable and Wood-house attached, and a valuable Fruit and Vegetable Garden. It will be offered in one or two parcels, as appears to be desirable.

No. 6.—The Morocco Factory on said Water Street, adjoining the Grocery Store of A. W. WARREN, together with the land under the same; said Building is two story and large and well suited for manufacturing purposes.

No. 7.—The large and valuable Coal Wharf, with extensive water and street fronts, on which are several large and good Coal buildings, situated on Water street, and now under lease to POTTER, BATCHELDER & CO., Coal Dealers.

No. 8.—A small House, and Lot of about half an Acre, on River street, adjoining the Estate of M. J. HAGERTY.

Terms and conditions will be made known at the time and place of sale, or on application to either of the subscribers.

WILLIAM BLACK, } Executors.
JAMES D. BLACK, }

Danversport, April 14, '63.

George S. Walker.

For Spring and Summer Wear.

GENTLEMEN'S UNDER GARMENTS, HOSIERY, GLOVES,

—AND—

Gent's Furnishing Goods.

MY Stock is now full with seasonable goods, carefully selected in the New York and Boston markets. Many of my goods having been purchased for cash prior to the advance in prices, I offer great inducements to purchasers.

GEORGE S. WALKER,
Gent's Furnishing Store,
ap 22 228 Essex Street, Salem, Mass.

John P. Peabody.

$1.35.

OUR BEST CORSETS formerly $1 75, now marked down to $1 35, in order to reduce our stock. These are superior goods in every respect, and $1 35 is less than the wholesale prices at the present time.

Received this Week.

Black Lace Veils—in new styles;
Wrought Collars—new patterns—bargains;
Bonnet Ribbons—in all the desirable shades;
Artificial Flowers—in new styles;
Bonnet Laces and Edgings—best styles;
Dress Buttons—Steel, Jet, Silk, Pearl &c.
Rubber Pages—the best—only 12½ cts;
Sun Umbrellas—all sizes—from 1 62½ up;
Gore Trail Skirts—the neatest and best style;
Childrens's Skirts—all sizes—from 30 cts up;
Worsted Braids—desirable colors—per piece, 8 cents;
Embroidery Braids—in all colors;
Mohair Braids—line goods by the yard;
Rubber Back, Side, Round and Fine Combs;
Plain and Ribb'd Cotton Hosiery—at low prices;
Toilet Soaps—Perfumes—Brushes—Puffs—&c;
Honey, Rose, Glycerine, Castile & Bro. Windsor Soaps;
Bears Oil—Gloss—Castorine and Rosemary for the Hair.

New Ribbons — At Peabody's.
New Ribbons — At Peabody's.
New Ribbons — At Peabody's.

New Flowers — At Peabody's.
New Flowers — At Peabody's.
New Flowers — At Peabody's.

New Ruches — At Peabody's.
New Ruches — At Peabody's.
New Ruches — At Peabody's.

Sun Umbrellas — At Peabody's.
Sun Umbrellas — At Peabody's.
Sun Umbrellas — At Peabody's.

Cotton Hose — At Peabody's.
Cotton Hose — At Peabody's.
Cotton Hose — At Peabody's.

Gore Trail Skirts — At Peabody's.
Gore Trail Skirts — At Peabody's.
Gore Trail Skirts — At Peabody's.

Ladies' Gloves — At Peabody's.
Children's Gloves — At Peabody's.
Gent's Gloves — At Peabody's.
Misses' Gloves — At Peabody's.

Worsted Braids, 8 cts;
Sea Island Cottons, 5 cts;
Linen Thread, 4 cts;
Best Pins, 5 cts;
Best Cottons, 7 cts;
Best Needles, 6 cts;
Findlay's Cottons, 3 cts;
Sun Umbrellas, $1 62½;
Sun Umbrellas, 1 75;
Sun Umbrellas, 2 00;
Sun Umbrellas, 2 25;
Watch Spring Skirts, 30 cts;
do do do 42 cts;
do do do 50 cts;
do do do $1 00;
do do do 1 50;
do do do 2 00;
Black Lace Veils, 50 cts;
do do do 75 cts;
do do do $1 00;
do do do 1 25;
do do do 1 50;
do do do 1 75.

Cottons—Threads—Silks—Twists—Tapes—Buttons—Bindings—Pins—Needles—Scissors Wax—Brushes—Combs—Puffs—Soaps—Perfumes—Leather Bags—Wallets—Portemonaies, &c., &c., &c.

☞ Our store is open every evening until 8 o'clock.

220 ESSEX ST., SALEM,

JOHN P. PEABODY.

JOHN FARRELL,

DRAPER AND TAILOR,

HAVING removed to his old place of business, 138 MAIN ST., South Danvers, (over Batchelder's Grocery Store), is prepared to Cut, Make, Repair, or furnish Garments, for Men and Youths at short notice.

South Danvers, April 1. tf

THE PIANO FORTES

THAT have attracted so much attention of late, and are so much admired on account of their SPLENDID FULL, RICH, MELLOW TONE, and GRAND FRENCH ACTION, are for sale only at the Office of the Agent,

218 Essex Street, Salem, Mass.,

where reference may be had to many who have purchased. Other Piano Fortes also, are for sale, varying in price from $180 upwards. Please call.

Mch 11 6m S. MACKINTIRE, Agent.

THE CLOTHES WRINGER.

JUST OBTAINED

RHOADES' CELEBRATED

NATIONAL CLOTHES WRINGER,

THE VERY BEST YET INVENTED,

AND REALLY A LABOR SAVING MACHINE.

CALL AND EXAMINE.

For Sale by E. SOUTHWICK,

At the EQUITY GROCERY STORE,

South Danvers, Jan 21, 1863. 3m

A. J. Archer & Co

ELEGANT NEW GOODS.

A. J. ARCHER & CO.,

OPEN THIS MORNING

MANY NEW STYLES OF

DRESS GOODS,

INCLUDING

Rich and Heavy Black Silks,

Rich Plain Colored Silks.

☞ Our patrons are invited to examine these Goods. Prices are still advancing, and money will be saved by buying now.

Salem, February 11, tf

FLANNELS AND COTTONS.

A. J. ARCHER & CO.,

Have on hand a full supply of

BROWN SHEETINGS AND SHIRTINGS;

BLEACHED SHEETINGS & SHIRTINGS;

— Also —

GREY TWILLED FLANNELS;

WHITE FLANNELS.

— Also —

BLANKETS OF ALL SIZES,

which they offer at the LOWEST PRICES.

Salem, January 28—6w

Potter, Batchelder & Co.,

(Successors to M. Black)

DANVERS-PORT,

DEALERS IN

WOOD AND COAL

OF the various kinds usually kept in a retail yard. Constantly on hand

Franklin, Old Company's Lehigh,
Locust Mountain, Black Heath,
Red and White Ash.

Of all sizes, of the best quality, and at as low prices as can be bought elsewhere.

OFFICE---No. 6 Allen's Building.

Order Box at post office, South Danvers, and post office, Danvers.

G. W. POTTER,
J. Q. A. BACHELDER,
C. T. BATCHELDER. july 19—tf

Tapestry Brussels Carpets.

AT $1.00 TO $1 25 PER YARD.

AN invoice of 100 pieces we have placed in retail department at the above low prices. This is probably the cheapest lot of Carpets that will be offered in the market this season. As it is but little over half the present prices for these goods, our customers are reminded that they will last but a few days.

NEW ENGLAND CARPET CO.,
75 Hanover St., opp. American House,
BOSTON.

Fine Tapestry Carpets.

ROYAL VELVET MEDALLIONS AND BRUSSELS are selling at low prices by the NEW ENGLAND CARPET CO., No. 75 Hanover Street, Boston. One price and cash systems strictly adhered to.

Fine Carpets Cheap.

OVER 2000 pieces of Fine English Tapestry Brussels—bought before the rise—and will be cut up in quantities to suit our customers at much less than the market prices.

New England Carpet Company,
75 Hanover Street, Boston.

One price and cash system strictly adhered to.

Floor Oil Cloths.

OUR retail department is well stocked with the celebrated enameled goods, and selling at less than manufacturer's prices

New England Carpet Co., Boston.

One price and cash systems strictly adhered to.

Carpets.

ALTHOUGH prices have doubled to import or manufacture, we have a very complete stock purchased before the rise, and are able to supply our customers for the present at very much under the ruling rates.

NEW ENGLAND CARPET CO.,
75 Hanover Street, Boston.
Boston, April 22. 3w

Choice Spring Pigs for Sale.

THE subscriber offers for sale nice PIGS of Mackie Prince Albert and Chester County breeds, of which the Mackie took the First Premium at the last Cattle Show. Prices reasonable.

BYRON GOODALE,
Near Tapley's Brook.
South Danvers, April 22, 1863. tf

NEW BOOKS,

AT G. M. WHIPPLE & A. A. SMITH'S.

My Southern Friends, by Edmund Kirke author of Among the Pines;
Sybil Campbell; or, The Queen of the Isle, by Cousin May Carleton, illustrated by Darley;
Annual of Scientific Discovery, 1863;
Harper's Pictorial History of the Great Rebellion, Nos 1 and two;
The Invasion of the Crimea, by A W Kinglake, vol 1; My First Friendship—25 cents;
Bibliotheca Sacra—April; May Magazines.
Campaigns of 1862 and 1863, illustrating the principles of Strategy; by Emil Schalk, author of "Summary of the Art of War;"
Annette, by Alex Dumas;
Captain Darrell, by M. E. Braddon;
Statutes at Large, and Treaties of the U. States, 3d Session 37th Congress;
ap 29 Sign of the Five Golden Books.

Browning & Long.

BROWNING & LONG having finished opening their NEW GOODS, are now prepared to show a splendid assortment in their different departments. Having purchased our Spring Stock at least 20 per cent, less than the wholesale prices now ruling, we shall sell them accordingly low, and as heretofore, offer our goods as

FIRST CLASS, and at the LOWEST PRICES.

Among our NEW GOODS may be found:

POINTE DE GAUZE COLLARS,
THREAD LACE do,
MALTA LACE do,
GUIPURE LACE do,
LACE TRIMMED do,
SWISS do,
SWISS SETTS,
UNIQUE SCARFS,
BLACK LACE VEILS,
EMR'D BORDER VEILS,
REAL THREAD VEILS,
GRENADINE do,
GAUZE do,
MOURNING do,
TUCKED do,
INFANTS EMB'D CAPS,
BLACK AND BL'K AND WHITE BARBES.

Edgings and Insertings.

Cambrie, Muslin,
Thread, Malta,
Valenciennes, Guipure,
Smyrna, and Cotton.

A full assortment in the different widths.

Ladies' and Gent's Hdkfs.

A full assortment—in Plain, Col'd Bordered, Hemstitched and Mourning.

Also, a full assortment of Childrens' Hdkfs, in Hemstitched, Plain, and Col'd Bordered.

Corsets and Bodices.

A full assortment in White and Col'd—two qualities. Every pair warranted to fit and give satisfaction, or to be returned.

Skirts.

Our usual large variety in Ladies and Misses.

Also, just received the new GORE TRAIL SKIRT.

Hosiery and Gloves.

A full and splendid assortment, consisting of a 11 sizes, in

Ladies' Plain White Cotton Hose,
do do Unbleached do,
do do Mode do do,
do do Black do do.
Openwork—in Unbleached & White.
MISSES' COTTON HOSE, in white, unbleached, mode, brown, mixed, striped;
MEN'S HALE HOSE, in Grey or Blue mixed;
do do do Brown mix'd Striped Plain & White.
BOY'S HALE HOSE, in Grey, Brown, Blue, Striped & Plain White;
INFANT'S 1-2 and 3-4 Hose, in Cotton, a full assortment.

Kid Gloves.

A fresh assortment—In Black, White, Col'd and Embroidered.

LADIES' SILK AND LISLE GLOVES.

We have a handsome assortment, comprising all sizes and a great variety of styles, including ALEXANDRE SILK KID FINISH GLOVE, in small sizes.

MISSES' AND BOY'S GLOVES, in Plain, Mixed and Ruffled.

Also, a full line of WHITE SILK GLOVES 8 sizes.

Dress Buttons, Bugles, Gimps, Beltings, etc., a splendid assortment.

☞ Also, a full stock of Yankee Notions, which we shall sell at the Lowest Prices.

BROWNING & LONG

(Successors to J. MAYER,)

Essex St., 177 Essex St.,

April 15, 1863.

Valuable Real Estate.

The subscriber offers for sale the following parcels of Real Estate, delightfully situated on the highest ground on Mount Vernon street, in South Danvers.

That very pleasant Cottage House, occupied by the subscriber, on the above named street, being well calculated for two families, having eight rooms in the southerly end and four in the northerly end of the house. The lot on which this house is situated is about 75 feet square. Connected with it is a two story Barn, the upper story being used for a Paint Shop.—It is 19 by 24 feet on the ground.

Also, in rear of the above estate, a two story Dwelling House, for two families, which rents for about $78.

Also, a very eligible House Lot on Mount Vernon st, 75 feet square.

Also, on Fulton street, a one story house with four rooms, which is now rented for about $60.

Also, a House Lot on Fulton st., measuring 75 feet front by 75 feet deep.

The above estates will be sold all together or in separate lots, as may be desired by purchasers.

This property is offered at private sale until the last of May, when it will be sold at auction if not before disposed of. It affords an excellent opportunity for a good bargain, as it will be sold on reasonable terms, and at a low price, if applied for soon.

The land not occupied by buildings is well planted with fruit trees in good bearing condition.

For further information, apply to the subscriber, on the premises.

MOSES JEWETT.

So. Danvers, April 15, 1863.

To Let on Essex St, Salem,

The STORE and DWELLING HOUSE connected therewith, No. 250 Essex St. The store is neatly fitted up, is one of the best stands in the city, and admirably adapted for Millinery, Fancy, Dry Goods, or any light business.

The Dwelling part contains nine finished rooms, and is supplied with water, gas, etc.—all in good order and very convenient.

To a satisfactory tenant, the above will be let on reasonable terms. Apply at J. PERLEY'S Shoe Store, next door west. feb 25

Salem and South Danvers Railroad.

SUBSCRIBERS to the Capital Stock are hereby notified that the same is payable at the SALEM BANK, in four instalments, of 25 per cent. each, on the following days, viz.—

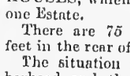
March 2; March 20; April 10; May 1.

Per order,

GEO. D. PHIPPEN, Treasurer.

mch 7 2m

VALUABLE REAL ESTATE.



THE Subscriber offers for sale on favorable terms,—or would exchange for a Farm,—his Estate on Wallis Street, near the Monumental Cemetary, consisting of THREE DWELLING HOUSES, which will be sold separately or as one Estate.

There are 75 feet of land in front, and 72 feet in the rear of the house.

The situation is pleasant, in a good neighborhood, and the houses are supplied with all the conveniences for immediate occupation. In ordinary times these tenements would rent for from 330 to 350 dollars.

The Subscriber, having made up his mind to dispose of the property, will sell it low, and it is well worth the attention of purchasers.

Apply to JOHN M'NEAL.

South Danvers, Dec. 10th, 1862. tf.

GLASS WARE.

CUT and Pressed Goblets; Tumblers; Dishes in great variety; just opened at
S C & E A SIMONDS', 32 Front st.
mch 25

☞ If you want to SAVE MONEY, in chasing Goods, go to COLMAN'S, No. 10 street, Salem. ap3

Auction Sales.

WILLIAM ARCHER,

Auctioneer, Real Estate and Stock Brok 34 Front Street.

Real Estate, Bank, Railroad and Manufact Stock bought and sold on Commission

Choice Trees at Auction.

On SATURDAY NEXT, at 12 o'cloc will be sold at No. 34 Front Street:

100 Choice DWARF PEAR TRE from 2 to 5 years from the bud taining of Vicar of Winkfield, Louise de Jersey, Duchess of Angouleme, etc. trees will be taken from a Garden in th cinity on the morning of the sale, and good bearing condition.

Also a few large Flemish Beauties 10 years from the bud on Standard Roots, rauted in good bearing condition a Estate in South Danvers.

On TUESDAY, May 5, at 11 o'clock A will be sold on the premises:

A two-story dwelling h with the Land under and joining, situated on Mount non street, South Danvers, Harmony Grove Cemetery.

The House is nearly new, is very pleas located, and contains ten finished rooms.

The land measures about 80 feet on Mt non St, by about 150 feet deep.

This estate is worthy of the attention of person desiring a pleasant location, or wi to purchase for an investment, as with th vival of business real estate in this vi must increase in value. ap

ON SATURDAY NEXT, at 9 1-2 o'c will be sold at No. 34 Front street:

The usual quantity of new and second House Furniture: Chairs, Tables, Bedst Feather Beds, Carpets, Mattresses, Piano F

CROCKERY: The balance of an invoic Crockery and Glass Ware.

HOUSE PAPER: 300 Bolls House Paper.

DRY GOODS: Prints, Delaines, Shawls, ery, &c.

At 12 o'clock.—A quantity of Choice Trees:—Pears, Cherries, Peaches, &c.

Also—A few large Pear trees in Stan Roots, 10 or 12 years from the bud. Warra

Also—A variety of Currants, Raspber Blackberries, Wigelias, Roses, Bignonias, G vines, Buckthorn. ap 2

D. P. GROSVENOR, Jr.,

Druggist and Apotheca

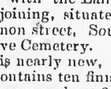
33 MAIN STREET.

Dealer in Drugs, Medicines, Chemicals, Stuffs, and Popular Proprietary Medicines.

Personal attention to Physicians' Pres tious.

South Danvers, May 29, 1861.

GEO. E. MEACOM



Dealer in

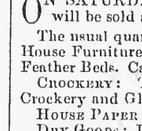
DRUGS & MEDICINES,

Fancy & Toilet Articles, &

126 · · MAIN ST. · · 126

Nearly opposite Danvers Bank, So. Danve

T. A. SWEETSER



Druggist & Apothec

37 Main St., So. Danve

DEALER IN

Drugs, Medicines, Chemi Foreign Leeches, Shake Herbs, Dye Stuffs, Gums, Acids, Sponges, Shoul der Braces, Trusses, and Genuine Patent Medici

Also, Imported Cigars of choice brands, Perfu Toilet Articles and Stationery.

Physicians' Prescriptions carefully prepared by perienced persons.

37 MAIN STREET.

GRACE'S CELEBRATED SALVE

A SURE RELIEF FOR THE SUFFERE

This Salve is a vegetable preparation, inven ed in the 17th century, by Dr. WM. GRAC surgeon in King James's army. Through i ageuey he cured thousands of most serious sor and wounds that baffled the skill of the mo eminent physicians of his day, and was regarde by all who knew him as a public benefactor.

Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Burns.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Scalds.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Flesh Wounds.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Corns.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Felons.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Frozen Limbs.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Wens.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Callouses.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Salt Rheum.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Chilblains.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Sore Breast.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Sore Lips.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Erysipelas Sores
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Abscesses.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Ulcers.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Chapped Hands.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Ringworms.

And from Sores and Wounds of the most serious nature down to a common Pimple. It eradicates Pimples from the face, and beautifies the skin. There is no preparation before the public that can equal this Salve in prompt and energetic action for the speedy cure of external diseases, as those who have tried its virtues testify. Soldiers, Sailors, and Fishermen, will find this Salve their best friend.

It has none of the irritating, heating properties of other remedies, but cools, cleanses, and heals the most serious Sores and Wounds. Every family, and especially those containing children, should keep a box on hand in case of accident, for it will save them much trouble, suffering, and money. All it wants is a fair trial to cure old and inveterate Sores.

MANUFACTURED BY

WILLIAM GRACE.

AMESBURY, MASS.

PRICE 25 CENTS PER BOX.

Each box has the above cut and the fac-simile of the proprietor's signature attached to it, which is duly copyrighted.

Geo. C. Goodwin & Co., 11 and 12 Marshall street, Weeks & Potter, 170 Washington street, and M. S. Burr & Co., 26 Tremont street, Boston, Wholesale Agents.

For sale by

The Wizard.

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 29, 1863.

To Correspondents.—We are obliged to defer the publication of several communications, some of which may appear next week.

We have received a rejoinder to our statement in regard to the case in the Holten High School, by which we find that although the facts are mainly admitted, the committee appear to have acted under a rule previously adopted, and which they saw no occasion to rescind to meet a special case.

We have also received a communication from a writer signing himself "Republican," in answer to "Auditor," which will appear next week. Lieut. Hanson has favored us with a correspondence from the army, but too late for this issue.

NATIONAL FAST.

To-morrow is the day appointed by the President by his proclamation (which has been promulgated by the Governor,) as a day of fasting and humiliation in view of the evils suffered by the nation in this civil war.

It will probably be more generally observed than was the Annual State Fast, and it will be an occasion to bring forth from the clergy of all denominations sentiments of patriotism as well as petitions for Divine aid in this season of national calamity.

At the South Church, services will commence at 11 o'clock. Rev. Mr. Barber is expected to preach. He will also preach in the evening, repeating his discourse of the last Annual State Fast.

There will be no services at the Unitarian Church.

Service will be held at the Universalist Church in the evening. Rev. Mr. Safford will preach on "God's Providence in the World."

At the Baptist there will be a prayer meeting in the morning.

At the Methodist, there will be a prayer meeting morning and evening, and a sermon in the afternoon. These services will be held at the usual hours as on the Sabbath.

The Post Office will be closed during the day, except from 9 to 11 o'clock A M.

MENTAL EXERCISE.

Physical exercise is essential to health of body, but this is not all that is required to insure perfect health. By observation and comparison it has been found that the exercise of the mental powers has much to do with health and longevity. Philosophers and deep thinking statesmen are the longest livers, as compared with other occupations and professions. Athletic exercises should be practiced, but the exercise of the brain should not be omitted. Both should go together, or rather, they should alternate. There is little doubt that hard thinking on high themes is healthful, even if the mental results arrived at are erroneous. To have a sound mind in a sound body, there should be activity of the mental as well as physical organs. The mind may be debauched by feeding exclusively on the light trash which is constantly teeming from the press and continually forcing itself upon our notice. There is nothing healthy about it. While it enervates the mind it also weakens the physical powers. Much that is now written requires no expenditure of brain in the reader or the writer. It owes its transient charm to some trick or mannerism of the author and not to vigorous thought. The many attempts of educationists to teach youth without subjecting them to the trouble of thought will always prove futile to gain the end sought.

We suppose it is the experience of many that the reading of overwrought tales and exciting adventures, leaves a physical as well as mental lassitude, while the same time expended on a book requiring vigorous exercise of the mental faculties gives a stronger animal life.

We are no advocate of dullness. We would not exclude from our reading table the works of really good writers because their writings are fictitious. Our Saviour himself taught in parables. Many truthful lessons may be learned from the stories of Dickens and the whims of Hood. It is because they were thoughtful men, and we cannot but imbibe from their works thoughtful suggestions. So it is with the old essayists. The leading wits of Queen Ann's time were thinking men, and this is the reason their works live. Yet, attractive and sprightly as these are, the mind requires stronger aliment. It requires something more like work to afford it proper exercise. The advocates of muscular Christianity make a fatal error when they omit from their system the hearty and persevering efforts demanded in the thoughtful examination of higher subjects. It is because man is constituted different from the brute creation that his exercise must be of a different and higher kind than theirs.

Gen. Granville M. Dodge.—A dispatch from Memphis from Gen. Hurlbut, reports that Gen. Dodge, in command at Corinth, about April 20, attacked the enemy and drove them several miles, himself losing 100 killed and wounded. Rebel loss unknown.

New Black Lace Veils—at PEABODY'S.

PEABODY SCHOOL AND THE WAR.

It is a fact worthy of record that so many, formerly connected with the High School, have gone into the military and naval service of the country. We will not attempt to enumerate them all but only such as occur to us from recollection. At the head of the list we place Mr. Hinkley, the first, and Mr. Thompson the last permanent teacher of the school—Mr. Hinkley serving on board the U. S. frigate Constellation, as Captain's Clerk, and Mr. Thompson as Lieutenant in Capt. Daniels' company, at Newbern.

George A. Osborn,
Samuel Brown,
Frank W. Taggard,
C. H. Peaslee,
Horace Poole,
Albert F. Upton,
M. A. Shackley,
John L. Waterman,
Chas H. Brooks,
C. A. Browne,
Chas. L. Manning,
Alonzo P. Rhodes,
Frank Farnham,
Amos Osborn, 3d.,
F. A. Pemberton,
G. C. Teel,
John H. Manning,
Albert Tufts,
Jos. E. Hodgkins,
Wm. H. Shove,
John A. Messer,
Abram H. Bond,
Harrison Whittemore,
Geo. H Little,
E. W. M'Kay,
B. N. Moore,
Dr. Geo. S. Osborne,
Levi Preston, Jr.,
J. H. Osgood,
Leverett, Poor,
Charles Trask,
Geo. H. Poor.

Our attention was called to this subject by a passage in the School Report of the present year. It is from that part of the Report relating to the High School, and was prepared by the Chairman, Thomas M. Stimpson, Esq. The facts are so felicitously stated that we could not forbear stealing the extract from the proof sheets and giving it to our readers in anticipation of the publication of the entire Report:

"It gives us great pleasure to acknowledge the valuable services rendered by Mr. Thompson—now absent in the performance of military duty—during the time that he has been connected with the school. Possessed in no small degree of many of the natural qualities of a good teacher, he brought to his task experience, enthusiasm and acquirements such as could not fail of success, even under less favorable auspices than greeted him here. As a Committee, having in view the best interests of the school, we regretted that he felt called upon to sever his relations to it in the midst of the year. But as citizens, we fully appreciated the motives which induced him to abandon a situation every way congenial to his tastes, and obey the call of his country in the hour of her utmost need. It was therefore voted to supply his place during his absence only, leaving it open to him on his return. He was followed into the service by two members of his Senior class, Alphonzo P. Rhodes, and Charles L. Manning.

It may seem a departure from the strict line of our duty, yet we think no generous mind will deem it quite out of place, if we pause for a moment, and, taking our stand here upon the topmost round of the ladder in the Common School system of Massachusetts, contemplate from that point of view the heroism which impelled these and such as these, occupying so close a relation to that system in its highest grade, to risk all that they hold dear, even life itself, to uphold in their purity those Republican institutions which they have here been educated to revere. As we recall the names of those who, having once occupied seats in the school, now have various rank on the Roll of Honor, the list becomes too long for insertion. One name we cannot omit to mention, the lamented Samuel Brown, himself a teacher, who yielded up his life in the morning of manhood while gallantly leading his company on the bloody field of Antietam. Surely the Age of Chivalry is not yet extinct, but only elevated and purified, by the Common School, when its teachers and pupils trained to the arts of peace, will volunteer to make such sacrifices, not so much for themselves as for posterity."

Court of Insolvency.—The case of Daniel F. Cate, whose name some of our readers may possibly have seen mentioned in our paper heretofore, came before this court on Monday last. Our reporter says he observed a considerable delegation from South Danvers, who had in their pockets claims against the aforesaid Cate for sundry sums of money and miscellaneous goods and chattels, which Daniel F. Cate aforesaid had borrowed and forgotten to return.

No progress was made in the case, as, for good reasons, not understood by our reporter, the case was postponed till to-day at 10 o'clock, when an assignee will probably be chosen, or appointed.

War Matters.—The late war news is that the rebels are increasing their forces on Fredericksburg Heights; that affairs are quiet on the Upper Rappahannock, and the mud is disappearing; that traitors and spies have been arrested in our War Department! and that a submarine telegraph across the Rappahannock, connecting the two hostile camps, serving the rebels daily with very useful information, has been discovered, and the operators (on this side) arrested; that a rebel attack on Cape Girardeau, in Missouri, resulted in their complete repulse, with great loss; that the rebel General Bragg has been reinforced by 16,000 men from Vicksburg; also a startling rumor that Bragg has been killed by Gen. Breckinridge; that Gen. Banks is still "marching along," winning victories, capturing prisoners, and destroying immense quantities of munitions of war.

Superior Court.—The case of Todd vs. Rowley, reported in our last, resulted in a verdict for the defendant. Another case, against the same town, for injury received by reason of defect in the highway, is now on trial.

On Monday, Horace Lummus Davis of Lynn, was arraigned for the murder of Nathan Breed. Our readers will remember the circumstances of this murder as detailed in the papers of last winter. The defendant is a boy of seventeen. To the indictment he pleaded in a firm voice, and with great assurance of expression, "Not guilty." The court appointed as counsel for the defendant, Wm. D. Northend and Sidney C. Bancroft, Esqrs. This case is set down for hearing before the Full Bench on the 13th of May next.

The Horse Railroad.—Our readers will be gratified to learn that there is a sure prospect of the speedy completion of this enterprise. We have it from a gentleman of veracity, who had it from another, who told him that another man said that he had it from an "intelligent contraband," that the laying of the rails would commence as soon as it was begun.

The people of Salem are again exorcised about the location of the road, and whether two tracks take up more room in the street than only one. We go for a double track. It is not the track which obstructs the public travel, it is only when and where the cars are on them that private teams are required to turn aside.

Correction.—In our last we inadvertently stated that our townsman, Capt. M'Kay, was appointed Chief Executive Officer at the Washington Navy Yard. It was at the Pensacola Navy Yard, a much more responsible position.

In our last we also stated that Mr. Roberts, of Co. B, 17th Regt., expected promotion. The fact is, he has already been promoted to a lieutenancy in Co. G. He has received another wound and we believe he is in hospital. His wound was in his arm, and the limb will be permanently shortened.

Gen. Banks' Victory.—At last we have a real victory to our arms, and Gen. Banks is the victor. Our flags were flying all day Monday, and everybody were on the qui vive to know the reason. One of our venerable patriots was at work in his garden as his eye caught the sight of the old banner, and left his fork in the soil, as he could not withdraw it until he found out the cause. This is equal to leaving the "plow in the furrow."

Gardening.—We believe our Horticultural Society have a Committee on Gardens. We respectfully invite them to call and examine our garden in rear of the post office. It is profusely manured with coal ashes and cinders, and is well planted with clams, brick bats and old bottles. When they come up we shall send samples to the annual show.

Returned Soldiers.—We notice that Mr. Elbridge Hildreth, of the 23d Mass., and A. Carleton, of the 5th, have returned home. We are sorry to state that Mr. Hildreth has suffered severely from rheumatism.

Mr. Henry P. Caverly has also returnhome on a short furlough to recruit his health.

Bad Accident.—On Friday morning last Mr. C. C. Farwell (of the firm of Farwell & Co., shoe manufacturers), cut off one of his fingers while at work with a sole leather cutting machine. A few days ago he severed the end of the same finger by the same machine.

Accident.—We regret to learn that Lieut. Albert F. Upton, Quartermaster of the 35th Massachusetts Regiment, was thrown from his horse in Winchester, Kentucky, April 20th, fracturing his right arm.

Sale of Trees.—A capital chance for those interested in raising their own fruit, is presented in our advertising columns to-day, under the head of 'Auction Sales.'

Real Estate Sale.—Wm. Archer jr. advertises for sale, at auction, some real estate, situated on Mt. Vernon street, South Danvers.

Fair in Lawrence.—On Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of this week the citizens of Lawrence will hold a grand fair for the benefit of the U. S. Sanitary Commission, at City Hall. Besides the usual attractions of such occasions, several novel and very interesting features will be added, including a fish pond, shooting gallery, archery, "Old Folks," and an entertainment by the boys of the House of the Angel Guardian.

This fair has more than the usual attractions and the object commends it to all. The Eastern Railroad, with a wise and commendable liberality, has put tickets over the Essex Road at half price and many of our citizens will be glad to avail themselves of the opportunity to visit Lawrence and this grand entertainment.

☞ From Rebel reports we hear of the final destruction of the Ram Queen of the West. The rebels had got her in first rate trim and run her down from Red River through the Atchafalaya into Grand Lake. Here she was found by the Banks Expedition which is now exploring the Bayou Teche region; she had got aground and was attacked by our gunboat Calhoun, which had the good fortune to throw a shell into her and blow her up. One hundred and six Rebel prisoners, including seven commissioned officers, were captured. Among the officers is Captain Turner, the commander of the rebel fleet. At the same time the rebels, being hard pressed, voluntarily burnt their gunboat Diana.

WAR CORRESPONDENCE.

Camp Peirson, Newbern, April 14th, 1863.

Mr. Editor,—Having a leisure hour, this forenoon, I will employ it in writing you a brief history of the events of the last two weeks. All the other regiments of our brigade had been sent from Newbern to garrison Plymouth and we for several days expected orders to depart for the same place, but when it was finally decided that we were not to break camp here, we supposed that the remainder of our term of service would be comparatively inactive, unless the rebels should attack the city in large force, of which there seemed to be but little probability. But news soon reached us of the gathering of large bodies of rebel forces about Washington, N. C., and of the planting of formidable batteries on the Pamlico River, cutting off all communication with that city, by water, and we heard, daily, heavy firing in that direction. At last, about 5 o'clock P. M., April 3d, we received orders to cook, immediately, three days' rations and report, early on the morning of the fourth, on board the transport Northerner. At six in the morning, the regimental line was formed, and we marched through the city and over the railroad bridge which crosses the Trent River to the wharf near Fort Spinola, where the Northerner was anchored. Embarkation was soon safely effected by our regiment and the 101st Pennsylvania, which accompanied us on the expedition. This regiment formerly belonged to Carey's Division and served through the Peninsula campaign last Summer, where it suffered severely from the shots of the enemy and disease. They entertained us during the somewhat dull and tedious voyage, by accounts of what they saw, and felt, and did in that remarkable but abortive campaign. Pamlico Sound, during the voyage, was very rough, a high, cold, Northeast wind prevailing. In consequence many of the officers and men were seasick, but the sickness left them as soon as we entered the Pamlico River. Near its mouth we anchored for the night and early in the morning moved up the river, until we came in sight of a rebel battery planted on an elevation of the right bank of the river. Here we again anchored and remained until night.

We had on board our transport, besides troops, a large supply of ammunition and most of the day was spent in transferring this to other boats. Occasionally, during the day, a few rebels were seen on the shore and a few shots were fired at them from the gunboats, and about noon a white flag seen waving on the left bank of the river, and a boat having been sent ashore returned, bringing two Southerners, who were afraid of being impressed into the rebel service. One of them had served some time with the rebels, but had been discharged on account of a broken arm. But as it had been restored to its former strength and use, he feared the rebels would, if they found him, impress him again into their service. He reported 2700 rebels on the left bank of the river, and 20,000 on the right bank, in the rear of the rebel batteries there stationed. I have no means of ascertaining whether these estimates were accurate or not; subsequent events have shown, however, that the rebels had, and still have, a very large force on the right bank of the river.

About four o'clock the steamer Hunchback arrived from Newbern, and, steaming up to within two miles of the battery, anchored for about two hours and then opened on the battery with a 100 pound Parrott gun. The shell burst before it reached the fort. Then we saw a flash from the fort, and a solid shot struck the water near the bows of the Hunchback. Another shot from the Hunchback, and another, and the shells burst directly over the batteries. The scene was one of surpassing beauty. The river was perfectly still, as clear and bright as a molten mirror. The sun had just set in a sea of gold, and Venus, surrounded by a crimson halo, stood directly over the fort upon which every eye was fixed. The tall, dark pines which lined each shore afforded a striking, yet pleasing contrast to the bright, sparkling waters beneath and the golden clouds above. From each shell, as it burst, there escaped a perfect ring of smoke which floated towards the Southwest unbroken and visible for a long time. The Hunchback continued the bombardment for an hour, and received in reply from the fort but three shots, none of which took effect. Darkness soon settled over river, forest and fort, and we retired to the cabin, expecting to land in the morning and assist in capturing the battery, but what was our surprise in the morning to learn that we were to return immediately to Newbern and make an attempt to reach Washington from that place by land. We arrived in Newbern Tuesday morning, April 7th, and soon received orders to prepare for an overland expedition to Washington, N. C.

At two o'clock Wednesday morning we formed regimental line and marched through the city to the river, where we embarked on board a transport which conveyed us across the river and landed us on the opposite side near Fort Anderson, where the rebels recently made an attack. The wagons and artillery had to be brought across after we landed, so that we did not begin our march until two o'clock in the afternoon. The entire force comprised 15 regiments—5 Massachusetts, 3 New York and 7 Pennsylvania—numbering in all about 5000 men. There were besides eighteen pieces of artillery and two hundred and fifty cavalry. We marched that afternoon and evening eleven or twelve miles until about 9 o'clock in the evening, when we encamped in the woods at a fork of the roads, one of which runs in an Easterly direction, the other due North. Here, as usual, we built large fires, cooked, each man, his dipper of coffee, and then, spreading our blankets, "turned in" and slept soundly until morning. I verily believe the rebels might have carried me off in the night, without waking me, so soundly did I sleep. But all avenues of approach were strictly guarded by the artillery, and pickets were so stationed that no rebel could come near the camp without our receiving due warning.

The advance portion of the column encamped five miles ahead on the road which led to the North. During the night, Gen. Spinola, who commanded the expedition, learned that the rebels were strongly posted on that road, near a stream called Swift's Creek, and consequently he concluded to attempt to reach Washington by the other road. We accordingly started on the Easterly road, and the advance came in ahead of us by a cross road which connected the two main roads to Washington. Nothing of importance occurred till about three o'clock P. M., when the cavalry captured a prisoner and took him to the rear. He was a fine looking fellow—the best looking Southerner I have seen since we came to North Carolina. He was not dressed in soldiers' clothes and said that he lived near the place where he was taken. But when questioned by the commanding General, he refused to give any information concerning the rebels in the vicinity. About half past three firing was heard in front. (Our position on this march was near the centre of the column.) As we slowly advanced, the firing became more brisk, and we soon came to a halt, expecting every moment to be ordered up to support the batteries which had engaged the rebel forces strongly posted on the opposite side of a stream called Blount's Creek, having destroyed the bridge by which it was crossed. The nature of the ground was such that we could not flank them, and it was impossible for us to bring much of our artillery to bear upon them. Several men were already wounded, including Capt. Belger of the Rhode Island Battery and Lieut. Roberts of Salem, belonging to the Mass. 17th Regiment. The latter was wounded in the arm and will probably lose the use of it. He was wounded at Goldsboro, in the face, and had just recovered from his wound and been promoted to Second Lieutenant.

Finding the enemy so strongly posted, and fearing that the force on the North road might attack us in the rear, Gen. Spinola ordered a retreat, which was accomplished in good order, the enemy not following us, and we encamped near the place where we encamped the previous night. After a good night's rest we returned slowly to Newbern, and, recrossing the river, slept the third night in camp. Though we marched only 45 miles the men seemed to be more "used up" than they were after their return from the Goldsboro' or Tarboro' expeditions. They don't seem so well able to endure the hardships of a march now as when they first came here. Perhaps the Spring weather is enervating.

If we reach Washington to relieve Gen. Foster, who is there besieged, we must have a larger force in this department.

The Forty-third Regiment has gone up Pamlico River with the intention of running the blockade, and we are anxiously waiting to hear from it.

W. L. Thompson.

Personal Property for Sale.—There will be a sale of personal property to-day, in rear of the residence of the late Emma Dodge, on Main St. See advertisement.

The Fate of a Rebel Spy.—A few days ago a sentry on duty at Maj. Gen. Stanley's headquarters shot a rebel spy as he was endeavoring to escape through our lines near Franklin, Tenn. The spy was first challenged, and, having twice disregarded the order to "halt," the sentinel took deliberate aim and killed the unhappy victim at the first shot. He was recognized as an individual who had been lurking around the camp for several weeks, in the vocation of a songster, reciting patriotic airs for the soldiers, and receiving small sums of money for his trouble. He was detected, arrested and thrown into prison, whence he made his escape and was going out of the lines when he was shot. After his death, his body was searched by the guards. Inside his boots, and between his feet and stockings, were found skillfully drawn plans of the Federal fortifications, the strength of their armament, and correct details of the organization of this army, number of forces, &c. Had this spy succeeded in eluding our sentries, the rebel commander would have been in possession of invaluable information, on which he could have based his plan of operations.

Our Boston Agent.—The Marblehead Mirror, (which by the way is a most excellent paper) thus alludes to "Propeller" (Mr. Thos. Davis,) of 23 Cornhill, Boston, Mass. The editor has evidently been steaming around Boston on his own hook,—as Marblehead men generally do—but finally had to drop in on the "Propeller" man. The Marbleheadman did well to call on honest "Tom Davis," for what he don't know about Boston and its suburbs, isn't worth knowing. Here is the paragraph:

"After running round to our satisfaction, Propeller and ourself hauled up, and chatted about many things, principally about newspaper matters. Propeller knows all about such things, being agent for some of the principal country papers all over the Commonwealth,—in this county, for the Gloucester Advertiser, the Lynn Reporter, the South Danvers Wizard, and the Marblehead Mirror. May his boiler never "burst," but he continue to steam round, gathering freight for himself and others, and be a veritable ironclad to all his enemies, if any he has, which we doubt."—N. Y. Traveler.

☞ The taking of a fortified city, says the Albany Journal, is the most difficult of all the achievements of war. The greatest conquerors of history have been compelled to spend months and years in reducing a town of a few thousand inhabitants. Gibralter is a proverb of impregnability. It took the allies sixteen months to reduce Sebastopol. The fleets and armies of Victor Emanuel battered the walls of Gaeta for five years after they found admission. An English fleet set out to capture Cronstadt, and found the obstacles so insuperable that they returned without firing a gun. But Sebastopol, and Gaeta, and Cronstadt never had such artillery as Charleston; and yet we are indignant because Admiral Du Pont did not capture it in an afternoon! Let us try and be reasonable.—There is no doubt that it is much more expensive for the rebels to defend Charleston than for the Union fleet to menace it, thus compelling the rebels to keep up their costly armament.

The Peace Party.—There never was a war in which there was not a Peace party. Some men want peace on any terms. Some want to aid the enemy in their designs, and others are discouraged about success. In the revolution and in 1812-15, there were large Peace parties. But, the Peace party of the revolution terminated in an extensive emigration to Nova Scotia and England. The Peace party of 1812-15, culminated in the Hartford Convention, and the subsequent exit of all its leaders from public trust and confidence. If the present Peace party carry out its designs, the people will give them rewards equally striking and instructive.

From North Carolina.—Important news has been received from Newbern, N. C. to the 18th instant. The rebels had retreated from their position before Little Washington, and abandoned all their batteries on the Tar River; and the steamer Escort, which ran past the batteries with General Foster on board, has returned to Little Washington without any hindrance by the rebels. Official accounts confirm the news of the capture of the rebel battery at West Branch on the Nansemond River, consisting of five pieces of cannon, and one hundred and sixty men.

Another Anglo-Confederate Steamer.—A steamer named the Japan, alias Virginia, intended for the rebel service, has escaped from the port of Greenock, Scotland, and the vigilance of the government officials, authorized to detain her until an investigation of her destination had been made. She is said to have a crew of one hundred men, and a large armament on board, and will probably soon be heard from to the detriment of our ship owners, by her acts of destruction on the high seas.

A Woman's Arm.—Who has not felt the beauty of a woman's arm—the unspeakable suggestions of tenderness that lie in the dimpled elbow, and all the varied gently-lessening curves down to the delicate wrists, with its tiniest, almost imperceptible nicks in the firm softness. A woman's arm touched the soul of a great sculptor 2,000 years ago, so that he wrought an image of it for the Parthenon, which moves us still as it clasps, lovingly, the time-worn marble or a headless trunk.

☞ The distress in Ireland from want of employment and consequent poverty, is fast coming up to what it was in the time of famine and fever. Not less than 100,000 people in the north of Ireland are thrown out of employment, through the influence of the Southern rebellion, and most of them are on the borders of starvation.

☞ One thousand contrabands have been sent to Island No. 10, in the Mississippi to cultivate the farms on that island for the Government.

☞ The following is an a letter from one of our to sistant Surgeon in the 1st M Cavalry, now on the move Warrenton, Va., April 19th

"There was a little tr vicinity of our last camp, o seems that one of our offi member of the 3d Virgini house while on picket to water;—while there, a rel of the Black Horse Cavalry to be hanging around us, five men and demanded of surrender, which he refus attempted to draw his pist the rebel fired two shots but the first shot of our the rebel down and killed His name was Lee, a re General, so said. The firi some of our pickets, and th fled."

The Horse Railroad was Mayor and Aldermen, on Sat with a single track on the sou street, to return through Brov Washington streets. There w track from the Salem line to t Boston street, and also from th ton and Essex streets to Sumn single track through Boston s pliance with the wishes of th street, which is much travelle tanners' teams.—Gaz.

☞ Russia seems to be in part of her vast domains. Th iting the shores of the river V Kazan, together with the in surrounding districts, have against the Russian Governme ed that the troops in these cou cient to put down the revolt.

☞ The amount of money at the Dead Letter Office duri over $80,000, being an exces the amount of the previous yea was supposed to be principally number of soldiers letters, wh rection and other causes, could

☞ James P. Barbour, of is spoken of as a candidate for district. In his speech at Le "No peace with a piece of cou must be sustained; armed trea bayonets and bullets; unarme ballots."

☞ They are making out serters from the whole army, the President's proclamation, that the list is 32 feet long,— ments yet to hear from.

☞ The returns of the vote towns of this State on the 6 question of repealing the tw ment have been counted, and ity of 3953 for repeal.

Sun Umbrellas—lowest BODY'S.

Carpets.—Those wanting decorate their dwellings with read the advertisement in New England Carpet Co.

Best Corsets $1 35 to close-

A Soldier's Opinion.—M a recently returned soldier, h in lecturing upon the war in he proposes delivering an Danvers, on Sunday evening, learn that he has spoken in L head with great success to cro

Continental Monthly.—popular magazine for May he freighted with its usual varie The "Winter in Camp" is lively pictures of military read. This number is uncom litical and war articles peeu the times. Mr. Wilkinson he

New Styles Gloves—at PE

Stonington Route.—Mr. of our citizens have occasion of New York, both for busin will you allow me to say a way of recommending the S being one of the best mana city. The cars have all the ments, both for comfort and tor Wheeler attends personal of his passengers. No safe Long Island Sound than the and Commonwealth, and th for the safety and comforts complete in every particular.

New Style Skirts—at PEA

☞ Our readers will reme the last week of the Grand C pany at the Boston Theatre. fail to see them.

At the Howard, Mr. and pear this week, and will clos shall's lease of this place. ceeded by Henry Willard, well fits him for the place.

New Ribbons and Fl BODY'S.

Peabody Inst

ANNUAL ME

The members elect of the brary Committee of the P for the present year, are here the Annual Meeting of the C held on Monday Evening n tees Room, at 7 1-2 o'clock punctual attendance is desire

South Danvers, April 29, 1

Worsted Braids, the best P. PEABODY'S.

Best Glace Spool Cottons BODY'S.

THE SOUTH DANVERS WIZARD

Is published every WEDNESDAY, at Allen's Building, South Danvers Square. by

CHARLES D. HOWARD, Proprietor.
FITCH POOLE, Editor.

TERMS—Two Dollars a year.

ADVERTISEMENTS inserted at reasonable rates.

How to Make $5.00 a Day,

When all other Efforts have Failed.

HOOD & CO., 166 Broadway, New York, have nat published ONE HUNDRED VALUABLE SECRETS, possessing them, any one, male or female, can easily make $5 a day, without capital, in any city or village. Every one should possess these secrets, for they are worth $500 to any single or married person. Some of these Secrets have been sold for $20 each. One alone cost us $250 for the right to publish it. When you once own them you will never part with them for money. Several persons are now making $120 per month by these Secrets alone. By them any person may make money easily and rapidly. We send one Book of Secrets for 25 cents, two copies, 40 cents, club of three for 50 cts., club of four 65 cts. club of five 75 cts., club of eight copies, $1 Send Government money.

New York, Feb 18, 1863. *3m

TO CONSUMPTIVES.

THE ADVERTISER HAVING BEEN RESTORED to health in a few weeks, by a very simple remedy, after having suffered several years with a severe lung affection, and that dread disease, Consumption—is anxious to make known to his fellow-sufferers the means of cure.

To all who desire it, he will send a copy of the prescription used (free of charge,) with the directions for preparing and using the same, which they will find a SURE CURE for CONSUMPTION, ASTHMA, BRONCHITIS, &c. The only object of the advertiser in sending the Prescription is to benefit the afflicted, and spread information which he conceives to be invaluable, and he hopes every sufferer will try his remedy as it will cost them nothing, and may prove a blessing.

Rev. EDWARD A. WILSON, Williamsburgh,
March, 18, 3m Kings County, New York.

New Jersey Lands for Sale,

— ALSO —

GARDEN OR FRUIT FARMS,

Suitable for Grapes, Peaches, Pears, Raspberries, Strawberries, Blackberries, Currants, &c., of 1, 2½, 5, 10 or 20 acres each, at the following prices for the present, viz: 20 acres for $200, 10 acres for $110, 5 acres for $60, 2½ acres for $40, 1 acre for $20. Payable by one dollar a week.

Also, good Cranberry lands, and village lots in CHETWOOD 25 by 100 feet, at $10 each, payable by one dollar a week. The above land and farms are situated at Chetwood, Washington Township, Burlington, New Jersey. For further information, apply with a P. O. Stamp, for a circular, to

B. FRANKLIN CLARK,
feb 18, 1863 No. 90 Cedar St, New York, N. Y.

EDITOR OF WIZARD—Dear Sir: With your permission I wish to say to the readers of your paper that I will send by return mail to all who wish it, (free) a Recipe, with full directions for making and using a simple Vegetable Balm, that will effectually remove, in 10 days, Pimples, Blotches, Tan, Freckles and all Impurities of the Skin, leaving the same soft, clear, smooth and beautiful.

I will also mail free to those having Bald Heads or Bare Faces, simple directions and information that will enable them to start a full growth of Luxurient Hair, Whiskers, or a Moustache, in less than 30 days. All applications answered by return mail without charge. Respectfully yours.

THOS. F. CHAPMAN, Chemist,
March 18 2m No. 631 Broadway, New York.

SPRING GOODS!

Entirely New Stock of

CLOTHING.

GEO. H. LANE,

CLOTHIER,

Nos. 31 and 32 Dock Square,

BOSTON,

IS now ready to show to his customers and the public an ELEGANT STOCK OF CLOTHING for MEN'S and BOYS' wear, expressly designed by himself, manufactured on the premises for the present season in all those new and choice selections of fabrics for which Lane's establishment has become celebrated. The stock consists in part of

SPRING OVERCOATS,
FROCK COATS,
BUSINESS COATS

And ONE HUNDRED CHOICE

NEW STYLES OF PANTALOONS,

Suitable for Dress, Promenade or Business Occasions.

Mr. LANE having made Large Purchases by Contract before the Unprecedented and General Advance in Prices, has it in his power to give

REAL BARGAINS,

Acting on the principal that

"Quick Sales and Small Profits"

Are the best rules to guide the merchant.

JUVENILE ATTIRE.

Boys' Entire Suits, as

SCHOOL SUITS,
DRESS SUITS,
JACKET SUITS,
SACK SUITS, &C.

All of the newest fabrics and best workmanship.

A year since Mr. Lane advised the public that he had added a Boys' Department, and he has now the satisfaction to announce that he has secured the services of Mr. C. H. Boynton, (formerly with J. WALTER READ) to superintend it; and indeed, to make the entire establishment the COMPLETEST IN NEW ENGLAND, the Proprietor has spared no pains to secure the services of REAL ARTISTS in the Cutting Room, and accomplished, obliging, and experienced Salesman in the Show Room; and trusts by strict personal attention, and MODERATE CHARGES, to merit the support of the community.

GEO. H. LANE,

31 AND 32 DOCK SQUARE,
April 1—3m BOSTON.

D. W. BOWDOIN,
—ARTIST IN—
PHOTOGRAPHIC PICTURES.

Rooms No. 175 Essex st, Salem, [Downing's Block]

Portraits, Miniatures, and Views, by the Ambrotype, Daguerreotype, Photograph and Stereoscope process—finished in India Ink, Oil and Water colors.

☞ Particular attention paid to restoring old Daguerreotypes, and other pictures—and making enlarged copies, highly finished. may

Cards.

WILLIAM C. CHOATE,
Attorney and Counsellor at Law,
251 Essex St., Salem.
Salem, August 6, 1862. tf

THOMAS M. STIMPSON,
Attorney and Counsellor at Law,
194 ESSEX STREET, SALEM.
Residence Lowell street, South Danvers.

B. C. PERKINS,
Attorney and Counsellor at Law,
South Danvers—Office in Allen's Building.

JOHN W. PROCTOR,
Counsellor at Law,
Office near the Monument.

A. A. PUTNAM,
Attorney and Counsellor at Law,
CORNER MAPLE AND ELM ST.,
DANVERS.

ALFRED A. ABBOTT,
Attorney and Counsellor,
Office, No. 24 Washington Street, Salem;
House, Main St., So. Danvers.

IVES & PEABODY,
Attorneys and Counsellors at Law,
Have removed their Office to
Rooms formerly occupied by Hon. Otis P. Lord,
NO. 27 WASHINGTON STREET, SALEM,
STEPHEN B. IVES, jr. JOHN. B. PEABODY

SIDNEY C. BANCROFT,
Attorney and Counsellor at Law,
27 Washington Street, Salem.

H. O. WILEY,
Attorney and Counsellor at Law,
Office, Allen's Building, So. Danvers.

Claims against the Government for Bounty Back Pay, and Pensions, promptly attended to

A. S. CRAWFORD
Dentist,
No. 4 MAIN STREET, SO. DANVERS SQUARE
Mechanical Dentistry Neatly Executed.
Teeth Extracted by Electricity without Extra Charge

W. L. BOWDOIN,
SURGEON DENTIST,
No, 208 Essex Street, Salem, (Opposite the Market
Residence—No. 57 Washington street.
jan 11—1y.

F. POOLE
INSURANCE AGENT,
Allen's Building (up stairs),
Deeds drawn, and other common forms.

NEWMAN & SYMONDS,
DEALERS IN
Family Groceries, Flour & Grain,
HARD WARE AND CROCKERY,
Ready Made Clothing, Gents' Furnishing Goods, Hats, Caps, Boots, Shoes, &c.,
South Danvers Square, opp. Congregational Church
SAM'L NEWMAN. NATH'L. SYMONDS.

S. C. & E. A. SIMONDS,
DEALERS IN
Crockery, China and Hardware; Paper Hangings; Solar and Entry Lamps; Paints, Oil, and Window Glass.
No. 32 Front street, Lawrence Place,
feb13 SALEM, MASS.

HENRY L. WHIDDEN,
HOUSE AND SIGN PAINTER,
Glazier and Paperer,
Central Street, South Danvers.
All orders promptly and faithfully executed.
jan2-1y

E. S. FLINT,
DEALER IN
West India Goods, Country Produce,
No. 2 Main Street, South Danvers.

JESSE SMITH
No. 262 Essex Street, Salem,
Importer and Dealer in
Gold and Silver Watches,
MARINE CHRONOMETERS,
Aneroid Barometers, Spy Glasses, &c.

WILLIAM BLANEY,
HOUSE & SIGN PAINTER
Grainer, Glazier and Paper Hanger.
164 MAIN STREET, Corner of Grove.
WINDOWS and BLINDS cheap for cash.
mch6-tf

JOHN MOULTON,
LIVERY STABLE,
Central Street, South Danvers.
Mr. M. will endeavor to keep up the good reputation of his stable, by still keeping good Horses and Carriages. jan 7, 1863.

REGULATIONS OF THE BOARD OF HEALTH

— OF THE —

TOWN OF SOUTH DANVERS.

Adopted April 11, 1863.

Ordered, That all dirt, saw-dust, cinders, shavings, hair, shreds, manure, oyster and lobster shells, waste water, or any animal or vegetable substance, rubbish, or filth of any kind, in any house, ware-house, cellar, yard, or other place, which the Board of Health shall deem it necessary for the health of the town to be removed, shall be carried away therefrom, by and at the expense of the owner or occupant of such house, or other place where the same shall be found, and shall be removed to such place as shall be directed, within four hours after notice in writing to that effect, given by the Board of Health.

Ordered, That all slaughter-houses or places where animals are slaughtered, shall be so cleansed by removing the offal, and all decaying animal matter, as to be free from all offensive odors to residents in the vicinity, and to those individuals travelling by any such place where animals are slaughtered.

Ordered, That no obstructions, such as posts, bushes, or other collectors of decaying animal or vegetable matters, shall be placed in any of the brooks of the town, or in Wallis Pond,—and that no privy be erected or continued over said waters, or so situated on the margin thereof that the filth shall pass into them, and that no animal or vegetable matters, or whatever will pollute the waters, be thrown or allowed to flow in the same, excepting by special permit of the Board of Health.

Ordered, That no wagon, cart or vehicle, in which night soil, hides or other matter, in a condition to emit fetid and offensive effluvia are being conveyed through any of the streets, highways, or within forty rods of any dwelling house, school house, or other public building in this town, shall be permitted to stand more than five minutes, within forty rods of the same place, except it be at the place or places where the load is received or deposited.

D. C. PERKINS,
GEO. OSBORNE,
JOSEPH POOR,
BENJA. HUNTINGTON,
M. A. SHACKLEY,
ALERSON GALEUCIA,
} Board of Health.

South Danvers, April 15, 1863. 6w

A FINE assortment of Paper Shades for Kerosene Lamps, just opened at
S C & E A SIMONDS, 32 Front st., Salem.

SPRING STYLE DRESS HATS,

NOW READY

AT JACKSON'S,

101 COURT STREET, BOSTON.

Also a large and varied assortment of CAPS and SOFT HATS, for Boys' and Men's wear. Those wishing articles in the above line would do well to call before purchasing.

JOSEPH A. JACKSON.
Boston, April 1, 1863. 3m

100,000 BARRELS OF THE LODI MANUFACTURING COMPANY'S

POUDRETTE,

111 COMMERCIAL ST., BOSTON, MASS.

This Company, with a capital of $150,000, the most extensive works of the kind in the world, and an experience in manufacturing of over 23 years, with a reputation long established, having also the exclusive control of all the night soil of the great city of New York, are prepared to furnish an article, which is, without doubt, the CHEAPEST AND VERY BEST fertilizer in market. It greatly increases the yield, and ripens the crop from two to three weeks earlier, at an expense of from three to four dollars per acre, with little or no labor. Also, FIFTY TONS of BONE TAFEU, being a mixture of bone and night soil ground fine, at $45 per ton—a superior article for grain, &c. A pamphlet containing all necessary information may be had free by addressing a letter to the subscriber

JAMES T. FOSTER,
Care of the Lodi Manufacturing Company,
66 Courtland St., New York.

Agents—WELCH & FAIRFIELD, Grocers, Lowell Street, South Danvers. feb 11—3m

H. & H. G. HUBON,
WASHINGTON STREET, SALEM
Manufacturers of
Rose Wood, Mahogany, Black Walnut and Stained Wood
COFFINS and CASKETS.

MAKING this our exclusive business, we are ready at all times and at the shortest notice to furnish Grave Clothes of various styles, as well as Coffins and Caskets of the finest finish. Personal attention given, and delivered without extra charge to any of the neighboring towns. All orders by express or otherwise will receive prompt attention.

Black Walnut and White Wood Boards, Plank and Joists for sale.

dec 14—tf

REMOVAL!

JOHN J. ASHBY,

WOULD inform his friends and the public generally, that he has removed to the store

No. 145 Essex Street,

formerly occupied by JOHN BARLOW, where he has opened a good assortment of

BOOTS, SHOES & RUBBERS,

and will MANUFACTURE to order, all kinds of Ladies', Misses' and Children's Boots and Shoes. Also, Snow Boots, at the lowest Cash Prices.

Repairing of all kinds done on the most reasonable terms. JOHN J. ASHBY,
Successor to John Barlow.
Salem, September 17, 1862.

GAYLE & CO.,
GENERAL COMMISSION MERCHANTS,
DEALERS IN
Flour, Grain and Produce,
Manufacturers' Agents for the sale of
Concentrated Leaven, Soda and Pearlash Saleratus, and Bi Carb. Soda.
PHILLIPS WHARF, - - - - Salem.

T. HARDY, JR.,
—Dealer in—
DOORS, SASHES, BLINDS,
Glazed Sash, Painted Blinds,
FENCE PALES, STAIR BALUSTERS, FRAMING PINS, &c.,
No. 26 FRONT STREET,
Salem, January 14, 1863—6m

Salem and Danvers Aqueduct Co'y.

ALL persons using the water of the Salem and South Danvers Aqueduct are hereby notified that the water rents, for the six months ending May 1, 1863, are now due, and that they are required to pay the same, at the office of the Company, No 2 Sewall street, on the 1st day of May next. Should the bills remain unpaid for thirty days, the water will be stopped, in conformity to the regulations of the Company.

Office hours, from 9 to 1 o'clock, and from 2 to 5.

Per order of the Directors,
apr 1 WM. JELLY, Collector.

HEYLINGBERG'S
Hair Dressing Saloon,
24 MAIN ST., SOUTH DANVERS.

TARIFF OF PRICES:

Shaving,	6 cts.
Hair Cutting,	12 cts.
Champooing,	15 cts.
Champooing and Hair Cutting,	25 cts.

No more new Quarterly Customers taken.
In consequence of the scarcity of Change, 18 checks will be sold for one dollar.
South Danvers, Dec 17, 1862.

THOMAS DAVIS,
ADVERTISING AGENT
For the principal New England Newspapers, remains at the old stand, No. 23 Cornhill, Boston, where you will find him still loyal to the Constitution, the Laws, and Advertising.
Boston, Jan 29, 1862. tf

WALKING MADE EASY.

DR. P. KENISON,
CHIROPODIST,
215 Washington St., Boston,
Cures Hard and Soft Corns, Bunions, Club Nails, Nails penetrating the Flesh, Warts, &c., in a manner that will satisfy the most incredulous.

NEW YORK WHITE LEAD.

2500 L New York White Lead;
Also. Fores River White Lead—for sale by
mch 4 S C & E A SIMONDS.

NEW SPRING SHAWLS,

IN Stripe, Plaid and Plain, of rich styles—just received and for sale by mch 4 ANN R. BRAY, 76 Federal st.

WIRE GOODS.

WIRE Rat Traps; Broilers; Steamers; Sieves etc., just received at
S C & E A SIMONDS', 32 Front st.

DIARIES--1863.

VN excellent assortment at the lowest prices, for sale by G M WHIPPLE & A A SMITH.

NEW NEEDLE THREADER.

DOUBLE-ENDED, Excelsior Sewing Needle Threader and Worsted Threader combined—of great utility for near sighted or nervous people in threading needles, numbering from 4 to 12, and also Darning Needles.
Call and see them, at
mch 4 G M WHIPPLE & A A SMITH'S.

W. E. P. SMYTH,
Attorney and Counsellor at Law,
Proctor in Admiralty, and Commissioner of Deeds for the several States.
Frazier's Building, over the Post Office,
LYNN, MASS.

Having peculiar means for prosecuting, with accuracy and dispatch, all claims against Government, especially those for Bounty, Back Pay and Pensions, I have made this a specialty. Several months' residence in Washington enabled me to become thoroughly conversant with the routine of business in all the Departments, through which claims, of whatever nature, are passed, and also familiar with the practice in the U. S. Court of Claims; in addition to which I have a partner there resident, and a former partner in the Treasury Department, which advantages give me unexcelled facilities for the successful prosecution of business in any way connected with Government.

Important to Soldiers, Marines and their Heirs.

Persons enlisted in the U. S. Service, Land or Naval, since March 1, 1861, if disabled in the service, are entitled to Pension; Relatives of Persons deceased in the service are entitled to Bounty and Pension; in the following order:

1st. The Widow.
2d. The Children.
3d. The Father.
4th. The Mother.
5th The Brothers and Sisters collectively.

LETTERS OF ADMINISTRATION need not be taken out, in ordinary cases, to enable heirs of persons deceased in the service to obtain Pensions and Bounty.

When a discharge is granted for disability, in no case should the Oath of Identity on the back of the Discharge be filled up. The safest course is, to carry all papers at once to an Attorney, without tampering with them. All those who have claims, should present them without delay, as soon, the pressure will be so great upon the Auditor's Office, by reason of numerous applications, that applicants will be subjected to vexatious delay in getting their claims audited.

NO CHARGE MADE UNTIL CLAIMS ARE PAID.

Claims left at the Post Office, South Danvers, will be promptly forwarded.

Lynn, Aug 27, 1862—1y

CHARLES S. BUFFUM,
FURNISHING UNDERTAKER,
Central street, South Danvers,

HAVING provided himself with a HEARSE, is prepared to attend Funerals in any of the neighboring towns, with one or a pair of Horses.

He keeps as good an assortment of

COFFINS AND CASKETS,

as can be found at any establishment, and at the lowest prices.

He will also attend to Laying Out, etc.

All orders from the neighboring towns met with prompt attention. jan 14

SLATING. SLATING.

GEORGE FOWLER & COMPA'Y,

NO. 2 ST. PETER COURT, SALEM, respectfully inform their friends and the citizens of this and neighboring towns and cities that they are prepared to execute all orders for Slating, promptly and faithfully.

Roofs covered with any description of Slates, or repaired at short notice.

All work undertaken will be warranted.
Address—Box 366. Salem Post Office.
Salem, January 28—1863. tf

PATTERSON'S
LEATHER HANDLING MACHINE

THE undersigned are agents for the above machine. It can be seen in operation at Pinder & Brown's Tannery.

may 7—3m CLARK & GIDDINGS.

MESSRS. CLARK & GIDDINGS,
Wallis Street, South Danvers,
Are Agents for
GEORGE W. FISKE & CO.'S
PATENT EAVE TROUGHS CUTTERS, CONDUCTORS AND PIPE FOR DRAINS.
South Danvers, May 22, 1861.

EDWARD C. WEBSTER,
ONE PRICE
HAT, CAP & FUR STORE,
231 ESSEX, and 34 WASHINGTON ST

R. C. MANNING & CO,
Successors to JOHN DIKE & CO.,
DEALERS IN
COAL, WOOD, BARK, HAY, &c,
183 DERBY STREET,
SALEM, MASS.
N. C. ROBBINS, R. C. MANNING.
oct17

FRANKLIN COAL.

JUST landed, a cargo of FRANKLIN COAL—the best in the world for domestic use.
POTTER, BACHELDER & CO.,
Successors to M. Black, Jr.
Danversport, May 6, 1861. tf

E. N. PRICE,
Manufacturer and Dealer in
HARNESSES,
SADDLES, BRIDLES,
AND WHIPS.
— ALSO —
Trunks, Valises and Traveling Bags.

All orders for Manufacturing and Repairing executed with promptness, and in the best manner.

237 Essex Street, Salem, Mass.
mch13-tf

THOMAS PINNOCK,
SLATER,
SALEM, MASS.

Orders may be left at his Yard, No. 25 Peabody St., or at his house No. 6 Hancock street, South Salem.

Roofs covered with any kind of Slates, according to order. All work warranted.
Salem, May 7, 1862. tf

CURRIER & MILLETT,
Dealers in

Furniture, Chairs,
MATTRESSES, FEATHERS, &c
259 & 261 ESSEX ST.
Salem, dec 14—1y

AARON T. LOWE,
DEALER IN
BOOTS, SHOES AND RUBBERS,
76 BOSTON STREET, 76.
aug 6 SALEM. tf

NOTICE.

THE subscriber being about to leave town for a few months, would take this opportunity to inform his customers and friends that his shop on Pleasant Street will be kept open during his absence by Mr. JOHN P. FRIEND, who will faithfully attend to any orders.

JAMES PERKINS.
South Danvers, Sept. 3, 1862.

ORGANDIE MUSLINS.

WE shall open new Spring styles of Organdie Muslins to-day.

Ladies will do well to buy now, as prices are advancing daily. ANN R. BRAY,
mch 4 76 Federal street.

DIARIES FOR
1863. Every variety and style—all sizes—for sale at
G M WHIPPLE & A A SMITH'S,
nov 26 Sign of the Five Golden Books,

MUNROE'S

(LATE REED'S)

SOUTH DANVERS & BOSTON

RAILROAD EXPRESS.

Express leaves South Danvers at		10 1-2 a. m.
Freight " " "	at	5 p. m.
Express leaves Boston at		3 1-2 p. m.
Freight " "	at	5 p. m.

OFFICE at FREIGHT DEPOT, South Danvers Square.

Order Box W. M. Jacobs' store, Main street.

EXPRESS OFFICE, in Boston, 5 Congress Square; Freight Office, 1 Fulton st.

Also an Order Box at 86 Pearl street.

Particular attention paid to removing Furniture, collecting Bills, Notes, Drafts, &c.

ARMY EXPRESS.

Packages received and sent forward daily for Baltimore, Fortress Monroe, Annapolis, Washington, Alexandria, and any other point where the different regiments are stationed:

WM. C. MUNROE,
Sonth Danvers, may 21—tf

TAKE NOTICE.

THAT Dr. Ham's Dyspepsia Remedy has been before the public for the past ten years. And in that time the people who have used it will vouch for the benefit they have derived from it. The character of his article and its reputation can also be obtained from the dealers who sell it, or have sold it for any length of time, to both of those, Dr Ham refers and is willing to stand the test. And also challenges any new compound to produce the same results, let alone delicacy of flavor, of his INVIGORATING SPIRIT, which for ITS EFFECTS UPON THE BILE, A TORPED LIVER, LOW SPIRITS, or when the blood is affected as seen by SKIN DISEASES or its ACTION UPON THE KIDNEYS, in fact for any person who is run down by the wear and care of this world will find relief in this old and well tried remedy.

Astonishing.

TO Dr. Ham, who has modestly put before the public his DYSPEPSIA REMEDY for ten years past, to look back and see the number of tremendous articles within that time, that have sprang up like a rocket, and gone down like the stick which guides it in its glorious assent. Some come out and claim to tell the public they use unknown Barks from South America, with any quantity of rum from the West Indias, &c. Dr Ham takes this opportunity to refer to the MEDICAL FACULTY here and everywhere that his article is in use, as to its qualifications, and challenges any one to produce a person, male or female, who has used it as directed, that will not speak favorable of it for DISORGANIZED STOMACH, Dyspepsia, loss of appetite, want of action of the Kidneys, as well as many other complaints that humanity are afflicted with.

To Ladies.

DR. HAM'S Dyspepsia Remedy is just the thing you require to remove the languor caused by weakness and debility; it invigorates the system, causes the blood to take new life in its varied course through the system, in fact it gives tone to the system and will relieve and remove the thousand irregularities that from various causes you are afflicted with. For Dyspepsia it is a never failing remedy, it has stood the test of years, and we have yet to hear of its failing to give relief to the afflicted thousands who have received health and happiness by its use.

To Gentlemen.

DR. HAM knows that you do not always pay much attention to the many different articles put before you in the paper, but we would refer you to our agents who you will find are the respectable merchants and dealers, in regard to the Invigorating Spirit; some of them have sold it for years, and know well the reputation it has amongst those who have used it in assisting nature to eradicate diseases. It will renovate the system, as it acts directly on the blood, removing all obstructions to the general health, will cure Liver Complaints, Dyspepsia, Nervous Affections, Sour Stomach, Headache, Weakness, Loss of Appetite, as well as obstruction in the Kidney, Bladder or Urinary Organs. Try it. We will guarantee you will be satisfied with the result.

General Depot, 62 Liberty Street, New York. Sold by Weeks & Potter, 154 Washington Street, M. S. Burr & Co, 26 Tremont Street, G. C. Goodwin & Co., 11 Marshall Street, Boston; and in South Danvers by George E. Meacom, T. A. Sweetser, D. P. Grosvenor, Jr., Main Street; and by Druggists everywhere.
Feb 29, 1863 1y

NEW ENGLAND
FERTILIZER DEPOT,
No. 111 Commercial St., Boston.

TO FARMERS AND TRADERS!

WE desire to call your attention to our stock of FERTILIZERS, having the largest supply and finest assortment of reliable brands ever offered in this market. Our stock embraces

Coe's, Lloyd's, Rhodes } SUPER-PHOSPHATE LIME.
No. 1 PERUVIAN GUANO.
GROUND BONE, [coarse and fine]
BONE MEAL. LAND PLASTER.
FISH GUANO. BONE TAFEU.
LIME, CEMENT, &c., &c.

We are also Sole Agents for the
LODI MANUFACTURING CO.'S
POUDRETTE.

Get our terms before purchasing elsewhere. We sell at manufacturers' prices. Samples can be seen of all of the above; also a pamplet, with a Farmer's Almanac for 1863, may be had free on application by mail or otherwise.

J. M. & P. RICHARDS,
Sales Office 111 Commercial St., Boston, Mass.
apr 1—3m

CHEAP FIRE-WOOD.

THE subscriber has on hand 30,000 bushels of

Patent Granular Fuel,

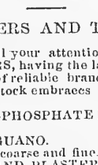
which he will deliver, by wholesale, in lots to suit purchasers, anywhere in this town, Salem, Lynn, Swampscott, or Nahant. Orders sent by mail (or by express,) or left in Salem, at the office, 27 Washington street (3d story), or 17 Briggs st., will receive prompt attention.

List of Prices.

25 Bushels, delivered,		2 25
50 do	do	4 00
100 do	do	7 50

Orders left at the Union Store, Newman & Symonds, and the Omnibus Office.

BYRON GOODELL.
South Danvers, june 18.



E. S. FLINT,
Manufacturer and Dealer in
INNER SOLES,
AND SHOE STIFFENINGS OF ALL KINDS.
2 MAIN STREET, SOUTH DANVERS.

E. R. PERKINS,
PHOTOGRAPHIC ARTIST
241 Essex Street, Salem.
Patent Ambrotypes, Stereoscopes,

Photographs, Sphorcotypes, Melainotypes, and patent other Pictures, of various sizes, taken with all the improvements of the art. Portraits, Miniatures, Engravings, &c., accurately copied. Views taken when desired. jan 11

REMOVAL!
AUGUSTUS HAMMOND,
Manufacturer and Repairer of
BOOTS AND SHOES,

HAS removed from his old place of business to the Railroad Ground, opposite the Old South Church, where he would be happy to continue to receive favors from his friends and patrons. may 21

CAMELS HAIR GOODS.

OWING to the small stock of Camels Hair goods in the market, prices have very much advanced. We shall give our customers the advantage of buying at the old prices, as we have a good assortment on hand.

ANN R. BRAY,
mch 4 76 Federal street.

JUVENILE BOOKS,

A VERY large assortment for sale by
G M WHIPPLE & A A SMITH.

SOUTH DANVERS POST OFFICE.

GENERAL MAIL ARRANGEMENT.

MAILS CLOSE

At 10 3-4 A. M., and 4 3-4 P. M.

MAILS DUE

At 9 1-2 A. M., and 3 P. M.

Post Office open (Sundays excepted) from 7 o'clock, A. M., till 8 P. M. Saturdays open till 8 1-2 P. M.

F. POOLE, P. M.
South Danvers, Oct. 1, 1862.

Poor Richard's Eye and Ear Water.

Prof. M. G. BROWN.

SCIENTIFIC ARTICLE ON THE EYE AND EAR.

Reader, allow me to call your attention to a fact which hitherto you have not been acquainted with, namely, that there is not a sound eye in the land. The eyes are the only members of the body totally neglected; there is nothing done for the eye; its wants are neither studied or regarded. This untiring servant is the first in action at birth, and the last at death, yet it seems to pass even common observation.

Notwithstanding all the ignorance and neglect of the eye, it is unquestionably true that every department of the human system is dependent on it for life and health.

The Divine Machinator has placed 8000 tubes and glands around the eyes, through which the saltish fountain (same as supplies the tear) is designed to pass as dew, finding its way to every crevice and nook in the flesh, whose chief tendency is to mucus. This fountain is to the body what dew is to the plants. The flesh can only be kept free from mucus (which is the precursor of disease) through the tubes and glands around the eyes being keep open, allowing the teary, saltish fountain to pass freely forward. If the laws of mind and body are disregarded or insulted, these faithful sentinels shut up like a sensitive plant, thus refusing to pass this life, giving dew to the parched flesh, whereby the entire machinery of the human body can alone find its natural moisture. When this fountain is cut off, the system is open to every kind of disease, which first begins with small streaks of blood-shot at the bottom of the ball of the eye; these are streaks of death if not removed. Examine your eyes and you will find these streaks moving over the white of the eye towards the pupil; generally the eye gets scumy and glassy; the ball turns a green or yellowish color, this is a sure indication of the following diseases (which are solely caused by the moisture being cut off from the system): Nervousness, headache, earache, deafness, loss of hair, neuralgia, rheumatism, blotches on the face and skin, diptheria, sore throat, bronchitis, catarrah, soreness of the chest, decay of the lungs, deprivation of the fluids; these, with all other diseases, are caused as above described. One stoppage leads to another, until disease destroys the system.

To secure moisture for a patient is the only hope of the physician. Benjamin Franklin has immortalized himself by such sayings as, an ounce of prevention is better than a pound of cure.

Reader, if you desire to be saved from the kindred diseases which make life a burden, then create an appetite in your eyes by giving them a drink of Poor Richard every morning immediately after you wash, and just before retiring at night. Do not say—Let well enough alone; consider the lilies of the field, they receive the life giving dew while they are in perfect health—go thou and do likewise.

Please read the following letter from the Rev. P. S. Henson, pastor of the Broad Street Baptist Church:

Philadelphia, Oct. 17, 1862.

From injuries received in my right eye when a boy, a chronic inflammation had been produced, in consequence of which I suffered constant martyrdom. Every moment of my waking life was embittered, and I was frequently unable to sleep at night.

A variety of remedies had been resorted to without success, and I entertained the purpose, as a last resort, of having the ball taken out of its sockett in the hope of finding thus relief.

In the meanwhile, most providentially I noticed one day in a shop window a bottle of Poor Richard's Eye Water. I had never heard of it before, but determined to try it—and did with the most delightful results. In a very few days the painful irritation was removed—I could bear the strongest light, and went forth as it were to the enjoyment of a new life. I now keep a bottle of it always in the house, and if my eye seems at all disposed to anoy me, I give it a dose, and that is an end of it. I take occasion to say further, that my wife used to suffer severely at times from protracted pain in and over her eyes, and she has found Poor Richard's Eye Water a sovereign specific in her case, giving her almost instant relief.

Grateful to God for the benefit I have personally received, I cannot but recommend the preparation most cordially to all who have been sufferers like myself.

P. S. HENSON,
Pastor of the Broad Street Baptist Church.
Residence 1430 Poplar St., Philadelphia.

Thousands of certificates could be published, of the most remarkable cures on record. It is a perfect restorer of weak sight and dim vision; it cures Deafness, Catarrh, Sore Throat, prevents Loss of Hair, with all kindred diseases.

Directions.—Bathe with a glass tube, at least the ear (many bathe the eyes with the finger). Ask the druggist for the tube—it costs 6 cents.

Poor Richard's Eye Water sells at 25 cents per bottle.

Sold by George E. Meacom, South Danvers, and Druggists everywhere. Wecks & Potter, wholesale agents, Boston.

MRS. M. G. BROWN,
410 Arch St. Philadelphia, Proprietor.

Are you Insured?

THE subscriber would respectfully call your attention to the fact that he is fully prepared to effect INSURANCE AGAINST FIRE, to any amount, at current rates, on

Dwelling Houses, Barns and their contents, Stores, Stocks of Goods, Furniture, &c. &c., and on buildings in process of erection,

And that he is the authorized Agent for the following responsible Stock and Mutual Companies, viz:

Thames Insurance Co., (Stock,) Norwich, Conn. Capital—$500,000.
Amos W. Prentice, Pres. Oliver F. Rice, Sec'y
Conway Insurance Company, (Stock) Boston. Capital and Surplus—$260,000.
James F. Whitney, Pres. David C. Rogers, Sec'y.
City Insurance Company, (Stock) Boston. Capital—$150,000.
Samuel P. Hayward, Pres. Austin W. Benton, Sec'y

Also, will effect Insurance on the LIVES OF INDIVIDUALS, for one year, seven years, or for the whole term of life, in the Massachusetts Mutual Life Ins. Co., Springfield, Mass. Capital and Assets—$375,000.

Caleb Rice, Pres. D. B. Bacon, Sec'y.
William Mack, M. D., Medical Examiner.

WM. ARCHER, Jr.,
18 Washington st. and 34 Front st., Salem.
ej b20-1

E. F. BURNHAM,
SOLE AGENT FOR
SARGENT & CO.S'
MAGIC SOAP
For South Danvers & Salem.

OFFICE—Central St., opp. Lowell Depot, at Burnham's Express Office, So. Danvers.

Price $3.50 per 100 Lbs.

Orders sent by mail or otherwise to So. Danvers will be promptly attended to. tf-oct3

WM. C. HENDERSON,
MANUFACTURER OF
PLAIN AND FANCY
PAPER BOXES,
No. 235 ESSEX STREET,
Sign of "Nest of Boxes,"
July 23 SALEM. tf

SUMMER ARRANG

— TO —

LYNN & BOS

— BY —

OMNIBUS & HORS

W. F. BURNHA

Line of Omnibuses will leave the Omnibus Office, No. 6 Allen's Build vers, passing down Main Street, thro Street, to Lynn, daily.

Leave South Danvers at 7 50 o'cl and 4 50 P. M

Leave Lynn (Horse Car Depot, W A. M., 2 40 and 6 40 P. M.

Horse Cars leaving Scollay's Build at 8 15 A. M., 1 15 and 5 15 P. M., wil bases at Lynn, at the above name passengers to South Danvers.

Sunday Arrangemer

Leave S. Danvers at 7.50 a.m
Leave Lynn at 9.40 a.m., and

Cars leave Scollay's Building, Con to meet the Omnibuses in Lynn for 8 15 A. M., and 5 15 P. M.

Tickets to Lynn, -
Through to Boston, -

Through Tickets to and from Bos the Drivers and Conductors.

Passengers called for at reasonabl is given at the office.

EXPRESS BUSIN

Between South Danvers and Lynn ed to, on reasonable terms.

Extra Coaches furnished at short South Danvers, 1863.

South Danvers & Sal Omnibuses.

ON and after MONDAY, No South Danvers and Salem buses will run as follows:

Leave the Hourly Office, Sout
7, 8, 8 1-2, 9, 9 1-2, 10, 1
a. m. 12, 12 1-2, 1, 1 1-2, 2, 2 1
4 1-2, 5, 5 1-2, 6, 6 1-2, 7, 7 1-2

Leave No. 13 Central St.,
8, 8 1-2, 9, 9 1-2, 10, 10 1-2, 11,
12 1-2, 1, 1 1-2, 2, 2 1-2, 3, 3 1
5 1-2, 6, 6 1-2, 7, 7 1-2, 8, 9.

☞ Ladies' Room, at Needh
No. 272 Essex Street, and at t

SINGLE FARE on the regular or Twenty Tickets for $1 00.

Passengers called for or left a reasonable distance, the f cents.

EXTRA COACHES furnished, a reasonable prices.

nov 27 HENRY M

Abbott's South Danve

EXPRES

Leave South Danvers,
Leave Salem,

Orders left at Teel & Moulton's, a on Main street, South Danvers; a on street, and at Reed's in the M

MARSHAL

DANVERS, SO. DANVE

EXPRES

Leave DANVERS (daily) at 9 A.
" SALEM at 1½ P. M.

OFFICES:

In Danvers—At E B Waitt's and t Danversport—Richards' and A W In So. Danvers—Francis Dane & C street.

In Salem—No 7 Washington street 17 Derby Square.

All business promptly and faithfu ☞ Our patrons are particul write their orders.

☞ Packages, left at the office, "Marshall's Express."

☞ Being connected with th are enabled to forward Notes, D collection, and small packages, point in the United States, at t P.

dec1-s8-tf

PINGREE'S JOB

THE subscriber is still prepare Job Work and Teaming, such ture and Merchandize of any des or to and from the neighboring t

Orders will be received at the E tion, and at S. Flint's store, on th

Thankful for past favors, he wo uance of the same.

South Danvers, 1860.

Important to the

DR. DOW continues to be con Nos. 7 and 9 Endicott street, cases of a

PR

South Danvers Wizard.

VOL. IV. SOUTH DANVERS, MASS., WEDNESDAY, MAY 6, 1863. NO. 18.

Selected Poetry.

"STEALING."

ame through the hall one day,
, upon the sofa,
tty cousin Nell stretched out,
sing a' la loafer.
nlight through the open door
med in upon her tresses,
t wind touched her rosy cheeks
many fond caresses,

lmly drooped her dreamy lids,
the curling lashes
h shadows in her hazel eyes, hid their mirthful flashes.
m a mass of dark brown curls dimpled hand was peeping,— k had fallen from its grasp—ousin Nell was sleeping.

rry lips were just apart,
reath, like summer roses,
ently through the gate of pearls
o'er its fragrance closes.
re, one lawless wicked fly,— n't resist temptation—ping nectar with a zeal knew no hesitation.

I, "ah! if I were a fly quick I'd taste such pleasure;
g I'd linger on her lips,
in the priceless treasure.
such thoughts are very wrong,
e should envy never;
y can do, I surely can,
st I will endeavor."

I bent to get a kiss,
re I could attain it,
stroyed, my pictured bliss,
s I thought to gain it.
ie raised one jewelled hand
p the fly for stealing;—
e flew off with all the sweets.
he keener feeling.

sadly turned away,— eek still flushed and burning,— t how often good men get ows the bad are earning.
his case, one little thing
, in justice, mention,—
, I sinned not as the fly,
my firm intention.

AT IS THE USE.

the use of trimming a lamp,
never intend to light it?
the use of grappling a wrong,
never intend to right it?

the use of removing your hat,
you never intend to tarry?
the use of wooing a maid,
never intend to marry?

the use of buying a coat,
never intend to wear it?
the use of a house for two,
never intend to share it?

the use of gathering gold,
don't intend to keep it?
the use of planting a field,
never intend to reap it?

the use of buying a book,
don't intend to read it?
the use of a cradle to you,
never intend to need it?

Selected.

om the New York Ledger.]

ROMAN EMPERORS.

Y JOHN S. C. ABBOTT.

, Vitellius, Vespasian, Titus.

ar when Nero, the murderer ied, stained with the guilt of od, Servius Galba, the govin, was on the march to over-tyrant. Galba was seventy ld and childless. Conscious is age, he was not qualified he burden of the empire of e wished to place upon the ung man of rare virtue, by f Piso. But the dissolute ers did not wish for such a e was a young demagogue, a er by the name of Otho, ready ts to pander to the depravity diabolical band of men earth wn, a Roman army. He as-oldiers that Piso like Galba, in their indulgences, and that as they aspired to was not fit orld as this. With these res he raised an insurrection.
rushed into the tent of Gal-ow of a broadsword severed id it fell upon the floor. A st into it, and the gory troaded through the camp. The awed by the army, ratified l, and declared Otho emperas in the year 67. Galba out three months.
been one of the boon com-ero. His wife was a beau-

He abandoned her, leaving alace of Nero, and received the command of a province his unhappy woman died of eceived from Nero. There ne, in command of a Roman Danube, an illustrious general by the name of Aulus Vitellius. He was of noble birth, and had become utterly depraved by association with Tiberius Cæsar, at Caprae. Hearing of the death of Nero, followed by that of Galba, and of the usurpation of Otho, he rallied his army around him, secured their cooperation by enormous bribes, proclaimed himself emperor, and commenced a march upon Rome to dethrone Otho. The two rival emperors were now rapidly advancing to meet each other—the one at the head of an army from Spain, and the other of any army from the Danube. Each was about 70,000 strong. They met upon the plains of Lombardy, near Mantua.—For a week these veteran armies fought with prodigious slaughter, and with no decisive results. But at length the tide of victory turned in favor of Vitellius; and Otho, in hopeless defeat, having nominally reigned three months, plunged his sword into his heart. The obsequious senate pronounced the victor emperor, and he advanced to Rome and assumed the imperial purple. Though not a cruel man, he surrendered himself to all luxurious and voluptuous indulgence, equalling, for he could not exceed, Nero, in measureless dissipation. The expenses of his table, for four months, amounted to a sum equal to four millions of dollars.

A conspiracy was soon formed for his overthrow. There was, at that time, a renowned Roman general in Judea, by the name of Vespasian. He had acquired celebrity in the wars both in Germany and Britain. His soldiers were devoted to him, and he resolved, by their aid, to drive the usurper from his throne. In his own camp he was proclaimed emperor, and he sent several legions, under able commanders, to Italy. The conflict, though short, was sanguinary. The generals and soldiers of Vitellius, fighting for the spoils of office, struggled fiercely.—After a final bloody battle beneath the walls of Rome and then through its streets, during which the magnificent capital, the pride of the city, was laid in ashes, Rome capitulated. Vespasian was still in Syria. Antony was in command of his Roman army. Vitellius was dragged from an obscure corner, in the cabin of a slave, where he had hid himself, and was paraded through the streets with his hands bound behind him, and a rope about his neck. Thus dragging him along the brutal soldiers beat him to death with their clubs. His body, in its mangled mass, having lost all semblance of humanity, was thrown into the Tiber.

The senate declared Vespasian emperor. He was, at this time, at Alexandria, in Egypt. The Jews rose in insurrection against their Roman masters, and Vespasian sent an army to besiege Jerusalem, under the command of his son Titus, a very dissolute man, who had been one of the boon companions of Nero. Vespasian repaired to Rome to enjoy the splendor of the throne and the adulation of the capital.

The siege of Jerusalem and its destruction in the year 70, which had been minutely foretold by the Saviour, is one of the most memorable events in the history of the world. A more appalling tragedy cannot be found in the annals of the past. The city was entirely demolished, after a siege of six months, during which time a million of Jews perished. One hundred thousand were taken captive and sold into slavery. Judea was thus brought again into entire subjection to the Roman power.

Titus, with the spoil of the city, and followed by an immense train of captives, marched to Rome, to enjoy that triumph which was the much coveted reward of every successful general. In honor of this great victory and of Titus, whose energy and sagacity achieved it, a triumphal arch was erected, which remains, in a good state of preservation, to the present day. Vespasian has left behind him the reputation of being one of the most meritorious of the Roman emperors. His reign was eminently a reign of justice, and after guiding the affairs of state with great wisdom and energy for ten years, he died, and the empire sincerely mourned his loss. We know not what were his thoughts for the future; but with Roman fortitude he met death, rising from his couch and requesting his friends to support him. "An emperor," said he, "should die standing." Thus his spirit left the world.

Vespasian reared that majestic amphitheatre, the Coliseum, whose vast expanse and massive grandeur have attracted the admiration of all subsequent generations. It furnished comfortable seats for eighty thousand spectators, and standing room for twenty thousand more. Titus succeeded his father. He had been a very dissipated young man. But from some cause, not satisfactorily explained, upon ascending the throne, his character underwent a radical change, and he became an upright, earnest, and in many respects, apparently a religious man. With zeal seldom paralelled, he devoted himself to doing good. He it was who, after a day in which he could not recall any act of special beneficence, exclaimed in words which have reverberated through eighteen centuries, "Perdidi diem"—I have lost a day. This sentiment has been beautifully versified, in words which every one should engrave upon his memory:

"Count that day lost, whose low descending sun, Views from thy hand no worthy action done."

It was during the reign of Titus, in the year 79, that Vesuvius, in one of the most awful of its eruptions, overwhelmed Herculaneum in a flood of lava, and buried Pompeii beneath a shower of ashes.—The cities, thus entombed, were soon forgotten, and for sixteen hundred years they remained undiscovered, until accidentally their location was found out and they were partially exhumed. Titus sent a very efficient and sagacious general, Agricola, to Britain, to promote, as far as possible, the civilization of the barbaric inhabitants of that remote island. He encouraged education and introduced Roman dress and a love of Roman art.—During his reign there was a terrible conflagration in Rome, the flames raging for three days. Soon after a pestilence wasted large portions of the empire. The sympathy which the emperor manifested for the sufferers and his efforts for their relief were unbounded. His reign, however, was short. He had a brother, Domitian, a thoroughly depraved man, who is supposed to have poisoned Titus that he might grasp the sceptric. The emperor was seized with a violent fever, and died lamenting that he was thus prevented from carrying out the comprehensive plans he had formed for the welfare of his subjects. He had reigned but two years, and died in the forty-first year of his age, in the year of our Lord 81.

INFLUENCE OF SENSIBLE WOMEN.

It is a wondrous advantage to a man, in every pursuit or avocation, to secure an adviser in a sensible woman. In woman there is at once a subtle delicacy of tact, and a plain soundness of judgment, which are rarely combined to an equal degree in man. A woman, if she be really your friend, will have a sensitive regard for your character, honor, repute. She will seldom counsel you to do a shabby thing, for a woman friend always desires to be proud of you. At the same time—her constitutional timidity makes her more cautious than your male friend. She, therefore, seldom counsels you to do an imprudent thing. By female friendship—I mean pure friendship—those in which there is no admixture of the passion of love, except in the married state. A man's best female friend is a wife of good sense and good heart, whom he loves and who loves him. If he have that—he need not seek elsewhere. But supposing a man to be without such a helpmate, female friendships he must still have, or his intellect will be without a garden, and there will many an unheeded gap even in its strongest fence. Better and safer, of course such friendships where disparities of years or circumstances put the idea of love out of the question. Middle life has rarely this advantage; youth and old age have. We may have female friends with those much younger than ourselves. Molier's old housekeeper was a great help to his genius, and Montague's philosophy take both a gentler and loftier character of wisdom from the date in which he finds in Morie de Gourney, an adopted daughter, "certainly beloved by me," says the Horace of Essayist, "with more than paternal love, and involved in my solitude and retirement, as one of the best parts of my being." Female friendship indeed, is to man a bulwark, sweetner, ornament of his existence. To his mental culture it is invaluable; without it all his knowledge of books will never give him knowledge of the world.—Bulwer.

PROVERBS AND MOTTOES OF SHAKSPEARE.—Impatience hath its privilege.

There is no virtue like necessity.

Courage mounteth with occasion.

He tires betimes who spurs too fast betimes.

Small showers last long, but sudden storms are short.

With eager feeding, food doth choke the feeder.

Though death is poor it ends a mortal woe.

The ripest fruit falls first.

TAKING UP A COLLECTION.

A Reverend gentleman of Missouri tells the following story:

The life of a preacher in a new country, from a secular point of view, is hardly as smooth and free from difficulty as a position in more cultivated and populous communities usually appears to be. The people are thinly scattered here and there, engaged in different pursuits, though chiefly agricultural. Being collected from all parts of the older States, and gathered from every class of society, they meet upon the same ground, upon terms of easy familiarity, and restrained by no irksome conventionalities. People in a new country generally have a pretty hard time of it. They live a sort of "rough and tumble" life, wearing out their best efforts in a struggle for existence. Under these circumstances the material sometimes absorbs completely the spiritual: and the people not unfrequently "get so far behind" with the preacher they have to be powerfully "stirred up," from the pulpit.

On one occasion we had a visit from the presiding elder of our district at one of our quarterly meetings. We had not paid our preacher "ary dime" as the boys say, and we expected a scoring from the elder.

Well we were not disappointed. He preached us a moving discourse from the text "Owe no man anything." At the close of his sermon, he came at once to the subject in hand.

"Brethren," said he, "have you paid Brother——anything this year? Nothing at all, I understand. Well, now, your preacher can't live on air, and you must pay up—pay up that's the idea.—He needs twenty-five dollars now, and must have it! Steward, we'll take up a collection now.

Here some of the audience near the door began to "slide" out.

"Don't run! don't run!" exclaimed the elder. "Steward, lock that door, and fetch me the key!" he continued, coming down from the pulpit and taking his seat by the stand-table in front.

The steward locked the door, and then deposited the key on the table by the side of the older.

"Now, Steward," said he, "go round with the hat. I must have twenty-five dollars out of this crowd before one of you shall leave this house."

Here was a "fix." The congregation were taken all aback. The old folks looked astonished; the young folks tittered. The steward gravely proceeded in the discharge of his official duties.—The hat was passed around, and at length deposited on the elder's table. The elder poured "the funds" on the table, and counted the amount.

"Three dollars and a half! A slow start, brethren! Go round again, steward. We must pull up a heap stronger than that!"

Around went the steward with his hat again, and finally pulled up at the elder's stand.

"Nine dollars and three-quarters. Not enough yet. Go round again, steward."

Around goes the steward the third time.

"Twelve dollars and a half! Mighty slow brethren! 'Fraid your dinners will all get cold before you get home to eat them! Go round again, steward!"

By this time the audience began to be fidgety. They evidently thought the joke was getting to be serious. But the elder was relentless. Again and again circulated the indefatigable hat and slowly but surely, the "pile" on the table swelled toward the requisite amount.

"Twenty-four dollars and a half!—Only lack half a dollar. Go round again steward!"

Just then there was a tap on the window from the outside; a hand was thrust in holding a half dollar between the thumb and finger, and a young fellow outside exclaimed:

"Here, Parson, here's your money.—Let my gal out o' there. I'm tired of waiting for her."

It was "the last hair that broke the camel's back;" and the preacher could exclaim, in the language of "Ike Turtle," "This meetin's done bust up."

☞ "My wife tells the truth three times a day," remarked a jocose old fellow, at the same time casting a mischievous glance at her. "Before rising in the morning, she says, 'O dear, I must get up; but I don't want to.' After breakfast, she adds, 'Well, I suppose I must go to work, but I don't want to;' and she goes to bed, saying, There, I have been passing all day, and haven't done anything!'"

Original.

HISTORY.

Composition of Miss Hattie M. Goodale, read at the Annual Examination of the Holton High School.

Men may judge erroneously and impute wrong motives now, but the impartial pen of history will make the hidden truth appear, as the diamond is brightened and made beautiful by removing foreign substances. In these days of "making our history so rapidly," will not the glorious name of Winthrop, who, fighting as a soldier should, cheering on his comrades, falling and meeting a true soldier's death, shine out like a star in the darkness when we turn to the gloomy record of treason? Lyon, Bayard, Ellsworth,—these names will be synonymous of true courage and manliness.

Many others too whose name fame does not blazon through the land—those who went down in the Cumberland, with Morris's "NEVER" ringing in their ears—those who sleep in nameless graves, far from home and kindred—those whose lives were sacrificed in vain by imprudent and rash commanders; to all these the nation will give her gratitude for their noble deeds. History will consign all, who have proved so treacherous to country and God, as to attempt to destroy freedom in order to establish tyranny, to deserved scorn.

In after years, when the Union is re-established, as men shall read of Jefferson Davis—his rise and bitter downfall—they will turn with horror from the dark picture which treachery presents to the bright one of loyalty. And when the record of these periods of trouble is given to the world, will the public voice speak with favor of those who miscall themselves "Peace Lovers." Let us remember that Peace without Union does not bring national happiness. Shall the Stars of our flag bow to the Bars of the traitors as our ships sail down the Mississippi? Will Illinois, Ohio and Iowa consent to such degredation? We often hear New England people scornfully spoken of, as one "idea men," not meaning by this that they are deficient in intelligence, but that they wish to put away slavery from the land. Although spoken as a term of reproach, yet it is our triumph. Yes! sympathizers with the South, we have one idea and pursue it with all eagerness—every other is overshadowed by it. This all-engrossing thought is to contend for Union against traitors at home or abroad, and never to yield to the doctrine of secession; and if we are "left out in the cold," will you be in the sunlight? The pen of the historian will mention the bravery of the shoemaker, farmer, carpenter, in other terms, "the mudsills" of the Eastern States, with as much praise as the rich man's son who stands shoulder to shoulder with them in the ranks. If the chivalry can establish their claim to more than ordinary intelligence in the eyes of the world by their present conduct, and by the ignorance of the poor whites, then, O History! record the fact that boasting, bigotry, and slave-owning make the gentleman and Christian; narrate that men who are manly, intelligent, and brave—who go forth to fight with prayer upon their lips instead of cursing, are the "scum of society," "Yankee hordes," "Lincoln vandals," and merit these and other like appellations. Tell the people who shall till the lands and fill the workshops, fifty years hence, in our New England towns, that, in times of war long ago, when defeat seemed to perch on our banners, instead of encouraging those under their influence, cowards were found to instill only distrust of our rulers and generals. But tell them also, that when every loyal heart was gladdened by good news from Banks and Burnside, and a host of others, no more gloomy countenances than theirs were seen. With thy ever enduring words picture before their eyes the returning bands which shall come back to us toil-worn, wearied by march and storm, maimed by battle, but with hearts unchanged. Then when the bells ring throughout the land, relate to listening ears how in many desolate hearts those peals of triumphant joy awakened no answering echo. For no well known form met their eyes in the ranks of the returning heroes.

In the gloom which over-shadows the land we find consolation in the records of the past where right triumphed and wrong was vanquished; where, though injustice reigned for a time, yet, after long endurance, justice was at last victorious; and in the thought that God's power extends over us now just the same as when He divided the waters of the sea and let the oppressed pass through them. Through the Red sea of carnage has He cut a way for his down-trodden worshippers now, and in the bitter humiliation of the nation let us remember that He has ever brought good out of evil.

History tells us of many instances of wrong-doing and of perseverance in right,—of bravery and tyranny, and of the limitless power of God. Many characters mentioned on its pages remind us of politicians of the present day. Very near Benedict Arnold, but still higher in the scale of treachery, stands Jefferson Davis, while Gov. Howard, of New York, reminds us instinctively of Aaron Burr, although we must necessarily respect the former more than the latter. Perhaps if French ministers had less diplomacy and more justice, and English lords were less given to casting longing eyes towards the cotton fields of the South, not indeed for the benefit of the poor, but to fill their own purses, we might be judged with more leniency abroad. But History also teaches us that we indeed must not put our trust in princes, for though we often hear that there is good faith even among thieves, there seems to be none among those of royal descent. May the President never suspend the Banks at New Orleans; and may Charleston soon have a Butler who shall administer a little humble pie to the secessionists there. May the Foster-ing care of one of our Generals in North Carolina continue during these war times. May our brave soldiers have Shields against the enemies' bullets, as well as a firm trust in God. Although the Northern Sickles has cut down many Southern plants, yet they sometimes escape by stratagem. We may yet pull the Wool over their eyes, and as in the beginning they did not go Scott-free, so they will not hereafter. Let us remember that it is Long-street, not Lane, that has no turning, and who knows what may happen one of these Spring mornings. Soon the Southern Confederacy may be without money and without Price, as it is without the former already, and the latter seems very discontented. Of course we would Grant him a cordial welcome if he would see the error of his ways and repent. May the French eagle have more of peace in his piercing eyes, the lion of England cease its growl, and the Russian bear be as friendly as ever. May our own eagle be more eager to present the olive branch of peace than the arrows of war. Let traitors be a reproach forever, and nowhere countenanced, as they now too often are. In short, may our President be like Abraham of old in wisdom, and his children, the army, soon wear crowns of victory. May that infinitely Merciful One, who will one day send Peace to us, cause thy pen, O History! to record Union and tranquility when "Victory binds the rescued stars in Freedom's golden hair."

FROM THE 17TH MASS. REGIMENT.

CAMP NEAR NEWBERN, N. C., April 10th, 1863.

DEAR WIZARD,—We are having lively times about here now. The rebs. continue to prowl around in sufficient numbers to cause a continual excitement, sometimes driving in our pickets and worrying us in every way possible. As yet, they have not made any earnest attempt to re-capture Newbern, and it will require a much larger force than they can handily spare to do that thing. However, it is very probable that they will yet make the attempt, and when they do, we shall be already to give them a warm reception, be assured. The recent raid upon Newbern, on the part of the rebs, did not prove very successful, the particulars of which you have no doubt had. Since that time, a number of expeditions have been sent out, which resulted only in slight skirmishes, and the capture of a few prisoners. While I am writing this, the most formidable expedition of any previous one, numbering a total force of infantry, artilley and cavalry, of about 15,000, had started, its destination supposed to be Washington, N. C., where the rebs. have batteries below the town which thus far have been successful in keeping our gunboats from passing. Gen. Foster is there with a force of three or four thousand, and report says is unable to get away; hence the particular object of the present expedition.

Having proceeded thus far with my letter, I have now to inform you that some wounded prisoners belonging to our regiment have just arrived in camp, and report that a smart skirmish took place at "Cove Creek," so called, about twenty-five miles distant, on the road leading to Washington, where the enemy were in large force, behind a battery, with six pieces. A brisk fight took place, lasting an hour, which resulted in the wounding of some fifteen or twenty of our regiment, including Lieut. Roberts, of Co. G, whose arm was badly shattered. On the expedition to Goldsboro', Lieut. (then Sergeant,) Roberts was wounded in the face, which makes his case an unfortunate one. I do not learn that his wound is a serious one. If the expedition, which is now on its way to Newbern, arrives in season, I will endeavor to send you a full list of the names of all the wounded, with this. A negro brigade constituted a part of the rebel force. Major Belger, of the Rhode Island Battery, had his horse shot from under him, and was himself wounded.

It was rumored in camp last night that Charleston has been taken, which, I trust may prove true. If such be the fact, you may expect more interesting news from this vicinity soon.

The 17th is the oldest regiment in this department. We arrived in Newbern, one year ago, the 1st day of the present month. We have in every sense of the word been a working regiment. We have not fought many battles, it is true, but enough of this service to establish a brilliant reputation. We have been doing picket duty most of this time, building fortifications, and have marched more miles than any other regiment, and pride ourselves as superior in every respect to any other in this department. We are good for sixteen months more yet. I must take this occasion to growl a little, and, as you will admit, with good reason. The old saying, that "money makes the mare go" is as applicable to the soldier's life as to the civilian's; and if Uncle Sam expects us to do our duty cheerfully, and be "good boys," he must act accordingly. The fact is, Mr. Editor, we are now on the sixth month, payment being due us for that length of time, and why this negligence on the part of Government, is a mystery to us. Personally, we care but little about it; but many have families depending upon them, and it is for this reason particularly that we should be more promptly paid.

Now, this leads me to say a word in behalf of that much abused class, the sutlers. I will admit that in many instances the more appropriate name for them would be "suckers," but the sutler for the 17th is an exception, Notwithstanding we have no money, and no prospect of getting any at present, I am free to say that I do not believe there is a man in the regiment but who is indebted and has some way been accommodated from this institution. Every one is allowed to draw to a certain amount, and when pay day comes there will not be an instance where any one will owe the sutler more than he will willingly pay. Our good friend, Michael M——, of Danvers, officiates as proprietor in this establishment, which is in a neat little wooden building, much resembling a country store, and where everything the market affords can always be found. Blessed be the (our) sutler.

APRIL 12th.—P. S. Since writing the above, the expedition spoken of has returned to Newbern, having accomplished nothing more than the wounding of a number, and wearying the men. Brig. Gen. Spinola commanded the force.

The following is the correct list of the wounded in our regiment, including Lieutenant Roberts:—

Co. F—Sergeant Morss, slight wound from piece of shell.

Co. G—Pat'k Donnevan, scalp wound from shell.

Co. E—Henry Rivers, slight shell wound.

Co. A—Corporal Samuel W. Reed, slight wound in face; Thomas Murray, slight wound in back; Geo. W. Kezer, slight wound in shoulder, all from pieces of shell.

Co. B. Abraham Barrett, slight wound in shoulder.

The 17th is again under marching orders, and we are momentarily expecting to leave for some unknown destination, probably to Washington. We shall take three days' cooked rations—"salt horse" and "hard tack,"—in haversacks, and seven in bulk, on teams.

We are now enjoying beautiful Spring weather.

☞ When is a defaulter a paradox? When he's a non est man.

The Wizard.

WEDNESDAY, MAY 6, 1863.

To Correspondents.—We received, after our columns were pre-occupied, a spicy, Punchy, Hood-y article, entitled "Crumbs for the Camp." We reserve it for next week, although the high seasoning of its jests would keep them from spoiling much longer.

We are also obliged to omit our article relating to the Fire Department, as the list of officers is incomplete.

CONDUCT OF THE WAR.

It is well known to our readers that a Joint Committee of the Senate and House of Congress have been engaged in investigations of the Conduct of the War to subdue the Rebellion, and in the course of it they have labored strenuously and examined witnesses and much documentary testimony. That they have made mistakes is evident from the results of their investigations in regard to that part of their duty which relates to the defences of Washington. We allude to their statements of the manning of the forts south of the city, garrisoned by the 14th Massachusetts Regiment, which are flatly contradicted by Col. Greene, who had command of a brigade of heavy artillery, including his own regiment, and who may be supposed to have known how the forts were manned and defended. Still the main statements of the Committee stand uncontradicted, and their Report will always be considered an important part of the history of this war. The general conclusions of the Committee may be thus summed up:—During the Autumn of 1861, and the Winter and Spring of the following year, we were almost uniformly successful, as at Hatteras, Port Royal, Fort Henry, Mill Spring, Fort Donelson, Roanoke Island, in Missouri and Arkansas, and on the Mississippi, particularly at New Orleans. Had the success of the Army of the Potomac, during this period, corresponded with that of the other branches of our forces, the termination of the campaign of 1862 would have seen the rebellion well nigh, if not entirely overthrown. These chances having been lost, what remains to be done is clear. In the words of the Report:—

"We must obtain uninterrupted control of the Mississippi. We must reach those great railroad arteries—the one bordering on the Atlantic sea-board, the other stretching through the Virginia and Tennessee Valleys to the West and South. We must, as soon as possible, take the few fortified sea-ports remaining in possession of the rebels, and then we shall have virtually disarmed the rebellion, cut it off from all external sources of food and arms, and have surrounded it by forces which can press upon it from any quarter, at the same time severing their means of intercommunication."

The Report continues:

"It is not our true policy to attempt an actual military occupation of the rebel territory, except at a few and important controlling points. We must destroy their armies, and to do this we must concentrate not scatter our forces. It is better to operate successfully against one stronghold or one army than to attempt three and fail."

FULFILLMENT OF PROPHECY.

It is well known that Mr. Stephens of Georgia, now Vice President of the sham Confederacy, was opposed to secession in the Georgia Convention. He spoke eloquently and truthfully of the consequences of rebellion to the South, and if his counsels had been heeded, Georgia would have remained a loyal State. Although he was afterwards swept away by the current of Southern public opinion, his words, uttered ninety days before the fall of Sumter, are remarkably prophetic, and passing events are working out their fulfillment. The following extract shows how plainly he saw the shadow of coming events:—

"That this step once taken could never be recalled, and all the baneful and withering consequences that must follow (as they would see) will rest on the Convention for all coming time. When we and our posterity shall see our lovely South desolated by the demon of war which this act of yours will inevitably invite and call forth; when our green fields of waving harvests shall be trodden down by the murderous soldiery and fiery ear of war sweeping over our land; our temples of justice laid in ashes; all the horrors and desolation of war upon us; who but this Convention will be held responsible for it? and who but him who shall have given his vote for this unwise and ill-timed measure (as I honestly think and believe) shall be held to strict account for this suicidal act, and by the present generation, and probably cursed and execrated by posterity for all coming time, for the wide and desolating ruin that will follow this act you now propose to perpetrate?"

Gen. Hooker Moving on!—The last accounts, from Hooker's Army, as we go to press, represent the contest with the rebels as severe, but successful to our arms. It is believed that the enemy's communications are cut off and we have possession of many of his batteries as well as the defenses around Fredericksburg. Things look hopeful but we do not deem it time yet for exultation.

Confederate Currency.—A friend has handed us a copy of the Port Royal "New South," in which we find stated the difference between the rebel currency and gold. Corn sells for $4.00 per bushel in paper, and for gold it may be had for 40 cents. This is ten dollars in currency for one in specie.

THE NEW RAILROAD.

This enterprise is so near its completion that it is time to look forward to its prospects of success, not only as an indispensable convenience to the public, but as an investment to those who have incurred the trouble and risks of its construction. We never for a moment have doubted that its stock would be one of the very best of the kind in existence. It is seldom that a route is found where everything is so ripe for the success of such a road,—so short, so populous, and already requiring a large amount of carriage conveyance. The only wonder is that it was not sooner appropriated. In looking at other undertakings of the kind, where the routes have been long, the travelers few and the cost large, and which have yet done well, we could not but feel confident of the success of our own enterprise.

It has sometimes been the case that the proprietors have leased their roads, after construction, to other parties. We trust this will not be the policy of the directors of this road. If it should fall into the hands of a stranger, it might prove a damper to the now highly raised feelings of our citizens. It is our population which is to support the road, and it is of the first importance that it shall have their sympathy, or at least their good will. Thus far its managers have shown a commendable regard for the feeling existing here, and in this they have exhibited a wisdom which points to the sure path of success.

If they intend to operate the road, as we hope they will, we trust they will, in their selection of superintendent and employees, look to a conciliatory course and give employment to those who have so long had the confidence and sympathy of the traveling public.

As to the superintendence, there are more than one who have been so long identified with the route from here to Salem, that it would almost be considered a violence to the feelings of the people if a stranger should be called to take the place they have so long occupied. It is needless for us to give names, as all eyes have so long been in that direction, and in no other.

Gen. Hooker and the Methodist Church.—The First Methodist Church of Lynn have proposed to Maj. Gen. Joe Hooker, to make him a Life Director of the Methodist Missionary Society, and he has replied to them in a letter, in which he states that he is sincerely thankful for the distinguished compliment they have paid him and regrets that he is not more worthy of it. The First Methodist Church of Lynn numbers about 350 members and have sent nearly 80 men to fight in the Union armies It is the first Methodist Church or society organized in Massachusetts; it erected the first Methodist chapel in the State; it was the seat of the first Methodist Conference held in New England; it raised up the first native Methodist preacher of New England; it formed the first Methodist Sabbath School in New England; it organized the first Methodist Missionary Society in the United States; it sent forth and sustained the first regularly appointed Missionary of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

Military Map of Newbern, N. C.—We have received, through a friend, a Map of Newbern and its Vicinity. It is but a pen-and-ink sketch, and was drawn by Mr. Edward Farnham, but it gives a fine view of the situation of the city on a peninsula between the Rivers Neuse and Trent. The encampments of the Union forces are represented, and the position of the defences and rebel flags denote the territory not occupied by our troops and which the rebels sometimes occupy. We have placed this map in the Post Office for the inspection of friends of the Newbern troops, who will find it quite interesting.

☞ The body of the boy Eiffe was found yesterday morning, about 9 o'clock, in the stream near Mr. Daniel Woodbury's factory, by Wm. Mahoney. It was much swollen and discolored, having been in the water a fortnight last Friday.

Returned.—Lieut. David G. Lake, of the 24th Regt., Mass. Vols., and Sergeant Charles H. Kimball, of Co. C, 5th Regiment, have lately returned home, being in feeble health.

☞ Rev. Mr. Calthrop, of Marblehead, will deliver a lecture before the Irving Association, at Peabody Institute, on Tuesday evening next, May 12th, in behalf of the Ladies' Soldiers' Aid Society.

Unitarian Society.—At the Annual Meeting of this Society, held on Monday evening last, the following gentlemen were elected as the Standing Committee:—Messrs. Isaac B. Elliot, Nathaniel Symonds and George Upton.

☞ With reference to the various Government expeditions against the Indians, Brigham Young says: "I will, comparatively speaking, take one plug of tobacco, a shirt, and three cents worth of paint, and save more life and hinder more depredations than they can by expending millions of dollars vested in an army to fight and kill Indians."

THE RAILROAD.

May Day witnessed the first breaking of ground for the Horse Railroad, and the exercises of the occasion were quite interesting. These took place just at the entrance to our plaza, between the Post Office building and Warren Bank, where Main street joins with Central street.

After the engineer had laid out the ground, and the earth had been loosened, the shovel was presented. The shovel was bright and new, made for the purpose, and had upon it the inscription—Warranted Cast Steel. It also had on it the initial letters, S. R. R. These are supposed to mean "Swift, Rapid Running,"—an allusion to the speed of the cars.

The shovel was taken in hand by the Chairman of the Standing Committee, who first offered it to Mr. Samuel Q. White, who modestly and gracefully declined the honor of the first use of the instrument. It was then presented to Mr. Tyler, who accepted it, and made skillful use of it by taking up the first gravel of South Danvers, removed for the construction of the first tram railroad. As he stood, holding the sacred gravel in the shovel, the Chairman addressed him in an eloquent speech in which he recounted the many benefits conferred upon the world by the use of the shovel. It was by the shovel that the precious metals were dug from the bosom of the earth; by it we graded our railroads and laid the foundations of our buildings. It was valued also by some of our generals as the greatest instrument of war.

He then went on to show the advantages of the new enterprise, by which Salem becomes annexed to South Danvers, and may be considered an important suburb of our thriving town. The people of both places will become as one, and we shall hear no more of the old war-cries, "Salem Shags" and "Danvers Hawkers." The speaker had much to say of the resources of South Danvers in her great staples of beets, turnips, onions, glue, upper leather and other vegetables, and closed with the words of the late Mr. William Shakspeare, in his Paradise Lost—Onions and Liberty—one and insufferable! [Great applause.]

After the applause had subsided, Mr. Tyler threw down the shovelful of dirt, and the making of the road commenced. Our friend, Mr. Shackley, seems to have the general oversight, while two or three others act as sub-engineers, and Mr. S. Q. White does the nice work and finishing off. The Standing Committee oversee them all. There was some indignation expressed by several of the committee when they found that the workmen were laying but one rail. They denounced it not only as a "one horse" concern, but as a wheel-barrow road, and said it never would do in the world. The laying of the parallel rail in the afternoon set this matter at rest. We are not sorry to state that they have entirely destroyed Mr Pingree's track and used his rails on the new structure.

At the time of going to press the rails are laid to Mr. Walton's shoe shop.

Free passes, not transferable, enabling the holders to go on the track, on foot, to Salem, may be had of Mr. White, until the cars are put upon the track.

[Correspondence of the Wizard.]

E. H. BULLARD.

E. H. Bullard, Esq., whose name heads this correspondence, gave a most remarkably interesting lecture in Gothic Hall, on Sunday evening last, upon the war, its origin, present and future prospects, etc., from a soldier's point of view.

The hall was crowded to its utmost capacity, and there was not one inattentive listener. As I learn that he is to speak in South Danvers next Monday evening, May 11th, I think it but a duty to your readers that they should be fully apprised of the fact, as Mr. B., by his course of public speaking, is doing much good and should be heard by all.

Mr. B. is a returned soldier, and only left the service from sufficient reasons, which were strictly honorable to himself, and now, by a dissemination of loyal sentiment, it is in his power to render the Government much service.

His lecture of Sunday evening was an hour and a quarter in length. He is a young, original, earnest and attractive speaker, and has made a most favorable impression here; and should he return next Fall or Winter as a lecturer, he will be greeted by a large audience.

Yours, &c., Union.

Danvers Plains, May 5th, 1863.

☞ Guiccioli, (Byron's old flame,) it is said is writing the poet's life. It will be curious to see that checkered career from such a standpoint of view. A contemporary says of Guiccioli:—"She is sixty years old, wears a flaxen wig, false teeth and rouge, is a married woman, and is vain enough to believe she is still handsome."

☞ A Nashville Union Club, of five hundred members, have adopted anti-slavery resolutions.

☞ It is stated that Jeff. Davis is about to lose his remaining eye, having lost one some years since, and that he is a great sufferer.

DOCTOR LORING'S LECTURE IN DANVERS.

Mr. Editor,—Not many weeks ago, I read in the Wizard a highly laudatory notice of a lecture delivered by Dr. Loring of Salem, before the Peabody Institute, on the life and services of Chief Justice Parsons. It was commended for its eloquence, style, research, and patriotism; and was pronounced worthy to be enrolled with the first-class lectures of the present day. Last week I read a notice of this same lecture, from your correspondent "Auditor," who listened to its delivery before the Farmers' Club in Danvers, and who takes a very different view from that previously contained in your columns.

"Auditor" seems to have expected a discourse upon the private character of the late Chief Justice,—upon "his tastes," "his pleasures," "his idiosyncrasies," "his manhood," "his manners;" and because he did not get this, he appears to be disappointed. He complains because the parentage of the Chief Justice was dwelt upon; and because curious facts in the life of a New England Minister in early days, were brought before the audience. And he rises to a sublime state of agony, because he was not told what Chief Justice Parsons would have done with the Constitution and the Laws, which he labored to establish, had he lived in the present day of trial to the Republic. He even goes so far as to pronounce in the fervor of his indignation that the lecture was "libelous," because it did not declare that the Chief Justice would have trampled "on so-called State Rights during an emergency."

Now, Mr. Editor, I have twice listened to this same lecture, and can only say that as a chapter in the early history of our country it is most interesting, suggestive, and instructive. The reference to the class of distinguished sons of Essex, who have done so much for their country, should fill every citizen of the county with pride. The portrayal of all the high, moral and religious influences under which Parsons, as the son of a New England clergyman, was nurtured, should elevate every listener, and appeal to his sense of all that is honorable, and pure, and high-toned. The tribute to the protection which the law affords every citizen, in the exercise of his rights as a freeman, and to the opportunity which the study of the law affords for the development of all the largest human faculties, was most worthy of the subject.

The recital of the public career of Parsons as a lawyer, statesman, and jurist, is calculated to arrest the attention of every man who would learn the wisdom and virtue, and intelligence, which guided our fathers in the foundation of the government, which they transmitted to us. As a concise and graphic sketch of the trials which beset them in their work, and the sagacity and prudence which they exercised in accomplishing it, the lecture is unequalled. It was a return to "the past," as the lecturer stated in the beginning; and as such was a theme upon which every American should love to dwell, and from which he may, if he will, learn much to guide him through the present. It was a sketch of Chief Justice Parsons as a public character, active, efficient, and controlling, during the most interesting chapter in our national history.

If all this has no charms for "Auditor," he must blame himself, and not the lecture. Perhaps he has no love for the great and good men who gave him his country, and no interest in the process by which they founded it. Perhaps the generosity and conciliation and prudence which they manifested are distasteful to him. Perhaps their plan of government stands in his way. Perhaps he entertains views of the mission of self-government, which their declarations disturb. Perhaps he finds it difficult to reconcile their views of government, with his own; and would rather not have theirs referred to. At any rate, it is very extraordinary that he should have desired to know what one of these great men ate, and drank, and wore, how he sat in his chair, how he related trivial anecdotes, how he arranged his wig, or used his handkerchief, how he "wore his beaver," and in what posture he slept—rather than what thought guided him in that career which made him great, and which will not be forgotten, when all knowledge of his personal shall have passed away.

It is very extraordinary that in a time like this, the public duties of our fathers should be distasteful, and that their private habits should constitute the only charm which they possess.

I would remind "Auditor" that this is a matter of taste. There are those among us who like to recur to the glories of our past history, and who derive much consolation from them. What the great actors in those scenes would do, were they now living, I have no doubt.

They would put forth all their power to save their country, as they did to make it, and in the same spirit. But to say that any one of them would have adopted a plan conformable to any party views of the present day, is a "libelous" assumption, of which I am happy to see Dr. Loring is unwilling to be guilty. This business remains for "Auditor" to do, who evidently sees everything through spectacles colored by his political prejudices.

He may be filled with the most profound political wisdom; but when he undertakes to declare what Chief Justice Parsons would have done with the Constitution during a rebellion, he shows that his humility will never interfere with his chances of becoming President of a re-constructed Republic, or even a Military Dictator, should the way be prepared for such a government, in a land which our fathers made free. Republican.

☞ The newspapers are noticing that law business is on the decline. This is only true of criminal business; and the reason is plain.—The war gives a wide field for the action of facilities and powers that were before employed in mischief and crime. The men who were before courts for larceny, assaults, and other petty crimes have gone to the war, where they can indulge their inclinations legally. If any of them hesitate to go, and are arrested for petty crimes they have only to propose enlistment for three years, and we hear nothing of the trial or punishment. The discipline of the army is considered as beneficial to them and the public as anything that can be done with or to them.—Newburyport Herald.

☞ Bro. Josselyn, of the Lynn Bay State, has got a new set of teeth, set in "vulcanized rubber," instead of gold, and speaks in high terms of the new article, which is a good substitute for gold. He has had the gold taken out of his old set of teeth, and finds it to reach in value $12; and he is now flush. Fortunate fellow; his teeth has proved a savings bank!—Marblehead Mirror.

WAR CORRESPONDENCE.

Martindale Barracks,
Washington, April 26th, 1863.

Friend Poole,—A fortnight ago last night, the boys were agreeably surprised by orders from Washington for us to be in readiness to take the field. Tall flying around took place the next day. Officers were ordered to reduce their baggage to one small valise or carpet bag, and the men were to throw away everything not allowed to be carried by the Army Regulations. We were to carry seven days rations, three of them cooked, and from this, we supposed that some tobacco-plantation in Kentucky would be our next camping ground, or that some leaky transport would soon be toting us to Newbern, New Orleans or Charleston.—Monday morning came, but no orders to march; Tuesday was the same and we began to think it a joke of A. L's. Wednesday morning, about two o'clock, orders came to start at 9 o'clock for Washington. It rained pouring when we started, and a dismal future was before us certainly, but we were all in good spirits. The 10th Battery was drawn up in line as we passed by, and gave us nine rousing cheers.—The 14th New Hampshire Band gave us some parting music, and through the mud we trudged. Good bye to Poolesville; we have wintered you, Heaven grant we may never summer you. The rain came in sheets, the mud was half-leg deep, the boys were loaded heavy, and four months of luxuriousness had made most of them corpulent and short-winded, so that the first four or five miles came rather hard. We marched the first day 18 miles to Rockville, pitched our shelter tents, raining pouring all the while, built enormous fires, and worried through the night. You should have seen the group around our fire, squatting on rails confiscated from a neighboring fence, and stripping their feet to find the result of the day's labor. Of course, every one's feet were soaking wet. One would find about an inch of heel missing; another would find a row of beautiful blisters on his toes. I heard that one man found a pair of children's stockings on his feet, owing to the thorough soaking they got. The next morning we were all on the limp, but, taking it slowly we brought up at Tunnallytown about dark.—Here, the Colonel appropriated a large Female Seminary, and, putting a Company into a room, we had a good night's rest. Here we received orders to report at these Barracks. We spent about three hours in cleaning up guns, equipments and clothing, anxious to make a good appearance on entering the city, and here we are. We were at once ordered to furnish guards for all the Departments, and about 400 men were detailed. A great many of our Officers have been sent away on speecial, or detached duty, and it would seem that it is the intention of the powers that be, to make this our front that we were going to.

The first orders received, included the whole Brigade, with the exception of the 23d Maine, (a nine months regiment) and the Battery; but the final order was for the regiment that was first ready to start. The paymaster visited us on Wednesday last, and paid us to the first of March. Ten cent cigars, meerschaum pipes and such little luxuries immediately made their appearance, and the Opera, Canterbury's and the Varieties were extensively patronized. A few of the very highest-toned indulged in the exhilirating whiskey or the festive gin-cock-tail, but in no case to excess. I believe that South Danvers boys are all well. We have formed a glee club, and it seems something like old times to meet together and have a good sing. Some of our voices were a little cracked at first, but they soon got clear, and no doubt, had there been any suitable person to serenade we should have gone and done it.

Capt. N. is entirely computous. He is Field Officer of the Day to-day, and has the appearance of a Brigadier General as he canters up Penn. Avenue with his gleaming sabre at his side. Speaking of Brigadier Generals reminds me of one who had his straps cut from his shoulders the other night at Willards by the Provost Marshal he having been discharged, some six weeks before.

The Wizard establishment may consider itself under close arrest, for conduct prejudicial to good order and military discipline. I have not received one for four weeks. Beware and tremble! C. W. H.

COPPER COLOR.

Some copperheads of Rockport have been petitioning the General Court to forbid any more "persons of color" from coming into the State. A committee have reported on this petition, and we give below an extract from the report. It is from the pen of Peleg W. Chandler, Esq.:—

No facts are set forth in the petition; no reasons are assigned, and no person has appeared before the Committee on behalf of the petitioners. Nor are we aware of the particular "color" which is objected to, or what precise shade calls for the interposition of the general court; and there has been no evidence offered as to the complexion of the petitioners themselves.

If the term used is intended to include copper-colored persons, like Malays or Chinese, or any natives of distant countries, perhaps the fact that our ships are finding it too difficult at present to obtain cargoes or passengers, or to navigate the seas at all, may relieve the petitioners from any present alarm on this score, although they may justly perhaps feel some degree of apprehension for a new species of copper-heads which are near home.

Sir Colin Campbell at the Alma.—Before the action had begun, and whilst his men were still in column, Campbell had spoken to his brigade a few words, for the most part workman like, yet touched with the fire of warlike sentiment: "Now, men, you are going into action. Remember this: Whoever is wounded—I don't care what rank he is—whoever is wounded must lie where he falls till the bands men come to attend him. No soldiers must go carrying off wounded men. If any soldier does such a thing, his name shall be stuck up in his parish church. Don't be in a hurry about firing. Your officers will tell you when it is time to open fire. Be steady. Keep silence. Fire low. Now, men"—those who know the old soldier can tell how his voice would falter while his features were kindling—"Now, men, the army will watch us, make me proud of the Highland Brigade!"

☞ A Lady suggests that a small flag be nailed upon the door-post of every household in our land from which has gone forth one or more of its members to support and keep pure the honor of that flag. A capital suggestion.

From the Newburyport Herald.

WILLIAM LLOYD GARRISON

Is now the oldest editor in Boston, counting professional life alone; he is also the most successful. There is not an editor in Boston or the world who has been the means of accomplishing as great a revolution in public sentiment and public action, as he. Of the anti-slavery movement which has culminated in this mighty civil war, he can say—"solitary and alone I set this ball in motion." People tell of the influence of the Tribune, of Charles Sumner, of political and religious anti-slavery societies, but of all these Lloyd Garrison was the author—the father. He first declared for immediate and unconditional emancipation. He was the head of the "twelve apostles" of that idea, who formed the first abolition society.—His Liberator was the first, and long the only newspaper devoted to that object, and by his pen and living voice and unceasing activity he kept the subject alive in this country and in England. He claimed that this was the "living idea" of the age, and political parties that did not acknowledge it, he spurned and spit upon; churches that did not admit it, he whipped as with a scourge of scorpions, and drove them from the great temple of religion, as the money changers were driven out of the old Jewish temple; constitutions that did not provide for it, he burned as Luther did the Pope's bull; and unions and confederated leagues that were in opposition, he denounced as of death and hell. The people gazed in wonder, inquiring whence this new light; the mobs stoned him in the streets, burned the building where his followers assembled, and threatened his own life; the government of the South put a price on his head, as though he had been a wild beast; and the authorities placed him in jail for safety. He came to his own, here in Newburyport where he was born, and his own received him not—he was forced to speak in streets, fields and barns because hall and church were closed. The churches anathematized him as heretic and infidel, a disturber of the peace, hell-born; and prayed God to close his mouth and stop his blasphemies. Many States made his speech a felony; the political parties ostracized all who know him or look on him; and Congress—the grand supreme Congress of the American nation—refused to allow his petitions to be read in their hearing.

All this is within the memory of the very children; but William Lloyd Garrison was as unmoved as a mountain in a storm, as undismayed as is the mighty ocean, when children from the sea shore throw pebbles into its bosom. He stood up in the midst of the great commotion, and said—I will instruct the blind guides of the blind in the churches; I will mould politics into their true form; I will make legislatures and congresses, Governors and Presidents; the Constitution shall be interpreted by my light, and the Union as I understand it."—Nearly all that he promised himself or predicted for the public, has come to pass or is now being fulfilled. Shrink from it, ye timid ones who reprint him in newspapers, and claim originality; who repeat him in town house, legislative hall, and pulpit and still perhaps sneeringly pronounce his name—shrink from it, if ye have not the courage to own it, but it is true nevertheless. The little leaven that was placed in the vessel of meal by him who was born in the lowly home in School street, by the boy who ran barefooted in the streets of Newburyport, and who learned his trade, as a printer, in the very office where we now write—has leavened the whole lump. Carefully did we read him for years and years, and we have not received a new idea on slavery since this administration began or this war was thought of. Eloquent men have written and spoken—clergymen and lawyers, editors and statesmen, philosophers and poets, thinkers and warriors, but he had told all they have said before them, and in many instances before they were born.

Where in the wide world has there been such an instance of success? Luther shook the nations in his day, but he produced not so great changes in politics and religion as has Garrison in his thirty-five years of warfare. Nor did his preaching ever give such changes in social life as will Garrison's, if the President's proclamation is enforced, and slavery dies in this rebellion. Loyola, the father of the Jesuits, gave to the church and the world an order whose influence has been felt around the globe; but the Jesuits with all their zeal, and learning, their self-sacrifice and power, can point to no such trophies as belong to the non-resistant philosopher and poet of the Liberator. In the annals of the world that man has not a name, who was more mighty in shaking the established order of things, and giving the fabric the fashion he designed. Sampson with the gates of the city upon his back, or tumbling down the building of his enemies, most represented him; but he was crushed in his victory, while Garrison is yet in the promise of life and may have many years for the new state of affairs which he has been so largely instrumental in forming. We do not agree with him in many of his views, but we think to do him no more than justice in these remarks.

☞ The Rebels are doing their best to win in this spring campaign, hoping, no doubt, that it may influence the world to acknowledge their nationality. Therefore they have increased their forces at every point, and of late have been forward in attacks, instead of standing on the defensive. For the last six months of 1862 their expenses were over fifty million dollars per month, or nearly two millions per day, coming well up to our own expenditures. Of late they have made desperate efforts in Eastern Virginia, in North Carolina, and in Louisiana, to force their way to the seaboard, hoping to open their ports.

☞ Chicago is determined to see the sights. She proposes furnishing her observatory with a refracting telescope, manufactured by Alvan Clark & Sons, of Cambridge. The object glass is three inches larger than that of any other telescope in the world, and upon being tested in a temporary tube at Cambridge, disclosed celestial wonders unseen before. When pointed at Sirius it brought to view the hitherto undiscovered companion of that star, an event of great scientific interest, in relation to the periodical motion of Sirius.

☞ Government has contracted for the transfer of eight hundred largest size cannon from Pittsburg, when they are made, to New York, Boston, Portland and other seaport towns.—Some of them are 11-inch guns and others 15-inch. The latter gun weighs about twenty-four tons, and is fourteen feet long. Its breach is four feet in diameter, and the muzzle two feet.

Elegant Carpets at Low Prices.—Purchasers should read the advertisement in our paper, of the New England Carpet Co.

[For the Wi

LINES FOR A LA

TO CLARIE P-

I love the dell,
The shady bo
The rippling ril
The blooming
A Summer's night, whe
And Cytherea sails he
The sandy beach, where
A dashing on the pear
The Spring bird's song,
To see it mount on its
But better far,
I like to see
Unassuming
Modesty.

The Fair in Lawrenc and wounded soldiers in th very successful. On Fas
3000 single tickets were s
(Wednesday) 1200 were s tickets at $1 each. 300
the dinner. The exhibiti very attractive. Some of itously loaned by Elijah this town. Relics in abun and ancient battle-fields, decorations of the large ha
the designer. Major Watso of cloth being used for front of the platform was pointed arch, with the in Generosity equal their Se arch was fringed with gas-ed by a blazing star, and p ning a most brilliant appe
the platform was occupied the right by an artificial "Mystic Cove." The an fished up small packages, turned out to be cradles, d ers, etc. The Antiquarian tractive. The Old Folks about thirty, drew peals crowd of visitors. Everyt decidedly ancient. Spinn tall clock and quaint pic about twelve feet long con furniture. The Fair was every particular.

Economy of Nature.—
bodies, known as the vola pentine, essence of lemons, rosemary, oil of juniper, differing widely from each in their mechanical effects, t &c., are exactly identical in contain the same elements-gen—in the same proportio
The crystallized part of fragrancy of which is so w pound body containing e ments in the same propo employ for lighting our str Vegetable culture height of a country.
The disease called painte in all manufactories of w
the workmen are accusto preservative, sulphuric aci tion of sugar, rendered aci or oil of vitriol.

☞ James B. Clay, son o orator and statesman, is e rebel regiments attached shall's command. Col. Cla ber of the Federal Congr noted for anything except his father's mansion, and h rafters manufactured into w he peddled out at five dolla

☞ Advices from Port I the Monitors are being iron-
A number of artisans from ing the naval men in this d

Grace's Sa
Newburyport
Mr. Grace:—My daught grievously for several mont so much so that she could n sequence thereof she was ext
All our efforts to cure it pro til a friend of mine who h recommended it as an ex applied it on his recommend me great pleasure to say, effected a perfect cure, wh neighbors as well as myself, with me that your salve is they have ever seen, and mu upon every house that con soreness or accident. May t good shower blessings upon
C

Guipure Lace Collars.—
ceived a full line of Eleg
Collars at our usual disco prices—from 75 cts. to $4 00 stock of Wrought Cambric E
ings in new styles.
220 Essex St., J.

☞ Try one of Rhoades
Wringers, before purchasin sale at the Equity Store, So
advertisement.

Our Lady readers will n ment of James F. Almy, in o of Goods from New York;
all kinds of Dry Goods will ing his most complete and de they have no need to go out for variety of choice goods o

Purchasers of Ladies Out referred to the great variety
F. Almy, at No. 188 Essex patterns from New York, a ments made in this city, he desirable novelties at very lo

Musical.—We have rece sic Rooms of Messrs. D. B. on Central Street, Salem, Where are You Going, S voices, by H. K. Oliver,— Ditson & Co.
Messrs. Brooks & Brothe
No. 198 Essex street, a few opposite side, while their s alterations. We understand to sell off their present stoc ll wiensure a sale.

ure in the Old South.

L. BULLARD, of Boston, a return-will address the people of South
Monday evening, May 11th, in the
, at 7½ o'clock. Subject: "What inks of the War."
as recently spoken in a large numities and towns of Essex County, d success. To defray expenses and the speaker, a fee of 5 cents will at the door upon entrance. The nvited to attend.
nvers, May 6, 1863.

VOCAL CLASS!

L FENOLLOSA, at the request his friends, respectfully announces n of forming a

Class in South Danvers, quirement of thorough rudimental

in the Art of Singing.
tion papers for Membership may be
Mrs. Geo. P. Osborne, Mrs. I. B.
Mr. Geo. P. Daniels. will be organized as soon as a suf-ber of names are obtained to insure

.00 for 24 Evening's Instruction.
ers, April 8, 1863. tf

Five Cents Savings Bank.

l-Annual Meeting of this corpora-e held at the Warren Bank Rooms day, May 6th, at 7 o'clock, P. M. order,
FRANCIS BAKER, Secretary.
nvers, April 22, 1863. 3t

ve for sale one very fine Piano Forte d one at $175; also two splendid e Piano-Fortes at $300 each, at my Essex Street, Salem. All orders for New York instruments promptly
S. MACKINTIRE, Agent.

rt of Danvers.

sehs Black Diamond, Young, Phil-
Gen'l Taylor, Jones, New York.

Marriages.

n Danvers, Ap 30, by Rev Mr Winn, S Buffum to Miss Mary A Jordan,
m. No cards.
, Ap 15, by Rev Parsons Cook, D D, F Snow of South Danvers, to Miss lint of Lynn.
n, Ap 30, by Rev Mr Winn, Mr Jo-urbank of Boston, to Miss Susan P alem.
by Rev Mr Beaman, Mr Henry Hu-
Jane A Goodridge.

Deaths.

h Danvers, Ap 30, Julia Augusta, nj C Perkins, Esq, 33.
ersport, Ap 29, Andrew Gould, 74;
ied with Masonic rites.
n, Ap 27, Mrs Sarah, widow of the Dalrymple, Esq, 86; George R, son
P and Mary E Farmer, 10 months;
ry W, son of Henry and Martha 9 yrs; Mary, daughter of the late l Fox, 17 years; 29th, Miss Ellen 29 yrs; Ann, daughter of Edward Mitchell, 3 yrs; 30th, Mr Jacob Len-rs; May 3d, Miss Abby Russell, 57
Walter S, son of Thomas A and Emue, 3 yrs 5 mos; at the alms house, l Ricker, 83.
Mr Wm O'Shea, 21 yrs 3 mos 26 ds, nothy and Julia O'Shea. He was a md medal scholar of the Peabody ol, where he distinguished himself ellent deportment and good scholar-after life he was interested and asmperanee and other organizations r their object the improvement of bers. He also gave great promise ess as a man of business if his life pared.
lehead, Ap 26, Mrs Mary, widow of hn Orne, Esq, 89 yrs.
rly, Ap 29, Mr Peter Pride, 72 yrs.

xtraordinary success of Dr. Ham's Invigor-
, seems to stir up an army of Tonics, Cure Alls; but as a general thing they e Morning Glory—look very fine in the it wilt before the day has past. The Dr.
efore the public for years; his Dyspepsia
s been tested and not found wanting; it e Liver, Stomach, Head and the whole is good at all times and for everybody.

ewell's Great Remedies.

VERY FAMILY SHOULD HAVE IN THE HOUSE AND WHY;
should have HUNNEWELL'S UNIVERSAL
EDY, because it effectually cures Colds, and Common Coughs, Sore Throat, Hoarsethe most simple and perfect Soothing e world. For old and young, by day and ay be used with the greatest freedom, and as of the deaths by Consumption stopped uld have HUNNEWELL'S TOLU ANODYNE, is a perfect remedy for Neuralgia, Ner-k Headache, Tooth, and Earache, Pain in r Bowels, Genuine Cholera Morbus, Rhea stress after Eating, Nervousness, Hyste-e chief of all causes of disease, and Insani-Sleep. Its character, though active, is action in perfect conformity to nature;
e, or relief
ains in Monthly Menstruation a perfect re-nature's after work is not disturbed, and most important points in Medicine.
uld have HUNNEWELL'S ECLECTIC PILLS,
h seldom but a single Pill for a dose all nts of the Stomach and Bowels are cured-Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Headache, when loul stomach, Loss of Appetite, Biliousness
d so erroneously treated with Mercurials,
For Worms a sure cure.
simple, assist nature, do not make a Pill stomach, as is the most fatal error of taky Pills at a dose and then, what is imporery Family and every Purse, one bottle goes wo or three of what is ordinarily sold.
fidence of all is asked to test
nnewell's Universal Cough Remedy.
nnewell's Tolu Anodyne.
nnewell's Eclectic Pills.
-simile of J. L. Hunnewell's signature over enuine only.
JOHN L. HUNNEWELL, proprietor,
9 Commercial Wharf, Boston, Mass.
E. Meacom, Agent for Danvers.
by all dealers in Salem and vicinity.
853—1 y

M. FENOLLOSA,

TEACHER OF MUSIC,
.....PIANO FORTES,
at the lowest rates;
..... PIANO FORTES,
at the Manufacturers Prices;
GES....PIANO FORTES,
on the easiest terms;
At Rooms No. 7 Central street,
SALEM, MASS.

MANUAL FENOLLOSA,

TEACHER
OF THE n, Piano and Singing,
IC ROOMS, No. 7 Central Street,
SALEM, MASS.

☞ Visit OSBORNE'S Store, and look at the unusual variety of new styles in HATS and CAPS—191 Essex street.

Advertisements.

AT AUCTION!

IF not previously disposed of, the subscriber will sell at auction on SATURDAY next, May 9th, at 1 o'clock, P. M., the balance on hand of READY-MADE CLOTHING, RUBBER GOODS, CARPETING and CARPET-BAGS, PAPER HANGINGS, CURTAIN FIXTURES, EMBROIDERIES, COLLARS, RIBBONS, &c., &c.

☞ As the subscriber is about to leave town he respectfully requests all those indebted to him, whose accounts are over due, to pay them immediately.

May 6th GEO. S. DANIELS

DRY GOODS
— IN —
SOUTH DANVERS!

NEW and desirable SPRING DRESS GOODS, PRINTS, SHEETINGS, SHIRTINGS, &c., at the Reduced Prices, may be found at the Cheap Cash Store of

GEO. P. DANIELS.

April 22, 1863.

A Card.

Having disposed of my stock and stand to Miss M. E. CRANE, I avail myself of this opportunity to request my friends and customers who have bestowed their liberal patronage upon me, to transfer the same to my successor.

In taking leave of my business friends, I would return my warmest thanks for the generous patronage I have received. I can in the highest terms recommend Miss CRANE, and would bespeak for her your kind consideration and confidence.

I would most respectfully invite those having unsettled accounts to call and adjust the same, either with Miss Crane or myself, at the old stand.

April 22, 1863. M. M. FLETCHER.

Notice.

The Subscriber having purchased of Mrs. M. M. FLETCHER her stock of Goods, and made additions to the same, is now prepared to furnish her patrons and the public with a large and fine assortment of

Millinery Goods,

which we will sell very low for cash. We hope by strict attention to business to merit a liberal share of patronage. M. E. CRANE,

ap 22 cor. of Essex and St. Peter sts.

Tillage Land and Barn to Let.

ABOUT six acres of good level Tillage Land with a Barn, situated upon the "Cross Road" in Rockville. Any one wishing to work upon land a portion or the whole of his time will find this a rare chance.

For further particulars application may be made to either of the subscribers.

S. C. BANCROFT, So. Danvers.
JOHN H. NICHOLS, Salem.

South Danvers, Ap. 22.

PHOTOGRAPH ALBUMS.

BEAUTIFUL and new styles, in great variety:

Card Pictures of the "Prince and Princess," "Father Cleveland," and others at

G M WHIPPLE & A A SMITH S.

To Let.

A SMALL but pleasant and convenient Chamber Tenement, in the house formerly occupied by the late Wood Forness, upon the corner of Washington and Pleasant Streets. For particulars apply to

SIDNEY C. BANCROFT.

South Danvers, April 22. tf

Quincy Mutual Fire Insurance Co.

Available and Cash Capital $500,000.

INSURES Buildings, Merchandize and Personal Property generally, on terms as favorable as any other dividend paying company.

J. D. BLACK, Agent,
april 22—1y At Danversport.

Merrimack Mutual Fire Insurance Co., Andover, Mass.

ONE of the OLD AND RELIABLE OFFICES.

J. D. BLACK is Agent for Danvers and South Danvers. apr 22—1y

Crockery Ware.

A FULL assortment of China and Crockery Ware; Wooden Ware; Table Cutlery; Tea Trays; Britannia Ware and Silver Plated Ware, &c—for sale at the General Furnishing Store for Housekeepers, No. 32 Front street.

ap 22 S C & E A SIMONDS.

Chickering & Sons' Piano-Fortes.

Hallett & Cumston's Piano-Fortes.

Hallett & Davis's Piano-Fortes.

We select our Piano-Fortes from the above firms and warrant them to give perfect satisfaction. Our terms are reasonable, and all persons in the city and neighboring towns can be accommodated by calling at 76 Federal street.

FOR SALE—Second-hand Piano-Fortes—Chickering's and others.

ap 29 ANN R BRAY.

Sun Shades and Sun Umbrellas.

A FULL assortment of Green, Brown and Black Sun Shades and Umbrellas, at

ap 29 ANN R BRAY'S, 76 Federal st.

Just Opened,

A SUPERIOR quality corded Taffeta, at 37½ cts. All wool Delaines, desirable shades; Domestic Goods of every description.

ap 29 ANN R BRAY, 76 Federal st.

PHOTOGRAPH ALBUMS.

A FULL assortment constantly on hand.

G M WHIPPLE & A A SMITH.

WARRANTED GOLD PENS.

PATENT POINTS—can be used upon the coarsest paper, or upon most any rough surface without the least detriment. Call and see them, at

G M WHIPPLE & A A SMITH'S.

ACCOUNT BOOKS,

MANUFACTURED under our own supervision, of superior paper and strong binding—a good assortment always on hand.

Every variety of Blank Books made with any style of ruling and binding, of the best paper and warranted to suit.

G M WHIPPLE & A A SMITH.

HILTON'S INSOLUBLE CEMENT,

FOR mending Crockery, Glass, Wood, Leather, etc.—25 cents a bottle.

G M WHIPPLE & A A SMITH.

WOODEN WARE.

A FULL assortment of Wooden Ware, such as Tubs, Pails, Boxes, Trays and Bowls, Soap Bowls, Wash Boards, Rolling Pins, Mortars, Clothes Sticks, Clothes Horses, etc,—for sale at S C & E A SIMONDS, 32 Front st.

FOLIO PHOTOGRAPH ALBUMS.

PREFERRED by many persons to any other style—manufactured by

ap 29 G M WHIPPLE & A A SMITH.

WHITE LEAD AND LINSEED OIL,

OF the best quality—for sale at

S C & E A SIMONDS', 32 Front st.

GREENS.

HAMPDEN Green—Chrome Green—Verdigris and Imperial Green—for sale by

A Good Milk Route for Sale,

INQUIRE at this office.

South Danvers, Feb. 11, 1863.

James F. Almy.

Bargains in Dress Goods — We are selling elegant styles Plaid Alpaccas at 37 1-2 cts—former price 50 and 55 cts. We are also closing a lot of the same Goods in dark colors at 25 cts. per yard.

Taffeta Stripes. — We have a few pieces remaining of those beautiful fine Taffeta Stripes, at 37 1-2 cents.

Dress Goods for 25 Cts. — We are selling the best styles and colors of Mouselin De Laines at 25 c. We are selling a choice invoice of English Dress Goods for 25 cts.

Dress Goods for 17 Cts. — We are selling an excellent quality of Plaid and Striped Dress Goods at 17 cts. per yard.

English, French AND American Prints. — We offer a splendid line of English, French and American Prints, at 15, 17, 22, 25, 33, 37 1-2 and 42 cents.

JAMES F. ALMY,

apr 29 188 Essex, opposite Central st.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

We invite attention to our complete stock of LADIES' OUTSIDE GARMENTS, for Spring.

Garments of every description for Ladies or Children, made to order, from measure.

JAMES F. ALMY,
188 Essex, opposite Central St.

We invite attention to our stock of LADIES' CLOTHS.

JAMES F. ALMY,
188 Essex, opposite Central st.

We invite attention to our stock of FOREIGN AND AMERICAN SHAWLS. We offer many novelties.

JAMES F. ALMY,
188 Essex, opposite Central St.

Please call and examine our stock of SUN UMBRELLAS, made from the best Silks, upon English frames.

JAMES F. ALMY,
188 Essex, opposite Central st.

Purchasers of LADIES' KID GLOVES will find our regular Goods (Trefousse's Paris Kid Gloves) of superior quality, elastic and durable. We buy them of the Importer.

JAMES F. ALMY,
188 Essex, opposite Central st.

We offer a full line of BEST WATCH-SPRING SKIRTS at very low prices.

JAMES F. ALMY,
188 Essex, opposite Central St.

Salem, April 29, 1863.

RARE CHANCE FOR BUSINESS.

For Sale or to Let.

A TWO-STORY SHOE MANUFACTORY, ready for occupancy, 22 by 40 feet, situated on Broad Street, centrally located, near the Lynn Mechanics Bank.

FOR SALE.

IF APPLIED FOR SOON.

1 "Thompson's Sole Leather Cutting Machine," in perfect order.

1 large original "Wilder's Safe," powder proof lock.

For further particulars inquire at the U. S. Assessors Office, corner of Union and Mulberry Streets, Lynn.

Lynn, April 15, 1863—3w.

Executors' Sale of Real Estate in Danversport.

By virtue of a License from the Court of Probate for the County of Essex, will be sold at Public Auction, on the premises, on FRIDAY, the 15th day of May, at 2 o'clock, P. M., so much of the following Real Estate of MOSES BLACK, late of Danvers, deceased, as shall raise the sum of six thousand nine hundred and eighty-two 33-100 dollars, for the payment of Debts, Legacies, and charges of Administration:

No. 1.—Homestead of said deceased, consisting of a parcel of Land on Water street, in said Danvers, containing seventy-five rods. On said lot is a large three-story Dwelling House, Wood House, Shed, and good Stable; a superior Garden stocked with valuable Fruit Trees of various kinds, Currants, Gooseberries, Grapes, &c.

No. 2.—Large Wool Store, three Stories and two Attics, together with the Lot on which it stands, fronting three rods and thirteen links on Water St., and running back to line of Essex Railroad. Said Store is 40x50 feet, very heavy timbered, and suitable for manufacturing purposes.

No. 3.—The Estate on Water street, adjoining the last, containing about two acres, known as formerly the Estate of the late BRIGGS R. REED, on which are two Dwelling Houses and large Stable. Said Estate will be sold in one or two parcels, as shall appear most desirable.

No. 4.—The Lot on Water street, known as the Proctor Lot. Said Lot is opposite to the Store of A. W. WARREN, and contains about seventeen thousand feet of land, and is the most eligible building lot on said street in the market.

No. 5.—The large Double-House and Lot of over 1-2 an Acre, on Water street, adjoining the last, and now occupied by WM. BLACK, and the family of the late MOSES BLACK, Jr. Said lot has a fine Stable and Wood-house attached, and a valuable Fruit and Vegetable Garden. It will be offered in one or two parcels, as appears to be desirable.

No. 6.—The Morocco Factory on said Water Street, adjoining the Grocery Store of A. W. WARREN, together with the land under the same; said Building is two story and large and well suited for manufacturing purposes.

No. 7.—The large and valuable Coal Wharf, with extensive water and street fronts, on which are several large and good Coal buildings, situated on Water street, and now under lease to POTTER, BATCHELDER & CO., Coal Dealers.

No. 8.—A small House, and Lot of about half an Acre, on River street, adjoining the Estate of M. J. HAGERTY.

Terms and conditions will be made known at the time and place of sale or on application to either of the subscribers.

WILLIAM BLACK, } Executors.
JAMES D. BLACK, }

George S. Walker.

Silk Under Shirts.

ALL SIZES, for sale at Old Prices—at GEORGE S. WALKER'S,
Dealer in Gent's Furnishing Goods and Toilet articles, opposite Eastern R R Station.

Scarfs and Neck Ties.

ROMAN, ENGLISH AND FRENCH.—
LARGEST STOCK,
BEST ASSORTMENT,
LATEST STYLES,
at the lowest prices, at
GEORGE S. WALKER'S,
may 6 28 Essex st., Stearn's Block.

Suspenders and Braces.

SUPERIOR, Medium, and Common Qualities, comprising all the latest styles, at
GEORGE S. WALKER'S,
Gent's Furnishing Store,
may 6 228 Essex Street, Salem, Mass.

John P. Peabody.

☞220 ESSEX STREET.☜

Skirts..... JOHN P. PEABODY has just received a nice Gore Skirt which he is selling for $1. His stock of Skirts is full of all the best makes, and he is selling them at the very lowest prices. Ladies, Misses and Children's sizes, in white and colored—from 30c to $3 00.

Corsets.

We have a full line of Corsets of one of of the best makes, which we are now closing at $1 35 per pair. We have been selling them for $1 75—now only $1 35, for a short time, in order to reduce the stock.

JOHN P. PEABODY.

Lace Goods..... We can show an extra nice stock of Lace Goods, consisting of Malta and Guipure Collars, Thread, Guipure, Malta, Silk, Smyrna, Saxony and Cotton Edgings; Veils in every variety; Cambric Edgings and Insertings in new styles, etc., etc.

Black Lace Veils.

We have now open a very large and attractive stock of Black Lace Veils in a great variety of new patterns. Also, a full line of Grenadine Veils in all colors. Mourning Veils, etc., etc.

JOHN P. PEABODY.

Trimmings..... We have a full stock of the new Plaited or Fluted Ribbons for Dress Trimmings—Worsted Braids (8 cts per piece)—Bindings—Galoons, Cords, Buttons, Shields, Edgings, Velvet Ribbons, &c., &c.

Ribbons and Flowers.

Our stock of Ribbons and Flowers is as usual, full of all the desirable styles, and we are selling them at our regular low prices. Ribbons, Flowers, — Ruches, — Laces, Tabs, Wire Taste, &c.

JOHN P. PEABODY.

Hosiery..... Our stock of Cotton Hosiery was bought before the rise, and we are enabled to sell it at much less price than those who buy their stocks now. Cotton Hosiery for Gents, Ladies, Misses and Children, in White, Colored and Fancy styles.

Sun Umbrellas.

The fact of our having bought our stock early in the Winter, will account for our selling them so much under the market price. We have them in 14, 16, 18 and 20 inch, in Black, Brown and Green.

JOHN P. PEABODY.

Parasols..... As Sun Umbrellas are so much used, we shall not buy any New Parasols this season, but shall close our last season's stock at the old prices, which are much less than the wholesale prices of this year. We have a few in nice styles.

Embroideries.

Wrought Cambric Edgings;
Wrought Cambric Insertings;
Wrought Cambric Bands;
Wrought Muslin Bands;
Wrought Cambric Collars;
Wrought Cambric Setts;
Wrought Muslin Collars;
Wrought Wrists and Robes;
Wrought Dimety Bands;
Wrought Lace Veils.

JOHN P. PEABODY.

Gloves. A full stock of Plain Kid Gloves;
A full stock of Wrought Kid Gloves;
A full stock of Long Kid Gloves;
A full stock of White Kid Gloves;
A full stock of Lisle Thread Gloves;
A full stock of Misses' Gloves;
A full stock of Ladies' Gloves;
A full stock of Black Silk Gloves.

Our Kid Gloves.

We have a full stock of the same celebrated Kid Gloves that we have sold the last five years, and are selling them at a very slight advance on our old prices.

Plain Kid Gloves, $1 10;
Wr't Kid Gloves, $1 25;
Long Kid Gloves, $1 50;
Bl'k & White Gloves, $1.

JOHN P. PEABODY.

LADIES' FURNISHING STORE,
220 ESSEX ST., SALEM,
JOHN P. PEABODY.

☞ Our store is open every evening until 8 o'clock.☜

100,000 BARRELS OF THE LODI MANUFACTURING COMPANY'S

POUDRETTE,

111 COMMERCIAL ST., BOSTON, MASS.

This Company, with a capital of $150,000, the most extensive works of the kind in the world, and an experience in manufacturing of over 23 years, with a reputation long established, having also the exclusive control of all the night soil of the great city of New York, are prepared to furnish an article, which is, without doubt, the CHEAPEST AND VERY BEST fertilizer in market. It greatly increases the yield, and ripens the crop from two to three weeks earlier, at an expense of from three to four dollars per acre, with little or no labor. Also, FIFTY TONS of BONE TAFEU, being a mixture of bone and night soil ground fine, at $45 per ton—a superior article for grain, &c. A pamphlet containing all necessary information may be had free by addressing a letter to the LODI MANUFACTURING CO., No. 111 Commercial Street, Boston, Mass.

Price of POUDRETTE, $1.65 per barrell. Seven barrells and over delivered free of charge.

FAMILY BIBLES,

FOR sale in great variety and at low prices,
G M WHIPPLE & A A SMITH.

A. J. Archer & Co

SHAWLS! SHAWLS!

A splendid assortment of

Spring Shawls

— And —

Spring Capes

in the most fashionable styles, for sale by

A. J. ARCHER & CO.,

Salem, may 6—tf

CLOTHS! CLOTHS!

A fine assortment of

Cloths, Cassimeres, Doeskins,

— And —

CLOTHS FOR LADIES' CAPES,

For sale by

A. J. ARCHER & CO.,

Salem, may 6—tf.

Potter, Batchelder & Co.,

(Successors to M. Black)
DANVERS-PORT,
DEALERS IN

WOOD AND COAL

OF the various kinds usually kept in a retail yard. Constantly on hand

Franklin, Old Company's Lehigh,
Locust Mountain, Black Heath,
Red and White Ash.

Of all sizes, of the best quality, and at as low prices as can be bought elsewhere.

OFFICE—No. 6 Allen's Building.

Order Box at post office, South Danvers, and post office, Danvers.

G. W. POTTER,
J. Q. A. BACHELDER,
C. T. BATCHELDER. july 19—tf

Tapestry Brussels Carpets.

AT $1.00 TO $1 25 PER YARD.

AN invoice of 100 pieces we have placed in retail department at the above low prices. This is probably the cheapest lot of Carpets that will be offered in the market this season. As it is but little over half the present prices for these goods, our customers are reminded that they will last but a few days.

NEW ENGLAND CARPET CO.,
75 Hanover St., opp. American House,
BOSTON.

Fine Tapestry Carpets.

ROYAL VELVET MEDALLIONS AND BRUSSELS are selling at low prices by the NEW ENGLAND CARPET CO., No. 75 Hanover Street, Boston. One price and cash systems strictly adhered to.

Fine Carpets Cheap.

OVER 2000 pieces of Fine English Tapestry Brussels—bought before the rise—and will be cut up in quantities to suit our customers at much less than the market prices.

New England Carpet Company,
75 Hanover Street, Boston.

One price and cash system strictly adhered to.

Floor Oil Cloths.

OUR retail department is well stocked with the celebrated enameled goods, and selling at less than manufacturer's prices

New England Carpet Co., Boston.

One price and cash systems strictly adhered to.

Carpets.

ALTHOUGH prices have doubled to import or manufacture, we have a very complete stock purchased before the rise, and are able to supply our customers for the present at very much under the ruling rates.

NEW ENGLAND CARPET CO.,
75 Hanover Street, Boston.
Boston, April 22. 3w

WATCH SPRING SKIRTS,

At 236 Essex Street,
A few doors from Washington Street,
SALEM, MASS.

M. A. PORTER,
MANUFACTURES TO ORDER

Choice Spring Pigs for Sale.

THE subscriber offers for sale nice PIGS of Mackie Prince Albert and Chester County breeds, of which the Mackie took the First Premium at the last Cattle Show. Prices reasonable.

BYRON GOODALE,
Near Tapley's Brook.
South Danvers, April 22, 1863 tf

NEW BOOKS,

AT G. M. WHIPPLE & A. A. SMITH'S.

My Southern Friends, by Edmund Kirke author of Among the Pines;
Sybil Campbell; or, The Queen of the Isle, by Cousin May Carleton, illustrated by Darley;
Annual of Scientific Discovery, 1863;
Harper's Pictorial History of the Great Rebellion, Nos 1 and two;
The Invasion of the Crimea, by A W Kinglake, vol 1; My First Friendship—25 cents;
Bibliotheca Sacra—April; May Magazines.
Campaigns of 1862 and 1863, illustrating the principles of Strategy; by Emil Schalk, author of "Summary of the Art of War;"
Annette, by Alex Dumas;
Captain Darrell, by M. E. Braddon;
Statutes at Large, and Treaties of the U. States, 3d Session 37th Congress;
ap 29 Sign of the Five Golden Books.

THE PIANO FORTES

THAT have attracted so much attention of late, and are so much admired on account of their SPLENDID FULL, RICH, MELLOW TONE, and GRAND FRENCH ACTION, are for sale only at the Office of the Agent,

218 Essex Street, Salem, Mass.,

where reference may be had to many who have purchased. Other Piano Fortes also, are for sale, varying in price from $180 upwards. Please call.

Mch 11 6m S. MACKINTIRE, Agent.

Browning & Long.

BROWNING & LONG having finished opening their NEW GOODS, are now prepared to show a splendid assortment in their different departments. Having purchased our Spring Stock at least 20 per cent. less than the wholesale prices now ruling, we shall sell them accordingly low, and as heretofore, offer our goods as

FIRST CLASS, and at the LOWEST PRICES.

Among our NEW GOODS may be found:

POINTE DE GAUZE COLLARS,
THREAD LACE do,
MALTA LACE do,
GUIPURE LACE do,
LACE TRIMMED do,
SWISS do,
SWISS SETTS,
UNIQUE SCARFS,
BLACK LACE VEILS,
EMR'D BORDER VEILS,
REAL THREAD VEILS,
GRENADINE do,
GAUZE do,
MOURNING do,
TUCKED do,
INFANTS EMB'D CAPS,
BLACK AND BL'K AND WHITE BARBES.

Edgings and Insertings.

Cambric, Muslin,
Thread, Malta,
Valenciennes, Guipure,
Smyrna, and Cotton.

A full assortment in the different widths.

Ladies' and Gent's Hdkfs.

A full assortment—in Plain, Col'd Bordered, Hemstitched and Mourning.

Also, a full assortment of Childrens' Hdkfs, in Hemstitched, Plain, and Col'd Bordered.

Corsets and Bodices.

A full assortment in White and Col'd—two qualities. Every pair warranted to fit and give satisfaction, or to be returned.

Skirts.

Our usual large variety in Ladies and Misses. Also, just received the new GORE TRAIL SKIRT.

Hosiery and Gloves.

A full and splendid assortment, consisting of a 11 sizes, in

Ladies' Plain White Cotton Hose,
do do Unbleached do,
do do Mode do do,
do do Black do do,
Openwork—in Unbleached & White.

MISSES' COTTON HOSE, in white, unbleached, mode, brown, mixed, striped;

MEN'S HALE HOSE, in Grey or Blue mixed;
do do do Brown mix'd Striped
Plain & White.

BOY'S HALE HOSE, in Grey, Brown, Blue, Striped & Plain White;

INFANT'S 1-2 and 3-4 Hose, in Cotton, a full assortment.

Kid Gloves.

A fresh assortment—In Black, White, Col'd and Embroidered.

LADIES' SILK AND LISLE GLOVES.

We have a handsome assortment, comprising all sizes and a great variety of styles, including ALEXANDRE SILK KID FINISH GLOVE, in small sizes.

MISSES' AND BOY'S GLOVES, in Plain, Mixed and Ruffled.

Also, a full line of WHITE SILK GLOVES 8 sizes.

Dress Buttons, Bugles, Gimps, Beltings, etc., a splendid assortment.

☞ Also, a full stock of Yankee Notions, which we shall sell at the Lowest Prices.

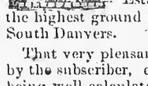
BROWNING & LONG

(Successors to J. MAYER,)

Essex St., 177 Essex St.,

April 15, 1863.

Valuable Real Estate.



The subscriber offers for sale the following parcels of Real Estate, delightfully situated on the highest ground on Mount Vernon street, in South Danvers.

That very pleasant Cottage House, occupied by the subscriber, on the above named street, being well calculated for two families, having eight rooms in the southerly end and four in the northerly end of the house. The lot on which this house is situated is about 75 feet square. Connected with it is a two story Barn, the upper story being used for a Paint Shop.—It is 19 by 24 feet on the ground.

Also, in rear of the above estate, a two story Dwelling House, for two families, which rents for about $78.

Also, a very eligible House Lot on Mount Vernon st, 75 feet square.

Also, on Fulton street, a one story house with four rooms, which is now rented for about $60.

Also, a House Lot on Fulton st., measuring 75 feet front by 75 feet deep.

The above estates will be sold all together or in separate lots, as may be desired by purchasers.

This property is offered at private sale until the last of May, when it will be sold at auction if not before disposed of. It affords an excellent opportunity for a good bargain, as it will be sold on reasonable terms, and at a low price, if applied for soon.

The land not occupied by buildings is well planted with fruit trees in good bearing condition.

For further information, apply to the subscriber, on the premises.

MOSES JEWETT.

So. Danvers, April 15, 1863.

To Let on Essex St., Salem,

The STORE and DWELLING HOUSE connected therewith, No. 250 Essex St. The store is neatly fitted up, is one of the best stands in the city, and admirably adapted for Millinery, Fancy, Dry Goods, or any light business.

The Dwelling part contains nine finished rooms, and is supplied with water, gas, etc.—all in good order and very convenient.

To a satisfactory tenant, the above will be let on reasonable terms. Apply at J. PERLEY'S Shoe Store, next door west. feb 25

Salem and South Danvers Railroad.

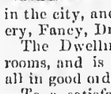
SUBSCRIBERS to the Capital Stock are hereby notified that the same is payable at the SALEM BANK, in four instalments, of 25 per cent. each, on the following days, viz.—

March 2; March 20; April 10; May 1.

Per order,
GEO. D. PHIPPEN, Treasurer.

mch 7 2m

VALUABLE REAL ESTATE.



THE Subscriber offers for sale on favorable terms,—or would exchange for a Farm,—his Estate on Wallis Street, near the Monumental Cemetary, consisting of THREE DWELLING HOUSES, which will be sold separately or as one Estate.

There are 75 feet of land in front, and 72 feet in the rear of the house.

The situation is pleasant, in a good neighborhood, and the houses are supplied with all the conveniences for immediate occupation. In ordinary times these tenements would rent for from 330 to 350 dollars.

The Subscriber, having made up his mind to dispose of the property, will sell it low, and it is well worth the attention of purchasers.

Apply to JOHN M'NEAL.

South Danvers, Dec. 10th, 1862. tf.

GLASS WARE.

CUT and Pressed Goblets; Tumblers; Dishes in great variety; just opened at

S C & E A SIMONDS', 32 Front st.

mch 25

☞ If you want to SAVE MONEY, in purchasing Goods, go to COLMAN'S, No. 10 Front street, Salem. [ap30-tf

Auction Sales.

WILLIAM ARCHER, Jr.,

Auctioneer, Real Estate and Stock Broker,
34 Front Street.

Real Estate, Bank, Railroad and Manufacturing Stock bought and sold on Commission.

ON SATURDAY NEXT, at 9 1-2 o'clock, will be sold at No. 34 Front street:

A LOT OF HOUSEHOLD FURNITURE. A Cane seat and wood seat Chairs, 3 Mattresses, Quilts, Sheets, Table Cloths, Napkins, Crockery and Glass Ware, Window Curtains, 2 large-sized Cook Stoves, etc.

Also—400 rolls House Paper.

Also—A lot of Crockery Ware.

At 11 o'clk—1 Mantel Aquarium; 1 bronze do—both in perfect order.

At 12 o'clock—A quantity of Fruit Trees; Peaches, Pears, Currants, Shrubs.

At 12 o'clock—1 second-hand Buggy, in good condition.

Also—A lot of Garden Box.

D. P. GROSVENOR, Jr.,

Druggist and Apothecary,
33 MAIN STREET.

Dealer in Drugs, Medicines, Chemicals, Dye Stuffs, and Popular Proprietary Medicines.

Personal attention to Physicians' Prescriptions.

South Danvers, May 29, 1861. 1y

GEO. E. MEACOM

Dealer in

DRUGS & MEDICINES,

Fancy & Toilet Articles, &c.

126 · · MAIN ST. · · 126

Nearly opposite Danvers Bank, So. Danvers.

T. A. SWEETSER,

Druggist & Apothecary

37 Main St., So. Danvers,

DEALER IN
Drugs, Medicines, Chemicals, Foreign Leeches, Shakers' Herbs, Dye Stuffs, Gums, Acids, Sponges, Shoulder Braces, Trusses, and Genuine Patent Medicines.

Also, Imported Cigars of choice brands, Perfumery Toilet Articles and Stationery.

Physicians' Prescriptions carefully prepared by experienced persons.

37 MAIN STREET.

GRACE'S CELEBRATED SALVE.

A SURE RELIEF FOR THE SUFFERER.

This Salve is a vegetable preparation, invented in the 17th century, by DR. WM. GRACE, surgeon in King James's army. Through its agency he cured thousands of most serious sores and wounds that baffled the skill of the most eminent physicians of his day, and was regarded by all who knew him as a public benefactor.

Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Burns.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Scalds.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Flesh Wounds.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Corns.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Felons.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Frozen Limbs.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Wens.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Callouses.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Salt Rheum.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Chilblains.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Sore Breast.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Sore Lips.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Erysipelas Sores.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Abscesses.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Ulcers.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Chapped Hands.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Ringworms.

And from Sores and Wounds of the most serious nature down to a common Pimple. It eradicates Pimples from the face, and beautifies the skin. There is no preparation before the public that can equal this Salve in prompt and energetic action for the speedy cure of external diseases, as those who have tried its virtues testify. Soldiers, Sailors, and Fishermen, will find this Salve their best friend.

It has none of the irritating, heating properties of other remedies, but cools, cleanses, and heals the most serious Sores and Wounds. Every family, and especially those containing children, should keep a box on hand in case of accident, for it will save them much trouble, suffering, and money. All it wants is a fair trial to cure old and inveterate Sores.

MANUFACTURED BY
WILLIAM GRACE,
AMESBURY, MASS.

PRICE 25 CENTS PER BOX.

Each box has the above cut and the fac-simile of the proprietor's signature attached to it, which is duly copy righted.

Geo. C. Goodwin & Co., 11 and 12 Marshall street, Weeks & Potter, 170 Washington street, and M. S. Burr & Co, 26 Tremont street, Boston, Wholesale Agents.

For sale by druggists and at country stores every where.

SUMMER LANDSCAPES,

AND "WINTER SCENES," for Albums—12 different Views for 62 cents—beautifully colored.

G M WHIPPLE & A A SMITH'S

JOHN FARRELL,

DRAPER AND TAILOR,

HAVING removed to his old place of business, 138 MAIN ST., South Danvers, (over Batchelder's Grocery Store), is prepared to Cut, Make, Repair, or furnish Garments, for Men and Youths at short notice.

South Danvers, April 1. tf

THE CLOTHES WRINGER.

JUST OBTAINED
RHOADES' CELEBRATED
NATIONAL CLOTHES WRINGER,

THE VERY BEST YET INVENTED,

AND REALLY A LABOR SAVING MACHINE.

CALL AND EXAMINE.

For Sale by E. SOUTHWICK,

At the EQUITY GROCERY STORE,

South Danvers, Jan 21, 1863. 3m

DIAMONDS.

GLAZIER'S Diamonds—for sale by

S C & E A SIMONDS, 32 Front st.

THE SOUTH DANVERS WIZARD

Is published every WEDNESDAY, at Allen's Building, South Danvers Sqnare. by

CHARLES D. HOWARD, Proprietor.
FITCH POOLE, Editor.

TERMS—Two Dollars a year.

ADVERTISEMENTS inserted at reasonable rates.

How to Make $5.00 a Day,

When all other Efforts have Failed.

HOOD & CO., 186 Broadway, New York, have ust published ONE HUNDRED VALUABLE SECRETS, possessing them, any one, male or female, can easily make $5 a day, without capital, in any city or village. Every one should possess these secrets, for they are worth $500 to any single or married person. Some of these Secrets have been sold for $20 each. One alone cost us $250 for the right to publish it. When you once own them you will never part with them for money. Several persons are now making $120 per month by these Secrets alone. By them any person may make money easily and rapidly. We send one Book of Secrets for 25 cents, two copies, 40 cents, club of three for 50 cts., club of four 65 cts. club of five 75 cts., club of eight copies, $1 Send Government money.

New York, Feb 18, 1863. *3m

TO CONSUMPTIVES.

THE ADVERTISER HAVING BEEN RESTORED to health in a few weeks, by a very simple remedy, after having suffered several years with a severe lung affection, and that dread disease, Consumption—is anxious to make known to his fellow-sufferers the means of cure.

To all who desire it, he will send a copy of the prescription used (free of charge,) with the directions for preparing and using the same, which they will find a SURE CURE for CONSUMPTION, ASTHMA, BRONCHITIS, &c. The only object of the advertiser in sending the Prescription is to benefit the afflicted, and spread information which he conceives to be invaluable, and he hopes every sufferer will try his remedy as it will cost them nothing, and may prove a blessing.

Rev. EDWARD A. WILSON, Williamsburgh,
March, 18, 3m Kings County, New York.

New Jersey Lands for Sale,

— ALSO —

GARDEN OR FRUIT FARMS,

Suitable for Grapes, Peaches, Pears, Raspberries, Strawberries, Blackberries, Currants, &c., of 1, 2½, 5, 10 or 20 acres each, at the following prices for the present, viz: 20 acres for $200, 10 acres for $110, 5 acres for $60, 2½ acres for $40, 1 acre for $20. Payable by one dollar a week.

Also, good Cranberry lands, and village lots in CHETWOOD 25 by 100 feet, at $10 each, payable by one dollar a week. The above land and farms are situated at Chetwood, Washington Township, Burlington, New Jersey. For further information, apply with a P. O. Stamp, for a circular, to

B. FRANKLIN CLARK,
feb 18, 1863 No. 90 Cedar St, New York, N. Y.

EDITOR OF WIZARD—Dear Sir: With your permission I wish to say to the readers of your paper that I will send by return mail to all who wish it, (free) a Recipe, with full directions for making and using a simple Vegetable Balm, that will effectually remove, in 10 days, Pimples, Blotches, Tan Freckles and all Impurities of the Skin, leaving the same soft, clear, smooth and beautiful.

I will also mail free to those having Bald Heads or Bare Faces, simple directions and information that will enable them to start a full growth of Luxurient Hair, Whiskers, or a Moustache, in less than 30 days. All applications answered by return mail without charge. Respectfully yours.

THOS. F. CHAPMAN, Chemist,
March 18 2m No. 831 Broadway, New York.

SPRING GOODS!

Entirely New Stock of

CLOTHING.

GEO. H. LANE,

CLOTHIER,

Nos. 31 and 32 Dock Square,

BOSTON,

IS now ready to show to his customers and the public an ELEGANT STOCK OF CLOTHING for MEN'S and BOYS' wear, expressly designed by himself, manufactured on the premises for the present season in all those new and choice selections of fabrics for which Lane's establishment has become celebrated. The stock consists in part of

SPRING OVERCOATS,
FROCK COATS,
BUSINESS COATS
And ONE HUNDRED CHOICE

NEW STYLES OF PANTALOONS,

Suitable for Dress, Promenade or Business Occasions.

Mr. LANE having made Large Purchases by Contract before the Unprecedented and General Advance in Prices, has it in his power to give

REAL BARGAINS,

Acting on the principal that

"Quick Sales and Small Profits"

Are the best rules to guide the merchant.

JUVENILE ATTIRE.

Boys' Entire Suits, as

SCHOOL SUITS,
DRESS SUITS,
JACKET SUITS,
SACK SUITS, &C.

All of the newest fabrics and best workmanship.

A year since Mr. Lane advised the public that he had added a Boys' Department, and he has now the satisfaction to announce that he has secured the services of Mr. C. H. Boynton, (formerly with J. WALTER READ) to superintend it; and indeed, to make the entire establishment the COMPLETEST IN NEW ENGLAND, the Proprietor has spared no pains to secure the services of REAL ARTISTS in the Cutting Room, and accomplished, obliging, and experienced Salesman in the Show Room; and trusts by strict personal attention, and MODERATE CHARGES, to merit the support of the community.

GEO. H. LANE,

31 AND 32 DOCK SQUARE,
April 1—3m BOSTON.

D. W. BOWDOIN,
—ARTIST IN—

PHOTOGRAPHIC PICTURES.

Rooms No. 175 Essex st, Salem, [Downing's Block]

Portraits, Miniatures, and Views, by the Ambrotype, Daguerreotype, Photograph and Stereoscope process—finished in India Ink, Oil and Water colors.

☞ Particular attention paid to restoring old Daguerreotypes, and other pictures—and making enlarged copies, highly finished. may

Cards.

WILLIAM C. CHOATE,
Attorney and Counsellor at Law,
251 Essex St., Salem.
Salem, August 6, 1862. tf

THOMAS M. STIMPSON,
Attorney and Counsellor at Law,
194 ESSEX STREET, SALEM.
Residence Lowell street, South Danvers.

B. C. PERKINS,
Attorney and Counsellor at Law,
South Danvers—Office in Allen's Building.

JOHN W. PROCTOR,
Counsellor at Law,
Office near the Monument.

A. A. PUTNAM,
Attorney and Counsellor at Law,
CORNER MAPLE AND ELM ST.,
DANVERS.

ALFRED A. ABBOTT,
Attorney and Counsellor,
Office, No. 24 Washington Street, Salem;
House, Main St., So. Danvers.

IVES & PEABODY,
Attorneys and Counsellors at Law,
Have removed their Office to
Rooms formerly occupied by Hon. Otis P. Lord,
NO. 27 WASHINGTON STREET, SALEM,
STEPHEN B. IVES, jr. JOHN. B. PEABODY

SIDNEY C. BANCROFT,
Attorney and Counsellor at Law,
27 Washington Street, Salem.

H. O. WILEY,
Attorney and Counsellor at Law,
Office, Allen's Building, So. Danvers.

Claims against the Government for Bounty Back Pay, and Pensions, promptly attended to

A. S. CRAWFORD
Dentist,
No. 4 MAIN STREET, SO. DANVERS SQUARE
Mechanical Dentistry Neatly Executed.
Teeth Extracted by Electricity without Extra Charge

W. L. BOWDOIN,
SURGEON DENTIST,
No, 208 Essex Street, Salem, (Opposite the Marke
Residence—No. 57 Washington street.
jan 11—1y

F. POOLE
INSURANCE AGENT,
Allen's Building (up stairs),
Deeds drawn, and other common forms.

NEWMAN & SYMONDS,
DEALERS IN
Family Groceries, Flour & Grain,
HARD WARE AND CROCKERY,
Ready Made Clothing, Gents' Furnishing Goods, Hats, Caps, Boots, Shoes, &c.,
South Danvers Square, opp. Congregational Church
SAM'L NEWMAN. NATH'L SYMONDS.

S. C. & E. A. SIMONDS,
DEALERS IN
Crockery, China and Hardware; Paper Hangings; Solar and Entry Lamps; Paints, Oil, and Window Glass.
No. 32 Front street, Lawrence Place,
feb13 SALEM, MASS.

HENRY L. WHIDDEN,
HOUSE AND SIGN PAINTER,
Glazier and Paperer,
Central Street, South Danvers.
All orders promptly and faithfully excented.
jan2-1y

E. S. FLINT,
DEALER IN
West Inula Goods, Country Poduce,
No. 2 Main Street, South Danvers.

JESSE SMITH
No. 262 Essex Street, Salem,
Importer and Dealer in
Gold and Silver Watches,
MARINE CHRONOMETERS,
Aueroid Barometers, Spy Glasses, &c.

WILLIAM BLANEY,
HOUSE & SIGN PAINTER
Grainer, Glazier and Paper Hanger.
164 MAIN STREET, Corner of Grove.
WINDOWS and BLINDS cheap for cash.
meh6-tf

JOHN MOULTON,
LIVERY STABLE,
Central Street, South Danvers.

Mr. M. will endeavor to keep up the good reputation of his stable, by still keeping good Horses and Carriages. jan 7, 1863.

REGULATIONS OF THE BOARD OF HEALTH

— OF THE —

TOWN OF SOUTH DANVERS.

Adopted April 11, 1863.

Ordered, That all dirt, saw-dust, cinders, shavings, hair, shreds, manure, oyster and lobster shells, waste water, or any animal or vegetable substance, rubbish, or filth of any kind, in any house, ware-house, cellar, yard, or other place, which the Board of Health shall deem it necessary for the health of the town to be removed, shall be carried away therefrom, by and at the expense of the owner or occupant of such house, or other place where the same shall be found, and shall be removed to such place as shall be directed, within four hours after notice in writing to that effect, given by the Board of Health.

Ordered, That all slaughter-houses or places where animals are slaughtered, shall be so cleansed by removing the offal, and all decaying animal matter, as to be free from all offensive odors to residents in the vicinity, and to those individuals travelling by any such place where animals are slaughtered.

Ordered, That no obstruetions, such as posts, bushes, or other collectors of decaying animal or vegetable matters, shall be placed in any of the brooks of the town, or in Wallis Pond,—and that no privy be erected or continued over said waters, or so situated on the margin thereof that the filth shall pass into them, and that no animal or vegetable matters, or whatever will pollute the waters, be thrown or allowed to flow in the same, excepting by special permit of the Board of Health.

Ordered, That no wagon, cart or vehicle, in which night soil, hides or other matter, in a condition to emit fetid and offensive effluvia are being conveyed through any of the streets, highways, or within forty rods of any dwelling house, school house, or other public building in this town, shall be permitted to stand more than five minutes, within forty rods of the same place, except it be at the place or places where the load is received or deposited.

D. C. PERKINS,
GEO. OSBORNE,
JOSEPH POOR,
BENJA. HUNTINGTON,
M. A. SHACKLEY,
ALERSON GALEUCIA,
} Board of Health.

South Danvers, April 15, 1863. 6w

A FINE assortment of Paper Shades for Kerosene Lamps, just opened at
S C & E A SIMONDS, 32 Front st., Salem.

SPRING STYLE DRESS HATS,

NOW READY

AT JACKSON'S,

101 COURT STREET, BOSTON.

Also a large and varied assortment of CAPS and SOFT HATS, for Boys' and Men's wear. Those wishing articles in the above line would do well to call before purchasing.

JOSEPH A. JACKSON.
Boston, April 1, 1863. 3m

100,000 BARRELS OF THE LODI MANUFACTURING COMPANY'S POUDRETTE,

111 COMMERCIAL ST., BOSTON, MASS.

This Company, with a capital of $150,000, the most extensive works of the kind in the world, and an experience in manufacturing of over 23 years, with a reputation long established, having also the exclusive control of all the night soil of the great city of New York, are prepared to furnish an article, which is, without doubt, the CHEAPEST AND VERY BEST fertilizer in market. It greatly increases the yield, and ripens the crop from two to three weeks earlier, at an expense of from three to four dollars per acre, with little or no labor. Also, FIFTY TONS of BONE TAFEU, being a mixture of bone and night soil ground fine, at $45 per ton—a superior article for grain, &c. A pamphlet containing all necessary information may be had free by addressing a letter to the subscriber

JAMES T FOSTER,
Care of the Lodi Manufacturing Company,
66 Courtland St., New York.

Agents—WELCH & FAIRFIELD, Grocers, Lowell Street, South Danvers. feb 11—3m

H. & H. G. HUBON,
WASHINGTON STREET, SALEM
Manufacturers of
Rose Wood, Mahogany, Black Walnut and Stained Wood
COFFINS and CASKETS.

MAKING this our exclusive business, we are ready at all times and at the shortest notice to furnish Grave Clothes of various styles, as well as Coffins and Caskets of the finest finish. Personal attention given, and delivered without extra charge to any of the neighboring towns. All orders by express or otherwise will receive prompt attention.

Black Walnut and White Wood Boards, Plank and Joists for sale.

dec 14—tf

REMOVAL!

JOHN J. ASHBY,

WOULD inform his friends and the public generally, that he has removed to the store

No. 145 Essex Street,

formerly occupied by JOHN BARLOW, where he has opened a good assortment of

BOOTS, SHOES & RUBBERS,

and will MANUFACTURE to order, all kinds of Ladies', Misses' and Children's Boots and Shoes. Also, Snow Boots, at the lowest Cash Prices.

Repairing of all kinds done on the most reasonable terms. JOHN J. ASHBY,
Successor to John Barlow.
Salem, September 17, 1862.

GAYLE & CO.,
GENERAL COMMISSION MERCHANTS,
DEALERS IN
Flour, Grain and Produce,
Manufacturers' Agents for the sale of
Concentrated Leaven, Soda and Pearlash Saleratus, and Bi Carb. Soda.
PHILLIPS WHARF, - - - - - Salem.

T. HARDY, JR.,
—Dealer in—
DOORS, SASHES, BLINDS,
Glazed Sash, Painted Blinds,
FENCE PALES, STAIR BALUSTERS, FRAMING PINS, &c.,
No. 26 FRONT STREET,
Salem, January 14, 1863—6m

Salem and Danvers Aqueduct Co'y.

ALL persons using the water of the Salem and South Danvers Aqueduct are hereby notified that the water rents, for the six months ending May 1, 1863, are now due, and that they are required to pay the same, at the office of the Company, No 2 Sewall street, on the 1st day of May next. Should the bills remain unpaid for thirty days, the water will be stopped, in conformity to the regulations of the Company.

Office hours, from 9 to 1 o'clock, and from 2 to 5.

Per order of the Directors,
apr 1 WM. JELLY, Collector.

HEYLINGBERG'S
Hair Dressing Saloon,
24 MAIN ST., SOUTH DANVERS.

TARIFF OF PRICES:

Shaving,	6 cts.
Hair Cutting,	12 cts.
Champooing,	15 cts.
Champooing and Hair Cutting,	25 cts.

No more new Quarterly Customers taken.
In consequence of the scarcity of Change, 18 checks will be sold for one dollar.
South Danvers, Dec 17, 1862.

THOMAS DAVIS,
ADVERTISING AGENT
For the principal New England Newspapers, remains at the old stand, No. 23 Cornhill, Boston, where you will find him still loyal to the Constitution, the Laws, and Advertising.
Boston, Jan 29, 1862. tf

WALKING MADE EASY.

DR. P. KENISON,
CHIROPODIST,
215 Washington St., Boston,
Cures Hard and Soft Corns, Bunions, Club Nails, Nails penetrating the Flesh, Warts, &c., in a manner that will satisfy the most incredulous.

NEW YORK WHITE LEAD.

2500 L New York White Lead;
Also, Fores River White Lead—for sale by
meh 4 S C & E A SIMONDS.

NEW SPRING SHAWLS,

IN Stripe, Plaid and Plain, of rich styles—just received and for sale by meh 4 ANN R. BRAY, 76 Federal st.

WIRE GOODS.

WIRE Rat Traps; Broilers; Steamers; Sieves etc., just received at
S C & E A SIMONDS', 32 Front st.

DIARIES--1863-

VN excellent assortment at the lowest prices, for sale by G M WHIPPLE & A A SMITH.

NEW NEEDLE THREADER.

DOUBLE-ENDED, Excelsior Sewing Needle Threader and Worstod Lhreader combined—of great utility for near sighted or nervous people in threading needles, numbering from 4 to 12, and also Darning Needles.
Call and see them, at meh 4 G M WHIPPLE & A A SMITH'S.

W. E. P. SMYTH,
Attorney and Counsellor at Law,
Proctor in Admiralty, and Commissioner of Deeds for the several States.
Frazier's Building, over the Post Office,
LYNN, MASS.

Having peculiar means for prosecuting, with accuracy and dispatch, all claims against Government, especially those for Bounty, Back Pay and Pensions, I have made this a specialty. Several months' residence in Washington enabled me to become thoroughly conversant with the routine of business in all the Departments, through which claims, of whatever nature, are passed, and also familiar with the practice in the U. S. Court of Claims; in addition to which I have a partner there resident, and a former partner in the Treasury Department, which advantages give me unexcelled facilities for the successful prosecution of business in any way connected with Government.

Important to Soldiers, Marines and their Heirs.

Persons enlisted in the U. S. Service, Land or Naval, since March 1, 1861, if disabled in the service, are entitled to Pension; Relatives of Persons deceased in the service are entitled to Bounty and Pension; in the following order:

1st. The Widow. 4th. The Mother.
2d. The Children. 5th The Brothers and Sisters collectively.
3d. The Father.

LETTERS OF ADMINISTRATION need not be taken out, in ordinary cases, to enable heirs of persons deceased in the service to obtain Pensions and Bounty.

When a discharge is granted for disability, in no case should the Oath of Identity on the back of the Discharge be filled up. The safest course is, to carry all papers at once to an Attorney, without tampering with them. All those who have claims, should present them without delay, as soon, the pressure will be so great upon the Auditor's Office, by reason of numerous applications, that applicants will be subjected to vexatious delay in getting their claims audited.

NO CHARGE MADE UNTIL CLAIMS ARE PAID.

Claims left at the Post Office, South Danvers, will be promptly forwarded.

Lynn, Aug 27, 1862—1v

CHARLES S. BUFFUM,
FURNISHING UNDERTAKER,
Central Street, South Danvers,
HAVING provided himself with a HEARSE, is prepared to attend Funerals in any of the neighboring towns, with one or a pair of Horses.
He keeps as good an assortment of

COFFINS AND CASKETS,

as can be found at any establishment, and at the lowest prices.
He will also attend to Laying Out, etc.
All orders from the neighboring towns met with prompt attention. jan 14

SLATING. SLATING.

GEORGE FOWLER & COMPA'Y,
NO. 2 ST. PETER COURT, SALEM, respectfully inform their friends and the citizens of this and neighboring towns and cities that they are prepared to execute all orders for Slating, promptly and faithfully.
Roofs covered with any description of Slates, or repaired at short notice.
All work undertaken will be warranted.
Address—Box 366 Salem Post Office.
Salem, January 28—1863. tf

PATTERSON'S
LEATHER HANDLING MACHINE

THE undersigned are agents for the above machine. It can be seen in operation at Pinder & Brown's Tannery.

may 7—3m CLARK & GIDDINGS.

MESSRS. CLARK & GIDDINGS,
Wallis Street, South Danvers,
Are Agents for
GEORGE W. FISKE & CO.'S
PATENT EAVE TROUGHS
CUTTERS, CONDUCTORS AND
PIPE FOR DRAINS.
South Danvers, May 22, 1861.

EDWARD C. WEBSTER,
ONE PRICE
HAT, CAP & FUR STORE,
231 ESSEX, and 34 WASHINGTON ST

R. C. MANNING & CO,
Successors to JOHN DIKE & CO.,
DEALERS IN
COAL, WOOD, BARK, HAY, &c,
183 DERBY STREET,
SALEM, MASS.
N. C. ROBBINS, R. C. MANNING.
oct17

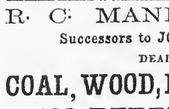
FRANKLIN COAL.

JUST landed, a cargo of FRANKLIN COAL—the best in the world for domestic use.
POTTER, BACHELDER & CO.,
Successors to M. Black, Jr.
Danversport, May 6, 1861. tf

E. N. PRICE,
Manufacturer and Dealer in
HARNESSES,
SADDLES, BRIDLES,
AND WHIPS.
— ALSO —
Trunks, Valises and Traveling Bags.
All orders for Manufacturing and Repairing executed with promptness, and in the best manner.
237 Essex Street, Salem, Mass.
meh13-tf

THOMAS PINNOCK,
SLATER,
SALEM, MASS.
☞ Orders may be left at his Yard, No. 25 Peabody St., or at his house No. 6 Hancock street, South Salem.
Roofs covered with any kind of Slates, according to order. All work warranted.
Salem, May 7, 1862. tf

CURRIER & MILLETT,
Dealers in



Furniture, Chairs,
MATTRESSES, FEATHERS, &c
259 & 261 ESSEX ST.
Salem, dec 14—1y

AARON T. LOWE,
DEALER IN
BOOTS, SHOES AND RUBBERS,
76 BOSTON STREET, 76.
aug 6 SALEM. tf

NOTICE.

THE subscriber being about to leave town for a few months, would take this opportunity to inform his customers and friends that his shop on Pleasant Street will be kept open during his absence by Mr. JOHN P. FRIEND, who will faithfully attend to any orders.
JAMES PERKINS.
South Danvers, Sept. 3, 1862.

ORCANDIE MUSLINS.

WE shall open new Spring styles of Organdie Muslins to-day.
Ladies will do well to buy now, as prices are advancing daily. ANN R. BRAY, meh 4 76 Federal street.

IDIARIES FOR
1863. Every variety and style—all sizes—for sale at
G M WHIPPLE & A A SMITH'S,
nov 26 Sign of the Five Golden Books,

MUNROE'S

(LATE REED'S)

SOUTH DANVERS & BOSTON

RAILROAD EXPRESS.

Express leaves South Danvers at	10 1-2 a. m.
Freight " " " at	5 p. m.
Express leaves Boston at	3 1-2 p. m.
Freight " " at	5 p. m.

OFFICE at FREIGHT DEPOT, South Danvers Square.
Order Box W. M. Jacobs' store, Main street.
EXPRESS OFFICE, in Boston, 5 Congress Square; Freight Office, 1 Fulton st.
Also an Order Box at 86 Pearl street.
Particular attention paid to removing Furniture, collecting Bills, Notes, Drafts, &c.

ARMY EXPRESS.

Packages received and sent forward daily for Baltimore, Fortress Monroe, Annapolis, Washington, Alexandria, and any other point where the different regiments are stationed:

WM. C. MUNROE,
South Danvers, may 21—tf

TAKE NOTICE.

THAT Dr. Ham's Dyspepsia Remedy has been before the public for the past ten years. And in that time the people who have used it will vouch for the benefit they have derived from it. The character of his article and its reputation can also be obtained from the dealers who sell it, or have sold it for any length of time, to both of those, Dr Ham refers and is willing to stand the test. And also challenges any new compound to produce the same results, let alone delicacy of flavor, of his INVIGORATING SPIRIT, which for ITS EFFECTS UPON THE BILE, A TORPED LIVER, LOW SPIRITS, or when the blood is affected as seen by SKIN DISEASES or its ACTION UPON THE KIDNEYS, in fact for any person who is run down by the wear and care of this world will find relief in this old and well tried remedy.

Astonishing.

TO Dr. Ham, who has modestly put before the public his DYSPEPSIA REMEDY for ten years past, to look back and see the number of tremendous articles within that time, that have sprang up like a rocket, and gone down like the stick which guides it in its glorious assent. Some come out and claim to tell the public they use unknown Barks from South America, with any quantity of rum from the West Indias, &c. Dr Ham takes this opportunity to refer to the MEDICAL FACULTY here and everywhere that his article is in use, as to its qualifications, and challenges any one to produce a person, male or female, who has used it as directed, that will not speak favorable of it for DISORGANIZED STOMACH, Dyspepsia, loss of appetite, want of action of the Kidneys, as well as many other complaints that humanity are afflicted with.

To Ladies.

DR. HAM'S Dyspepsia Remedy is just the thing you require to remove the langour caused by weakness and debility; it invigorates the system, causes the blood to take new life in its varied course through the system, in fact it gives tone to the system and will relieve and remove the thousand irregularities that from various causes you are afflicted with. For Dyspepsia it is a never failing remedy, it has stood the test of years, and we have yet to hear of its failing to give relief to the afflicted thousands who have received health and happiness by its use.

To Gentlemen.

DR. HAM knows that you do not always pay much attention to the many different articles put before you in the paper, but we would refer you to our agents who you will find are the respectable merchants and dealers, in regard to the Invigorating Spirit; some of them have sold it for years, and know well the reputation it has amongst those who have used it in assisting nature to eradicate diseases. It will renovate the system, as it acts directly on the blood, removing all obstructions to the general health, will cure Liver Complaints, Dyspepsia, Nervous Affections, Sour Stomach, Headache, Weakness, Loss of Appetite, as well as obstruction in the Kidney, Bladder or Urinary Organs. Try it. We will guarantee you will be satisfied with the result.

General Depot, 62 Liberty Street, New York. Sold by Weeks & Potter, 154 Washington Street, M. S Burr & Co, 26 Tremont Street, G. C. Goodwin & Co., 11 Marshall Street, Boston; and in South Danvers by George E. Meacom, T. A. Sweetser, D. P. Grosvenor, Jr., Main Street; and by Druggists everywhere.
Feb 29, 1863 1y

NEW ENGLAND
FERTILIZER DEPOT,
No. 111 Commercial St., Boston.

TO FARMERS AND TRADERS!

WE desire to call your attention to our stock of FERTILIZERS, having the largest supply and fullest assortment of reliable brands ever offered in this market. Our stock embraces

Coe's, Hoyt's, Rhodes } SUPER-PHOSPHATE LIME.
No. 1 PERUVIANGUANO.
GROUND BONE, [coarse and fine.]
BONE MEAL. LAND PLASTER.
FISH GUANO. BONE TAFEU.
LIME, CEMENT, &c., &c.

We are also Sole Agents for the
LODI MANUFACTURING CO.'S
POUDRETTE.

Get our terms before purchasing elsewhere. We sell at manufacturers' prices. Samples can be seen of all of the above; also a pamplet, with a Farmer's Almanac for 1863, may be had free on application by mail or otherwise.

J. M. & P. RICHARDS,
Sales Office 111 Commercial St., Boston, Mass.
apr 1—3m

CHEAP FIRE-WOOD.

THE subscriber has on hand 30,000 bushels of

Patent Granular Fuel,

which he will deliver, by wholesale, in lots to suit purchasers, anywhere in this town, Salem, Lynn, Swampscott, or Nahant. Orders sent by mail (or by express,) or left in Salem, at the office, 27 Washington street (3d story), or 17 Briggs st., will receive prompt attention.

List of Prices.

25	Bushels, delivered,	2 25
50	do do	4 00
100	do do	7 50

Orders left at the Union Store, Newman & Symonds, and the Omnibus Office.
BYRON GOODELL.
South Danvers, june 18.

E. S. FLINT,
Manufacturer and Dealer in
INNER SOLES,
AND SHOE STIFFENINGS OF ALL KINDS.
2 MAIN STREET, SOUTH DANVERS.

E. R. PERKINS,
PHOTOGRAPHIC ARTIST
241 Essex Street, Salem.
Patent Ambrotypes, Stereoscopes,
Photographs, Sphoreotypes, Melainotypes, and patent other Pictures, of varous sizes, taken with all the improvements of the art. Portraits, Miniatures, Engravings, &c., accurately copied. Views taken when desired. jan 11

REMOVAL!
AUGUSTUS HAMMOND,
Manufacturer and Repairer of
BOOTS AND SHOES,
HAS removed from his old place of business to the Railroad Ground, opposite the Old South Church, where he would be happy to continue to receive favors from his friends and patrons. may 21

CAMELS HAIR GOODS.

OWING to the small stock of Camels Hair goods in the market, prices have very much advanced. We shall give our customers the advantage of buying at the old prices, as we have a good assortment on hand.
ANN R. BRAY,
mch 4 76 Federal street.

JUVENILE BOOKS,

A VERY large assortment for sale by
G M WHIPPLE & A A SMITH.

SOUTH DANVERS POST OFFICE.

GENERAL MAIL ARRANGEMENT.

MAILS CLOSE
At 10 3-4 A. M., and 4 3-4 P. M.
MAILS DUE
At 9 1-2 A. M., and 3 P. M.

Post Office open (Sundays excepted) from 7 o'clock, A. M., till 8 P. M. Saturdays open till 8 1-2 P. M.

F. POOLE, P. M.
South Danvers, Oct. 1, 1862.

Poor Richard's Eye and Ear Water.

Prof. M. G. BROWN.

SCIENTIFIC ARTICLE ON THE EYE AND EAR.

Reader, allow me to call your attention to a fact which hitherto you have not been acquainted with, namely, that there is not a sound eye in the land. The eyes are the only members of the body totally neglected; there is nothing done for the eye; its wants are neither studied or regarded. This untiring servant is the first in action at birth, and the last at death, yet it seems to pass even common observation.

Notwithstanding all the ignorance and neglect of the eye, it is unquestionably true that every department of the human system is dependent on it for life and health.

The Divine Machinator has placed 8000 tubes and glands around the eyes, through which the saltish fountain (same as supplies the tear) is designed to pass as dew, finding its way to every crevice and nook in the flesh, whose chief tendency is to mucus. This fountain is to the body what dew is to the plants. The flesh can only be kept free from mucus (which is the precursor of disease) through the tubes and glands around the eyes being keep open, allowing the teary, saltish fountain to pass freely forward. If the laws of mind and body are disregarded or insulted, these faithful sentinels shut up like a sensitive plant, thus refusing to pass this life, giving dew to the parched flesh, whereby the entire machinery of the human body can alone find its natural moisture. When this fountain is cut off, the system is open to every kind of disease, which first begins with small streaks of blood-shot at the bottom of the ball of the eye; these are streaks of death if not removed. Examine your eyes and you will find these streaks moving over the white of the eye towards the pupil; generally the eye gets seumy and glassy; the ball turns a green or yellowish color, this is a sure indication of the following diseases (which are solely caused by the moisture being cut off from the system): Nervousness, headache, earache, deafness, loss of hair, neuralgia, rheumatism, blotches on the face and skin, diptheria, sore throat, bronchitis, catarrah, soreness of the chest, decay of the lungs, deprivation of the fluids; these, with all other diseases, are caused as above described. One stoppage leads to another, until disease destroys the system.

To secure moisture for a patient is the only hope of the physician. Benjamin Franklin has immortalized himself by such sayings as, an ounce of prevention is better than a pound of cure.

Reader, if you desire to be saved from the kindred diseases which make life a burden, then create an appetite in your eyes by giving them a drink of Poor Richard every morning immediately after you wash, and just before retiring at night. Do not say—Let well enough alone; consider the lilies of the field, they receive the life giving dew while they are in perfect health—go thou and do likewise.

Please read the following letter from the Rev. P. S. Henson, pastor of the Broad Street Baptist Church:

Philadelphia, Oct. 17, 1862.

From injuries received in my right eye when a boy, a chronic inflammation had been produced, in consequence of which I suffered constant martyrdom. Every moment of my waking life was embittered, and I was frequently unable to sleep at night.

A variety of remedies had been resorted to without success, and I entertained the purpose, as a last resort, of having the ball taken out of its socket in the hope of finding thus relief.

In the meanwhile, most providentially I noticed one day in a shop window a bottle of Poor Richard's Eye Water. I had never heard of it before, but determined to try it—and did with the most delightful results. In a very few days the painful irritation was removed—I could bear the strongest light, and went forth as it were to the enjoyment of a new life. I now keep a bottle of it always in the house, and if my eye seems at all disposed to anoy me, I give it a dose, and that is an end of it. I take occasion to say further, that my wife used to suffer severely at times from protracted pain in and over her eyes, and she has found Poor Richard's Eye Water a sovereign specific in her case, giving her almost instant relief.

Grateful to God for the benefit I have personally received, I cannot but recommend the preparation most cordially to all who have been sufferers like myself.

P. S. HENSON,
Pastor of the Broad Street Baptist Church.
Residence 1430 Poplar St., Philadelphia.

Thousands of certificates could be published, of the most remarkable cures on record. It is a perfect restorer of weak sight and dim vision; it cures Deafness, Catarrh, Sore Throat, prevents Loss of Hair, with all kindred diseases.

Directions.—Bathe with a glass tube, at least the ear (many bathe the eyes with the finger). Ask the druggist for the tube—it costs 6 cents.

Poor Richard's Eye Water sells at 25 cents per bottle.

Sold by George E. Meacom, South Danvers, and Druggists everywhere. Weeks & Potter, wholesale agents, Boston.

MRS. M. G. BROWN,
410 Arch St. Philadelphia, Proprietor.

Are you Insured?

THE subscriber would respectfully call your attention to the fact that he is fully prepared to effect INSURANCE AGAINST FIRE, to any amount, at current rates, on

Dwelling Houses, Barns and their contents, Stores, Stocks of Goods, Furniture, &c. &c., and on buildings in process of erection,

And that he is the authorized Agent for the following responsible Stock and Mutual Companies, viz:

Thames Insurance Co., (Stock,) Norwich, Conn.
Capital—$500,000.
Amos W. Prentice, Pres. Oliver F. Rice, Sec'y
Conway Insurance Company, (Stock) Boston.
Capital and Surplus—$260,000.
James F. Whitney, Pres. David C. Rogers, Sec'y.
City Insurance Company, (Stock) Boston.
Capital—$150,000.
Samuel P. Hayward, Pres. Austin W. Benton, Sec'y

Also, will effect Insurance on the LIVES OF INDIVIDUALS, for one year, seven years, or for the whole term of life, in the

Massachusetts Mutual Life Ins. Co., Springfield, Mass.
Capital and Assets—$375,000.
Caleb Rice, Pres. D. B. Bacon, Sec'y.
William Mack, M. D, Medical Examiner.

WM. ARCHER, Jr.,
18 Washington st. and 34 Front st., Salem.
ej b20-1

E. F. BURNHAM,
SOLE AGENT FOR
SARGENT & CO.S'
MAGIC SOAP
For South Danvers & Salem.
OFFICE—Central St., opp. Lowell Depot, at Burnham's Express Office, So. Danvers.
Price $3.50 per 100 Lbs.
Orders sent by mail or otherwise to So. Danvers will be promptly attended to. tf-oct3

WM. C. HENDERSON,
MANUFACTURER OF
PLAIN AND FANCY
PAPER BOXES,
No. 235 ESSEX STREET,
Sign of "Nest of Boxes,"
July 23 SALEM. tf

SUMMER ARRANGE — TO — LYNN & BOS — BY — OMNIBUS & HORS

W. F. BURNHA

Line of Omnibuses will leave the Ly Omnibus Office, No. 6 Allen's Buildi vers. passing down Main Street, throug Street, to Lynn, daily.

Leave South Danvers at 7 50 o'cloc and 4 50 P. M

Leave Lynn (Horse Car Depot, Wes A. M., 2 40 and 6 40 P. M.

Horse Cars leaving Scollay's Building at 8 15 A. M., 1 15 and 5 15 P. M., will bnses at Lynn, at the above named passengers to South Danvers.

Sunday Arrangement

Leave S. Danvers at 7.50 a.m.,
Leave Lynn at 9.40 a.m., and 6

Cars leave Scollay's Building, Court to meet the Omnibuses in Lynn for So 8 15 A. M., and 5 15 P. M.

Tickets to Lynn, - -
Through to Boston, -

Through Tickets to and from Bosto the Drivers and Conductors.

Passengers called for at reasonable is given at the office.

EXPRESS BUSINE

Between South Danvers and Lynn p ed to, on reasonable terms.

Extra Coaches furnished at short no South Danvers, 1863.

South Danvers & Salem Omnibuses.

ON and after MONDAY, Nov. South Danvers and Salem L buses will run as follows:

Leave the Hourly Office, South 7, 8, 8 1-2, 9, 9 1-2, 10, 10 a. m. 12, 12 1-2, 1, 1 1-2, 2, 2 1-2 4 1-2, 5, 5 1-2, 6, 6 1-2, 7, 7 1-2,

Leave No. 13 Central St., Sa 8, 8 1-2, 9, 9 1-2, 10, 10 1-2, 11, 1 12 1-2, 1, 1 1-2, 2, 2 1-2, 3, 3 1-2, 5 1-2, 6, 6 1-2, 7, 7 1-2, 8, 9.

☞ Ladies' Room, at Needham No. 272 Essex Street, and at the SINGLE FARE on the regular ro or Twenty Tickets for $1 00.

Passengers called for or left of a reasonable distance, the far cents.

EXTRA COACHES furnished, at reasonable prices.

nov 27 HENRY M.

Abbott's South Danver

EXPRES

Leave South Danvers,
Leave Salem,

Orders left at Teel & Moulton's, and on Main street, South Danvers; and on street, and at Reed's in the Mark

MARSHALL

DANVERS, SO. DANVERS

EXPRESS.

Leave DANVERS (daily) at 9 A. M.
" SALEM at 1½ P. M.

OFFICES:

In Danvers—At E B Waitt's and the Danversport—Richards' and A W Wa In So. Danvers—Francis Dane & Co's street.

In Salem—No 7 Washington street, 17 Derby Square.

All business promptly and faithfully

☞ Our patrons are particular write their orders.

☞ Packages, left at the office, sh "Marshall's Express."

☞ Being connected with the are enabled to forward Notes, Dra collection, and small packages, to point in the United States, at the

P. G.

dec1-8-tf

PINGREE'S JOB W

THE subscriber is still prepared to Job Work and Teaming, such as ture and Merchandize of any descrip or to and from the neighboring tow

Orders will be received at the Esse tion, and at S. Flint's store, on the South Danvers Wizard.

OL. IV. SOUTH DANVERS, MASS., WEDNESDAY, MAY 13, 1863. NO. 19.

Selected.

VERPOWERING WEAPON TO DUE AN OLD BACHELOR.

don't you marry, Joe?

y! was the answer made in the ntemptuous manner, accompanied t of the chair to allow his slipper- to rest comfortably on the mantle marry. I am sure you want a ou are making ducks and drakes income, wasting so much in eping. Housekeeping! The idea l bachelor keeping house!

ot? Hannah makes me very ble.

rtable! Look at this room.— ng in the wrong place, dust an k, and not one of the pretty fix- which women beautify a room ing expense. Then you fairly Hannah's family, if I may judge antity of provisions, clothes and muggles out the gate.

came the chair, feet and all, and elor, who was tall, handsome, e bright side of forty, stood up little cousin, who was flinging hs so lavishly in his face.

oe, I've seen her do it. Now a ld make this housekeeping all

Now, do marry, Cousin Joe; I to get a real nice wife.

is she to be found?

et me see. And the little beauty brow and looked as puzzled as ne of the person proposed had on the tip of her tongue for the

Let me see! Oh! I know!— w.

Meta Snow, the most extrava- in this village! Now if you fary Wright, who dresses sim- s her house furnished so neatly , I might have consented; but —why, her dresses and bon- cost a fortune, not to mention sive furniture she delights in. sofas, or curtains but embroid- uit her, ond oh, worst of all, half her time in reading trashy Meta Snow! and Joseph Har- ack in his chair utterly over- th the magnitude of the idea. s extravagance is the objec-s; she is pretty, intelligent, mplished, but you know, Jen- ther's experience makes me xtravagant wife. I think he wnfall entirely to Margaret's els, fine clothes and expensive I am not mean—ou are not, Joe.

ow what a weight on a man's extravagant wife is.

can prove Meta Snow the nical girl in the village, and nds less in one year that Mary ix months you will give me a your wife.

l; but I'll bet a dozen pair s and a new bracelet against ap—mine you know is very t you fail.

ome spend this evening with bye. And away went Jennie, ial schemes intent.

ing found Joe early at his o tell the truth, Meta Snow's nd winning manners had won s heart long before, but her xtravagant habits frightened rs on the tip of the tongue, willing enough to pay the it but be fairly won.

said Jennie, meeting him at m going to hide you, and talk with the girls, to which n. If you are here I should k all the questions I intend might be shy of answering? dropper, Jennie?

t is fair in such a case.— e they are! In this closet, ou win a wife or a smoking

Go in. And with a part- nie locked the closet door. to comply now, sat down oset, on a stool considerate- r this purpose, put his eye and took a survey of the entering. After this, he, f his shoulders, placed his eye had been.

ladies, both pretty, were y different styles. Meta ue silk, with flounces, bre- , and a pretty head dress s on her luxuriant light as attired in a pearl-color- perfectly plain, with a rich lace collar and sleeves, and her dark hair in simple braids, with gold headed pins at the back.

Jennie opened her batteries at once.

What a pretty dress, Meta!

Ain't it? I made it to-day.

Made it?

O yes, I make all my own dresses; it is quite a saving.

I should think it would be, said Mary Wright, my dressmaker's bills are enormous. I won't have my dresses made anywhere but in Philadelphia, and it costs a small fortune.

My patterns came from there, said Meta to Jennie, I am making you a head dress like mine. Do you like it?

Yes, thank you, very much.

It is made of the ribbon I had on my last blue dress. I got a recipe for renovating old ribbons, last week, and tried it. My bretelles are of the same.

I thought it was bran new, said Mary. What an economical girl you are, Meta?

Jenny tittered.

I heard Meta called extravagant to-day, she said. Come, Meta, deny the charge and prove it false.

I think I can without vanity, said Meta. Father is not rich, and since mother died I have learned to be economical. I make all my own clothes, bonnets, cloaks and dresses included; embroider my collars and sleeves.

What? cried Mary, these elegant collars and sleeves you wear? Why, I have often said that although mine cost me so much, they do not compare with yours.

It is pretty work to take out when my hands would otherwise be idle, said Meta. See I have one here. I will work as I defend myself. Then Jennie, I make many of father's things — his dressing gowns, under-clothes, slippers,—and embroidered seats for all the worn-out chairs and sofas. Our parlor furniture got very shabby, and we could not afford to furnish; but the curtains I embroidered, and new seats for ottomans, sofas and chairs, and, with some of my tidies and a coat of varnish here and there, make it look quite respectable.

The prettiest parlor in the village! said Jennie. But, Meta, the fancy articles, shades, and all those things?

O, I make them, and they cost very little. Then father likes a good table, and I have learned to be quite a cook.— I put up all our preserves and pickles, make the cake, and provide new dishes constantly.

Mercy! cried Mary; why, the preserves pickles and cake alone, at our house, cost a mint of money.

But, Meta, said Jennie, how do you find time for all this? I was informed that you spent half your time reading a trashy magazine.

Oh, Jennie, how can you call it so, when you make it so useful yourself?

I but repeat the assertion of another.

But, Meta, said Mary, I should think the patterns and receipts you require for so much work would cost a fortune.

They cost me three dollars a year.

Where do you get them?

From the trashy magazine. My Ladies' Magazine furnishes all this valuable information; and father says three dollars expenditure is a clear saving every year of half his former expenses

Let me out! let me out! cried a voice from a closet behind the young ladies.

What's that? cried Mary and Meta, both at once.

Only my cousin Joe. Come out, sir! and Jennie opened the door.

But what is he doing there? asked Meta.

Eating my preserves, said Jennie, giving her cousin a pinch.

No such thing, said Joe, frankly; I was eavesdropping, I am ashamed to say. Miss Meta, forgive me for the unfounded charges which Jennie has repeated. She defended you at the time, and shut me up here to convince me what a mistake I had made. I take it back; and, he added in a whisper to Jennie; the bracelet and the gloves shall be sent here in the morning.

I forgive you, said Meta, laughing.

Mary, said Jennie, come with me to the dinner room a moment. I want to show you a new basket I made to-day.

Meta was following them, but Joe, inwardly blessing his cousin Jennie, took her hand and gently detained her.

Reader, my tale is told. Joe Harris lost his wager, and won Meta for a wife. To all old bachelors I would say at parting: "Go thou, and do likewise."

WHY A DOG WAGGLES HIS TAIL.—Lord Dundreary tells his friend the solution of this difficult riddle:—Because the dog is stronger than the tail. If he wasn't, the tail would waggle the dog."

DEACON OSGOOD'S COW "BET."

BY REV. JOHN TODD, D. D.

There was no more honest, plain and sincere man in the whole valley than Dea. Osgood. He lived in a small, remote place named Morley. Its inhabitants were few and sparse. They had a small, shut-up meeting house in which they occasionally had a religious service, when any wandering son of Levi happened along, and was willing to give them a sermon. But they had no minister, and the house grew shabby, and the schools were run down, and the people were indifferent to religious things, and every thing had a kind of mullein-stalk look, poor, dry and discouraged! There was no public spirit, and the place seemed to be fast becoming drift-wood compared with the fresh trees of a fresh forest. Dea. Osgood mourned and sighed alone. At last the genius of goodness seemed to whisper in his ear, "Dea. Osgood, you are going to let things go to ruin—the whole of Morley—body and soul?"

"What can I do?"

"Act."

"Yes, but I can't act alone, and the people won't stir. They are all dead. What can I do?"

"Make up your mind what is best for them, and what they ought to do—and then—make them do it!"

Dea. Osgood sat up that night alone very late. What he thought has never been known. He is not a talker. But early the next morning he had old Kate harnessed, and before night was thirty miles from home. And late he sat up talking with his friend, the Rev. Jonas Faithful. I don't know what he said, but Mr. Faithful told his wife the next day, that he never heard eloquence before!

Esquire Turnpenny was "the most influential," (as was said,) and the richest man in town. He loved money and he loved land, and he loved cattle, and he loved anything that was property. But he did not love religion, nor ministers, nor Sabbaths. He professed to be an unbeliever, and yet he had quite a respect for Dea. Osgood. "The Deacon," he used to say, "is narrow-minded and superstitious, but he's consistent."

The Deacon went to see Esq. Turnpenny. A small part of the conversation only was heard.

"Now Deacon that's all moonshine. You know I don't believe in these things, and I consider ministers a kind of moth upon society,—worse than useless! I don't believe it, and I would not give that for all"—and he snapped his fingers smartly.

"But, Esquire, the place is all running down!"

"I know it and if you will bring in something productive—a real Productor of property, I'll do something handsome."

"Well, Esquire, if you will agree to pay twenty dollars a year for five years"—

"And that's a round hundred"—

"I know it, sir. But if you will agree to pay twenty dollars yearly for five years, and then if I cannot show that the place is richer in property than we have all paid the minister, I pledge myself to refund your hundred dollars!"

"Yes, but who shall be the judge?"

"You shall."

"Well, Deacon, if you are not a saint, you have the perseverence of the saints. And to show that I don't want to be mean, I now say, if at the end of five years, I allow the town is as much richer as all his salary, I will give you the best cow I have in the world!"

Dea. Osgood made out in his own mind what each man could and ought to give, and then went and persuaded each man to do it. In one week he had his salary subscribed, and then after a few more interviews with his friend, in a few weeks it was noised through the region that Morley had waked up, and had got a very nice minister—and it was said that "Esq. Turnpenny done it all." The Rev. Jonas Faithful was the new minister.

We pass over five years. We only say the whole face of the place was changed, One day as Dea. Osgood was passing, Esq. Turnpenny called to him, saying he had "some business with him." So the Deacon went in. There was a curious twinkle about the Esquire's eye, but he looked awful grave and solemn.

"Well, Deacon, do you remember your bet?"

"Bet, sir, I never 'bet' in my life."

"We won't be particular about words. But didn't you agree to pay me back my hundred dollars, if, at the end of five years, I was not satisfied that your minister had added to our property more than his salary?"

"Yes, so I agreed."

"And I was to be judge?"

"Yes, so I agreed."

"Now, then, I am on the bench, please to prove to the court, what you engaged to prove."

"Very well. But before I begin, I want you to acknowledge that our minister has been true to his profession, and has not let worldly affairs divert him or injure his usefulness."

"I allow that."

"I want you to allow that instead of trying to make money, he is not worth a dollar more than he was when he came."

"I allow that. But remember that we have paid him $2,500 in five years."

"Be it so. Now for our figures. You will be candid. How many apple-trees are now growing in the place, more than there were five years ago!"

"I made an estimate yesterday. I think all of two thousand."

"And how much more than their cost are they now worth?"

"I would not sell mine for a dollar each. But we will say fifty cents each."

"Well, Mr. Faithful, as everybody allows, was the means of introducing these. Put that item down at $1,000."

"That's fair."

"What say you to Joe and Sam Hardup? They were drunkards, they were just on the edge of ruin. The minister labored with them and got them to sign the pledge, and they are now sober, industrious citizens—I say nothing about their having joined the church. But how much is each of their farms worth more than five years ago!"

"At least a thousand dollars."

"I should say more. But you are judge. Put it down at that, and there are $2,000. Then he persuaded Ned Conklin to go to the Shakers and take on shares, two swarms of bees. And now how many swarms do you suppose there are in town? They did not cost a cent in money."

"I suppose there are one hundred—'

"And that number at $5 the swarm, is—'

"Five hundred dollars."

"And he taught and urged Tim Sweetser to make maple sugar, and he has sold $100 worth every year, which is—"

"Five hundred dollars more."

"He showed Arthur Spring how to flow his meadow and to raise cranberries—and he has sold $100 worth. And now, Esquire, how much more are your Ayreshire cattle worth to you, than was your stock before Mr. Faithful called your attention to this breed?"

"Perhaps $500."

"I'll stop here. How much do you make the gain to the town by this reckoning?"

"Four thousand and six hundred dollars! Who would have thought it?"

"Now, Esquire, I say nothing about the spiritual good resulting—such as the conversion of your sweet daughter Lucy, and your son James, now fitting for college, with three more from this place—all hoping to be ministers! You know it all. Shall I pay you back the hundred dollars?"

The Esquire rose hastily. His chin quivered. He only said "I am satisfied," and left the room, and the Deacon went on his way.

The next morning the Esquire's best cow, "Bet," was found in the Deacon's yard, and another in the minister's yard, each with a kind note tied to her horn—"a token of regard from her late owner."

The people all wondered how it was that the Deacon and the minister could get the two best cows the Esquire had, when nobody else could get one for love or money! But the Deacon kept his own council, and every body said "the Esquire is the most influential man in town, and he got the minister.

But good Deacon Osgood thanks God, and is only afraid he is to be too well paid in this life—otherwise he has great enjoyment in his favorite cow, "Bet."

☞ So perfect were the Egyptians in the manufacture of perfumes that some of their ancient ointment, preserved in an alabaster vase in the Museum at Alnwick (England) still retains a very powerful odor, though it must be between 2,000 and 3,000 years old.

☞ "Your Honor was right and I was wrong—as your honor is very apt to be," said a counsellor to a presiding judge.

☞ What is that which belongs to yourself, yet is used by everybody?—Your name.

THE GREAT BATTLES OF MODERN TIMES.

The following curious comparison of the losses at the great battles of modern times will be interesting. From a comparison of the battle of Pittsburg with the list, it will be seen that, with the exception of Jena, Wagram, and Waterloo, the struggle is the greatest in the record, looking to the number engaged:—

MARENGO—June 14, 1800.—French, under Bonaparte, 32,000. Austrians, commanded by Melas, 40,000. Killed and wounded, 6000 French. 6000 Austrians. Prisoners, 1000 French, and 4000 Austrians.

AUSTERLITZ—December 2d, 1805.—French, under the Emperor Napoleon, 70,000 Russians and Austrians, commanded by Gen. Kutusoff, the Emperors being present, 90,000. Killed, wounded and prisoners, 12,000 French, 30,000 Allies.

MADIA—July 4, 1806.—British, commanded by Sir John Stuart, 5675; French and Neapolitans, commanded by Regnier, 6500. Killed and wounded, 327 British, 2400 French and Neapolitans.

JENA—October 14, 1806.—French, commanded by the Emperor Napoleon, 80,000; Prussians, commanded by the Duke of Brunswick, 110,000. Killed, wounded and prisoners, 4100 French, 43,000 Prussians.

EYLAU—February 8, 1807.—French commanded by the Emperor Napoleon, 85,000; Russians, commanded by Gen. Benningsen, 75,000. Killed, wounded and prisoners, 18,000 French, 25,000 Russians.

FRIEDLAND—June 14, 1807.—French, commanded by the Emperor Napoleon, 101,000; Russians, commanded by Gen. Benningson, 66,000. Killed and wounded, 8000 French, 18,000 Russians.

ASPERN—May 21 and 23, 1809.—French, commanded by the Emperor Napoleon, 80,000; Austrians, commanded by the Archduke Charles, 90,000. Killed, wounded and prisoners, 18,000 French, 20,000 Austrians.

WAGRAM—June 5 and 6, 1809.—French, commanded by the Emperor Napoleon, 130,000; Austrians, commanded by the Archduke Charles, 100,000. Killed, wounded and prisoners, 28,000 French, 38,000 Austrians.

NEW ORLEANS—January 8, 1815.—Americans, under Gen. Jackson, 3000; English, under Gen. Pakenham, 6100. Killed and wounded, 13 Americans, 1902 English.

WAVRE AND WATERLOO—June 18, 1815.—French, commanded by the Emperor Napoleon, 75,000; Allies, under Wellington and Blucher, 110,000. Killed and wounded, 33,000 French, 29,000 Allies.

BUENA VISTA—February 23 and 24, 1847.—Americans, under Gen. Taylor, 4900; Mexicans, under Gen. Santa Anna, 19,000. Killed and wounded, 756 Americans, 2100 Mexicans.

ALMA—September 20, 1854.—Allies, under Marshal St. Arnaud and Lord Raglan, 51,100—viz., 25,000 English and 26,000 French; Russians, under Prince Menchikoff, 50,000. Killed and wounded, 3100 Allies, 6000 Russians.

INKERMAN—November 5, 1854.—Allies, under General Canrobert and Lord Raglan, 13,000—viz., 8000 English and 5000 French; Russians, under General Dannenberg, 46,000. Killed and wounded, 4126 Allies, 10,500 Russians.

MONTEBELLO—May 20, 1859.—Allied French and Sardinians, under General Forey, 11,500; Austrians, under Count Stadion, 25,000. Killed and wounded, 900 Allies, 2000 Austrians.

MAGENTA—June 4 and 5, 1859.—Allies, under Napoleon III., 110,000(?); Austrians, under Marshal Hess, 140,000(?). Killed, wounded and prisoners, 3000 Allies(?), 20,000 Austrians(?).

PITTSBURG LANDING—April 6 and 7, 1862.—Federals, under General Grant, 80,000(?); Confederates, under General Beauregard, 120,000. Killed, wounded and missing, 13,600 Federals, 20,000 Confederates(?)

The actual strength of the Federal force engaged at Bull Run was 18,000; but the reserve amounted to 17,000 more, making the entire Federal army 35,000. The Confederate force, according to their own showing, was 40,000, with a reserve of 25,000 at Manasses—in all, 65,000. The Federal loss, in killed and wounded, was 1590; that of the Confederates, in killed and wounded, 1593. The transcendant magnitude of the battle at Pittsburg over any engagement which has yet taken place in the American civil war is apparent, as also over most of what are regarded as the great battles of the world.

WHAT THE BREAKING OF AN EGG LED TO.

A young couple had passed the first few weeks of their marriage at the house of a friend. Having at length occupied their new home, they were taking their first breakfast, when the following scene took place:

The young husband was innocently opening a boiled egg in an egg-cup. The bride observed that he was breaking the shell at the wrong end. "How strange it looks," said she, "to see you break your egg at the small end, my dear! No one else does so; and it look so odd"

"O, I think it is quite as good, in fact, better than breaking it at the large end, the egg runs over the top," replied the husband.

"But it looks very odd when no one else does so," rejoined the wife.

"Well, now, I really do think it is not a nice way you have got of eating an egg. That dipping strips of bread and butter into an egg is not tidy. But I do not object to your doing as you please, if you will let me break my egg at the small end," retorted the husband.

"I am sure my way is not quite as bad as eating pie with a knife, as you do, instead of useing a fork; and you always eat the syrup as if you were not accustomed to have such things. You really do not see how very bad it looks, or I am sure you would not do so," added the wife."

"The syrup is made to be eaten with the pie; and why should I send it away on the plate?" asked the husband. "No well-bred persons ever clear their plates as if they were starved," said the bride, with a contemptuous cast of her head.

"Well, then, I am not a well-bred person," replied the husband, angrily.

"But you must be, if we are to live comfortably together," was the sharp answer of the fastidious lady.

"Well, I must break my egg at the small end, so it does not signify; and I must also eat the syrup."

"Then I will not have either fruit-pie or eggs at the table."

"But I will have them," pertulantly exclaimed the husband.

"I wish I had not been married to you," cried the young wife, bursting into tears.

"And so do I," added the now incensed husband, as he rose and walked out of the room.

This domestic quarrel was followed by others equally trifling in their origin and disgraceful in their character, until the silly couple made themselves so disagreeable to each other that their home became unendurable and they separated.—Galt's Reporter.

☞ The antiquarians in Europe are excited by the alleged discovery at Bucharest of the sword which belonged to Absalom. The blade has on one side the following words traced in Hebrew characters:—"Present from Gessur to Absalom, son of David Jeho, Jeho" On the same side is engraved the image of the hexagonal seal of David, and on the other some characters, the meaning of which has not been yet explained. On the corresponding place to those of the Hebrew characters, and on the opposite side of the blade are these words engraved in gold:—"Titus accepit ex Jerusalem." This sword had a handle in gold, representing at the upper part a warrior's head, covered with a helmet, and joined by a chain to a dragon's head which formed the hilt. The old monk possessed of this weapon, procured it from a Janissary, into whose hands it fell during the disturbances at Constantinople, in 1807. In a moment of distress he sold the handle and the scabbard, which was, he says, made of a kind of serpent's skin, and mounted in gold. The ancient origin of the blade is proved by a manufacturer's mark traced in Semitic characters.

☞ Black-eyed ladies are most apt to be passionate and jealous; blue-eyed, soulful, truthful, and affectionate and confiding; gray-eyed, philosophical, literary, resolute and cold-hearted; hazel-eyed, quick tempered and fickle.

☞ Can you read and punctuate these lines correctly, so as to write them true?

Every scholar in this land
Has twenty nails upon each hand,
Five-and-twenty on hands and feet;
And this is true without deceit.

☞ What fruit trees resemble the knights of the olden times? Those that cast down gages.

☞ What city is pronounced wicked by everybody? Cincinnati (sin-sin-naughty.)

THE DUKE AND THE TOAD.—The following anecdote, which we take from an English paper, contains a deep lesson:—

The Duke of Wellington had noticed for several mornings, while standing at a window overlooking the park, a lad eight years old, or thereabouts, stooping down at the butt of an elm tree, and apparently feeding some creature who lived in it. So, wondering what the boy could be doing, one morning the Duke went out to see.

"What have you there, my lad?" he said.

"My toad," the boy said. "I come every morning to give him some breakfast."

"Indeed," said the Duke. "That is an odd fancy; boys do not often make pets of toads."

"Oh! I have done so," replied the lad, not knowing whom he was talking to, "all my holidays. But I am going to school to-morrow, and I shall not be able to feed the poor little fellow any more."

"See! there he is!" said the child, whom we will call Arthur Vyse. And, stooping down, the Duke saw the bright eyes of the toad glistening out of the darkness of a hole from which a knurl had fallen.

"Well," said the Duke, "tell me who you are, and where you are going; I will see that your toad is fed. I live near to here, and I can send him food now and then."

"Oh! thank you," said the boy with beaming eyes; and so they parted.—About a month afterwards, a letter came to the school for Arthur, with these words in it:—

"Field Marshal the Duke of Wellington thinks Arthur Vyse will be glad to learn that his toad is in good health. It has been regularly fed by the Duke's servant, excepting one morning, when Field Marshal the Duke of Wellington fed the toad himself."

A PLEASANT BEDFELLOW.—A diary of a prisoner of war in Western Dixie, contains the following suggestive incident:—"Becoming drowsy, I borrowed a blanket, went into the depot, and finding a vacant place between two prostrate forms, dropped down to rest, and was soon lost in forgetfulness. I have no knowledge of how long I slept, but getting cold, I partially awoke, and hunching my right hand partner, requested him to roll over and spoon. He made no reply, and giving him a tremendous thump, I again besought him to spoon, but it was no go. Turning on my other side, I shook my other bedfellow and made the same request. He too paid no heed to my desire. Exasperated at what I considered his unaccommodating spirit, I determined to bring matters to a crisis. Drawing up my left leg, I gave him a most unmerciful kick, but he was as immovable as the rock of ages. I was now thoroughly awake. Jumping up I turned down the blankets, first on one and then on the other, and by the dim firelight beheld on either hand a corpse. My nap was finished. In the morning I learned that they were rebel dead, brought down from Murfreesborough for burial at Chattanooga."

WHAT MAKES A BUSHEL.—The following table of the number of pounds of various articles to make a bushel; may be of interest to some of our readers:—

Wheat, fifty pounds.
Corn, shelled, fifty-six pounds.
Corn, on the cob, seventy pounds.
Rye, fifty-six pounds.
Oats, thirty-six pounds.
Barley, forty-six pounds.
Buckwheat fifty-two pounds.
Irish potatoes, fifty pounds.
Sweet potatoes, fifty pounds.
Onions, fifty-seven pounds.
Beans, sixty pounds.
Bran, twenty pounds.
Clover seed, sixty pounds.
Timothy seed, forty-five pounds.
Hemp seed, forty-five pounds.
Blue seed, fourteen pounds.
Dried peaches, thirty-three pounds.
Flax seed, fifty-six pounds.
Castor beans, forty-six pounds.
Dried apples, twenty-four pounds.
Salt, fifty pounds.

☞ Miss Mullock gives it as an item of domestic felicity, that the man of the family should be absent at least six hours per day.

☞ Why is a man dead drunk like a piece of artillery ready for action? Because he's all limbered up.

☞ Why should a woman look best when she's completely tired? Because she's handsomely tuckered out.

The Wizard.

WEDNESDAY, MAY 13, 1863.

LAST WEEK.

The military rumors and events of the last week have been interesting and exciting. Hooker's advance and retreat, as well as the evenly balanced fighting of the two armies, each suffering about the same loss and neither demoralized—these events leave the antagonist forces much the same as before and the battle is to be fought over again.

It is not to be denied that the news of the reerossing the river by Gen. Hooker, was most dispiriting, and persons of little faith gave way to despondency. Soon, however, the matter became better understood, and, in the circumstances, the retreat was, after all, a good piece of generalship. The public mind has become calm again, and even more hopeful than it was before the advance.

The absurd rumor of the capture of Richmond, which came to us on Saturday, produced an unhealthy excitement. There was just enough of plausibility about it to make it seem a possible occurrence, while the hopeful and sanguine gave it a ready belief. It is needless to say that their premature exultation was followed by deeper depression. In another column will be found a diary of the week, from the hand of Mr. George Pepys, who is a lineal descendant of the celebrated Samuel Pepys, Esq., of the reign of Charles II., whose diary furnishes some of the best details of the history of his times.

THE HORSE RAILROAD.

This enterprise is going on swimmingly. The workmen at this end have reached Salem and are now at work on Boston street. The Salem gang of hands have just reached the lower end of Boston street, and the two parties will probably meet about Saturday afternoon, if the weather should be favorable, somewhere below the elm tree. The main track will then be laid from the Square to opposite Newbury street, in Salem. To complete the road for running the cars, there is yet much work, and of the most delicate kind, to be done. The turn-outs are to be laid and the rails nicely adjusted, which is slow work, and we may allow thirty days to have everything ready for placing the cars on the track. We presume the ears will be all ready before the road is finished. We may therefore confidently calculate on a ride to Salem in the horse cars by the time of the locust blossoms, which is just before the middle of June.

GENERAL DODGE'S EXPLOIT.

One of the most daring and successful exploits of the war was lately performed by our former townsman, Gen. Dodge. Starting from the camp at Corinth, or near it, he penetrated the enemy's country two hundred miles, and struck the only railroad which directly connects Vicksburg with rebeldom in the East. Here he destroyed about twenty miles of the track, which it will take a long time for the rebels to re-build. This feat is a very important one, as it cuts off Vicksburg from reinforcements from their Eastern States, and also from any safe line of retreat. This exploit is fully as daring and important as the famous feat of the lamented Gen. Mitchell, at Huntsville.

Gen. Dodge afterwards captured Tuscumbia, in Alabama. The news of this successful raid comes to us at a very opportune moment, while we are under depression from the misfortunes at Fredericksburg. It is a palatable sweetening of that cup of bitterness. We shall hear further from Gen. Dodge, who will wear more laurels on his head and more stars on his shoulders.

The High School and the War.—We have been furnished, by the attention of our friends, with the following additions to our record of Peabody School pupils, who have entered the United States serviee:

Capt. Charles Dearborn,
Henry Moore,
Perez L. Winehester,
Charles Taggard,
Horace Perry,
Dennison Moore.

We believe that in our former list we inserted one or two names whieh are not entitled to be there. The above names will more than make up the deficiency.

Removals.—It is understood that Mr. Geo. P. Daniels and Mr. S. R. Bott both intend to remove their retail business to Salem. We shall regret their departure, but wish them good success in any place where they may establish themselves. We cannot yet bring ourselves to the belief that a good retail dry goods store cannot be sustained among us.

☞ We learn that Dr. Chandler will give an Exhibition of Nitrous Oxide, or Exhilarating Gas, at Ashland Hall, on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday evenings of next week. It has drawn large audiences wherever it has been exhibited.

Best Quality Corsets for $1 35—at PEABODY'S—real $1 75 goods.

GEORGE PEPYS' DIARY.

The following extracts from the journal of a sanguine friend of ours (Mr. George Pepys,) kept during the events of last week, serve to illustrate the revulsion of feeling caused by a sudden change from good news to bad:—

Saturday, May 2.—Reports prevail that Gen. Hooker is on the advance. Stirring times may be expected. A glorious victory in prospect.

Sunday, May 3.—Went to church in the morning. Enquired of every one I met if there was any news from Hooker's army. Did not get any. Feel awfully dissatisfied. Blue day.

Afternoon.—Saw a man who saw another man who had seen the Boston Herald. Said there was no news in it. Provoking! Went to Salem to hear the news and came back without any. Went off to bed, cross.

Monday Morning, May 4.—Hooker has erossed the Rappahannock! That is about all the news this morning. There are more reports, but they are all in a jumble. Old fighting Joe means to do something. I feel first-rate.

Evening.—But little to add to the morning news. Gen. Stoneman has gone somewhere after something. They say all looks well. Bought three flags for the boys to raise when the good news comes. Went to bed in good spirits. Dreamed that Hooker had taken Richmond.

Tuesday Morning, May 5.—The papers have a re-hash of yesterday's news, and still say Hooker is doing well and advancing. Wondered why they did not raise the great flag in the Square.

On the way home to dinner, stopped to look at the horse railroad. Thought it would be well to have a branch to Richmond. While looking at it, Mr. B., on the other side of the street, called to me, saying that "Old Joe was whipping the rebels like sixty" He said if I did not believe it I might ask Mr. D., who had just brought up the news from Salem. This was satisfactory, and I hurried home to tell the folks.

Told the boys to stick up their flags and give three cheers for old Hooker. Dinner was first-rate—roast beef and apple dumpling. Did ample justice to it.

Afternoon.—The big flag up at mast head, in the Square! Private flags also. Great rush for newspapers. Took chance in the scramble, with the rest, and got two-thirds of a Journal. All right! Fredericksburg captured! Enemy retreating! Stoneman cutting the railroads. Glorious old Joe Hooker!

Went home elated. Read the news to wife and children and gave each of the latter a quarter. Saw plain bread on the tea table and sent it away to put on cake and pie. Told the boys to look up the candles for an illumination to-morrow night. Told wife to make the tea in strong force. Found it not sweet enough and asked for another spoonful of Hooker. She requested me to cut the pie. I asked whether she would have it in divisions, brigades or sections. My mind was on cutting off the enemy from his communications with Richmond.

Evening.—Felt a little disturbed about the head. Went to bed and awoke three times, dreaming of seeing Jeff. Davis in Richmond, in ragged clothes and living on half rations. Mrs. Jeff. Davis had no bonnet or hoops.

Wednesday Morning, May 6.—Did not rest well last night. Could not help thinking of Hooker's grand entree into Richmond and what splendid pictures would be got up to represent it. Thought over the last night's news, and come to look at it, it was not very satisfactory. Too many "if's" and "but's," and too much guessing. Concluded to wait for the Boston papers. They came. Fredericksburg retaken. Hooker back on this side of the river! What does this mean? Is it a strategy, or change of base? If so, it is a base change. Hem! a-ha-em—ahem—something was in my throat. I went home the back way. Wife asked me what the news was. I told her sharply there was none. She said I did not look well. I told her I had a great bunch in my stomach. She told me to take something hot, and went and got a bottle of the medicine recommended by the "retired physician, whose sands of life have nearly run out." She said it must be the dumpling I ate yesterday. I told her with a petulance that I immediately regretted that I did not swallow it whole. But I felt as if I had a whole dumpling there, and that it had got up into my chest. I went out in the back yard and pulled down the boys' flags, and seeing some stray hens in the garden, stoned them out as rebel guerillas, not finding out until afterwards that they were my own loyal fowls. Scolded the boys for letting out the hens, forgetting that I let them out myself. Night came, but neither the news or myself got any better. I proposed to wife to take hop tea before going to bed. She said valerian was better, and so I took it. I only wish Hooker had "took" Richmond.

Thursday, May 7.—Feel all-overish. That hard dumpling still in my stomach. Mrs. Pepys wants to eall the doctor. I tell her, snappishly, I don't want the doctor. Feel blue as indigo. Story afloat that Hooker is going to re-cross the river and that Heintzelman has reinforced him with 30,000 men. All fudge. Don't believe a word of it. Thought I would try to read and forget the blue devils. Took Young's Night Thoughts. Wife said I had better take a more cheerful book, and mentioned Dickens. Asked her to hand me "David Copperhead." She smiled, but got me David Copper*field*. Little Bobby came running in to tell papa that "Gen. Dodge had tooked Tuscumbia." Got the paper and found it so stated. Gave Bobby ten cents. Dodge is a brick. He's a townsman too. Bully for General Dodge! Dumpling all gone. Feel pretty bright.

Evening.—Not a word of truth in the story about Heintzelman. Hooker has not crossed. Went to bed with the mullygrubs. Dumpling got back to its old place.

Friday.—Grand Gulf taken—so the papers say. Am inclined to believe it, as Gen. Dodge prepared the way for it. So far, so good.

Afternoon.—Port Gibson captured! Believe that too. Official from General Grant. Feel better.

Saturday.—Things look more encouraging. For a rarity the good news has confirmation, and no bad news to offset it. Feel calm-today. Report that another attack is to be made on Charleston. Absurd!

Evening.—After the evening papers came out, a report from Salem gave the startling news that Richmond is taken! That it was done by 30,000 men under Gen. Keyes from Yorktown. Ridiculous, but want to believe it. All in a stew about it. Took hop tea and went to bed. Would not take valerian, as it reminded me of Vallandigham.

Sunday Morning.—Anxious day. Went to church. Text in 25th chapter of Richmond and 13th verse. Couldn't keep my mind on the discourse. Find many people believing the story of last evening. They say the stars and stripes are floating over the rebel capital. Told the boys they should have powder and Chinese crackers to celebrate the victory and they might stay at home from school to-morrow.

Evening.—No confirmation of the news, but then there is no denial of it. We shall have it to-morrow and then have a great time!

Monday Morning.—Flat as a pancake. The whole thing is a canard—a humbug—a cheat. Sick, with dumpling in the chest. Going to stop reading the newspapers. Resolve not to believe any news that comes through Salem. Do not intend to keep my journal any longer.

STORY OF THE WAR.

Our citizens have other than the common sources of information in relation to the great rebellion. They are taught by the living voice, as well as by the printed page. This week will number at least three lectures on subjects connected with the war.

Mr. E. H. Bullard, a returned soldier, delivered an address to our citizens, at the Old South vestry, on Monday evening, on the subject—"What a soldier thinks of the War."

Last evening, Rev. Mr. Calthrop, of Marblehead, lectured at the Peabody Institute, under the auspices of the Irving Association, for the benefit of the "Ladies' Aid." His subject was, "The state of Public opinion in England in regard to the War." Mr. Calthrop is an Englishman and visited his former country to gain information on this subject.

We have this evening another lecture, at the Institute, of personal experience among the rebels, by Rev. Mr. Griffiths, a Baptist clergyman, who has had ample opportunities of seeing the workings of the rebellion from the very start. He was settled at Montgomery, Alabama, at the outbreak of the war and was there all the time the traitors were concocting their sham constitution in convention. He had excellent opportunities of seeing and hearing all the notabilities of the confederacy and he has the ability to portray them. He will also give his own experiences of personal suffering and rebel barbarities. We bespeak for him a good attendance, as we are convinced, from the great success he has had in other places, that his narrative will be one of intense and absorbing interest.

Lecture at 7 1-2 o'clock. Admission 15 cents for lady and gentleman, or 10 cents single.

Extract from a soldier's letter from the South:

"It does make a soldier feel better to know that at home anxious hearts are waiting and watching, and eager for news from loved ones. If the friends of those who get no letters, when the mail arrives, could see the differenee between those who do and those who do not, and hear the eurses on the mail, and doubts expressed as to whether folks care or not for volunteers; they would think it worth while to write EVERY MAIL." *

☞ We are indebted to Wm. H. Little, Esq., for a eopy of the Annual Report of the Adjutant General of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts. A valuable public document, of 500 pages.

Choice Styles in Black Laee and Grenadine Veils just received at PEABODY'S.

PUNNING.

There is a sense in which the saying is true, that the worst puns are the best. In this sense some of the following are excruciatingly bad, and consequently admirably good. The meaning of this definition of a bad pun we take to be that the solution requires more thought than in those where the answer is clear at first sight. We have left out one or two as too bad,—absolutely barberous. The author of the following is still at large, but the police will do well to be on the alert:

[For ye Vizzard.]

CRUMBS FOR THE CAMP.

Food for Laughter—Roar Material. Puncho.

Her Fond Desire: To —— —— C Company.
(To see eompany.) Oh!

"Hard and dry, like Dr. Oldboy's texts," as the volunteer said when he tried to tooth a reb's. ration.

Mysterious Chasm—An April Pool(e)

Chilling to Genius—The ice cool. (The High School.) Cruel!

What modern money changer most resembles Richard Baxter?

Can't see it?

Mr. Chase, to be sure.

Can't see it yet?

Why, his productions treat on the cents rest. (Saints' Rest.)

The purpy-traitor of this immediately succumbed to the broom for irreligion.

What is the differenee between the Wallis District Prudential Committee and the last teacher they engaged?

The one sees that the District is taught, and the other teaches that the District may see.

The foreman of the next Grand Jury is requested to copy this as private evidence against some one criminal, who will get "a true bill" next court.

Extra-Order-in-Airy Regions—All hushed on the Atmosphere surrounding the granite. (Quiet around the Monument.)

Signed For the P. C. W. D.
Pinkney Winker.

Cadet's Catechism—Which of our generals gives most promise of nabbing the rebels? Our General Hook-er.

Which of them is the most enticing strategist? General Cox (coax.)

Which the most re-lie-able? General Couch.

Which the hardest disciplinarian? General Stoneman.

Which served out the rebels best? Our General Butler.

Which is calculated to stem the tide of the rebellion? General Banks.

Which is the choice man for catching slaves? General Hunter.

Which has the strongest Southern proclivity? General Dix, who is almost Dixie.

Which is the most incisive tactician? General Sickles.

Which the best at pure strategy? General Dodge.

Cadets answering the above are ordered to report to the General Committee on Brigadiers, to be certified as competent to take Richmond with one hand, and Vicksburg with the other.

The Question at Issue.—The question at issue is between free government and the tyrannies and aristocracies of earth; and the wretched leaders who darkly conspire for the destruction of our Union and the subversion of our Constitution, and who forced rebellion upon their people, are the mere pimps and tools and butchers of monarchy in disguise.

It will be a mighty struggle, but the Constitution will prevail; hecatombs of victims may be offered, but not in vain, for conspiracy, treason, murder and all the lesser villainies will finally come to judgment. Cotton, which was to have been crowned King by European accomplices in honor of the Iscariots who betrayed their country to crucifixion, will be degraded to the position of a mere subject, and Slavery, the mere pretenee for the war, will make its exodus from political Egypt through a Red Sea of blood. It will give gibbets and jails and halters and pillories and exiles to its leaders here, and freedom and equality and life and vigor to the mass of the Southern people. Our country, when it has finished this work, as it will, will leap forward a century at a single bound. The votaries of king-craft abroad, will for their reward, find themselves a century nearer their disgraceful doom than they would have been but for these great trials of the popular elements. Their instruments here, whether on the battle field or the meaner field of political warfare, will be forgotten, except for the wrongs they have perpetrated, and the people of this Union, stretching onward toward a hundred millions of souls, will be prosperous, peaceful and happy.—D. S. Dickinson.

☞ The ice cutters at Grindenwald in Switzerland, recently came upon an opening in the mass of ice which led to a magnificent natural grotto one hundred and sixty feet long, eighty feet wide and sixty-five high. The grotto has since been lit up with torches and illuminated with Bengal fire, and the light reflected from the crystal walls produced a dazzling effect.

☞ The quakers do not allow pianos in any of their houses. It is against their rules.—Money however, saves them sometimes. A rich Quaker in Philadelphia, who bought one for the use of his daughter a few weeks ago, was severely reprimanded, and would have been read out of church but for his wealth.

☞ The Massachusetts 40th Regiment, Lieut. Col. Dalton, has left Suffolk and probably gone to rejoin the Army of the Potomac or up the York river.

OUR FIRE DEPARTMENT.

Gen'l Foster, No. II.

Albert P. Abbott, Foreman.
H. A. Besse, 1st Assistant.
J. E. T. Bartlett, 2d Assistant.
Geo. E. Lewis, Clerk.

Torrent, No. III.

Daniel Buxton, Foreman.
George Buxton, 1st Assistant.
E. Pope Barrett, 2d Assistant.
Nathan Bushby, Clerk.
Charles A. Lawrence, Steward.

Volunteer, No. IV.

George C. Peirce, Foreman.
Gordon H. Wallis, 1st Assistant.
John H. Swasey, 2d Assistant.
C. Leonard Peirce, Clerk.
Joseph Forness, Treasurer.
George W. Gray, Steward.

Eagle, No. V.

Thomas S. Trask, Foreman.
Edmund G. Clough, 1st Assistant.
Nathan H. Poor, 2d Assistant.
John P. Rust, Clerk.
Thomas S. Trask, Treasurer.
Peter Shaughnessey, Steward.

The Foreman, 1st and 2d Asst. and Clerk constitute the standing Committee. This Company has its full complement of men (55).

Marblehead to Have Defenses.—We are right glad to know that the Government has at last awakened to the importance of affording some military security to Marblehead and vicinity. Lieut. Col. Alexander, Engineer, U. S. Army, who superintended the building of Minot's Ledge light-house, was in town on Thursday, and in company with William Fabens, Esq., visited Fort Sewall, the Neck, and other localities, with a view of completely fortifying the town and harbor. He found the earth-works of Fort Sewall, and its magazine, in good order, and the former quite impregnable. The old fort will doubtless be enlarged so as to occupy the entire hill upon which it is located, and which is now partly occupied by an extensive yard for drying fish. The prospect now is that the notes of preparation will soon be sounded, and the old redoubt be put in formidable fighting condition. It is probable, too, that a number of very heavy batteries will be planted at different points on the Neck, so as to defend the town from bombardment, should a foreign war, as is quite possible, be forced upon us In a word, our town, if anything at all is to be done in that direction, is to be thoroughly fortified. Fort Sewall will keep an enemy from making the deep waters of our harbor a refuge for their vessels of destruction, and the batteries on the Neck will defend the town from outside offensive operations.

Col. Alexander will be in town again, to-day, to take a more deliberate view of the several points at which to ereet defenses. Next week, we shall probably be able to speak more definitely on this matter. Meanwhile we are thankful for an opportunity to say this much upon a question so important to the town.—Marblehead Mirror, 2d inst.

Losses in the Russian Campaign.—A writer in the Washington Chronicle contends that "Americans know nothing of military disasters," and proceeds to fortify his assertion by a statement of the losses suffered by the French in the famous Russian campaign of Napoleon. The grand army of invasion consisted of 301,976 men and 103,854 horses. During the short campaign of nineteen weeks and two days, the losses of the French, purely military, amounted to the enormous number of 247,000 men and 82,000 horses!. These statistics are derived from official statements of the War Office of Paris. But other French armies besides that under the immediate eommand of Bonaparte entered Russia, and took part in and prolonged the campaign. The total force numbered 647,000 men, of whom 600,000 were combatants.—The number of those who got out of Russia was 85,000. The loss of the French then, during that short campaign of twenty-five weeks, was five hundred and sixty-two thousand men and nine hundred cannon!

Sale of Real Estate.—The estate on Mount Vernon, near Harmony Grove, in this town, was sold May 5th, to Eben S. Poor, for 1800 dollars. Wm. Archer, jr., auctioneer.

The following real estate has been recently sold in Danvers:

Farm of Peter Putnam, containing 40 acres of land, house, barn, &c, to Ezekiel Goss, for $3225; Estate of Mark Glidden, on Locust st, to John A. Putnam, for $2000; Estate of the late Moses Black, on River street, to James D. Black, for $400; Estate of the late Rebecca Perkins, on Ash street, to John A. Putnam, for $800.

Importation of Paper.—We saw in New York last Monday, a sample of 7000 reams of newspaper just arrived from Belgium, costing in New York fifteen cents a pound and equal in quality, it appeared to us, to our book paper, worth twenty-two cents per pound. It is a good beginning and will stop the price of paper running beyond a certain point. What publishers have most feared has been a large increase of price in the future.—Manchester Mirror.

☞ A new two cent stamp has been prepared for local or drop letters, having a portrait of Gen. Jackson for the design. The new rate of postage for such letters rendered a new stamp necessary. Stamped envelopes of the same rate, for circulars, are to be provided. The new rate goes into effect July 1.

☞ Dr. Beeswax in his "Essay on Woman," remarks, with some truth that "Beauties generally die old maids." "They set such value on themselves," he says, "they don't find a purchaser until the market is closed. Out of a dozen beauties who have come out within the last eighteen years, eleven are still single.—They spend their days in working green dogs on yellow wool. while their evenings are devoted to low spirits and French novels."

☞ The Newburyport Herald says that among the enlisted at the recruiting office on Pleasant street last week was Rev. Geo. W. Burnham, of the Advent church. He signed his name "George W. Burnham, of Newburyport, aged 42 years, occupation—a minister of God." He belongs to a family that has furnished several clergymen of eloquence and ability.

THE PERILS OF BLOCKADE RUNNERS.

At intervals there is a word of candid confession from John Bull. While his "leading journals" are loud in their denuneiations of "ineffective blockades," and while Mason and Slidell falsify the record of naval seizures by insisting that the Southern ports are not strictly sealed, Earl Russell says that our vessels are doing all that can reasonably be required of any fleet on similar service, and hapless British sea captains who have been caught, acknowledge with deep emotion that the detestable "Yankees" have literally carried too many guns for them to resist.

The latest confession of this kind appears in the Edinburgh Scotsman. A blockade-runner who succeeded in getting into Charleston writes home to say that although he got through by the aid of the guns of Fort Beauregard, his vessel was sharply chased up to the very mouths of the rebel cannon, and that out of six vessels which attempted to run the blockade of Charleston on the 27th and 28th of January, only three got in. One of the other three was the Princess Royal, whose capture has made a sore spot in the rebel heart.

Here is a single passage from the letter of this Anglo-rebel blockade-runner:

"A blinding flash and stunning report, followed by the peculiar half-scream, half-roar of a shell as it flew overhead, broke the stillness of the night. This shell had been fired from a gunboat ahead, and directly in the track of the T——e, whose presence had been betrayed by the escape of some sparks from her funnel. In a moment the surface of the sea was illuminated by the meteor like flash of innumerable rockets, while as many blue lights cast a sickly glare over the scene. It rendered for a moment almost every vessel of the blockading fleet clearly visible, as did it, too, the helpless little T——e in their midst. While this had been taking place, however, the engineers had weighted down the safety-valve, shut off the feed pipe, and piled up the furnaces with resin, oil and turpentine, and the captain and pilot having, thanks to the Yankee illumination, discerned their enemy's whereabouts, had headed the T——e clear of them, and she quivered in every plate as she fairly flew on her way under an immense pressure of steam."

The writer says that nothing but the fire from Fort Beauregard upon our vigilant blockading vessels saved the "neutral" steamer.—Kennebec Journal.

The Horse Railroad.—The Selectmen of Beverly have located the Horse Railroad with a single track over Cabot street from the bridge to the Gloucester Branch Railroad crossing—The road from South Danvers to Salem will probably be finished by the first of July, when work on the extension here will commence.—Beverly Citizen.

☞ When Gen. Butler was at Fortress Monroe he was puzzled to discover how the men got so outrageously and regularly drunk until it was observed that they seemed to hold their guns up very straight, and upon an examination being made, it was found that every gun-barrel was filled with whiskey.

☞ According to a list kept by Captain J. H. Upton, Secretary of the Shipmasters' Association of New York, the number of American vessels captured by rebel privateers is sixty-eight—eleven of them by the Sumter, twenty-nine by the Alabama, and seven by the Florida.

☞ Printing paper must be exceedingly scarce in the rebel states. A new paper has lately made its appearance in Alexandria, La., printed upon the white side of wall paper.—That cannot last a great while.

☞ At a printer's festival the following toast was given: "The Editor and the Lawyer—The Devil is satisfied with the copy of the former, but requires the original of the latter."

☞ M. Cuvier says that a whale may live a thousand years, and that a pair of whales may have the domestie pleasure of living to count 72,000,000 of their offspring.

☞ Dan Rice, the celebrated circus clown, has been engaged for the coming season at a salary of $25,000. This is equal to the salary of President Lincoln.

☞ General McClellan lately declared to a public meeting in New York that the rebellion must be put down, though it cost the last dollar and last drop of blood.

☞ The ladies in some of the towns are forming onion leagues for the purpose of cultivating that fragrant bulb for the use of our soldiers.

☞ It is estimated there are thirty tons of American silver coin in the cities of Hamilton, Toronto and London, in Canada. The merchants will take it at five per cent. discount.

☞ The Anglo-Saxon is the twentieth vessel lost since the establishment of steam navigation on the Atlantic.

☞ The Prince and Princess of Wales are going to visit the Emperor and Empress of France.

Fishing Bounties.—W. P. Phillips, Esq., Collector of the Distriet of Salem and Beverly, has been paying the "fishing bounties," during the past week. The amount is about $12,000, divided amongst 38 vessels—all of Beverly.

Embroidery Braid.—Black Embroidery Braid in all the different widths can be found at J. P. PEABODY'S
220 Essex street.

☞ The great Fair and Festival at Lawrence, in aid of the soldiers, was not only a magnificent but successful affair, the net profits of which will be $6,000. The total receipts were over $7,000.

Spool Cottons.—The best Glaee Spool Cottons—200 yds—7 cts. per Spool, or 80 cts. per doz.—at JOHN P. PEABODY'S, 220 Essex st.

New Steel and Jet Buttons—at PEABODY'S.

FIFTH REGI

We clip from a long le York Herald, the following an account of the part the bore in the recent reconnoisa
Palmer, from Newbern, in th Creek. The expedition was and resulted in the routing capture of a large number o

"The 5th Massachusetts i praise for the prompt and which they fulfilled the orde ing officer. This made their and they had hardly had t their boots the dust receiv
Washington march, when or night, 26 April) to cook thre march Monday morning at hundred rounds of ammuniti delayed until half-past twe they commenced their ma creek, where they arrived ab
After a brief halt the march continued to Cove creek, abo
The following day was pass picket duty on all the diffe rebels were all around us, was necessary. On Wednes received orders to march on toward the intrenchments be where Colonel Jones had an days before. The distance miles. Orders were positive not to bring on an engageme my was found to be in sm marching about seven miles, the 5th encountered the r
through woods and swamps, brush, they were pursued b of the 5th until they were d of their earthworks. For m the 5th remained in plain si were the recipients of severa nature of the ground was s did no damage, only whis heads of the men. By careft it was ascertained that the en strong force, with artillery in waiting to get our troops in t gained the topographical in the 5th slowly retired to wh troops were encamped.

"This fort is about eight m and was the enemy's outpost.
the cross of the railroad and road from Newbern to Kinst (or Wright's) Cross Roads, ar position. Tired as the 5th w the gray-backed pickets can prospects of a fight were show aehe was forgotten and they the fray.'"

Facts Worth Knowing.—
ganism is a higher kind of veg opment of which begins with with the production of whi ordinary vegetable ends.

For instance, the fat of b found in the cocoa bean, hum the principal ingredient of b and of horse fat and train seeds.

From day to day, the la sufficient food, recovers, in the whole sum of strength, a force available for work is number of hours of sleep.
sleeps seven hours, and hours—consequently the produced in the seventeen equal to the effects produc hours of sleep. An old ma and a half hours, and he ca the force of an adult. The i ty hours, and wakes only fo expended in the action of limbs.

Professor Weber, of Gotti out a suggestion, that if a be devised to enable us to wheels of steam carriages should be able to aseend and with great facility. This realized.

Military.—The Divisiona Maj. Marks, will parade to at target firing.

Sherwood's Wire Gau
These are a variety of con mental articles, neatly made and superior quality of fin gauze. They are readily at tached from the spout of an at pleasure, by means of a sp into the spout, and is a gr tea, and sugar, as by its beverage is made so clear no portion of it need be w bowl. In fact, its practica too obvious to the lover of to require a lengthy recom
Stevens has them for sale at
No. 16 Main street. Call a you won't leave without ma

☞ Try one of Rhoades'
Wringers, before purchasing sale at the Equity Store, Sou
advertisement.

☞ Visit Osborne's Store, unusual variety of new sty
Caps—191 Essex street.

Grace's Salv
Newburyport, A
Mr. Grace:—My daughter grievously for several months so much so that she could not sequence thereof she was extre
All our efforts to cure it prove til a friend of mine who had recommended it as an exee applied it on his recommendat me great pleasure to say, tha effected a perfect eure, whiel neighbors as well as myself, a with me that your salve is t they have ever seen, and must upon every house that contai soreness or accident. May the good shower blessings upon yo Ge

☞ Now is the time to forw Grace's Salve to the army, abundant use in the eure of earned for itself the honorab being called the "Soldier's B is for sale by all druggists at per box.

Worsted Braids—8 cts—

VOCAL CLASS !

MANUAL FENOLLOSA, at the request of some of his friends, respectfully announces his intention of forming a

Singing Class in South Danvers,

for the acquirement of thorough rudimental Instruction in the Art of Singing.

Subscription papers for Membership may be found with Mrs. Geo. P. Osborne, Mrs. I. B. Elliot, and Mr. Geo. P. Daniels.

The class will be organized as soon as a sufficient number of names are obtained to insure its success.

Terms $5.00 for 24 Evening's Instruction.

So. Danvers, April 8, 1863. tf

☞ I have for sale one very fine Piano Forte at $165, and one at $175; also two splendid seven-octave Piano-Fortes at $300 each, at my room, 218 Essex Street, Salem. All orders for Boston or New York instruments promptly attended to. S. MACKINTIRE, Agent.

Port of Danvers.

Ar 5th, schs Otis, Ames, Rondout; 24th, Brilliant, Simmons, Bristol; 28th, Palladium, Ryder, Gloucester; Ada Herbert, Linnekin, New York.

Marriages.

In South Danvers, May 7, by Rev Mr. Barber, Mr William N. Osgood to Miss Rebecca N, daughter of Benj. Hutchinson, Esq.

In Salem, Ap. 28th, by Rev Mr Beaman, Mr Charles H. Dalton to Miss Eleanor T Phalen.

May 7th, by Rev Dr Briggs, Mr Edward T. Briggs to Miss Euphemia Taylor, both of S.

In Danvers, May 7th, by Rev Jas. Fletcher, Mr S Walter Nourse to Mary E B Seidmore, both of Danvers.

In Ipswich, May 7, by Rev Mr Southgate, Jedediah Chapman, Esq (aged 76) to Mrs Abigail Pulsifer (aged 80). No cards.

Deaths.

In South Danvers, May 5, Mrs Eliza Renor, 77 yrs; 9th, John, son of Edward and Bridget Egan, 17 days.

In Salem, May 5, Mr Asa Clark, 59; Bennie, son of the late Mr Benjamin Savory, Jr., 7 mos; 9th, Mr William Millett, 52 yrs 8 mos.

In Marblehead, May 4, Mr John Ryan, 80; Mr John S. James, 43.

In Lynnfield Center, Feb 23d, of scarlet fever, Ella Frances, eldest daughter of James and Sarah J. Hewes, aged 10 years 11 months.

Could we have asked to have one spared to us before all others, it would have been this darling child. Conscientious and truthful, upright in the discharge of her duties as a child, a sister, a scholar, and a friend, few at her age will be mourned and missed as she will be. A few days before her death she received the gift of a book from her much loved teacher, for being at the head of her class. I called to ask after her but a few hours before her decease; she was too sick to see any one. Calling her mother to her bedside, she said. "Tell her I got the book, mother." That little message came to me as from an angel whose wings were already plumed for flight; they were the last words of a dying child to a loving aunt.

"Tell her I got the book, mother,"
Our darling Ella said,
A few short hours afterwards
She was numbered with the dead.

"Tell her I got the book, mother,"
Those words my heart doth fill,
Although the lips that uttered them
Are now so cold and still.

"Tell her I got the book, mother,"
O how my tears do flow!
I long to clasp that precious form,
I cannot let her go.

"Tell her I got the book, mother"—
Our Father, is it just
To let our priceless jewel
But crumble into dust?

"Tell her I got the book, mother,"
Is the last she said of me,
Then she floated o'er the river,
Her pure bright spirit free.

"Tell her I got the book, mother,"
Yes, darling Ella, now
Thou readest with the angels,
And a crown is on thy brow. S. H. H.

☞ The extraordinary success of Dr. Ham's Invigorating Spirit, seems to stir up an army of Tonics, Bitters, and Cure Alls; but as a general thing they are like the Morning Glory—look very fine in the morning but wilt before the day has past. The Dr. has been before the public for years; his Dyspepsia Remedy has been tested and not found wanting; it acts on the Liver, Stomach, Head and the whole system; it is good at all times and for everybody.

Hunnewell's Great Remedies.

WHAT EVERY FAMILY SHOULD HAVE IN THE HOUSE AND WHY;

☞ They should have HUNNEWELL'S UNIVERSAL, COUGH REMEDY, because it effectually cures Colds, Whooping and Common Coughs, Sore Throat, Hoarseness, and is the most simple and perfect Soothing Syrup in the world. For old and young, by day and night, it may be used with the greatest freedom, and three-fourths of the deaths by Consumption stopped.

They should have HUNNEWELL'S TOLU ANODYNE, because it is a perfect remedy for Neuralgia, Nervous or Sick Headache, Tooth, and Earache, Pain in Stomach, or Bowels, Genuine Cholera Morbus, Rheumatism, Distress after Eating, Nervousness, Hysteria, and the chief of all causes of disease, and Insanity, Loss of Sleep. Its character, though active, is simple; its action in perfect conformity to nature; its end cure, or relief.

For the pains in Monthly Menstruation a perfect relief, while nature's after work is not disturbed, and one of the most important points in Medicine.

They should have HUNNEWELL'S ECLECTIC PILLS, because with seldom but a single Pill for a dose all derangements of the Stomach and Bowels are cured. They cure Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Headache, when caused by foul stomach, Loss of Appetite, Biliousness, so often and so erroneously treated with Mercurials, Jaundice. For Worms a sure cure.

They act simple, assist nature, do not make a Pill Box of the stomach, as is the most fatal error of taking so many Pills at a dose and then, what is important to every Family and every Purse, one bottle goes as far as two or three of what is ordinarily sold.

The confidence of all is asked to test
Hunnewell's Universal Cough Remedy.
Hunnewell's Tolu Anodyne.
Hunnewell's Eclectic Pills.

☞ Fac-simile of J. L. Hunnewell's signature over corks of genuine only.

JOHN L. HUNNEWELL, proprietor,
9 Commercial Wharf, Boston, Mass.

George E. Meacom, Agent for Danvers.

For sale by all dealers in Salem and vicinity.

Apr. 1, 1863—1 y

M. FENOLLOSA,
TEACHER OF MUSIC,

LETS.....PIANO FORTES, at the lowest rates;
SELLS.....PIANO FORTES, at the Manufacturers Prices;
EXCHANGES....PIANO FORTES, on the easiest terms;

At Rooms No. 7 Central street,
feb 11 SALEM, MASS.

MANUAL FENOLLOSA,
TEACHER
OF THE
Violin, Piano and Singing,
Music Rooms, No. 7 Central Street,
SALEM, MASS.

All kinds of Printing done at this office.

Advertisements.

SEWING MACHINES.

PERSONS about purchasing SEWING MACHINES will find it to their advantage to consult

JOHN H. CHOATE,
SEWING MACHINE AGENT.
Over Newman & Symonds' Store, Lowell St.
Second-hand Machines bought and sold.
South Danvers, May 13—tf

Mothers, Take Heed!

Give no more poison to your children. Do you ever think when observing the uneasy actions of your children, that the only cause of the little sufferer's illness is worms? In nineteen cases out of twenty it is so. Of all the diseases to which children are exposed none are so fatal to them as worms. In fact children are seldom free from them, as worms imitate the symptoms of many other complaints. They often produce alarming effects, without being suspected as the cause. The only certain cure—one of nature's own remedies, a compound of nothing but Roots and Herbs—is

Mrs. Osborn's Universal Worm Powders.

They will eradicate all worms from the system, if the directions are strictly adhered to.—No more filthy vermifuge will be used by those who have once used these Powders. The active principal in all other Vermifuges, Worm Killers, Syrups and Medicated Lozenges, is Mercury, as any physician will tell you. Many dealers will recommend inferior preparation, and lower priced articles, affording more profit to themselves. Be sure and obtain only Mrs. Osborn's Worm Powders. Price 25 cts. a box. Sold by M. B. GREEN & CO., and GEO. P. HARLOW, Agents.

May 13, 1863.

CARD PHOTOGRAPHS.

RAPHAEL'S Honrs, Liberty, On the Beach, Evening, Prince and Princess, etc—at may 13 G M WHIPPLE & A A SMITH'S

FLOWER AND GARDEN SEEDS,

WARRANTED fresh and correctly put up.
G M WHIPPLE & A A SMITH.

MUNROE'S

(LATE REED'S)

SOUTH DANVERS & BOSTON

RAILROAD EXPRESS.

Express leaves South Danvers at 10 1-2 a. m.
Freight " " " at 5 p. m
Express leaves Boston at 3 1-2 p. m.
Freight " " at 5 p. m.

OFFICE at FREIGHT DEPOT, South Danvers Square.

Order Box W. M. Jacobs' store, Main street.

EXPRESS OFFICE, in Boston, 10 Court Square; Freight Office, 1 Fulton st.

Also an Order Box at 86 Pearl street.

Particular attention paid to removing Furniture, collecting Bills, Notes, Drafts, &c.

ARMY EXPRESS.

Packages received and sent forward daily for Baltimore, Fortress Monroe, Annapolis, Washington, Alexandria, and any other point where the different regiments are stationed:

WM. C. MUNROE,
South Danvers, may 13—tf

A Card.

Having disposed of my stock and stand to Miss M. L. CRANE, I avail myself of this opportunity to request my friends and customers who have bestowed their liberal patronage upon me, to transfer the same to my successor.

In taking leave of my business friends, I would return my warmest thanks for the generous patronage I have received. I can in the highest terms recommend Miss CRANE, and would bespeak for her your kind consideration and confidence.

I would most respectfully invite those having unsettled accounts to call and adjust the same, either with Miss Crane or myself, at the old stand.

April 22, 1863. M. M. FLETCHER.

Notice.

The Subscriber having purchased of Mrs. M. M. FLETCHER her stock of Goods, and made additions to the same, is now prepared to furnish her patrons and the public with a large and fine assortment of

Millinery Goods,

which we will sell very low for cash. We hope by strict attention to business to merit a liberal share of patronage. M. E. CRANE,
ap 22 cor. of Essex and St. Peter sts.

Tillage Land and Barn to Let.

ABOUT six acres of good level Tillage Land with a Barn, situated upon the "Cross Road" in Rockville. Any one wishing to work upon land a portion or the whole of his time will find this a rare chance.

For further particulars application may be made to either of the subscribers.

S. C. BANCROFT, So. Danvers.
JOHN H. NICHOLS, Salem.

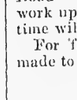
South Danvers, Ap. 22.

PHOTOGRAPH ALBUMS.

BEAUTIFUL and new styles, in great variety:

Card Pictures of the "Prince and Princess,"
"Father Cleaveland," and others at
G M WHIPPLE & A A SMITH'S.

To Let.



A SMALL but pleasant and convenient Chamber Tenement, in the house formerly occupied by the late Wood Forness, upon the corner of Washington and Pleasant Streets. For particulars apply to

SIDNEY C. BANCROFT.
South Danvers, April 22. tf

Quincy Mutual Fire Insurance Co.

Available and Cash Capital $500,000.

INSURES Buildings, Merchandize and Personal Property generally, on terms as favorable as any other dividend paying company.

J. D. BLACK, Agent,
april 22—1y At Danversport.

Merrimack Mutual Fire Insurance Co., Andover, Mass.

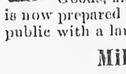
ONE of the OLD AND RELIABLE OFFICES.

J. D. BLACK is Agent for Danvers and South Danvers. apr 22—1y

Crockery Ware.

A FULL assortment of China and Crockery Ware; Wooden Ware; Table Cutlery; Tea Trays; Britannia Ware and Silver Plated Ware, &c—for sale at the General Furnishing Store for Housekeepers, No. 32 Front street.
ap 22 S C & E A SIMONDS.

Chickering & Sons' Piano-Fortes.
Hallett & Cumston's Piano-Fortes.
Hallett & Davis's Piano-Fortes.



We select our Piano-Fortes from the above items and warrant them to give perfect satisfaction. Our terms are reasonable, and all persons in the city and neighboring towns can be accommodated by calling at 76 Federal street.

FOR SALE—Second-hand Piano-Fortes,—Chickering's and others.
ap 29 ANN R. BRAY.

Sun Shades and Sun Umbrellas.

A FULL assortment of Green, Brown and Black Sun Shades and Umbrellas, at
ap 29 ANN R BRAY'S, 76 Federal st.

PHOTOGRAPH ALBUMS.

A FULL assortment constantly on hand.
G M WHIPPLE & A A SMITH.

A Good Milk Route for Sale,

INQUIRE at this office.
South Danvers, Feb. 11, 1863.

James F. Almy.

Bargains in Dress Goods

We are selling elegant styles Plaid Alpacas at 37 1-2 cts—former price 50 and 55 cts.

We are also closing a lot of the same Goods in dark colors at 25 cts. per yard.

Taffeta Stripes.

We have a few pieces remaining of those beautiful fine Taffeta Stripes, at 37 1-2 cents.

Dress Goods for 25 Cts.

We are selling the best styles and colors of Mouselin De Laines at 25 c. We are selling a choice invoice of English Dress Goods for 25 cts.

Dress Goods for 17 Cts.

We are selling an excellent quality of Plaid and Striped Dress Goods at 17 cts. per yard.

English, French AND American Prints.

We offer a splendid line of English, French and American Prints, at 15, 17, 22, 25, 33, 37 1-2 and 42 cents.

JAMES F. ALMY,
apr 29 188 Essex, opposite Central st.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

We invite attention to our complete stock of LADIES' OUTSIDE GARMENTS, for Spring.

Garments of every description for Ladies or Children, made to order, from measure.

JAMES F. ALMY,
188 Essex, opposite Central St.

We invite attention to our stock of LADIES' CLOTHS.

JAMES F. ALMY,
188 Essex, opposite Central st.

We invite attention to our stock of FOREIGN AND AMERICAN SHAWLS.

We offer many novelties.

JAMES F. ALMY,
188 Essex, opposite Central St.

Please call and examine our stock of SUN UMBRELLAS, made from the best Silks, upon English frames.

JAMES F. ALMY,
188 Essex, opposite Central st.

Purchasers of LADIES' KID GLOVES will find our regular Goods (Trefousse's Paris Kid Gloves) of superior quality, elastic and durable. We buy them of the Importer.

JAMES F. ALMY,
188 Essex, opposite Central st.

We offer a full line of BEST WATCH-SPRING SKIRTS at very low prices.

JAMES F. ALMY,
188 Essex, opposite Central St.

Salem, April 29, 1863.

Executors' Sale of Real Estate in Danversport.

By virtue of a License from the Court of Probate for the County of Essex, will be sold at Public Auction, on the premises, on FRIDAY, the 15th day of May, at 2 o'clock, P. M., so much of the following Real Estate of MOSES BLACK, late of Danvers, deceased, as shall raise the sum of six thousand nine hundred and eighty-two 33-100 dollars, for the payment of Debts, Legacies, and charges of Administration:

No. 1.—Homestead of said deceased, consisting of a parcel of Land on Water street, in said Danvers, containing seventy-five rods. On said lot is a large three-story Dwelling House, Wood House, Shed, and good Stable; a superior Garden stocked with valuable Fruit Trees of various kinds, Currants, Gooseberries, Grapes, &c.

No. 2.—Large Wool Store, three Stories and two Attics, together with the Lot on which it stands, fronting three rods and thirteen links on Water St., and running back to line of Essex Railroad. Said Store is 40x50 feet, very heavy timbered, and suitable for manufacturing purposes.

No. 3.—The Estate on Water street, adjoining the last, containing about two acres, known as formerly the Estate of the late BRIGGS R. REED, on which are two Dwelling Houses and large Stable. Said Estate will be sold in one or two parcels, as shall appear most desirable.

No. 4.—The Lot on Water street, known as the Proctor Lot. Said Lot is opposite to the Store of A. W. WARREN, and contains about seventeen thousand feet of land, and is the most eligible building lot on said street in the market.

No. 5.—The large Double-House and Lot of over 1-2 an Acre, on Water street, adjoining the last, and now occupied by WM. BLACK, and the family of the late MOSES BLACK, Jr. Said lot has a fine Stable and Wood-house attached, and a valuable Fruit and Vegetable Garden. It will be offered in one or two parcels, as appears to be desirable.

No. 6.—The Morocco Factory on said Water Street, adjoining the Grocery Store of A. W. WARREN, together with the land under the same; said Building is two story and large and well suited for manufacturing purposes.

No. 7.—The large and valuable Coal Wharf, with extensive water and street fronts, on which are several large and good Coal buildings, situated on Water street, and now under lease to POTTER, BATCHELDER & CO., Coal Dealers.

No. 8.—A small House, and Lot of about half an Acre, on River street, adjoining the Estate of M. J. HAGERTY.

Terms and conditions will be made known at the time and place of sale, or on application to either of the subscribers.

WILLIAM BLACK, } Executors.
JAMES D. BLACK, }

Danversport, April 14, '63.

WARRANTED GOLD PENS.

PATENT POINTS—can be used upon the corsest paper, or upon most any rough surface without the least detriment. Call and see them, at
G M WHIPPLE & A A SMITH'S.

ACCOUNT BOOKS,

MANUFACTURED under our own supervision, of superior paper and strong binding—a good assortment always on hand.

Every variety of Blank Books made with any style of ruling and binding, of the best paper and warranted to suit.
G M WHIPPLE & A A SMITH.

HILTON'S INSOLUBLE CEMENT,

FOR mending Crockery, Glass, Wood, Leather, etc.—25 cents a bottle.
G M WHIPPLE & A A SMITH.

George S. Walker.

Silk Under Shirts.

ALL SIZES, for sale at Old Prices—at GEORGE S. WALKER'S,
Dealer in Gent's Furnishing Goods and Toilet articles, opposite Eastern R R Station.

Scarfs and Neck Ties.

ROMAN, ENGLISH AND FRENCH.—
LARGEST STOCK,
BEST ASSORTMENT,
LATEST STYLES,
at the lowest prices, at
GEORGE S. WALKER'S,
may 6 28 Essex st., Stearn's Block.

Suspenders and Braces.

SUPERIOR, Medium, and Common Qualities, comprising all the latest styles, at
GEORGE S. WALKER'S,
Gent's Furnishing Store,
may 6 228 Essex Street, Salem, Mass.

John P. Peabody.

☞ 220 ESSEX STREET. ☜

Skirts..... JOHN P. PEABODY has just received a nice Gore Skirt which he is selling for $1. His stock of Skirts is full of all the best makes, and he is selling them at the very lowest prices. Ladies, Misses and Children's sizes, in white and colored—from 30c to $3 00.

Corsets.

We have a full line of Corsets of one of the best makes, which we are now closing at $1 35 per pair. We have been selling them for $1 75—now only $1 35, for a short time, in order to reduce the stock.
JOHN P. PEABODY.

Lace Goods..... We can show an extra nice stock of Lace Goods, consisting of Malta and Guipure Collars, Thread, Guipure, Malta, Silk, Smyrna, Saxony and Cotton Edgings; Veils in every variety; Cambric Edgings and Insertings in new styles, etc., etc.

Black Lace Veils.

We have now open a very large and attractive stock of Black Lace Veils in a great variety of new patterns. Also, a full line of Grenadine Veils in all colors. Mourning Veils, etc., etc.
JOHN P. PEABODY.

Trimmings..... We have a full stock of the new Plaited or Fluted Ribbons for Dress Trimmings—Worsted Braids (8 cts per piece)—Bindings—Galoons, Cords, Buttons, Shields, Edgings, Velvet Ribbons, &c., &c.

Ribbons and Flowers.

Our stock of Ribbons and Flowers is as usual, full of all the desirable styles, and we are selling them at our regular low prices. Ribbons, Flowers, —Ruches, —Laces, Tabs, Wire Taste, &c.
JOHN P. PEABODY.

Hosiery..... Our stock of Cotton Hosiery was bought before the rise, and we are enabled to sell it at much less price than those who buy their stocks now. Cotton Hosiery for Gents, Ladies, Misses and Children, in White, Colored and Fancy styles.

Sun Umbrellas.

The fact of our having bought our stock early in the Winter, will account for our selling them so much under the market price. We have them in 14, 16, 18 and 20 inch, in Black, Brown and Green.
JOHN P. PEABODY.

Parasols..... As Sun Umbrellas are so much used, we shall not buy any New Parasols this season, but shall close our last season's stock at the old prices, which are much less than the wholesale prices of this year. We have a few in nice styles.

Embroideries.

Wrought Cambric Edgings;
Wrought Cambric Insertings;
Wrought Cambric Bands;
Wrought Muslin Bands;
Wrought Cambric Collars;
Wrought Cambric Setts;
Wrought Muslin Collars;
Wrought Wrists and Robes;
Wrought Dimety Bands;
Wrought Lace Veils.
JOHN P. PEABODY.

Gloves. A full stock of Plain Kid Gloves;
A full stock of Wrought Kid Gloves;
A full stock of Long Kid Gloves;
A full stock of White Kid Gloves;
A full stock of Lisle Thread Gloves;
A full stock of Misses' Gloves;
A full stock of Ladies' Gloves;
A full stock of Black Silk Gloves.

Our Kid Gloves.

We have a full stock of the same celebrated Kid Gloves that we have sold the last five years, and are selling them at a very slight advance on our old prices.
Plain Kid Gloves, $1 10;
Wr't Kid Gloves, $1 25;
Long Kid Gloves, $1 50;
Blk & White Gloves, $1.
JOHN P. PEABODY.

LADIES' FURNISHING STORE,
220 ESSEX ST., SALEM,
JOHN P. PEABODY.

☞ Our store is open every evening until 8 o'clock. ☜

100,000 BARRELS OF THE LODI MANUFACTURING COMPANY'S

POUDRETTE,

111 COMMERCIAL ST., BOSTON, MASS.

This Company, with a capital of $150,000, the most extensive works of the kind in the world, and an experience in manufacturing of over 23 years, with a reputation long established, having also the exclusive control of all the night soil of the great city of New York, are prepared to furnish an article, which is, without doubt, the CHEAPEST AND VERY BEST fertilizer in market. It greatly increases the yield, and ripens the crop from two to three weeks earlier, at an expense of from three to four dollars per acre, with little or no labor. Also, FIFTY TONS of BONE TAFFEU, being a mixture of bone and night soil ground fine, at $45 per ton—a superior article for grain, &c. A pamphlet containing all necessary information may be had free by addressing a letter to the LODI MANUFACTURING CO., No. 111 Commercial Street, Boston, Mass.

Price of POUDRETTE, $1.65 per barrell. Seven barrells and over delivered free of charge.

FAMILY BIBLES,

FOR sale in great variety and at low prices, at G M WHIPPLE & A A SMITH.

A. J. Archer & Co

SHAWLS! SHAWLS!

A splendid assortment of

Spring Shawls

—And—

Spring Capes

in the most fashionable styles, for sale by

A. J. ARCHER & CO.,

Salem, may 6—tf

CLOTHS! CLOTHS!

A fine assortment of

Cloths, Cassimeres, Doeskins,

—And—

CLOTHS FOR LADIES' CAPES,

For sale by

A. J. ARCHER & CO.,

Salem, may 6—tf.

Potter, Batchelder & Co.,

(Successors to M. Black)

DANVERS-PORT,

DEALERS IN

WOOD AND COAL

OF the various kinds usually kept in a retai yard. Constantly on hand

Franklin, Old Company's Lehigh,
Locust Mountain, Black Heath,
Red and White Ash.

Of all sizes, of the best quality, and at as low prices as can be bought elsewhere.

OFFICE---No. 6 Allen's Building.

Order Box at post office, South Danvers, and post office, Danvers.

G. W. POTTER,
J. Q. A. BACHELDER,
C. T. BATCHELDER. july 19—tf

Tapestry Brussels Carpets.

AT $1.00 TO $1 25 PER YARD.

AN invoice of 100 pieces we have placed in retail department at the above low prices. This is probably the cheapest lot of Carpets that will be offered in the market this season. As it is but little over half the present prices for these goods, our customers are reminded that they will last but a few days.

NEW ENGLAND CARPET CO.,
75 Hanover St., opp. American House,
BOSTON.

Fine Tapestry Carpets.

ROYAL VELVET MEDALLIONS AND BRUSSELS are selling at low prices by the NEW ENGLAND CARPET CO., No. 75 Hanover Street, Boston. One price and cash systems strictly adhered to.

Fine Carpets Cheap.

OVER 2000 pieces of Fine English Tapestry Brussels—bought before the rise—and will be cut up in quantities to suit our customers at much less than the market prices.

Now England Carpet Company,

75 Hanover Street, Boston.

One price and cash system strictly adhered to.

Floor Oil Cloths.

OUR retail department is well stocked with the celebrated enameled goods, and selling at less than manufacturer's prices

New England Carpet Co., Boston.

One price and cash systems strictly adhered to.

Carpets.

ALTHOUGH prices have doubled to import or manufacture, we have a very complete stock purchased before the rise, and are able to supply our customers for the present at very much under the ruling rates.

NEW ENGLAND CARPET CO.,
75 Hanover Street, Boston.
Boston, April 22. 3w

WATCH SPRING SKIRTS,

At 236 Essex Street,

A few doors from Washington Street,

SALEM, MASS.

M. A. PORTER,

MANUFACTURES TO ORDER

Choice Spring Pigs for Sale.

THE subscriber offers for sale nice PIGS of Mackie Prince Albert and Chester County breeds, o which the Mackie took the First Premium at the 1st Cattle Show. Prices reasonable.

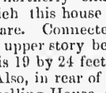
BYRON GOODALE,
Near Tapley's Brook.
South Danvers, April 22, 1863 tf

NEW BOOKS,

AT G. M. WHIPPLE & A. A. SMITH'S.

My Southern Friends, by Edmund Kirke, author of Among the Pines;
Sybil Campbell; or, The Queen of the Isle, by Cousin May Carleton, illustrated by Darley,
Annual of Scientific Discovery, 1863;
Harper's Pictorial History of the Great Rebellion, Nos 1 and two;
The Invasion of the Crimea, by A W Kinglake, vol 1; My First Friendship—25 cents;
Bibliotheca Sacra—April; May Magazines.
Campaigns of 1862 and 1863, illustrating the principles of Strategy; by Emil Schalk, author of "Summary of the Art of War;"
Annette, by Alex Dumas;
Captain Darrell, by M. E. Braddon;
Statutes at Large, and Treaties of the U. States, 3d Session 37th Congress;
ap 29 Sign of the Five Golden Books.

THE PIANO FORTES



THAT have attracted so much attention of late, and are so much admired on account of their SPLENDID FULL, RICH, MELLOW TONE, and GRAND FRENCH ACTION, are for sale only at the Office of the Agent,

218 Essex Street, Salem, Mass,,

where reference may be had to many who have purchased. Other Piano Fortes, also, are for sale, varying in price from $180 upwards. Please call.

McF 11 6m S. MACKINTIRE, Agent.

Browning & Long.

BROWNING & LONG having finished opening their NEW GOODS, are now prepared to show a splendid assortment in their different departments. Having purchased our Spring Stock at least 20 per cent, less than the wholesale prices now ruling, we shall sell them accordingly low, and as heretofore, offer our goods as

FIRST CLASS, and at the LOWEST PRICES.

Among our NEW GOODS may be found:

POINTE DE GAUZE COLLARS,
THREAD LACE do.
MALTA LACE do,
GUIPURE LACE do,
LACE TRIMMED do,
SWISS do,
SWISS SETTS,
UNIQUE SCARFS,
BLACK LACE VEILS,
EMB'D BORDER VEILS,
REAL THREAD VEILS,
GRENADINE do,
GAUZE do,
MOURNING do,
TUCKED do,
INFANTS EMB'D CAPS,
BLACK AND BL'K AND WHITE BARBES.

Edgings and Insertings.

Cambric, Muslin,
Thread, Malta,
Valenciennes, Guipure,
Smyrna, and Cotton.

A full assortment in the different widths.

Ladies' and Gent's Hdkfs.

A full assortment—in Plain, Col'd Bordered, Hemstitched and Mourning.

Also, a full assortment of Childrens' Hdkfs, in Hemstitched, Plain, and Col'd Bordered.

Corsets and Bodices.

A full assortment in White and Col'd—two qualities. Every pair warranted to fit and give satisfaction, or to be returned.

Skirts.

Our usual large variety in Ladies and Misses. Also, just received the new GORE TRAIL SKIRT.

Hosiery and Gloves.

A full and splendid assortment, consisting of all sizes, in

Ladies' Plain White Cotton Hose,
do do Unbleached do,
do do Mode do do,
do do Black do do,
Openwork—in Unbleached & White.
MISSES' COTTON HOSE, in white, unbleached, mode, brown, mixed, striped;
MEN'S HALE HOSE, in Grey or Blue mixed;
do do do Brown mix'd Striped
Plain & White.
BOY'S HALE HOSE, in Grey, Brown, Blue, Striped & Plain White;
INFANT'S 1-2 and 3-4 Hose, in Cotton, a full assortment.

Kid Gloves.

A fresh assortment—In Black, White, Col'd and Embroidered.

LADIES' SILK AND LISLE GLOVES.

We have a handsome assortment, comprising all sizes and a great variety of styles, including ALEXANDRE SILK KID FINISH GLOVE, in small sizes.

MISSES' AND BOY'S GLOVES, in Plain, Mixed and Ruffled.

Also, a full line of WHITE SILK GLOVES 8 sizes.

Dress Buttons, Bugles, Gimps, Beltings, etc., a splendid assortment.

☞ Also, a full stock of Yankee Notions, which we shall sell at the Lowest Prices.

BROWNING & LONG

(Successors to J. MAYER,)

Essex St., 177 Essex St.,

April 15, 1863.

Valuable Real Estate.

The subscriber offers for sale the following parcels of Real Estate, delightfully situated on the highest ground on Mount Vernon street, in South Danvers.

That very pleasant Cottage House, occupied by the subscriber, on the above named street, being well calculated for two families, having eight rooms in the southerly end and four in the northerly end of the house. The lot on which this house is situated is about 75 feet square. Connected with it is a two story Barn, the upper story being used for a Paint Shop.—It is 19 by 24 feet on the ground.

Also, in rear of the above estate, a two story Dwelling House, for two families, which rents for about $78.

Also, a very eligible House Lot on Mount Vernon st, 75 feet square.

Also, on Fulton street, a one story house with four rooms, which is now rented for about $60.

Also, a House Lot on Fulton st., measuring 75 feet front by 75 feet deep.

The above estates will be sold all together or in separate lots, as may be desired by purchasers.

This property is offered at private sale until the last of May, when it will be sold at auction if not before disposed of. It affords an excellent opportunity for a good bargain, as it will be sold on reasonable terms, and at a low price, if applied for soon.

The land not occupied by buildings is well planted with fruit trees in good bearing condition.

For further information, apply to the subscriber, on the premises.

MOSES JEWETT.
So. Danvers, April 15, 1863.

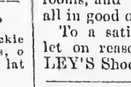
To Let on Essex St., Salem,

The STORE and DWELLING HOUSE connected therewith, No. 250 Essex St. The store is neatly fitted up, is one of the best stands in the city, and admirably adapted for Millinery, Fancy, Dry Goods, or any light business.

The Dwelling part contains nine finished rooms, and is supplied with water, gas, etc.—all in good order and very convenient.

To a satisfactory tenant, the above will be let on reasonable terms. Apply at J. PERLEY'S Shoe Store, next door west. feb 25

VALUABLE REAL ESTATE.



THE Subscriber offers for sale on favorable terms,—or would exchange for a Farm,—his Estate on Wallis Street, near the Monumental Cemetary, consisting of THREE DWELLING HOUSES, which will be sold separately or as one Estate.

There are 75 feet of land in front, and 72 feet in the rear of the house.

The situation is pleasant, in a good neighborhood, and the houses are supplied with all the conveniences for immediate occupation. In ordinary times these tenements would rent for from 330 to 350 dollars.

The Subscriber, having made up his mind to dispose of the property, will sell it low, and it is well worth the attention of purchasers.

Apply to JOHN M'NEAL.
South Danvers, Dec. 10th, 1862. tf.

GLASS WARE.

CUT and Pressed Goblets; Tumblers; Dishes in great variety; just opened at
SC & E A SIMONDS', 32 Front st.
mch 25

GREENS.

HAMPDEN Green—Chrome Green—Verdigris and Imperial Green—for sale by
ap 29 SC & E A SIMONDS, 32 Front st.

Just Opened,

A SUPERIOR quality corded Taffeta, at 37½ cts. All wool DeLaines, desirable shades; Domestic Goods of every description.
ap 29 ANN R BRAY, 76 Federal st.

☞ If you want to SAVE MONEY, chasing Goods, go to COLMAN'S, No. street, Salem.

Auction Sales

WILLIAM ARCHER

Auctioneer, Real Estate and Stock B
34 Front Street.

Real Estate, Bank, Railroad and Manu
Stock bought and sold on Commis

D. P. GROSVENOR,

Druggist and Apoth
33 MAIN STREE

Dealer in Drugs, Medicines, Chem
Stuffs, and Popular Proprietary Medi
Personal attention to Physicians'
tions.
South Danvers, May 29, 1861.

GEO. E. MEAC

Dealer in
DRUGS & MEDICI
Fancy & Toilet Articl
126 MAIN ST.
Nearly opposite Danvers Bank, So

T. A. SWEET
Druggist & Ap
37 Main St., So

DEALER
Drugs, Medicines,
Foreign Leeches
Herbs, Dye Stuf
Acids, Sponge
der Braces, T
and Genuine Pate

Also, Imported Cigars of choice bran
Toilet Articles and Stationery.
Physicians' Prescriptions carefully pr
perienced persons.

37 MAIN STRE

GRACE'S CELEBRATED

A SURE RELIEF FOR THE S

This Salve is a vegetable prepara ed in the 17th century, by Dr.
surgeon in King James's army.
agency he cured thousands of most and wounds that baffled the skill eminent physicians of his day, and by all who knew him as a public b

Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Burn
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Scald
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Flesh
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Corn
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Felo
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Froz
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Wen
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Call
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Salt
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Chil
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Sore
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Sore
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Ery
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Abs
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Ulc
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Cha
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Rin

And from Sores and Wounds of the nature down to a common Pimp cates Pimples from the face, and skin. There is no preparation bef that can equal this Salve in prom getic action for the speedy cure of eases, as those who have tried its v
Soldiers, Sailors, and Fishermen,
Salve their best friend.

It has none of the irritating, hc ties of other remedies, but cools, heals the most serious Sores
Every family, and especially tho children, should keep a box on h accident, for it will save them suffering, and money. All it w trial to cure old and inveterate So

MANUFACTURED BY WILLIAM GR
AM
PRICE 25 CENTS PER B

Each box has the above cut and the proprietor's signature attached t
ly copy righted.
Geo. C. Goodwin & Co., 11 and 12
Weeks & Potter, 170 Washington
Burr & Co., 26 Tremont street, Bo
Agents.
For sale by druggists and at count where.

SUMMER LANDSCA

AND "WINTER SCENES," 12 different Views for 62 cen colored.
G M WHIPPLE & A

JOHN FARRE
DRAPER AND T

HAVING removed to his old ness, 138 MAIN ST., (over Batchelder's Grocery Sto to Cut, Make, Repair, or furnis
Men and Youths at short notice
South Danvers, April 1.

THE CLOTHES W

JUST OBTAIN
RHOADES' CELEB
NATIONAL CLOTHES
THE VERY BEST YET I
AND REALLY A LABOR SAV
CALL AND EXAM
For Sale by E. SOUT
At the EQUITY GROC
South Danvers, Jan 21, 1863

DIAMONDS.

GLAZIER'S Diamonds—for
SC & E A SIMONDS

WOODEN WA

A FULL assortment of Woo
as Tubs, Pails, Boxes, Tr
Soap Bowls, Wash Boards, Ro
tars, Clothes Sticks, Clothes sale at SC & E A SIMON

FOLIO PHOTOGRAPH

PREFERRED by many pers style—manufactured by ap 29 G M WHIPPLE &

WHITE LEAD AND LI

OF the best quality—for sale
SC & E A SIMONDS

THE SOUTH DANVERS WIZARD

Is published every WEDNESDAY, at Allen's Building, South Danvers Square. by

CHARLES D. HOWARD, Proprietor.
FITCH POOLE, Editor.

TERMS—Two Dollars a year.

ADVERTISEMENTS inserted at reasonable rates.

How to Make $5.00 a Day,

When all other Efforts have Failed.

HOOD & CO., 186 Broadway, New York, have just published ONE HUNDRED VALUABLE SECRETS, possessing them, any one, male or female, can easily make $5 a day, without capital, in any city or village. Every one should possess these secrets, for they are worth $500 to any single or married person. Some of these Secrets have been sold for $20 each. One alone cost us $250 for the right to publish it. When you once own them you will never part with them for money. Several persons are now making $120 per month by these Secrets alone. By them any person may make money easily and rapidly. We send one Book of Secrets for 25 cents, two copies, 40 cents, club of three for 50 cts., club of four 65 cts. club of five 75 cts., club of eight copies, $1 Send Government money.

New York, Feb 18, 1863. *3m

TO CONSUMPTIVES.

THE ADVERTISER HAVING BEEN RESTORED to health in a few weeks, by a very simple remedy, after having suffered several years with a severe lung affection, and that dread disease, Consumption—is anxious to make known to his fellow-sufferers the means of cure.

To all who desire it, he will send a copy of the prescription used (free of charge,) with the directions for preparing and using the same, which they will find a SURE CURE for CONSUMPTION, ASTHMA, BRONCHITIS, &c. The only object of the advertiser in sending the Prescription is to benefit the afflicted, and spread information which he conceives to be invaluable, and he hopes every sufferer will try his remedy as it will cost them nothing, and may prove a blessing.

Rev. EDWARD A. WILSON, Williamsburgh,
March, 18, 3m Kings County, New York.

New Jersey Lands for Sale.

—ALSO—

GARDEN OR FRUIT FARMS,

Suitable for Grapes, Peaches, Pears, Raspberries, Strawberries, Blackberries, Currants, &c., of 1, 2½, 5, 10 or 20 acres each, at the following prices for the present, viz: 20 acres for $200, 10 acres for $110, 5 acres for $60, 2½ acres for $40, 1 acre for $20. Payable by one dollar a week.

Also, good Cranberry lands, and village lots in CHETWOOD 25 by 100 feet, at $10 each, payable by one dollar a week. The above land and farms are situated at Chetwood, Washington Township, Burlington, New Jersey. For further information, apply with a P. O. Stamp, for a circular, to

B. FRANKLIN CLARK,
feb 18, 1863 No. 90 Cedar St, New York, N. Y.

EDITOR OF WIZARD—Dear Sir: With your permission I wish to say to the readers of your paper that I will send by return mail to all who wish it, (free) a Recipe, with full directions for making and using a simple Vegetable Balm, that will effectually remove, in 10 days, Pimples, Blotches, Tan, Freckles and all Impurities of the Skin, leaving the same soft, clear, smooth and beautiful.

I will also mail free to those having Bald Heads or Bare Faces, simple directions and information that will enable them to start a full growth of Luxurient Hair, Whiskers, or a Moustache, in less than 30 days. All applications answered by return mail without charge. Respectfully yours,

THOS. F. CHAPMAN, Chemist,
March 18 2m No. 831 Broadway, New York.

SPRING GOODS!

Entirely New Stock of

CLOTHING.

GEO. H. LANE,

CLOTHIER,

Nos. 31 and 32 Dock Square,

BOSTON,

IS now ready to show to his customers and the public an ELEGANT STOCK OF CLOTHING for MEN'S and BOYS' wear, expressly designed by himself, manufactured on the premises for the present season in all those new and choice selections of fabrics for which Lane's establishment has become celebrated. The stock consists in part of

SPRING OVERCOATS,
FROCK COATS,
BUSINESS COATS,
And ONE HUNDRED CHOICE

NEW STYLES OF PANTALOONS,

Suitable for Dress, Promenade or Business Occasions.

Mr. LANE having made Large Purchases by Contract before the Unprecedented and General Advance in Prices, has it in his power to give

REAL BARGAINS,

Acting on the principal that

"Quick Sales and Small Profits"

Are the best rules to guide the merchant.

JUVENILE ATTIRE.

Boys' Entire Suits, as

SCHOOL SUITS,
DRESS SUITS,
JACKET SUITS,
SACK SUITS, &C.

All of the newest fabrics and best workmanship.

A year since Mr. Lane advised the public that he had added a Boys' Department, and he has now the satisfaction to announce that he has secured the services of Mr. C. H. Boynton, (formerly with J. WALTER READ) to superintend it; and indeed, to make the entire establishment the COMPLETEST IN NEW ENGLAND, the Proprietor has spared no pains to secure the services of REAL ARTISTS in the Cutting Room, and accomplished, obliging, and experienced Salesman in the Show Room; and trusts by strict personal attention, and MODERATE CHARGES, to merit the support of the community.

GEO. H. LANE,
31 AND 32 DOCK SQUARE,
April 1—3m BOSTON.

D. W. BOWDOIN,
—ARTIST IN—

PHOTOGRAPHIC PICTURES.

Rooms No. 175 Essex st, Salem, [Downing's Block]

Portraits, Miniatures, and Views, by the Ambrotype, Daguerreotype, Photograph and Stereoscope process—finished in India Ink, Oil and Water colors.

☞ Particular attention paid to restoring old Daguerreotypes, and other pictures—and making enlarged copies, highly finished. may

Cards.

WILLIAM C. CHOATE,
Attorney and Counsellor at Law,
251 Essex St., Salem.
Salem, August 6, 1862. tf

THOMAS M. STIMPSON,
Attorney and Counsellor at Law,
194 ESSEX STREET, SALEM.
Residence Lowell street, South Danvers.

B. C. PERKINS,
Attorney and Counsellor at Law,
South Danvers—Office in Allen's Building.

JOHN W. PROCTOR,
Counsellor at Law,
Office near the Monument.

A. A. PUTNAM,
Attorney and Counsellor at Law,
CORNER MAPLE AND ELM ST.,
DANVERS.

ALFRED A. ABBOTT,
Attorney and Counsellor,
Office, No. 24 Washington Street, Salem;
House, Main St., So. Danvers.

IVES & PEABODY,
Attorneys and Counsellors at Law,
Have removed their Office to
Rooms formerly occupied by Hon. Otis P. Lord,
NO. 27 WASHINGTON STREET, SALEM,
STEPHEN B. IVES, jr. JOHN. B. PEABODY

SIDNEY C. BANCROFT,
Attorney and Counsellor at Law,
27 Washington Street, Salem.

H. O. WILEY,
Attorney and Counsellor at Law,
Office, Allen's Building, So. Danvers.

Claims against the Government for Bounty Back Pay, and Pensions, promptly attended to

A. S. CRAWFORD
Dentist,
No. 4 MAIN STREET, SO. DANVERS SQUARE
Mechanical Dentistry Neatly Executed.
Teeth Extracted by Electricity without Extra Charge

W. L. BOWDOIN,
SURGEON DENTIST,
No, 208 Essex Street, Salem, (Opposite the Market
Residence—No. 57 Washington street.
jan 11—1y

F. POOLE
INSURANCE AGENT,
Allen's Building (up stairs),
Deeds drawn, and other common forms.

NEWMAN & SYMONDS,
DEALERS IN
Family Groceries, Flour & Grain,
HARD WARE AND CROCKERY,
Ready Made Clothing, Gents' Furnishing Goods, Hats, Caps, Boots, Shoes, &c.,
South Danvers Square, opp. Congregational Church
SAM'L NEWMAN. NATH'L. SYMONDS.

S. C. & E. A. SIMONDS,
DEALERS IN
Crockery, China and Hardware; Paper Hangings; Solar and Entry Lamps; Paints, Oil, and Window Glass.
No. 32 Front street, Lawrence Place,
feb13 SALEM, MASS.

HENRY L. WHIDDEN,
HOUSE AND SIGN PAINTER,
Glazier and Paperer,
Central Street, South Danvers.
All orders promptly and faithfully executed.
jan2-1y

E. S. FLINT,
DEALER IN
West India Goods, Country Produce,
No. 2 Main Street, South Danvers.

JESSE SMITH
No. 262 Essex Street, Salem,
Importer and Dealer in
Gold and Silver Watches,
MARINE CHRONOMETERS,
Aneroid Barometers, Spy Glasses, &c.

WILLIAM BLANEY,
HOUSE & SIGN PAINTER
Grainer, Glazier and Paper Hanger.
164 MAIN STREET, Corner of Grove.
WINDOWS and BLINDS cheap for cash.
mch6-tf

JOHN MOULTON,
LIVERY STABLE,
Central Street, South Danvers.
Mr. M. will endeavor to keep up the good reputation of his stable, by still keeping good Horses and Carriages. jan 7, 1863.

REGULATIONS OF THE

BOARD OF HEALTH

— OF THE —

TOWN OF SOUTH DANVERS.

Adopted April 11, 1863.

Ordered, That all dirt, saw-dust, cinders, shavings, hair, shreds, manure, oyster and lobster shells, waste water, or any animal or vegetable substance, rubbish, or filth of any kind, in any house, ware-house, cellar, yard, or other place, which the Board of Health shall deem it necessary for the health of the town to be removed, shall be carried away therefrom, by and at the expense of the owner or occupant of such house, or other place where the same shall be found, and shall be removed to such place as shall be directed, within four hours after notice in writing to that effect, given by the Board of Health.

Ordered, That all slaughter-houses or places where animals are slaughtered, shall be so cleansed by removing the offal, and all decaying animal matter, as to be free from all offensive odors to residents in the vicinity, and to those individuals travelling by any such place where animals are slaughtered.

Ordered, That no obstructions, such as posts, bushes, or other collectors of decaying animal or vegetable matters, shall be placed in any of the brooks of the town, or in Wallis Pond,—and that no privy be erected or continued over said waters, or so situated on the margin thereof that the filth shall pass into them, and that no animal or vegetable matters, or whatever will pollute the waters, be thrown or allowed to flow in the same, excepting by special permit of the Board of Health.

Ordered, That no wagon, cart or vehicle, in which night soil, hides or other matter, in a condition to emit fetid and offensive effluvia are being conveyed through any of the streets, highways, or within forty rods of any dwelling house, school house, or other public building in this town, shall be permitted to stand more than five minutes, within forty rods of the same place, except it be at the place or places where the load is received or deposited.

D. C. PERKINS,
GEO. OSBORNE,
JOSEPH POOR,
BENJA. HUNTINGTON,
M. A. SHACKLEY,
ALERSON GALEUCIA,
} Board of Health.

South Danvers, April 15, 1863. 6w

A FINE assortment of Paper Shades for Kerosene Lamps, just opened at
S C & E A SIMONDS, 32 Front st., Salem.

SPRING STYLE

DRESS HATS,

NOW READY

AT JACKSON'S,

101 COURT STREET, BOSTON.

Also a large and varied assortment of CAPS and SOFT HATS, for Boys' and Men's wear. Those wishing articles in the above line would do well to call before purchasing.

JOSEPH A. JACKSON.
Boston, April 1, 1863. 3m

100,000 BARRELS OF THE LODI MANUFACTURING COMPANY'S

POUDRETTE,

111 COMMERCIAL ST., BOSTON, MASS.

This Company, with a capital of $150,000, the most extensive works of the kind in the world, and an experience in manufacturing of over 23 years, with a reputation long established, having also the exclusive control of all the night soil of the great city of New York, are prepared to furnish an article, which is, without doubt, the CHEAPEST AND VERY BEST fertilizer in market. It greatly increases the yield, and ripens the crop from two to three weeks earlier, at an expense of from three to four dollars per acre, with little or no labor. Also, FIFTY TONS of BONE TAFEU, being a mixture of bone and night soil ground fine, at $45 per ton—a superior article for grain, &c. A pamphlet containing all necessary information may be had free by addressing a letter to the LODI MANUFACTURING CO., No. 111 Commercial Street, Boston, Mass.

Price of POUDRETTE, $1.65 per barrel. Seven barrels and over delivered free of charge.

H. & H. G. HUBON,
WASHINGTON STREET, SALEM
Manufacturers of
Rose Wood, Mahogany, Black Walnut and Stained Wood
COFFINS and CASKETS.

MAKING this our exclusive business, we are ready at all times and at the shortest notice to furnish Grave Clothes of various styles, as well as Coffins and Caskets of the finest finish. Personal attention given, and delivered without extra charge to any of the neighboring towns. All orders by express or otherwise will receive prompt attention.

Black Walnut and White Wood Boards, Plank and Joists for sale.

dec 14—tf

REMOVAL!

JOHN J. ASHBY,

WOULD inform his friends and the public generally, that he has removed to the store

No. 145 Essex Street,

formerly occupied by JOHN BARLOW, where he has opened a good assortment of

BOOTS, SHOES & RUBBERS,

and will MANUFACTURE to order, all kinds of Ladies', Misses' and Children's Boots and Shoes. Also, Snow Boots, at the lowest Cash Prices.

Repairing of all kinds done on the most reasonable terms. JOHN J. ASHBY,
Successor to John Barlow.
Salem, September 17, 1862.

GAYLE & CO.,
GENERAL COMMISSION MERCHANTS,
DEALERS IN
Flour, Grain and Produce,
Manufacturers' Agents for the sale of
Concentrated Leaven, Soda and Pearlash Saleratus, and Bi Carb. Soda.
PHILLIPS WHARF. - - - - Salem.

T. HARDY, JR.,
—Dealer In—
DOORS, SASHES, BLINDS,
Glazed Sash, Painted Blinds,
FENCE PALES, STAIR BALUSTERS, FRAMING PINS, &c.,
No. 26 FRONT STREET,
Salem, Jannary 14, 1863—6m

Salem and Danvers Aqueduct Co'y.

ALL persons using the water of the Salem and South Danvers Aqueduct are hereby notified that the water rents, for the six months ending May 1, 1863, are now due, and that they are required to pay the same, at the office of the Company, No 2 Sewall street, on the 1st day of May next. Should the bills remain unpaid for thirty days, the water will be stopped, in conformity to the regulations of the Company.

Office hours, from 9 to 1 o'clock, and from 2 to 5.

Per order of the Directors,
apr 1 WM. JELLY, Collector.

HEYLINGBERG'S
Hair Dressing Saloon,
24 MAIN ST., SOUTH DANVERS.

TARIFF OF PRICES:

Shaving,	6 cts.
Hair Cutting,	12 cts.
Champooing,	15 cts.
Champooing and Hair Cutting,	25 cts.

No more new Quarterly Customers taken.
In consequence of the scarcity of Change, 18 checks will be sold for one dollar.
South Danvers, Dec 17, 1862.

THOMAS DAVIS,
ADVERTISING AGENT
For the principal New England Newspapers, remains at the old stand, No. 23 Cornhill, Boston, where you will find him still loyal to the Constitution, the Laws, and Advertising.
Boston, Jan 29, 1862. tf

WALKING MADE EASY.

DR. P. KENISON,
CHIROPODIST,
215 Washington St., Boston,
Cures Hard and Soft Corns, Bunions, Club Nails, Nails penetrating the Flesh, Warts, &c., in a manner that will satisfy the most incredulous.

NEW YORK WHITE LEAD.

2500 L New York White Lead;
Also. Fores River White Lead—for sale by
mch 4 S C & E A SIMONDS.

NEW SPRING SHAWLS,

IN Stripe, Plaid and Plain, of rich styles—just received and for sale by mch 4 ANN R. BRAY, 76 Federal st.

WIRE GOODS.

WIRE Rat Traps; Broilers; Steamers; Sieves etc., just received at
S C & E A SIMONDS', 32 Front st.

DIARIES--1863-

VN excellent assortment at the lowest prices, for sale by G M WHIPPLE & A A SMITH.

NEW NEEDLE THREADER.

DOUBLE-ENDED, Excelsior Sewing Needle Threader and Worsted Lhreader combined—of great utility for near sighted or nervous people in threading needles, numbering from 4 to 12, and also Darning Needles.
Call and see them, at
mch 4 G M WHIPPLE & A A SMITH'S.

W. E. P. SMYTH,
Attorney and Counsellor at Law,
Proctor in Admiralty, and Commissioner of Deeds for the several States.
Frazier's Building, over the Post Office,
LYNN, MASS.

Having peculiar means for prosecuting, with accuracy and dispatch, all claims against Government, especially those for Bounty, Back Pay and Pensions, I have made this a specialty. Several months' residence in Washington enabled me to become thoroughly conversant with the routine of business in all the Departments, through which claims, of whatever nature, are passed, and also familiar with the practice in the U. S. Court of Claims; in addition to which I have a partner there resident, and a former partner in the Treasury Department, which advantages give me unexcelled facilities for the successful prosecution of business in any way connected with Government.

Important to Soldiers, Marines and their Heirs.

Persons enlisted in the U. S. Service, Land or Naval, since March 1, 1861, if disabled in the service, are entitled to Pension; Relatives of Persons deceased in the service are entitled to Bounty and Pension; in the following order:

1st. The Widow. 4th. The Mother.
2d. The Children. 5th The Brothers and Sisters collectively.
3d. The Father.

LETTERS OF ADMINISTRATION need not be taken out, in ordinary cases, to enable heirs of persons deceased in the service to obtain Pensions and Bounty.

When a discharge is granted for disability, in no case should the Oath of Identity on the back of the Discharge be filled up. The safest course is, to carry all papers at once to an Attorney, without tampering with them. All those who have claims, should present them without delay, as soon, the pressure will be so great upon the Auditor's Office, by reason of numerous applications, that applicants will be subjected to vexatious delay in getting their claims audited.

NO CHARGE MADE UNTIL CLAIMS ARE PAID.

Claims left at the Post Office, South Danvers, will be promptly forwarded.

Lynn, Aug 27, 1862—1v

CHARLES S. BUFFUM,
FURNISHING UNDERTAKER,
Central Street, South Danvers,

HAVING provided himself with a HEARSE, is prepared to attend Funerals in any of the neighboring towns, with one or a pair of Horses.

He keeps as good an assortment of

COFFINS AND CASKETS,

as can be found at any establishment, and at the lowest prices.

He will also attend to Laying Out, etc.

All orders from the neighboring towns met with prompt attention. jan 14

SLATING. SLATING.

GEORGE FOWLER & COMPA'Y,

NO. 2 ST. PETER COURT., SALEM, respectfully inform their friends and the citizens of this and neighboring towns and cities that they are prepared to execute all orders for Slating, promptly and faithfully.

Roofs covered with any description of Slates, or repaired at short notice.

All work undertaken will be warranted.
Address—Box 366, Salem Post Office.
Salem, January 28—1863. tf

PATTERSON S

LEATHER HANDLING MACHINE

THE undersigned are agents for the above machine. It can be seen in operation at Pinder & Brown's Tannery.

may 7—3m CLARK & GIDDINGS.

MESSRS. CLARK & GIDDINGS,
Wallis Street, South Danvers,
Are Agents for
GEORGE W. FISKE & CO.'S
PATENT EAVE TROUCHS
CUTTERS, CONDUCTORS AND
PIPE FOR DRAINS.
South Danvers, May 22, 1861.

EDWARD C. WEBSTER,
ONE PRICE
HAT, CAP & FUR STORE,
231 ESSEX, and 34 WASHINGTON ST

R. C. MANNING & CO,
Successors to JOHN DIKE & CO.,
DEALERS IN
COAL, WOOD, BARK, HAY, &c,
183 DERBY STREET,
SALEM, MASS.
N. C. ROBBINS, R. C. MANNING.
oct17

FRANKLIN COAL.

JUST landed, a cargo of FRANKLIN COAL—the best in the world for domestic use.
POTTER, BACHELDER & CO.,
Successors to M. Black, Jr.
Danversport, May 6, 1861. tf

E. N. PRICE,
Manufacturer and Dealer in
HARNESSES,
SADDLES, BRIDLES,
AND WHIPS.
— ALSO —
Trunks, Valises and Traveling Bags.

All orders for Manufacturing and Repairing executed with promptness, and in the best manner.

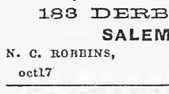
237 Essex Street, Salem, Mass.
mch13-tf

THOMAS PINNOCK,
SLATER,
SALEM, MASS.

Orders may be left at his Yard, No. 25 Peabody St., or at his house No. 6 Hancock street, South Salem.

Roofs covered with any kind of Slates, according to order. All work warranted.
Salem, May 7, 1862. tf

CURRIER & MILLETT,
Dealers in



Furniture, Chairs,
MATTRESSES, FEATHERS, &c
259 & 261 ESSEX ST.
Salem, dec 14—1y

AARON T. LOWE,
DEALER IN
BOOTS, SHOES AND RUBBERS,
76 BOSTON STREET, 76.
aug 6 SALEM. tf

NOTICE.

THE subscriber being about to leave town for a few months, would take this opportunity to inform his customers and friends that his shop on Pleasant Street will be kept open during his absence by Mr. JOHN P. FRIEND, who will faithfully attend to any orders.
JAMES PERKINS.
South Danvers, Sept. 3, 1862.

ORGANDIE MUSLINS.

WE shall open new Spring styles of Organdie Muslins to-day.

Ladies will do well to buy now, as prices are advancing daily. ANN R. BRAY,
mch 4 76 Federal street.

IDIARIES FOR
1863. Every variety and style—all sizes—for sale at
G M WHIPPLE & A A SMITH'S,
nov 26 Sign of the Five Golden Books,

MUNROE'S

(LATE REED'S)

SOUTH DANVERS & BOSTON

RAILROAD EXPRESS.

Express leaves South Danvers at	10 1-2 a. m.
Freight " " " at	5 p. m.
Express leaves Boston at	3 1-2 p. m.
Freight " " at	5 p. m.

OFFICE at FREIGHT DEPOT, South Danvers Square.

Order Box W. M. Jacobs' store, Main street.

EXPRESS OFFICE, in Boston, 5 Congress Square; Freight Office, 1 Fulton st.

Also an Order Box at 86 Pearl street.

Particular attention paid to removing Furniture, collecting Bills, Notes, Drafts, &c.

ARMY EXPRESS.

Packages received and sent forward daily for Baltimore, Fortress Monroe, Annapolis, Washington, Alexandria, and any other point where the different regiments are stationed:

WM. C. MUNROE,
South Danvers, may 13—tf

TAKE NOTICE.

THAT Dr. Ham's Dyspepsia Remedy has been before the public for the past ten years. And in that time the people who have used it will vouch for the benefit they have derived from it. The character of his article and its reputation can also be obtained from the dealers who sell it, or have sold it for any length of time, to both of those, Dr Ham refers and is willing to stand the test. And also challenges any new compound to produce the same results, let alone delicacy of flavor, of his INVIGORATING SPIRIT, which for ITS EFFECTS UPON THE BILE, A TORPED LIVER, LOW SPIRITS, or when the blood is affected as seen by SKIN DISEASES or its ACTION UPON THE KIDNEYS, in fact for any person who is run down by the wear and care of this world will find relief in this old and well tried remedy.

Astonishing.

TO Dr. Ham, who has modestly put before the public his DYSPEPSIA REMEDY for ten years past, to look back and see the number of tremendous articles within that time, that have sprang up like a rocket, and gone down like the stick which guides it in its glorious assent. Some come out and claim to tell the public they use unknown Barks from South America, with any quantity of rum from the West Indias, &c. Dr Ham takes this opportunity to refer to the MEDICAL FACULTY here and everywhere that his article is in use, as to its qualifications, and challenges any one to produce a person, male or female, who has used it as directed, that will not speak favorable of it for DISORGANIZED STOMACH, Dyspepsia, loss of appetite, want of action of the Kidneys, as well as many other complaints that humanity are afflicted with.

To Ladies.

DR. HAM'S Dyspepsia Remedy is just the thing you require to remove the langour caused by weakness and debility; it invigorates the system, causes the blood to take new life in its varied course through the system, in fact it gives tone to the system and will relieve and remove the thousand irregularities that from various causes you are afflicted with. For Dyspepsia it is a never failing remedy, it has stood the test of years, and we have yet to hear of its failing to give relief to the afflicted thousands who have received health and happiness by its use.

To Gentlemen.

DR. HAM knows that you do not always pay much attention to the many different articles put before you in the paper, but we would refer you to our agents who you will find are the respectable merchants and dealers, in regard to the Invigorating Spirit; some of them have sold it for years, and know well the reputation it has amongst those who have used it in assisting nature to eradicate diseases. It will renovate the system, as it acts directly on the blood, removing all obstructions to the general health, will cure Liver Complaints, Dyspepsia, Nervous Affections, Sour Stomach, Headache, Weakness, Loss of Appetite, as well as obstruction in the Kidney, Bladder or Urinary Organs. Try it. We will guarantee you will be satisfied with the result.

General Depot, 62 Liberty Street, New York. Sold by Weeks & Potter, 154 Washington Street, M. S. Burr & Co., 26 Tremont Street, G. C. Goodwin & Co., 11 Marshall Street, Boston; and in South Danvers by George E. Meacom, T. A. Sweetser, D. P. Grosvenor, Jr., Main Street; and by Druggists everywhere.
Feb 29, 1863 1y

NEW ENGLAND
FERTILIZER DEPOT,
No. 111 Commercial St., Boston,

TO FARMERS AND TRADERS!

WE desire to call your attention to our stock of FERTILIZERS, having the largest supply and finest assortment of reliable brands ever offered in this market. Our stock embraces

Coe's, Hoyt's, Rhodes } SUPER-PHOSPHATE LIME.
No. 1 PERUVIANGUANO.
GROUND BONE, [coarse and fine.]
BONE MEAL. LAND PLASTER.
FISH GUANO. BONE TAFEU.
LIME, CEMENT, &c., &c.

We are also Sole Agents for the
LODI MANUFACTURING CO.'S
POUDRETTE.

Get our terms before purchasing elsewhere. We sell at manufacturers' prices. Samples can be seen of all of the above; also a pamplet, with a Farmer's Almanac for 1863, may be had free on application by mail or otherwise.

J. M. & P. RICHARDS,
Sales Office 111 Commercial St., Boston, Mass.
apr 1—3m

CHEAP FIRE-WOOD.

THE subscriber has on hand 30,000 bushels of

Patent Granular Fuel,

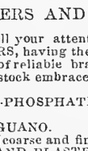
which he will deliver, by wholesale, in lots to suit purchasers, anywhere in this town, Salem, Lynn, Swampscott, or Nahant. Orders sent by mail (or by express,) or left in Salem, at the office, 27 Washington street (3d story), or 17 Briggs st., will receive prompt attention.

List of Prices.

25 Bushels, delivered,		2 25
50 do	do	4 00
100 do	do	7 50

Orders left at the Union Store, Newman & Symonds, and the Omnibus Office.

BYRON GOODELL.
South Danvers, june 18.



E. S. FLINT,
Manufacturer and Dealer in
INNER SOLES,
AND SHOE STIFFENINGS OF ALL KINDS.
2 MAIN STREET, SOUTH DANVERS.

E. R. PERKINS,
PHOTOGRAPHIC ARTIST
241 Essex Street, Salem.
Patent Ambrotypes, Stereoscopes,
Photographs, Sphercotypes, Melainotypes, and patent easter Pictures, of various sizes, taken with all the improvements of the art. Portraits, Miniatures, Enravings, &c., accurately copied. Views taken when desired. jan 11

REMOVAL!

AUGUSTUS HAMMOND,
Manufacturer and Repairer of
BOOTS AND SHOES,

HAS removed from his old place of business to the Railroad Ground, opposite the Old South Church, where he would be happy to continue to receive favors from his friends and patrons. may 21

CAMELS HAIR GOODS.

OWING to the small stock of Camels Hair goods in the market, prices have very much advanced. We shall give our customers the advantage of buying at the old prices, as we have a good assortment on hand.

ANN R. BRAY,
mch 4 76 Federal street.

JUVENILE BOOKS,

A VERY large assortment for sale by
G M WHIPPLE & A A SMITH,

SOUTH DANVERS POST OFFICE.

GENERAL MAIL ARRANGEMENT.

MAILS CLOSE

At 10 3-4 A. M., and 4 3-4 P. M.

MAILS DUE

At 9 1-2 A. M., and 3 P. M.

Post Office open (Sundays excepted) from 7 o'clock, A. M., till 8 P. M. Saturdays open till 8 1-2 P. M.

F. POOLE, P. M.
South Danvers, Oct. 1, 1862.

Poor Richard's Eye and Ear Water.

Prof. M. G. BROWN.

SCIENTIFIC ARTICLE ON THE EYE AND EAR.

Reader, allow me to call your attention to a fact which hitherto you have not been acquainted with, namely, that there is not a sound eye in the land. The eyes are the only members of the body totally neglected; there is nothing done for the eye; its wants are neither studied or regarded. This untiring servant is the first in action at birth, and the last at death, yet it seems to pass even common observation.

Notwithstanding all the ignorance and neglect of the eye, it is unquestionably true that every department of the human system is dependent on it for life and health.

The Divine Machinator has placed 8000 tubes and glands around the eyes, through which the saltish fountain (same as supplies the tear) is designed to pass as dew, finding its way to every crevice and nook in the flesh, whose chief tendency is to mucus. This fountain is to the body what dew is to the plants. The flesh can only be kept free from mucus (which is the precursor of disease) through the tubes and glands around the eyes being keep open, allowing the teary, saltish fountain to pass freely forward. If the laws of mind and body are disregarded or insulted, these faithful sentinels shut up like a sensitive plant, thus refusing to pass this life, giving dew to the parched flesh, whereby the entire machinery of the human body can alone find its natural moisture. When this fountain is cut off, the system is open to every kind of disease, which first begins with small streaks of blood-shot at the bottom of the ball of the eye; these are streaks of death if not removed. Examine your eyes and you will find these streaks moving over the white of the eye towards the pupil; generally the eye gets scumy and glassy; the ball turns a green or yellowish color, this is a sure indication of the following diseases (which are solely caused by the moisture being cut off from the system): Nervousness, headache, earache, deafness, loss of hair, neuralgia, rheumatism, blotches on the face and skin, diptheria, sore throat, bronchitis, catarrah, soreness of the chest, decay of the lungs, deprivation of the fluids; these, with all other diseases, are caused as above described. One stoppage leads to another, until disease destroys the system.

To secure moisture for a patient is the only hope of the physician. Benjamin Franklin has immortalized himself by such sayings as, an ounce of prevention is better than a pound of cure.

Reader, if you desire to be saved from the kindred diseases which make life a burden, then create an appetite in your eyes by giving them a drink of Poor Richard every morning immediately after you wash, and just before retiring at night. Do not say—Let well enough alone; consider the lilies of the field, they receive the life giving dew while they are in perfect health—go thou and do likewise.

Please read the following letter from the Rev. P. S. Henson, pastor of the Broad Street Baptist Church:

Philadelphia, Oct. 17, 1862.

From injuries received in my right eye when a boy, a chronic inflammation had been produced, in consequence of which I suffered constant martyrdom. Every moment of my waking life was embittered, and I was frequently unable to sleep at night.

A variety of remedies had been resorted to without success, and I entertained the purpose, as a last resort, of having the ball taken out of its socket in the hope of finding thus relief.

In the meanwhile, most providentially I noticed one day in a shop window a bottle of Poor Richard's Eye Water. I had never heard of it before, but determined to try it—and did with the most delightful results. In a very few days the painful irritation was removed—I could bear the strongest light, and went forth as it were to the enjoyment of a new life. I now keep a bottle of it always in the house, and if my eye seems at all disposed to annoy me, I give it a dose, and that is an end of it. I take occasion to say further, that my wife used to suffer severely at times from protracted pain in and over her eyes, and she has found Poor Richard's Eye Water a sovereign specific in her case, giving her almost instant relief.

Grateful to God for the benefit I have personally received, I cannot but recommend the preparation most cordially to all who have been sufferers like myself.

P. S. HENSON,
Pastor of the Broad Street Baptist Church.
Residence 1430 Poplar St., Philadelphia.

Thousands of certificates could be published, of the most remarkable cures on record. It is a perfect restorer of weak sight and dim vision; it cures Deafness, Catarrh, Sore Throat, prevents Loss of Hair, with all kindred diseases.

Directions.—Bathe with a glass tube, at least the ear (many bathe the eyes with the finger). Ask the druggist for the tube—it costs 6 cents.

Poor Richard's Eye Water sells at 25 cents per bottle.

Sold by George E. Meacom, South Danvers, and Druggists everywhere. Weeks & Potter, wholesale agents, Boston.

MRS. M. G. BROWN,
410 Arch St. Philadelphia, Proprietor.

Are you Insured?

THE subscriber would respectfully call your attention to the fact that he is fully prepared to effect INSURANCE AGAINST FIRE, to any amount, at current rates, on

Dwelling Houses, Barns and their contents, Stores, Stocks of Goods, Furniture, &c. &c., and on buildings in process of erection,

And that he is the authorized Agent for the following responsible Stock and Mutual Companies, viz:

Thames Insurance Co., (Stock.) Norwich, Conn.
Capital—$500,000.
Amos W. Prentice, Pres. Oliver F. Rice, Sec'y
Conway Insurance Company, (Stock) Boston.
Capital and Surplus—$260,000.
James F. Whitney, Pres. David C. Rogers, Sec'y.
City Insurance Company, (Stock) Boston.
Capital—$150,000.
Samuel P. Hayward, Pres. Austin W. Benton, Sec'y

Also, will effect Insurance on the LIVES OF INDIVIDUALS, for one year, seven years, or for the whole term of life, in the

Massachusetts Mutual Life Ins. Co., Springfield, Mass.
Capital and Assetts—$375,000.
Caleb Rice, Pres. D. B. Bacon, Sec'y.
William Mack, M. D., Medical Examiner.

WM. ARCHER, Jr.,
18 Washington st. and 34 Front st., Salem.
ej b20-1

E. F. BURNHAM,
SOLE AGENT FOR
SARGENT & CO.S'
MAGIC SOAP
For South Danvers & Salem.
OFFICE—Central St., opp. Lowell Depot, at Burnham's Express Office, So. Danvers.
Price $3.50 per 100 Lbs.

Orders sent by mail or otherwise to So. Danvers will be promptly attended to. tf-oct3

WM. C. HENDERSON,
MANUFACTURER OF
PLAIN AND FANCY
PAPER BOXES,
No. 235 ESSEX STREET,
Sign of "Nest of Boxes,"
July 23 SALEM. tf

SUMMER ARRA
— TO — LYNN & B
— BY —
OMNIBUS & H

W. F. BURR

Line of Omnibuses will leave Omnibus Office, No. 6 Allen's, vers, passing down Main Street Street, to Lynn, daily.
Leave South Danvers at 7 and 4 50 P. M
Leave Lynn (Horse Car Dep A. M., 2 40 and 6 40 P. M.
Horse Cars leaving Scollay's at 8 15 A. M., 1 15 and 5 15 P. buses at Lynn, at the above passengers to South Danvers.

Sunday Arran

Leave S. Danvers at 7.5
Leave Lynn at 9.40 a.m.

Cars leave Scollay's Building to meet the Omnibuses in Lyn 8 15 A. M., and 5 15 P. M.

Tickets to Lynn, Through to Boston,

Through Tickets to and from the Drivers and Conductors.
Passengers called for at reas is given at the office.

EXPRESS BU

Between South Danvers and ed to, on reasonable terms.
Extra Coaches furnished at s South Danvers, 1863.

South Danvers & Omnibus

ON and after MONDAY South Danvers and Sa buses will run as follows
Leave the Hourly Office,
7, 8, 8 1-2, 9, 9 1-2, a. m. 12, 12 1-2, 1, 1 1-2, 2, 4 1-2, 5, 5 1-2, 6, 6 1-2, 7,
Leave No. 13 Central
8, 8 1-2, 9, 9 1-2, 10, 10 1-2 12 1-2, 1, 1 1-2, 2, 2 1-2, 3, 5 1-2, 6, 6 1-2, 7, 7 1-2, 8, ☞Ladies' Room, at No. 272 Essex Street, and SINGLE FARE on the reg or Twenty Tickets for $1
Passengers called for or a reasonable distance, cents.
EXTRA COACHES furnish reasonable prices.
nov 27 HENR

Abbott's South Da

EXPR

Leave South Danvers,
Leave Salem,
Orders left at Teel & Moulton on Main street, South Danve en street, and at Reed's in t

MARSH
DANVERS, SO. DAN
EXPRI

Leave DANVERS (daily) at
" SALEM at 1½ P. M.

OFFICES
In Danvers—At E B Watt's a Danversport—Richards' and A In So. Danvers—Francis Dane street.
In Salem—No 7 Washington s 17 Derby Square.
All business promptly and f
☞ Our patrons are pa write their orders.
☞ Packages, left at the o "Marshall's Express."
☞ Being connected wit are enabled to forward Not collection, and small packa point in the United States,

dec1-8-tf

PINGREE'S JO

THE subscriber is still pre Job Work and Teaming, ture and Merchandize of an or to and from the neighbor
Orders will be received at t tion, and at S. Flint's store, Thankful for past favors, uance of the same.
South Danvers, 1860.

Important to t

DR. DOW continues to b Nos. 7 and 9 Endicott st eases of a

PRIVATE OR DEL

By a long course of study of unlimited extent. Dr. D. of presenting the unfortu have never, since he first in cure the most alarming case

GONORRHŒA A

Beneath his treatment, all and impure blood, Impotenc Ulcers, pain and distress in tion, Inflammation of the Bl drocele, Abcesses, Humors, the long train of horrible class of disease, are made to the simplest ailings of

South Danvers Wizard.

VOL. IV. SOUTH DANVERS, MASS., WEDNESDAY, MAY 27, 1863. NO. 21.

Original Poetry.

WHAT NEWS?

ws? we asked, as the papers arrived aper store by the railroad side.
et upon the Potomac" they say.
eavy heart we turned away.

ught of the braves whom we had to

Warner and Brown, and of Smith of Murray,
their lives by the traitor's ball,
he heat of the battle did fall.

think of Ingalls, of sharpshooting for himself and his country a name;

e to his rest with more of the brave,
e their lives their country to save.

ers in camp undergo a great deal, to their country they greatly do feel,
hope they soon will leave their toil
e back once more to Yankee soil.

ssachusetts Fred * has gone,
th Fletcher † and brave Tom. ‡
! brave men—avenge their death,
ile you have a patriot's breath.

ander.
ebster.
ass.

Original.

MONS FROM STONES,

BY TIMOTHY OLDBOY,

No. 11.

world is strangely fond of heroical
s. For the healing of its many would fain do some great thing.
from the simple waters of Jorm rivers that alone can save—rmurs for Abana and Parpar—of Damascus." Untaught by ce—brutal in its old age as in cy—it still seeks to atone for its ed sins by the shedding of blood.
sts are all Druids, and call for acrifice. Repentance, and works re meet for repentance, avail
Go forth—fight—kill—for so you obtain remission of sins.
es. The blind world. Unable, these generations, to see that rd is a poor teacher of morals,
the logic of battles is not sound.
enough to make the angels laugh men talk of this present war—he pulpit and otherwheres, where dom is expected. There is a valent idea that this war is puri-id enobling—that it is the very to the new heavens and the new wherein dwelleth righteousness, which there is nothing that afraid. Of one thing they are Africa is to be regenerated; that sum of evils, is at all o be exterminated. History, it makes itself fast in times like end in the white neck-cloth, you taken. And those who think that the present war is to work anges for the better in this coun-o usher in the day of freedom of id brotherly love—are laboring delusion. Times of war, less other, are times of real change, than at other times, is, what there is, in the right direction—rational progress, All progress slow to be vital. Men and na-mb upward by a gentle slope.

not one of the means God has or the working out of His gracigns upon the earth. To be sure, sts, but it is not of God; it is the "many inventions" man has it.
is, doubtless, for the negroes, as for ourselves, better things in But why should we be in such a hurry? Why pluck the unripe
In all nature there is no haste—tience. Without noise, without she waits the long results.—
works slowly, and a thousand e takes to lift his hand off."
is His. It is the right of none.
a gift which he has for all, but e he pays to those who, by man-nd virtue earn it. It is not the lant of an hour's growth, but of reading its roots through the f a thousand customs and modes
ht. Not in a day can a nation
e step from slavery to freedom.
he result of generations of labor, ng and well-doing. He who was a trampled slave, to-day ddenly become a high-minded, e free-man. There is about tions and general orders, even of war, no jugglery that can the laws of nature and of s not deceive ourselves. Let us be patient. If man is to advance at all it must be by slow stages—according to fixed laws. The course of progress and improvement is not governed by the shallow accidents of war. They flow in broad, in deep, in fixed channels. The great purposes of Providence are not to be so sported with by the violence of man.

Great wars and revolutions do not effect so materially, as is generally supposed, the destiny of nations or communities. They only occasion momentary disturbences in the broad current of that river which, spite of these interruptions, still keeps on its destined way. There was a revolution in France which set Europe in a blaze. Napoleon came and changed the map of a continent. Men thought that old things had passed away, and all things had become new. Of all those changes, wrought by violence, what remains to-day? "The sword and trumpet flashed and blazed, and great was the hubbub thereof, but this passed away, and nature reclaimed her order, proving there is no true foundation set in blood."

It is not in consequence of, but in spite of wars, that the world has progressed. The things about which history has most concerned itself—the wars and the revolutions of governments, have really had a very subordinate part in moulding man's destiny. It is not in the hurricane, the earth-quake, or the fire, that change operates most effectually and most greatly, but in the still, small principles that grow and vegetate, as it were, in the minds of man, as the mustard seed grows in the night.

Be not deceived. War is not of God; it is of the evil passions of man. For this tortured earth of ours, it never yet has wrought anything that was good. Slavery is the child of war most assuredly—the parent will not destroy its own offspring.

As it has been in the past, so it will be in the future. Every evil which we had at the commencement of this war, we shall retain after the war. Slavery, avarice, intemperance, bigotry, intolerence, cowardly fear of public opinion—and what is more, sectional hate, a burdensome military and naval establishment, public and private bankruptcy, desolated homes, and that despair which comes of utter exhaustion.

* * * * * * *

"I know not whether blood is a fertilizing dew; but though the tree watered with blood should grow stronger and more beautiful, and spread its branches far and wide—though it should hide the world with them, it will not hide murder."

☞ Reader, did you ever look at the mould on decayed fruit, stale bread, moist wood, etc, through the microscope? Those who have say that it is nothing but plants, bearing leaves, flowers and seeds, which increase with incredible rapidity. In a few hours, it is said, the seeds spring up, arrive at maturity, and bring forth seeds themselves, so that many generations are produced in a day. The damper the substance, the more rapid and rank the growth. The variety of these plants of mould must be great, and their taste is equally as various. Many people will eat mouldy cheese with avidity, but few relish mouldy bread unless their appetites have been whetted pretty sharp by the pangs of hunger. This is a world of wonders.

☞ The piles sustaining London Bridge have been driven five hundred years. In 1345 they were critically examined, and found to have decayed but slightly; these piles are principally of elm. Old Savoy Place, in the city of London, is sustained on piles driven six hundred and fifty years ago; they consist of oak, elm, beech and chestnut, and are perfectly sound. The bridge built by the emperor Trajan over the Danube, affords a striking example of the durability of timber in a wet state. One of these piles was taken up, and found to be petrified to the depth of three-quarters of an inch, and the rest of the wood had undergone no change, though it had been driven sixteen hundred years.

☞ At a late meeting the following "dry toast" was given, (the author of which got buttered when he reached home): "The Press—The Pulpit—and Petticoats—the three ruling powers of the day. The first spreads knowledge, the second spreads morals, and the last spreads all over the sidewalk."

Selected.

DO THEY MISS ME AT HOME.

BY A TRAVELER.

Do they miss me at home?—do they miss me?
'T would be an assurance most dear
To know that my name was forgotten,
As though I had never been there.

To know that the tailor and landlord,
And the banks where my paper is due,
And hosts whom I now cannot mention,
Had banished me quite from their view.

Do they miss me at home?—do they miss me,
When the market for money is "tight,"
And collectors with haste are pursuing
Their debtors by day and by night?

Do the friends who once loaned me a "fifty,"
And the others, that loaned me a "ten,"
Have a sigh of regret as they miss me,
And wish they could see me again?

Do they miss me at home?—do they miss me
When no longer I'm seen upon 'Change,
And do those who were wont to assist me,
Say "His conduct's infernally strange?"

Does the Shylock who loaned me his money
To bear me to regions unknown,
Look in vain for occasion to dun me,
And wish I again were at home?

Do they miss me at home?—do they miss me?
'T would be an assurance most dear,
To know that my name was forgotten,
As though I had never been there.

But I know that my memory lingers
Around the dear place as I roam,
And while I've my wits and my creepers,
They'll miss me, they'll miss me at home!

[From the Lynn Bay State.]

NAHANT;
Maolis House and Gardon.

A visit to the peninsular of Nahant, at any season of the year, cannot fail to inspire the visitor with delightful and grand emotions. Stretching out from the main land, like an arm, into the ocean, it seems to court or defy the smooth waters or mad waves of the great deep. The scenes with which it is surrounded in winter, varying with the wind and the weather, rise at times to an awful sublimity; while in the summer season they are softened into a quiet, pleasing beauty. And then the scenes are so variable from month to month and day to day in all seasons, that those who visit Nahant the most frequently, always find something for pleasure, instruction and wonder.

Old ocean lashes his waves against the rocky clifts the same as he did centuries ago, but much has been done within comparatively a few years past, by money and art, to improve the land and make the spot more attractive to visitors, particularly in the summer time. And among those who have contributed to improve and beautify Nahant, stands ont conspicuously, FREDERICK TUDOR, ESQ., of Boston, a distinguished merchant of that city. In fact so large and profuse have been his expenditures in various improvements, in permanent works as well as in more transient adornments, that hereafter the name of TUDOR will be as firmly attached to Nahant as the immovable rocks which defy the fury of the waves that beat upon them. In the opening of avenues; in the setting out of trees; in making smooth the rough places, and in adorning the smooth with shrubs and flowers, and in the construction of fountains and other embellishments, he has spent money like water for years past; and now, venerable in years, his zeal is unabated, and the work still goes on.—He smites the rock and the water gushes out to refresh the land, or satisfy the thirsty; while the trees and flowers of his planting furnish a refreshing shade for visitors, or make fragrant the air which surrounds them.

THE MAOLIS HOUSE.

A recent visit to Nahant has led to the foregoing remarks and induced us to jot down a few things which we saw, as well as to give some account of the new house, the MAOLIS HOUSE, just completed by Mr. Tudor on the far famed NORTH SPRING grounds, which have heretofore attracted so many visitors, and which has been erected for their particular accommodation. But before speaking more particularly of the new house, let us go back a little. Prior to 1860, there stood on the ground only a small shanty, about fifteen feet square, for the accommodation of parties that visited the place. On that year this building was purchased by Mr. James Tibbets, of Lynn, of the person who owned it, it being located on Mr. Tudor's land. Mr. Tibbets called on Mr. Tudor, informed him of his purchase and represented that better accommodations were wanted. Mr. Tudor, in accordance with Mr. Tibbets' wishes, put up that year a brick building 24 by 30 feet and two stories high, embracing the various conveniences which were thought desirable, which Mr. Tibbets leased, doing a good business during the summer. On the next summer, 1861, a small addition was put on, and in 1862 a cook-room and some sleeping rooms were added. But still the accommodations were not equal to the demand, and another and larger building was determined upon, and has been completed, by Mr. Tudor, and is now about ready for guests.

THE NEW BUILDING.

The new Building is in size 40 by 50 feet, three stories high on the sea-side, and two on the land, where the main entrance is. It has a wooden frame and is bricked on the outside, and is therefore, to all intents, a brick building. A piaza, nine feet wide, on two stories, runs round the building, with the exception that a short distance on the northeast side it is broken by the stairway which runs from the lower to the upper story. The basement is fitted up with all the modern conveniences for cooking, and culinary purposes generally, and is supplied with a dumb waiter leading to the Dining Hall, which is also reached by an easy flight of stairs. The Dining Hall is on the first story above the basement, and into this is the main entrance from the front. It covers the whole ground, size of the building, 40 by 50 feet. It is fifteen feet high, beautifully finished with cornices and centre piece, has a hard pine floor, and is lighted by ten windows, three feet by nine feet, all of which open on the piaza on either side. A handsome chandelier hangs in the centre of the hall to light it in the evening. From the rear of the hall, we ascend, by the stairway before mentioned, to the second story; this story is divided by a hall running the whole length of the building, opening on the piaza; on one side is a parlor and setting room and on the other five bedrooms. Above this floor is an attic which is divided into eight bedrooms: and all from Hall to attic, are very neatly furnished. The whole building is heated by a furnace, and will be comfortable in the coldest east storm.

There are on the premises, fine bowling alleys, and a large stable with accommodations for from fifty to one hundred horses. But leaving the buildings, let us take a look of the objects of interest in the grounds called the

MAOLIS GARDEN.

In our descriptions of the garden we must be brief as we have no time for minute details. We first visit—

THE POOL OF MAOLIS.

If we reverse the spelling we shall make the word "Siloam," a celebrated word in sacred history. It is a deep, rough looking place, cut out of the rough rocks, and is filled with cool spring water, which gushes out from the rocks on the spot. We descend to it by rough steps. The side next to the ocean is kissed by the waves at high tide, and next to it on the land are patches of flowers, or will be when the weather becomes warm enough for them to show their pleasant faces.

THE MARBLE FOUNTAIN.

This is near by, and a more expensive work. It is built of marble slabs, in octagon form and is thirty-four feet in diamiter. The North-east side of it rests on rocks upon which the ocean dashes. The depth of the fountain is about ten feet, and it is supplied with spring water brought about fifteen hundred feet through a lead pipe. The whole is covered by a roof of the same shape as the fountain, the centre of which is about forty feet high from the bottom of the fountain.—The play of the fountain is about twenty feet, we should judge. On the western side is a large looking glass, in which the spray from the fountain is very prettily reflected; on another side is an oil painting by Mr. Sheldon of Lynn, representing children at play—with a dog, cats, &c.

THE COLD SPRING.

Another interesting object is the Cold Spring, or perhaps better known by the name of the "Old North Spring." This is a natural flow of water, gushing out of a fissure in a solid rock directly into the ocean. You descend to it from the high bank by steps cut out of the solid rock. In front of the spring is a marble floor, laid upon the rough rocks, in size about 15 by 20 feet, over which is a roof, one side resting upon the rock through which the spring flows, built of wood, representing trees in full foliage.

THE MARBLE TEA HOUSE.

This is located higher up on the grounds, say, one hundred feet from the level of the ocean. In some respects it is the most beautiful object in the garden. Its size is 12 by 20 feet. It consists of ten marble pillars, with open spaces, on which rests a roof, covered with tin, the projecting rafters and eaves being elegantly gilded. It has a tile floor of various colors, and the inside of the roof is partly covered with elaborate and beautiful shell work, many of the shells being of the rarest kinds. There are several spaces in the roof unornamented, which are hereafter to be filled with the same kind of ornaments.

MARBLE STATUARY.

Another pleasing feature among the objects of interest, is the marble statuary on the upper part of the grounds. It consists of three statues, representing Spring, Summer and Autumn, standing on granite pedestals. These are partly surrounded by a wooden lattice work, on which is placed a painting by Sheldon, called "The Trial of Patience," in which is represented an old lady winding yarn held by a lad, while two other boys and a dog are looking on. Near the statuary the ground has been prepared for rare plants.

THE PARASOL.

The Parasol is another object of attraction. It is somewhat larger than those usually carried by the Paul Prys and similar characters represented on the stage, and is fully spread, furnishing an agreeable shade. It is about seventy-five feet in circumference; the handle is made of large sized timber firmly placed in the ground on an angle of, we don't know how many degrees. The top is ornamented with shells and surmounted with the figure of Solon the law-giver.

THE ROCK OF MOSES.

In another part of the garden, near a high semi-circular lattice fence, on which are several pictures painted by Mr. Sheldon, representing various subjects, is a moss-covered rock, of good size, from which gushes a pure stream of water into an iron basin. The rock has upon it an inscription in Greek and Hebrew which, translated, reads "HE SMOTE THE ROCK AND THE WATER GUSHED FORTH."

ROCK TEMPLE.

The Rock Temple, or "Witch House," as it has sometimes been called, is located on the southeast side of the Maolis House. It is built upon a rock, and consists of eight pillars in octagon form, constructed of rough stone, averaging about eight feet in height, on which rests a roof. Its circumference is about one hundred and twenty feet. The roof has gable ends corresponding to each octagon, on which are gilded mermaids, sea-horses, dragons, &c., &c. The roof is surmounted by a large figure, carved in wood, and elegantly gilded, representing objects half human and half animal, male and female, facing east and west, with a huge shell upon their backs. Perhaps some learned mythologist from the shades of Harvard or some other shades, will hereafter give the public a more particular description of them. Close by is

THE LION'S DEN.

We approach this place as we go to Rock Temple. A big lion, cut from freestone, stands at the entrance of the cave, and we must say that he appeared so natural that as we looked at him we thought him a "thing of life," but there being a fence in front of the creature, and being assured that there was no danger, we ventured to approach and look into the den, where we saw the mate to the lion standing at the entrance, with her young whelps, looking as if it would not be exactly safe to enter the "Lion's Den."

THE SEA SERPENT.

In this part of the garden, is a circular lattice fence about seventy-five feet in length, for the protection of trees, on which is painted the Sea Serpent as he was seen, or might have been seen off Nahant. Nothing but the actual sight of the monster would answer the reader's expectations.

THINGS IN GENERAL.

Groups of trees have been planted in different parts of the grounds, and gravelled walks run in various directions, while patches of flowers meet the eye at various points. The garden is furnished with swings for the amusement of the young or the old; and ovens and fireplaces, tables and settees, and other apparatus, for parties who prefer to do their own cooking, are at hand, besides fishing tackle for those who are fond of fishing. In fact, there is nothing wanting which is necessary to promote the pleasure or comfort of visitors.

THE PROSPECT.

The views from the Maolis House and Garden, deserve particular mention.—Lynn, with her beautiful seaside residences; Swampscott, with its cosy cottages and projecting cliffs, with the wooded country in the back ground, attract the eye, while in the east and south spread out the great waters of the ocean, dotted with the white sails of vessels winging their way to, or returning from, distant countries, freighted with merchandise. We believe that there are few places in the world where the prospect combines so much of the beautiful and sublime, and is so well calculated to contribute to the pleasure of the beholder.

WHAT WAS THE COST?

The real "Yankee" naturally asks: What was the cost of these constructions and improvements? We cannot tell the exact cost of them. But we understand that the Maolis House,—the new and old buildings which are connected,—was erected at a cost of about $12,000. The expenditures upon the garden have probably been as much more, as a large number of laboring men and mechanics have been employed in the works for several years past.

The large expenditures by Mr. Tudor on Nahant, amounting, probably, to more than one hundred thousand dollars, since the time he first made it his summer residence, including what has been expended on the Maolis Garden, have been pronounced by some, unwise and foolish. But is it so? We think not. His liberal expenditures have given employment to labor, as well as furnished pleasure to the present and future generations. And for what better purpose could money be expended? A man of great wealth, accumulated by enterprising mercantile transactions, he has seen fit to spend some portion of it in the manner we have described, which is far wiser, in our opinion, than it would be to have hoarded it up, or spent it for the gratification of mere selfish desires. That which some persons pronounce folly, is wisdom,—and the Maolis Garden will vindicate the large liberality and public spirit, as well as the good taste of its founder, and must, for years to come, afford the purest delight to the thousands and tens of thousands of visitors who will throng its grounds and hold in high estimation the memory of him who contributed so much to their enjoyment, long after he will have passed away.

THE OPENING OF THE HOUSE AND GARDEN.

Mr. Tibbets having formed a connection in business with Mr. Hiram L. Fuller, the well known and popular proprietor of Fuller's Dining Rooms, in this city, they will open the Maolis House and Garden to the public, on the first of June next, when persons will have an opportunity to decide for themselves whether the description we have attempted comes up to the reality. We assure all who may, through curiosity or a desire to enjoy the fresh breezes of the ocean during the hot weather, visit the place, that Messrs. Tibbets and Fuller will give them a cordial and courteous reception, and make them, whether as transient or permanent guests, as happy as possible.

[From the Richmond Whig, April 21.]

"THE LATE GEO. B. McCLELLAN."

"Young Napoleon is dead—dead beyond resurrection. In the flesh he may still walk the earth, but in spirit, in power, in the hope of glory, he is defunct.—It is a noteworthy fact that the ulaloos and hullabaloos over this person have ceased in Yankeeland. For two or three months after his dismissal, he was the pet object of Democratic sympathy and conservative sympathy; but now, even beast Butler has grander ovations than he. His name is seldom heard among men. He is no more.

A review of his career from the time he claimed Roseerans' laurels in the little affair at Rich Mountain, down to the time of the battle of Antietam, would be instructive to the nation of liars who accepted him at his own lying valuation, and discarded him because his falsehoods, gigantic as they were, produced no visible impression upon the rebellion. It might also profit the Confederacy to trace in the career of this braggart, the overruling power which has never failed to darken the counsels of the wicked, and to cause all things to work together for good in behalf of the just cause. Nothing is easier to prove, than that the elevation of McClellan to the position of Commander-in-Chief of the Yankee army was all that was needed, after the election of Lincoln, to ensure our independence. The recital of a few facts will show how greatly we are indebted to him.

In October, 1861, he had 180,000 men, and the most overwhelming array of field artillery that has ever been seen upon this continent. Before him was an army of 40,000 Confederates, occupying Mason's and Munson's Hill, and defiantly daring him to come out of his fortifications. The roads were good and weather splendid: he had but to advance in force to gain an easy victory—so, at least, thought his master Lincoln. But he knew his men were cowards, and he was afraid of his reputation. He did not want to fight; he sought merely to push us from one position to another dy dint of enormous numbers—hence the flank movement by way of Leesburg, which ended so horribly, and benumbed him with fright for three months.

Driven by an imperative order to advance again, in spite of the winter mud, he entered the entrenched camp at Manassas only to find it a mass of smouldering ruins.

He shipped round to the Peninsula, taking 112,000 men with him. Magruder opposed him with but 7,500 men, kept him in check, and forced him to the use of the spade and pick, his favorite weapons. He made siege, and in due time occupied our deserted lines. The battle of Williamsburg followed. His advance was whipped by Johnson's rear guard, but owing partly to the ignorance of the country, and to the bad handling of some of our troops, he was enabled to gain enough advantage on one wing to put some conceit into his men. He acknowledged, however, at one time it looked as if the Bull Run rout would be enacted again.

After this battle, an event occurred which has been forgotten, but deserves to be recalled. A Confederate surgeon, left in charge of the wounded, told McClellan his gunboats might possibly reach Richmond, but that his infantry never would. The little Napoleon smiled as if in pity of the surgeon's ignorance. The surgeon told him further, that the abolitionists were making a tool of him, and that they would throw him aside, proclaim a general emancipation of negroes, and put an abolitionist in his place. McClellan replied that he was in no fear of the abolitionists as long as he had command of that army. "But," he added, "if they do throw me aside, and set the negroes free, I shall go to Europe, and cease to have anything to do with this war."

How literally the surgeon's predictions have been fulfilled! McClellan has been kicked out of office; the insurrection proclamation has been issued; Hooker, a pure-blooded abolitionist, has command of the Army of the Potomac; and it has not been two weeks since McClellan, in a public speech, urged the people to sustain Lincoln. How debased the creature is! Why is he not in Europe, and why does he longer live here, except in hopes of a new appointment under the abolition despotism?

Space will not permit us to follow young Napoleon through the narrative of his career. The Yankees might have taken Richmond after the battle of the Seven Pines, when our forces were in confusion. After the battle of Hanover Court House they might have done the same thing. After the battle of Antietam the same.

In the report of the battle, he convicts himself of falsehood in the most glaring manner. He excuses himself for not renewing the battle the morning of the 18th, by saying his losses were so great, and there was so much disorganization in some of the commands, that he did not think it proper, especially as he was sure of the arrival that day of 15,000 fresh men. He happens to recollect the return of his enemy, Hooker's corps, viz., 35,000 men for duty, and four days after the same corps showed 13,500. Yet after this admission of loss and disorganization, he closes by claiming a great victory, with a capture of 13 guns, 39 colors, 15,000 small arms, and 6000 prisoners.

His bombastic despatches from Western Virginia secured his elevation. His reputation was founded on lies. In lies he towered, and under lies he is lost—crushed. How fortunate for us he was chosen chief of the Yankee army! with the immense numbers at his command, an officer of truth, enterprise and daring would have pushed us sorely; but he was in awe of his dishonest reputation. His lies had made him a coward, and from the first day to the last of his military career he did not dare, on a single occasion, to expose himself to fire. A mendacious, dastardly boaster, he perished so unmanfully that the ridiculousness of his last moments destroys every vestige of obligation conferred by his vain-glorious pretensions."

The Wizard.

WEDNESDAY, MAY 27, 1863.

THE SOUTH DANVERS WIZARD

Is published every WEDNESDAY, at Allen's Building, South Danvers Square. by

CHARLES D. HOWARD.

TERMS—Two Dollars a year.

ADVERTISEMENTS inserted at reasonable rates.

HUMAN LIFE.

This subject concerns all the living, and yet engrosses as little of human thought, perhaps, as any other theme which comes under the observation of mortals. The vicissitudes of human life, even in the most obscure and humble examples, contain lessons of paramount importance to every member of that great congregation who are daily and hourly passing to "that country from whose bourne no traveler returns." These reflections are predicated, not upon any single instance, but upon the multitude of instances which are each day of the life of every one of us passing in review before the vision of, and being participated in by all the children of men. The surface of human life is undulating, like the surface of the sea; no ship can sail thereon but by continual change—to-day in the trough of the sea, to-morrow mounting the boisterous billow;—none can sit safely upon the ridge of the wave, but must, with onward movement, sink again, again to mount upon the lashing and foaming billows of the troubled sea of human affairs. Some of us are to-day standing upon the very threshhold of the grave, clothed in riches and in honors, but about to bid farewell to these forever and to enter upon that great and infinite future to which all of human origin are tending. Others there are, clothed in sackcloth and ashes, and sinking under a weary load of life—weighed down by innumerable regrets in view of a long and mis-spent life. Others are standing at the very starting-point of their lives, pondering and plotting upon the great future which opens up before their imperfect vision. These latter know but little of the realities of life, but are far more apt to boast and to dictate to others what should, or what should not be done, than the other classes who have tasted and tested the "whips and scorns of time" in a long and trying course through this vale of tears.

To be good is almost invariably to be happy; and yet, even this rule is not always inevitable; for who of us cannot remember some instance which seems even to contradict this most holy maxim. We repeat, what we have before stated, that the surface of human life is undulating, like the surface of the sea, and that ship which would progress, must as surely pass through the trough as ride over the swelling waves of the sea of life. No ship can live upon the ridge or summit of the wave. It must either careen and sink in the fall into the cavity separating it from the next wave, or mount in triumph over it in its onward course. The great Poet of Avon has most truthfully, as most sublimely said, by the mouth of Cardinal Wolsey:

"This is the state of man; to-day he puts forth
The tender leaves of hope; to-morrow blossoms,
And bears his blushing honors thick upon him:
The third day comes a frost, a killing frost;
And,—when he thinks, good easy man, full surely
His greatness is a ripening,—nips his root;
And then he falls as I do. I have ventured,
Like little wanton boys that swim on bladders,
This many summers in a sea of glory;
But far beyond my depth; my high blown pride
At length broke under me; and now has left me
Weary, and old with service, to the mercy
Of a rude stream, that must forever hide me."

Let the great and vital lessons taught to us by the lives of those who have gone before us to eternity, not be lost upon the living. Let us learn by these, the vanity of pride—the folly and weakness of arrogance—the meanness of dictation and assumption—the gross villainy and fatuity even of tyranny and oppression, and the sum of all nonsense and silliness of boasting over the condition of any of our fellow creatures who may seem for the time being to be groping through darkness and misfortune in their journey to the tomb. Let these boasters wait. Their turn of adversity will assuredly come; and when they fall, they'll fall like Lucifer—never to rise again.

APPOINTMENT.—AMOS MERRILL Esq., has been appointed Deputy Provost Marshal for South Danvers, and has entered upon his duties, by commencing the enrollment of men, nearly or remotely liable to the conscription draft.

If any of our friends of the proper age happen to see a military looking man, with a blue coat all covered with Uncle Sam's bright, yellow buttons, and with a manuscript book under his arm, we caution them to escape by the back door as fast as possible if they are afraid to join the grand army of the Republic.

RETURNED.—J. W. French, of the 10th Battery, who had a number of his ribs fractured by falls from his horse, has returned home. He is now doing well.

ELECTION DAY.

This is the anniversary of old 'Lection Day, that genial old holiday so much anticipated by boys and enjoyed by all classes of society. It was a day of athletic sports, pitching quoits, turning coppers, dancing, wrestling and other active exercises. It was the holiday of holidays, and we well remember how enticing were the piles of 'lection cakes and buns at the tents and booths of the venders of such luxuries. How sweet and lucious were the gingerbread, cakes and oranges that abounded so plentiously! The wine glasses containing the yellow "egg pop, a cent a glass," was to us "nectar for the gods." A correspondent has revived these recollections in the following sketch of a well-known and noted character of that day. The writer is not the only one, as we can testify, who has been the willing victim of his blandishments:—

SIR:—I offer for your paper, if worth acceptance, some musings on the past—an episode of "'Lection" fifty years ago, in our native town of Danvers, grouped around a central figure especially prominent to the children about George Southwick's Tavern on "'Leetion Day," viz., Moses Smith, baker. Moses was a man of massive form and homely features, a good specimen of the ideal Yankee—long, lank, and keen as a briar, with a nose that might have been a recommendation to the favor of the first Napoleon; for it was an "Institution"—a veritable handle to his face. The good man had a peculiar tact for attracting and pleasing children—a trait, by the way, that speaks well for the moral status of any man. He presided at his stand with a single eye to the business in hand, that of dispensing juvenile luxuries to the human buds around. There he loomed up to us, large as the bald First Cæsar over the Roman World,—ever and anon, at short intervals delivering his sonorous proclamation, "Walk up, dear's: here's egg-pop, two cents a glass, and a bun to boot!" A most charming sound;—it echoes even now like a pleasing Æolian voluntary. This sweet proclamation was sure to magnetize us, and draw out our "coppers" in exchange for 'Lection-cake, egg-pop, gingerbread toys, and innumerable sweets—until our deposites ran dry, which he readily detected and was prepared for. It was then he favored us with one of his broad wheedling smiles,—a kind of half-laugh, or purser's grin, native to the man,—and opening his very open countenance,* he spoke to us!—Yes, he—he, the great man, Moses, condescended to instruct us thus, "Run home, dear, and tell your Mam. to give you some more coppers; it's 'Lection all day!" The creamy smoothness of this disinterested! advice, its oily glibness, was most flattering and charming. If we felt its utter uselessness from having no hope of further credit with "Mam.," still it caused us to feel again in all our pockets, less peradventure we had missed some stray copper—hoping always.

What is wealth! To me then, the possession of a dollar would have seemed greater wealth, than the successful merchant's "pile" to him. A dollar!—it was competent to create an amount of unadulterated joy—to purchase a mass of pure pleasure that manhood cannot purchase with all the treasures of Solomon! But when our pockets refused to discount further on demand, and after surveying the horizon of our possible credit, we became hopeless of again raising the wind; yet we lingered around Moses, for his taking way, his captivating smile, and musical proclamation, made our mouth water. Indeed, when once within the range of his fascination, we were a gone goose, until our empty pockets sternly admonished us of that dangerous disease—Consumption of the breeches pocket.

I remember long years ago, in the first quarter of this century, the fun in the forecastle of a Salem Indiaman, when our Beverly boys gave us "Moses Smith going over Beverly Bridge" on a very primitive instrument. Taking an empty tin pot, and iron spoon, striking first one side, then the bottom, then the other side in quick succession, they gave an imitation of the gallop across, with such comic effect as convulsed me with laughter—and I smile yet on that far away scene.

Let us call in the Harper for a parting voluntary—a closing vale over that long departed past:—

His form at rest, now Moses charms no more,
With his soft tommy, or his luscious store,
Gone 'Lection Day!—its pop, and fun have fled,
Like those bright children—numbered with the dead.
Here I revisit all the jovial scene—
Repaint the group along the tufted green;
Memory unrolls her canvas, and they live,
Clothed in the brilliant hues young life can give.

*See Paddy Blake's definition of an open countenance:

"A mouth from ear to ear."

DEPREDATIONS IN WEST DANVERS.—We learn that on Monday night of last week, some rowdies committed depredations on the school house in No. 7 District, breaking in the windows and blinds. They must have entered the house, as the platform on which stands the teacher's desk, was broken in by a heavy stone. They also committed other acts on the highways, whereby travel was much endangered. It was thought to be a party returning from the circus.

THE SEASON.—Vegetation is looking nicely, and the garden plants are coming forward vigorously. The present promise is good for the horticulturists. Our garden in rear of this office is an exception. The glass bottles and old funnels refuse to come up, and the clams have not even sprouted. The old crockery crates and brickbats are above ground and are not yet attacked by any "insects injurious to vegetation." The skeleton of the old carriage is also up, but looks sadly blighted. We withdraw our invitation to the "Garden Committee" for the present season.

☞ Beautiful was the reply of a venerable man to the question, whether he was still in the land of the living—"No; but I am almost."

PUBLISHERS' LETTER.

HUB, 100 HILLOCORN, }
May 25th, 1863. }

DEAR SIR:—As Librarian of the Peabody Institute, we call your attention to our new list, in the hope that you will find something suitable to be transferred from our shelves to yours.

We are, sir, your obedient servants,
STAMPEM, QUICK & Co.

NEW BOOKS.

"MY EVENING RECREATIONS:" Essays—Literary, Inventive, Mechanical, Manipulatory, Acquisitive, and Journalistic, by D. F. Cate, Esq. 2 vols. Gold-lettered.

"RAMBLES OF A JOURNALIST," by Eskew White, Esq. 1 vol. Handsome—Turkey.

"A TREATISE ON PISCATORY AGGLUTINATION:" Part I.—Soles and Eels, by S. X. Tanner. 1 vol. Half Calf. For sale at Flint's.

"HYDERUMLYME AND BARQUEMSCHLIEHTER:" Dutch Dye-logs, by Dan. Verstanyard. 2 vols. Superb—Goat.

"DUTCH CURRENCY:" By a member of Shurz's Brigade. Tinted—Riverside Press. Rare American Work.

"FUGITIVE PIECES:" By Cate—comprising a paper on Early Rising; The Midnight Lamp, a Drama; An Ought-to-biography; and new music to "I love to Steal, &c."

Also, in the press,

The Crushed Flounces, by Ann Angriemann;
The Lost Lappets, by Miss Chance;
The Belle Enraged, by Harold Beau;
Cuttan Runn, by Kate Sleep;
Miss Terry's Poem—The Great Whole;
Curfew Chimes, by Bell Poole;
Convolutions, by Annie Conde.

PAMPHLETS.—Quaker Guns, by Gen. Manassy; Discourse on Feeding the Enemy, by Rev. Western Pope, D. D.; Reply to Justice Court's Marshal, by Leverett Pidgeon Porter, Esq., retired orderly, service of C. S. A.

Orders received for the above will meet with prompt attention. Interest increases around Cate's works; they go off rapidly.
S., Q. & Co.

WHEELBARROW EXPRESS.—The new Wheelbarrow Express, from the Salem Line to the Watch House, has commenced running. Passengers will find good accommodations by applying at the Central Office, near the Monument.—Excellent drivers are engaged, who keep a tight rein, and a fair share of public patronage is solicited.

UNMAILABLE MATTER.—We are requested to inform the person who put a live eel into the post office box, that this article is considered unmailable by the Department. In this case, however, it was dispatched, after putting a stamp on it.

JOHN P. PEABODY.—Our columns to-day are again graced by a fresh advertisement from this gentleman. His bazaar is still as attractive to our ladies as ever. It could not well be otherwise, announcing and displaying as he does from week to week and day to day his tempting commodities, not only at his store but in every newspaper in this vicinity, at prices so reasonable that they are within the reach of all. Our expressman always likes to have an errend to PEABODY'S, "for the lady tenders are so genteel and polite," he says. We shall not expose him, for he never charges us anything when he goes to PEABODY'S.

BOOK BINDING.—As it is drawing near the time to have the monthly and weekly periodicals bound, we will refer our readers to the advertisement of WM. S. HILTZ, of Salem (formerly of New York city). We can cheerfully recommend Mr. Hiltz as a good and thorough workman. We saw some specimens of his work the other day which would secure a premium in our next Annual Fair. His place of business is on Essex St., next door below the East India Marine Building.

HORSE RAILROAD.—The work on the Horse Railroad is progressing at various points. A foundation for the stables has been commenced upon the land at the junction of Webb and Webster streets, near the Constitution Engine House. Within a few days, also, workmen have been laying track in Washington street, including a curve to connect the rails on this street with those on Essex street below Washington. A commencement was also made in Brown street, but has been auspended to go on with the other work. Among the cars being manufactured, is one for occasional use capable of carrying a large number. In this, our South Danvers friends can be tranaported to the cool sea air of Salem Neck with the summer-day provender there provided, very conveniently. The road will probably be open for travel during the month of June.—Salem Gazette.

☞ The Savannah Republican of the 18th, expresses apprehensions of another invasion of Georgia. It says: "Our dispatch announces the marching of 7000 or 8000 Yankees upon Rome, in this State. No particulars are given of their whereabouts, only an assurance that preparation is being made to meet and repel the invaders."

☞ The Richmond Sentinel of the 19th contains an article against receiving men sent South by President Lincoln, and says: "We must require of all who are received that they join their efforts with ours against the common enemy. They must assume our allegiance and its duties."

☞ The official report of General Stoneman will show the following losses: Officers wounded, 1; missing, 14; men wounded, 8; missing 149; killed, 8. The command of Gen. Stoneman captured 43 officers, 635 men, 202 mules, 230 wagons and 656 horses.

☞ Great complaint is made by the Richmond papers of the mortality among the rebel wounded in Richmond and Fredericksburg.—The reason assigned is, scarcity of medical supplies and inattention of the medical officers.

☞ No guns have been sent away from the armory at Springfield for some time, and the supply in the arsenal is rapidly increasing. There are now about 90,000 on hand, 70,000 of which are packed, ready for shipment.

THE FIFTH REGIMENT.

It is now understood that this regiment have had official notice from the Governor that it will be expected in Boston on the 23d of next month, to be mustered out of service, its time of enlistment having expired. It is now at Newbern, and we have received from one of its officers an account of a flag raising there and the address delivered on the occasion by the chaplain, Rev. Mr. Snow. Mr. Snow is a young man, a divinity student at Andover, who enlisted as a private soldier, in which capacity we met him at the baracks at Wenham. He was afterwards appointed chaplain of the regiment. We copy the address, which will well repay its perusal.

The members of Company C will be warmly welcomed home by their friends and our citizens generally, who would be highly gratified to see them parade our streets, a privilege which was denied them before their departure:—

NEWBERN, N. C., April 16th, 1863.

It is no vain ceremony, fellow soldiers, that we are now about to perform. It is not merely to add another ornament to our beautiful camping ground, or to set up the recognized sign of another military post, that we are assembled together. It is for more than this. We are about to do a symbolical act, to recognize a most pregnant emblem. Let me invite you, then, to consider with me for a few moments what the flag means. 1st, It represents to us a nation's history. Its colors distinct, yet united, not crossing or blending, yet bound in one harmonious whole, tell us of the composition of separate and independent States into one grand Union—"Epluribus unum."

The red flush of morning, the clear light of noon, the quiet evening sky, all combine in it to symbolize harmony, perfectness, duration. Its stripes, few in numbers, fixed and unchanged, remind us of the little band who united to lay the foundation, the potent spirit of whose institutions throbs and shall ever throb strongly through the whole nation's frame.

Its constellation of stars increasing so rapidly from year to year that we can hardly tell how many belong in it, shows to us the vigorous and quickly growing structure. 2d, The flag is the recognized emblem of the nation's authority. Wherever it flies, by land or by sea, there both friends and foes recognize the power of our country. Beneath its folds her citizens ever find protection, be they in most polished capital of Europe, or amid the rude boatmen of the Nile, or the savage islanders of the Pacific. The first aim of the enemy is to make it fall, for when it ceases to float, then ceases to be felt the nations's authority. 3d, The flag betokens our nation's glory. Borne through the heady fight, grimed with the smoke of battle, torn by shot and shell, dyed a fresher crimson in the bearer's blood, then blazoned with the names of glorious victories, it becomes a most hallowed relic, for every shred tells of some hero's bravery, speaks to us of his undying devotion to his native land.

Worn at the mast-head of some noble vessel, waving in defiance while the battle rages, and in pride when the victory is won, nobly it tells of the triumph, its every flutter seeming the nation's throb of joy.

4th, The flag is the symbol of the country's honor. A blow at it is a blow at the country herself. Disgrace to it is disgrace not to the nation as a whole merely, but to every man in it. Each true patriot cherishes his country's honor as his own, and looking to the flag as the representative of that honor, is ready in its defence to shed his last drop of blood, to expend every energy of his soul. 5th, Finally, to the patriot the national flag represents all that makes his country dear to him. It is the first object his eye seeks when in a foreign land, around it his memories of home cluster, to it he points his children as the proud legacy of the fathers, in it he finds the pledge of his freedom.

It is upon an auspicious day that we are to spread to the breeze this flag of our country.

Two years ago this noon, 1700 men of Massachusetts, springing to arms at the call of their country, to avenge her humbled flag, gathered in the old Cradle of Liberty in Boston—the first contribution of Massachusetts to the war for the preservation of the Union. A day to be remembered is this 16th day of April.

Upon an auspicious day, then, we are gathered to unfurl, with military honors, our country's flag within the circle of a fort raised by our own hands for the defence of the Union, upon soil redeemed from the grasp of treason. We all remember how, when the flag of Fort Sumter was lowered to traitors, from every house-top through all the loyal North the stars and stripes sprang to the breeze, as if to say that the falling of that flag in Charleston harbor was but the resurrection of patriotism. We saw then how full of meaning the flag was.

Ere many days the Massachusetts 5th, having in its ranks many of you who stand here to-day, had left home and friends to bear that flag into the thick tumult of battle, to leave its bearer dead, fallen in his place as he bore it towards the foe. The 5th has come again. We are proud to serve under one of that noble band who defended Fort Sumter to the last, until faint with hunger, weary with fighting, begirt with flame, hopeless of rescue, they are forced to a surrender,—a surrender more honorable than a victory. Proud are we to serve under him, eager are we to follow when Gen. Foster says "Come." I remember how, at Whitehall and at Goldsboro', when we were expecting soon to enter the conflict, you called for the flag to be unfurled, and how, when its glorious folds streamed out in answer, I saw every foot planted more firmly, every bowed head raised, every weary frame grow strong again. So shall it ever be. I know whatsoever that flag beckons, you will be eager to follow.

When in a few moments from this staff the flag of the Stars and Stripes shall float upon the air, as we look upon it, let us each renew our vows of devotion to our country, pledging ourselves that never shall this Union be dismembered and become a prey to traitors while we can raise a musket, or speak a word in its defence.

Then "strong in the Lord and in the power of his might," hearing his glorious watch-word to his people of old, "Be not afraid; the battle is not yours but God's," let us go forward to victory.

Then when the victory is won, when our country is re-united in peace, beneath the folds of her glorious flag may we sit down to rest, speaking to each other of these things all past, and rejoicing that each of us did what he could.

RAIN AND CANNONS.—It is noticed that violent rain storms follow battles. This has been so during the present rebellion; and so it has been in all lands and in all times. To the soldiers it may be a very fortunate occurrence.—To the wounded left on the field of battle nothing could be better. It affords relief to the intolerable thirst that follows gunshot wounds; and water is the best dressing that such wounds could receive. It may be a benefit also to those not wounded, since it washes the battle field where putrifaction might otherwise take place and plagues result; and it also washes and purifies the air, burdened with smoke and dust and the exhalations from the dead.

What is the cause of the rain? Philosophers are not agreed, though many of late have coincided with Prof. Espy, who said that the rain was produced by the shock of the atmosphere from the explosions of gunpowder, and he claims that showers may be had at any time from the same causes. Possibly this may have something to do with it, but quite as likely it is the process by which nature renovates herself when contaminated, whether by battles or from any other cause. The ancients noticed the phenomenon of rain after battle, when no gunpowder was used. Thus Plutarch in his Life of Caius Marius, notices the same event, after a battle 1400 years before gunpowder was known in Europe, and writes: "Thus the opinion of Archilochus is confirmed, that fields are fattened with blood. It is observed, indeed, that extraordinary rains generally fall after great battles; whether it be, that some deity chooses to wash and purify the earth with water above, or whether the blood and corruption, by the moist and heavy vapors they emit, thicken the air, which is liable to be altered by the smallest cause."

THE MYSTERIES OF FINANCE.—A writer in a New York paper, who has the reputation of being a sound financier, contends in an able article, that the country is not only paying the expenses of the war as they accrue, but accumulating wealth at the same time! After pointing out the beneficial effects which have grown out of the financial policy of the Government in furnishing a National currency, the writer says:—"The assertion that we can pay the expenses of the war as they accrue may to some appear unfounded, but our most intelligent bankers with European connections say that our foreign debt, National, State, corporate and individual, has been very largely reduced; since the outbreak of the rebellion, our gold has increased, the granaries of the West are overflowing, and the property in other forms cannot have materially diminished in the loyal States. From these facts it follows as a necessary consequence that thus far the aggregated people of these States have not only actually paid their current expenses and the extraordinary cost of the war, but have at the same time accumulated national wealth."

THE FEET.—Women are not more hardy than men. They walk on the same damp cold earth. Their shoes must be as thick and warm. Kip or calf skin is best for the cold season. The sole should be half an inch thick, in addition there should be a quarter of an inch of rubber. The rubber sole I have used for years; I would not part with it for a thousand dollars. It keeps out the damp, prevents slipping and wears five times as long as leather of the same cost. For women's boots it is invaluable. But rubbers should be discarded, they retain the perspiration, make the feet tender and give susceptibility to cold. Stand on one foot, and mark around the outspread toes. Have your soles exactly the same width. Your corns will leave you. The narrow sole is the cause of most corns. Wear thick woolen stockings. Change them every day. Before retiring dip the feet in cold water. Rub them hard. Hold the bottoms to the fire till they burn.—Dr. Lewis.

TEXAS has furnished no less than sixty-eight thousand five hundred men to the rebel armies, or four thousand seven hundred and seventy-three in excess of her popular vote! This is in the same proportion as if New York had contributed to the Union armies seven hundred thousand men! Think of this, men of the North—friends of the Union! Lubbock estimates that, between the ages of sixteen and sixty, but twenty-seven thousand remain—in other words, the capacity of Texas to place men in line of battle had been very nearly exhausted three months ago. Yet the rebel authorities keep crying, Give! Give!

WHY THE DIFFERENCE?—When ministers of the Gospel become half a century old, they are thought to be too old for popular efficient service, and young men are preferred. But while the matter is regarded thus in Church, how is it in State? Mr. Seward is 60 years old; Mr. Chase, 53; Mr. Cameron, 60; Mr. Welles, 62; Mr. Smith, 56; Mr. Blair, 46; and Mr. Bates, 68. Can any one tell why years, as they multiply, exert such a damaging influence upon the clergy, and not upon the laity? Upon ministers of Christ, and not upon statesmen?

VALLANDIGHAM has been turned over to the rebels. A single rebel private received him, Mr. Vallandigham saying, "I am a citizen of the United States; I am here against my will, I surrender myself as a prisoner of war."

FROM MEXICO.—The steamer Constitution, from San Francisco, arrived at Panama on the 16th, bringing Puebla dates of April 30. The French had been driven from Puebla at the point of the bayonet, losing 6000 men. They would probably retire to the seaboard, as the rainy season had set in. The roads to Vera Cruz were in a bad condition and infested with guerrillas. The yellow fever was soon expected.

☞ The 54th (colored) regiment, Col. Shaw, will break camp tomorrow (Thursday) morning at 7½ o'clock and will arrive in Boston and visit the Common, remaining until 9 o'clock. At 11 o'clock the regiment will proceed to Battery Wharf, where it will at once embark on board the steamer De Molay for Port Royal.

☞ It is stated in the Herald that a match for a prize fight has been agreed upon between Tom Hyer and Joe Coburn for $10,000 a side, to come off within six months, that part of the $1000 forfeit money is deposited, and the balance will be put up on Monday.

☞ Capt. Lewis E. Wentworth, of the 2d Co. of Sharpshooters, attached to the 22d Regiment, arrived home on Saturday evening, to recruit his health.

[From the Memphis Bulletin.]

GEN. DODGE'S EXPEDITION.

Capture of Tuscumbia and Florence, Ala.

INTERESTING EDICT.

We have just received a detailed account of Gen. G. M. DODGE'S expedition from Corinth to North Alabama. They left Corinth on Wednesday the 15th at 10 A. M., and marched that day to Burnsville. The next day they set out at 7 A. M., and arrived at Iuka by noon. At Iuka Col. CORNYN issued the following singular document, which he called "Ediet No. 2:"

"The citizens of Iuka, loyal or disloyal, will forthwith provide corn bread for the patriot heroes of this command. The said corn bread will be furnished immediately, as the patriots are hungry.

"HORENCE M. CORNYN,
"Commanding Cav. Brigade."

Our informant states that the edict had the desired result, and that corn bread in any quantity was immediately furnished.

At 3 P. M., the expedition left Iuka, and at night halted at "COOK'S," one mile from Bear Creek.

On Friday morning, 7 o'clock, the rebels were found in force on the oppo ite side of Bear Creek. Gen. DODGE immediately got his batteries in position and commenced shelling.—This continued for several hours, when the rebels retired, followed by our cavalry, in command of Col. CORNYN, who pursued them for nine miles. In the meantime, Gen. DODGE moved his headquarters about a mile beyond Bear Creek. During the afternoon, Colonel CORNYN sent word that the rebels had been reinforced, and were crowding him, when Gen. DODGE rode to the front—nine miles—in 35 minutes. BANE'S brigade had been ordered to the front, but before they arrived the rebels charged and captured one of our guns. They had possession of another, but Lieut. BRUNER run it into a ditch, and in this way saved it to us. In this fight, which was warmly contested, we lost two killed, seven wounded, and twelve captured. Col. CORNYN fell back a mile and a half. It was at this juncture that Col. J. C. CAMERON charged upon the rebels, rescued the captured gun, and held that position. The 7th Illinois regiment was now defiled along the ridge to the right of the road, and the 50th on the left, while the cavalry fell back, the object being to decoy them into a trap, which would have been entirely successful but for some excitable fellow, who prematurely discharged his piece, and rendered a volley necessary, which however had the effect to empty no less than forty saddles, when they enemy fell back, and our army rested on the field.

From that period there was considerable skirmishing until our forces reached Tuscumbia, which was on Friday afternoon of the 24th.—Colonel CORNYN, however, pushed onward, and drove the rebels to Leighton, ten miles South. The next day, Saturday, our forces went to Florence, which was immediately and without a struggle surrendered. On Sunday and Monday our forces rested, and on Tuesday we advanced—the main body at Leighton, and the advance on Town creek, about 20 miles east of Tuscumbia. Here the rebels were found in force, and a hardly contested fight ensued, which lasted all day, and in which the enemy are estimated to have lost about 100 killed and wounded, leaving us in possession of the vantage ground. The same night, our forces crossed Town creek by the railroad bridge, and returned to Tuscumbia.

The expedition was eminently successful having accomplished, in a very satisfactory manner, all that was designed or expected. General DODGE'S promptness in emergencies, and the coolness and confidence with which he managed his men, seems to have greatly won upon the affections of his command, and the results attained are creditable alike to himself and to Gen. HURLBUT, who planned the schedule so faithfully and successfully executed.

The Washington correspondent of the Muscatine Journal, says:

"It is pleasant to see that Gotham has at last found out that there is a Gen. Dodge in the service, and that he knows how to fight. Gen. G. M. Dodge is, in fact, one of the best Brigadiers in the field, and whether his military skill, as exhibited in nearly all the great battles of the West, or his suffering in the cause be considered, is far better entitled to the rank of Major General than a score or more who support the double star upon their shoulder straps."

STRATEGY OF AN IOWA GENERAL.—The victory achieved by General Dodge over the rebels at Bear Creek, Alabama, on the 17th ult., reflects credit on his skill as an officer. His forces left Corinth on the 15th ult. and arrived at Bear Creek. A correspondent says:

"By an artful movement of the General, the enemy were deceived as to the place of crossing the stream called Bear Creek, which is about seventy yards wide, rather deep, and quite swift. A force of about eight hundred rebel cavalry were awaiting the attempt of our forces to cross, but were drawn off by the firing of our pickets (two squadrons) upon the rebel pickets, at a ford below, and while they were rushing to the supposed place of crossing our cavalry effected the passage at the point selected. As the forces advanced their progress was disputed at every step, and in the afternoon quite a battle closed the affair for the day."

FOREIGN.—The diplomatic notes about Poland look more pacific, yet Sweden is putting her navy on a war footing, and the Russians are preparing for a great conflict. Meantime the Poles, without any great leader, and in many places without arms, are gaining steadily in nearly all directions. Prussia continues to favor the Czar, and even Austria is said to be falling back into its old position on the Polish question.

THE SEVENTEENTH OF JUNE.—The next anniversary of the battle of Bunker'a hill, is to be celebrated at Charlestown, and the arrangements are now being made by the municipal government of that city.

☞ The Charleston (South Carolina) Courier has heard of an "office that should be abolished." It is the Passport office that issues permits to the Yankees to pass Vicksburg.

☞ The editor of the Minnesota Times says he "can generally manage, by hook or by crook to get up a pretty good paper." Prentice says he does it principally by hook.

A splendid variety of NETS for the Hair at BROWNING & LONGS

Grant's Triu

A CHAIN OF

Since the successful army to Grand Gulf, t fied place, and the po immediately thereafter but cautiously toward main object—the pos
leading from Vicksburg
He found sharp resista and instead of crossi somewhat from the di easterly to avoid even supplies cut off. The four attempts to stay mond and at Mississip
but without effect; the
Col. Grierson's Cavalry means of getting rei were unable to muster ades under commande oppose his heavy and w
Joe Johnson arrived a but soon left. Grant c 14th, after an all day fig of rebel property. The ough defeat. Jackson i sippi, and is a vital poin

An official despatch ington on Saturday nigh burg, May 20th, which ment of the progress of from May 1st. At tha
Bowen at Port Gibson killed and wounded, an lery. May 12th, battle
the rebels were defeated
May 14th, Gen. Joe E.
Jackson with a loss of 4 stores and manufactures tillery. The city also ta tle at Baker's Creek; Pe loss of 4000 men, and 29
May 17th, Pemberton
Black River Bridge, with 17 pieces of artillery.
closely invested; the rifl
the city carried, and the army resting on the Miss

Gen. Grant's victories as important as any durin that he should have so f can now hope for the bes importance of his moveme for Johnson are reported parts of the South.

SPEND YOUR MONEY
time within the past ten necessary for the man o practice economy in all present. The great advan of necessaries and luxuri bent on him to make t dollar he spends, and to spending it, to see that he the cheapest. Those who ing, when they visit Bost
Geo. H. Lane, of Nos. 31 corners of Exchange St. a
He has a very large and of ready-made clothing, i ceivable variety and price mer styles. Mr. Lane's clo wears well, and no one can who wishes either a dress s a business suit. Furnishin are also kept, in good qua one may get a complete fit the premises. Special at youths' and boys' clothing,
tured upon the premises u
of experienced workmen.

DANVERS, Ma
Died, suddenly, at his re county of Essex, Mass., M
JOHN LUNNEY, aged 40 yea land, county of Tyrone.

The said JOHN LUNNEY Fire Engine Co. No. 2, of meeting was held and the fo passed:

Resolved, That we unite the deceased, especially w this life, in expressing our s this sudden call, and our God of Truth and Justice and protector.

Resolved, That we meet in on Monday, May 25th, at proceed to our brother's la follow him to his resting-pla

Resolved, That a copy of th presented to the family of th

Resolved, That the above b
South Danvers Wizard.

JOHN C. Pu
HUGH M'CRONE, Clerk.

THE CONTINENTAL MONTH
tains its usual variety of firstcluding one on the Navy of t showing a much more formida had supposed belonged to this of the service. The other arti political, are able and readabl to recommend this popular reading and thinking public.
ber will commence the Four may be had, as usual, of Wilk

HARPER'S MAGAZINE for Jun
Twenty-Seventh Volume, and ticle is an illustrated sketch of war in Minnesota. It is enc Harper, that it is the very monthly magazine of this cou the world. Wilkinson of this of Danvers, has it for sale.

BAY STATE FREE PRESS.—
of a newspaper just started i
It is beautifully printed on a its contents are well written, t selections being made with exc good judgment. Geo. M. Jo editor, with Wm. Lengham, sistant. The paper promises one, and it ought to be well supp
in Milford, but in the adjoining

☞ Brigham Young and h five rows of seats in the theat
City. Wonder if he calls the marched them in!.

So. Danvers Horticultu

The Annual Meeting of the Horticultural Society for the ch will be held at the Exchange I on MONDAY EVENING, Ju o'clock. Per order,
MILES O. STAN

ATLANTIC MONTHLY.—The Atlantic for June ...es the volume, and sustains well its hither... acquired reputation in the literary and scien... world. It is continually enlisting new ...able writers, while it retains the best of its ... contributors. The promises of the editor ... the next volume—and his promises are al... performed—ensure a rich treat for its ...ders. Its already large circulation is con... ...ually increasing. You can have it at the ...odical Depot.

FASHIONABLE HATS, of the best quality and ...y style going in this country and Europe, ... to be found at the stores No. 59 Tremont ... No. 101 Court streets, Joseph A. Jackson, ...prietor. Mr. Jackson, by force of character, ...severance, and good taste, together with a ...position to please his customers, has gained ...ay firm friends, as well as good customers, ...his short business career, and we are justified ...aying that better or more fashionable hats ...not be found in Boston. Give him a call ... next time you visit Boston.

MILLINERY GOODS.—A very fine assortment ... Straw and Fancy Bonnets, Ribbons, Flow... &c., of the latest shapes and designs will ...found at the store of R. Warren, Nos. 90 ... 92 Court St., Boston. The styles are all ...w and the patterns perfect—ladies who think ...procuring a bonnet or any article in the mil...ery line are invited to call—when they visit ... city.

Antiquarian Supper.

The Ladies of the LAFAYETTE ST. M. E. ...URCH, will give an Antiquarian Supper at ...wning Hall, Salem, on THURSDAY EVE...NG, June 4.

The Tables will be set at 6, 8, and 9½ o'clk.

The Bill of Fare will be an ancient one.—...sic and Singing in the old style will be in...spersed. The Table, Attendants, and the ...gers, will be dressed in the costume of "ye ...en time." Also, some of the costumes and ...dicraft of the days of our Forefathers will ...represented.

Tickets, to include Supper, will be 35 cts.

Salem, May 20.—3w

VOCAL CLASS!

MANUAL FENOLLOSA, at the request ...some of his friends, respectfully announces ...intention of forming a

Singing Class in South Danvers,

... the acquirement of thorough rudimental ...truction in the Art of Singing.

Subscription papers for Membership may be ...nd with Mrs. Geo. P. Osborne, Mrs. I. B. ...iot, and Mr. Geo. P. Daniels.

The class will be organized as soon as a suf...ient number of names are obtained to insure ... success.

Terms $5.00 for 24 Evening's Instruction.

So. Danvers, April 8, 1863. tf

☞ Try one of Rhoades' National Clothes ...ringers, before purchasing elsewhere. For ...e at the Equity Store, South Danvers. See ...vertisement.

☞ Visit OSBORNE'S Store, and look at the ...usual variety of new styles in HATS and ...PS—191 Essex street.

Port of Danvers.

...Ar 16th, schs Florence, Crockett, Bangor; ...st, Nellie Potter, Shepard, Philadelphia; ...d, E C Brown, Perkins, New York; Oregon, ...iller, Bluehill; Pearl, Robinson, Rockland.

Marriages.

In Danvers, May 21, by Rev Mr. Fletcher, ...r James Goldthwait, of Lynn, to Miss Mary ... daughter of Benjamin Henderson, of D.

In Newburyport, May 21st, Mr Joseph W. ...avis to Miss Irena H. Hamblett.

Deaths.

In Danvers, May 23, Mr John Lunney, 40.

In Beverly, May 22, Mrs Rebecca, widow of ...e late Mr John Chapman, 83¾ yrs; Mrs Sa...h F, wife of Mr James Dodge, and daughter ... the late Mr Alvah Woodbury, 29.

In Marblehead, May 22, Capt Gilley, a high... esteemed citizen.

In Yazoo City, Miss., William Wyman, for... erly of Salem, 51 yrs.

☞ The extraordinary success of Dr. Ham's Invigor...ing Spirit, seems to stir up an army of Tonics, ...tters, and Cure Alls; but as a general thing they ...e like the Morning Glory—look very fine in the ...orning but wilt before the day has past. The Dr. ...s been before the public for years; his Dyspepsia ...emedy has been tested and not found wanting; it ...ts on the Liver, Stomach, Head and the whole ...stem; it is good at all times and for everybody.

MANUAL FENOLLOSA,
TEACHER
OF THE
Violin, Piano and Singing,
MUSIC ROOMS, No. 7 Central Street,
SALEM, MASS.

Hunnewell's Great Remedies.

WHAT EVERY FAMILY SHOULD HAVE IN THE HOUSE AND WHY;

☞ They should have HUNNEWELL'S UNIVERSAL ...OUGH REMEDY, because it effectually cures Colds, ...Whooping and Common Coughs. Sore Throat, Hoarse, ...ess, and is the most simple and perfect Soothing ...yrup in the world. For old and young, by day and ...ight, it may be used with the greatest freedom, and ...three-fourths of the deaths by Consumption stopped ...

They should have HUNNEWELL'S TOLU ANODYNE, ...because it is a perfect remedy for Neuralgia, Ner...vous or Sick Headache, Tooth, and Earache, Pain in ...Stomach, or Bowels, Genuine Cholera Morbus, Rheu...matism, Distress after Eating, Nervousness, Hyste...ria, and the chief of all causes of disease, and Insani...y, Loss of Sleep. Its character, though active, is ...imple; its action in perfect conformity to nature; ...s end cure, or relief.

For the pains in Monthly Menstruation a perfect re...ief, while nature's after work is not disturbed, and ...one of the most important points in Medicine.

They should have HUNNEWELL'S ECLECTIC PILLS, ...because with seldom but a single Pill for a dose all ...derangements of the Stomach and Bowels are cured. ...They cure Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Headache, when ...caused by foul stomach, Loss of Appetite, Biliousness, ...so often and so erroneously treated with Mercurials, ...Jaundice. For Worms a sure cure.

They act simple, assist nature, do not make a Pill ...Box of the stomach, as is the most fatal error of tak...ing so many Pills at a dose and then, what is impor...tant to every Family and every Purse, one bottle goes ...as far as two or three of what is ordinarily sold.

The confidence of all is asked to test
Hunnewell's Universal Cough Remedy.
Hunnewell's Tolu Anodyne.
Hunnewell's Eclectic Pills.

☞ Fac-simile of J. L. Hunnewell's signature over ...corks of genuine only.

JOHN L. HUNNEWELL, proprietor,
9 Commercial Wharf, Boston, Mass.

George E. Meacom, Agent for Danvers.

Advertisements.

Bargains in Dress Goods.
PURCHASED THIS WEEK,

WHICH we shall sell to our customers at greatly reduced prices.

Ladies will find it to their advantage to call and look at them before buying elsewhere.

may 27 ANN R. BRAY, 76 Federal st.

WM. S. HILTZ,
Plain and Ornamental
BOOK-BINDER,
No. 157 Essex Street (up stairs), Salem.

Bibles, Music, Magazines, Periodicals, and old books of every description bound with neatness and despatch at the lowest cash prices.

Music bound and ready for delivery in 3 days.

REFERENCES—Hon. S. H. Phillips, Francis Peabody, Esq., Wm. G. Choate, Esq., R. S. Rantoul, Esq., Dr. G. A. Perkins, Dr. Der Gersdoff. may 27

Assignees' Notice.

Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

ESSEX ss: In Insolvency, before Hon. Geo. F. Choate, Judge of Probate and Insolveney in and for said county. The subscribers have been duly appointed assignees of the estate of DANIEL F. CATE, of South Danvers, in said county, carpenter, an insolvent debtor.

The second meeting of the creditors of said insolvent debtor will be held at the Court of Insolveney at Salem, in said county, at the Stone Court House, on the twenty-second day of June next, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, at which meeting creditors may be present and prove their claims.

ALFRED A. ABBOTT, }
WM. D. NORTHEND, } Assignees.
may 27 2t

[BY T. TRASK, Auctioneer.]

Valuable Real Estate.

To be sold at Public Auction on THURSDAY, May 28th, at 2 o'clock, P. M.,

That very pleasant Cottage House, situated on Mt. Vernon St., occupied by the subscriber, being well calculated for two families, having eight rooms in the southerly end and four in the northerly end of the house. The lot on which this house is situated is about 75 feet square. Connected with it is a two story Barn, the upper story being used for a Paint Shop.—It is 19 by 24 feet on the ground.

Also, in rear of the above estate, a two story Dwelling House, for two families, which rents for about $78.

Also, a very eligible House Lot on Mount Vernon st, 75 feet square.

Also, on Fulton street, a one story house with four rooms, which is now rented for about $60.

Also, a House Lot on Fulton st., measuring 75 feet front by 75 feet deep.

The above estates will be sold all together or in separate lots, as may be desired by purchasers.

The land not occupied by buildings is well planted with fruit trees in good bearing condition.

For further information, apply to the subscriber, on the premises.

MOSES JEWETT.

So. Danvers, May 28, 1863.

NEW STOCK
— OF —
DRY GOODS
— AT —
No. 238 Essex street,

(Three Doors West of the Tunnel.)

THE Subscriber opened on MONDAY, May 18th,

A Fresh Stock of Dry Goods,

Consisting of nearly all the new styles of Dress Goods, Ladies' Cloths, Cloths for Men's & Boys' Wear; Shawls, Domestic and Housekeeping Goods; Sun Umbrellas; Parasols; Hoop Skirts; Hosiery; Gloves; &c., &c., &c.

☞ All the above Goods will be sold for CASH, at Low Prices.

GEORGE P. DANIELS.

Salem, May 20.

M. A. PORTER,
MANUFACTURES TO ORDER
WATCH SPRING SKIRTS,
At 236 Essex Street,
A few doors from Washington Street,
SALEM, MASS.

SEWING MACHINES.

PERSONS about purchasing SEWING MACHINES will find it to their advantage to consult

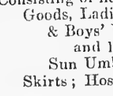
JOHN H. CHOATE,
SEWING MACHINE AGENT.

Over Newman & Symonds' Store, Lowell St.

Second-hand Machines bought and sold.

South Danvers, May 13—tf

Real Estate on Fulton St. for Sale.



The subscribers offer for sale the following Real Estate situated on Fulton St., South Danvers. It consists of a TWO-STORY HOUSE, 24 by 36, with 18 rooms, (calculated for 6 families); a good well of water, and out-buildings. The property is offered for private sale until the 1st of June, when it will be sold at auction. For further information apply to

MOSES JEWETT,
SAM'L S. PARSONS.

South Danvers, May 20.

NEW BOOKS,
AT G. M. WHIPPLE & A. A. SMITH'S.

Good Thoughts in Bad Times and other Papers, by Thomas Fuller, DD;

Life of Chopin, by T Liszt, translated from the French, by Martha Walker Cook;

The Strange Adventures of Capt Dangerous, a narrative in plain English attempted by Geo Aug Sala;

History of the Reformation in Europe in the time of Calvin, by J H Merle D'Aubignee, DD;

Life in the Open Air, and other Papers, by Theodore Winthrop;

Letters on the Ministry of the Gospel—by Francis Wayland;

Paris in America, by Edward Labonlaye;

Two Pictures; or, What we think of Ourselves, and What the World thinks of us, by M J McIntosh;

Agnes and the Little Key; or, Bereaved Parents instructed and comforted—by her Father—eighth edition, revised.

Golden Books.

John P. Peabody.

What We Sell.

HOSIERY.	J. P. PEABODY'S, 220 ESSEX STREET, SALEM.	TRIMMINGS.
GLOVES.		LACE GOODS.
CORSETS.		EMBROIDERIES.
SKIRTS.		BONNET RIBBONS.
BODICES.		FRENCH FLOWERS.
BUTTONS.		BLACK LACES.
BRAIDS.		WHITE LACES.
CORDS,		BONNET RUCHES.
ELASTICS.		BONNET TABS.
COMBS.		DRESS QUILLINGS.
COTTONS.		COLLETETTE RUFFLE.
SILKS.		DOUBLE RUFFLE.
TWISTS.		IMPERATIVE RUFFLE.
NEEDLES.		INFANTS' WAISTS.
THIMBLES.		INFANTS' ROBES.
BRUSHES.		BLACK LACE VEILS.
PUFFS.		MOURNING VEILS.
POWDERS.		MOURNING COLLARS.
BOXES.		WROUGHT BANDS.
PAGES.		WROUGHT EDGINGS.
SOAPS.		WROUGHT INSERT'N'S
PERFUMES.		ENG. THREAD EDGING
HAIR GLOSS.		SMYRNA EDGINGS.
HAIR OILS.		SILK LACE EDGINGS.

BONNET RIBBONS.
BONNET RIBBONS.
BONNET RIBBONS.
BONNET RIBBONS.
BONNET RIBBONS.
BONNET RIBBONS.

FLOWERS. FLOWERS.
FLOWERS. FLOWERS.
FLOWERS. FLOWERS.
FLOWERS. FLOWERS.
FLOWERS. FLOWERS.
FLOWERS. FLOWERS.

BONNET RUCHES.
BONNET RUCHES.
BONNET RUCHES.
BONNET RUCHES.
BONNET RUCHES.
BONNET RUCHES.

Peabody's Ladies' Furnishing Store.
Peabody's Ladies' Furnishing Store.
Peabody's Ladies' Furnishing Store.
Peabody's Ladies' Furnishing Store.
Peabody's Ladies' Furnishing Store.

SUN UMBRELLAS.

We have a large Stock and can sell them at the lowest possible prices for good goods; — we have them in all desirable sizes and styles — and invite all to examine them before buying.

PARASOLS.

We have no new PARASOLS; but have those we kept over, and shall sell them at last year's prices, in order to close our entire Stock and make room for Sun Umbrellas.

CORSETS.

We have a nice style of CORSETS that we have been selling for $1 75, which we are now closing at $1 35 They are bargains. We have a new thing: Corsets, Shoulder Braces and Skirt Supporters combined. It needs only to be seen to be appreciated.

HANDKERCHIEFS.

We have a bargain in LINEN HANDKERCHIEFS at 15 cts. each—and a good thing at 12½ cts; and in all prices above. Grass Cloth, Hemmed, Bordered and Wrought Hdkfs in pretty styles—mourning Hdkfs, in variety.

SKIRTS.

We have a nice thing in WATCH SPRING SKIRTS. We warrant every Skirt we sell—all prices and sizes—from 30 cts. to $3 00.

HOSIERY.

Ladies' Lisle Thread and Cotton Hosiery; Misses Cotton Hosiery, in all sizes; Fancy Col'd Hose, in all sizes; Infants' ½ and ¾ Hose, all sizes; Gent's ½ Hose, in blue, mix'd and white Hosiery, at the lowest prices.

ONE PRICE ONLY!

220 ESSEX ST., SALEM,
JOHN. P. PEABODY.

SPRING STYLE
DRESS HATS,
NOW READY
AT JACKSON'S,

101 COURT STREET, BOSTON.

Also a large and varied assortment of CAPS and SOFT HATS, for Boys' and Men's wear. Those wishing articles in the above line would do well to call before purchasing.

JOSEPH A. JACKSON.

Boston, April 1, 1863. 3m

Potter, Bachelder & Co.,
(Successors to M. Black)
DANVERS-PORT,
DEALERS IN
WOOD AND COAL

OF the various kinds usually kept in a retail yard. Constantly on hand

Franklin, Old Company's Lehigh,
Locust Mountain, Black Heath,
Red and White Ash.

Of all sizes, of the best quality, and at as low prices as can be bought elsewhere.

OFFICE—No. 6 Allen's Building.

Order Box at post office, South Danvers, and post office, Danvers.

G. W. POTTER,
J. Q. A. BACHELDER,
C. T. BATCHELDER. july 19—tf

WHITE LEAD AND LINSEED OIL,

OF the best quality—for sale at
SC & EA SIMONDS', 32 Front st.

A Good Milk Route for Sale,

INQUIRE at this office.
South Danvers, Feb. 11, 1863.

James F. Almy.

CASH SALES & LOW PRICES!

For Ladies' Outside Garments;
For Misses' Outside Garments;
For Garments of Cloth or Silk, for Ladies' Outside Wear, made to order, from measure, please look at

JAMES F. ALMY'S,
188 Essex, opposite Central street, Salem.

For Melton's Ladies' Cloths and Sackings;
For French, British & American Fancy Cloths;
For Buttons, Trimmings, etc., to match any shade of Cloth or style of Ladies' Outside Garment, please look at

JAMES F. ALMY'S,
188 Essex, opposite Central street, Salem.

For best styles Striped Woolen Shawls;
For best styles Striped Brocha Shawls;
For best styles Fancy Foreign Shawls;
For the greatest variety of Plaid, Striped and Plain Shawls—at Low Prices—please look at JAMES F. ALMY'S, 188 Essex, opposite Central street, Salem.

For best makes Black Mantilla Silks;
For all widths Black Dress Silks;
For choice shades Plain Dress Silks;
For plain and striped Dress Silks;
For French Foulard Dress Silks—please look at

JAMES F. ALMY'S,
188 Essex, opposite Central street, Salem.

For almost every description of Dress Goods:
In Plain Alpaccas, new colors;
In Plaid Alpaccas, at low prices;
In Chilly De Laine; Mozambiques;
Plain Mouselin All Wool De Laine;
In Taffeta Stripes: Lavellas;
In Lawns; Muslins; French and American Prints—please look at

JAMES F. ALMY'S,
188 Essex, opposite Central street, Salem.

For Mourning Dress Goods of every description—please look at

JAMES F. ALMY'S,
185 Essex, opposite Central street, Salem.

For Paris Kid Gloves, (Trefousses) every pair warranted—elastic and durable;
For lower grades of Ladies' and Children's Gloves;
For Ladies' and Misses' Cotton Hosiery;
For Ladies' and Children's Spring Undercloth-ing—please look at

JAMES F. ALMY'S,
188 Essex, opposite Central street, Salem.

For all sizes and qualities plain Sun Umbrellas;
For all sizes and qualities Embroidered Sun Umbrellas;
For Sun Shades and Parasols—at Low Prices—please look at

JAMES F. ALMY'S,
188 Essex, opposite Central street, Salem.

For all widths plain Velvet Ribbons;
For all widths White Edged Velvet Ribbons—please look at

JAMES F. ALMY'S,
188 Essex, opposite Central street, Salem.

For a splendid stock of House-keeping Goods;
For a full line of White Goods;
For a choice variety of Goods for Boys' Wear;
For a good stock of best Watch Spring Skirts—please look at

JAMES F. ALMY'S,
188 Essex, opposite Central street, Salem.

☞ We invite attention to our stock, with full confidence that we are enabled, by a strictly Cash Business, to offer many Goods at prices far below competition.

JAMES F. ALMY,
188 Essex, opposite Central st.

may 20

M. FENOLLOSA,
TEACHER OF MUSIC,
LETS .....PIANO FORTES, at the lowest rates;
SELLS .....PIANO FORTES, at the Manufacturers Prices;
EXCHANGES....PIANO FORTES, on the easiest terms;
At Rooms No. 7 Central street,
feb 11 SALEM, MASS.

Just Opened,

A SUPERIOR quality corded Taffeta, at 37½ cts. All wool DeLaines, desirable shades; Domestic Goods of every description.
ap 29 ANN R BRAY, 76 Federal st.

PHOTOGRAPH ALBUMS.

A FULL assortment constantly on hand.
G M WHIPPLE & A A SMITH.

GLASS WARE.

CUT and Pressed Glass Goblets; Tumblers; Dishes, etc, just opened at
SC & EA SIMONDS' 32 Front st.

TABLE MATS.

SHAKER Table Mats—for sale by
may 27 SC & EA SIMONDS.

A Card.

Having disposed of my stock and stand to Miss M. E. CRANE, I avail myself of this opportunity to request my friends and customers who have bestowed their liberal patronage upon me, to transfer the same to my successor.

In taking leave of my business friends, I would return my warmest thanks for the generous patronage I have received. I can in the highest terms recommend Miss CRANE, and would bespeak for her your kind consideration and confidence.

I would most respectfully invite those having unsettled accounts to call and adjust the same, either with Miss Crane or myself, at the old stand.

April 22, 1863. M. M. FLETCHER.

Notice.

The Subscriber having purchased of Mrs. M. M. FLETCHER her stock of Goods, and made additions to the same, is now prepared to furnish her patrons and the public with a large and fine assortment of

Millinery Goods,

which we will sell very low for cash. We hope by strict attention to business to merit a liberal share of patronage. M. E. CRANE,
ap 22 cor. of Essex and St. Peter sts.

Tillage Land and Barn to Let.

ABOUT six acres of good level Tillage Land with a Barn, situated upon the "Cross Road" in Rockville. Any one wishing to work upon land a portion or the whole of his time will find this a rare chance.

For further particulars application may be made to either of the subscribers.

S. C. BANCROFT, So. Danvers.
JOHN H. NICHOLS, Salem.

South Danvers, Ap. 22.

PHOTOGRAPH ALBUMS.

BEAUTIFUL and new styles, in great variety:

Card Pictures of the "Prince and Princess,"
"Father Cleaveland," and others at
G M WHIPPLE & A A SMITH'S.

Sun Shades and Sun Umbrellas.

A FULL assortment of Green, Brown and Black Sun Shades and Umbrellas, at
ap 29 ANN R BRAY'S, 76 Federal st.

George S. Walker.

Notice to Gentlemen.

FOR THE WARM WEATHER.

SUMMER MERINO UNDER SHIRTS;
GAUZE " " " GOSSAMER " " "
SILK " " "
COTTON " " "

IN EXTRA LARGE AND SMALL SIZES.

Summer Merino, Gauze and Unbleached Cotton DRAWERS, in sizes from 28 to 44 inches.

Summer Merino, Lisle, Silk, and Cotton HALF HOSE, in a great variety of styles and in all sizes.

Many of the above goods were bought before the advance for Cash, and will be sold at the lowest prices.

GEORGE S. WALKER'S,
Gent's Furnishing Store,
may 20 228 Essex Street, Salem, Mass.

A. J. Archer & Co

SHAWLS! SHAWLS!

A splendid assortment of

Spring Shawls
— And —
Spring Capes

in the most fashionable styles, for sale by

A. J. ARCHER & CO.,

Salem, may 6—tf

CLOTHS! CLOTHS!

A fine assortment of

Cloths, Cassimeres, Doeskins,
— And —

CLOTHS FOR LADIES' CAPES,

For sale by

A. J. ARCHER & CO.,

Salem, may 6—tf.

SPRING GOODS!

Entirely New Stock of

CLOTHING.

GEO. H. LANE,
CLOTHIER,
Nos. 31 and 32 Dock Square,
BOSTON,

IS now ready to show to his customers and the public an ELEGANT STOCK OF CLOTHING for MEN'S and BOYS' wear, expressly designed by himself, manufactured on the premises for the present season in all those new and choice selections of fabrics for which Lane's establishment has become celebrated. The stock consists in part of

SPRING OVERCOATS,
FROCK COATS,
BUSINESS COATS,
And ONE HUNDRED CHOICE
NEW STYLES OF PANTALOONS,
Suitable for Dress, Promenade or Business Occasions.

Mr. LANE having made Large Purchases by Contract before the Unprecedented and General Advance in Prices, has it in his power to give

REAL BARGAINS,

Acting on the principal that

"Quick Sales and Small Profits"

Are the best rules to guide the merchant.

JUVENILE ATTIRE.

Boys' Entire Suits, as

SCHOOL SUITS,
DRESS SUITS,
JACKET SUITS,
SACK SUITS, &C.

All of the newest fabrics and best workmanship.

A year since Mr. Lane advised the public that he had added a Boys' Department, and he has now the satisfaction to announce that he has secured the services of Mr. C. H. Boynton, (formerly with J. WALTER READ) to superintend it; and indeed, to make the entire establishment the COMPLETEST IN NEW ENGLAND, the Proprietor has spared no pains to secure the services of REAL ARTISTS in the Cutting Room, and accomplished, obliging, and experienced Salesman in the Show Room; and trusts by strict personal attention, and MODERATE CHARGES, to merit the support of the community.

GEO. H. LANE,
31 AND 32 DOCK SQUARE,
April 1—3m BOSTON.

JOHN FARRELL,
DRAPER AND TAILOR,

HAVING removed to his old place of business, 138 MAIN ST., South Danvers, (over Batchelder's Grocery Store), is prepared to Cut, Make, Repair, or furnish Garments, for Men and Youths at short notice.

South Danvers, April 1. tf

GLASS WARE.

CUT and Pressed Goblets; Tumblers; Dishes in great variety; just opened at
SC & EA SIMONDS', 32 Front st.
mch 25

Browning & Long.

BROWNING & LONG would inform their customers that they are receiving NEW GOODS EVERY WEEK from their agent in NEW York, thus keeping their stock full of the most DESIRABLE GOODS, as fast as they appear in that market. Their goods are bought for Cash, and for QUALITY and Low PRICES, cannot be excelled.

Among our NEW GOODS may be found:
POINTE DE GAUZE COLLARS,
THREAD LACE do,
MALTA LACE do,
GUIPURE LACE do,
LACE TRIMMED do,
SWISS do,
SWISS SETTS,
UNIQUE SCARFS,
BLACK LACE VEILS,
EMB'D BORDER VEILS,
REAL THREAD VEILS,
GRENADINE do,
GAUZE do,
MOURNING do,
TUCKED do,
INFANTS EMB'D CAPS,
BLACK AND BL'K AND WHITE BARBES.

Edgings and Insertings.

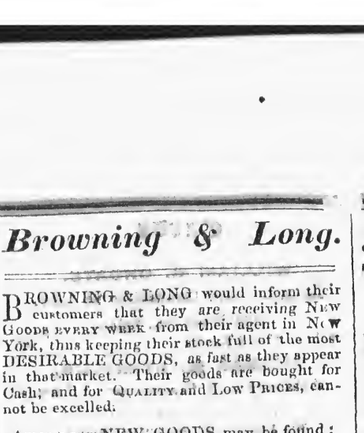
Cambric, Muslin,
Thread, Malta,
Valenciennes, Guipure,
Smyrna, and Cotton.

A full assortment in the different widths.

Corsets and Bodices.

A full assortment in White and Col'd—two qualities. Every pair warranted to fit and give satisfaction, or to be returned.

Gore Trail Skirts.



New York Belle Skirts.
Quaker Skirts.
Pointe de Venice Skirts.

ALL NEW STYLES, FIRST QUALITY, AND AT THE LOWEST PRICES, FOR LADIES & MISSES.

Hosiery and Gloves.

A full and splendid assortment, consisting of all sizes, in

Ladies' Plain White Cotton Hose,
do do Unbleached do,
do do Mode do do,
do do Black do do.
Open work—in Unbleached & White.
MISSES' COTTON HOSE, in white, unbleached, mode, brown, mixed, striped;
MEN'S HALE HOSE, in Grey or Blue mixed;
do do do Brown mix'd Striped Plain & White.
BOY'S HALE HOSE, in Grey, Brown, Blue, Striped & Plain White;
INFANT'S 1-2 and 3-4 Hose, in Cotton, a full assortment.

Ladies' and Gent's Hdkfs.

A full assortment—in Plain, Col'd Bordered, Hemstitched and Mourning.

Also, a full assortment of Childrens' Hdkfs, in Hemstitched, Plain, and Col'd Bordered.

Kid Gloves.

A fresh assortment—In Black, White, Col'd and Embroidered.

LADIES' SILK AND LISLE GLOVES.

We have a handsome assortment, comprising all sizes and a great variety of styles, including ALEXANDRE SILK KID FINISH GLOVE, in small sizes.

MISSES' AND BOY'S GLOVES, in Plain, Mixed and Ruffled.

Also, a full line of WHITE SILK GLOVES 8 sizes.

Dress Buttons, Bugles, Gimps, Beltings, etc., a splendid assortment.

☞ Also, a full stock of Yankee Notions, which we shall sell at the Lowest Prices.

BROWNING & LONG
(SUCCESSORS to J. MAYER,)
Essex St., 177 Essex St.,
Salem, May 27, 1863.

Quincy Mutual Fire Insurance Co.

Available and Cash Capital $500,000.

INSURES Buildings, Merchandize and Personal Property generally, on terms as favorable as any other dividend paying company.

J. D. BLACK, Agent,
april 22—1y At Danversport.

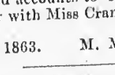
Merrimack Mutual Fire Insurance Co., Andover, Mass.

ONE of the OLD AND RELIABLE OFFICES.

J. D. BLACK is Agent for Danvers and South Danvers. apr 22—1y

Chickering & Sons' Piano-Fortes.

Hallett & Cumston's Piano-Fortes.
Hallett & Davis's Piano-Fortes.



We select our Piano-Fortes from the above firms and warrant them to give perfect satisfaction. Our terms are reasonable, and all persons in the city and neighboring towns can be accommodated by calling at 76 Federal street.

FOR SALE—Second-hand Piano-Fortes,—Chickering's and others.
ap 29 ANN R. BRAY.

VALUABLE REAL ESTATE.

THE Subscriber offers for sale on favorable terms,—or would exchange for a Farm,—his Estate on Wallis Street, near the Monumental Cemetary, consisting of THREE DWELLING HOUSES, which will be sold separately or as one Estate.

There are 75 feet of land in front, and 72 feet in the rear of the house.

The situation is pleasant, in a good neighborhood, and the houses are supplied with all the conveniences for immediate occupation. In ordinary times these tenements would rent for from 330 to 350 dollars.

The Subscriber, having made up his mind to dispose of the property, will sell it low, and it is well worth the attention of purchasers.

Apply to JOHN M'NEAL.
South Danvers, Dec. 10th, 1862. tf.

To Let.

A SMALL but pleasant and convenient Chamber Tenement, in the house formerly occupied by the late Wood Forness, upon the corner of Washington and Pleasant Streets. For particulars apply to

SIDNEY C. BANCROFT.
South Danvers, April 22. tf

All kinds of Printing done at this office.

☞ If you want to SAVE MONEY, in purchasing Goods, go to COLMAN'S, No. 10 Front street, Salem. Sep30-tf

Auction Sales.

WILLIAM ARCHER, Jr.,
Auctioneer, Real Estate and Stock Broker,
34 Front Street.

Real Estate, Bank, Railroad and Manufacturing Stock bought and sold on Commission.

D. P. GROSVENOR, Jr.,

Druggist and Apothecary,
33 MAIN STREET.

Dealer in Drugs, Medicines, Chemicals, Dye Stuffs, and Popular Proprietary Medicines.

Personal attention to Physicians' Prescriptions.

South Danvers, May 29, 1861. 1y

GEO. E. MEACOM

Dealer in
DRUGS & MEDICINES,
Fancy & Toilet Articles, &c.
126 MAIN ST. 126
Nearly opposite Danvers Bank, So. Danvers.

T. A. SWEETSER,
Druggist & Apothecary

37 Main St., So. Danvers,

DEALER IN
Drugs, Medicines, Chemicals, Foreign Leeches, Shakers' Herbs, Dye Stuffs, Gums, Acids, Sponges, Shoulder Braces, Trusses, and Genuine Patent Medicines.

Also, Imported Cigars of choice brands, Perfumery Toilet Articles and Stationery.

Physicians' Prescriptions carefully prepared by experienced persons.

37 MAIN STREET.

GRACE'S CELEBRATED SALVE.

A SURE RELIEF FOR THE SUFFERER.

This Salve is a vegetable preparation, invented in the 17th century, by DR. WM. GRACE, surgeon in King James's army. Through its agency he cured thousands of most serious sores and wounds that baffled the skill of the most eminent physicians of his day, and was regarded by all who knew him as a public benefactor.

Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Burns.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Scalds.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Flesh Wounds.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Corns.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Felons.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Frozen Limbs.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Wens.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Callouses.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Salt Rheum.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Chilblains.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Sore Breast.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Sore Lips.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Erysipelas Sores.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Abscesses.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Ulcers.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Chapped Hands.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Ringworms.

And from Sores and Wounds of the most serious nature down to a common Pimple. It eradicates Pimples from the face, and beautifies the skin. There is no preparation before the public that can equal this Salve in prompt and energetic action for the speedy cure of external diseases, as those who have tried its virtues testify. Soldiers, Sailors, and Fishermen, will find this Salve their best friend.

It has none of the irritating, heating properties of other remedies, but cools, cleanses, and heals the most serious Sores and Wounds. Every family, and especially those containing children, should keep a box on hand in case of accident, for it will save them much trouble, suffering, and money. All it wants is a fair trial to cure old and inveterate Sores.

MANUFACTURED BY
WILLIAM GRACE,
AMESBURY, MASS.

PRICE 25 CENTS PER BOX.

Each box has the above cut and the fac-simile of the proprietor's signature attached to it, which is duly copy righted.

Geo. C. Goodwin & Co., 11 and 12 Marshall street; Weeks & Potter, 170 Washington street, and M. S. Burr & Co., 26 Tremont street, Boston, Wholesale Agents.

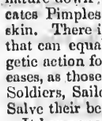
For sale by druggists and at country stores everywhere.

THE CLOTHES WRINGER.

JUST OBTAINED
RHOADES' CELEBRATED
NATIONAL CLOTHES WRINGER
THE VERY BEST YET INVENTED,
AND REALLY A LABOR SAVING MACHINE.
CALL AND EXAMINE.

For Sale by E. SOUTHWICK,
At the EQUITY GROCERY STORE,
South Danvers, Jan 21, 1863. 3m

To Let on Essex St., Salem



The STORE and DWELLING HOUSE connected therewith, No. 250 Essex St. The store is neatly fitted up, is one of the best stands in the city, and admirably adapted for Millinery, Fancy, Dry Goods, or any light business.

The Dwelling part contains nine finished rooms, and is supplied with water, gas, etc., all in good order and very convenient.

To a satisfactory tenant, the above will be let on reasonable terms. Apply at J. PERLEY'S Shoe Store, next door west. feb 25

THE PIANO FORTE

THAT have attracted so much attention of late, and are so much admired on account of their SPLENDID FULL, RICH, MELLOW TONE, and GRAND FRENCH ACTION, are for sale only at the Office of the Agent,

218 Essex Street, Salem, Mass,

where reference may be had to many who have purchased. Other Piano Fortes also, are for sale, varying in price from $180 upwards. Please call.

Mch 11 6m S. MACKINTIRE, Agent.

Choice Spring Pigs for Sale.

THE subscriber offers for sale nice PIGS of Mack... Prince Albert and Chester County breeds, which the Mackie took the First Premium at the ... Cattle Show. Prices reasonable.

BYRON GOODALE,
Near Tapley's Brook,
South Danvers, April 22, 1863. tf

THE SOUTH DANVERS WIZARD

Is published every WEDNESDAY, at Allen's Building, South Danvers Square, by

CHARLES D. HOWARD, Proprietor.
FITCH POOLE, Editor.

TERMS—Two Dollars a year.

ADVERTISEMENTS inserted at reasonable rates.

How to Make $5.00 a Day,

When all other Efforts have Failed.

HOOD & CO., 186 Broadway, New York, have ust published ONE HUNDRED VALUABLE SECRETS, possessing them, any one, male or female, can easily make $5 a day, without capital, in any city or village. Every one should possess these secrets, for they are worth $500 to any single or married person. Some of these Secrets have been sold for $20 each. One alone cost us $250 for the right to publish it. When you once own them you will never part with them for money. Several persons are now making $120 per month by these Secrets alone. By them any person may make money easily and rapidly. We send one Book of Secrets for 25 cents, two copies, 40 cents, club of three for 50 cts., club of four 65 cts. club of five 75 cts., club of eight copies, $1 Send Government money.

New York, Feb 18, 1863. *3m

TO CONSUMPTIVES.

THE ADVERTISER HAVING BEEN RESTORED to health in a few weeks, by a very simple remedy, after having snffered several years with a severe lung affection, and that dread disease, Consumption—is anxious to make known to his fellow-snfferers the means of cure.

To all who desire it, he will send a copy of the prescription used (free of charge,) with the directions for preparing and using the same, which they will find a SURE CURE for CONSUMPTION, ASTHMA, BRONCHITIS, &c. The only object of the advertiser in sending the Prescription is to benefit the afflicted, and spread information which he conceives to be invaluable, and he hopes every sufferer will try his remedy as it will cost them nothing, and may prove a blessing.

Rev. EDWARD A. WILSON, Williamsburgh,
March, 18, 3m Kings County, New York.

New Jersey Lands for Sale,

— ALSO —

GARDEN OR FRUIT FARMS,

Suitable for Grapes, Peaches, Pears, Raspberries, Strawberries, Blackberries, Currants, &c., of 1, 2½, 5, 10 or 20 acres each, at the following prices for the present, viz: 20 acres for $200, 10 acres for $110, 5 acres for $60, 2½ acres for $40, 1 acre for $20. Payable by one dollar a week.

Also, good Cranberry lands, and village lots in CHETWOOD 25 by 100 feet, at $10 each, payable by one dollar a week. The above land and farms are situated at Chetwood, Washington Township, Burlington, New Jersey. For further information, apply with a P. O. Stamp, for a circular, to

B. FRANKLIN CLARK,
feb 18, 1863 No. 90 Cedar St, New York, N. Y.

EDITOR OF WIZARD—Dear Sir: With your permission I wish to say to the readers of your paper that I will send by return mail to all who wish it, (free) a Recipe, with full directions for making and using a simple Vegetable Balm, that will effectually remove, in 10 days, Pimples, Blotches, Tan, Freckles and all Impurities of the Skin, leaving the same soft, clear, smooth and beautiful.

I will also mail free to those having Bald Heads or Bare Faces, simple directions and information that will enable them to start a full growth of Luxurient Hair, Whiskers, or a Moustache, in less than 30 days. All applications answered by return mail without charge. Respectfully yours,

THOS. F. CHAPMAN, Chemist,
March 18 2m No. 831 Broadway, New York.

SPEED, COMFORT AND SAFETY!

FOR NEW YORK.

Norwich Steamboat Train.

The only Boats Landing at Jersey City.

CABIN Passage, $4.00; Deck Passage, $3.00. The new and elegant sixteen wheel cars of the steamboat express train leave the Boston & Worcester Railroad Station, Albany Street., at 5½ P. M., daily, connecting with the new steamers, (built expressly for this line,) CITY OF BOSTON. Capt. WILCOX, Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays; CITY OF NEW YORK, Capt. JEWETT, Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays, which (before proceeding to their Pier, No. 39 North River,) will touch at the wharf of the New Jersey Railroad at Jersey City, (Sundays excepted) thus enabling Southern Passengers to make sure connections with the First Southern Train, and at the same time avoid the great annoyance of the Ferry and Hack transportation in the crowded streets of New York. This insures ample time for Breakfast before the trains leave. Conductors D. F. WALLER and W. F. BARTON accompany the passengers through.

Tickets, Berths and Staterooms secured at the Railroad Station, and at the Office of the line, 79 Washington Street, Boston.

Through tickets to Philadelphia, Baltimore and Washington can he had at 79 Washington Street, Boston.

WM. DICKEY, Jr., Agent.
Boston, January 7, 1863.

NEW BOOKS,

AT G. M. WHIPPLE & A. A. SMITH'S,

MRS Austin's Novels—Mansfield Park;

Leaves from the Diary of an Army Surgeon, or incidents of Field, Camp and Hospital Life, by Thos H Ellis, M D;

Letters from Italy and Switzerland by Felix Mendelssohn Rartholdy;

History of the Reformation in Europe in the time of Calvin, J H M D'Aubigne, D D;

The Conscript, a tale of War, by Alex'r Dumas;

Moses right, and Bishop Colenso wrong; being Popular Lectures on the Pentateuch, by Rev. John Cumming, D D;

The Story of the Guard, knapsack edition, 50 cents;

The Gentleman, by George H Calvert;

At odds: by the author of Quits, The Initials;

Church Monthly, and Westminster Review.
may 20 190 Essex street.

D. W. BOWDOIN,
—ARTIST IN—

PHOTOGRAPHIC PICTURES.

Rooms No. 175 Essex st, Salem, (Downing's Block)

Portraits, Miniatures, and Views, by the Ambrotype, Daguerreotype, Photograph and Stereoscope process—finished in India Ink, Oil and Water colors.

☞ Particular attention paid to restoring old Daguerreotypes, and other pictures—and making enlarged copies, highly finished. may

WOODEN WARE.

A FULL assortment of Wooden Ware, such as Tubs, Pails, Boxes, Trays and Bowls, Soap Bowls, Wash Boards, Rolling Pins, Mortars, Clothes Sticks, Clothes Horses, etc,—for sale at S C & E A SIMONDS, 32 Front st.

Crockery Ware.

A FULL assortment of China and Crockery Ware; Wooden Ware; Table Cutlery; Tea Trays; Britannia Ware and Silver Plated Ware, &c—for sale at the General Furnishing Store for Housekeepers, No. 32 Front street.
ap 22 S C & E A SIMONDS.

CARD PHOTOGRAPHS.

RAPHAEL'S Hours, Liberty, On the Beach, Evening, Prince and Princess, etc—at
may 13 G M WHIPPLE & A A SMITH'S

FLOWER AND GARDEN SEEDS,

WARRANTED fresh and correctly put up
G M WHIPPLE & A A SMITH.

HILTON'S INSOLUBLE CEMENT,

FOR mending Crockery, Glass, Wood, Leather, etc.—25 cents a bottle.
G M WHIPPLE & A A SMITH.

WARRANTED GOLD PENS.

PATENT POINTS—can be used upon the coarsest paper, or upon most any rough surface without the least detriment. Call and see them, at
G M WHIPPLE & A A SMITH'S.

GREENS.

HAMPDEN Green—Chrome Green—Verdigris and Imperial Green—for sale by ap 29 S C & E A SIMONDS, 32 Front st.

Cards.

WILLIAM C. COATE,
Attorney and Counsellor at Law,
251 Essex St., Salem.
Salem, August 6, 1862. tf

THOMAS M. STIMPSON,
Attorney and Counsellor at Law,
194 ESSEX STREET, SALEM.
Residence Lowell street, South Danvers.

B. C. PERKINS,
Attorney and Counsellor at Law,
South Danvers—Office in Allen's Building.

JOHN W. PROCTOR,
Counsellor at Law,
Office near the Monument.

A. A. PUTNAM,
Attorney and Counsellor at Law,
CORNER MAPLE AND ELM ST.,
DANVERS.

ALFRED A. ABBOTT,
Attorney and Counsellor,
Office, No. 24 Washington Street, Salem;
House, Main St., So. Danvers.

IVES & PEABODY,
Attorneys and Counsellors at Law,
Have removed their Office to
Rooms formerly occupied by Hon. Otis P. Lord,
NO. 27 WASHINGTON STREET, SALEM,
STEPHEN B. IVES, jr. JOHN. B. PEABODY

SIDNEY C. BANCROFT,
Attorney and Counsellor at Law,
27 Washington Street, Salem.

H. O. WILEY,
Attorney and Counsellor at Law,
Office, Allen's Building, So. Danvers.

Claims against the Government for Bounty Back Pay, and Pensions, promptly attended to

A. S. CRAWFORD
Dentist,
No. 4 MAIN STREET, SO. DANVERS SQUARE
Mechanical Dentistry Neatly Executed.
Teeth Extracted by Electricity without Extra Charge

W. L. BOWDOIN,
SURGEON DENTIST,
No, 208 Essex Street, Salem, (Opposite the Market
Residence—No. 57 Washington street.
jan 11—1y

F. POOLE
INSURANCE AGENT,
Allen's Building (up stairs),
Deeds drawn, and other common forms.

NEWMAN & SYMONDS,
DEALERS IN
Family Groceries, Flour & Grain,
HARD WARE AND CROCKERY,
Ready Made Clothing, Gents' Furnishing Goods, Hats, Caps, Boots, Shoes, &c.,
South Danvers Square, opp. Congregational Church
SAM'L NEWMAN. NATH'L SYMONDS.

S. C. & E. A. SIMONDS,
DEALERS IN
Crockery, China and Hardware; Paper Hangings; Solar and Entry Lamps; Paints, Oil, and Window Glass.
No. 32 Front street, Lawrence Place,
feb13 SALEM, MASS.

HENRY L. WHIDDEN,
HOUSE AND SIGN PAINTER,
Glazier and Paperer,
Central Street, South Danvers.
All orders promptly and faithfully executed.
jan2-1y

E. S. FLINT,
DEALER IN
West India Goods, Country Produce,
No. 2 Main Street, South Danvers.

JESSE SMITH
No. 262 Essex Street, Salem,
Importer and Dealer in
Gold and Silver Watches,
MARINE CHRONOMETERS,
Aueroid Barometers, Spy Glasses, &c.

WILLIAM BLANEY,
HOUSE & SIGN PAINTER
Grainer, Glazier and Paper Hanger.
164 MAIN STREET, Corner of Grove.
WINDOWS and BLINDS cheap for cash.
mch6-tf

JOHN MOULTON,
LIVERY STABLE,
Central Street, South Danvers.
Mr. M. will endeavor to keep up the good reputation of his stable, by still keeping good Horses and Carriages. jan 7, 1863.

REGULATIONS OF THE BOARD OF HEALTH

— OF THE —

TOWN OF SOUTH DANVERS.

Adopted April 11, 1863.

Ordered, That all dirt, saw-dust, cinders, shavings, hair, shreds, manure, oyster and lobster shells, waste water, or any animal or vegetable substance, rubbish, or filth of any kind, in any house, ware-house, cellar, yard, or other place, which the Board of Health shall deem it necessary for the health of the town to be removed, shall be carried away therefrom, by and at the expense of the owner or occupant of such house, or other place where the same shall be found, and shall be removed to such place as shall be directed, within four hours after notice in writing to that effect, given by the Board of Health.

Ordered, That all slaughter-houses or places where animals are slaughtered, shall be so cleansed by removing the offal, and all decaying animal matter, as to be free from all offensive odors to residents in the vicinity, and to those individuals travelling by any such place where animals are slaughtered.

Ordered, That no obstructions, such as posts, bushes, or other collectors of decaying animal or vegetable matters, shall be placed in any of the brooks of the town, or in Wallis Pond,—and that no privy be erected or continued over said waters, or so situated on the margin thereof that the filth shall pass into them, and that no animal or vegetable matters, or whatever will pollute the waters, be thrown or allowed to flow in the same, excepting by special permit of the Board of Health.

Ordered, That no wagon, cart or vehicle, in which night soil, hides or other matter, in a condition to emit fetid and offensive effluvia are being conveyed through any of the streets, highways, or within forty rods of any dwelling house, school house, or other public building in this town, shall be permitted to stand more than five minutes, within forty rods of the same place, except it be at the place or places where the load is received or deposited.

D. C. PERKINS,
GEO. OSBORNE,
JOSEPH POOR,
BENJA. HUNTINGTON,
M. A. SHACKLEY,
ALERSON GALEUCIA,
} Board of Health.

South Danvers, April 15, 1863. 6w

A FINE assortment of Paper Shades for Kerosene Lamps, just opened at
S C & E A SIMONDS, 32 Front st., Salem.

100,000 BARRELS OF THE LODI MANUFACTURING COMPANY'S

POUDRETTE,

111 COMMERCIAL ST., BOSTON, MASS.

This Company, with a capital of $150,000, the most extensive works of the kind in the world, and an experience in manufacturing of over 23 years, with a reputation long established, having also the exclusive control of all the night soil of the great city of New York, are prepared to furnish an article, which is, without doubt, the CHEAPEST AND VERY BEST fertilizer in market. It greatly increases the yield, and ripens the crop from two to three weeks earlier, at an expense of from three to four dollars per acre, with little or no labor. Also, FIFTY TONS of BONE TAFEU, being a mixture of bone and night soil ground fine, at $45 per ton—a superior article for grain, &c. A pamphlet containing all necessary information may be had free by addressing a letter to the LODI MANUFACTURING CO., No. 111 Commercial Street, Boston, Mass.

Price of POUDRETTE, $1.65 per barrell. Seven barrells and over delivered free of charge.

H. & H. G. HUBON,

WASHINGTON STREET, SALEM
Manufacturers of
Rose Wood, Mahogany, Black Walnut and Stained Wood

COFFINS and CASKETS.

MAKING this our exclusive business, we are ready at all times and at the shortest notice to furnish Grave Clothes of various styles, as well as Coffins and Caskets of the finest finish. Personal attention given, and delivered without extra charge to any of the neighboring towns. All orders by express or otherwise will receive prompt attention.

Black Walnut and White Wood Boards, Plank and Joists for sale.

dec 14—tf

REMOVAL!

JOHN J. ASHBY,

WOULD inform his friends and the public generally, that he has removed to the store

No. 145 Essex Street,

formerly occupied by JOHN BARLOW, where he has opened a good assortment of

BOOTS, SHOES & RUBBERS,

and will MANUFACTURE to order, all kinds of Ladies', Misses' and Children's Boots and Shoes. Also, Snow Boots, at the lowest Cash Prices.

Repairing of all kinds done on the most reasonable terms. JOHN J. ASHBY,
Successor to John Barlow.
Salem, September 17, 1862.

GAYLE & CO.,

GENERAL COMMISSION MERCHANTS,
DEALERS IN
Flour, Grain and Produce,
Manufacturers' Agents for the sale of
Concentrated Leaven, Soda and Pearlash Saleratus, and Bi Carb. Soda.
PHILLIPS WHARF, - - - - Salem.

T. HARDY, JR.,
—Dealer in—
DOORS, SASHES, BLINDS,
Glazed Sash, Painted Blinds,
FENCE PALES, STAIR BALUSTERS, FRAMING PINS, &c.,
No. 26 FRONT STREET,
Salem, January 14, 1863—6m

Salem and Danvers Aqueduct Co'y.

ALL persons using the water of the Salem and South Danvers Aqueduct are hereby notified that the water rents, for the six months ending May 1, 1863, are now due, and that they are required to pay the same, at the office of the Company, No 2 Sewall street, on the 1st day of May next. Should the bills remain unpaid for thirty days, the water will be stopped, in conformity to the regulations of the Company.

Office hours, from 9 to 1 o'clock, and from 2 to 5.

Per order of the Directors,
apr 1 WM. JELLY, Collector.

HEYLINGBERG'S
Hair Dressing Saloon,
24 MAIN ST., SOUTH DANVERS.

TARIFF OF PRICES:

Shaving,	6 cts.
Hair Cutting,	12 cts.
Champooing,	15 cts.
Champooing and Hair Cutting,	25 cts.

No more new Quarterly Customers taken.
In consequence of the scarcity of Change, 18 checks will be sold for one dollar.
South Danvers, Dec 17, 1862.

THOMAS DAVIS,
ADVERTISING AGENT
For the principal New England Newspapers, remains at the old stand, No. 23 Cornhill, Boston, where you will find him still loyal to the Constitution, the Laws, and Advertising.
Boston, Jan 29, 1862. tf

WALKING MADE EASY.

DR. P. KENISON,
CHIROPODIST,
215 Washington St., Boston,
Cures Hard and Soft Corns, Bunions, Club Nails, Nails penetrating the Flesh, Warts, &c., in a manner that will satisfy the most incredulous.

NEW YORK WHITE LEAD.

2500 L New York White Lead;
Also, Fores River White Lead—for sale by
mch 4 S C & E A SIMONDS.

NEW SPRING SHAWLS,

IN Stripe, Plaid and Plain, of rich styles—just received and for sale by mch 4 ANN R. BRAY, 76 Federal st.

WIRE GOODS.

WIRE Rat Traps; Broilers; Steamers; Sleves etc., just received at
S C & E A SIMONDS', 32 Front st.

DIARIES--1863-

VN excellent assortment at the lowest prices, for sale by G M WHIPPLE & A A SMITH.

NEW NEEDLE THREADER.

DOUBLE-ENDED, Excelsior Sewing Needle Threador and Worsted Lhroader combined—of great utility for near sighted or nervous people in threading needles, numbering from 4 to 12, and also Darning Needles.
Call and see them, at
mch 4 G M WHIPPLE & A A SMITH'S.

ACCOUNT BOOKS,

MANUFACTURED under our own supervision, of superior paper and strong binding—a good assortment always on hand.

Every variety of Blank Books made with any style of ruling and binding, of the best paper and warranted to suit.
G M WHIPPLE & A A SMITH.

SUMMER LANDSCAPES,

AND "WINTER SCENES," for Albums—12 different Views for 62 cents—beautifully colored.
G M WHIPPLE & A A SMITH'S

FOLIO PHOTOGRAPH ALBUMS.

PREFERRED by many persons to any other style—manufactured by
ap 29 G M WHIPPLE & A A SMITH.

DIAMONDS.

GLAZIER'S Diamonds—for sale by
S C & E A SIMONDS, 32 Front st.

FAMILY BIBLES,

FOR sale in great variety and at low prices, at G M WHIPPLE & A A SMITH.

W. E. P. SMYTH,

Attorney and Counsellor at Law,
Proctor in Admiralty, and Commissioner of Deeds for the several States.
Frazier's Building, over the Post Office,
LYNN, MASS.

Having peculiar means for prosecuting, with accuracy and dispatch, all claims against Government, especially those for Bounty, Back Pay and Pensions, I have made this a specialty. Several months' residence in Washington enabled me to become thoroughly conversant with the routine of business in all the Departments, through which claims, of whatever nature, are passed, and also familiar with the practice in the U. S. Court of Claims; in addition to which I have a partner there resident, and a former partner in the Treasury Department, which advantages give me unexcelled facilities for the successful prosecution of business in any way connected with Government.

Important to Soldiers, Marines and their Heirs.

Persons enlisted in the U. S. Service, Land or Naval, since March 1, 1861, if disabled in the service, are entitled to Pension; Relatives of Persons deceased in the service are entitled to Bounty and Pension; in the following order:

1st. The Widow. 4th. The Mother.
2d. The Children. 5th The Brothers and Sisters collectively.
3d. The Father.

LETTERS OF ADMINISTRATION need not be taken out, in ordinary cases, to enable heirs of persons deceased in the service to obtain Pensions and Bounty.

When a discharge is granted for disability, in no case should the Oath of Identity on the back of the Discharge be filled up. The safest course is, to carry all papers at once to an Attorney, without tampering with them. All those who have claims, should present them without delay, as soon, the pressure will be so great upon the Auditor's Office, by reason of numerous applications, that applicants will be subjected to vexatious delay in getting their claims audited.

NO CHARGE MADE UNTIL CLAIMS ARE PAID.

Claims left at the Post Office, South Danvers, will be promptly forwarded.

Lynn, Aug 27, 1862—1v

CHARLES S. BUFFUM,

FURNISHING UNDERTAKER,
Central Street, South Danvers,

HAVING provided himself with a HEARSE, is prepared to attend Funerals in any of the neighboring towns, with one or a pair of Horses.

He keeps as good an assortment of

COFFINS AND CASKETS,

as can be found at any establishment, and at the lowest prices.

He will also attend to Laying Out, etc.

All orders from the neighboring towns met with prompt attention. jan 14

SLATING. SLATING.

GEORGE FOWLER & COMPA'Y,

NO. 2 ST. PETER COURT., SALEM, respectfully inform their friends and the citizens of this and neighboring towns and cities that they are prepared to execute all orders for Slating, promptly and faithfully.

Roofs covered with any description of Slates, or repaired at short notice.

All work undertaken will be warranted.
Address—Box 366, Salem Post Office.
Salem, January 28—1863. tf

PATTERSON S

LEATHER HANDLING MACHINE

THE undersigned are agents for the above machine. It can be seen in operation at Pinder & Brown's Tannery.

may 7—3m CLARK & GIDDINGS.

MESSRS. CLARK & GIDDINGS,

Wallis Street, South Danvers,
Are Agents for
GEORGE W. FISKE & CO.'S
PATENT EAVE TROUGHS
CUTTERS, CONDUCTORS AND
PIPE FOR DRAINS.
South Danvers, May 22, 1861.

EDWARD C. WEBSTER,
ONE PRICE
HAT, CAP & FUR STORE,
231 ESSEX, and 34 WASHINGTON ST

R. C. MANNING & CO.,
Successors to JOHN DIKE & CO.,
DEALERS IN
COAL, WOOD, BARK, HAY, &c,
183 DERBY STREET,
SALEM, MASS.
N. C. ROBBINS, R. C. MANNING.
oct17

FRANKLIN COAL.

JUST landed, a cargo of FRANKLIN COAL—the best in the world for domestic use.
POTTER, BACHELDER & CO.,
Successors to M. Black, Jr.
Danversport, May 6, 1861. tf

E. N. PRICE,
Manufacturer and Dealer in
HARNESSES,
SADDLES, BRIDLES,
AND WHIPS.
— ALSO —
Trunks, Valises and Traveling Bags.
All orders for Manufacturing and Repairing executed with promptness, and in the best manner.
237 Essex Street, Salem, Mass.
mch13-tf

THOMAS PINNOCK,
SLATER,
SALEM, MASS.

Orders may be left at his Yard, No. 25 Peabody St., or at his house No. 6 Hancock street, South Salem.

Roofs covered with any kind of Slates, according to order. All work warranted.
Salem, May 7, 1862. tf

CURRIER & MILLETT,
Dealers in

Furniture, Chairs,
MATTRESSES, FEATHERS, &c
259 & 261 ESSEX ST.
Salem, dec 14—1y

AARON T. LOWE,
DEALER IN
BOOTS, SHOES AND RUBBERS,
76 BOSTON STREET, 76.
aug 6 SALEM. tf

NOTICE.

THE subscriber being about to leave town for a few months, would take this opportunity to inform his customers and friends that his shop on Pleasant Street will be kept open during his absence by Mr. JOHN P. FRIEND, who will faithfully attend to any orders.
JAMES PERKINS.
South Danvers, Sept. 3, 1862.

ORGANDIE MUSLINS.

WE shall open new Spring styles of Organdie Muslins to-day.

Ladies will do well to buy now, as prices are advancing daily. ANN R. BRAY,
mch 4 76 Federal street.

DIARIES FOR
1863. Every variety and style—all sizes—for sale at
G M WHIPPLE & A A SMITH'S,
nov 26 Sign of the Five Golden Books,

MUNROE'S

(LATE REED'S)
SOUTH DANVERS & BOSTON
RAILROAD EXPRESS.

Express leaves South Danvers at		10 1-2 a. m.
Freight " "	at	5 p. m.
Express leaves Boston at		3 1-2 p. m.
Freight " "	at	5 p. m.

OFFICE at FREIGHT DEPOT, South Danvers Square.
Order Box. W. M. Jacobs' store, Main street.
EXPRESS OFFICE, in Boston, 5 Congress Square; Freight Office, 1 Fulton st.
Also an Order Box at 86 Pearl street.
Particular attention paid to removing Furniture, collecting Bills, Notes, Drafts, &c.

ARMY EXPRESS.

Packages received and sent forward daily for Baltimore, Fortress Monroe, Annapolis, Washington, Alexandria, and any other point where the different regiments are stationed:

WM. C. MUNROE,
South Danvers, may 13—tf

TAKE NOTICE.

THAT Dr. Ham's Dyspepsia Romedy has been before the public for the past ten years. And in that time the people who have used it will vouch for the benefit they have derived from it. The character of his article and its reputation can also be obtained from the dealers who sell it, or have sold it for any length of time, to both of those, Dr Ham refers and is willing to stand the test. And also challenges any new compound to produce the same results, let alone delicacy of flavor, of his INVIGORATING SPIRIT, which for ITS EFFECTS UPON THE BILE, A TORPED LIVER, LOW SPIRITS, or when the blood is affected as seen by SKIN DISEASES or its ACTION UPON THE KIDNEYS, in fact for any person who is run down by the wear and care of this world will find relief in this old and well tried remedy.

Astonishing.

TO Dr. Ham, who has modestly put before the public his DYSPEPSIA REMEDY for ten years past, to look back and see the number of tremendous articles within that time, that have sprang up like a rocket, and gone down like the stick which guides it in its glorious ascent. Some come out and claim to toll the public they use unknown Barks from South America, with any quantity of rum from the West Indias, &c. Dr Ham takes this opportunity to refer to the MEDICAL FACULTY here and everywhere that his article is in use, as to its qualifications, and challenges any one to produce a person, male or female, who has used it as directed, that will not speak favorable of it for DISORGANIZED STOMACH, Dyspepsia, loss of appetite, want of action of the Kidneys, as well as many other complaints that humanity are afflicted with.

To Ladies.

DR. HAM'S Dyspepsia Remedy is just the thing you require to remove the langour caused by weakness and debility; it invigorates the system, causes the blood to take new life in its varied course through the system, in fact it gives tone to the system and will relieve and remove the thousand irregularities that from various csuses you are afflicted with. For Dyspepsia it is a never failing remedy, it has stood the test of years, and we have yet to hear of its failing to give relief to the afflicted thousands who have received health and happiness by its use.

To Gentlemen.

DR. HAM knows that you do not always pay much attention to the many different articles put before you in the paper, but we would refer you to our agents who you will find are the respectable merchants and dealers, in regard to the Invigorating Spirit; some of them have sold it for years, and know well the reputation it has amongst those who have used it in assisting nature to eradicate diseases. It will renovate the system, as it acts directly on the blood, removing all obstructions to the general health, will cure Liver Complaints, Dyspepsia, Nervous Affections, Sour Stomach, Headache, Weakness, Loss of Appetite, as well as obstruction in the Kidney, Bladder or Urinary Organs. Try it. We will guarantee you will he satisfied with the result.

General Depot, 62 Liberty Street, New York. Sold by Weeks & Potter, 154 Washington Street, M. S. Burr & Co, 26 Tremont Street, G. C. Goodwin & Co., 11 Marshall Street, Boston; and in South Danvers by George E. Meacom, T. A. Sweetser, D. P. Grosvenor, Jr., Main Street; and by Druggists everywhere.
Feb 29, 1863 1y

NEW ENGLAND
FERTILIZER DEPOT,
No. 111 Commercial St., Boston.

TO FARMERS AND TRADERS!

WE desire to call your attention to our stock of FERTILIZERS, having the largest supply and full assortment of reliable brands ever offered in this market. Our stock embraces

Coe's, Hoyt's, Rhodes } SUPER-PHOSPHATE LIME.
No. 1 PERUVIANGUANO.
GROUND BONE, [coarse and fine.]
BONE MEAL. LAND PLASTER.
FISH GUANO. BONE TAFEU.
LIME, CEMENT, &c., &c.

We are also Sole Agents for the
LODI MANUFACTURING CO.'S
POUDRETTE.

Get our terms before purchasing elsewhere. We sell at manufacturers' prices. Samples can be seen of all of the above; also a pamplet, with a Farmer's Almanac for 1863, may be had free on application by mail or otherwise.

J. M. & P. RICHARDS,
Sales Office 111 Commercial St., Boston, Mass.
apr 1—3m

CHEAP FIRE-WOOD.

THE subscriber has on hand 30,000 bushels of

Patent Granular Fuel,

which he will deliver, by wholesale, in lots to suit purchasers, anywhere in this town, Salem, Lynn, Swampscott, or Nahant. Orders sent by mail (or by express,) or left in Salem, at the office, 27 Washington street (3d story), or 17 Briggs st., will receive prompt attention.

List of Prices.

25	Bushels, delivered,		2 25
50	do	do	4 00
100	do	do	7 50

Orders left at the Union Store, Newman & Symonds, and the Omnibus Office.

BYRON GOODELL.
South Danvers, june 18.

E. S. FLINT,
Manufacturer and Dealer in
INNER SOLES,
AND SHOE STIFFENINGS OF ALL KINDS,
2 MAIN STREET, SOUTH DANVERS.

E. R. PERKINS,
PHOTOGRAPHIC ARTIST
241 Essex Street, Salem.
Patent Ambrotypes, Stereoscopes,
Photographs, Sphercotypes, Melainotypes, and patent leather Pictures, of varous sizes, taken with all the improvements of the art. Portraits, Miniatures, Engravings, &c., accurately copied. Views taken when desired. jan 11

REMOVAL!
AUGUSTUS HAMMOND,
Manufacturer and Repairer of
BOOTS AND SHOES,
HAS removed from his old place of business to the Railroad Ground, opposite the Old South Church, where he would be happy to continue to receive favors from his friends and patrons. may 21

CAMELS HAIR GOODS.

OWING to the small stock of Camels Hair goods in the market, prices have very much advanced. We shall give our customers the advantage of buying at the old prices, as we have a good assortment on hand.
ANN R. BRAY,
mch 4 76 Federal street.

JUVENILE BOOKS,

A VERY large assortment for sale by
G M WHIPPLE & A A SMITH.

SOUTH DANVERS POST OFFICE.

GENERAL MAIL ARRANGEMENT.

MAILS CLOSE
At 10 3-4 A. M., and 4 3-4 P. M.
MAILS DUE
At 9 1-2 A. M., and 3 P. M.

Post Office open (Sundays excepted) from 7 o'clock, A. M., till 8 P. M. Saturdays open till 8 1-2 P. M.

F. POOLE, P. M.
South Danvers, Oct. 1, 1862.

Poor Richard's Eye and Ear Water.

Prof. M. G. BROWN.

SCIENTIFIC ARTICLE ON THE EYE AND EAR.

Reader, allow me to call your attention to a fact which hitherto you have not been acquainted with, namely, that there is not a sound eye in the land. The eyes are the only members of the body totally neglected; there is nothing done for the eye; its wants are neither studied or regarded. This untiring servant is the first in action at birth, and the last at death, yet it seems to pass even common observation.

Notwithstanding all the ignorance and neglect of the eye, it is unquestionably true that every department of the human system is dependent on it for life and health.

The Divine Machinator has placed 8000 tubes and glands around the eyes, through which the saltish fountain (same as supplies the tear) is designed to pass as dew, finding its way to every crevice and nook in the flesh, whose chief tendency is to mucus. This fountain is to the body what dew is to the plants. The flesh can only be kept free from mucus (which is the precursor of disease) through the tubes and glands around the eyes being keep open, allowing the teary, saltish fountain to pass freely forward. If the laws of mind and body are disregarded or insulted, these faithful sentinels shut up like a sensitive plant, thus refusing to pass this life, giving dew to the parched flesh, whereby the entire machinery of the human body can alone find its natural moisture. When this fountain is cut off, the system is open to every kind of disease, which first begins with small streaks of blood-shot at the bottom of the ball of the eye; these are streaks of death if not removed. Examine your eyes and you will find these streaks moving over the white of the eye towards the pupil; generally the eye gets scumy and glassy; the ball turns a green or yellowish color, this is a sure indication of the following diseases (which are solely caused by the moisture being cut off from the system): Nervousness, headache, earache, deafness, loss of hair, neuralgia, rheumatism, blotches on the face and skin, diptheria, sore throat, bronchitis, catarrah, soreness of the chest, decay of the lungs, deprivation of the fluids; these, with all other diseases, are caused as above described. One stoppage leads to another, until disease destroys the system.

To secure moisture for a patient is the only hope of the physician. Benjamin Franklin has immortalized himself by such sayings as, an ounce of prevention is better than a pound of cure.

Reader, if you desire to be saved from the kindred diseases which make life a burden, then create an appetite in your eyes by giving them a drink of Poor Richard every morning immediately after you wash, and just before retiring at night. Do not say—Let well enough alone; consider the lilies of the field, they receive the life giving dew while they are in perfect health—go thou and do likewise.

Please read the following letter from the Rev. P. S. Henson, pastor of the Broad Street Baptist Church:

Philadelphia, Oct. 17, 1862.

From injuries received in my right eye when a boy, a chronic inflammation had been produced, in consequence of which I suffered constant martyrdom. Every moment of my waking life was embittered, and I was frequently unable to sleep at night.

A variety of remedies had been resorted to without success, and I entertained the purpose, as a last resort, of having the ball taken out of its sockett in the hope of finding thus relief.

In the meanwhile, most providentially I noticed one day in a shop window a bottle of Poor Richard's Eye Water. I had never heard of it before, but determined to try it—and did with the most delightful results. In a very few days the painful irritation was removed—I could bear the strongest light, and went forth as it were to the enjoyment of a new life. I now keep a bottle of it always in the house, and if my eye seems at all disposed to anoy me, I give it a dose, and that is an end of it. I take occasion to say further, that my wife used to suffer severely at times from protracted pain in and over her eyes, and she has found Poor Richard's Eye Water a sovereign specific in her case, giving her almost instant relief.

Grateful to God for the benefit I have personally received, I cannot but recommend the preparation most cordially to all who have been sufferers like myself.

P. S. HENSON,
Pastor of the Broad Street Baptist Church.
Residence 1430 Poplar St., Philadelphia.

Thousands of certificates could be published, of the most remarkable cures on record. It is a perfect restorer of weak sight and dim vision; it cures Deafness, Catarrh, Sore Throat, prevents Loss of Hair, with all kindred diseases.

Directions.—Bathe with a glass tube, at least the ear (many bathe the eyes with the finger). Ask the druggist for the tube—it costs 6 cents.

Poor Richard's Eye Water sells at 25 cents per bottle.

Sold by George E. Meacom, South Danvers, and Druggists everywhere. Weeks & Potter, wholesale agents, Boston.

MRS. M. G. BROWN,
410 Arch St. Philadelphia, Proprietor.

Are you Insured?

THE subscriber would respectfully call your attention to the fact that he is fully prepared to effect INSURANCE AGAINST FIRE, to any amount, at current rates, on

Dwelling Houses, Barns and their contents, Stores, Stocks of Goods, Furniture, &c. &c., and on buildings in process of erection,

And that he is the authorized Agent for the following responsible Stock and Mutual Companies, viz:

Thames Insurance Co., (Stock,) Norwich, Conn.
Capital—$500,000.
Amos W. Prentice, Pres. Oliver F. Rice, Sec'y
Conway Insurance Company, (Stock) Boston.
Capital and Surplus—$260,000.
James F. Whitney, Pres. David C. Rogers, Sec'y.
City Insurance Company, (Stock) Boston.
Capital—$150,000.
Samuel P. Hayward, Pres. Austin W. Benton, Sec'y.

Also, will effect Insurance on the LIVES OF INDIVIDUALS, for one year, seven years, or for the whole term of life, in the

Massachusetts Mutual Life Ins. Co., Springfield, Mass.
Capital and Assetts—$375,000.
Caleb Rice, Pres. D. B. Bacon, Sec'y.
William Mack, M. D, Medical Examiner.

WM. ARCHER, Jr.,
18 Washington st. and 34 Front st., Salem.
ej b20-1

E. F. BURNHAM,
SOLE AGENT FOR
SARGENT & CO.S'
MAGIC SOAP
For South Danvers & Salem.
OFFICE—Central St., opp. Lowell Depot, at Burnham's Express Office, So. Danvers.
Price $3.50 per 100 Lbs.
Orders sent by mail or otherwise to So. Danvers will be promptly attended to. tf-oct3

WM. C. HENDERSON,
MANUFACTURER OF
PLAIN AND FANCY
PAPER BOXES,
No. 235 ESSEX STREET,
Sign of "Nest of Boxes,"
July 23 SALEM. tf

SUMMER A

LYNN &

OMNIBUS

W. F. E

Line of Omnibuses w
Omnibus Office, No. 6
vers, passing down Ma
Street, to Lynn, daily.
Leave South Danve
and 4 50 P. M.
Leave Lynn (Horse C
A. M., 3 40 and 6 40 P.
Horse Cars leaving S at 8 15 A. M., 1 15 and 5
buses at Lynn, at the passengers to South Da
Sunday
Leave S. Danvers
Leave Lynn at 9.4
Cars leave Scollay's to meet the Omnibuses
8 15 A. M., and 5 15 P. M.

Tickets to Lynn
Through to Bos
Through Tickets to a
the Drivers and Conduc Passengers called for
is given at the office.

EXPRES
Between South Danve
ed to, on reasonable ter
Extra Coaches furnis
South Danvers, 1863.

South Danvers Om

ON and after MO
South Danvers

South Danvers Wizard.

VOL. IV. SOUTH DANVERS, MASS., WEDNESDAY, JUNE 3, 1863. NO. 22.

SOUTH DANVERS WIZARD
ed every WEDNESDAY, at Allen's build Danvers Square. by
CHARLES D. HOWARD.
Two Dollars a year.
ISEMENTS inserted at reasonable rates.

Selected.

WENDELL PHILLIPS.

print the following extracts from h, lately delivered in New York y the above gentleman :—

WILL NEGROES FIGHT?

the slaves fight? Well, if any ks you tell him no. Will they
If any man asks you tell him t if he asks you whether the vill fight, tell him yes. (Ap-
If he asks you whether the ill work, tell him yes, work even iotism without wages, as he has at Fortress Monroe, the United romising him ten dollars a month, the first three dollars for any ntrabands that might join him, the second four dollars for cloth-contraband himself, and the other llars which Sam keeps. (Laugh-Will he fight? Ask Higginson.
in one of his private letters that e carried that first regiment to y's one soldier got seven buck-the back of his neck, and unlike hite volunteers, afraid of the
, he got a comrade to dig them a jack-knife, and went on to t battle. (Laughter.) Another d in the left arm, afraid of the , kept it a secret forty-eight until the swelling and pain were at to be borne, and at last he up sick. A third, injured in the e it in silence for the sake of one more skirmish, and then, cy sent him on picket duty, and d not stand, owned up and went hospital. (Applause.) Do you ose men will fight?
the pleasure the other day of g to Gen. Butler for the first time ife, thanking him for New Or-nd I asked him his experience e negro. Well, said he, when an was on the Peninsula, I felt was very scant of men, and the Corinth might be down upon ny day, and I said to the Govern-end me men if you expect me to lew Orleans; and they answered,
't spare you a man, but you must ew Orleans. I sent back word, will go to Africa. He sent to ers of the old New Orleans Colgiments and said to them, "Will ght for us?" "Willingly," they
ed. "Then give me a regiment."
days they gave him a thousand nd brought him their commissions officers. Said he, "Would you be colonel or major?" "No, e us white men." "Then," said or-general, "give us another regithen another, and, in ninety days, iments, and a battery; and then a mulatto captain, worth half a speaking five languages, welhim to a banquet at his own
f seven courses served on silver, ght such a man had too much in New Orleans to defend it as a
, and offered him a Major's com-
The Captain answered: "No where I fight; I only wish to hat I have, and fight as long as I only my boy may stand in the qual to a white boy when the war
" (Applause.) Well, your New brother went down there, and he was not good enough to as-with. How that regiment was d you know—perhaps not in the th Ward—those Zouaves who dethe mustering out of officers, most of men, before they would
Now I tell you my opinion—a
, and just from the hub—I don't that there was one man in that regiment fit to associate with the
of New Orleans; I don't believe as a man in it, for the man that lown to the second city of the and had it in his heart to refuse nd side by side with its sons to its soil, is not worthy to associate hem. (Cheers.)

ER AND STEVENSON—CONCLUSION.

off Seward, peel off Halleck, peel air, peel off Sumner—yes, Massats Senators as well as others. I ell you why. When the Govern-called on New England for a negro ent, and we went from county to y urging the blacks to enlist, one achusetts colonel dared to say, in ce of the enemy, that he had rather hipped without negroes than conquer at their side, a Massachusetts colonel in that hour of emergency and critical issue. His case within twenty days went before the Senate of the United States, and the very week that his apology was filed in the War Office at Washington, Massachusetts Senators begged their reluctant brothers to make him a Brigadier General. (Shame, shame.) A private, ignorant, uneducated, just mustered in the service, mutinied in the streets of Boston, and Col. Lowell shot him rightfully. (Cheers.) A Massachusetts Colonel mutinied in the face of the enemy, and a Massachusetts Senator made him a Brigadier General. Such Republicanism will never put down the rebellion. (Cheers.) Never until we welcome the negro, the foreigner, all races as a man, and, melted together in a common nationality, hurl them all at despotism, will the North deserve triumph or earn it at the hands of a just God. (Applause.) But the North will triumph. I hear it. Do you remember in that disastrous siege in India, when the Scotch girl raised her head from the pallet of the hospital and said to the sickening hearts of the English: "I hear the bagpipe, the Campbells are coming," and they said: "Jessie, it is delirium." "No, I know it, I heard it far off." And in an hour the bagpipe burst upon their triumphant ears, and the banner of England floated in safety over their heads. So I hear in the dim distance the first notes of the jubilee rising from the aching hearts of the millions. Soon, very soon, you shall hear it at the gates of the citadel, and the Stars and Stripes shall guarantee Liberty from the Lakes to the Gulfs. (Continued applause.)

A REVOLUTIONARY ANECDOTE.

At the battle of Yorktown, while Washington's aids were issuing their orders along the line, a man was discovered a short distance from it who presented rather a gortesque appearance, being dressed in the coarse cloth worn at that time by the poorest class, with an otter cap, the shape of which resembled the steeple of a meeting-house, and a broad leather apron. His equipments, consisting of a small woodchuck's skin, sewed together in the form of a bag, and partly filled with buckshot, an ox horn filled with powder, and an old rusty gun, which measured seven feet eight inches from the muzzle at the end of the breech, and which had probably laid in the smoke ever since the landing of the Pilgrims. One of the aids passing him in the course of his rounds, asked him to what regiment he belonged.

"I belong to no regiment," said the fellow, after discharging his long musket.

A few moments after, the aid rode by again, and seeing the fellow very busy, and sweating with exertion, he again inquired to what regiment he belonged.

"To no regiment," was the answer, at the same time leveling his piece at a redcoat who was preparing to fire, but who dropped dead before he had raised his gun.

"To what company do you belong?"

"To no company."

"To what battallion do you belong?"

"To no battallion."

"Then where the devil do you belong, or who are you fighting for?"

"Dang ye," said the fellow, "I don't belong anywhere—I am fighting on my own hook!"

We wonder if fighting Joe Hooker is a descendant of that man?

HIS LAST WORDS.—It has long been observed by medical writers that death is immediately preceded by insanity. This reminds us of a case which occurred many years ago, in a Philadelphia court, where a pretty young widow was in danger of losing two thirds of her husband's estate; his relations grounded their claim on the alleged insanity of the defunct.—It may be well to premise that the presiding judge was not only convivial but also gallant.

"What were your husband's last words?" inquired the attorney.

The pretty young widow blushed, and replied: "I rather not tell."

"But, indeed, you must, ma'am.—Your claim may be decided by it."

Still the widow declined to tell.

At last a direct appeal from the bench elicited the information.

He said, "Kiss me, Polly, and open that other bottle of champagne."

We do not know whether it was admiration for the deceased husband or the living wife, that inspired the judge at that instant, but he at once cried, with all the enthusiasm of conviction:

"Sensible to the last!" and at once gave a verdict in her favor.

[For the Wizard.]

SHADOWS.

BY TIMOTHY OLDBOY.

Whereso'er I may abide,
Morn and noon, and even tide
O'er my soul dark shadows glide.

Muse as lightly as I may,
When I watch and when I pray,
At the night-fall and by day!

Coming without breath or word,
Flitting o'er me all unheard,
Like the wing of some dark bird!

Shadows strange of coming ill
All my future seem to fill,
And life's present pleasures chill.

They are shadows well I know,
Stretching from the long-ago,
And they bring me nought but woe.

They are shadows, pale and thin,
Yet their long arms fold me in;
They are shadows of my sin.

THE PANTHER'S LEAP.

A WESTERN SCENE.

"Oh, how the mother loves the child she nursed."

It was a fine morning in August, when little Samuel Eaton was about seven years old, that he was making a dam in the brook that ran before his father's door. He was an only and beautiful child, his mother almost idolizing him. There he was, with his trousers tucked up above his knees, working like a beaver, his mother's bold eye gleaming out from beneath his sunburnt hair, and with some of his father's strength tugging at a large stone in the bed of the stream.

"Sammy, you'd better come in, hadn't you?" said Hannah, in a tone half mother and half mate. "No-o-o, I guess not yet," said Samuel.

An acorn came floating on the water; the boy took it up—looked at it—was pleased, and "reckoned in his mind there were more up the gully," and when his mother's back was turned, off he started for the acorns. The gorge of the mountain into which he was about to enter had been formed (the work of centuries) by the attrition of the stream he had just been playing in—and walking on a level that bordered each side of the water, he boldly entered the ravine. An almost perpendicular wall or bank ascended on each side, to the height of a hundred feet, composed of crags or rocks, fritted by decay and storm into fantastic shape and position. A few scattered bushes and trees sought nourishment from the earth that had fallen from the level above; and excepting their assistance and the unseen surface of the rock, this natural parapet seemed inaccessible, but to bird and to beast. About an eighth of a mile from the entrance a cataract closed the gorge, throwing up its white veil of mist in seeming guardianship of the spirit of the waters. The verdant boughs hanging over the bank cast a deep gloom upon the bed below; while so lofty was the distance, they seemed to grow out of the sky, blue patches of which were to be seen peeping between them.

Hannah Eaton soon missed her boy, but as he had often wandered to the fields where his father was at work, she concluded he must be there, and checked coming fears with the hope that he would return at the hour of dinner. When he came, Josiah nor any of his men knew where he was. Then the agitated mother exclaimed, "He's lost! he's lost! and my poor boy will starve and die in the woods!" Gathering courage, she hastily summoned her family around her, and despatched them all but her husband to search in different directions in the neighboring forest. To him she said, "Scour every field you can call your own, and if you can't find him, join me at the gorge."

"He wouldn't go to the gorge, Hannah."

"He would go anywhere." She knew not why, but a presentiment that the boy had followed the course of the stream dwelt strongly on her mind.

"I can't find him, Hannah," said the husband, as he rejoined her not far from the mouth of the gorge.

An eagle flew past the mother as she entered the ravine. She thought to herself, "the dreadful birds are tearing my child to pieces," and frantic, she hastened on, making the walls of the cavern echo back with the screams for her offspring. Her only answer was the eternal thunder of the cataract, raging as if in mockery of her woe, and flinging its cold spray upon her hot and throbbing temples. "Fool that I am, how can he hear me?" She strained her eyes along the dizzy height that peered through the mist, till she could look no longer, and her eyes filled with tears.

Who but a mother can tell the feelings of a mother's heart? Fear fell thick and fast upon the reeling brain of Hannah. "Oh, my boy—my brave boy, will die," and writhing her hands in agony, she sank to her husband's feet.

The pain of "hope deferred" had strained her heart strings to the severest tension, and it seemed as if the rude hand of despair had broken them all.

The terrified husband threw water upon her pale face, and strove by all the arts he knew to win her back to life. At last she opened her languid eyes, stared wildly around and rose trembling to her feet. As she thus stood, like a heart-broken Niobe, "all tears," a fragment of rock came tumbling down the opposite bank. She looked up. A wild scream of joy burst from her lips. She was herself once more, for half way up the ascent stood her own dear boy.

But even while the glad cry was issued from the lips, it turned into a note of horror—"Oh, mercy—mercy."

The crag on which the boy stood projected from the solid rock in such a way as to hang about twelve feet over the bank. Right below one of the edges of this crag, partly concealed among some bushes, crouched a panther.

The bold youth was aware of the proximity of his parents, and the presence of his dangerous enemy, at about the same time. He had rolled down the stone in exultation, to convince his parents of the high station he had attained, and he stood with another in his hand, drawing it back and looking at them, as if to ask whether he should throw it at the terrible animal before him. Till then the mother seemed immoveable in her suspense; but conscious of the danger of her son, if he irritated the beast, she rushed some distance up the rock, and motioned with her hands and head that he should not throw. Yet, with the feeling mind of childhood, and a temper little used to control, he fearlessly threw the fragment with all his might at the ferocious savage. It struck on one of his feet. He gave a sudden growl, lashed his tail with fury, and seemed about to spring.

"Get your rifle, Josiah!" The poor man stirred not. His glazed eye was fixed with a look of death upon the panther, and he appeared paralyzed with fear. His wife leaped from her stand, and placing her hands on her husband's shoulders, looked into his face and cried, "Are you a man, Josiah Eaton? Do you love your child?" He started as if from sleep, and ran with furious haste from the ravine.

Again the mother looked towards her son. He had fallen upon his knees, and was whispering the little prayers she had taught him, not in coward fear, but an indefinite thought came across his mind that he must die. The panther was upon his feet. He stooped to spring. The distracted mother could keep still no longer. She rushed up the ascent with the energy of despair, reckless of the danger, thinking only of her son. The rocks crumbled and slipped beneath her feet, yet she fell not. The sharp rocks cut her flesh, but she heeded it not. On, on she struggled in her agony.

The ferocious creature paused for a moment, when he heard the wretched mother's approach. True to his nature, he sprang at the boy. He barely touched the crag, and fell backward as Hannah ascended the opposite side.

"Ah!" said she, laughing deliriously, "the panther must try it again before he parts us, my boy; but we won't part," and sinking on her knees before him, she fondly folded him to her breast, bathing his young forehead with her tears.

Unalterable in his ferocity, and the manner of gratifying it, the panther again sprang from his former situation. This time he was more successful. His fore foot struck the edge of the crag. "He will kill us, mother, he will kill us!" and the boy nestled closer to his mother's bosom. The animal struggled to bring his body on the crag—his savage features but a step from the mother's face. "Go away! go away!" shrieking, hoarse with horror, "you shan't have my child!"—Closer, still closer he came, his red eyes flashing fury, and thick pantings of his breath coming in her face. At this awful moment she hears the faint report of firearms from the gulph below—the panther's foothold fails, his sharp claw loosens from the rock, and the baffled beast rolled howling down the precipice at the feet of Josiah Eaton.

The sun's last rays glanced brightly on a little group at the mouth of the gorge. They were on their knees—the bleeding hands over the head of her son and the voice of prayer going to the Guardian for all His mercy in thwarting the Panther's Leap.

SQUANDERED LIVES.

BY BAYARD TAYLOR.

The fisherman wades in the surges;
The sailor sails over the sea;
The soldier steps bravely to battle;
The woodman lays axe to the tree.

They are each of the breed of the heroes.
The manhood attempered in strife;
Strong hands that go lightly to labor,
True hearts that take comfort in life.

In each is the seed to replenish
The world with the vigor it needs—
The center of honest affections—
The impulse to generous deeds.

But the sharks drink the blood of the fisher;
The sailor is dropped in the sea;
The soldier lies cold by his cannon;
The woodman is crushed by his tree.

Each prodigal life that is wasted
In manly achievement unseen,
But lengthens the day of the coward,
And strengthens the crafty and mean.

The blood of the noblest is lavished
That the selfish a profit may find;
But God sees the lives that are squandered,
And we to his wisdom are blind.

I AM AS GOOD AS ANYBODY.

Are you indeed? Then we honor you from the depth of our nature, for the world contains unquestionably some very good, very excellent people. There are those whose daily life is a religion, whose hearts are full of the child-like sweetness of reverence and trust. They are prone to forget themselves in their brotherly kindness towards a neighbor. It is a pleasure to be near them, and you, we are glad to learn, are quite as good as they.

No, you don't mean that exactly. You only mean to assert your equality with the loftiest and the proudest. Liberty, equality and fraternity are a condensed summary of your social creed. Very well. Society is known to contain a limited number of accomplished men and women. It boasts a few stars of the first magnitude, as well as myriads of lesser lights, from the luminous points that stud the blue, to the millions that are only perceptible in groups as a lustrous and nebulous haze. There are men and women who exhibit a rare harmony of development—the result of happy accidents of birth and training. There are graceful forms animated by serene and beautiful souls—choice buds of being unfolded by the most judicious culture, and enlarging our conceptions of the possibilities of our race. There are those whose fine instincts are almost unerring—who glide into the right place as by magic, who drop the right word at the fitting moment, and act upon the spur of the moment as we after deliberately wish we had done. In the group where they are leaders in unity and plasure. Differences are reconciled, excellences blended, strong points displayed in an agreeable light, and concessions yielded with alacrity where they are no longer offensively claimed. Social angels are these people—not always through moral superiority, but through a happy equability of temper, and a rare endowment of tact. They help to soften and beautify the asperities of life; they "breathe through the sky of March the airs of May." They are moonlight on the landscape, or fragrance to the flower.

No, this is by no means what you claim. In truth you have never been remarkable for polish and suavity of manner. You despise hypocrisy, and our genuine nature, fairly acted out, is a little harsh and abrupt. You do not always place your undeniable good qualities in the most attractive light, and you often fail to impress people with the benignty of the impulses you really feel. You are not eminent for the traits that win acceptance in society; these are not your boast, and you add to this admission a disclaimer of unusual wealth, beauty and intellectual and physical power. You do not claim to be one of the remarkable men or women of the age, but only to be their equal in the mere fact of humanity. This is the last analysis—it is the sum of your self-assertion. This is all, and it is also much. To be human is to possess inexhaustible capacities for improvement, and one of the most hopeful manifestations is the reverent appreciation of persons better than yourself.

☞ Tennyson says that every sea is full of life. He should have excepted the Dead Sea.

YANKEE COURTSHIP.

Cottage by the hill's side,
Time, nigh on to dark,
Dorothy beside the fire,
Waiting for her spark;
Old man by the chimney,
Reading Boston paper,
Old lady by the table,
Making Sal a cap, or
Some other darned peculiar kind of garment.

Door is open—"Jonathan,
Why, how do you do?"
"Wal, Dorothy, I'm pretty well,
A seein' how it's you."
Old man stops his reading;
Old lady stops her sewing;
Both remark to Jonathan—
"Wal, now, Low it's blowing!
There's goin' to be some tall weather yet, I swow!"

Salutations over,
Jonathan is mum;
Wishes over sundry times
That he was at hum;
Old folks getting sleepy,
'Gin to nod the head;
Dorothy suggests that they
Had better go to bed.
And a very prodigious grin lighted up Jonathan's physiognomy.

Old folks snoring soundly,
Young folks close together,
Jonathan and Dorothy,
Talking about the weather.
Jonathan is thinking
How to pop the question;
But his heart is thumping so,
He can hardly keep his vest on.
And his tongue cleaveth unto the roof of his mouth.

Dorothy looks silly,
Knowing there's something coming;
Looks around at Jonathan—
He feels much like running.
"Dearest Dorothy," he says,
"Suppose that you and I go
Down to Parson Castor's
And get linked into the everlasting bonds of matrimony."

Years have passed away, and Down within the valley,
Far away from city,
Street or dirty alley,
Stands a little cottage,
White as snow in March,
Jonathan and Dorothy
Sitting in the porch,
And half-a-dozen white-headead youngsters around,

CONSEQUENCE OF GAMBLING.

In the year 184—, a number of individuals were arrested for keeping a gaming house on Chestnut street, near Independence Hall, Philadelphia. The counsel for the prosecution was sitting in his office one day, when a young man of genteel exterior and good address entered, and the following dialogue ensued.

"I have been summoned to-morrow as a witness against —— ——, for keeping a gambling house. Unless it is absolutely necessary," said he, as his agitation increased, "I wish, sir, you would not urge my attendance."

"I don't know, said the counsel, "that the conviction will depend upon your testimony, but as you are an important witness, it may be necessary to bring you upon the stand."

"My reasons for asking this favor are urgent," said he; "and the consequence of refusal may be fatal to my prosperity and the happiness of others." He became more agitated, and at the request of a gentleman he continued: "I am to be married to Mr. ——'s daughter, residing on Chestnut street. The preparations are made and the day is fixed. If I am called upon as a witness in this case, I shall criminate myself, and be exposed to the eyes of my friends and the public gaze as a gambler. My character will be lost, my prospects in life blighted, and of course my happiness destroyed."

"You shall not be called, young man," said the counsel, "unless it is absolutely necessary," and with this assurance they separated; not without some painful misgivings on the part of the legal gentleman, that he was above to be accessory to a wrong which might result in the ruin of a confiding yet unsuspecting girl. The trial came on, but conviction was obtained without summoning the young man, and he went on his course of duplicity and crime unexposed. In a few days he was married.

Two years passed, and a young but heart-broken wife appears before a legal tribunal, seeking a divorce. Her counsel was in the greatest degree startled, when the husband came forward, at discovering, confronting the wife, the identical young man who pleaded not to be exposed as a gambler. The interview with the witness instantly occurred to the counsel's mind. The painful incidents of a deserted wife, and the cruelties which had followed his gambling habits, then came up in fearful array before the individual who had saved him from his merited exposure.

The trial proceeded and a gradual succession of acts of injustice, neglect, coldness, alienation, domestic discord and cruelties, on the part of the husband, against a confiding and affectionate young wife were disclosed, which melted the heart of the coldest spectator. His defence was feeble and her cause triumphed. Happily she was liberated from the monster who had wounded her, destroyed her peace, and deprived her of that happiness which beamed upon her so joyously during the morning of her bridal day.

His fate hardly need even be briefly told. He soon lost the esteem of friends, if the gambler has friends, and his credit followed with his reputation. His fashionable establishment on Chestnut street was closed by the sheriff a few weeks after this affair, and more recently he has been arrested for forgery. What a brief but melancholy detail of the fruits reaped from the pursuits of the gamester!

A GREAT MAN.

The author of the Nazarene thus speaks of President Jackson:—

"He was a man! Well I remember the day I waited upon him! He sat there in his arm-chair—I can see him now. We told him of the public distress—the manufacturers ruined—the eagles shrouded in crape, which were carried at the head of 20,000 men into Independence Square. He heard us all. We begged him to leave the deposits where they were, to uphold the great bank of Philadelphia. Still he did not say a word. At last one of our members, more fiery than the rest, intimated that if the bank was crushed a rebellion might follow. Then the old man arose—I can see him yet.

"'Come!' he shouted, in a voice of thunder, as his clenched hand was raised high above his white hair, 'come with bayonets in your hands instead of your petitions—surround the White House with your legions—I am ready for you! With the people at my back whom your gold can neither awe nor buy, I will swing you up around the Capitol—each one of you on a gibbet as high as Haman's!'

"When I think," says the author, "of that one man standing there at Washington, battling against all the powers of bank and panic combined, betrayed by those in whom he trusted, assailed by all that the snake of malice could hiss or the fiend of falsehood howl—when I think of that one man placing his back against the rock, and folding his arms for the blow, while he uttered his vows: 'I will not swerve one inch from the course I have taken'—I must confess that the records of Rome—nay, the proudest days of Cromwell or Napoleon—cannot furnish an instance of a will like that of Andrew Jackson, when he placed life and soul and fame on the hazard of a die for the people's welfare."

OF WOMEN.—I do not hesitate to say that the women give to every nation a moral temperament which shows itself in its politics. A hundred times have I seen weak men show real public virtue because they had by their sides women who supported them not by advice as to particulars, but by fortifying their feelings of duty, and by directing their ambition. More frequently, I must confess, I have observed the domestic influence gradually transforming a man, naturally generous, noble and unselfish, into a cowardly, common-place, place-hunting, self-seeker, thinking of public business only as a means of making himself comfortable, and this simply by contact with a well-conducted woman, a faithful wife, an excellent mother, but from whose mind the grand notion of public duty was entirely absent.—De Tocqueville.

☞ We are in possession of an infallible receipe for making a lady's cheeks red without paint. For their especial benefit we publish it without charge.—Here it is:—Place her at a wash-tub, with her sleeves rolled up, and hands full of dirty clothes. Then let her beau suddenly enter, and her cheeks will be a glowing red in an instant. Snooks says this recipe has never been known to fail. Just try it, ladies, and if it fails, let us know, that we may publish Snooks as unreliable authority.

☞ A man of wit was asked, in the train, "What was his errand in the city?" He replied: "I have been sent to procure an angel to do the cooking."

[In deference to an old and valued correspondent of this paper, we print the following communication, knowing that it does not agree with the opinions of a large majority of our patrons. We believe that Self-Preservation is as much the first law of nations as of individuals, and hence we should not have any objection to seeing the rebellion crushed by any means or measures our commander-in-chief may see fit to use.]

REPUBLICAN GOVERNMENT.

"Who is here so vile that will not love his country?
If any, speak; for him have I offended. * °
"Who is here so rude that would not be a Roman?
If any, speak; for him have I offended. * °
"Who is here so base, that would be a bondman?
If any, speak; for him have I offended."

We design to discuss this great subject to-day, totally independent of partisan influence, or partisan zeal. The will of the people is the legitimate source of power in a Republic. This will must be expressed in order to be genuinely in conformity with the great source of all republican principle, in exact compliance with the laws and the Constitution—made also in strict accordance with this same great and fundamental idea of all Republics—that to the people, and to them only, belong the right of framing as well as administering a Republican form of government.

The Constitution, in conformity to this great idea, is the true source of all power and all rights and principles under our form of government. Men are nothing, officers are nothing, under the glorious form of our government; and the great and heavenly principles on which it has its legitimate foundotion; only as they act in strict obedience to this great organic and vital instrument transmitted to us from those great founders of our great and glorious government—Washington, Jefferson, Madison, Hancock, Adams, &c., &c.

Liberty of conscience, liberty of political and religious opinion, liberty of the press, were prominent among the sacred rights and privileges guaranteed and transmitted by that great organic law—the U. S. Constitution. This great instrument has the authority, and bears the impress of the minds of that great and glorious band of heroes and statesmen who waded in blood through the Revolution to give us that great and good government which carried us so successfully and so gloriously through seventy years of our national career.

The great father and advocate of Republicanism—Thomas Jefferson—was unsatisfied with the Constitution until these great privileges were secured by amendments to it.

Were these great privileges secured only on conditions? Were they to become null and void whenever the red cloud of war should o'er shadow our land?—then most truly our liberties stood on a very frail and unsound foundation, and all the exultation indulged in from the beginning over the sacred guarantees of our glorious system of government, might as well have been expended on the desert air, or have been expressed in approval of absolute despotism.

If civil or foreign war can deprive the people of their Constitutional and inherent rights, then what a monstrous mockery is our claim, as American citizens, to liberty! justice! and equality?

If we have a government in accordance with our Constitution, and the principles on which the Fathers established it, it must be based on the will of the people, expressed in strict obedience to their organic law, and the laws made and administered in perfect agreement with it. There must be a great balance wheel. There must be a basis—a foundation on which to rest our claim to real Republican government. The Constitution of the United States is that great fundamental basis. If this fails, then all is lost, and our glorious old nation sinks, to rise no more, forever.

The genuine loyal people of this country are resolved to maintain and defend this great and glorious instrument and all its beneficent blessings, and no cowardice, no assumed patriotic threats, or denunciation, will make them, in the slightest degree, digress from an onward and direct course towards the restoration of the Constitution and its privileges to all the States, and all the people who have ever heretofore sat under the glorious vine and fig tree of American liberty. We have no government unless it is based upon the Constitution. Depart from this and we are without a compass or a rudder. The sheet anchor of our liberties is the Constitution and the laws. The administration of the government, for the time being, is always in the hands of frail human beings (we know not that they have ever pretended to be immaculate.) It is not necessary that we should prove that they are not capable, honest, and disposed to be faithful, so far as in them lies to the Constitution. At best, and on the highest presumption, they are only employed by the American nation to administer its government during a specified period. They are not, nor, if they are modest, will they pretend to be, anything but the servants to the American nation. They must soon submit to the judgment of the people on their acts.

This great nation must stand or fall, survive or perish, upon great vital principles—real fundamental truth and justice. Sophistry, duplicity, threatening, deception, or falsehood, will not answer with an intelligent people like the American people, especially in these boisterous times. The will of parties, or of sections, or of sects, cannot change the fundamental law. Civil war does not destroy the Constitution, or the laws made in conformity to it. The Constitution must stand, or the nation must fall. Let this truth sink deep into the hearts of every man who claims to be an American. If war can render inoperative the fundamental law—the very basis upon which our government stands, and has stood from its establishment—what has a designing faction, a clique or a conclave to do at any time, or under any circumstances, when they might wish to overthrow the government and establish their own selfish and narrow rule, but to set themselves about stirring the people up to fanaticism, turmoil, and its legitimate result—civil war—as a certain method to establish their own selfish and sectional power? God grant that the people may be guarded against all deception, all hypocrisy, all villainies, in these stormy times, and stand forth the full, clear and fearless defenders of the Constitution and the Union, with all their guarantees and privileges to the States and to the people.

The Constitution, the laws and all the privileges and rights secured by these, are all an American citizen will, or ought to ask, or will, or ought to be content without. Constitutional liberty is not dependant upon parties, to be surrendered under peculiar circumstances. War nor peace, nor the change of governmental officers, nor storm nor sunshine, nor evil report nor good report, can rob an American citizen of his birth-right—those glorious rights and privileges received from the throne of God and protected by the letter and spirit of the Constitution of the United States. The American people are not slaves,—they are free men, and they will see to it that no spot or blemish shall rest upon the glorious trust transmitted from the Fathers to be handed down to posterity a sacred and heavenly boon, borne to us from God and the Fathers for the benefit of their children and ours, and all future generations.

MONMOUTH.

THE NEW POSTAL LAW.—The following are some of the most important changes made in the Postal system:

Weekly papers, five cents per quarter; semi-weekly, ten cents; tri-weekly, fifteen cents; six times per week, thirty-five cents. At these rates, the weight must not exceed four ounces—in each case payable in advance per quarter or year, either at the mailing or delivery office.

No extra charge is to be made for a card printed or impressed upon a circular or letter, envelope or wrappers. Circulars to be prepaid by stamps.

FRANKING. Postmasters can only frank official letters to other officials—the former license to the smaller class of officers heretofore enjoyed, of franking on their own private business, having been abolished.

The Wizard.

WEDNESDAY, JUNE 3, 1863.

VALEDICTORY.

The connection of the late editor of the WIZARD with the paper ceased with last week's issue. It is now over three years since the paper was established under circumstances of such uncertainty as to render it an experiment. It was not then known how far our citizens would be disposed to lend the enterprise their countenance and support. The publication was met by the usual amount of prejudices gloomy doubts and cold shoulders, and also by cheering kind wishes and hearty good-speeds. It was not long before it was ascertained that the public feeling was in favor of sustaining the paper, so that a local newspaper was henceforth to be enjoyed in South Danvers. Ever since the first establishment of the paper there has been a slow but constant growth. It has been twice enlarged, and as it enlarged its phylacteries, its patrons have increased, in spite of hard times incident to the state of the country. In saying this, it is not pretended that it does not need and require the continued and increased support of its advertising and subscribing patrons. Let the people of our thriving town see to it that the paper shall have that increased patronage which will enable its publisher to make it fully equal to all reasonable demands. He will obtain such assistance, in connection with his own endeavors, to make the paper, we trust, far better than it has ever yet been, and more than ever worthy of public support.

Now, in taking leave of the readers of the WIZARD, the editor cannot but feel emotions both painful and pleasing. He has aimed to conduct his intercourse with his readers in a style of free-and-easy familiarity, which has come to seem almost like social, friendly conversation. They have seemed to him more like near friends and companions than distant and indifferent patrons. He has felt at liberty to talk plainly, moralize or joke with them, just as he was in the mood at the time. What has thus been lost in stateliness and dignity, he hopes has been made up in frankness and geniality. So strongly has he had this feeling of companionship with the readers of the paper that he cannot suddenly give them the parting good-bye and shake of the hand without many and sincere regrets, at the same time with his best wishes for their future welfare. There is something gratifying, too, in the relief obtained from the responsibilities and little vexations incident to the duties of an editor. It is a gratification, too, to recall the many instances of appreciation he has met in private intercourse, as well as the indulgence shown by his brethren of the editorial fraternity.

He gladly improves this opportunity to express his acknowledgments to the many correspondents who have from time to time aided him by their contributions, far exceeding in value anything that he could furnish from his own resources, and he trusts they will be continued. Among these contributions, none have been of more immediate interest, or will be preserved with more care, than the letters from our friends in the army, which is now doing service to aid the government in quelling this gigantic rebellion.

TO OUR PATRONS.

On account of the discontinuance of the services of our late editor, as indicated above, the editorial department will hereafter be conducted by the publisher, who deems the present a fit opportunity to introduce himself in his new character to the readers of the SOUTH DANVERS WIZARD.

We do not assume the additional labor and responsibility which this change casts upon us without considerable distrust of our ability to properly perform the delicate duties involved; and we would not dare to venture upon this course but for some considerations more complimentory to the friends of the paper than flattering to ourselves. That is to say, the publisher does not so much imagine that he has the time or ability to furnish the large amount of original matter needed in the current requirements of a newspaper, as he imagines that his friends,—the friends of the paper, and the friends of newspaper literature generally—will continue their written contributions with the same liberality they have hitherto shown. With their continued aid and encouragement, we shall have no doubt whatever of the future permanence and success of our publication, notwithstanding any deficiences, short-comings, accidents of omission and accidents of commission, on the part of the editor.

We do not contemplate any change in the plan of the paper; nor do we promise any improvement in the readableness of our columns. To uphold the standard of literary merit which our retiring editor has established for our journal, will be as high an aim as we shall venture to take. As heretofore, the WIZARD will be a local, family paper, independent of parties and sects. It will not, however, undertake to be neutral or non-committal upon subjects of great public concern, nor indeed upon any subject. Although we have decided opinions upon certain questions, and may freely express them at times, yet we do not publish a paper for the purpose of propagating our own opinions, much less the opinions of anybody else; and when we discuss matters of public interest, it will not be so much for the purpose of informing our readers of the editor's opinion—information, we modestly suggest, of not very vast importance—as for the purpose of calling the attention of the public to the subject-matter, and communicating to them the data upon which opinions may be formed.

Of course our columns will be open to all sides upon debatable questions. By this we beg to be understood as not surrendering the control of our paper; and if communications or controversies assume proportions disproportionate to the size of our paper, or the supposed patience of our readers, we must exercise the reserved right—inalienable with all editors—of rejecting, docking, and pruning, according to our own views of necessity. But in exercising this high constitutional prerogative we shall endeavor to do no unnecessary violence to the feelings of disputants, nor make it a means of advantage of one over another.

We mean to give an increased attention to local affairs, and we now invite any of our friends to communicate to us as speedily as possible, either by personally calling at our office, or by mail, any fact or incident of a local character, which they may happen to know or hear of, and which they think would be of interest to our readers. It cannot be doubted that such little local items are really the most interesting portions of such a paper as ours.—We have always endeavored to keep our readers well posted in such things, but have sometimes failed. The fact is, an editor is not ubiquitous. He cannot be everywhere at the same time, and he cannot expect to know by instinct everything that is going on in town; and in our case we are not able to retain a very large corps of reporters. We are therefore compelled to depend to some extent upon the generous attentions of our townsmen and correspondents.

We feel under a debt of gratitude to the business men of this town and Salem who came forward so liberally to the support of our advertising department. Our patronage in this respect, has been greater than we originally anticipated; had it been much less, we should have been obliged to follow in the footsteps of our pioneers, and abandoned the enterprise before our paper had become a yearling. To our advertising patrons as well as to our subscribers we extend our hearty and grateful thanks.

When we first spoke to our friends of our idea of publishing a paper in South Danvers, some said, "Don't you do it—the experiment is too doubtful for a young man to risk his all upon." Others said, "Try it—South Danvers is an enterprising town—the people are public spirited, and will sustain you." We heeded the latter, and launched our humble boat upon the tide of public favor, which has borne it triumphantly upon its bosom, through calms and storms. And though we have worked hard—at the helm and the halliards, and stood our watch with the crew by night till our health at times almost broke down, yet we have been sustained in our undertaking long enough to refute the false prophecies of failure that were raised against the experiment.

CHARLES D. HOWARD.

REV. A. W. CHAFFIN.—The many friends of this gentleman—who for many years was the esteemed and useful pastor of the Baptist Church in Danversport—will be pleased to learn that he has entered upon his labors in Manchester, N. H., succeeding Rev. King S. Hall, in the Merrimack Street church, of that city.

ENLISTED.—Edwin F. Morrill and Prince W. Nash, of this town, have enlisted in the 10th Unattached company of Heavy Artillery, for garrison duty at Fort Warren.

☞ Don't forget the Antiquarian Supper to-morrow night. See notice.

THE SOLDIERY.

This great arm of the public service never stood more prominent or more entitled to commendation before this great people, and the world, than to-day, since the establishment of our government. Their enduring patience under the bitterest trials, their firmness in danger; their dauntless courage amid the startling carnage of the battle-field; and last, but not least, their unswerving patriotism, constitute them to day heroes worthy the days of the Revolution, and of those glorious old Fathers who fought at Bunker's Hill, and Trenton, and Yorktown, and Lundy's Lane, New Orleans, Palo Alto, Chepultapec and Buena Vista.

The great battle-fields of Europe, even in the days of the Grand Emperor, present no more exalted instances of noble daring, of unflinching courage and of military prowess, than have been shown by the American armies during the present unhappy civil war.

If any class of our fellow citizens merit the plaudits and blessings of the people, they are those who leave home and friends and the comforts and privileges of their own neighborhoods to meet the stern realities of war,—to be exposed to the blasts and storms of winter, or the burning sun of a Southern summer, the malaria of Southern swamps, the pestilence of Southern climate, and the cursed steel and lead of a Southern soldiery.

When men are ready to do thus much at their country's call in her day of great agony and peril, they deserve, and will assuredly receive the sincere thanks and the unceasing prayers of all the good and great men of their fellow-citizens who love their country and the liberty her glorious institutions guarantees and secures to all the people and all the States which ever enjoyed the sacred rights transmitted to us from the Fathers, who carned in blood, and framed in mental and physical agony, that great and excellent system of self-government, which greeted the vision of the world in 1788, as the great model governmental system,—worthy of its framers, as it was worthy to be cherished and transmitted by all the sons of human origin and human kindness, "to the last syllable of recorded time."

The glorious causc for which these soldiers fight is fully worthy of their steel—worth all their sufferings—watering, as it were, with human blood, the great tree of American Constitutional liberty, which some three-quarters of a century ago, was planted in the red stream flowing from the hearts of the soldiers of our Revolution.

Their sons rise up and call them blessed and their names will live forever more. May the great work entrusted to our armies soon be done, and they be returned safely with victorious laurels, and with self-commendation, as they will be with the commendations of their fellow-citizens, for having done faithfully all that in them lay, to transmit to future generations the great blessings inherent in that government bequeathed by Washington and his compeers to the American nation. May the friends and relatives of these men have reason not to murmur, but rather to thank God that these friends were permitted to participate in these trials and also to be entitled to share in the great honors which will be showered upon their memories by future generations. What can a man do more than to offer his life for his country! Human life is of greater value than riches, and he who offers his life offers all that he can offer on the altar of his country. Greater love hath no man than he who would lay down his life for his friend. No man can die more gloriously than for his country, and no names come down to us from the past clothed so brilliantly in honor and in glory as the names of those who went forth to batle and who shed their blood for a heavenly heritage of rights and privileges for their country through the long ages of the future.

SUPERIOR COURT.—The June term (civil) of the Superior Court commenced its session in Salem last Monday. The juror from this town is JOHN V. STEVENS; from Danvers, AMOS P. PERLEY.

Court was opened with prayer by Rev. Mr. Sessions. William A. Boardman of Amesbury was chosen foreman of the first jury, and Thomas Nichols, jr., of Salem, of the second.

On motion of J. W. Perry, Esq., Mr. Caleb Saunders, of Lawrence, and on motion of E. W. Kimball, Esq., Mr. Frank Kimball of Salem, were admitted to practise as Attorneys in all the Courts of the Commonwealth.

Wm. H. Flint, et ux. us. Gloucester Gas Light Co. This was an action of tort to recover damages for injuries to porson of plff's by the explosion of gas in their dwelling house, J. C. Perkins, and C. P. Thompson for plaintiffs, J. G. Abbott and Benjamin Smith for defts.

This was the first case submitted and was not finished at time of our report last night.

☞ Two daughters of John Bell, of Tennessee, recently came through our lines to some of their friends in Philadelphia. It is stated that upon their arrival in this city, they were completely amazed at the indications of abundance and prosperity everywhere evident.

THE "MISSING" SAFE.

Our town, for the last two days, has been filled with painful forebodings for the fate of one of our soldiers—CHAS. E. CARR—belonging to Capt. Daniels's company, who was supposed to be either dead in a swamp or a prisoner in the hands of the rebels, he having fell out from the ranks (from sheer exhaustion,) while his regiment was on their retreat from the successful attack on the enemy at Big Gum Swamp. All doubts, however, were dispelled yesterday forenoon, by a letter from the missing, dated Fort Pierson, Newbern, N. C., written to his now over-joyed parents, by whose permission we are allowed to copy a portion of it. It seems while they were on their way back, the rebels rallied and followed them all night. Carr then says in his letter:—

"I kept falling out till I got behind the cavalry. I thought I would keep up good courage a little while longer. About twelve we encamped. I found the regimcnt in the morning, and started off with them, although I did not feel able to, but the rebels were right behind us. I went a little ways and got one of the boys to carry my gun, but soon fell out. The boys then took blankets and carried me, but it was too hard work, so I told them to leave me. They left me and I went to sleep. I got up after having a good nap and went along till I found another sick one, and we both kept together. We have slept together one night, and this morning we can hear the rebels blockading the road. We shall keep still two or three days and let the rebels go by us, and then shall try and get back to our regiments. I must close now, for I have been in the swamp two or three days, and have not had anything to eat.

"P. S.—Well, Dear Mother, I have got back again to camp, and now feel first-rate. They sent a lot of men after me, but did not find me; but I have now got back safe and sound. The captain has written home saying that I was taken prisoner, but I have arrived safe.

The reason I was so long getting out is, I helped a sick man in the 46th Regiment through. They thought he was dying the other noon, but he may possibly recover.

From your son, C. E. CARR."

☞ Dr. GEORGE OSGOOD, who died at Danvers on the 26th instant, nged 80 ycars, was a native of Andover, his father having been a practicing physician there for many years. Dr. OSGOOD commenced his practice about sixty years ago in Danvers, at the Plains (so called,) and continucd in the same locality through life. By many he was regarded as an agreeable aad acceptable physician. His straitened means prevented his figuring so extensively as many of his brethren—still he will be long and kindly remembered by those who best knew him.

BOUNTIES.—The last Legislature made provision for the reimbursement of towns of the amounts paid by them as bounties to volunteers, not exceeding $100 to each man. An ordcr has been issued by the Governor directing the city and town authorities to make returns on or before the 1st of July next, of all volunteers enlisted and bounties paid. Under this arrangement our town will be entitled to about $16,000

PEABODY INSTITUTE.—The costly Peabody Institute building in Baltimorc is nearly finished, but the Trustees have concluded not to put the institution into practical operation till the war is ended. The most interesting feature about the building is the library room ninety feet long, forty feet wide, with a capacity for fifty thousand volumes. Ten thousand volumes are already collected.

☞ The enrollment of the able-bodied men in this State, between the ages of 20 and 45 years, under the conscript law, has been commenced in earnest.—Bachelors over 35 years of age will please take warning now, or it will soon be too late. Our town clerk has plenty of blank certificates which he would like to fill out.

SUICIDE.—Mr. Wm. Barnes, an employee on the Lowell Railroad, committed suicide at his residence on Wednesday morning last, by cutting his throat from ear to ear with a razor. He rented the house over the Lowell Depot, and leaves a wife and two boys of 9 and 13 years old. He was 38 years of age.

RETURNED ON FURLOUGH.—Private George W. Grant of the Mass. 23d has returned home on furlough, looking very well, notwithstanding he has seen some very severe service, having participated in the battles of Roanoke, Newbern, and nearly all of the subsequent engagements.

DESERTERS.—The deserters from the army have not yet been drawn back into the ranks. It is stated that there is yet over 60,000 who have not heeded the President's proclamation to return to their duty. Have we any in this town?

☞ The colored regiment of U. S. Volunteers left Boston for the seat of war on Thursday. It was a body of stalwart men, and their march through the streets of the city was witnessed by tens of thousands of people.

☞ Last Friday morning about 3 o'clock a large bakery in West Lynn was entirely destroyed by fire, together with 600 barrels of flour and 1000 boxes of hard bread.

CHRONICLES OF THE 48TH MASSACHUSETTS VOLUNTEERS.

1. Man who is born of woman, and enlisteth as a soldier in the 48th Mass., is of a few days, and short of rations.

2. He cometh forth at reveille, is present also at retreat, yea even at tattoo, and retireth apparently at taps.

3. He draweth his rations from the commissary, and devoureth the same. He striketh his teeth against much hard tack, and is satisfied. He filleth his canteen with apple-jack, and clappeth the mouth thereof upon the bung of a whiskey barrel, and after a little while goeth away rejoicing in his strategy.

4. Much soldiering hath made him sharp, yea even the knees of his breeches are in danger of being cut through.

5. He covenant with the credulous farmer for many turkies and chickens, also at the same time for much milk and honey, to be paid for promptly at the end of each ten days, and lo! his regiment moveth on the ninth day to another post.

6. His tenth is filled with potatoes, cabbages, turnips, sour krout and other delicate morsels of the delicious tastes which abound not in the commissary department.

7. And many other things not in the returns, and which never will return, yet of a truth it must be said of a soldier of the 48th that he taketh nothing that he cannot reach.

8. He fireth his Austrian rifle at midnight, and the whole camp is aroused and formed in a line-of-battle, when lo! his men come bringing in a nice porker, which he solemnly declareth so resembled a secesh that he was compelled to pull trigger.

9. He giveth the Provost Marshal much trouble, often capturing his guard and possesseth himself of a city.

10. At such times lager and pretsels flow like milk and honey from his generous hand; he giveth without stint to his comrades, yea and withholdeth it not from the 48th Mass. Vol. Infantry, or from the lean, lank, expectant hoosier of the 87th Pennsylvania.

11. He stretcheth forth his hand to deliver his fellow-soldiers of the 116th Ohio from the power of the enemy; yea he starteth at early dawn from Petersburg, even on a double-quick doth he go, and toileth on through much heat and suffering, privation, and much vexation of spirit, until they are delivered. Verily I say unto you, after that he suffered for want of tents and camp-kettles, yea, on the heights of Moorfield his voice may be heard proclaiming loudly for hard tack and coffee, yet he murmureth not.

12. But the grunt of a pig, or the crowing of a cock, awakeneth him from the soundest sleep, and he goes forth until hailed by the guard, when he instantly clappeth his hand upon his bread-basket, and the guard in commiseration alloweth him to pass to the rear.

13. No sooner hath he passed the sentry-beat than he striketh a bee-line for the nearest henroost, and seizing a pair of plump pullets, returneth, soliloquizing that if the noise of a goose saved Rome, how much more the flesh of a chicken preserveth the soldier.

14. He even playeth at euchre with the parson to see whether or not there will be any preaching in camp on the following Sabbath, and by dexterously drawing from the bottom a jack, goeth away rejoicing that service is postponed.

15. And many other things doeth he, and lo! are they not recorded in the morning report of Co. B? Yea, verily.

GOOD NEWS.—We have the old rumor revived through rebel sources of the fall of Vicksburg. Then we have the important rumor through rebel sources also of an attack upon Mobile and the capture of the Federal forces of Fort Morgan one of the strongest defences of that place. Another rebel rumor gives us a battle between Rosecrans and Bragg in which the latter was badly whipped and was retreating with Rosecrans in pursuit.

Beside the rumors we have reliable reports of good news from Gen. Banks' department. A desperate battle has taken placc in the rear of Port Hudson, in which the rebels were defeated and pursued, and the last accounts say that the attack upon Port Hudson had commenced with a certainty of its capture, and all in it. We have also reports of one or two successful cavalry raids by which the rebels lost great quantities of stores, ammunition, &c.

☞ The saltworks destroyed by Gen. Banks' advance supplied the whole Confederacy with salt. The establishment was the largest of the kind in America, and its loss must result in great disastcr to the Confederacy. The establishment was a salt mine or ledge of remarkable extent and purity. Blocks of salt were quarried there as clear as glass, and some specimens were wonderful for their brilliancy. Near the quarry was a large establishment where all the beef of the Confedeiacy was salted down and packed.

☞ The editor of the Utica Herald says that he once knew a wild widow who cut out her own daughter in the good graces of her lover, and married him herself. To obtain revenge for this mean and unmotherly trick, the daughter set her cap for the young man's rich father, (of whom he was the only heir) and actually married him and had children, to the infinite annoyance of the other party. This occurred in Onondagua County.

☞ Now is the time to set out Dahlias, and Bosson & Glover have the choicest kinds, which they are ready to sell at very low prices. They will be found just as they recommend them. Their store is on Lafayette street, Salem. Call and see their prices.

☞ The Sultan of Turkey saw a railway for the first time in his life during his visit to Egypt. He was very much frightened at it, and from Alexandria to Cairo would not allow the engine to go at even ordinary speed, and was eight hours on the road.

☞ Black Rocks has been determined to be the best location for a permanent fortification for Newburyport harbor. It will have a sure foundation and a good range of the river.

☞ The old 6th Massachusetts Regiment, Col. Follansbee, from Suffolk, Va., arrived in Lowell on Friday last.

☞ We have had the privilege of using a letter from one of our n sons—GEO. H. TEAGUE—now a ci of a town west of Boston—a lie ant in Co. C of the 1st Massachu Cavalry—to his friends here, givi detailed account of their march o days, as a portion of Stoneman's Cav to and from the Rapidan. The let elaborate and interesting; but a before published a condensed accou this raid from another of our cit attached to the same brigade, we avail ourselves only of a few ex which relate to the present morale o army, as coming from one eye-wi thereof, there having been various expressed on this topic:—

I must not finish this letter without spe of our army; for in reading the paper are sent me, I notice a tendency of som give the impression that the army is der ized. This is not so. What if we hav marched on to Richmond the first or s time trying?—the Army of the Potomac better spirits than it was four months Yes, I think it is in a better condition; it stronger and better able to cope with the my than it has for any time for one When I say this I am well aware of the brave fellows that have been taken from u am well aware of the large number of t that are now going home, for I see the their way every day. But the fact is, w all see what we might have done at th battle, had not the order been given to re the river. At that time our leader k know things that we all know now. Ou fidence is as great in our leader now as was, for had fighting Joe had his wis gone back as he wanted to, we might hav better off than we are now. His pluck is there is no better; and what I have wri the same as all the soldiers feel, or all th soldiers.

There is a class out here that are croaking, but it is only those that tho fighting was done in pleasant weath that thought we always had bridges over when crossing streams; those that we only had to carry one day's ration haversacks instead of five and six; b class is very small—it is confined to thos bounty men, or, what we term them ou "The raws;" and the croakers at home. those that I would like to see conscripte they are too much afraid to come out h take the musket or sabre, let them co lead in the mule train or join the ambu corps, and give those that are brave a c It is such croakers as these that sit i chair at home reading of the returning and say they ought not to leave at th These troops have done what they ca do; if the objects have not been accom it is not any fault of theirs. Let all s what I have seen, and they will not sp and to explain, I will cite one particul ment—it was a New York Regiment—i of service (two years) was up Sunday urday, and before they had the order treat, they notified them at headquarte their time was up. The day before the in the thickest of the late fight; they ca to the work manfully, as they had done times before. The result was, seventy o were either wounded or killed, and n every one of that seventy was counti hours when they would be on their way This same reginent have done more tha they were before Richmond, at Gaine's Malvern Hill, Seven Pines, South Mo Antietam, Cedar Mountain, Frederic covering the retreat, and was at the lat again. Now their time was up. Wher man that dare to say they ought not Some of the Northern newspapers say t country is not as free as it was. Our c is too free to allow so much of the cop talk.

PLEURO PNEUMONIA.—This disease making a stir in the State. A head o belonging to Mr. Childs, of Lexington killed by the Commissioners a short ti which used up the appropriation made last Legislature. They have since killed herd, and the Governor's Council ha fused to pay for them, the com resigned, they being likely to b ly responsible for any other cattle they order killed. The duty to look after the of the disease now devolves upon the sele of the towns where the cases occur. T ease is now believed to exist in three h Lexington, two in Lincoln, and one e Wayland and Waltham. Cattle had b troduced into most of these herds, and Mr. Childs of Lexington from a drove t ing to Mr. Estabrook of Lexington. known that any animals now belonging are affected. Two of the cows sol and subsequently found to be diseas purchased at Brighton. It has b that the disease existed in Hingha not believed. Dr. Morrill Wym bridge, has in his care two cows supp infected, upon which he is experimen ing put well cows with them.

☞ It is very singular that on the M river where the Confederates were at h the heart of their country—they ha won a victory from Columbus and Isl 10, to New Orleans. The America have had everything in nature to against, and the rebels have had every advantage. A thousand men situated were, should have been able to cope w thousand against them; and still the done absolutely nothing; been whip and out, as a man would whip a coward On the other hand, in Virginia we have the advantage — superior numbers, arms, the aid of the navy, abundant and yet we have failed from first to last. we should have gained we have lost, an in the nature of things they should ha ed, they have done nothing.—New Herald.

☞ Government is progressing in its protecting the large and most importan on the coast. The forts in Boston har about one hundred guns mounted ins walls. The navy yard at Charlestow being looked after, and a battery of ei is being constructed in the rear of th battery. It is intended to mount six ten-inch and perhaps larger calibre, two being of less size. This battery part of the plan of harbor defence re termined upon.

HORSE RAILROAD.—The Petition of the Horse Railroad Company for leave to place a double track on Essex street, which was presented to the Mayor and Aldermen on Monday evening, was, by that board, laid on the table. This petition, it will be remembered, stating that there seemed to be some doubt as to the position of the company in reference to the double track, unequivocally declared that the company did desire said double track, as it would be necessary either to have that or to use a return track through Brown and Church streets, and formally prayed that the same might be granted.—The Board of Aldermen, however, considered the corporation as among the petitioners for a double track from North street to Newbury st., and the petition of Joseph S. Leavitt and others, the last public hearing; and no member had raised the question referred to by the Corporation in their new petition. The action of the Board in laying the petition on the table may therefore be considered final for the present, as it is not likely that the petition will be again called up.—Gazette, 29th ult.

☞ At the Boston Theatre, Mrs. D. P. Bowers has been performing to good houses; and the people's favorite, W. Marshall, appeared last Saturday evening.

At the Howard, Edwin Adams has commenced a short engagement. He is ably supported.

At the new tremont the Holman Opera Troupe have been delighting the patrons of a pleasant place, both in Opera and Comedy. All should see them.

REDUCED PRICE.—We shall close the balance of our best Glace Spool Cottons, in white and colored, at six cents per spool or 70 cents per dozen. We warrant them the best cottons for machine or hand sewing, and to be full 200 yards.
JOHN P. PEABODY.

☞ ORS.—The best Glace Spool Cottons for 6 cts. per spool of 200 yards—at PEABODY'S.

☞ Read J. F. ALMY'S advertisement.

Best Spool Cottons, 6 cts., at J. P. PEABODY'S, 220 Essex street.

So. Danvers Horticultural Society.

The Annual meeting of the South Danvers Horticultural Society for the choice of officers, will be held at the Exchange Reading Room, MONDAY EVENING, June 8th, at 7½ o'clock.

☞ A full attendence is requested.
Per order,
MILES O. STANLEY, Sec'y.
South Danvers, June 3d, 1863.

Grace's Salve.

Salisbury, June 8th, 1862.

Mr. Grace,—Dear Sir—Your celebrated salve has been used in my family with great success for the removal of pimples from the complexion. After removing them it left the skin smooth and beautiful. For the utility of your salve to me in this case, I can recommend it to the public as a superior remedy. Yours truly,
TIMOTHY MAHONY.

Antiquarian Supper.

The Ladies of the LAFAYETTE ST. M. E. CHURCH, will give an Antiquarian Supper at Browning Hall, Salem, on THURSDAY EVENING, June 4.

The Tables will be set at 6, 8, and 9½ o'clk. The Bill of Fare will be an ancient one.—Music and Singing in the old style will be interspersed. The Table, Attendants, and the Singers, will be dressed in the costume of "ye olden time." Also, some of the costumes and handicraft of the days of our Forefathers will be represented.

Tickets, to include Supper, will be 35 cts.
Salem, May 20.—3w

VOCAL CLASS!

MANUAL FENOLLOSA, at the request of some of his friends, respectfully announces his intention of forming a

Singing Class in South Danvers,

for the acquirement of thorough rudimental instruction in the Art of Singing.

Subscription papers for Membership may be found with Mrs. Geo. P. Osborne, Mrs. I. B. Elliot, and Mr. Geo. P. Daniels.

The class will be organized as soon as a sufficient number of names are obtained to insure success.

Terms $5.00 for 24 Evening's Instruction.
So. Danvers, April 8, 1863. tf

☞ Try one of Rhoades' National Clothes Wringers, before purchasing elsewhere. For sale at the Equity Store, South Danvers. See advertisement.

☞ Visit OSBORNE'S Store, and look at the unusual variety of new styles in HATS and CAPS—191 Essex street.

Port of Danvers.

Arr 24th, schs Marmora, Smith, Bangor; 28th, Banner, Hart, and T H Cushing, Amme, do; 27th, Panthea, Clark, Philadelphia; 28th, Fr sch Eagle, Thorne's Cove.

Marriages.

In Danversport, May 28th, by Rev Mr Henry, Mr Elijah Wilson Jr, of South Danvers, to Miss Mary F Young of D.

In Salem, May 28th, by Rev Dr Briggs, Mr Samuel A Tucker to Miss Ellen G Worner.

In Beverly, May 28th, by Rev Mr Foster, Mr John W Haskell to Miss Abbie N Patch.

In Wenham, by the Rev Mr Sewall, Mr Benjamin W Patch to Miss Laura S Dodge, both of Hamilton.

Deaths.

In South Danvers, May 27, William Barnes, aged 38 years.

May 29th, Catherine S, daughter of Derby and Catherine Loftus, 3 yrs 5 mos 20 ds.

May 30th, Mrs Sallie O'Very, aged 80 yrs.

In Danvers, May 26, Dr George Osgood, 80.

In Salem, May 26, Miss Mary M'Farland, 19.

27th, Mrs Johannah, widow of the late Mr Andrew Hagan, 80½ yrs; 28th, Mr Benj J Voller, 42; June 1, Mrs Mary, widow of the late Mr William Ryan, 42.

In Beverly, May 26th, Mr Daniel Appleton, 89½ yrs; 29th, Capt Hervey Choate, 77⅞ yrs.

☞ The extraordinary success of Dr. Ham's Invigorating Spirit, seems to stir up an army of Tonics, Bitters, and Cure Alls; but as a general thing they are like the Morning Glory—look very fine in the morning but wilt before the day has past. The Dr. has been before the public for years; his Dyspepsia Remedy has been tested and not found wanting; it acts on the Liver, Stomach, Head and the whole system; it is good at all times and for everybody.

The Diseases of Error.

(Les Maladies d'Erreur.)

I, John B. Ogden, M. D., author and publisher of the above work, do hereby promise and agree to send (free of charge) to any young man who will write for it, a sample for perusal. The proper study of mankind is MAN. This valuable work is issued and sent forth for the benefit of suffering humanity. It treats in simple language on all the diseases of Error, including Seminal Weakness, Nervous Debility, Indigestion, Melancholy, Insanity, Wasting Decay, Impotency, etc., etc.—giving safe, speedy, and effectual prescriptions for their permanent cure, together with much valuable information. All who favor me with a desire to read my work shall receive a sample copy by return mail, free of charge. Address JOHN B. OGDEN, M. D.
June 3—3m No. 60 Nassau st, New York.

MANUAL FENOLLOSA,

TEACHER OF THE

Violin, Piano and Singing,

MUSIC ROOMS, No. 7 Central Street,
SALEM, MASS.

Hunnewell's Great Remedies.

WHAT EVERY FAMILY SHOULD HAVE IN THE HOUSE AND WHY:

☞ They should have HUNNEWELL'S UNIVERSAL, COUGH REMEDY, because it effectually cures Colds, Whooping and Common Coughs Sore Throat, Hoarseness, and is the most simple and perfect Soothing Syrup in the world. For old and young, by day and night, it may be used with the greatest freedom, and three-fourths of the deaths by Consumption stopped.

They should have HUNNEWELL'S TOLU ANODYNE, because it is a perfect remedy for Neuralgia, Nervous or Sick Headache, Tooth, and Earache, Pain in Stomach, or Bowels, Genuine Cholera Morbus, Rheumatism, Distress after Eating, Nervousness, Hysteria, and the chief of all causes of disease, and Insanity, Loss of Sleep. Its character, though active, is simple; its action in perfect conformity to nature; its end cure, or relief.

For the pains in Monthly Menstruation a perfect relief, while nature's after work is not disturbed, and one of the most important points in Medicine.

They should have HUNNEWELL'S ECLECTIC PILLS, because with seldom but a single Pill for a dose all derangements of the Stomach, and Bowels are cured. They cure Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Headache, when caused by foul stomach, Loss of Appetite, Biliousness so often and so erroneously treated with Mercurials, Jaundice. For Worms a sure cure.

They act simple, assist nature, do not make a Pill Box of the stomach, as is the most fatal error of taking so many Pills at a dose and then, what is important to every Family and every Purse, one bottle goes as far as two or three of what is ordinarily sold.

The confidence of all is asked to test
Hunnewell's Universal Cough Remedy,
Hunnewell's Tolu Anodyne,
Hunnewell's Eclectic Pills.

☞ Fac-simile of J. L. Hunnewell's signature over corks of genuine only.

JOHN L. HUNNEWELL, proprietor,
9 Commercial Wharf, Boston, Mass.
George E. Meacom, Agent for Danvers.
For sale by all dealers in Salem and vicinity.
Apr. 1, 1863—1 y

TERRIBLE DISCLOSURES—SECRETS FOR THE MILLION!—A most valuable and wonderful publication. A work of 400 pages, and 30 colored engravings. DR. HUNTER'S VADE MECUM, an original and popular treatise on Man and Woman, their Physiology, Functions, and Sexual Disorders of every kind, with Never-Failing Remedies for their speedy cure. The practice of Dr. Hunter has long been, and still is, unbounded, but at the earnest solicitation of numerous persons, he has been induced to extend his medical usefulness through the medium of his "Vade Mecum." It is a volume that should be in the hands of every family in the land, as a preventive of secret vices, or as a guide for the alleviation of one of the most awful and destructive scourges ever visited mankind. One copy, securely enveloped, will be forwarded free of postage to any part of the United States for 50 cents in post office stamps or 3 copies for $1. Address, post paid, DR. HUNTER, No. 3 Division Street, New York. je 3—1y

Advertisements.

AT COLMAN'S,

No. 10 Front St., Salem.

STRAW AND PAINTED CARPETINGS, &c.

500 Yards 1¼, and 1¼ yds wide best Straw CARPETING;
20 large size LOOKING GLASSES, at about one half price;
Closing out all BOOTS and SHOES, at such prices as will suit;
CAPS and HATS—Just received, of the best styles, from Manufactory, at low prices;
CLOTHING. Just received, fresh made Summer Clothing.
Also, some NEW CLOTHING bought at Auction very cheap.
HOSIERY. 500 dozen Men's, Women's, Boys' and Girls' Hosiery:—with a great variety of other goods.

☞ NOTICE. All Goods advertised, and others, I will sell at such prices as will give satisfaction.
Salem, June 3, 1863. 3w

ANN R. BRAY,

NO. 76 FEDERAL ST,
SALEM.

WE are selling out all our Black Silks;
we are selling out all our Cambric Prints;
We are selling out all our French Prints;
We are selling out all our nice Taffetas;
We are selling out all our Organdie Muslins;
We are selling out all our Lawns;
We are selling out all our Cotton Hosiery;
We are selling out all our Linen Hdkfs;
We are selling out all our Domestic Goods;
We are closing out all our stock at reduced prices. june 3

NEW STOCK

—OF—

DRY GOODS

—AT—

No. 238 Essex street,

(Three Doors West of the Tunnel.)

THE Subscriber opened on MONDAY, May 18th,

A Fresh Stock of Dry Goods,

Consisting of nearly all the new styles of Dress Goods, Ladies' Cloths, Cloths for Men's & Boys' Wear; Shawls, Domestic and Housekeeping Goods; Sun Umbrellas; Parasols; Hoop Skirts; Hosiery; Gloves; &c., &c., &c.

☞ All the above Goods will be sold for CASH, at Low Prices.

GEORGE P. DANIELS.

Salem, May 20.

CHINA WARE;

GOLD Band China Tea Ware; White and Lustre China do—at
S. C. & E. A. SIMONDS', 32 Front st.

FRUIT BASKETS.

WHITE China and White Granite Fruit Baskets—at
S. C. & E. A. SIMONDS', 32 Front st.

Sun Shades and Sun Umbrellas.

A FULL assortment of Green, Brown and Black Sun Shades and Umbrellas, at
ap 29 ANN R BRAY'S, 76 Federal st.

All kinds of Printing done at this office.

John P. Peabody.

What We Sell.

HOSIERY.	TRIMMINGS.
GLOVES.	LACE GOODS.
CORSETS.	EMBROIDERIES.
SKIRTS.	BONNET RIBBONS.
BODICES.	FRENCH FLOWERS.
BUTTONS.	BLACK LACES.
BRAIDS.	WHITE LACES.
CORDS.	BONNET RUCHES.
ELASTICS.	BONNET TABS.
COMBS.	DRESS QUILLINGS.
COTTONS.	COLLETETTE RUFFLE.
SILKS.	DOUBLE RUFFLE.
TWISTS.	IMPERATIVE RUFFLE.
NEEDLES.	INFANTS' WAISTS.
THIMBLES.	INFANTS' ROBES.
BRUSHES.	BLACK LACE VEILS.
PUFFS.	MOURNING VEILS.
POWDERS.	MOURNING COLLARS.
BOXES.	WROUGHT BANDS.
PAGES.	WROUGHT EDGINGS.
SOAPS.	WROUGHT INSERT'N'S
PERFUMES.	ENG. THREAD EDGING
HAIR GLOSS.	SMYRNA EDGINGS.
HAIR OILS.	SILK LACE EDGINGS.

J. P. PEABODY'S, 220 ESSEX STREET, SALEM.

BONNET RIBBONS.
BONNET RIBBONS.
BONNET RIBBONS.
BONNET RIBBONS.
BONNET RIBBONS.
BONNET RIBBONS.

FLOWERS. FLOWERS.
FLOWERS. FLOWERS.
FLOWERS. FLOWERS.
FLOWERS. FLOWERS.
FLOWERS. FLOWERS.
FLOWERS. FLOWERS.

BONNET RUCHES.
BONNET RUCHES.
BONNET RUCHES.
BONNET RUCHES.
BONNET RUCHES.
BONNET RUCHES.

Peabody's Ladies' Furnishing Store.
Peabody's Ladies' Furnishing Store.
Peabody's Ladies' Furnishing Store.
Peabody's Ladies' Furnishing Store.
Peabody's Ladies' Furnishing Store.

SUN UMBRELLAS.

We have a large Stock and can sell them at the lowest possible prices for good goods;—we have them in all desirable sizes and styles—and invite all to examine them before buying.

PARASOLS.

We have no new PARASOLS; but have those we kept over, and shall sell them at last year's prices, in order to close our entire Stock and make room for Sun Umbrellas.

CORSETS.

We have a nice style of CORSETS that we have been selling for $1 75, which we are now closing at $1 35 They are bargains. We have a new thing: Corsets, Shoulder Braces and Skirt Supporters combined. It needs only to be seen to be appreciated.

HANDKERCHIEFS.

We have a bargain in LINEN HANDKERCHIEFS at 15 cts. each—and a good thing at 12½ cts; and in all prices above. Grass Cloth, Hemmed, Bordered and Wrought Hdkfs in pretty styles—mourning Hdkfs, in variety.

SKIRTS.

We have a nice thing in WATCH SPRING SKIRTS. We warrant every Skirt we sell—all prices and sizes—from 30 cts. to $3 00.

HOSIERY.

Ladies' Lisle Thread and Cotton Hosiery; Misses Cotton Hosiery, in all sizes; Fancy Col'd Hose, in all sizes; Infants' ½ and ¾ Hose, all sizes; Gent's ½ Hose, in blue, mix'd and white Hosiery, at the lowest prices.

ONE PRICE ONLY!

220 ESSEX ST., SALEM,
JOHN P. PEABODY.

Real Estate on Fulton St. for Sale.

The subscribers offer for sale the following Real Estate situated on Fulton St., South Danvers, It consists of a TWO-STORY HOUSE, 24 by 36, with 18 rooms, (calculated for 6 families); a good well of water, and outbuildings. The property is offered for private sale until the 1st of June, when it will be sold at auction. For further information apply to
MOSES JEWETT,
SAM'L S. PARSONS.
South Danvers, May 20.

WM. S. HILTZ,

Plain and Ornamental

BOOK-BINDER,

No. 157 Essex Street (up stairs), Salem.

Bibles, Music, Magazines, Periodicals, and old books of every description bound with neatness and despatch at the lowest cash prices.
Music bound and ready for delivery in 3 days.
REFERENCES—Hon. S. H. Phillips, Francis Peabody, Esq., Wm. G. Choate, Esq., R. S. Rantoul, Esq., Dr. G. A. Perkins, Dr. Der Geradoff. may 27

Assignees' Notice.

Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

ESSEX ss. In Insolvency, before Hon. Geo. F. Choate, Judge of Probate and Insolvency in and for said county. The subscribers have been duly appointed assignees of the estate of
DANIEL F. CATE, of South Danvers, in said county, carpenter, an insolvent debtor. The second meeting of the creditors of said insolvent debtor will be held at the Court of Insolvency at Salem, in said county, at the Stone Court House, on the twenty-second day of June next, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, at which meeting creditors may be present and prove their claims.
ALFRED A. ABBOTT,
WM. D. NORTHEND, } Assignees.
may 27 2t

Dr. Ham's Spirit.

James F. Almy.

SUMMER, 1863.

We shall open New Styles Silk Mantillas,

Saturday, May 30.

We have received a full stock of Rich Black Silks for Mantillas; also Laces, Embroidery Braids and Bugle Trimmings, for Mantillas.

We are closing our Stock of Cloth Garments at Wholesale prices.

We are selling Ladies' Cloths at very low prices.

We have received a choice stock of Summer Shawls.

We have opened a large stock of Summer Dress Goods, in good value and styles, at a Bargain.

Our General Stock of Seasonable Dress Goods was never more complete than now, and our prices are very low.

We have a fine Stock of Sun Umbrellas.

We have a fine Stock of best Kid Gloves.

We have a fine Stock of Ladies' and Misses' Summer Underclothing.

We have a fine Stock of Hosiery and Gloves, Velvet Ribbons, Ladies' and Gents' Hdkfs, etc.

We are selling Watch Spring Skirts very low.

In Domestic Goods, we offer all the advantages of the reduction in prices, as our Stock has been mainly purchased within a few days.

We offer a fine Stock of Cloth for Men's and Boys' wear.

We offer a large Stock of White Goods.

Cash buyers will find it for their advantage to examine our Stock.

JAMES F. ALMY,
188 Essex, opposite Central st.
June 3d, 1863.

M. FENOLLOSA,

TEACHER OF MUSIC,
LETS .....PIANO FORTES,
at the lowest rates;
SELLS .....PIANO FORTES,
at the Manufacturers Prices;
EXCHANGES....PIANO FORTES,
on the easiest terms;
At Rooms No. 7 Central street,
feb 11 SALEM, MASS.

GLASS WARE.

CUT and Pressed Glass Goblets; Tumblers; Dishes, etc, just opened at
S C & E A SIMONDS' 32 Front st.

TABLE MATS.

SHAKER Table Mats—for sale by
may 27 S C & E A SIMONDS.

A Card.

Having disposed of my stock and stand to Miss M. E. CRANE, I avail myself of this opportunity to request my friends and customers who have bestowed their liberal patronage upon me, to transfer the same to my successor.

In taking leave of my business friends, I would return my warmest thanks for the generous patronage I have received. I can in the highest terms recommend Miss CRANE, and would bespeak for her your kind consideration and confidence.

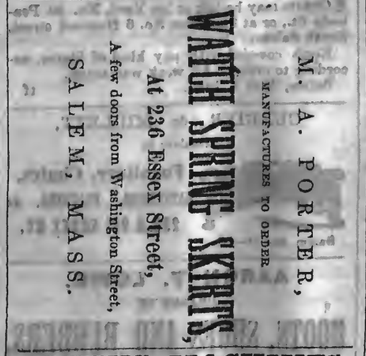
I would most respectfully invite those having unsettled accounts to call and adjust the same, either with Miss Crane or myself, at the old stand.
April 22, 1863. M. M. FLETCHER.

Notice.

The Subscriber having purchased of Mrs. M. M. FLETCHER her stock of Goods, and made additions to the same, is now prepared to furnish her patrons and the public with a large and fine assortment of

Millinery Goods,

which we will sell very low for cash. We hope by strict attention to business to merit a liberal share of patronage. M. E. CRANE.
ap 22 cor. of Essex and St. Peter sts.



SEWING MACHINES.

PERSONS about purchasing SEWING MACHINES will find it to their advantage to consult
JOHN H. CHOATE,
SEWING MACHINE AGENT.
Over Newman & Symonds' Store, Lowell St.
Second-hand Machines bought and sold.
South Danvers, May 13—tf

Bargains in Dress Goods.

PURCHASED THIS WEEK,

WHICH we shall sell to our customers at greatly reduced prices.
Ladies will find it to their advantage to call and look at them before buying elsewhere.
may 27 ANN R. BRAY, 76 Federal st.

WHITE LEAD AND LINSEED OIL,

OF the best quality—for sale at
S C & E A SIMONDS', 32 Front st.

George S. Walker.

Notice to Gentlemen.

FOR THE WARM WEATHER.

SUMMER MERINO UNDER SHIRTS;
GAUZE " " " GOSSAMER " " "
SILK " " "
COTTON " " "

IN EXTRA LARGE AND SMALL SIZES.

Summer Merino, Gauze and Unbleached Cotton DRAWERS, in sizes from 28 to 44 inches.

Summer Merino, Lisle, Silk, and Cotton HALF HOSE, in a great variety of styles and in all sizes.

Many of the above goods were bought before the advance for Cash, and will be sold at the lowest prices.

GEORGE S. WALKER'S,
Gent's Furnishing Store,
may 20 228 Essex Street, Salem, Mass.

A. J. Archer & Co

WE OPEN THIS MORNING

ELEGANT

BLACK SILK GARMENTS,

At prices from $8 00 to $16 00.

A. J. ARCHER & CO.,
Salem, june 3—tf

SUMMER SHAWLS!

We open this morning beautiful new

SUMMER SHAWLS.

—Also—

A variety of THIN DRESS GOODS;
8 4 Black Hernani and Crape Maretz;
Black Grenadine. For sale by
A. J. ARCHER & CO.,
Salem, june 3—tf.

SPRING GOODS!

Entirely New Stock of

CLOTHING.

GEO. H. LANE,

CLOTHIER,

Nos. 31 and 32 Dock Square,

BOSTON,

IS now ready to show to his customers and the public an ELEGANT STOCK OF CLOTHING for MEN'S and BOYS' wear, expressly designed by himself, manufactured on the premises for the present season in all those new and choice selections of fabrics for which Lane's establishment has become celebrated. The stock consists in part of

SPRING OVERCOATS,
FROCK COATS,
BUSINESS COATS;
And ONE HUNDRED CHOICE

NEW STYLES OF PANTALOONS,

Suitable for Dress, Promenade or Business Occasions.

Mr. LANE having made Large Purchases by Contract before the Unprecedented and General Advance in Prices, has it in his power to give

REAL BARGAINS,

Acting on the principal that

"Quick Sales and Small Profits"

Are the best rules to guide the merchant.

JUVENILE ATTIRE.

Boys' Entire Suits, as
SCHOOL SUITS,
DRESS SUITS,
JACKET SUITS,
SACK SUITS, &C.

All of the newest fabrics and best workmanship.

A year since Mr. Lane advised the public that he had added a Boys' Department, and he has now the satisfaction to announce that he has secured the services of Mr. C. H. Boynton, (formerly with J. WALTER READ) to superintend it; and indeed, to make the entire establishment the COMPLETEST IN NEW ENGLAND, the Proprietor has spared no pains to secure the services of REAL ARTISTS in the Cutting Room, and accomplished, obliging, and experienced Salesman in the Show Room; and trusts by strict personal attention, and MODERATE CHARGES, to merit the support of the community.

GEO. H. LANE,
31 AND 32 DOCK SQUARE,
April 1—3m BOSTON.

Potter, Bachelder & Co.,

(Successors to M. Black)
DANVERS-PORT,
DEALERS IN

WOOD AND COAL

OF the various kinds usually kept in a retail yard. Constantly on hand

Franklin, Old Company's Lehigh,
Locust Mountain, Black Heath,
Red, and White Ash.

Of all sizes, of the best quality, and at as low prices as can be bought elsewhere.

OFFICE—No. 5 Allen's Building.

Order Box at post office, South Danvers, and post office, Danvers.

G. W. POTTER,
J. Q. A. BACHELDER,
C. T. BATCHELDER. july 19—tf

FIRST CLASS GOODS AT THE LOWEST PRICES.

NOVELTIES.

MESSRS. ROWNING & LONG have now on hand a very large stock of beautiful NEW GOODS, and many articles of entirely NEW PATTERNS and DESIGNS, which they had the good fortune to secure at the very lowest

COLD PANIC PRICES.

LATE NEW GOODS.

"The Alexandre Bow and Cravat," a beautiful and tasty article, very stylish and fashionable.

The Princess Eugenie Belts, the latest out, trimmed with Steel, and very handsome and tasty.

White Lace Barbes, very pretty. Also, an extensive assortment of very rich Black Thread Barbes.

Hair Nets, we have many new Styles,—the largest and best assortment we have ever had.

Collars in Pointe de Gauze, Malta Lace, Guipure and Embroidered, every variety now worn.

Lace Sleeves, a very large variety, and several entirely new Patterns, just in the market.

ENAMELED CLOTH,

For the preservation of the Skirts of Dresses, which has proved itself to be the very best article in use. A full assortment in all colors.

Gore Trail Skirts.
Quaker Skirts.

New York Belle Skirts.
Pointe de Venice Skirts.
Children's Skirts.

New Dress Buttons, in very handsome styles.

A full assortment of Embroidery Braids.

Gauze Undervests, for Ladies, Misses and Children.

Hosiery and Gloves, very extensive assortment.

Lace Veils, a very large variety.

Corsets and Bodices, in all sizes.

Mohair Mitts, many Patterns.

Gauze Veils, in nearly every variety.

SMALL WARES.
Everything in the line.

WE ARE CONSTANTLY RECEIVING ADDITIONS TO OUR STOCK AS FAST AS NEW GOODS APPEAR IN THE MARKET.

BROWNING & LONG

Essex St., 177 Essex St.,
Salem, June 3d, 1863.

Quincy Mutual Fire Insurance Co.

Available and Cash Capital $500,000.

INSURES Buildings, Merchandize and Personal Property generally, on terms as favorable as any other dividend paying company.
J. D. BLACK, Agent,
april 22—1y At Danversport.

Merrimack Mutual Fire Insurance Co., Andover, Mass.

ONE of the OLD AND RELIABLE OFFICES.
J. D. BLACK is Agent for Danvers and South Danvers. apr 22—1y

VALUABLE REAL ESTATE.

THE Subscriber offers for sale on favorable terms,—or would exchange for a Farm,—his Estate on Wallis Street, near the Monumental Cemetary, consisting of THREE DWELLING HOUSES, which will be sold separately or as one Estate.

There are 75 feet of land in front, and 72 feet in the rear of the house.

The situation is pleasant, in a good neighborhood, and the houses are supplied with all the conveniences for immediate occupation. In ordinary times these tenements would rent for from 330 to 350 dollars.

The Subscriber, having made up his mind to dispose of the property, will sell it low, and it is well worth the attention of purchasers.
Apply to JOHN M'NEAL.
South Danvers, Dec. 10th, 1862. tf.

A Good Milk Route for Sale,

INQUIRE at this office.
South Danvers, Feb. 11, 1863.

Tillage Land and Barn to Let.

ABOUT six acres of good level Tillage Land with a Barn, situated upon the "Cross Road" in Rockville. Any one wishing to work upon land a portion or the whole of his time will find this a rare chance.

For further particulars application may be made to either of the subscribers.
S. C. BANCROFT, So. Danvers.
JOHN H. NICHOLS, Salem.
South Danvers, Ap. 22.

Just Opened.

A SUPERIOR quality corded Taffeta, at 37½ cts. All wool DeLaines, desirable shades; Domestic Goods of every description.
ap 29 ANN R BRAY, 76 Federal st.

PHOTOGRAPH ALBUMS.

A FULL assortment constantly on hand.
G M WHIPPLE & A A SMITH.

☞ If you want to SAVE MONEY, in purchasing Goods, go to COLMAN'S, No. 10 Front street, Salem. [ap30-tf

Auction Sales.

WILLIAM ARCHER, Jr.,

Auctioneer, Real Estate and Stock Broker,
34 Front Street.

Real Estate, Bank, Railroad and Manufacturing Stock bought and sold on Commission.

D. P. GROSVENOR, Jr.,

Druggist and Apothecary,
88 MAIN STREET.

Dealer in Drugs, Medicines, Chemicals, Dye Stuffs, and Popular Proprietary Medicines.

Personal attention to Physicians' Prescriptions.
South Danvers, May 29, 1861. 1y

GEO. H. MEACOM

Dealer in

DRUGS & MEDICINES,

Fancy & Toilet Articles, &c.
126 MAIN ST. 126
Nearly opposite Danvers Bank, So. Danvers.

T. A. SWEETSER,

Druggist & Apothecary
37 Main St., So. Danvers,

DEALER IN
Drugs, Medicines, Chemicals, Foreign Leeches, Shakers' Herbs, Dye Stuffs, Gums, Acids, Sponges, Shoulder Braces, Trusses, and Genuine Patent Medicines.

Also, Imported Cigars of choice brands, Perfumery Toilet Articles and Stationery.
Physicians' Prescriptions carefully prepared by experienced persons.

87 MAIN STREET.

GRACE'S CELEBRATED SALVE.

A SURE RELIEF FOR THE SUFFERER.

This Salve is a vegetable preparation, invented in the 17th century, by DR. WM. GRACE, surgeon in King James's army. Through its agency he cured thousands of most serious sores and wounds that baffled the skill of the most eminent physicians of his day, and was regarded by all who knew him as a public benefactor.

Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Burns.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Scalds.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Flesh Wounds.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Corns.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Felons.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Frozen Limbs.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Wens.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Callouses.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Salt Rheum.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Chilblains.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Sore Breast.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Sore Lips.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Erysipelas Sores.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Abscesses.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Ulcers.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Chapped Hands.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Ringworms.

And from Sores and Wounds of the most serious nature down to a common Pimple. It eradicates Pimples from the face, and beautifies the skin. There is no preparation before the public that can equal this Salve in prompt and energetic action for the speedy cure of external diseases, as those who have tried its virtues testify. Soldiers, Sailors, and Fishermen, will find this Salve their best friend.

It has none of the irritating, heating properties of other remedies, but cools, cleanses, and heals the most serious Sores and Wounds. Every family, and especially those containing children, should keep a box on hand in case of accident, for it will save them much trouble, suffering, and money. All it wants is a fair trial to cure old and inveterate Sores.

MANUFACTURED BY
WILLIAM GRACE,
AMESBURY, MASS.

PRICE 25 CENTS PER BOX.

Each box has the above cut and the fac-simile of the proprietor's signature attached to it, which is duly copy righted.

Geo. C. Goodwin & Co., 11 and 12 Marshall street, Weeks & Potter, 170 Washington street, and M. S. Burr & Co., 26 Tremont street, Boston, Wholesale Agents.

For sale by D. P. Grosvenor, T. A Sweetser and George E. Meacom, Druggists, Main street, South Danvers, and at country stores everywhere

THE CLOTHES WRINGER.

JUST OBTAINED
RHOADES' CELEBRATED

NATIONAL CLOTHES WRINGER,

THE VERY BEST YET INVENTED,
AND REALLY A LABOR SAVING MACHINE.
CALL AND EXAMINE.

For Sale by E. SOUTHWICK,
At the EQUITY GROCERY STORE,
South Danvers, Jan 21, 1863. 3m

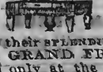
To Let on Essex St., Salem,

The STORE and DWELLING HOUSE connected therewith, No. 250 Essex St. The store is neatly fitted up, is one of the best stands in the city, and admirably adapted for Millinery, Fancy, Dry Goods, or any light business.

The Dwelling part contains nine finished rooms, and is supplied with water, gas, etc.—all in good order and very convenient.

To a satisfactory tenant, the above will be let on reasonable terms. Apply at J. PERLEY'S Shoe Store, next door west. feb 25

THE PIANO FORTES



THAT have attracted so much attention of late, and are so much admired on account of their SPLENDID FULL, RICH, MELLOW TONE, and GRAND FRENCH ACTION, are for sale only at the Office of the Agent, 218 Essex Street, Salem Mass., where reference may be had to many who have purchased. Other Piano Fortes also, are for sale, varying in price from $180 upwards. Please call.

Mch 11 6m. S. MACKINTIRE, Agent.

Choice Spring Pigs for Sale.

THE subscriber offers for sale nice PIGS of Mackie, Prince Albert and Chester County breeds; which the Mackie took the First Premium at the late Cattle Show. Prices reasonable.
BYRON GOODALE,
Near Tapley's Bridge.
South Danvers, April 22, 1863. tf

TO CONSUMPTIVES.

THE ADVERTISER HAVING BEEN RESTORED to health in a few weeks, by a very simple remedy, after having suffered several years with a severe lung affection, and that dread disease, Consumption—is anxious to make known to his fellow-sufferers the means of cure.

To all who desire it, he will send a copy of the prescription used (free of charge,) with the directions for preparing and using the same, which they will find a SURE CURE for CONSUMPTION, ASTHMA, BRONCHITIS, &c. The only object of the advertiser in sending the Prescription is to benefit the afflicted, and spread information which he conceives to be invaluable, and he hopes every sufferer will try his remedy as it will cost them nothing, and may prove a blessing.

Rev. EDWARD A. WILSON, Williamsburgh,
March, 18, 3m Kings County, New York.

New Jersey Lands for Sale.

— ALSO —

GARDEN OR FRUIT FARMS,

Suitable for Grapes, Peaches, Pears, Raspberries, Strawberries, Blackberries, Currants, &c., of 1, 2½, 5, 10 or 20 acres each, at the following prices for the present, viz: 20 acres for $200, 10 acres for $110, 5 acres for $60, 2½ acres for $40, 1 acre for $20. Payable by one dollar a week.

Also, good Cranberry lands, and village lots in CHETWOOD 25 by 100 feet, at $10 each, payable by one dollar a week. The above land and farms are situated at Chetwood, Washington Township, Burlington, New Jersey. For further information, apply with a P. O. Stamp, for a circular, to

B. FRANKLIN CLARK,
feb 18, 1863 No. 90 Cedar St, New York, N. Y.

SPEED, COMFORT AND SAFETY!

FOR NEW YORK.

Norwich Steamboat Train.

The only Boats Landing at Jersey City.

CABIN Passage, $4.00; Deck Passage, $3.00. The new and elegant sixteen wheel cars of the steamboat express train leave the Boston & Worcester Railroad Station, Albany Street., at 5½ P. M., daily, connecting with the new steamers, (built expressly for this line,) CITY OF BOSTON, Capt. WILCOX, Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays; CITY OF NEW YORK, Capt. JEWETT, Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays, which (before proceeding to their Pier, No. 39 North River,) will touch at the wharf of the New Jersey Railroad at Jersey City, (Sundays excepted) thus enabling Southern Passengers to make sure connections with the First Southern Train, and at the same time avoid the great annoyance of the Ferry and Hack transportation in the crowded streets of New York. This insures ample time for Breakfast before the trains leave. Conductors D. F. WALLEN and W. F. BARTON accompany the passengers through.

Tickets, Berths and Staterooms secured at the Railroad Station, and at the Office of the line, 79 Washington Street, Boston.

Through tickets to Philadelphia, Baltimore and Washington can be had at 79 Washington Street, Boston.

WM. DICKEY, Jr., Agent.
Boston, January 7, 1863.

D. W. BOWDOIN,
—ARTIST IN—
PHOTOGRAPHIC PICTURES.

Rooms No. 175 Essex st, Salem, [Downing's Block]

Portraits, Miniatures, and Views, by the Ambrotype, Dagnerreotype, Photograph and Stereoscope process—finished in India Ink, Oil and Water colors.

☞ Particular attention paid to restoring old Dagerreotypes, and other pictures—and making enlarged copies, highly finished. may

Eastern Railroad.

ON and after MONDAY, April 6, 1863, Trains will leave the Eastern Railroad Station, Washington street, Salem, daily. (Sundays excepted):

For Lynn and Boston, *5.50, 7, 8¼, 9, *10, 11 a m., 1, *2¼ 5¼, 7¼, p. m.
Beverly, 8¼ am., 1, 3¼, 5¼, 6.55, 7¼ p m.
W. Beach, Man'r, Gloucester, and Rockport, 8¼ a m., 3¼, 5¼ p m.
Ipswich and Newburyport, 8¼ a m., 1, 3¼, 5¼, 6.55 p m.
Amesbury, 8¼ a m., 1, 5¼ p m.
Portsmouth, 8¼ a m., 3¼, 5¼ p m.
Portland, 8¼ a m., 3¼ p m.

AND FOR SALEM, FROM

Portland, 8¼ a m., 3 p m.
Portsmouth, 7¼, †11¼ a m., †5½ p m.
Amesbury, 7.35, 9.40 a m., 5.50 p m.
Newburyport, 7, 8, 10 a m., 12 m., 6½ p m.
Ipswich, 7.25, 8.25, 10.25 a m., 12.25, 6.40 p m.
Gloucester, 7, 10, 10.10 a m., 4.40 p m.
Manchester, 7.25, 10.25 a m., 4.55 p m.
Beverly, 6.50, 7.50, 8.50, 10.50 a m., 12.50, 5.20, 7.05 pm.
Lynn, 8.05, *9.05, 11.05 a m., 12.50, *1.35, 3.05, *3.35, *4.35, 5.35, *6.20, 52, *7.35, *10.05 p m.
Boston, 7¼, *8¼, 10¼ a m., 12¼, 2¼, 3, *4, 5, 6.10, *7, *9¼.

*Via Saugus Branch.
†On arrival from the East.
‡On Wednesdays this train leaves Boston at 11½ p m. and on Saturdays at 10½ p m.

MARBLEHEAD BRANCH.

Marblehead for Salem, 6¼, 7¼, 8¼, 9¼ a m., 12¼, 1¼, 5¼, 6¼, 7¼ p m.
Salem for Marblehead, 7¼, 8¼, 9.25, 11¼ a m., 1, 3¼, 5¼, 7, 7.50 p m.

SOUTH READING BRANCH.

Trains leave the South Reading Depot in Salem for Boston at 6¼, 9.50 a m., 2.55, 4.55 p m
Boston for Salem, 7 a m., 12 m., 3, 5¼ p m.

ESSEX RAILROAD.

Leave Salem for Lawrence and way stations, 7, 11½ a m., 4.50 p m.
Lawrence for Salem, 8 a m., 12.40, 6 p m.
Danvers for Salem, 8.40 a m., 1.20, 6.40 p m.
South Danvers for Salem, 7¼ a m., 12¼, 3¼, 6¼ p m.

J. PRESCOTT, Superintendent.
Boston, April 6, 1863.

Salem and Lowell Railroad.

ON and after MONDAY, April 6, 1863, Trains will run as follows:

Leave Lowell for Salem, 7.25 a m., and *2.45 p m.
Leave Salem for Lowell, *9.40 a m. and 5.55 p m.

Passengers are not allowed to carry baggage above $50 in value, and that personal, unless notice is given and an extra amount paid. Season tickets do not entitle the holder to take baggage.

*Freight Train with passenger car attached.

F. H. NOURSE, Local Superintendent.
April 6, 1863.

To Let.

A SMALL but pleasant and convenient Chamber Tenement, in the house formerly occupied by the late Wood Forness, upon the corner of Washington and Pleasant Streets. For particulars apply to

SIDNEY C. BANCROFT.
South Danvers, April 22. tf

JOHN FARRELL,
DRAPER AND TAILOR,

HAVING removed to his old place of business, 138 MAIN ST., South Danvers, (over Batchelder's Grocery Store), is prepared to Cut, Make, Repair, or furnish Garments, for Men and Youths at short notice.

South Danvers, April 1. tf

Crockery Ware.

A FULL assortment of China and Crockery Ware; Wooden Ware; Table Cutlery; Tea Trays; Britannia Ware and Silver Plated Ware, &c—for sale at the General Furnishing Store for Housekeepers, No. 32 Front street.

ap 22 S C & E A SIMONDS.

GLASS WARE.

CUT and Pressed Goblets; Tumblers; Dishes in great variety; just opened at

S C & E A SIMONDS', 32 Front st.
mch 25

CARD PHOTOGRAPHS.

RAPHAEL'S Hours, Liberty, On the Beach, Evening, Prince and Princess, etc—at
may 13 G M WHIPPLE & A A SMITH'S

FLOWER AND GARDEN SEEDS,

WARRANTED fresh and correctly put up
G M WHIPPLE & A A SMITH.

HILTON'S INSOLUBLE CEMENT,

FOR mending Crockery, Glass, Wood, Leather, etc.—25 cents a bottle.
G M WHIPPLE & A A SMITH.

PHOTOGRAPH ALBUMS.

BEAUTIFUL and new styles, in great variety:

Card Pictures of the "Prince and Princess," "Father Cleveland," and others at
G M WHIPPLE & A A SMITH'S.

A FINE assortment of Paper Shades for Kerosene Lamps, just opened at
S C & E A SIMONDS, 32 Front st., Salem.

Cards.

WILLIAM G. CHOATE,
Attorney and Counsellor at Law,
251 Essex St., Salem.
Salem, August 6, 1862. tf

THOMAS M. STIMPSON,
Attorney and Counsellor at Law,
194 ESSEX STREET, SALEM.
Residence Lowell street, South Danvers.

B. C. PERKINS,
Attorney and Counsellor at Law,
South Danvers—Office in Allen's Building.

JOHN W. PROCTOR
Counsellor at Law,
Office near the Monument.

A. A. PUTNAM,
Attorney and Counsellor at Law,
CORNER MAPLE AND ELM ST.,
DANVERS.

ALFRED A. ABBOTT,
Attorney and Counsellor,
Office, No. 24 Washington Street, Salem;
House, Main St., So. Danvers.

IVES & PEABODY,
Attorneys and Counsellors at Law,
Have removed their Office to
Rooms formerly occupied by Hon. Otis P. Lord,
NO. 27 WASHINGTON STREET, SALEM,
STEPHEN H. IVES, jr. JOHN. B. PEABODY

SIDNEY C. BANCROFT,
Attorney and Counsellor at Law,
27 Washington Street, Salem.

H. O. WILEY,
Attorney and Counsellor at Law,
Office, Allen's Building, So. Danvers.

Claims against the Government for Bounty Back Pay, and Pensions, promptly attended to

A. S. CRAWFORD
Dentist,
No. 4 MAIN STREET, So. DANVERS SQUARE
Mechanical Dentistry Neatly Executed.
Teeth Extracted by Electricity without Extra Charge

W. L. BOWDOIN,
SURGEON DENTIST,
No, 208 Essex Street, Salem, (Opposite the Market
Residence—No. 57 Washington street.
jan 11—1y

F. POOLE
INSURANCE AGENT,
Allen's Building (up stairs),
Deeds drawn, and other common forms.

NEWMAN & SYMONDS,
DEALERS IN
Family Groceries, Flour & Grain,
HARD WARE AND CROCKERY,
Ready Made Clothing, Gents' Furnishing Goods, Hats, Caps, Boots, Shoes, &c.,
South Danvers Square, opp. Congregational Church
SAM'L NEWMAN, NATH'L SYMONDS.

S. C. & E. A. SIMONDS,
DEALERS IN
Crockery, China and Hardware; Paper Hangings; Solar and Entry Lamps; Paints, Oil, and Window Glass.
No. 32 Front street, Lawrence Place,
feb13 SALEM, MASS.

HENRY L. WHIDDEN,
HOUSE AND SIGN PAINTER,
Glazier and Paperer,
Central Street, South Danvers.
All orders promptly and faithfully executed.
jan2-1y

E. S. FLINT,
DEALER IN
West India Goods, Country Produce,
No. 2 Main Street, South Danvers.

JESSE SMITH
No. 262 Essex Street, Salem,
Importer and Dealer in
Gold and Silver Watches,
MARINE CHRONOMETERS,
Aneroid Barometers, Spy Glasses, &c.

WILLIAM BLANEY,
HOUSE & SIGN PAINTER
Grainer, Glazier and Papef Hanger.
164 MAIN STREET, Corner of Grove.
WINDOWS and BLINDS cheap for cash.
mch6-tf

JOHN MOULTON,
LIVERY STABLE,
Central Street, South Danvers.

Mr. M. will endeavor to keep up the good reputation of his stable, by still keeping good Horses and Carriages. jan 7, 1863.

SPRING STYLE
DRESS HATS,
NOW READY
AT JACKSON'S,
101 COURT STREET, BOSTON.

Also a large and varied assortment of CAPS and SOFT HATS, for Boys' and Men's wear. Those wishing articles in the above line would do well to call before purchasing.

JOSEPH A. JACKSON.
Boston, April 1, 1863. 3m

Chickering & Sons' Piano-Fortes.
Hallett & Cumston's Piano-Fortes.
Hallett & Davis's Piano-Fortes.

We select our Piano-Fortes from the above firms and warrant them to give perfect satisfaction Our terms are reasonable, and all persons in the city and neighboring towns can be accommodated by calling at 76 Federal street.

FOR SALE—Second-hand Piano-Fortes,—Chickering's and others.
ap 29 ANN R. BRAY.

WARRANTED COLD PENS.

PATENT POINTS—can be used upon the coarsest paper, or upon most any rough surface without the least detriment. Call and see them, at
G M WHIPPLE & A A SMITH'S.

GREENS.

HAMPDEN Green—Chrome Green—Verdigris and Imperial Green—for sale by
ap 29 S C & E A SIMONDS, 32 Front st.

WOODEN WARE.

A FULL assortment of Wooden Ware, such as Tubs, Pails, Boxes, Trays and Bowls, Soap Bowls, Wash Boards, Rolling Pins, Mortars, Clothes Sticks, Clothes Horses, etc,—for sale at S C & E A SIMONDS, 32 Front st.

100,000 BARRELS OF THE LODI MANUFACTURING COMPANY'S
POUDRETTE,
111 COMMERCIAL ST., BOSTON, MASS.

This Company, with a capital of $150,000, the most extensive works of the kind in the world, and an experience in manufacturing of over 23 years, with a reputation long established, having also the exclusive control of all the night soil of the great city of New York, are prepared to furnish an article, which is, without doubt, the CHEAPEST AND VERY BEST fertilizer in market. It greatly increases the yield, and ripens the crop from two to three weeks earlier, at an expense of from three to four dollars per acre, with little or no labor. Also, FIFTY TONS of BONE TAFEU, being a mixture of bone and night soil ground fine, at $45 per ton—a superior article for grain, &c. A pamphlet containing all necessary information may be had free by addressing a letter to the LODI MANUFACTURING CO., No. 111 Commercial Street, Boston, Mass.

Price of POUDRETTE, $1.65 per barrell. Seven barrells and over delivered free of charge.

H. & H. G. HUBON,
WASHINGTON STREET, SALEM
Manufacturers of
Rose Wood, Mahogany, Black Walnut and Stained Wood
COFFINS and CASKETS.

MAKING this our exclusive business, we are ready at all times and at the shortest notice to furnish Grave Clothes of various styles, as well as Coffins and Caskets of the finest finish. Personal attention given, and delivered without extra charge to any of the neighboring towns. All orders by express or otherwise will receive prompt attention.

Black Walnut and White Wood Boards, Plank and Joists for sale.

dec 14—tf

GAYLE & CO.,
GENERAL COMMISSION MERCHANTS,
DEALERS IN
Flour, Grain and Produce,
Manufacturers' Agents for the sale of
Concentrated Leaven, Soda and Pearlash Saleratus, and Bi Carb. Soda.
PHILLIPS WHARF. - - - Salem.

T. HARDY, JR.,
—Dealer in—
DOORS, SASHES, BLINDS,
Glazed Sash, Painted Blinds,
FENCE PALES, STAIR BALUSTERS, FRAMING PINS, &c.,
No. 26 FRONT STREET,
Salem, January 14, 1863—6m

Salem and Danvers Aqueduct Co'y.

ALL persons using the water of the Salem and South Danvers Aqueduct are hereby notified that the water rents, for the six months ending May 1, 1863, are now due, and that they are required to pay the same, at the office of the Company, No 2 Sewall street, on the 1st day of May next. Should the bills remain unpaid for thirty days, the water will be stopped, in conformity to the regulations of the Company.

Office hours, from 9 to 1 o'clock, and from 2 to 5.

Per order of the Directors,
apr 1 WM. JELLY, Collector.

HEYLINGBERG'S
Hair Dressing Saloon,
24 MAIN ST., SOUTH DANVERS.

TARIFF OF PRICES:

Shaving,	6 cts.
Hair Cutting,	12 cts.
Champooing,	15 cts.
Champooing and Hair Cutting,	25 cts.

No more new Quarterly Customers taken.
In consequence of the scarcity of Change, 18 checks will be sold for one dollar.
South Danvers, Dec 17, 1862.

THOMAS DAVIS,
ADVERTISING AGENT
For the principal New England Newspapers, remains at the old stand, No. 23 Cornhill, Boston, where you will find him still loyal to the Constitution, the Laws, and Advertising.
Boston, Jan 29, 1862. tf

WALKING MADE EASY.

DR. P. KENISON,
CHIROPODIST,
215 Washington St., Boston,
Cures Hard and Soft Corns, Bunions, Club Nails, Nails penetrating the Flesh, Warts, &c., in a manner that will satisfy the most incredulous.

NEW YORK WHITE LEAD.

2500 L New York White Lead;
Also Foreo River White Lead—for sale by
mch 4 S C & E A SIMONDS.

NEW SPRING SHAWLS,

IN Stripe, Plaid and Plain, of rich styles—just received and for sale by mch 4 ANN R. BRAY, 76 Federal st.

WIRE GOODS.

WIRE Rat Traps; Broilers; Steamers; Sieves etc., just received at
S C & E A SIMONDS', 32 Front st.

DIARIES--1863.

VN excellent assortment at the lowest prices, for sale by G M WHIPPLE & A A SMITH.

NEW NEEDLE THREADER.

DOUBLE-ENDED, Excelsior Sewing Needle Threader and Worsted Threader combined—of great utility for near sighted or nervous people in threading needles, numbering from 4 to 12, and also Darning Needles.

Call and see them, at
mch 4 G M WHIPPLE & A A SMITH'S.

ACCOUNT BOOKS,

MANUFACTURED under our own supervision, of superior paper and strong binding—a good assortment always on hand.

Every variety of Blank Books made with any style of ruling and binding, of the best paper and warranted to suit.

G M WHIPPLE & A A SMITH.

SUMMER LANDSCAPES,

AND "WINTER SCENES," for Albums—12 different Views for 62 cents—beautifully colored.

G M WHIPPLE & A A SMITH'S

FOLIO PHOTOGRAPH ALBUMS.

PREFERRED by many persons to any other style—manufactured by
ap 29 G M WHIPPLE & A A SMITH.

DIAMONDS.

GLAZIER'S Diamonds—for sale by
S C & E A SIMONDS, 32 Front st.

FAMILY BIBLES,

FOR sale in great variety and at low prices, at G M WHIPPLE & A A SMITH.

NEW BOOKS,

AT G. M. WHIPPLE & A. A. SMITH'S.

Good Thoughts in Bad Times and other Papers, by Thomas Fuller, DD;

Life of Chopin, by T Liszt, translated from the French, by Martha Walker Cook;

The Strange Adventures of Capt Dangerous, a narrative in plain English attempted by Geo Aug Sala;

History of the Reformation in Europe in the time of Calvin, by J H Merle D'Aubignee, DD;

Life in the Open Air, and other Papers, by Theodore Winthrop;

Letters on the Ministry of the Gospel—by Francis Wayland;

Paris in America, by Edward Labonlaye;

Two Pictures; or, What we think of Ourselves, and What the World thinks of us, by M J McIntosh;

Agnes and the Little Key; or, Bereaved Parents instructed and comforted—by her Father—eighth edition, revised.

may 27 Sign of the Five Golden Books.

W. E. P. SMYTH,
Attorney and Counsellor at Law,
Proctor in Admiralty, and Commissioner of Deeds for the several States.
Frazier's Building, over the Post Office,
LYNN, MASS.

Having peculiar means for prosecuting, with accuracy and dispatch, all claims against Government, especially those for Bounty, Back Pay and Pensions, I have made this a specialty. Several months' residence in Washington enabled me to become thoroughly conversant with the routine of business in all the Departments, through which claims, of whatever nature, are passed, and also familiar with the practice in the U. S. Court of Claims; in addition to which I have a partner there resident, and a former partner in the Treasury Department, which advantages give me unexcelled facilities for the successful prosecution of business in any way connected with Government.

Important to Soldiers, Marines and their Heirs.

Persons enlisted in the U. S. Service, Land or Naval, since March 1, 1861, if disabled in the service, are entitled to Pension; Relatives of Persons deceased in the service are entitled to Bounty and Pension; in the following order:

1st. The Widow.
2d. The Children.
3d. The Father.
4th. The Mother.
5th The Brothers and Sisters collectively.

LETTERS OF ADMINISTRATION need not be taken on, in ordinary cases, to enable heirs of persons deceased in the service to obtain Pensions and Bounty.

When a discharge is granted for disability, in no case should the Oath of Identity on the back of the Discharge be filled up. The safest course is, to carry all papers at once to an Attorney, without tampering with them. All those who have claims, should present them without delay, as soon, the pressure will be so great upon the Auditor's Office, by reason of numerous applications, that applicants will be subjected to vexatious delay in getting their claims audited.

NO CHARGE MADE UNTIL CLAIMS ARE PAID.

Claims left at the Post Office, South Danvers, will be promptly forwarded.

Lynn, Aug 27, 1862—1y

CHARLES S. BUFFUM,
FURNISHING UNDERTAKER,
Central street, South Danvers,

HAVING provided himself with a HEARSE, is prepared to attend Funerals in any of the neighboring towns, with one or a pair of Horses.

He keeps as good an assortment of

COFFINS AND CASKETS,

as can be found at any establishment, and at the lowest prices.

He will also attend to Laying Out, etc.

All orders from the neighboring towns met with prompt attention. jan 14

SLATING. SLATING.

GEORGE FOWLER & COMPA'Y,

NO. 2 ST. PETER COURT., SALEM, respectfully inform their friends and the citizens of this and neighboring towns and cities that they are prepared to execute all orders for Slating, promptly and faithfully.

Roofs covered with any description of Slates, or repaired at short notice.

All work undertaken will be warranted.
Address—Box 366, Salem Post Office.
Salem, January 28—1863. tf

PATTERSON S
LEATHER HANDLING MACHINE

THE undersigned are agents for the above machine. It can be seen in operation at Pinder & Brown's Tannery.

may 7—3m CLARK & GIDDINGS.

MESSRS. CLARK & GIDDINGS,
Wallis Street, South Danvers,
Are Agents for
GEORGE W. FISKE & CO.'S
PATENT EAVE TROUCHS
CUTTERS, CONDUCTORS AND
PIPE FOR DRAINS.
South Danvers, May 22, 1861.

EDWARD C. WEBSTER,
ONE PRICE
HAT, CAP & FUR STORE,
231 ESSEX, and 34 WASHINGTON ST

R. C. MANNING & CO.
Successors to JOHN DIKE & CO.,
DEALERS IN
COAL, WOOD, BARK, HAY, &c,
188 DERBY STREET,
SALEM, MASS.
N. C. ROBBINS, R. C. MANNING.
oct17

FRANKLIN COAL.

JUST landed, a cargo of FRANKLIN COAL—the best in the world for domestic use.
POTTER, BACHELDER & CO.,
Successors to M. Black, Jr.
Danversport, May 6, 1861. tf

E. N. PRICE,
Manufacturer and Dealer in
HARNESSES,
SADDLES, BRIDLES,
AND WHIPS.
— ALSO —
Trunks, Valises and Traveling Bags.

All orders for Manufacturing and Repairing executed with promptness, and in the best manner.

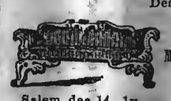
237 Essex Street, Salem, Mass.
mch13-tf

THOMAS PINNOCK,
SLATER,
SALEM, MASS.

Orders may be left at his Yard, No. 25 Peabody St., or at his house No. 6 Hancock street, South Salem.

Roofs covered with any kind of Slates, according to order. All work warranted.
Salem, May 7, 1862. tf

CURRIER & MILLETT,
Dealers in



Furniture, Chairs,
MATTRESSES, FEATHERS, &c
259 & 261 ESSEX ST.
Salem, dec 14—1y

AARON T. LOWE,
DEALER IN
BOOTS, SHOES AND RUBBERS,
76 BOSTON STREET, 76.
aug 6 SALEM. tf

NOTICE.

THE subscriber being about to leave town for a few months, would take this opportunity to inform his customers and friends that his shop on Pleasant Street will be kept open during his absence by Mr. JOHN P. FRIEND, who will faithfully attend to any orders.

JAMES PERKINS.
South Danvers, Sept. 3, 1862.

ORGANDIE MUSLINS.

WE shall open new Spring styles of Organdie Muslins to-day.

Ladies will do well to buy now, as prices are advancing daily. ANN R. BRAY,
mch 4 76 Federal street.

DIARIES FOR
1863. Every variety and style—all sizes—for sale at
G M WHIPPLE & A A SMITH'S,
nov 26 Sign of the Five Golden Books.

MUNROE'S
(LATE REED'S)
SOUTH DANVERS & BOSTON
RAILROAD EXPRESS.

Express leaves South Danvers at 10 1-2 a. m.
Freight " " " at 5 p. m.
Express leaves Boston at 3 1-2 p. m.
Freight " " at 5 p. m.

OFFICE at FREIGHT DEPOT, South Danvers Square.

Order Box W. M. Jacobs' store, Main street.

EXPRESS OFFICE, in Boston, 5 Congress Square; Freight Office, 1 Fulton st.

Also an Order Box at 86 Pearl street.

Particular attention paid to removing Furniture, collecting Bills, Notes, Drafts, &c.

ARMY EXPRESS.

Packages received and sent forward daily for Baltimore, Fortress Monroe, Annapolis, Washington, Alexandria, and any other point where the different regiments are stationed.

WM. C. MUNROE,
South Danvers, may 13—tf

TAKE NOTICE.

THAT Dr. Ham's Dyspepsia Remedy has been before the public for the past ten years. And in that time the people who have used it will vouch for the benefit they have derived from it. The character of his article and its reputation can also be obtained from the dealers who sell it, or have sold it for any length of time, to both of those, Dr Ham refers and is willing to stand the test. And also challenges any new compound to produce the same results, let alone delicacy of flavor, of his INVIGORATING SPIRIT, which for ITS EFFECTS UPON THE BILE, A TORPED LIVER, LOW SPIRITS, or when the blood is affected as seen by SKIN DISEASES or its ACTION UPON THE KIDNEYS, in fact for any person who is run down by the wear and care of this world will find relief in this old and well tried remedy.

Astonishing.

TO Dr. Ham, who has modestly put before the public his DYSPEPSIA REMEDY for ten years past, to look back and see the number of tremendous articles within that time, that have sprang up like a rocket, and gone down like the stick which guides it in its glorious assent. Some come out and claim to tell the public they use unknown Barks from South America, with any quantity of rum from the West Indias, &c. Dr Ham takes this opportunity to refer to the MEDICAL FACULTY here and everywhere that his article is in use, as to its qualifications, and challenges any one to produce a person, male or female, who has used it as directed, that will not speak favorable of it for DISORGANIZED STOMACH, Dyspepsia, loss of appetite, want of action of the Kidneys, as well as many other complaints that humanity are afflicted with.

To Ladies.

DR. HAM'S Dyspepsia Remedy is just the thing you require to remove the langour caused by weakness and debility; it invigorates the system, causes the blood to take new life in its varied course through the system, in fact it gives tone to the system and will relieve and remove the thousand irregularities that from various causes you are afflicted with. For Dyspepsia it is a never failing remedy, it has stood the test of years, and we have yet to hear of its failing to give relief to the afflicted thousands who have received health and happiness by its use.

To Gentlemen.

DR. HAM knows that you do not always pay much attention to the many different articles put before you in the paper, but we would refer you to our agents who you will find are the respectable merchants and dealers, in regard to the Invigorating Spirit; some of them have sold it for years, and know well the reputation it has amongst those who have used it in assisting nature to eradicate diseases. It will renovate the system, as it acts directly on the blood, removing all obstructions to the general health, will cure Livor Complaints, Dyspepsia, Nervous Affections, Sour Stomach, Headache, Weakness, Loss of Appetite, as well as obstruction in the Kidney, Bladder or Urinary Organs. Try it. We will guarantee you will be satisfied with the result.

General Depot, 62 Liberty Street, New York. Sold by Weeks & Potter, 154 Washington Street, M. S. Burr & Co, 26 Tremont Street, G. C. Goodwin & Co., 11 Marshall Street, Boston; and in South Danvers by George E. Meacom, T. A. Sweetser, D. P. Grosvenor, Jr., Main Street; and by Druggists everywhere.

Feb 29, 1863 1y

NEW ENGLAND
FERTILIZER DEPOT,
No. 111 Commercial St., Boston.

TO FARMERS AND TRADERS!

WE desire to call your attention to our stock of FERTILIZERS, having the largest supply and fullest assortment of reliable brands ever offered in this market. Our stock embraces

Coe's, Hoyt's, Rhodes } SUPER-PHOSPHATE LIME.
No. 1 PERUVIANGUANO.
GROUND BONE, [coarse and fine.]
BONE MEAL. LAND PLASTER.
FISH GUANO. BONE TAFEU.
LIME, CEMENT, &c., &c.

We are also Sole Agents for the
LODI MANUFACTURING CO.'S
POUDRETTE.

Get our terms before purchasing elsewhere. We sell at manufacturers' prices. Samples can be seen of all of the above; also a pamplet, with a Farmer's Almanac for 1863, may be had free on application by mail or otherwise.

J. M. & P. RICHARDS,
Sales Office 111 Commercial St., Boston, Mass.
apr 1—3m

CHEAP FIRE-WOOD.

THE subscriber has on hand 30,000 bushels of

Patent Granular Fuel,

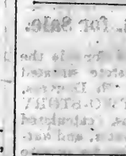
which he will deliver, by wholesale, in lots to suit purchasers, anywhere in this town, Salem, Lynn, Swampscott, or Nahant. Orders sent by mail (or by express,) or left in Salem, at the office, 27 Washington street (3d story), or 17 Briggs st., will receive prompt attention.

List of Prices.

25	Bushels, delivered,		2 25
50	do	do	4 00
100	do	do	7 50

Orders left at the Union Store, Newman & Symonds, and the Omnibus Office.

BYRON GOODELL.
South Danvers, June 18.



E. S. FLINT,
Manufacturer and Dealer in
INNER SOLES,
AND SHOE STIFFENINGS OF ALL KINDS.
2 MAIN STREET, SOUTH DANVERS.

E. R. PERKINS,
PHOTOGRAPHIC ARTIST
241 Essex Street, Salem.
Patent Ambrotypes, Stereoscopes,
Photographs, Sphercotypes, Melainotypes, and patent leather Pictures, of various sizes, taken with all the improvements of the art. Portraits, Miniatures, Engravings, &c., accurately copied. Views taken when desired. jan 11

REMOVAL!
AUGUSTUS HAMMOND,
Manufacturer and Repairer of
BOOTS AND SHOES,

HAS removed from his old place of business to the Railroad Ground, opposite the Old South Church, where he would be happy to continue to receive favors from his friends and patrons. may 21

CAMELS HAIR GOODS.

OWING to the small stock of Camels Hair goods in the market, prices have very much advanced. We shall give our customers the advantage of buying at the old prices, as we have a good assortment on hand.

ANN R. BRAY,
mch 4 76 Federal street.

JUVENILE BOOKS,

A VERY large assortment for sale by
G M WHIPPLE & A A SMITH.

SOUTH DANVERS
POST OFFICE.

GENERAL MAIL ARRANGEMENT.

MAILS CLOSE
At 10 3-4 A. M., and 4 3-4 P. M.
MAILS DUE
At 9 1-2 A. M., and 3 P. M.

Post Office open (Sundays excepted) from 7 o'clock, A. M., till 8 P. M. Saturdays open till 8 1-2 P. M.

F. POOLE, P. M.
South Danvers, Oct. 1, 1862.

Poor Richard's Eye and Ear Water.
Prof. M. G. BROWN.
SCIENTIFIC ARTICLE ON THE EYE AND EAR.

Reader, allow me to call your attention to a fact which hitherto you have not been acquainted with, namely, that there is not a sound eye in the land. The eyes are the only members of the body totally neglected; there is nothing done for the eye; its wants are neither studied or regarded. This untiring servant is the first in action at birth, and the last at death, yet it seems to pass even common observation.

Notwithstanding all the ignorance and neglect of the eye, it is unquestionably true that every department of the human system is dependent on it for life and health.

The Divine Machinator has placed 8000 tubes and glands around the eyes, through which the saltish fountain (same as supplies the tear) is designed to pass as dew, finding its way to every crevice and nook in the flesh, whose chief tendency is to mucus. This fountain is to the body what dew is to the plants. The flesh can only be kept free from mucus (which is the precursor of disease) through the tubes and glands around the eyes being keep open, allowing the teary, saltish fountain to pass freely forward. If the laws of mind and body are disregarded or insulted, these faithful sentinels shut up like a sensitive plant, thus refusing to pass this life, giving dew to the parched flesh, whereby the entire machinery of the human body can alone find its natural moisture. When this fountain is cut off, the system is open to every kind of disease, which first begins with small streaks of blood-shot at the bottom of the ball of the eye; these are streaks of death if not removed. Examine your eyes and you will find these streaks moving over the white of the eye towards the pupil; generally the eye gets scumy and glassy; the ball turns a green or yellowish color, this is a sure indication of the following diseases (which are solely caused by the moisture being cut off from the system): Nervousness, headache, earache, deafness, loss of hair, neuralgia, rheumatism, blotches on the face and skin, diptheria, sore throat, bronchitis, catarrah, soreness of the chest, decay of the lungs, deprivation of the fluids; these, with all other diseases, are caused as above described. One stoppage leads to another, until disease destroys the system.

To secure moisture for a patient is the only hope of the physician. Benjamin Franklin has immortalized himself by such sayings as, an ounce of prevention is better than a pound of cure.

Reader, if you desire to be saved from the kindred diseases which make life a burden, then create an appetite in your eyes by giving them a drink of Poor Richard every morning immediately after you wash, and just before retiring at night. Do not say—Let well enough alone; consider the lilies of the field, they receive the life giving dew while they are in perfect health—go thou and do likewise.

Please read the following letter from the Rev. P. S. Henson, pastor of the Broad Street Baptist Church:

Philadelphia, Oct. 17, 1862.

From injuries received in my right eye when a boy, a chronic inflammation had been produced, in consequence of which I suffered constant martyrdom. Every moment of my waking life was embittered, and I was frequently unable to sleep at night.

A variety of remedies had been resorted to without success, and I entertained the purpose, as a last resort, of having the ball taken out of its sockett in the hope of finding thus relief.

In the meanwhile, most providentially I noticed one day in a shop window a bottle of Poor Richard's Eye Water. I had never heard of it before, but determined to try it—and did with the most delightful results. In a very few days the painful irritation was removed—I could bear the strongest light, and went forth as it were to the enjoyment of a new life. I now keep a bottle of it always in the house, and if my eye seems at all disposed to anoy me, I give it a dose, and that is an end of it. I take occasion to say further, that my wife used to suffer severely at times from protracted pain in and over her eyes, and she has found Poor Richard's Eye Water a sovereign specific in her case, giving her almost instant relief.

Grateful to God for the benefit I have personally received, I cannot but recommend the preparation most cordially to all who have been sufferers like myself.

P. S. HENSON,
Pastor of the Broad Street Baptist Church.
Residence 1430 Poplar St., Philadelphia.

Thousands of certificates could be published, of the most remarkable cures on record. It is a perfect restorer of weak sight and dim vision; it cures Deafness, Catarrh, Sore Throat, prevents Loss of Hair, with all kindred diseases.

Directions.—Bathe with a glass tube, at least the ear (many bathe the eyes with the finger). Ask the druggist for the tube—it costs 6 cents.

Poor Richard's Eye Water sells at 25 cents per bottle.

Sold by George E. Meacom, South Danvers, and Druggists everywhere. Weeks & Potter, wholesale agents, Boston.

MRS. M. G. BROWN,
410 Arch St. Philadelphia, Proprietor.

Are you Insured?

THE subscriber would respectfully call your attention to the fact that he is fully prepared to effect INSURANCE AGAINST FIRE, to any amount, at current rates, on

Dwelling Houses, Barns and their contents, Stores, Stocks of Goods, Furniture, &c. &c., and on buildings in process of erection,

And that he is the authorized Agent for the following responsible Stock and Mutual Companies, viz:

Thames Insurance Co., (Stock,) Norwich, Conn. Capital—$500,000.
Amos W. Prentice, Pres. Oliver F. Rice, Sec'y
Conway Insurance Company, (Stock) Boston. Capital and Surplus—$260,000.
James F. Whitney, Pres. David C. Rogers, Sec'y.
City Insurance Company, (Stock) Boston. Capital—$150,000.
Samuel P. Hayward, Pres. Austin W. Benton, Sec'y

Also, will effect Insurance on the LIVES OF INDIVIDUALS, for one year, seven years, or for the whole term of life, in the Massachusetts Mutual Life Ins. Co., Springfield, Mass. Capital and Assetts—$373,000.

Caleb Rice, Pres. D. B. Bacon, Sec'y.
William Mack, M. D., Medical Examiner.

WM. ARCHER, Jr.,
18 Washington st. and 34 Front st., Salem.
ej b20-1

E. F. BURNHAM,
SOLE AGENT FOR
SARGENT & CO.S'
MAGIC SOAP
For South Danvers & Salem.

OFFICE—Central St., opp. Lowell Depot, at Burnham's Express Office, So. Danvers.

Price $3.50 per 100 Lbs.

Orders sent by mail or otherwise to So. Danvers will be promptly attended to. tf-oct3

WM. C. HENDERSON,
MANUFACTURER OF
PLAIN AND FANCY
PAPER BOXES,
No. 235 ESSEX STREET,
Sign of "Nest of Boxes,"
July 23 SALEM. tf

SUMMER ARRANGEMENT
TO LYNN & BOSTON
BY OMNIBUS

South Danvers Wizard.

VOL. IV. SOUTH DANVERS, MASS., WEDNESDAY, JUNE 10, 1863. NO. 23.

THE SOUTH DANVERS WIZARD

Is published every WEDNESDAY, at Allen's Building, South Danvers Square, by

CHARLES D. HOWARD.

TERMS—Two Dollars a year.

ADVERTISEMENTS inserted at reasonable rates.

[The following patriotic lines, written by a lady of Southern birth and parentage, breathe the true spirit of loyalty. They were written in Paris, and communicated to the WIZARD through a friend in Danvers.]

"DEGENERATE SONS OF ILLUSTRIOUS SIRES."

Degenerate sons of illustrious sires!
Lost—lost to all honor and noble desires;
From the arms of your own mother land ye have turned,
To fawn on the tyrant your forefathers spurned!

From your high rank, as peers, on your own native shore,
You have stooped to be beggars at monarchy's door;
You would barter your birth-right as American braves,
To become haughty England's dependants and slaves!

To whom does the right of revolution belong?
To those who have suffered intoll'rable wrong;
But where is the wrong that should tempt you to trade
Your nation's proud honor for the foreigner's aid?

Sons of the South! I was born in your land,
And I loved it for all that was noble and grand;
I mourned o'er your folly, was tender to blame,
'Till you brought this disgrace on America's name.

In the future, what proud, noble aim can you see,
But to cringe and fawn on your lords o'er the sea,
Your name a foul bye-word in every mouth—
Prate no more of honor, oh! sons of the South.

Selected.

MY MATE'S SECRET.

From the Log-Book of an Old Shipmaster.

It was at Mobile, in command of the ship Satellite, and was loaded for the Mediterranean. There had been sickness among our crew, and both my first and second mates were taken down. My first mate died, and the second mate became so reduced by disease that he resolved not to go out with me. The fever had settled on his lungs, and he made his way as soon as possible for his home in New England. Three weeks had I lain idle, with my ship all ready for sailing, and I could wait no longer, even if I sailed short-handed. Seamen were scarce in the Gulf ports. I had lost six of my crew, beside my two mates, and as yet I had found but four men to fill their places, and not one of them knew any thing of navigation. My third mate was with me, and I resolved that I would sail as soon as I could find one more officer. One morning, just as I was leaving my ship for the purpose of going up into town, a man came on board who wished to speak with the captain. I told him I was that individual.

He said his name was Gilbert Carboy. He was a seaman by profession, and had commanded a ship. He belonged in New York State, but had, for the past two years, been out in Texas, engaged in grape culture. A partner, who had been with him in the business, decamped with all the money, and he was now forced to seek a livelihood at his old profession.—He had been informed that I wanted an officer, and he would like the situation.

Carboy was about forty years of age, tall and slim, but yet quite muscular, with black hair and large black eyes, his face somewhat too pale for robust health, and with features of singular beauty. I conducted him to my cabin, where I examined him in the various departments of our profession, and found him as thoroughly acquainted with all the principles of seamanship and navigation as I was myself. I was fully assured that he was as competent to sail the ship as an officer could be, and yet I hesitated about engaging him. There was something in his look and manner that led me to distrust him, but why it was so I could not tell. There was, at times, a sort of wandering, uncertain look in his eye, and I fancied he started, once in while, as though something frightened him. In short he appeared to be ill at ease with himself, and I finally intimated to him that I feared all was not right. There was another start as I said this, and I could see that he trembled. He gazed a few moments into my face, and then said:

"Captain, I know what you mean.—You see something odd in my behavior. I don't blame you—I can feel it myself. I know that I act strangely sometimes, and try to avoid it. However, it will soon wear off when I once get on salt water again. It must seem strange, but I assure you there is nothing to fear.—You think I act peculiarly. Perhaps you might act the same if you were in my place. I am sensitive—perhaps too sensitive. It does not agree with me to have a friend, whom I have trusted as a brother, run away with all my money, leaving me to meet debts to the amount of twenty thousand dollars. How would you feel, captain, if you couldn't appear abroad in daylight without fearing the approach of a creditor at every step?—How would you feel if you expected every minute to find the hands of the sheriff clapped upon your shoulder? Egad, I don't believe you would be particularly distinguished for a bearing of manly independence."

I frankly confessed that I should not.

"No, sir," he resumed; "and you would want to get away from the curse; and if ever there could be a moment when your heart would expose its anxiety, it would be when the opportunity to escape was at hand, but not secured—when your chances were hanging in a balance, and you knew not which way the beam would turn. You want a man to help you sail your ship. I am that man. I have been unfortunate, but, mercy! do not imagine my misfortunes of the past can hang to me on the blue sea!"

I finally resolved to take the man, and run the risk. I gave him the berth of first mate, and at once prepared for sea. He entered at once upon the discharge of his duties, and was not long in proving himself a thorough seaman. Within six hours from the time of installing Gilbert Carboy in his office, my ship had passed Mobile Point, and was dashing through the waters of the Gulf before a fair wind.

For a week I overlooked my mate's movements pretty narrowly, but saw nothing directly out of the way. I never knew a better seaman or a more accomplished officer; and yet there were times when I did not feel wholly easy. There were times when Mr. Carboy seemed wandering and lost, as though some dread incubus hung upon him. The longer I was with him, and the more I watched him, the more convinced did I become that something more than the memory of creditors weighed upon his mind. One day as we sat in the cabin alone, I spoke to him upon the subject.

"Carboy," said I, "you want a friend."

He started and looked eagerly into my face.

"You have some secret upon your mind that you had better entrust to the keeping of a second party," I resumed.

He turned pale as death, and grasped the edge of the table to steady himself.

"A secret!" he whispered. "How do you know that I have a secret?"

"Because I can see it in your looks and actions," I replied. "Come, Carboy, you need not fear to trust me.—There was something besides debt. Am I not right?"

There was a quiver of the frame—a convulsive effort—and then my mate was calm and quiet—a little paler than usual, and with more of the strange look in his large black eyes; but still calm. Then he laughed, and said:

"My dear Captain, you are entirely mistaken. Mortal man could not be more so. There is no secret—none, I assure you—none such as you imagine. What have I done since I came on board your ship, to offend you?"

"Nothing," I answered him.

"And in what have I failed to do my duty?"

"In nothing."

"In what, so far as my office is concerned, have I disappointed you?"

Again I had to answer him, "In nothing."

"Then," said he, "I pray you to trust me. Let no peculiarity of my disposition trouble you. When I fail in my duty, or when I give you cause of offence, then let me know it."

At this point we were interrupted by the entrance of a third person, and the conversation was dropped.

From that time until we had entered the Mediterranean I said no more to my mate about the secret; but yet I was not satisfied. In fact, I was not easy. There were times when I really feared to trust Carboy on the watch; and when I asked myself what I feared, I could not tell.—It was curious—very curious. It was, I thought, foolish; but I could not help it. I could see that he tried to please me—that he even discommoded himself to accommodate me. He never hesitated to move when I spoke, and never questioned any of my opinions. This was the more strange because such was evidently not his nature. He was naturally proud and independent, and impatient of restraint; and was it not a legitimate conclusion that some powerful motive led him to restrain himself so wonderfully before me?

But the secret was coming to the surface.

On the evening of the fourth day after leaving Gibraltar the sun went down in a leaden cloud, and before eight o'clock the wind was blowing furiously from the south-west; but I did not apprehend any trouble, as we took it very near astern, with plenty of open sea ahead. At midnight, I called Gilbert Carboy, and gave the ship into his charge. The course to be kept through the night was east-north-east. The mainsail was furled, and a double-reef in the foresail, with close reefed topsails. I remarked to my mate, after I had given him all needed directions, that we would pass the Belearic Isles before morning; or, at any rate, that we should be well up with them.—He said he had supposed so; and with this he turned to the binnacle, and I went below. I sat for half an hour at my table, looking over my chart, and then I started to go on deck again; but I did not go. Half way up the ladder I stopped, and finally turned back. What started me up I cannot tell; but I went back because I feared that my mate might think I mistrusted him if I went on deck. At length I turned into my cot, and I think I lay there another half hour before I went to sleep.

How long I had slept I could not tell, but I was awakened from an uneasy slumber by the peculiar motion of the ship. I started upon my elbow, to observe and think. The ship had a heavy list to starboard, and was laboring with the sea. I detected at once that the wind was abeam. Was it possible that the wind had hauled round to northward?—I could not believe it. In all my acquaintance with the sea I had never known a south-west gale to change thus without moderating. As quickly as possible I drew on my trowsers, and hurried on deck. The night was still dark, and the wind was blowing furiously. I cast my eye into the binnacle, and saw that the ship was heading due north!

I asked the helmsman what that meant.

He said it was Mr. Carboy's order.

Where was Mr. Carboy?

He was forward.

I had started to go in search of my mate, when I met him coming aft.

"In mercy's name, Mr. Carboy, what does this mean?" I cried.

"What?" he said.

"This change of course, sir."

"O, that is nothing, Captain," he replied, with a light laugh. "Don't get excited. I'm after a great aunt of mine that ran away with my uncle. She carried off all my money, sir. Egad, but I'll catch her yet! Ho, ho! Blow ye winds! Blow and crack! Don't be alarmed, Captain; I'm going ashore.—I'll be blessed if I stay here any longer!"

I cannot remember all he said, but I can very distinctly remember that I did not take time just then to make him any reply; for while I was yet standing aghast, with the conviction flashing upon me that my mate was a raving maniac, the loud, startling cry came from forward:

"Breakers! Breakers! Rocks ahead!"

I rushed to the bows and looked over, and for a moment my heart came up into my mouth. Directly ahead, and so near that I could see the phosphorescent glare of the breaking foam, was a rocky coast. The roar of the crashing sea was loud and deep, and the demon jaws were wide open for me! It was not a time for thought. In a very few minutes, if I kept on, we should be dashed upon the rocks, and I knew that no man of that crew would outlive such a shock. In a single instant all the chances had passed before my judgment. Another moment of hesitation must be fatal. If I attempted to luff, in the eye of such a wind, and in such a sea, my ship might miss her stays and be lost. There was but one course to pursue. I sprang aft, thundering at the top of my voice:

"Up with the helm! Up with it! Hard-a-port! To the braces, my men! To the braces! Quick! Quick! Off to leeward! Ease off! Round in the weather braces!"

I reached the poop just in season to see Carboy knock the helmsman down with an iron belaying-pin, and seize the wheel with his own hands. I do not think it took me over two seconds to relieve my mate from his sudden trick at the wheel. I struck him under the ear with my fist, and as he staggered back I grasped the whirling spokes, and put the helm up.—Fortunately my men were on hand; but what was more fortunate still, they obeyed me promptly. The ship turned her head steadily, sweeping in a narrow arc, and as she came to her old course, still wearing, I felt a shock—a quiver—a grating of the keel upon a rock—and a shower of spray from the surge came raining over me. Again my heart was in my mouth; but I bowed my head, and held the wheel with a firm hand.

Quiver, quiver! Grate, grate—a groan, as of some mighty throe, and all was over. As the ship took the wind upon the starboard quarter, I cast my eyes over my left shoulder, and saw a huge, black mass of rocks towering above.

But not yet did I dare to breathe freely. I stood with my head bent, and my heart hushed, for some moments more—stood guiding my ship through the sea, and praying to God for deliverance. At length, when I knew that all was safe—when the rocks had been left all astern—I gave the order for belaying, and called a man to relieve me.

My next attention was directed to my mate. I found him lying upon the deck, gasping as though in a spasm. I took him below, and for four days he lay in his cot, sometimes raving madly, and sometimes apparently insensible. When we reached Naples he was able to sit up and talk, and he then confessed to me his secret. It was a periodical insanity which he had inherited from his father! Several times before had he been thus attacked while on duty at sea; and it had at length become so generally known in the Northern seaports that he could not obtain a berth on shipboard.

"But," said he, "when I came to you in Mobile I hoped that I should be troubled no more. I thought I might make a voyage in safety. I had not had an attack for over two years, and I wished to try if I could not do my duty in the ship. I knew I was deceiving you; and I feared that you might detect the truth; and I think that the constant fear which I suffered from this latter cause had much to do with bringing the madness back upon me."

There is no need that I should tell how I talked to him. I was not harsh, nor unforgiving; but I could not exonerate him. I blamed him severely, and promised him that all shipmasters of my acquaintance should have the benefit of my knowledge.

On my return homeward I passed the island of Formentera, and as I gazed upon the huge black rocks which lifted their sea-beaten front over the surge, upon the southern coast of that isle, my heart felt something of that old shock; for those were the rocks from which I had guided the ship on that dismal night when I first discovered my Mate's Secret.

AN IMPORTED PAT-RIOT ON HIS COUNTRY SEAT.—Here, reader, is a Pat-riot sample of one of the monthly additions made to our maternal census every month by the humane (a fruitful) importation law. But we have a very broad country, and broader charity, and we might just as well make up our minds to take them as they come, good, bad, and very bad. One of these citizens had the good fortune to be landed on our country coast a few days ago, with all his earthly possessions, which were an empty chest, a tobaccy pipe and a shillelah. When seated upon his box, which served as a trunk, bed-stead and chair, and gazing 'round upon a very large prospect of the land of liberty, he thus broke out in modern Greek:—

"Hurrah! Och, be St. Paddy, an' 'tis here I am, on my country seat, in the blest land of liberty, where whiskey runs as clear as mud, where tobaccy grows right up, too—yes, ready to be smoked; jist where paratees peel themselves ready for the pot, and where there's nothing to do but to improve the breed of the shillelah by knocking one another down, 'till ye get up into the first office in the counthry. Och, the swate liberty of dyin' in a row for the sake o' seeing yourself laid out and buried with the honors o' the cudgel! Mate three times a day, and pig for dinner; and, above all, to live in a house with a big steeple on it to escort the smoke out, an' a separate lodging for the sow and pigs. Hurrah for swate Amerikee! Lord bless the ship that transported me over the water."

☞ It has been thought that people are degenerating, because they don't live as long as in the days of Methuselah.—But the fact is, provisions are so high that nobody can afford to live very long at the current prices.

SLANDER.

BY FRANK GRAHAM.

Is there a spot in Christendom
Where not a TATTLER dwells?
Where never ending pleasures reign,
And men enjoy themselves!
If such a spot on earth exists,
Where tattlers ne'er abound,
Oh! thrice, thrice happy man is he,
Who in that spot is found.

If such a place is known below
On Eden it must be;
For there true love must ever thrive
E'en as the green bay tree;
And friendship's torch may brightly burn
With naught to dim its light,
Where now, we seldom ever see
It meet with aught but blight.

'Tis the accursed slanderer
That dries the well of Love!
That blasts our name with cunning lies
Wherever we may rove;
He enters the domestic cot,
He marks each little breath,
And marches forth with fashion's throng
Upon his work of death.

You'll see him in the gay saloon,
You'll see him on the pave,
You'll see him in the churchyard,
E'en at his victim's grave!
You'll see him there in smiling scorn,
Curling his lip in pride,
Exulting that he broke the heart
Of him who early died.

He has no mark, by which all may
At once detect the knave;
He's mild when e'er it pleases him,
And meek as any slave.
H'll tell his tale with honey'd lip,
And with a friendly smile,
But still he's "wolf in sheep's clothing,"
A liar all the while.

My friends be cautious who you trust,
Prove your companions well,
And trust not those who close their tale
With "prithee do not tell,—
I'm sure I would not have them know
I've murmured o'en a breath,"—
I tell you shun such friends as these,
Unless you court your death.

Then rouse ye slumberers—sleep no more;
And look around you now,
He, at your very board may sit
With curse upon his brow;
He will betray with Judas' kiss
And put on you a spell—
So, shun for e'er the Slanderer,— He'll make your home a hell.

AMONG THE DEAD AT POMPEII.

In a recent letter to the London Athenæum we find the following description of discoveries made at Pompeii by those engaged in excavating the ruins of that city. There are now about two hundred men, women, and girls engaged in searching for relics and curiosities among the ruins of the once populous city of Pompeii. The writer says:

"The excavations are being carried on in two spots near the Temple of Isis, and near the house called that of Abbondanza, but we are more immediately concerned with the former site. Here in a house, in a small street just opened, were found the bodies or skeletons which are now attracting crowds. Falling in a mass of pummice-stone, these unfortunate persons had not become attached to the soil, and it was easy to cut away the ground beneath them; but above, fire, ashes, and hot water had been rained upon them from the fiery mountain, causing their death, and insuring their preservation for nearly 2000 years. On removing the debris, which consisted of the roof and the ashes which had fallen into the interior of the house, something like a human form was discovered, though nothing but a fine powder was visible. It occurred to Cav. Fiorelli that this might be a kind of sarcophagus created by Vesuvius, and that within were the remains of one of the victims of that terrible eruption. But how to remove or preserve them? A happy idea struck him. Plaster of Paris was poured into an aperture, the interior having been discovered to be hollow, in consequence of the destruction of the flesh—and mixing with and uniting with the bones, restored to the world a Roman lady of the first century. Farther researches led to the discovery of a male body, another woman, and that of a young girl; but that which first awakened the interest of the excavations was the finding of ninety-one pieces of silver money, four car-rings, a finger-ring, all of gold, together with two iron keys, and evident remains of a linen bag. The first body, so to speak, is that of a woman, who lies on her right side, and, from the twisted position of her body, had been much convulsed. Her left hand and arm are raised and contorted, and the knuckles are bent in tightly; the right arm is broken, and at each end of the fragments one sees the cellular character of the bones. On the bone of the little finger of the left hand are two silver rings, one of which is a guard. The sandals remain, or the soles, at least, and iron or nails are unmistakably to be seen. Though the body is much bent, the legs are extended as if under the influence of extreme pain. By the side of this figure lay the bags of which I have already spoken, with the money, the keys, and the rings, and the cast of it, with all that remains intermingled with or impressed on the plaster, is preserved in the same room. Passing on to an inner chamber, we found the figure of the young girl lying on its face, resting on its clasped hands and arms; the legs are drawn up, the left lying over the right; the body is thinly covered over in some parts by the scoriæ or the plaster, while the skull is visible, highly polished. One hand is partially closed, as if it had grasped something, probably her dress, with which it had covered the head. The finger bones protrude through the incrusted ashes, and on the surface of the bone in various parts is distinctly visible the web of the linen with which it had been covered. There was lying by the side of the child a full-grown woman, the left leg slightly elevated, while the right arm is broken; but the left, which is bent, is perfect, and the hand is closed. The little finger has on an iron ring; the left ear, which is uppermost, is very conspicuous, and stands off from the head. The folds of the drapery, the very web remain, and a nice observer might detect the quality of the dress. The last figure I have to describe is that of a man, a splendid subject, lying on its back, with the legs stretched out to their full length. There is an iron ring on the little finger of the left hand, which, together with the arm, are supported by the elbow. The folds of the dress on the arm and over the whole of the upper part of the body, are visible; the sandals are there, and the bones of one foot protrude through what might have been a broken sandal. The hair of the head and beard, by which I mean, of course, the traces of them, are there, and the breath of life has only to be inspired into this and the other figures to restore to the world of the nineteenth century the Romans of the first century. The first was the mother and the head of the household, for by her side was the bag of money, the keys, and two silver vases, and a silver hand mirror, which was only found on Friday. She was of gentle birth too; the delicacy of her arms and legs indicates it; and coiffure too. The hands are closed as if the very nails must have entered into the flesh, and the body is swollen, as are those of the others, as if water had aided the cruel death. The child—perhaps her child—does not appear to have suffered so much, but child-like, it had thrown itself on the ground, and wrapped its dress about its head, thinking thereby to exclude all danger. I judge so from the marks of the folds of the linen round the arms and on the upper part of the body, and from the partially open hand as if it had grasped something. Poor child, it was not so tenacious of life as the mother, and soon went to sleep.

"There is the figure of another woman, of a lower class, a servant perhaps, and I thought so from the large projecting ear, and the ring on the finger, which was of iron. She had suffered much, evidently, as the right leg is twisted back and uplifted. She lies on her side, and the left hand, which is closed, rests on the ground; but her sufferings were less than those of her mistress, as her sensibility was perhaps less acute. The man, man-like, had struggled longer with the storm, which raged around him, for he fell on his back and fell dead. His limbs are stretched out to their full length and give no sign of suffering. A more touching story than that which is told by these silent figures I have never read, and it was with comparatively little interest that I closed this day by visiting the sites where the laborers are actually at work. They are cutting out streets beneath the roots of large trees, and carting off the soil to many feet above them. Walls are coming out to view every moment, with the large red inscriptions and the popular jokes of Pompeiani. Many have been completely uncovered with the exception of two or three feet of sand, which are left on the ground floor, and cover up the antiquarian wealth which is reserved for the eyes of distinguished visitors. One house I remarked particularly, as it is the largest in Pompeii. There are two large gardens in the interior of the building, and marble fountains, around which were found the figures of a wild boar being pulled down by dogs, and a serpent, and other animals, all of bronze. On the walls are elegant fresco paintings, and in one small room, a sleeping chamber, is a mosaic floor, a portion of which was repaired, and that right artistically too, by some old Roman mossaicist.

"Among the many improvements which Cav. Fiorelli has introduced, is the establishing of a Museum in which many objects of great interest are deposited, all discovered in Pompeii.—There are the skeletons of two dogs; and sixty loaves, which were baking when Vesuvius burst forth, and which were 'drawn' only the other day. There are the great iron doors for the mouth of the oven. There are the tallies, too, and hammers, and bill-hooks, and colors, should the artist need them, and medicines for the sick, and pulse for the hungry. Vases and paterœ of plain and colored glass, light and elegant in form, are there, and candelabra, so graceful that one longs to grasp them. There, too, are brasiers more ornamented and more useful and elegant than any that modern Italians have made."

THE MYSTERY.—Two darkies had bought a quantity of pork in partnership; but Sam having no place to put his portion in, concluded to intrust the whole to Julius's "keeping." The next morning they met, when Sam said—"Good mornin', Julius, anything happen strange or mysterious down in your vicinity, lately?" "Yaas, Sam; most strange thing happen at my house yesterlast night. All mystery—all mystery to me." "Ah, Julius, what was that?" "Well, Sam, I tole you now. Dis mornin', I went down into de cellar for to get a piece ob hog for dis darkey's breakfast, and put my hand down into de brine an' felt round, but no pork dare—all gone, couldn't tell what bewent with it; so I turned up de barl, an' Sam, true as preachin', de rats eat a hole clar froo de bottom ob de barl, and dragged de pork all out!" Sam was petrified with astonishment, but presently said: "Why didn't de brine run out ob de same hole?" "Ah, Sam, dat's de mystery—dat's de mystery."

HOW THEY FURNISH CURRENCY IN ENGLAND.—In the Bank of England no fewer than sixty folio volumes, or ledgers, are daily filled with writing in keeping the accounts. To produce these sixty volumes, the paper having been previously manufactured elsewhere, eight men, three steam presses, and two hand presses, are continually kept going within the Bank. In the copperplate printing department twenty-eight thousand bank notes are thrown off daily; and so accurately is the number indicated by machinery, that to purloin a single note without detection is an impossibility, but here we cannot get nickle cents enough to meet the daily wants of an ordinary milkman.

THE "YOUNG IDEA."—"What," asked the school master, "is the term applied to the possessing of two wives at one time?"

"Bigamy," replied the scholar.

"And if there be more than two, what should you call it?"

The scholar reflected a moment, and then chancing to cast his eyes upon a map of Utah that decorated the wall, he smiled, and very confidently said, "Brigamy, sir!"

The schoolmaster went abroad at the earliest subsequent opportunity.—Vanity Fair.

THE ART OF PRINTING.—A jubilee will soon take place in Vienna, in honor of the four hundred years' existence of the art of printing in that city. The first Vienna printer, Ulrich Hann, opened his printing office in 1432, but did not succeed, and emigrated to Rome. He was the cause of the Emperor Frederic IV bestowing a privilege on the printers, in the year 1468, which placed them in equal rank with noblemen and scholars and permitted them to wear a sword.

☞ A Judge in Indiana threatened to fine a lawyer for contempt of court. "I have expressed no contempt for the court," said the lawyer; "on the contrary, I have carefully concealed my feelings."

☞ "Boy, what's become of that hole I saw in your pants the other day?"—(Young America, carefully examining his unmentionables,) "It's worn out, sir."

☞ If a very rich old lady is dangerously ill, her dutiful relatives are sure to remember that age and disease entitle one to every possible attention.

The Wizard.

CHAS. D. HOWARD, EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR.

WEDNESDAY, JUNE 10, 1863.

To CORRESPONDENTS. Communications, containing items of local news, are solicited. All those who are in possession of facts of local interest—such as casualities, incidents, doings of public meetings, projects for public improvements, new enterprises, etc.—will confer especial favor by sending the same to this office.—Whatever is intended for insertion must be authenticated by the name and address of the writer, not necessarily for publication, but as a guarantee of his good faith.

INTEMPERANCE.

This subject is of vital importance to every human being. It has a general and extensive signification; and it has almost exclusively been applied to the use of ardent spirits, and the direful effects thus brought upon the world by the practice of men "putting an enemy into their mouths to steal away their brains." This evil has brought as much, if not more suffering into the world than any other cause. The tears of widows—the lingering deaths of wives—the incessant and ever continuing torture of children and of friends—each and every one speak in truthful tones against the inordinate use of ardent spirit. But there is yet another definition—another and as vital significance to this direful word—Intemperance.

There is intemperance in language—there is intemperance in opinion—there is intemperance in dressing—there is intemperance in speaking—there is intemperance in acting—there is intemperance in thinking, as well as intemperance in drinking. Let us look for this time a little to the terrible results that have arisen from intemperance in speaking. Slander has consigned thousands to premature graves, and millions to living deaths. "Who steals my purse, steals trash; but he who robs me of my good name, takes that which not enriches him, but makes me poor indeed." What has even the dram cup done more cruel in our world than has slander? Go to some lonely and heart-broken maiden—behold her as she sinks, and pines, and dies in consequence of the villainous and false slanders against her fair name, by some mean and contemptible thing bearing the human form. Reader, is not this kind of intemperance as wicked—as ruinous among the children of men even as the most polluting and destructive effect of the overflowing bowl?

Let slander be classed (as it will be,) in all honorable men's minds, among the deepest and blackest of human crimes. Intemperance shows itself in many other dangerous and poisonous shapes to destroy the peace and happiness of our common humanity. Intemperance in grasping for riches—intemperance in religious intolerance—intemperance in political aspiration and political proscription—intemperance in expenditure of money—have each and every one of them, in their own peculiar influence, brought an equal amount of misery into our world, even with the amount brought upon us by the direful effect of the intemperate use of ardent spirits.

Let us abstain, each of us, and as a community, from these abominable excesses of intemperance in all things. Let us be prudent—let us be temperate—let us be generous—let us be merciful—let us be just and compassionate, and true in all things and to all men, and we shall all be happy and honorable and safe in our journey to the tomb, which will be short, even with the youngest of the living. Charity is the hand-maiden of temperance. Be charitable as well as temperate. Men's minds differ as much as men's bodies. They are no more to be blamed for mental than physical malformation. Truth and justice, and temperance in all things, practiced sincerely, and the world will be rid of the deepest and most terrible of its trials and sufferings and sorrows.

NINE MONTHS' MEN.—Reports from Newbern say two-thirds of the nine months' men will re-enlist, if they can be sent back to that department. This does not agree with most of the letters received from the Fifth Regiment. Very few express a wish to re-enlist on any terms. In Company C we have not heard as yet of a solitary case. How they will feel after they have been home a short time, remains to be seen. Nearly all of the three months' men re-enlisted, and it may turn out so with the nine months' men.

ANOTHER CAVALRY RAID.—Col. Kilpatrick has made another successful raid into the garden of Virginia, a part of the State never before penetrated by Union troops, securing about 1000 contrabands, 300 horses and mules, and spreading terror and alarm among the rebels generally. He made a complete circuit of Lee's army.

☞ It is thought the draft in this State will be about 1300 men to a Congressional District.

RETURNED SOLDIERS.

JOHN H. TIBBETTS, who enlisted in the Maine Second Regiment from this town, has returned. He can now divest himself of his military trappings, and don his citizen's attire, with a clear conscience, having served out his alloted time of two years in defence of the good old flag. Sergeant TIBBETTS can now lay claim to the title of "Old Veteran," having participated in some of the hardest fought battles of the war—from the first Bull Run fight down to the storming of the heights of Fredericksburg,—serving under McDowell, McClellan, Burnside and Hooker. Taken prisoner at Gaines' Mill, he had the pleasure (?) of spending the glorious Fourth at the rebel capital, dining that day on mouldy bread and water gruel, and returned to his regiment a few weeks after, not very favorably impressed with Southern chivalry. Now he is with us once more, we wish him much joy; and if he should conclude to return again, we trust his military coat will be adorned with shoulder-straps, for he has earned them in advance, and nobly too.

The same day we had the pleasure of shaking the hand of another of our boys returned from the war—Mr. ALVAN A. MERRILL—who enlisted from Boston, in the 45th Regiment. Mr. M. was badly wounded at the battle of Kinston, in North Carolina, a minnie ball striking him between the neck and shoulder, passing clear through, and lodging in his knapsack, where it was afterwards found. Since that time till his departure for home he has been an inmate of the hospital; and we are pleased to state that he has nearly recovered from the effects of his wound, and is feeling and looking quite well.

NEGROES CAN FIGHT!—It has been demonstrated at last that our colored citizens have a good share of combativeness and pluck. We never doubted it, and the late attack on Port Hudson by General Banks verifies it. In a charge made on the enemy's works by the 2d Louisiana (colored), 600 out of 900 men were killed and wounded! They fought with the desperation of tigers, and when arms availed them not they used their teeth. After firing one volley they did not deign to load again, but went in with bayonets, and wherever they had a chance it was all up with the rebels.

Port Hudson is now, like Vicksburg, closely invested, and its capture is considered certain.

HORTICULTURAL SOCIETY.—At a meeting of this society, last Monday evening, the following officers were elected for the ensuing year:—

President—Lewis Allen.

Vice Presidents—Stephen Blaney, W. M. Jacobs, J. V. Stevens.

Treasurer—F. Baker.

Secretary—M. O. Stanley.

Financial Committee—Lewis Allen, Francis Baker, Stephen Blaney.

Committee on Fruits—Hiram Plummer, Stephen Blaney, Joseph Fenderson, Samuel Newman, Albert K. Abbott, T. A. Sweetser, John V. Stevens, Wm. T. Dole, T. E. Proctor, Sumner Southwick, George P. Osborn.

Committee on Flowers—George C. Peirce, A. L. Peirson, Joseph Osgood, Jefferson Taylor, B. C. Perkins.

Committee on Vegetables—Henry Poor, Jas. Perry, A. W. Bancroft, Henry A. King, Henry A. Hardy.

Committee on Gardens—Rufus H. Brown, E. W. Jacobs, Henry Cook, B. C. Perkins, N. H. Poor.

It was voted, that the admission fee be reduced to two dollars; also, to have an exhibition next fall—the time to be fixed by the officers of the society.

JORDAN LODGE.—This organization was never in a more prosperous condition than at present, and for the benefit of its members in the Union army, as well as the public generally, we publish the list of officers for the ensuing year:

W. M. Robert S. Daniels, Jr.
S. W. Albert W. Howe.
J. W. A. L. Peirson.
Treasurer. Dean Kimball.
Secretary. John O. Poor.
S. D. Seward P. Cobb.
J. D. J. W. Legroo.
S. S. Chas. D. Howard.
J. S. Daniel B. Grosvenor.
Chaplain. Rev. O. S. Butler.
Marshal. G. N. Raymond.
Tyler. David Porter.

ENGINEERS OF FIRE DEPARTMENT. The Engineers elected for the present year are—

William H. Little, Chief Engineer;
Benj. Huntington, Assistant "
Jona. E. Osborne, " "
D. S. Littlefield, " "
John Pinder, " "

CAPT. JOHN F. WINCHESTER, of this town, having been detached from the gunboat "Sumter,"—which is now undergoing repairs at the Brooklyn Navy Yard—sailed from New York last week in the "Circassian" for New Orleans, where it is understood he will be assigned to a command under Com. Farragut.

STATE TAX.—The act to apportion and assess a State Tax of $2,396,568 will assign the sum of $9,960 to South Danvers; $7,176 to Danvers; and $39,384 to Salem.

OUR COAST DEFENCES.

There appears, at present, to be a perfect absence of all effectual defences against a wily and desperate enemy, in the region embracing many miles of sea coast in this section. Not only this, but there appears to be an absolute delinquency on the part of the government, or the responsible agents in such matters. We all know, to our cost, that we have an ever active and unscrupulous foe to contend with. We know he will leave no means unapplied, no machinations unemployed, no traps or contrivances untried, to circumvent the vital object of his ambition—the independence of the Southern Confederacy.

We have been led into these reflections in view of the entire barrenness of anything which has any semblance to safety, touching the situation of things in our neighboring city—the mother from which we emanated. Our proximity—our almost indissoluble interests—our common destiny, origin, aspirations, seem to demand of us—inhabiting what was once styled the village of Salem—some expression of anxiety upon the great exposure alluded to above. Shall we wait until some rebel bomb shell explodes in Salem Market from the "Alabama," "Florida," or some other rebel craft, before we speak, because perchance we do not form strictly a component part of old Salem?

There is a vital necessity that the coast defences in this region should be immediately attended to. Many rebel craft are afloat on the ocean, and ever ready for destructive mischief; and not only this much, but we have every reason to expect that a large fleet are about to sail for this coast from "Neutral England," for the purpose of encompassing the designs of the so-called Confederacy. Now, let the people of Salem see to it, without delay, that proper means be applied to avert the disastrous consequences of an Anglo-Piratical-Rebel raid on our sea-board, headed perhaps by Gen'l Beauregard, who lately made his boast that in case of armed intervention by England, he could take Boston in less than a week by the way of Salem!

What could Forts Lee or Pickering, in their present dilapidated condition, do against a vigorous onset of adversaries like the "Alabama" and "Florida," or even the most insignificant armed rebel craft that floats? We are no alarmists, but we would seriously urge the powers that be to see it, speedily, that the coast defences in our region round about, are put in a state that will successfully resist invaders from whatever nation or clime.

ANAGRAMS----ORIGINAL AND SELECTED.

An anagram is the dissolution of any word or sentence into letters, as its elements, and then making some other word or sentence from it, applicable to persons or things named in such original word or sentence.

There are words of this description, both of ancient and modern application, which exhibit coincidences truly surprising, and afford a very peculiar fund of amusement. The following is a selection containing a few local anagrams. They may not only amuse, but incite young students of English to invent ideas:—

Astronomers—Moon-starers.
Democratical—Comical trade.
Encyclopedia—A nice cold pie.
Gallantries—All great sin.
Lawyers—Sly ware.
Misanthrope—Spare him not.
Monarch—March on.
Old England—Golden land.
The Peabody Institute—Oh! petted in its beauty.
Presbyterian—Best in prayer.
Punishment—Nine thumps.
Penitentiary—Nay, I repent it.
Radical Reform—Rare mad frolic.
South Danvers Wizard—Zounds! wits rave hard.
Telegraphs—Great helps.
The Salem Railroad—Lame hearts are oil'd.
Understanding—Red nuts and gin.
Watch-House Bores—Sober! O teach us how!
The Old South Meeting House Organ—Hold! I groan thee some tough tunes.
Embargo—O, grab me.
Fifty-Fourth Regiment—You're men fit for fight.

NEW ORGAN.—The First Congregational Society in Danvers have contracted for a fine organ for their church. It is now building by George Stevens & Co., of East Cambridge, and is to be finished and placed in the church by the first of next month. It will have two banks of keys, twenty-four stops, three couplers, tremule and pedal check, and will be in all respects a superior instrument. It will be paid for, in part, from a fund accumulated by the Ladies' Musical Aid Association, which was organized some three years since for this purpose, and the balance will be collected from contributions already subscribed by the benevolent people in the society.

After paying for the instrument there will remain in the hands of the Ladies' M. A. Association about one hundred and fifty dollars, which, with their future profits and earnings, will be expended in keeping the organ in tune, and to pay a competent player. The choir haae lately formed a new organization, under favorable auspices, and have elected Mr. E. P. Davis as director of music. Thus we are preparing better to perform "the service of song in the house of the Lord." r.

☞ We understand that the Salem and South Danvers Horse Railroad have purchased of Mr. H. M. Merrill (proprietor of our line of omnibuses,) his horses and sleigh carriages.

PRIZE FIGHT IN DANVERS!

An exhibition, disgraceful to all engaged in it, came off at Danvers, on Sunday last, on land near the crossing of the Danvers and Georgetown Railroad, on Holten street. The facts, as near as we can learn them, are these: At a late hour on Saturday night a quarrel arose between a young man named James Crawford and another, Wm. Burrows, at a low groggery near the scene of the fight. Burrows was then intoxicated, as he is said to have been for some days, if not for weeks, previous. Knowing that he was not then in a condition to fight, he proposed to meet for that purpose the next morning, and each of the combatants deposited $2 in the hand of a friend in token of good faith. Wm. Reynolds, who has lately been discharged from the army on account of sickness, and who has, since his return, been engaged in another fight, in which he proved his ability, as well as his brutality, by beating and maiming his adversary in such a manner as to confine him to his room for a week or more, was appointed as one second, and a man by the name of Steghen Colbath, belonging to Farmington, N. H., and known in Danvers by an alias, "Crocket," as the other. A young man called "Frank Shaw" was chosen bottle-holder.

The fight commenced at about 9 1-2 o'clock, just as people were passing on their way to church, and lasted about two hours.

It was a shocking affair. The white shirt that Burrows wore was almost entirely covered with blood, and the ground where the combatants fought looked as though hogs had been slaughtered there. About fifty men and boys were present; some of whom, being fathers, should have taken the sober second thought before they bronght disgrace upon themselves, and distress upon their families, by encouraging, by their presence (if in no other way,) such a desecration of the Sabbath Day.

We learn that some thirty, or more, of those present at the fight, have left for parts unknown. May they never return to bring disgrace upon this community by their low brutality.

ODD SUPERSCRIPTIONS.—Letters frequently pass through the post office bearing curious addresses to the correspondents to whom they are sent. Some of the foreign letters betray a verdancy in regard to the geography of the country truly refreshing in these days. One recently received in the post office here was directed to "Salem, South Danvers, Boston, North Amerika." Another has recently passed through the office with the following address:

Bear this letter, with rapid rate,
To Topsfield, Mass., in the old Bay State;
If Mary Adams you do not see,
Please send it back at once to me.

39TH REGIMENT.—We clip from the National Republican, published at Washington, the following notice of the 39th Massachusetts Regiment. Capt. Nelson's Company is in this regiment:—

"WORTHY PRAISE.—The 39th Massachusetts and 14th New Hampshire Regiments, which have been encamped in Washington for the past two months, have behaved in a manner so decorous as to elicit the praise and gain the confidence of all the army officers. Captain Todd, of the Provost Marshal's Office, says that whilst they have been here no arrests of their men have been reported. For soldierly appearance, dignified demeanor, and martial powers, they have no superiors, and perhaps no equals, in the American Army."

VICKSBURG.—"Spades are once more trumps," says a despatch from Vicksburg. We are erecting earthworks to protect the men, and are mining to blow the face out of one or two of the rebel forts that are unapproachable otherwise. The idea of carrying the place by storm, seems to be abandoned. The safer and surer plan of starving the rebels into submission, now finds favor everywhere. Affairs in Vicksburg are getting desperate.

ORDINATION.—Rev Mr. Safford will be ordained at the Universalist Church in this town, on Wednesday next, June 17th. Rev. Mr. Thayer will preach the ordination sermon.

SUPERIOR COURT.—On Tuesday of last week the case of IRA STORY of Danversport, petitioner, to enforce mechanic's lien against the sch. Juniatta Patten, David Buffum, of Salem, appearing as claimant and respondent, was taken up. This is a case where the plaintiff seeks to recover $4250 under a certain contract made to repair the schooner Juniatta, which contract has been fulfilled on the part of the plaintiff, and which, if allowed, would entitle him to recover. The defence sets up another contract as the only true one, by which the plaintiff was to have $3750 on performing certain repairs which defendant alleges not to have been done. They also allege certain payments, which, with deductions to be made for the unfulfilled part of the contract, bring the actual balance in favor of the defendant. At last accounts the Court had taken the case from the jury, to go up to the Supreme Court on a question of law raised by the defence.

HEYLINGBERG'S SHAVING SALOON.—We notice that Mr. Heylingberg has renovated his establishment, which he means to have as bright as a new cent. He intends to have an assistant, that his customers may be sure of prompt attention. He will also get up a shower at the shortest notice for those who desire a good champooing.

INTERESTING LETTER FROM WASHINGTON.

We are permitted to publish portions of a very interesting private letter, written by a former resident of Danvers to a gentleman of this town, dated "Washington, May 24th, 1863:"

I have for several weeks past regarded Washington in a very different, and much more favorable light, than I did during the winter. The broad streets and public grounds, gardens and green-houses will compare favorably with those of any city I have seen, and I improve the fine opportunity which they afford for a morning or evening walk. My room is near the National Hotel, so that I can learn all that is going on in the heart of the city, and am so near the capitol that a few minutes will take me to the beautiful grounds that surround it; thus country and city are brought close to each other.

I met, a few days since, an old acquaintance of mine—Lieut. Col. Pierson of the 39th Mass., which has recently become quartered in this city. He is from Salem and went into the service as Adjutant of the 20th Mass. Some officers who have been near him in the army, tell me he is every inch a soldier, one of the best they have ever seen. He has just gone home on a furlough.

Two staff-officers, with whom I was intimately acquainted in Minnesota, and with whom I have recently conversed, have awarded a tribute to the troops of the old Bay State which makes me proud, not only of her ancient glory, but of the spirit which still lingers among her people. In conversation, one of these officers remarked that the Pennsylvania troops were the poorest in the army, and I asked him which he considered the best; whereupon he unhesitatingly answered: "The Massachusetts troops, for the instance has not yet occurred where they have ever flinched," and the other officer afterwards volunteered the same meed of praise to the sons of the Fathers of the Revolution. Yet such troops as these and the others composing the Army of the Potomac, as fine an army, probably, as the sun ever shone upon, have again failed to whip the rebel army under Lee. When Hooker had crossed the Rappahannock and taken up his position with such skill and ability that every one, whether versed in military affairs or not, could see and admire them, I could not help feeling that we had at length found the man for the hour. But alas! for human expectations! The result has left me still in doubt whether Hooker is competent to the command of so large an army. I strongly believe that he has military genius, but whether of a sufficiently high and comprehensive order, is what has not been fully proved. An officer who was on the staff of a Brigadier General during the fight, and who has been stopping with me a day or two, has given me a full history of the movements of our army, its fight and retreat, as he saw and learned them from others. He thinks our loss was about 10,000 and that of the rebels not less than 25,000. He says Hooker was wounded and insensible for awhile from the fall of a pillar of the house in which he had his headquarters and which was struck by a shell,—that during his insensibility Gen. Couch had made his plans for an attack and a general engagement, and showed them to Hooker upon his recovery, but that Hooker said he could not allow them to be carried out. Hooker was afraid of losing his bridge and means of supplies and retreat, which caused him to retreat. My friend says all the corps commanders, except Mead of Pa., voted against a retreat, but Hooker's fears of losing his crossing were so great that he overruled their counsels. He says Gen. Howard's disposition of the 11th Division (or corps,) which is composed of only about one-half Germans, was not the best that might have been made—it faced to the south, whereas it should have faced nearer west. As it was, Jackson came upon its flank with a heavily massed column and opened an enfilading fire, which no troops could have well withstood. The army was loth to come back from across the Rappahannock, and does not consider that it was whipped or could have been whipped.

If Jackson had been attacked while moving to flank Hooker, I believe, from what I learn from military sources, that his "stonewall" would not have had one stone left upon another and that we should have Richmond before this. Although Hooker has the reputation of inclining to rashness, I believe he had not the nerve to carry through a grandly conceived plan, which all say was his own, or that he was too urgently impressed from Washington not to run any risk of the loss of his army.

I did not propose to write a history of the late fight, or a criticism upon it, but have probably said enough to weary you, or show my ignorance of military matters.

I feel sure that the army is now in excellent spirits and health, but whether it will soon resume the offensive, I have no opinion, those whom I met from the Rappahannock expressing such different views in this regard. But what can Lee do unless he attempt a repetition of his Maryland campaign of last year, from which, although a failure on the whole, he acquired a large amount of clothing and provisions for his army. The late Napoleonic (I think they deserve the name, if anything in this war so far does) and brilliant dashes and achievements of Gen. Grant, however, may thwart Lee's designs of such a campaign, if he had them, and call for his energies nearer home. I feel certain, now, that Vicksburg will soon be ours, if it is not while I write, and that will offset, tenfold, the failure of Hooker's movement, and tell more against the rebellion than would the taking of Richmond. It will cut off the supplies which Louisiana and Texas, and the contraband trade over the Mexican border, have yielded, and leave those States and Arkansas so isolated that we can easily disperse the small forces which they have within their borders. A victory by Rosecrans, and one by the Army of the Potomac, and the rebellion would be on its very last legs. You ask me whether I think we can succeed in any other way than by "subjugating" the South. In one sense I don't think the South ever could be subjugated, at least to any good purpose, or so as to pay for the subjugation. That is, if by subjugation is meant the placing and keeping a garrison in every Southern town so as to occupy the whole country, and the enforcing of laws by arms among all the people, and collecting tribute to a government which they shall have no voice in controlling, then I do not believe we shall ever subjugate the South.

But, if subjugation is meant, as I think you mean, the destruction of the only support upon which this rebellion rests, its military resistance to the government, so that with its support shall fall the superstructure, leaving the Southern people sour and bitter and sore, doubtless, but with no means of giving such expression to their feelings as to threaten the overthrow of our government, then I agree with you that the Union cannot be preserved or the government preserved, except by subjugation. Armistice or convention has no office to perform, until, at least, one party has shown by decisive battles that it is so far superior in military power and resources that the other cannot resist it by force. When the great armies of the South are broken up, I believe the old relations of the States to the Union, in all general respects, will be gradually resumed, the people find that they are not deprived of any liberties which honor or self-preservation calls upon them to fight for, and they will grow to love and respect a people and government which have shown their strength and that they deserve to be preserved. The great question is whether we can disperse their armies, and this resolves itself into the simple question, "Can the North keep united?" for if it can, there can be no doubt of the result. But I have been too prolix. The capture of Warsaw decided the fate of Poland, the battle of Salamanca that of Spain, that of Waterloo determined the French Empire of Napoleon, as had the battle of Actium decided the fate of the Roman Empire in the time of Oclavianus and Anthony; and the fate of this country must be decided by arms; and may God defend the right!

S. R. B.

GEN. GRANT who has placed himself in the front ranks of successful commanders, is a working and fighting General. He started on his present expedition without horse or servant, overcoat, blanket or tent, sharing the hardships and privations of his soldiers, sleeping in the front in the open air, and eating only a soldier's fare, hard tack and salt pork. He wore no sword, and had on a low crowned citizen's hat, and the only thing about him to mark him as a military man was two stars on his undress military coat. He thus set an example to his army. In the field he did the same. In the fiercest fights he moved among his men with the coolness and courage he would display on dress parade. He was determined, after long delays and numerous failures, to risk all on the hazard—to penetrate the enemy's country and conquer or die. The words of his order on the 7th of May, when he was on his way from Grand Gulf to Jackson, are destined to all the immortality that history, in its record of heroic deeds and words, can give them. These were his words to his brave followers:—"More difficulties and privations are before us; let us endure them manfully. Other battles are to be fought; let us fight them bravely. A grateful country will rejoice at our success, and history will record it with immortal honor."—Ex.

ARREST.—On the evening of the 6th of May, the late evening train on the Eastern Railroad encountered obstructions on the track between Lynn and Saugus which might have occasioned a fearful calamity. A sleeper was laid across the track and rocks were piled up near, evident with the design of throwing off the train. The engineer discovered the obstructions just as he was close upon them coming around a curve, but not in season to stop the train. Fortunately the speed was such as to break and throw off the sleeper and surmount the obstacles without any serious damage, but the consequences might have been frightful.

On Wednesday, officer Shackley of South Danvers who has been on the track of the offenders for some time, and City Marshal Stone of Lynn, arrested two lads, one about 17 and the other about 14 years of age, named William Burditt and Chas. Hambly, charged with being the perpetrators of the crime. They were taken before Justice Newhall of Lynn, and in default of bail to the amount of $500 each were committed to the Salem jail, to await an examination on Tuesday next.—Reg.

THE ARMIES OF THE UNION.—There is a misapprehension, widely entertained, that a very large section, proportionally, of the Federal force in the field is composed of nine months' men and two years' troops. It is supposed that there were some 300,000 volunteers, for the shortest term, enlisted under the last call of the President. We learn that not more than 200,000 were obtained under the demand for nine month's troops, and very many of these were for three years. New York, Illinois, Indiana, and other West'n States, discouraged enlistments except for three years, and recruited so large a number for the longer period, that the federal armies will not be diminished over 130,000 men by the expiration during the summer and fall of their term of service.

CRIME IN ESSEX COUNTY.—The Newburyport Herald in noticing the various cases tried there at the present session of the court, says: "It is not expected that more than a week will be required to finish up the business; and if we have no more use for our Court House than now, they might as well move the Court and give us the use of the Court House for the Public Library, if we will keep it in repair.—The war has one good effect; it takes off a large proportion of those who gave business to the courts, and employs their evil passions in legitimate operations where they are expected to be useful to the country. Before the war the cost of crime in the County of Essex was $30,000 a year; now it is only $10,000."

4TH OF JULY.—Boston, as usual, is getting up a grand series of amusements for the coming Fourth. Dr. O. W. Holmes is to be the orator; William Everett, son of Edward Everett, the reader of the Declaration; Rev. Chandler Robbins, chaplain; Mr. A. S. King the aeronaut; and the dinner will be omitted. The regatta in the Back Bay will be one of the main features; and with the fireworks on the Common there is to be an electrical light on the top of the State House, so powerful that anywhere within a radius of three miles it will be possible to read a newspaper—that is, provided the print and the eye sight are suited to that work.

EXCHANGES.—Col. Ludlow, Commissioner of Exchanges, reports that the rebels refuse to exchange on parole the officers of Col. Straight's command, taken in Alabama, about sixty or seventy in number, on the ground that colored soldiers were found serving under them. The rebel State authorities claim that they be handed over to them, as threatened in the Proclamation of Jeff Davis. Pending this question, our Government refuses to make further exchanges, and all rebel officers on parole within our lines are ordered into close confinement.

☞ Fanny Fern says it is her opinion notwithstanding the torrent of abuse to which the hoop is, and has been subjected to, it will never be dropped—except at bed time.

FROM NEWBERN.

We have received a letter from a fri in Newbern, N. C., from which we t a few extracts:

"The colored regiment that is formin this department now numbers some six h dred. They are armed with Enfield rifles, are quite a resistible-looking body of me There is quite a stir among the men of nine months' regiments. Men are wanted heavy artillery, and many non-commissi officers have been offered and accepted missions. It is hoped in this way to get men to re-enlist, and there is no doubt that many of them will after a short furlo A good chance is also offered to those m home who have always felt such great re for the negro's welfare, to come forward take a few lessons with him in the use of arms. Among the many inducements for to enlist is the chance of being promoted, fortable quarters in shelter tents, and plain living. Surely such opportunities o not to be allowed to slip, coupled as the with the honor there is in serving one's c try."

Our friend uses the signature "GR LER" to his letter.

ANOTHER SOLDIER GONE.—Died May 1863, in Washington, D. C., Sergeant Wm BURNHAM, a member of Co. A, 39th R Mass. Vols., aged 21 years.

The subject of the above notice was the of Nathan Burnham, 2d, of Essex, Mass., enlisted in Captain Nelson's company, private from a sense of duty to his cou believing that his country needed his ser and had the best right to them.

Sergeant Burnham remained but a s time as a private, his manliness and pro attention to the duties of his position won the esteem of his associates and the co dence of his captain, who promoted him a geant, the duties of which he performed credit to himself, and to the entire satisfac of the officers of the regiment.

At a meeting of the members of the com ny, held for the purpose of offering some m of esteem for the departed, the following amble and resolutions were adopted, viz:

Whereas it has pleased an inscrutable P idence to remove from our ranks Serge Wilbur Burnham, a friend and fellow-sold by the hand of death, who by his many a able qualities and manliness of character, won our esteem and endeared him to us al a true friend, therefore

Resolved, That while we have occasion mourn the loss of one of our most val members; and while we deeply sympath with his afflicted parents in their bereavem we still have the gratification of knowing he was cut off while in the faithful servic his country and his God; and that his nam registered among the patriots who have offe their lives on the "Altar of Freedom."

Resolved, That a copy of these resolution published in the South Danvers Wizard, behalf of the members of the company.

IPSWICH.—The building used for a bal and store-house, attached to the County Pr at Ipswich, was destroyed by fire abou o'clock Wednesday morning. It was erect few years since at an expense of $2,000—loss, with contents, is estimated at $3,00 The Superintendent, John D. Cross, Esq., a portion of the prisoners in the adjoi building seasonably removed to more dis apartments; but by the efforts of the citi the other buildings of the establishment not materially damaged.—Traveller.

BLOCKADE RUNNERS DESTROYED.—A Bri blockade runner, while trying to get ou Charleston, was discovered on the night of 20th, and sunk before she could gain the on her return, by the Powhatan and Flag Her officers and crew are supposed to have ished. She was a large steamship. On 23d, another steamer was discovered and fi into. She recrossed under a heavy fire sunk in the main channel, off Morris Island Both vessels had large cargoes.

AN ENROLLING OFFICER ATTACKED BY W EN.—At Milwaukee, May 30th, an enroll officer, while engaged in his duties was atta ed by a large number of women, armed w clubs, stones and other missiles, and very s ously injured. He escaped from the infuria vixens by taking refuge in a grocery near and the mob dispersed without committ further outrages.

☞ The President has directed the revo tion of the order suppressing the Chic Times, and Gen. Burnside on Thursday ev ing notified the proprietors that they were liberty to continue the publication of their per. He also revoked that part of his or forbidding the circulation in his Departme of the New York World.

TROUBLE IN THE 23D REGIMENT.—The N Bedford Mercury learns by letters from Ne bern that Capt. Brewster of Co. A, 23d, been promoted to be Major of that regim and that Captains Martin, Centre, Raymo and Story have sent in their resignations consequnce.

"AS HE SAILED."—A farmer in Cutchog Long Island, while plowing, recently turn up 61 silver spoons which weighed 183 ounc Some think they are part of the buried tre ure of Capt. Kidd, "as he sailed."

☞ Mr. Secretary Stanton says that with six months he will have 200,000 colored so diers in the field. If he does, the white me between the ages of 20 and 45 will be ready vote him President or anything else he wa to be.—Newburyport Herald.

☞ The Grand Jury have found a b against Charles L. Stackpole, the poisoner, murder in the first degree.

Best Spool Cottons, 6 cts., at J. P. PEAB DY'S, 220 Essex street.

PATRIOTIC FESTIVAL.

MANUEL FENOLLOSA has the pleasure to a nounce that, with the assistance of over o hundred of his pupils and friends, he will gi a Patriotic Concert on the 17th of June, Mechanic Hall, Salem, for the benefit of t Sanitary Commission. Doors open at 7½—commence at 8 o'clock. Tickets, at 25 cent can be had at the Bookstores, and, if n previously sold, at the door of the Hall on t evening of the Concert. Over five hundre tickets have already been sold.

The Antiquarian Entertainment at Downing Hall on Thursday evening last was a very successful affair. The ladies of the Lafayette street M. E. Society furnished a supper in the good old style of our grandfathers, the food, dishes, &c., and even the costumes of the waiters, being of the kind used a hundred years ago. The Concert of ancient music, by performers dressed in the garb of olden time, and with the instrumental accompaniments of "Days Lang Syne," afforded great pleasure to the hearers. We learn on this Wednesday evening, after 7 o'clock, the "Old Folks" will entertain their friends, at the same hall, when the Concert will be repeated, and the costumes will again appear; some of the "ancients" will also address their callers.

Book Binding.—As it is drawing near the time to have the monthly and weekly periodicals bound, we will refer our readers to the advertisement of Wm. S. Hiltz, of Salem (formerly of New York city.) We can cheerfully recommend Mr. Hiltz as a good and thorough workman. We saw some specimens of his work the other day which would secure a premium in our next Annual Fair. His place of business is on Essex St., next door below the East India Marine Building.

Jordan Lodge.

There will be a SPECIAL MEETING this Wednesday Evening, June 10, at 7½ o'clock.

Per Order.

Reduced Price.—We shall close the balance of our best Glace Spool Cottons, in white and colored, at six cents per spool or 70 cents per dozen. We warrant them the best cottons for Machine or hand sewing, and to be full 200 yards. JOHN P. PEABODY.

Extraordinary.

Alexandres' Best SILK GLOVES, in light Colors and all sizes, 38 c.

A PAIR.

New Goods just received,

BROWNING & LONG'S.

Embroidered Collars.

A splendid lot New Styles, only

50 c.

just received at

BROWNING & LONG.

Lace Veils.

A magnificent assortment opened this morning, Prices lower than ever,

BROWNING & LONG'S.

6 cts.—The best Glace Spool Cottons for 6 cts. per spool of 200 yards—at PEABODY'S.

Where? Oh, Where?

Where shall I go for a good Breakfast?
Where shall I go for a good Dinner?
Where shall I go for a good Supper?
Where shall I go with Ladies?
Where shall I go with a Party?
Where shall I go for a quiet Dining Room?
Where shall I go and be Satisfied?
Where?—Where?—Where?
Porter answers—

At the Tremont Dining Saloon,

No. 104 Sudbury St., Boston.

Boston, June 10, 1863. 6w

New Photograph and Ambrotype Rooms.

MR. JAMES E. CHUTE hereby gives notice to the inhabitants of South Danvers and vicinity, that he has taken rooms at No. 136 Main Street, over the store of W. O. Batchelder, where he is ready to take Card Photographs and Ambrotypes in the best style of the art. These rooms have been fitted up, and the instruments and materials selected, with the advice and assistance of my relative and friend, Mr. R. J. Chute, of Tremont Row, in Boston, to whom I have the liberty to refer.

I have obtained the services of a first-class operator, who has had a large experience in one of the best Photographic establishments in Boston, and my facilities are such that I trust I shall, by the production of life-like pictures, obtain a generous share of public patronage.

June 10. James E. Chute.

VOCAL CLASS!

MANUAL FENOLLOSA, at the request of some of his friends, respectfully announces his intention of forming a

Singing Class in South Danvers,

for the acquirement of thorough rudimental Instruction in the Art of Singing.

Subscription papers for Membership may be found with Mrs. Geo. P. Osborne, Mrs. I. B. Elliot, and Mr. Geo. P. Daniels.

The class will be organized as soon as a sufficient number of names are obtained to insure its success.

Terms $5.00 for 24 Evening's Instruction.

So. Danvers, April 8, 1863. tf

☞ Try one of Rhoades' National Clothes Wringers, before purchasing elsewhere. For sale at the Equity Store, South Danvers. See advertisement.

☞ Visit Osborne's Store, and look at the unusual variety of new styles in Hats and Caps—191 Essex street.

Port of Danvers.

Ar 2d, schs Black Diamond, Young, and R. G Porter, Smith, Philadelphia; H S Barnes, Raymond, New York; 3d, Florence, Crockett, Bangor; 4th, Mary, Quinn, Boston; 5th, Tarry Not, Cottrell, Bangor.

Marriages.

In South Danvers, June 4, by Rev Mr Barber, Mr John Frost of S D, to Miss Helen M Warner of Salem.

In Salem, June 2, by Rev Dr Emerson, Mr Jonathan Brown to Miss Mary Louisa Pettingill, both of Danvers.

June 3, by Rev Mr Thayer, Mr George G Jelly to Miss Caroline F Morse.

June 4, by Rev Mr Shahan, Mr John Sheridan to Miss Sarah Kenney.

June 3, by Rev Mr Beaman, Mr John B H Fuller to Mrs Belle B Belis, both of Lynnfield.

June 4, by Rev Dr Briggs, Mr Geo H Stone of Nevada City, Cal, to Miss Mary W P Slocum of Salem.

In East Cambridge, June 3, by Rev H K Pevear, Capt John H Goldsmith of Salem to Miss M Paulina Hunt of Cambridge.

Grace's Salve.

Salisbury, June 8th, 1862.

Mr. Grace,—Dear Sir—Your celebrated salve has been used in my family with great success for the removal of pimples from the complexion. After removing them it left the skin smooth and beautiful. For the utility of your salve to me in this case, I can recommend it to the public as a superior remedy. Yours truly,

TIMOTHY MAHONY.

Deaths.

In South Danvers, June 6, after a severe and lingering sickness of scarlet fever and putrid ulceration of the throat, and at last consumption of the blood, Irving Ellsworth Earle, only child of Charles H. and Eliza E. Earle, 1 year 8 months 11 days.

In the death of this child, in that stage of infancy when children are peculiarly interesting, a great and heavy grief has fallen upon his fond and affectionate parents. Possessed of bright parts, the rapid development of its infant mind was too much for the frail body of which it was the tenant. Too soon has the the bud of so much promise been plucked ere it had time to swell into the perfect flower.—In its long sickness it was watched over with all the tenderness of parental love, but not even the maternal exertions and prayers could save it from its early tomb.

The residence of the afflicted parents is at Moultonborough, N. H., and it was while on a visit here to their relations that the loved one was snatched away. May these stricken parents receive all that comfort and condolence from their friends and the higher consolations of religious trust in a glorious immortality, which will enable them to bear the burden of this heavy grief.

In Danversport, June 7, Albert Poole, only son of Enoch and Emily M Rowell, 1 yr 1 mo.

In Danvers, May 30, Evelyn Ida, youngest daughter of Nathaniel Hills, 2 yrs 7 mos 24 ds.

In Salem, June 4, Mrs Sarah C, wife of Mr Joseph Potter, 50; Mrs Mary F, widow of the late Capt Samuel Upton, 62.

In Boston, June 2, William Goff, 60; the last male descendant of the famous William Goffe, one of the regicide judges who sentenced Charles I. to death.

☞ The extraordinary success of Dr. Ham's Invigorating Spirit, seems to stir up an army of Tonics, Bitters, and Cure Alls; but as a general thing they are like the Morning Glory—look very fine in the morning but wilt before the day has past. The Dr. has been before the public for years; his Dyspepsia Remedy has been tested and not found wanting; it acts on the Liver, Stomach, Head and the whole system; it is good at all times and for every body.

MANUAL FENOLLOSA,

TEACHER OF THE

Violin, Piano and Singing,

Music Rooms, No. 7 Central Street,

SALEM, MASS.

Hunnewell's Great Remedies.

What every Family should have in the House and why.

☞ They should have Hunnewell's Universal, Cough Remedy, because it effectually cures Colds, Whooping and Common Coughs Sore Throat, Hoarseness, and is the most simple and perfect Soothing Syrup in the world. For old and young, by day and night, it may be used with the greatest freedom, and three-fourths of the deaths by Consumption stopped.

They should have Hunnewell's Tolu Anodyne, because it is a perfect remedy for Neuralgia, Nervous or Sick Headache, Tooth, and Earache, Pain in Stomach, or Bowels, Genuine Cholera Morbus, Rheumatism, Distress after Eating, Nervousness, Hysteria, and the chief of all causes of disease, and Insanity, Loss of Sleep. Its character, though active, is simple; its action in perfect conformity to nature; its end cure, or relief.

For the pains in Monthly Menstruation a perfect relief, while nature's after work is not disturbed, and one of the most important points in Medicine.

They should have Hunnewell's Eclectic Pills, because with seldom but a single Pill for a dose all derangements of the Stomach and Bowels are cured. They cure Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Headache, when caused by foul stomach, Loss of Appetite, Biliousness so often and so erroneously treated with Mercurials, Jaundice. For Worms a sure cure.

They act simple, assist nature, do not make a Pill Box of the stomach, as is the most fatal error of taking so many Pills at a dose and then what is important to every Family and every Purse, one bottle goes as far as two or three of what is ordinarily sold.

The confidence of all is asked to test

Hunnewell's Universal Cough Remedy.
Hunnewell's Tolu Anodyne.
Hunnewell's Eclectic Pills.

☞ Fac-simile of J. L. Hunnewell's signature over corks of genuine only.

JOHN L. HUNNEWELL, proprietor, 9 Commercial Wharf, Boston, Mass.

George E. Meacom, Agent for Danvers.

For sale by all dealers in Salem and vicinity.

Apr. 1, 1863—1y

Advertisements.

AT COLMAN'S,

No. 10 Front St., Salem.

STRAW AND PAINTED CARPETINGS, &c.

500 Yards 1¼, and 1½ yds wide best Straw Carpeting;

20 large size LOOKING GLASSES, at about one half price;

Closing out all BOOTS and SHOES, at such prices as will suit;

CAPS and HATS—Just received, of the best styles, from Manufactory, at low prices;

CLOTHING. Just received, fresh made Summer Clothing.

Also, some NEW CLOTHING bought at Auction very cheap.

HOSIERY. 500 dozen Men's, Women's, Boys' and Girls' Hosiery:—with a great variety of other goods.

☞ Notice. All Goods advertised, and others, I will sell at such prices as will give satisfaction.

Salem, June 3, 1863. 3w

ANN R. BRAY,

NO. 78 FEDERAL ST., SALEM.

WE are selling out all our Black Silks;
We are selling out all our Cambric Prints;
We are selling out all our French Prints;
We are selling out all our nice Taffetas;
We are selling out all our Organdie Muslins;
We are selling out all our Lawns;
We are selling out all our Cotton Hosiery;
We are selling out all our Linen Hdkfs;
We are selling out all our Domestic Goods;
We are selling thin Dress Goods for 1s worth 25 cents;
We are selling Bleached Cottons for 12½ cts;
We are selling light Spring Prints for 1s;
We have the Quaker Skirt for ladies;
We have the Belle Point Skirt for ladies;
We have the Trail Skirt for ladies;
We have the very best Silk for Visites;
We have a full assortment of B P R Silks, which we are selling out very low.
We are closing out all our stock at reduced prices. june 3

Bargains in Dress Goods.

PURCHASED THIS WEEK,

WHICH we shall sell to our customers at greatly reduced prices.

Ladies will find it to their advantage to call and look at them before buying elsewhere.

may 27 ANN R. BRAY, 76 Federal st.

WHITE LEAD AND LINSEED OIL,

OF the best quality—for sale at

SC & E A SIMONDS', 32 Front st.

John P. Peabody.

What We Sell.

HOSIERY.	TRIMMINGS.
GLOVES.	LACE GOODS.
CORSETS.	EMBROIDERIES.
SKIRTS.	BONNET RIBBONS.
BODICES.	FRENCH FLOWERS.
BUTTONS.	BLACK LACES.
BRAIDS.	WHITE LACES.
CORDS.	BONNET RUCHES.
ELASTICS.	BONNET TABS.
COMBS.	DRESS QUILLINGS.
COTTONS.	COLLETETTE RUFFLE.
SILKS.	DOUBLE RUFFLE.
TWISTS.	IMPERATIVE RUFFLE.
NEEDLES.	INFANTS' WAISTS.
THIMBLES.	INFANTS' ROBES.
BRUSHES.	BLACK LACE VEILS.
PUFFS.	MOURNING VEILS.
POWDERS.	MOURNING COLLARS.
BOXES.	WROUGHT BANDS.
PAGES.	WROUGHT EDGINGS.
SOAPS.	WROUGHT INSERT'N'S
PERFUMES.	ENG. THREAD EDGING
HAIR GLOSS	SMYRNA EDGINGS.
HAIR OILS.	SILK LACE EDGINGS.

J. P. PEABODY'S, 220 ESSEX STREET, SALEM.

BONNET RIBBONS.
BONNET RIBBONS.
BONNET RIBBONS.
BONNET RIBBONS.
BONNET RIBBONS.
BONNET RIBBONS.

FLOWERS. FLOWERS.
FLOWERS. FLOWERS.
FLOWERS. FLOWERS.
FLOWERS. FLOWERS.
FLOWERS. FLOWERS.
FLOWERS. FLOWERS.

BONNET RUCHES.
BONNET RUCHES.
BONNET RUCHES.
BONNET RUCHES.
BONNET RUCHES.
BONNET RUCHES.

Peabody's Ladies' Furnishing Store.
Peabody's Ladies' Furnishing Store.
Peabody's Ladies' Furnishing Store.
Peabody's Ladies' Furnishing Store.
Peabody's Ladies' Furnishing Store.

SUN UMBRELLAS.

We have a large Stock and can sell them at the lowest possible prices for good goods;—we have them in all desirable sizes and styles—and invite all to examine them before buying.

PARASOLS.

We have no new Parasols; but have those we kept over, and shall sell them at last year's prices, in order to close our entire Stock and make room for Sun Umbrellas.

CORSETS.

We have a nice style of Corsets that we have been selling for $1 75, which we are now closing at $1 35 They are bargains. We have a new thing: Corsets, Shoulder Braces and Skirt Supporters combined. It needs only to be seen to be appreciated.

HANDKERCHIEFS.

We have a bargain in Linen Handkerchiefs at 15 cts. each—and a good thing at 12½ cts; and in all prices above. Grass Cloth, Hemmed, Bordered and Wrought Hdkfs in pretty styles—mourning Hdkfs, in variety.

SKIRTS.

We have a nice thing in Watch Spring Skirts. We warrant every Skirt we sell—all prices and sizes—from 30 cts. to $3 00.

HOSIERY.

Ladies' Lisle Thread and Cotton Hosiery; Misses Cotton Hosiery, in all sizes; Fancy Col'd Hose, in all sizes; Infants' ½ and ¾ Hose, all sizes; Gent's ½ Hose, in blue, mix'd and white Hosiery, at the lowest prices.

ONE PRICE ONLY!

220 ESSEX ST., SALEM,

JOHN P. PEABODY.

NEW STOCK

— OF —

DRY GOODS

— AT —

No. 238 Essex street,

(Three Doors West of the Tunnel.)

THE Subscriber opened on MONDAY, May 18th,

A Fresh Stock of Dry Goods,

Consisting of nearly all the new styles of Dress Goods, Ladies' Cloths, Cloths for Men's & Boys' Wear; Shawls, Domestic and Housekeeping Goods; Sun Umbrellas; Parasols; Hoop Skirts; Hosiery; Gloves; &c., &c., &c.

☞ All the above Goods will be sold for Cash, at Low Prices.

GEORGE P. DANIELS.

Salem, May 20.

NEW BOOKS,

AT G. M. WHIPPLE & A. A. SMITH'S.

Frank Warrington, by the author of "Rutledge," "The Sutherlands;" Lillian, by a Boston Lady;
Tales and Sketches, by Hugh Miller;
Out Door Papers, by T. W. Higginson;
Life of Asa G. Sheldon; Wilmington Farmer;
Draper's Intellectual Development of Europe;
Supplement to Revised Statutes, Session '62 3 ju 10 Sign of the Five Golden Books.

POCKET BOOKS,

WALLETS, &c, new and desirable patterns, just rec'd and for sale by

G M WHIPPLE & A A SMITH.

HILTON'S INSOLUBLE CEMENT,

UNIVERSALLY liked—for sale by

G M WHIPPLE & A A SMITH.

James F. Almy.

JUST RECEIVED

1 more case of fine

BLEACHED COTTONS,

At 12½ cents.

JAMES. F. ALMY,

je 10 188 Essex, opposite Central st.

SUMMER, 1863.

We shall open New Styles Silk Mantillas,

Saturday, May 30.

We have received a full stock of Rich Black Silks for Mantillas; also Laces, Embroidery Braids and Bugle Trimmings, for Mantillas.

We are closing our Stock of Cloth Garments at Wholesale prices.

We are selling Ladies' Cloths at very low prices.

We have received a choice stock of Summer Shawls.

We have opened a large stock of Summer Dress Goods, in good value and styles, at a Bargain.

Our General Stock of Seasonable Dress Goods was never more complete than now, and our prices are very low.

We have a fine Stock of Sun Umbrellas.

We have a fine Stock of best Kid Gloves.

We have a fine Stock of Ladies' and Misses' Summer Under clothing.

We have a fine Stock of Hosiery and Gloves, Velvet Ribbons, Ladies' and Gents' Hdkfs, etc.

We are selling Watch Spring Skirts very low.

In Domestic Goods, we offer all the advantages of the reduction in prices, as our Stock has been mainly purchased within a few days.

We offer a fine Stock of Cloth for Men's and Boys' wear.

We offer a large Stock of White Goods.

Cash buyers will find it for their advantage to examine our Stock.

JAMES F. ALMY,

188 Essex, opposite Central st.

June 3d, 1863.

M. FENOLLOSA,

TEACHER OF MUSIC,

LETS .....PIANO FORTES, at the lowest rates;
SELLS ..... PIANO FORTES, at the Manufacturers Prices;
EXCHANGES....PIANO FORTES, on the easiest terms;

At Rooms No. 7 Central street,

feb 11 Salem, Mass.

GLASS WARE.

CUT and Pressed Glass Goblets; Tumblers; Dishes, etc, just opened at

S C & E A SIMONDS' 32 Front st.

TABLE MATS.

SHAKER Table Mats—for sale by

may 27 S C & E A SIMONDS.

A Card.

Having disposed of my stock and stand to Miss M. E. Crane, I avail myself of this opportunity to request my friends and customers who have bestowed their liberal patronage upon me, to transfer the same to my successor.

In taking leave of my business friends, I would return my warmest thanks for the generous patronage I have received. I can in the highest terms recommend Miss Crane, and would bespeak for her your kind consideration and confidence.

I would most respectfully invite those having unsettled accounts to call and adjust the same, either with Miss Crane or myself, at the old stand.

April 22, 1863. M. M. FLETCHER.

Notice.

The Subscriber having purchased of Mrs. M. M. Fletcher her stock of Goods, and made additions to the same, is now prepared to furnish her patrons and the public with a large and fine assortment of

Millinery Goods,

which we will sell very low for cash. We hope by strict attention to business to merit a liberal share of patronage. M. E. CRANE,

ap 22 cor. of Essex and St. Peter sts.

M. A. PORTER,

MANUFACTURES TO ORDER

WATCH SPRING SKIRTS,

At 236 Essex Street,

A few doors from Washington Street,

SALEM, MASS.

SEWING MACHINES.

PERSONS about purchasing Sewing Machines will find it to their advantage to consult

JOHN H. CHOATE,

SEWING MACHINE AGENT.

Over Newman & Symonds' Store, Lowell St.

Second-hand Machines bought and sold.

South Danvers, May 13—tf

Dr. Ham's Spirit.

George S. Walker.

Notice to Gentlemen.

FOR THE WARM WEATHER.

SUMMER MERINO UNDER SHIRTS;
GAUZE " " " GOSSAMER " " "
SILK " " "
COTTON " " "

IN EXTRA LARGE AND SMALL SIZES.

Summer Merino, Gauze and Unbleached Cotton DRAWERS, in sizes from 28 to 44 inches.

Summer Merino, Lisle, Silk, and Cotton HALF HOSE, in a great variety of styles and in all sizes.

Many of the above goods were bought before the advance for Cash, and will be sold at the lowest prices.

GEORGE S. WALKER'S,

Gent's Furnishing Store,

may 20 228 Essex Street, Salem, Mass.

A. J. Archer & Co

WE OPEN THIS MORNING

ELEGANT

BLACK SILK GARMENTS,

At prices from $8 00 to $16 00.

A. J. ARCHER & CO.,

Salem, june 3—tf

SUMMER SHAWLS!

We open this morning beautiful new

SUMMER SHAWLS.

— Also —

A variety of THIN DRESS GOODS;
8 4 Black Hernani and Crape Maretz;
Black Grenadine. For sale by

A. J. ARCHER & CO.,

Salem, june 3—tf.

SPRING GOODS!

Entirely New Stock of

CLOTHING.

GEO. H. LANE,

CLOTHIER,

Nos. 31 and 32 Dock Square,

BOSTON,

IS now ready to show to his customers and the public an ELEGANT STOCK OF CLOTHING for MEN'S and BOYS' wear, expressly designed by himself, manufactured on the premises for the present season in all those new and choice selections of fabrics for which Lane's establishment has become celebrated. The stock consists in part of

SPRING OVERCOATS,
FROCK COATS,
BUSINESS COATS,

And ONE HUNDRED CHOICE

NEW STYLES OF PANTALOONS,

Suitable for Dress, Promenade or Business Occasions.

Mr. Lane having made Large Purchases by Contract before the Unprecedented and General Advance in Prices, has it in his power to give

REAL BARGAINS,

Acting on the principal that

"Quick Sales and Small Profits"

Are the best rules to guide the merchant.

JUVENILE ATTIRE.

Boys' Entire Suits, as

SCHOOL SUITS,
DRESS SUITS,
JACKET SUITS,
SACK SUITS, &C.

All of the newest fabrics and best workmanship.

A year since Mr. Lane advised the public that he had added a Boys' Department, and he has now the satisfaction to announce that he has secured the services of Mr. C. H. Boynton, (formerly with J. Walter Read) to superintend it; and indeed, to make the entire establishment the COMPLETEST IN NEW ENGLAND, the Proprietor has spared no pains to secure the services of REAL ARTISTS in the Cutting Room, and accomplished, obliging, and experienced Salesman in the Show Room; and trusts by strict personal attention, and MODERATE CHARGES, to merit the support of the community.

GEO. H. LANE,

31 AND 32 DOCK SQUARE,

April 1—3m BOSTON.

Potter, Bachelder & Co.,

(Successors to M. Black)

DANVERS-PORT,

DEALERS IN

WOOD AND COAL

OF the various kinds usually kept in a retail yard. Constantly on hand

Franklin, Old Company's Lehigh,
Locust Mountain, Black Heath,
Red and White Ash.

Of all sizes, of the best quality, and at as low prices as can be bought elsewhere.

OFFICE—No. 6 Allen's Building.

Order Box at post office, South Danvers, and post office, Danvers.

G. W. POTTER,
J. Q. A. BACHELDER,
C. T. BATCHELDER, July 19—tf

Browning & Long.

LOW PRICES!

Notwithstanding the present high prices of all Goods,

MESSRS. BROWNING & LONG offer many at extremely low prices, and would call attention to the following list—being determined to offer

FIRST CLASS GOODS,

— AT THE —

Lowest Prices.

Ladies' Colored Cotton Hose,	10c;
White and Unbleached Hose,	18c;
Nice Open-work Hose,	28c;
Misses' White and Unbleached Hose,	16c;
Children's Colored Hose,	16c;
Gent's good half-Hose,	16c;
Misses' Fancy Cotton Hose,	16c;
Nice Lisle Gloves,	15c;
Ladies' Mohair Mitts,	50c;
Cotton Border Hdkfs,	5c;
Ladies' All-Linen Hdkfs,	13c;
All-Linen Hem-Stitched Hdkfs,	30c;
Embroidered Collars,	15c;
Nice Crape Collars,	25c;
Gent's Woven Bosoms,	80;
Bead Nets,	25c,

and many others in like comparison.

Our Stock is complete and we can show a fine assortment of everything in our line.

Very large varieties of

NEW GOODS.

Lace Collars
Embroidered Collars
Alexandra Bows
Cambric Edgings
Cambric Insertings
Summer Under Garments
Hosiery and Gloves
New Styles Dress Trimmings.

VEILS! VEILS!! VEILS!!!

SKIRTS, in all the styles.

☞ Our facilities for procuring Goods are superior. Having a special agent in New York, we are constantly receiving something new, and our stock is always kept full.

BROWNING & LONG

Essex St., 177 Essex St.,

Salem, June 10, 1863.

Quincy Mutual Fire Insurance Co.

Available and Cash Capital $500,000.

INSURES Buildings, Merchandize and Personal Property generally, on terms as favorable as any other dividend paying company.

J. D. BLACK, Agent,

april 22—1y At Danversport.

Merrimack Mutual Fire Insurance Co., Andover, Mass.

ONE of the Old and Reliable Offices.

J. D. BLACK is Agent for Danvers and South Danvers. apr 22—1y

VALUABLE REAL ESTATE.

THE Subscriber offers for sale on favorable terms,—or would exchange for a Farm,—his Estate on Wallis Street, near the Monumental Cemetary, consisting of THREE DWELLING HOUSES, which will be sold separately or as one Estate.

There are 75 feet of land in front, and 72 feet in the rear of the house.

The situation is pleasant, in a good neighborhood, and the houses are supplied with all the conveniences for immediate occupation. In ordinary times these tenements would rent for from 330 to 350 dollars.

The Subscriber, having made up his mind to dispose of the property, will sell it low, and it is well worth the attention of purchasers.

Apply to JOHN M'NEAL.

South Danvers, Dec. 10th, 1862. tf.

Tillage Land and Barn to Let.

ABOUT six acres of good level Tillage Land with a Barn, situated upon the "Cross Road" in Rockville. Any one wishing to work upon land a portion or the whole of his time will find this a rare chance.

For further particulars application may be made to either of the subscribers.

S. C. BANCROFT, So. Danvers.
JOHN H. NICHOLS, Salem.

South Danvers, Ap. 22.

Just Opened,

A SUPERIOR quality corded Taffeta, at 37½ cts. All wool DeLaines, desirable shades; Domestic Goods of every description.

ap 29 ANN R BRAY, 76 Federal st.

PHOTOGRAPH ALBUMS.

A FULL assortment constantly on hand.

G M WHIPPLE & A A SMITH.

WM. S. HILTZ,

Plain and Ornamental

BOOK-BINDER,

No. 157 Essex Street (up stairs), Salem.

Bibles, Music, Magazines, Periodicals, and old books of every description bound with neatness and despatch at the lowest cash prices.

Music bound and ready for delivery in 3 days.

References—Hon. S. H. Phillips, Francis Peabody, Esq., Wm. G. Choate, Esq., R. S. Rantoul, Esq., Dr. G. A. Perkins, Dr. Der Gersdoff. may 27

CHINA WARE;

GOLD Band China Tea Ware; White and Lustre China do—at

S. C. & E. A. SIMONDS', 32 Front st.

FRUIT BASKETS.

WHITE China and White Granite Fruit Baskets—at

S. C. & E. A. SIMONDS', 32 Front st.

Sun Shades and Sun Umbrellas.

A FULL assortment of Green, Brown and Black Sun Shades and Umbrellas, at

ap 29 ANN R BRAY'S, 76 Federal st.

☞ If you want to Save Money, in purchasing Goods, go to Colman's, No. 10 Front street, Salem. jap30-tf

Auction Sales.

WILLIAM ARCHER, Jr.,

Auctioneer, Real Estate and Stock Broker,

34 Front Street.

Real Estate, Bank, Railroad and Manufacturing Stock bought and sold on Commission.

D. P. GROSVENOR, Jr.,

Druggist and Apothecary,

88 MAIN STREET.

Dealer in Drugs, Medicines, Chemicals, Dye Stuffs, and Popular Proprietary Medicines.

Personal attention to Physicians' Prescriptions.

South Danvers, May 29, 1861. 1y

GEO. E. MEACOM

Dealer in

DRUGS & MEDICINES,

Fancy & Toilet Articles, &c.

126 · · MAIN ST. · · 126

Nearly opposite Danvers Bank, So. Danvers.

T. A. SWEETSER,

Druggist & Apothecary

37 Main St., So. Danvers,

DEALER IN

Drugs, Medicines, Chemicals, Foreign Leeches, Shakers' Herbs, Dye Stuffs, Gums, Acids, Sponges, Shoulder Braces, Trusses, and Genuine Patent Medicines.

Also, Imported Cigars of choice brands, Perfumery Toilet Articles and Stationery.

Physicians' Prescriptions carefully prepared by experienced persons.

37 MAIN STREET.

GRACE'S CELEBRATED SALVE.

A SURE RELIEF FOR THE SUFFERER.

This Salve is a vegetable preparation, invented in the 17th century, by Dr. Wm. Grace, surgeon in King James's army. Through its agency he cured thousands of most serious sores and wounds that baffled the skill of the most eminent physicians of his day, and was regarded by all who knew him as a public benefactor.

Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Burns.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Scalds.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Flesh Wounds.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Corns.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Felons.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Frozen Limbs.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Wens.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Callouses.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Salt Rheum.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Chilblains.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Sore Breast.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Sore Lips.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Erysipelas Sores.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Abscesses.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Ulcers.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Chapped Hands.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Ringworms.

And from Sores and Wounds of the most serious nature down to a common Pimple. It eradicates Pimples from the face, and beautifies the skin. There is no preparation before the public that can equal this Salve in prompt and energetic action for the speedy cure of external diseases, as those who have tried its virtues testify. Soldiers, Sailors, and Fishermen, will find this Salve their best friend.

It has none of the irritating, heating properties of other remedies, but cools, cleanses, and heals the most serious Sores and Wounds. Every family, and especially those containing children, should keep a box on hand in case of accident, for it will save them much trouble, suffering, and money. All it wants is a fair trial to cure old and inveterate Sores.

MANUFACTURED BY

WILLIAM GRACE,

Amesbury, Mass.

Price 25 cents, 50 cents, and $1 per box. A great saving is made by taking the large size

Each box has the above cut and the fac-simile of the proprietor's signature attached to it, which is duly copy righted.

Geo. C. Goodwin & Co., 11 and 12 Marshall street, Weeks & Potter, 170 Washington street, and M. S. Burr & Co., 26 Tremont street, Boston, Wholesale Agents.

For sale by D. P. Grosvenor, T. A Sweetser and George E. Meacom, Druggists, Main street, South Danvers, and at country stores everywhere

THE CLOTHES WRINGER.

JUST OBTAINED

RHOADES' CELEBRATED

NATIONAL CLOTHES WRINGER,

THE VERY BEST YET INVENTED,

AND REALLY A LABOR SAVING MACHINE.

CALL AND EXAMINE.

For Sale by E. SOUTHWICK,

At the EQUITY GROCERY STORE,

South Danvers, Jan 21, 1863. 3m

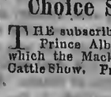
To Let on Essex St., Salem,

The STORE and DWELLING HOUSE connected therewith, No. 250 Essex St. The store is neatly fitted up, is one of the best stands in the city, and admirably adapted for Millinery, Fancy, Dry Goods, or any light business.

The Dwelling part contains nine finished rooms, and is supplied with water, gas, etc.—all in good order and very convenient.

To a satisfactory tenant, the above will be let on reasonable terms. Apply at J. PERLEY'S Shoe Store, next door west. feb 25

THE PIANO FORTES



THAT have attracted so much attention of late, and are so much admired on account of their splendid full, rich, mellow tone, and grand French action, are for sale only at the Office of the Agent,

218 Essex Street, Salem, Mass.,

where reference may be had to many who have purchased. Other Piano Fortes also, are for sale, varying in price from $180 upwards. Please call.

Mch 11 6m S. MACKINTIRE, Agent.

Choice Spring Pigs for Sale.

THE subscriber offers for sale nice PIGS of Mackie Prince Albert and Chester County breeds, of which the Mackie took the First Premium at the last Cattle Show. Prices reasonable.

BYRON GOODALE,

Near Tapley's Brook,

South Danvers, April 22, 1863. tf

THE DOCTOR AND THE SEXTON.—A good story is told of a doctor in Beverly, who was somewhat of a wag. He met, one day in the street, the sexton with whom he was acquainted. As the usual salutations were passed, the doctor happened to cough.

"Why, doctor," said the sexton, "you have got a cold. How long have you had that?"

"Look here, Mr. ———!" said the doctor with a show of indignation, "what is your charge for interments?"

"Nine shillings," was the reply.

"Well," continued the doctor, "just come into my office, and I will pay it. I don't want to have you round so anxious about my health."

The sexton was soon even with him however. Turning to the doctor, he replied:

"Ah, doctor, I cannot afford to bury you yet. Business has never been so good as it has since you began to practice."

Since the above conversation, neither has ventured to joke at the expense of the other.

☞ Fascinating gent (to precocious little girl):

"You are a nice little girl; you shall be my wifey when you grow up!"

"No, thank you, I don't want to have a husband; but Aunt Bessy does, I heard her say so!"

Aunt Bessy faints.

☞ A widow once said to her daughter: "When you are of my age, it will be time enough to dream of a husband."

"Yes, mamma," replied the thoughtless girl, "for the second time."

The mother fainted.

SUBSTITUTE FOR BUTTER.—Marry the nicest girl you know. You will then have her to preside at your table, and unless you are a sad dog indeed, you will not require any but her."

☞ "Jack, your wife is not so pensive as she used to be." "No," said Jack, "she has left that off and turned expensive."

☞ There is a man in Connecticut who has such a hatred for anything like monarchy that he won't wear a crown on his hat.

☞ "I say, Jim, are there any bears in your country in the winter?" "Y-e-s: the ice bears!"

☞ A Western girl, after giving her lover a hasty smack, exclaimed: "Dog my cats, if you haven't taken a little rye, old hoss."

KISSING.—We have heard of but one old woman kissing her cow, but there are thousands of young ones that kiss great calves.

☞ Why is a widower like a house in dilapidation? Because he should be repaired.

TO CONSUMPTIVES.

THE ADVERTISER HAVING BEEN RESTORED to health in a few weeks, by a very simple remedy, after having suffered several years with a severe lung affection, and that dread disease, Consumption—is anxious to make known to his fellow-sufferers the means of cure.

To all who desire it, he will send a copy of the prescription used (free of charge,) with the directions for preparing and using the same, which they will find a SURE CURE for CONSUMPTION, ASTHMA, BRONCHITIS, &c. The only object of the advertiser in sending the Prescription is to benefit the afflicted, and spread information which he conceives to be invaluable, and he hopes every sufferer will try his remedy as it will cost them nothing, and may prove a blessing.

Rev. EDWARD A. WILSON, Williamsburgh,
March, 18, 3m Kings County, New York.

New Jersey Lands for Sale.

— ALSO —

GARDEN OR FRUIT FARMS,

Suitable for Grapes, Peaches, Pears, Raspberries, Strawberries, Blackberries, Currants, &c., of 1, 2½, 5, 10 or 20 acres each, at the following prices for the present, viz: 20 acres for $200, 10 acres for $110, 5 acres for $60, 2½ acres for $40, 1 acre for $20. Payable by one dollar a week.

Also, good Cranberry lands, and village lots in HETWOOD 25 by 100 feet, at $10 each, payable by one dollar a week. The above land and farms are situated at Chetwood, Washington Township, Burlington, New Jersey. For further information, apply with a P. O. Stamp, for a circular, to

B. FRANKLIN CLARK,
feb 18, 1863 No. 90 Cedar St, New York, N. Y.

TERRIBLE DISCLOSURES — SECRETS FOR THE MILLION!—A most valuable and wonderful publication. A work of 400 pages, and 30 colored engravings. DR. HUNTER'S VADE MECUM, an original and popular treatise on Man and Woman, their Physiology, Functions, and Sexual Disorders of every kind, with Never-Failing Remedies for their speedy cure. The practice of Dr. Huntor has long been, and still is, unbounded, but at the earnest solicitation of numerous persons, he has been induced to extend his medical usefulness through the medium of his "Vade Mecum." It is a volume that should be in the hands of every family in the land, as a preventive of secret vices, or as a guide for the alleviation of one of the most awful and destructive scourges ever visited mankind. One copy, securely enveloped, will be forwarded free of postage to any part of the United States for 50 cents in post office stamps, 3 copies for $1. Address, post paid, DR. HUNTER, No. 3 Dvision Street, New York. je3—1y

The Diseases of Error.

(Les Maladies d'Erreur.)

DR. John B. Ogden, M. D., author and publisher of the above work, do hereby promise and agree to send (free of charge) to any young man who will write for it, a sample for perusal. The proper study of mankind is MAN. This valuable work is issued and sent forth for the benefit of suffering humanity. It treats in simple language on all the diseases of Error, including Seminal Weakness, Nervous Debility, Indigestion, Melancholy, Insanity, Wasting Decay, Impotency, etc., etc.—giving safe, speedy, and effectual prescriptions for their permanent cure, together with much valuable information. All who favor me with a desire to read my work shall receive a sample copy by return mail, free of charge. Address JOHN B. OGDEN, M. D., June 3—3m No. 60 Nassau st, New York.

Cards.

WILLIAM G. CHOATE,
Attorney and Counsellor at Law,
251 Essex St., Salem.
Salem, August 6, 1862. tf

THOMAS M. STIMPSON,
Attorney and Counsellor at Law,
194 ESSEX STREET, SALEM.
Residence Lowell street, South Danvers.

B. C. PERKINS,
Attorney and Counsellor at Law,
South Danvers—Office in Allen's Building.

JOHN W. PROCTOR
Counsellor at Law,
Office near the Monument.

A. A. PUTNAM,
Attorney and Counsellor at Law,
CORNER MAPLE AND ELM ST.,
DANVERS.

ALFRED A. ABBOTT,
Attorney and Counsellor,
Office, No. 24 Washington Street, Salem;
House, Main St., So. Danvers.

IVES & PEABODY,
Attorneys and Counsellors at Law,
Have removed their Office to
Rooms formerly occupied by Hon. Otis P. Lord,
NO. 27 WASHINGTON STREET, SALEM,
STEPHEN B. IVES, jr. JOHN. B. PEABODY

SIDNEY C. BANCROFT,
Attorney and Counsellor at Law,
27 Washington Street, Salem.

H. O. WILEY,
Attorney and Counsellor at Law,
Office, Allen's Building, So. Danvers.

Claims against the Government for Bounty Back Pay, and Pensions, promptly attended to

A. S. CRAWFORD
Dentist,
No. 4 MAIN STREET, So. DANVERS SQUARE
Mechanical Dentistry Neatly Executed.
Teeth Extracted by Electricity without Extra Charge

W. L. BOWDOIN,
SURGEON DENTIST,
No, 208 Essex Street, Salem, (Opposite the Market
Residence--No. 57 Washington street.
jan 11—1y

F. POOLE
INSURANCE AGENT,
Allen's Building (up stairs),
Deeds drawn, and other common forms.

NEWMAN & SYMONDS,
DEALERS IN
Family Groceries, Flour & Grain,
HARD WARE AND CROCKERY,
Ready Made Clothing, Gents' Furnishing Goods, Hats, Caps, Boots, Shoes, &c.,
South Danvers Square, opp. Congregational Church
SAM'L NEWMAN. NATH'L SYMONDS.

S. C. & E. A. SIMONDS,
DEALERS IN
Crockery, China and Hardware; Paper Hangings; Solar and Entry Lamps; Paints, Oil, and Window Glass.
No. 32 Front street, Lawrence Place,
feb13 SALEM, MASS.

HENRY L. WHIDDEN,
HOUSE AND SIGN PAINTER,
Glazier and Paperer,
Central Street, South Danvers.
All orders promptly and faithfully executed.
jan2-1y

E. S. FLINT,
DEALER IN
West India Goods, Country Produce,
No. 2 Main Street, South Danvers.

JESSE SMITH
No. 262 Essex Street, Salem,
Importer and Dealer in
Gold and Silver Watches,
MARINE CHRONOMETERS,
Aneroid Barometers, Spy Glasses, &c.

WILLIAM BLANEY,
HOUSE & SIGN PAINTER
Gruiner, Glazier and Paper Hanger.
164 MAIN STREET, Corner of Grove.
WINDOWS and BLINDS cheap for cash.
mch6-tf

JOHN MOULTON,
LIVERY STABLE,
Central Street, South Danvers.
Mr. M. will endeavor to keep up the good reputation of his stable, by still keeping good Horses and Carriages. jan 7. 1863.

SPRING STYLE
DRESS HATS,
NOW READY
AT JACKSON'S,
101 COURT STREET, BOSTON.
Also a large and varied assortment of CAPS and SOFT HATS, for Boys' and Men's wear. Those wishing articles in the above line would do well to call before purchasing.
JOSEPH A. JACKSON.
Boston, April 1, 1863. 3m

To Let.
A SMALL but pleasant and convenient Chamber Tenement, in the house formerly occupied by the late Wood Forness, upon the corner of Washington and Pleasant Streets. For particulars apply to
SIDNEY C. BANCROFT.
South Danvers, April 22. tf

JOHN FARRELL,
DRAPER AND TAILOR,
HAVING removed to his old place of business, 138 MAIN ST., South Danvers, (over Batchelder's Grocery Store), is prepared to Cut, Make, Repair, or furnish Garments, for Men and Youths at short notice.
South Danvers, April 1. tf

Crockery Ware.
A FULL assortment of China and Crockery Ware; Wooden Ware; Table Cutlery; Tea Trays; Britannia Ware and Silver Plated Ware, &c—for sale at the General Furnishing Store for Housekeepers, No. 32 Front street.
ap 22 S C & E A SIMONDS.

CARD PHOTOGRAPHS.
RAPHAEL'S Hours, Liberty, On the Beach, Evening, Prince and Princess, etc—at
may 13 G M WHIPPLE & A A SMITH'S

H. & H. G. HUBON,
WASHINGTON STREET, SALEM
Manufacturers of
Rose Wood, Mahogany, Black Walnut and Stained Wood
COFFINS and CASKETS.
MAKING this our exclusive business, we are ready at all times and at the shortest notice to furnish Grave Clothes of various styles, as well as Coffins and Caskets of the finest finish. Personal attention given, and delivered without extra charge to any of the neighboring towns. All orders by express or otherwise will receive prompt attention.
Black Walnut and White Wood Boards, Plank and Joists for sale.
dec 14—tf

GAYLE & CO.,
GENERAL COMMISSION MERCHANTS,
DEALERS IN
Flour, Grain and Produce,
Manufacturers' Agents for the sale of
Concentrated Leaven, Soda and Pearlash Saleratus, and Bi Carb. Soda.
PHILLIPS WHARF, - - - - Salem.

T. HARDY, JR.,
—Dealer in—
DOORS, SASHES, BLINDS,
Glazed Sash, Painted Blinds,
FENCE PALES, STAIR BALUSTERS, FRAMING PINS, &c.,
No. 26 FRONT STREET,
Salem, January 14, 1863—6m

Salem and Danvers Aqueduct Co'y.
ALL persons using the water of the Salem and South Danvers Aqueduct are hereby notified that the water rents, for the six months ending May 1, 1863, are now due, and that they are required to pay the same, at the office of the Company, No 2 Sewall street, on the 1st day of May next. Should the bills remain unpaid for thirty days, the water will be stopped, in conformity to the regulations of the Company.
Office hours, from 9 to 1 o'clock, and from 2 to 5.
Per order of the Directors,
apr 1 WM. JELLY, Collector.

HEYLINGBERG'S
Hair Dressing Saloon,
24 MAIN ST., SOUTH DANVERS.
TARIFF OF PRICES:

Shaving,	6 cts.
Hair Cutting,	12 cts.
Champooing,	15 cts.
Champooing and Hair Cutting,	25 cts.

No more new Quarterly Customers taken.
In consequence of the scarcity of Change, 18 checks will be sold for one dollar.
South Danvers, Dec 17, 1862.

THOMAS DAVIS,
ADVERTISING AGENT
For the principal New England Newspapers, remains at the old stand, No. 23 Cornhill, Boston, where you will find him still loyal to the Constitution, the Laws, and Advertising.
Boston, Jan 29, 1862. tf

WALKING MADE EASY.
CORNS.
DR. P. KENISON,
CHIROPODIST,
215 Washington St., Boston,
Cures Hard and Soft Corns, Bunions, Club Nails, Nails penetrating the Flesh, Warts, &c., in a manner that will satisfy the most incredulous.

SPEED, COMFORT AND SAFETY!
FOR NEW YORK.
Norwich Steamboat Train.
The only Boats Landing at Jersey City.
CABIN Passage, $4.00; Deck Passage, $3.00. The new and elegant sixteen wheel cars of the steamboat express train leave the Boston & Worcester Railroad Station, Albany Street., at 5½ P. M., daily, connecting with the new steamers, (built expressly for this line,) CITY OF BOSTON, Capt. WILCOX, Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays; CITY OF NEW YORK, Capt. JEWETT, Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays, which (before proceeding to their Pier, No. 39 North River,) will touch at the wharf of the New Jersey Railroad at Jersey City, (Sundays excepted) thus enabling Southern Passengers to make sure connections with the First Southern Train, and at the same time avoid the great annoyance of the Ferry and Hack transportation in the crowded streets of New York. This insures ample time for Breakfast before the trains leave. Conductors D. F. WALLER and W. F. BARTON accompany the passengers through.
Tickets, Berths and Staterooms secured at the Railroad Station, and at the Office of the line, 79 Washington Street, Boston.
Through tickets to Philadelphia, Baltimore and Washington can be had at 79 Washington Street, Boston. WM. DICKEY, Agt., Agent.
Boston, January 7, 1863.

100,000 BARRELS OF THE LODI MANUFACTURING COMPANY'S
POUDRETTE,
111 COMMERCIAL ST., BOSTON, MASS.
This Company, with a capital of $150,000, the most extensive works of the kind in the world, and an experience in manufacturing of over 23 years, with a reputation long established, having also the exclusive control of all the night soil of the great city of New York, are prepared to furnish an article, which is, without doubt, the CHEAPEST AND VERY BEST fertilizer in market. It greatly increases the yield, and ripens the crop from two to three weeks earlier, at an expense of from three to four dollars per acre, with little or no labor. Also, FIFTY TONS of BONE TAPEU, being a mixture of bone and night soil ground fine, at $45 per ton—a superior article for grain, &c. A pamphlet containing all necessary information may be had free by addressing a letter to the LODI MANUFACTURING CO., No. 111 Commercial Street, Boston, Mass.
Price of POUDRETTE, $1.65 per barrell. Seven barrells and over delivered free of charge.

Chickering & Sons' Piano-Fortes.
Hallett & Cumston's Piano-Fortes.
Hallett & Davis's Piano-Fortes.

We select our Piano-Fortes from the above firms and warrant them to give perfect satisfaction Our terms are reasonable, and all persons in the city and neighboring towns can be accommodated by calling at 76 Federal street.
FOR SALE—Second-hand Piano-Fortes,—Chickering's and others.
ap 29 ANN R. BRAY.

D. W. BOWDOIN,
—ARTIST IN—
PHOTOGRAPHIC PICTURES.
Rooms No. 175 Essex st, Salem, [Downing's Block]
Portraits, Miniatures, and Views, by the Ambrotype, Daguerreotype, Photograph and Stereoscope process—finished in India Ink, Oil and Water colors.
☞ Particular attention paid to restoring old Daguerreotypes, and other pictures—and making enlarged copies, highly finished. may

NEW YORK WHITE LEAD.
2500 L New York White Lead;
Also. Fores River White Lead—for sale by
mch 4 S C & E A SIMONDS.

WIRE GOODS.
WIRE Rat Traps; Broilers; Steamers; Sieves etc., just received at
S C & E A SIMONDS', 32 Front st.

DIARIES--1863-
VN excellent assortment at the lowest prices, for sale by G M WHIPPLE & A A SMITH.

NEW NEEDLE THREADER.
DOUBLE-ENDED, Excelsior Sewing Needle Threader and Worsted Threader combined—of great utility for near sighted or nervous people in threading needles, numbering from 4 to 12, and also Darning Needles.
Call and see them, at
mch 4 G M WHIPPLE & A A SMITH'S.

JUVENILE BOOKS,
A VERY large assortment for sale by
G M WHIPPLE & A A SMITH.

W. E. P. SMYTH,
Attorney and Counsellor at Law,
Proctor in Admiralty, and Commissioner of Deeds for the several States.
Frazier's Building, over the Post Office,
LYNN, MASS.
Having peculiar means for prosecuting, with accuracy and dispatch, all claims against Government, especially those for Bounty, Back Pay and Pensions, I have made this a specialty. Several months' residence in Washington enabled me to become thoroughly conversant with the routine of business in all the Departments, through which claims, of whatever nature, are passed, and also familiar with the practice in the U. S. Court of Claims; in addition to which I have a partner there resident, and a former partner in the Treasury Department, which advantages give me unexcelled facilities for the successful prosecution of business in any way connected with Government.

Important to Soldiers, Marines and their Heirs.
Persons enlisted in the U. S. Service, Land or Naval, since March 1, 1861, if disabled in the service, are entitled to Pension; Relatives of Persons deceased in the service are entitled to Bounty and Pension; in the following order:
1st. The Widow. 4th. The Mother.
2d. The Children. 5th The Brothers and Sisters collectively.
3d. The Father.
LETTERS OF ADMINISTRATION need not be taken ou, in ordinary cases, to enable heirs of persons deceased in the service to obtain Pensions and Bounty.
When a discharge is granted for disability, in no case should the Oath of Identity on the back of the Discharge be filled up. The safest course is, to carry all papers at once to an Attorney, without tampering with them. All those who have claims, should present them without delay, as soon, the pressure will be so great upon the Auditor's Office, by reason of numerous applications, that applicants will be subjected to vexatious delay in getting their claims audited.
NO CHARGE MADE UNTIL CLAIMS ARE PAID.
Claims left at the Post Office, South Danvers, will be promptly forwarded.
Lynn, Aug 27, 1862—1y

CHARLES S. BUFFUM,
FURNISHING UNDERTAKER,
Central street, South Danvers,
HAVING provided himself with a HEARSE, is prepared to attend Funerals in any of the neighboring towns, with one or a pair of Horses.
He keeps as good an assortment of
COFFINS AND CASKETS,
as can be found at any establishment, and at the lowest prices.
He will also attend to Laying Out, etc.
All orders from the neighboring towns met with prompt attention. jan 14

SLATING. SLATING.
GEORGE FOWLER & COMPA'Y,
NO. 2 ST. PETER COURT, SALEM, respectfully inform their friends and the citizens of this and neighboring towns and cities that they are prepared to execute all orders for Slating, promptly and faithfully.
Roofs covered with any description of Slates, or repaired at short notice.
All work undertaken will be warranted.
Address—Box 366, Salem Post Office.
Salem, January 28—1863. tf

PATTERSON S
LEATHER HANDLING MACHINE
THE undersigned are agents for the above machine. It can be seen in operation at Pinder & Brown's Tannery.
may 7—3m CLARK & GIDDINGS.

MESSRS. CLARK & GIDDINGS,
Wallis Street, South Danvers,
Are Agents for
GEORGE W. FISKE & CO.'S
PATENT EAVE TROUGHS
CUTTERS, CONDUCTORS AND PIPE FOR DRAINS.
South Danvers, May 22, 1861.

EDWARD C. WEBSTER,
ONE PRICE
HAT, CAP & FUR STORE,
231 ESSEX, and 34 WASHINGTON ST

R. C. MANNING & CO,
Successors to JOHN DIKE & CO.,
DEALERS IN
COAL, WOOD, BARK, HAY, &c,
183 DERBY STREET,
SALEM, MASS.
N. C. ROBBINS, R. C. MANNING.
oct17

FRANKLIN COAL.
JUST landed, a cargo of FRANKLIN COAL —the best in the world for domestic use.
POTTER, BACHELDER & CO.,
Successors to M. Black, Jr.
Danversport, May 6, 1861. tf

E. N. PRICE,
Manufacturer and Dealer in
HARNESSES,
SADDLES, BRIDLES,
AND WHIPS.
— ALSO —
Trunks, Valises and Traveling Bags.
All orders for Manufacturing and Repairing executed with promptness, and in the best manner.
237 Essex Street, Salem, Mass.
mch13-tf

THOMAS PINNOCK,
SLATER,
SALEM, MASS.
Orders may be left at his Yard, No. 25 Peabody St., or at his house No. 6 Hancock street, South Salem.
Roofs covered with any kind of Slates, according to order. All work warranted.
Salem, May 7, 1862. tf

CURRIER & MILLETT,
Dealers in

Furniture, Chairs,
MATTRESSES, FEATHERS, &c
259 & 261 ESSEX ST,
Salem, dec 14—1y

AARON T. LOWE,
DEALER IN
BOOTS, SHOES AND RUBBERS,
76 BOSTON STREET, 76.
aug 6 SALEM. tf

NOTICE.
THE subscriber being about to leave town for a few months, would take this opportunity to inform his customers and friends that his shop on Pleasant Street will be kept open during his absence by Mr. JOHN P. FRIEND, who will faithfully attend to any orders.
JAMES PERKINS.
South Danvers, Sept. 3, 1862.

E. R. PERKINS,
PHOTOGRAPHIC ARTIST
241 Essex Street, Salem.
Patent Ambrotypes, Stereoscopes,
Photographs, Spherotypes, Melainotypes and patent ambrotype Pictures, of various sizes, taken with all the improvements of the art. Portraits, Miniatures, Engravings, &c., accurately copied. Views taken when desired. jan 11

MUNROE'S
(LATE REED'S)
SOUTH DANVERS & BOSTON
RAILROAD EXPRESS.
Express leaves South Danvers at 10 1-2 a. m.
Freight " " at 5 p. m.
Express leaves Boston at 3 1-2 p. m.
Freight " " at 5 p. m.
OFFICE at FREIGHT DEPOT, South Danvers Square.
Order Box W. M. Jacobs' store, Main street.
EXPRESS OFFICE, in Boston, 5 Congress Square; Freight Office, 1 Fulton st.
Also an Order Box at 86 Pearl street.
Particular attention paid to removing Furniture, collecting Bills, Notes, Drafts, &c.
ARMY EXPRESS.
Packages received and sent forward daily for Baltimore, Fortress Monroe, Annapolis, Washington, Alexandria, and any other point where the different regiments are stationed.
WM. C. MUNROE,
South Danvers, may 13—tf

Eastern Railroad.

ON and after MONDAY, April 6, 1863, Trains will leave the Eastern Railroad Station, Washington street, Salem, daily. (Sundays excepted):

For Lynn and Boston, *5.50, 7, 8¼, 9, *10, 11 a m., 1, *2¼, 5¼, 7¼ p. m.
Beverly, 8¼ am., 1, 3¼, 3½, 5¾, 6.55, 7¼ p m.
W. Beach, Man'r, Gloucester, and Rockport, 8¼ a m., 3½, 5¾ p m.
Ipswich and Newburyport, 8¼ a m., 1, 3¼, 5¼, 6 55 p m.
Amesbury, 8¼ a m., 1, 5¼ p m.
Portsmouth, 8¼ a m., 3½, 5¾ p m.
Portland, 8¼ a m., 3¼ p m.

AND FOR SALEM, FROM

Portland, 8¾ a m., 3 p m.
Portsmouth, 7¼ †11¼ a m., †5¼ p m.
Amesbury, 7.35, 9 40 a m., 5.50 p m.
Newburyport, 7, 8, 10 a m., 12 m, 6¼ p m.
Ipswich, 7 25, 8 25, 10.25 a m., 12 25, 6 40 p m.
Gloucester, 7, 10, 10 10 a m., 4.40 p m.
Manchester, 7.25, 10.25 a m., 4.55 p m.
Beverly, 6.50, 7.50, 8 50, 10.50 a m., 12,50, 5.20, 7 05 p m.
Lynn, 8.05, *9 05, 11.05 a m., 12 50, *1.35, 3.05, *3.35, *4 35, 5.35, *6 20, 5¾, *7 35, *10.05 p m.
Boston, 7¼, *8¾, 10¾ a m., 12¼, 2½, 3, *4, 5, 6.10, *7, *9¾.

*Via Saugus Branch.
†On arrival from the East.
‡On Wednesdays this train leaves Boston at 11¼ p m. and on Saturdays at 10½ p m.

MARBLEHEAD BRANCH.
Marblehead for Salem, 6¾, 7¾, 8¾, 9¾ a m., 12¾, 1¾, 5½, 6¾, 7½ p m.
Salem for Marblehead, 7½, 8½, 9.25, 11¼ a m., 1, 3¾, 5¾, 7, 7.50 p m.

SOUTH READING BRANCH.
Trains leave the South Reading Depot in Salem for Boston at 6¾, 9.50 a m., 2.55, 4.55 p m
Boston for Salem, 7 a m, 12 m., 3, 5½ p m.

ESSEX RAILROAD.
Leave Salem for Lawrence and way stations, 7, 11¼ a m., 4.50 p m.
Lawrence for Salem, 8 a m., 12.40, 6 p m.
Danvers for Salem, 8 40 a m., 1.20, 6.40 p m.
South Danvers for Salem, 7¾ a m., 12¾, 3¾, 6¼ p m.

J. PRESCOTT, Superintendent.
Boston, April 6, 1863.

Salem and Lowell Railroad.

ON and after MONDAY, April 6, 1863, Trains will run as follows:
Leave Lowell for Salem, 7.25 a m., and *2.45 p m.
Leave Salem for Lowell, *9 40 a m. and 5 55 p m.
Passengers are not allowed to carry baggage above $50 in value, and that personal, unless notice is given and an extra amount paid. Season tickets do not entitle the holder to take baggage.
*Freight Train with passenger car attached.
F. H. NOURSE, Local Superintendent.
April 6, 1863.

TAKE NOTICE.

THAT Dr. Ham's Dyspepsia Remedy has been before the public for the past ten years. And in that time the people who have used it will vouch for the benefit they have derived from it. The character of his article and its reputation can also be obtained from the dealers who sell it, or have sold it for any length of time, to both of those, Dr Ham refers and is willing to stand the test. And also challenges any new compound to produce the same results, let alone delicacy of flavor, of his INVIGORATING SPIRIT, which for ITS EFFECTS UPON THE BILE, A TORPED LIVER, LOW SPIRITS, or when the blood is affected as seen by SKIN DISEASES or its ACTION UPON THE KIDNEYS, in fact for any person who is run down by the wear and care of this world will find relief in this old and well tried remedy.

Astonishing.

TO Dr. Ham, who has modestly put before the public his DYSPEPSIA REMEDY for ten years past, to look back and see the number of tremendous articles within that time, that have sprang up like a rocket, and gone down like the stick which guides it in its glorious ascent. Some come out and claim to tell the public they use unknown Barks from South America, with any quantity of rum from the West Indias, &c. Dr Ham takes this opportunity to refer to the MEDICAL FACULTY here and everywhere that his article is in use, as to its qualifications, and challenges any one to produce a person, male or female, who has used it as directed, that will not speak favorable of it for DISORGANIZED STOMACH, Dyspepsia, loss of appetite, want of action of the Kidneys, as well as many other complaints that humanity are afflicted with.

To Ladies.

DR. HAM'S Dyspepsia Remedy is just the thing you require to remove the languor caused by weakness and debility; it invigorates the system, causes the blood to take new life in its varied course through the system, in fact it gives tone to the system and will relieve and remove the thousand irregularities that from various causes you are afflicted with. For Dyspepsia it is a never failing remedy, it has stood the test of years, and we have yet to hear of its failing to give relief to the afflicted thousands who have received health and happiness by its use.

To Gentlemen.

DR. HAM knows that you do not always pay much attention to the many different articles put before you in the paper, but we would refer you to our agents who you will find are the respectable merchants and dealers, in regard to the Invigorating Spirit; some of them have sold it for years, and know well the reputation it has amongst those who have used it in assisting nature to eradicate diseases. It will renovate the system, as it acts directly on the blood, removing all obstructions to the general health, will cure Liver Complaints, Dyspepsia, Nervous Affections, Sour Stomach, Headache, Weakness, Loss of Appetite, as well as destruction in the Kidney, Bladder or Urinary Organs. Try it. We will guarantee you will be satisfied with the result.

General Depot, 62 Liberty Street, New York. Sold by Weeks & Potter, 154 Washington Street, M. S. Burr & Co., 26 Tremont Street, G. C. Goodwin & Co., 11 Marshall Street, Boston; and in South Danvers by George E. Meacom, T. A. Sweetser, D. P. Grosvenor, Jr., Main Street; and by Druggists everywhere.
Feb 29, 1863 1y

NEW ENGLAND
FERTILIZER DEPOT,
No. 111 Commercial St., Boston.

TO FARMERS AND TRADERS!
WE desire to call your attention to our stock of FERTILIZERS, having the largest supply and finest assortment of reliable brands ever offered in this market. Our stock embraces
Coe's, Hoyt's, Rhodes } SUPER-PHOSPHATE LIME.
No. 1 PERUVIAN GUANO.
GROUND BONE, [coarse and fine.]
BONE MEAL. LAND PLASTER.
FISH GUANO. BONE TAPEU.
LIME, CEMENT, &c., &c.
We are also Sole Agents for the
LODI MANUFACTURING CO.'S
POUDRETTE.
Get our terms before purchasing elsewhere. We sell at manufacturers' prices. Samples can be seen of all of the above; also a pamplet, with a Farmer's Almanac for 1863, may be had free on application by mail or otherwise.
J. M. & P. RICHARDS,
Sales Office 111 Commercial St., Boston, Mass.
apr 1—3m

E. S. FLINT,
Manufacturer and Dealer in
INNER SOLES,
AND SHOE STIFFENINGS OF ALL KINDS,
2 MAIN STREET, SOUTH DANVERS.

DIARIES FOR
1863. Every variety and style—all sizes—for sale at nov 26 G M WHIPPLE & A A SMITH'S,
Sign of the Five Golden Books,

SOUTH DANVERS
POST OFFICE.
GENERAL MAIL ARRANGEMENT.
MAILS CLOSE
At 10 3-4 A. M., and 4 3-4 P. M.
MAILS DUE
At 9 1-2 A. M., and 3 P. M.
Post Office open (Sundays excepted) from 7 o'clock, A. M., till 8 P. M. Saturdays open till 8 1-2 P. M.
F. POOLE, P. M.
South Danvers, Oct. 1, 1862.

Poor Richard's Eye and Ear Water.
Prof. M. G. BROWN.
SCIENTIFIC ARTICLE ON THE EYE AND EAR.
Reader, allow me to call your attention to a fact which hitherto you have not been acquainted with, namely, that there is not a sound eye in the land. The eyes are the only members of the body totally neglected; there is nothing done for the eye; its wants are neither studied or regarded. This untiring servant is the first in action at birth, and the last at death, yet it seems to pass even common observation.
Notwithstanding all the ignorance and neglect of the eye, it is unquestionably true that every department of the human system is dependent on it for life and health.
The Divine Machinator has placed 8000 tubes and glands around the eyes, through which the saltish fountain (same as supplies the tear) is designed to pass as dew, finding its way to every crevice and nook in the flesh, whose chief tendency is to mucus. This fountain is to the body what dew is to the plants. The flesh can only be kept free from mucus (which is the precursor of disease) through the tubes and glands around the eyes being keep open, allowing the teary, saltish fountain to pass freely forward. If the laws of mind and body are disregarded or insulted, these faithful sentinels shut up like a sensitive plant, thus refusing to pass this life, giving dew to the parched flesh, whereby the entire machinery of the human body can alone find its natural moisture. When this fountain is cut off, the system is open to every kind of disease, which first begins with small streaks of blood-shot at the bottom of the ball of the eye; these are streaks of death if not removed. Examine your eyes and you will find these streaks moving over the white of the eye towards the pupil; generally the eye gets scumy and glassy; the ball turns a green or yellowish color, this is a sure indication of the following diseases (which are solely caused by the moisture being cut off from the system): Nervousness, headache, earache, deafness, loss of hair, neuralgia, rheumatism, blotches on the face and skin, diptheria, sore throat, bronchitis, catarrah, soreness of the chest, decay of the lungs, deprivation of the fluids; these, with all other diseases, are caused as above described. One stoppage leads to another, until disease destroys the system.
To secure moisture for a patient is the only hope of the physician. Benjamin Franklin has immortalized himself by such sayings as, an ounce of prevention is better than a pound of cure.
Reader, if you desire to be saved from the kindred diseases which make life a burden, then create an appetite in your eyes by giving them a drink of Poor Richard every morning immediately after you wash, and just before retiring at night. Do not say—Let well enough alone; consider the lilies of the field, they receive the life giving dew while they are in perfect health—go thou and do likewise.
Please read the following letter from the Rev. P. S. Henson, pastor of the Broad Street Baptist Church:

Philadelphia, Oct. 17, 1862.

From injuries received in my right eye when a boy, a chronic inflammation had been produced, in consequence of which I suffered constant martyrdom. Every moment of my waking life was embittered, and I was frequently unable to sleep at night.
A variety of remedies had been resorted to without success, and I entertained the purpose, as a last resort, of having the ball taken out of its socket in the hope of finding thus relief.
In the meanwhile, most providentially I noticed one day in a shop window a bottle of Poor Richard's Eye Water. I had never heard of it before, but determined to try it—and did with the most delightful results. In a very few days the painful irritation was removed—I could bear the strongest light, and went forth as it were to the enjoyment of a new life. I now keep a bottle of it always in the house, and if my eye seems at all disposed to annoy me, I give it a dose, and that is an end of it. I take occasion to say further, that my wife used to suffer severely at times from protracted pain in and over her eyes, and she has found Poor Richard's Eye Water a sovereign specific in her case, giving her almost instant relief.
Grateful to God for the benefit I have personally received, I cannot but recommend the preparation most cordially to all who have been sufferers like myself.

P. S. HENSON,
Pastor of the Broad Street Baptist Church.
Residence 1430 Poplar St., Philadelphia.

Thousands of certificates could be published, of the most remarkable cures on record. It is a perfect restorer of weak sight and dim vision; it cures Deafness, Catarrh, Sore Throat, prevents Loss of Hair, with all kindred diseases.
Directions.—Bathe with a glass tube, at least the ear (many bathe the eyes with the finger). Ask the druggist for the tube—it costs 6 cents.
Poor Richard's Eye Water sells at 25 cents per bottle.
Sold by George E. Meacom, South Danvers, and Druggists everywhere. Weeks & Potter, wholesale agents, Boston.
MRS. M. G. BROWN,
410 Arch St. Philadelphia, Proprietor.

Are you Insured?
THE subscriber would respectfully call your attention to the fact that he is fully prepared to effect INSURANCE AGAINST FIRE, to any amount, at current rates, on
Dwelling Houses, Barns and their contents, Stores, Stocks of Goods, Furniture, &c. &c., and on buildings in process of erection,
And that he is the authorized Agent for the following responsible Stock and Mutual Companies, viz:
Thames Insurance Co., (Stock,) Norwich, Conn.
Capital—$500,000.
Amos W. Prentice, Pres. Oliver F. Rice, Sec'y
Conway Insurance Company, (Stock) Boston.
Capital and Surplus—$260,000.
James F. Whitney, Pres. David C. Rogers, Sec'y.
City Insurance Company, (Stock) Boston.
Capital—$150,000.
Samuel P. Hayward, Pres. Austin W. Benton, Sec'y
Also, will effect Insurance on the LIVES OF INDIVIDUALS, for one year, seven years, or for the whole term of life, in the Massachusetts Mutual Life Ins. Co., Springfield, Mass.
Capital and Assets—$375,000.
Caleb Rice, Pres. D. B. Bacon, Sec'y.
William Mack, M. D., Medical Examiner.
WM. ARCHER, Jr.,
18 Washington st. and 34 Front st., Salem.
ej b20-1

E. F. BURNHAM,
SOLE AGENT FOR
SARGENT & CO.S'
MAGIC SOAP
For South Danvers & Salem.
OFFICE—Central St., opp. Lowell Depot, at Burnham's Express Office, So. Danvers.
Price $3.50 per 100 Lbs.
Orders sent by mail or otherwise to So. Danvers will be promptly attended to. tf-oct3

WM. C. HENDERSON,
MANUFACTURER OF
PLAIN AND FANCY
PAPER BOXES,
No. 235 ESSEX STREET,
Sign of "Nest of Boxes,"
July 23 SALEM. tf

SUMMER ARRANGEMENT
TO LYNN & BOSTON
BY
OMNIBUS & HORSE CAR
W. F. BURNHAM'S
Line of Omnibuses will leave the Lynn and Boston Omnibus Office, No. 6 Allen's Building, South Danvers, passing down Main Street, through Washington Street, to Lynn, daily.
Leave South Danvers at 7 50 o'clock, A. M., 12 and 4 50 P. M.
Leave Lynn (Horse Car Depot, West Lynn) at 9 A. M., 2 40 and 6 40 P. M.
Horse Cars leaving Scollay's Building, Court Street at 8 15 A. M., 1 15 and 5 15 P. M., will meet the Omnibuses at Lynn, at the above named hours, to take passengers to South Danvers.
Sunday Arrangements.
Leave S. Danvers at 7.50 a.m., and 4.50 p.m
Leave Lynn at 9.40 a.m., and 6.40 p.m.
Cars leave Scollay's Building, Court Street, Boston to meet the Omnibuses in Lynn for South Danvers, at 8 15 A. M., and 5 15 P. M.
Tickets to Lynn, - - 15 cents
Through to Boston, - - 30 cents
Through Tickets to and from Boston may be had of the Drivers and Conductors.
Passengers called for at reasonable charges if notice is given at the office.
EXPRESS BUSINESS
Between South Danvers and Lynn prompt

South Danvers Wizard.

L. IV. SOUTH DANVERS, MASS., WEDNESDAY, JUNE 17, 1863. NO. 24.

OUTH DANVERS WIZARD
every WEDNESDAY, at Allen's Build-anvers Square.
o Dollars a year.
MENTS inserted at reasonable rates.
HARLES D. HOWARD,
OR AND PROPRIETOR.

elected Poetry.

S ON A SKELETON.

forty years ago the following found in the London Morning

Every effort was vainly made r the author, even to the offer- reward of fifty guineas. All transpired was, that the poem, clerkly hand, was found near a f remarkable symmetry of form useum of the Royal College of Lincoln's Inn, London, and Curator of the Museum sent it ning Chronicle.

his ruin! 'Twas a skull ethereal spirit full,
row cell was Life's retreat,
ce was Thought's mysterious seat.
auteous visions filled this spot,
eams of pleasure long forgot,
e, nor Joy, nor Love, nor Fear,
t one trace of record here.

this mouldering canopy,
ne the bright and busy eye;
t not at the dismal void—
love that eye employed,
no lawless fire it gleamed,
ugh the dews of kindness beamed, shall be forever bright
ars and sun are sunk in night.

his hollow cavern hung ly, swift and tuneful tongue.
ood's honey it disdained,
en it could not praise, was chained,
n virtue's cause it spoke,
le concord never broke!
ut tongue shall plead for thee me unveils Eternity.

these fingers delve the mine?
the envied rubies shine?
he rock or wear the gem
e now avail to them.
e page of truth they sought,
rt to the mourner brought,
nds a richer meed shall claim that wait on Wealth or Fame.
, whether bare or shod,
t the paths of duty trod?
he bowers of Ease they fled,
Affliction's humble shed;
leur's guilty bribe they spurned,
e to Virtue's cot returned,
t with angel's wings shall vie,
d the palace of the sky.

Selected.

T TO THE MAELSTROM.

take a map and turn to the coast of Norway, in the sixty-ree of latitude, you will find reon the name of the largest erific whirlpool in the known his Maelstrom, sometimes call-e-strom, is about a mile and a ameter, and its vortex has an of forty-five degrees, or about ter in a large tunnel when half It is so powerfully destructive, argest vessel ever constructed, irly caught in its whirl, would e than a mere feather. Every- enters it is crushed and torn and mighty timbers are sent ken and covered with splinters ers. Nothing has ever been enter it and return with life.— st whale, when caught within , foaming waters goes down ost awful roarings and bellow- to be thrown out again, an in- ulpy mass.

use of this immense whirlpool variously stated—but it is only k and theory after all. Some ght there is a subterranean nd that the waters come out at istance, one writer even giving Bothnia for their terminus.— ain, and with more plausibility, t the whirl is solely the effect ters of the tide, during the ebb being pent up by ledges of r which they fall with the velo- cataract, and assume the gyra- ment in their efforts to escape level. From the fact that the irlpool is only six hours in mo- ne time, with a perfect lull of nutes at the turn of the tide, I ed to the latter hypothesis.

the cause what it may, the n itself is terrible beyond the discription — the thundering s waters can be heard for miles, one occasion, it is stated, "it th such noise and impetuosity, description of this fearful phenomenon, and the pictures of youthful fancy are yet fresh in my recollections of some homeward-bound vessel, freighted with happy souls, being caught within the great circle of these whirling waters and hurled downwards to destruction, amid the wildest shrieks of terror and the most fervent prayers for salvation. Little did I think that I should ever behold that dreadful whirlpool myself, and least of all that I should ever have the temerity to voluntarily venture upon its awful brink, sail round with its circling waters, and gaze down into its hissing, foaming, roaring, horrible depths.

Business of a commercial nature led me to visit some of the ports of Norway and the Loffoden Islands, and, being within easy reach of the wonder of the world, I became possessed with a great desire to see it for myself. In conversation with an old Norwegian fisherman, I learned, to my great surprise, that he had not only sailed close round it when it was raging with great fury, but that he had more than once ventured across it, with a strong breeze, during its regular lull at the turn of the tide.

"And how did you feel at such times?" inquired I, with a great deal of curious interest.

"Well, I don't know that it made any particular difference in my feelings," replied the man, in a matter-of-fact way. "We fishermen get so used to dangers of all kinds, that one or two, more or less, hardly seems to be worth speaking about. We always carry our lives in our hands, and naturally expect to leave our bodies in the sea sometime, and, for what I can understand, a man may as well go down in a whirlpool as in a tempest.—It's only death at last, and death must come to all at one time or another, whether afloat or ashore. For my part, I think it's quicker and easier work to be drowned than to linger along with some painful disease and die at last."

"I doubt not your philosophy is the best for one engaged in your perilous profession," returned I; "but for all that, I am not prepared to say that I could meet a sudden death with your resignation."

"This I suppose is because it don't all the time stare you in the face as it does us," rejoined the old fisherman, "When you leave your friends—your wife and children, if you've got any—you probably calculate the chances to be in your favor of returning to them again; but I always bid mine good-bye with a hope based upon uncertainty; and though I've lived, as you see, to be pretty well in years, it has always been with a sort of expectation that every cruise would be my last. I think it's best to be prepared for the worst, and then, if the worst, don't come, we're always the happier for it, you know."

"But to return to the dangers of this Maelstrom, which I have an almost irresistible desire to visit," said I; "do you think I might venture near it without any unusual risk? I will admit, to begin with, that there is danger in the attempt—and so, for that matter, there was in my coming here, and will be in my sailing from here to my native land—but what I wish to know is, if I may venture near the whirlpool—near enough to behold it in all its terrific sublimity—without laying myself open to the censure of foolhardiness?"

"Yes, I think you may," replied the old fisherman, thoughtfully; "provided you have a good trim, easily managed schooner, a favorable breeze and a careful experienced pilot."

"Where then can I find and charter such a craft?"

"Why, if your honor wishes it," said the old seaman, doffing his hat and quietly smoothing down his silver locks, "I think I might furnish you with something to your liking, and offer myself as pilot, providing we can agree upon terms, which shan't be at all exorbitant."

I looked steadily for a few moments at his calm weather-beaten face and clear eye, and felt that he was the man for my purpose.

"I will listen to your terms," said I.

After a little reflection, he named them, and, considering them too reasonable for objection, I accepted them at once. This matter being settled, preparations were immediately hastened for setting forth on the curious and to me fearful adventure, and the next day saw me walking the deck of a snug, well-rigged schooner, on my way to a sublime scene of peril, that for many a long year had often come up moment in this connection. It had its excitement and even its peril, as all cruising must along that dangerous coast—steering sharply among rocks, through a foaming, lashing sea—but all thought of minor dangers was swept from my mind, when for the first time I came within hearing of the sullen heavy roar, that my Norwegian friend informed me came from the awful vortex we were on our way to visit. A sudden tremor seized me at this announcement—which, though the visible effect of excessive awe, seemed rather that of terror to the simple-minded fisherman, who at once declared his willingness to return if I feared to go forward.

"No!" said I, regaining my wonted composure, and becoming more emphatic through a sense of shame at my perturbation—"let us forward to the very brink of destruction—as far as the boldest ever dared!"

"Well, there is no great danger after all, on such a day as this and with such a breeze," he replied in a reassuring tone; "and though the novel idea of sailing within the suction of such a roaring, deafening whirl of water, may make your honor a trifle timid and uneasy, yet only keep stout faith in the caution and skill of Harold Saufgar, and you'll live to tell your friends a tale of wonders."

From that moment I first heard the distant roar of the Maelstrom, we sailed directly toward it for more than an hour, the sound gradually increasing in volume as we neared it, until it became so loud and heavy that it was with difficulty I could distinguish the different and sometimes rapid orders of the daring fisherman. I was excited by strange emotions, even while only the sense of hearing was reached; but when at length sight was also brought to bear upon the whirling gulf and I beheld the inky waters revolving around what seemed a mighty pit or cavern, and rolling tumbling and lashing their swift passage downward to a white bed of foam at the bottom of the great deep, I became thrilled with a sublimity that carried my humbled and awe-stricken soul beyond the consciousness of time into the very presence of some great, almighty, and incomprehensible Power.

I can never describe the awful Maelstrom as I saw it, heard it, felt it—felt it, in and through my whole being, till I became absorbed into it, and a part of it, and lost to all other existence—because for the soul sublimed and exalted beyond the dominion of its mortal form into the ideal world of idea there is no sublunary language of sufficient reach and grasp to portray its impressions.

But something is due to the seeker of knowledge and something I can and will give.

Imagine, then, an area of a mile and a half in diameter. To do this fully and comprehensively, you should fix your eye or your mind upon some object a mile and a half from where you are.

Then fancy this broad space to be all water, moving round in a circle, slowly on the outer edge, but gradually increasing in velocity toward the centre, with a downward inclination of forty-five degrees, so that it looks like a vast hollow gulf of awful depth. Then imagine yourself sailing round on the outer edge of this immense tunnel, with the water black and level on one side of you, and on the other inclined, and running round and downward, rolling, tumbling, rushing, dashing, seething, and boiling, the centre lashed into a milk-white foam, and sending up the deafening roar of a thousand Niagaras. If to all this you add the fancy that you are floating around this awful gulf in a frail bark, that seems only an air-bubble, to be sucked in and crushed, and which, while driving before the wind, is now and then caught by a current and turned several points toward destruction, so that the master shouts frantically, and the sailors make almost superhuman exertions to keep her from rushing madly into the vortex, and you pray agonizingly, with breath suspended and hair standing on end, till the wavering balance has inclined to life—if, I say, you add this to all the rest, you get, perhaps, as good an external of the scene, and situation of the beholder, as my poor, feeble descriptive powers are able to convey.

But the internal—when the soul became rapt, absorbed, and lost to the outer sense of danger—lost to all but the mighty, overpowering sublimity of this wondrous work of God—no mortal tongue can ever make known.

Amid the bewilderment of this indescribable scene—my eyes dazzled with going down into the foaming vortex, and thence onward into the eternity beyond—the old fisherman laid one hand upon my arm, pointed with the other, and shouted:

"Look! behold!"

I turned and saw one of the seamen holding a large sea-bird, to one of whose legs was attached a long cord, the other end of which was secured to a short, heavy stick of timber, which another sailor was in the act of casting into the sea. As the timber struck the water, the one holding the bird let him go, and with a wild scream he flew to the length of his tether, and then struggled in the air to break his bonds and escape. But the cord held him, and the moving timber took a gradual inclination toward the vortex. With the schooner ran safely back from the gyratory draught, I watched the bird with a glass, as the descending timber dragged him downward, fluttering and screaming, and seeming to my excited fancy like some unfortunate spirit being dragged down to perdition. Round and round went the timber slowly at first, but with steady increasing velocity, till at last, with quick jerkings and rapid descent, the fluttering bird disappeared from my view.

I had seen enough—I had felt the emotions of a life-time compressed into a few hours—and we sailed away from the never-to-be-forgotten scene.

A MISTAKE.

Charles to the altar led the lovely Jane,
And to her father's house returned again,
Where, to convey them on their wedding tour,
Already stood a londaleth and four.
When lo! the gath'ring showers at once descend;
Cloud rolls on cloud, and warring winds contend;
This moves him not, but in he hands his bride,
And seats himself enraptured by her side;
When thus to cheer the fair one he begun:
"I hope we soon shall have a little sun."
But she, to whom the weather gave no pain,
Who heeded not the blast nor patt'ring rain,
But most about her future state bethought her,
Replied, "My dear, I'd rather have a daughter!"

VOICES OF ANIMALS.

From a recent article of Professor Agassiz's on natural history, we find the following interesting passage:—

The voice of animals have a family character not to be mistaken. All the canidæ bark and howl; the fox, the wolf, the dog, all have the same kind of utterance though on a somewhat different pitch. All the bears growl, from the white bear of the arctic snows to the small black bear of the Andes. All the cats 'miau,' from our quiet fireside companion to the lions and tigers and panthers of the forest and jungle.

This last may seem a strange assertion, but to any one who has listened critically to their sounds and analyzed their voices, the roar of the lion is but a gigantic miau, bearing about the same proportion to that of a cat as its stately and majestic form does to the smaller, softer, more peaceful aspect of the cat. Yet notwithstanding the difference in their size, who can look at the lion, whether in his more sleepy mood, as he lies curled up in the corner of his cage, or in his fiercer moments of hunger or of rage, without being reminded of a cat. And this is not merely the resemblance of one carnivorous animal to another, for no one was ever reminded of a dog or a wolf by a lion.

Again, all the horses and donkeys neigh; for the bray of a donkey is only a harsher neigh, pitched on a different key, it is true, but a sound of the same character—as the donkey himself is but a clumsy and dwarfish horse.

All the cows low, from the buffalo roaming the prairie, the musk ox of the Arctic ice fields, or the jack of Asia, to the cattle feeding in our pastures. Among the birds this similarity of voice in families is still more marked. We need only recall the harsh and noisy parrots, so similar in their peculiar utterance.

Or take, as an example, the web footed family—do not all geese and the innumerable hosts of ducks, quack? Does not every one of the crow family caw, whether it be the jackdaw, the jay, the magpie, the rook, in some green rookery of the Old World, or the crow of our woods, with its long melancholy caw, that seems to make the silence and solitude deeper?

☞ A French writer has said that "to dream gloriously, you must act gloriously while you are awake, and to bring angels

THE BATTLE OF THE QUAKER GUNBOAT.

BY BENJAMIN DREW.

Muse, come and tell, of what befell
Where Vicksburg stands, defended
By rebel knaves, whose yellow slaves
From Ham are all descended.

"To know just where their batteries are
Is now my chief desire"—
So Porter said, and rubbed his head,
"I'll plan to draw their fire.

"A monster boat, I'll set afloat
To drift adown the stream,
And when it comes, they'll beat the drums
And shot and shell shall scream."

With Yankee craft, he rigged a raft
In monitorial trim;
The deck was graced with hogsheads placed
Like turrets strong and grim.

Each chimney stack was high and black,
Of Porter barrels stout—
To carry smoke and aid the joke
He knocked the bottoms out

Quite handy lay the rocks and clay,
Thrown out from many a ditch;
He made from these his furnaces,
And filled them up with pitch.

And when 'twas dark this awful barque
Was from the shore unmoored;
The fires burnt free, and on went she,
With not a soul on board.

The solid shot came quick and hot,
The shells flew thick and fast;
But staunch and strong she smoked along,
And all their batteries passed.

The Queen o' th' West she thought it best
To turn tail and skedaddle,
Nor dared to ram at Porter's sham
With ne'er a gun nor paddle.

The rebel scare filled all the air,
And caught the rebel crews,—
"Our iron-clad, which made us glad,
Alas! we're bound to lose."

"To strike our flag," cried bragging Bragg,
"It were a bitter cup;
My aids must go and bid them blow
The Indianola up."

The monster came, in smoke and flame—
Their terror still increases;
With all dispatch they touched the match
And blew their prize to pieces.

How Bragg did swear and pull his hair,
Chagrined, and shamed, and sick,
To be so schooled and blindly fooled
By Porter's Yankee trick!

PEDLAR vs. QUAKER.—A Yankee pedlar travelling in Pennsylvania met a Quaker going to mill with a bag of corn.

"I say, mister, what do you ax for your corn?" inquired the Yankee.

"It isn't for sale, friend," mildly replied broad-brim.

"But I'm greatly in need of corn, just now, as my mare is nearly starved, and nobody round here 'pears willing to trade. I thought you Quaker fellers was chock full of the milk of human kindness. Now as I've been robbed back here a piece of all my cash, I don't know what on airth I'm goin' to do when the mare's gin out."

"Well, friend," said the shrewd Quaker, "if thee hast anything that I can turn to the same account as my corn, I will trade with thee at a dollar a bushel, but not otherwise."

"And pray what are you going to do with it?"

"Grind it, to be sure!" said broad-brim, chuckling at the thought that that was a poser for the pedlar.

"Wall, I'll dew it on them terms, and you may empty your corn in my feed-box at once," said the pedlar.

"And pray, friend, what am I to have in exchange for the two bushels of corn that I can turn to the same account?"

"Oh, you can take your choice; I've got jack-knives at twenty-five cents apiece, razors at the same price, axes at a dollar, and various other notions. You'll find that they can all be ground to great advantage. In short, you can grind 'em as often as you please, and it won't hurt 'em."

The Quaker was so tickled at the Yankee's wit, that he gave him the corn without further parley, and took his pay in trade.

MUTUAL FORBEARANCE.—The house will be kept in turmoil where there is no toleration of each other's lenity shown to the failings, no meek submission to injuries, no soft answer to turn away wrath. If you lay a single stitch of wood in the grate and apply fire to it, it will go out; put on another stick, and they will burn; and a half a dozen, and you will have an effective blaze. There are other fires subject to the same condition. If one member of a family get into a passion, and is left alone, he will cool down, and possibly be ashamed and repent. But oppose temper to temper, let one harsh answer be followed by

OUR ACTIONS.—The actions of noble men and women stand like wayside shrines all along the path of history. What individual recalls not one sweet life, one gracious heart, one blessed achievement which to him is a deep fountain of living water? Say what we will about permanent ordinances, the true ordinances are good works. The Colonel who allowed himself to be taken, in order that his wounded men might escape in the overladen boats; the student who swam the Potomac three times in the face of hostile bullets, pushing a raft covered with disabled soldiers; the lieutenant, who, hurt to death, begged his friend to leave him, and give his care to those whom there was yet hope of saving, have set up, among their friends, in the households of those who knew them, very sacred ordinances, very holy shrines.

VICISSITUDES OF LIFE IN AUSTRALIA. A writer in the United Service Journal (London,) tells some queer stories of the changes in social position that some of his friends underwent in seeking their fortunes in Australia. A gentleman who once kept his cab in London, and belonged to a fashionable club, is serving out liquor at a bar, in the employ of a man who was a waiter at the club of which the gentleman was a member; a former Major in the English army, is working as a laborer at $1,50 per day; another army man is hawking cabbages about the streets; a lawyer is washing bottles; an Oxford University man is shoeing horses; and the son of a clergyman is working on the highways.

THE LARGEST CITY IN THE WORLD.—A very erroneous idea is indulged in by many people in relation to the largest city in the world—many confidently asserting that London, or, as it is frequently termed the Great Metropolis, is far superior both in size and number of inhabitants. But such is not the case.—Jeddo, the capital of Japan, is without exception, the largest and most populous city in the world. It contains the vast number of one million of dwellings and five millions of human souls. Many of the streets are nineteen Japan serls in length, which is equivalent to twenty two English miles.

PINS.—Before the invention of pins, in 1543, ladies used to fasten their dresses with skewers, made of wood, bone, and ivory. At first, pins were considered a great luxury, and not fit for common use. The maker was not allowed to sell them in an open shop, except on two days in the year, at the beginning of January. At this time husbands gave their wives money to buy a few pins.—Thus money allowed to a wife for her own private expenses is called pin-money.

CURE FOR SMALL POX.—It is stated that a solution of india rubber and chloroform, painted over the face and neck of a person having the small pox when the eruption has become fully developed, will prevent the disagreeable pits that cause such mortification. It has been tried with success in the Royal Infirmary, London. The application allays the itching that almost drives the sufferer frantic.

☞ Boston receives many hard rubs, says the Albany Argus, but an anecdote of a little three-year-older about leaving her home on a visit to that metropolis is little ahead of anything yet. At the close of her prayers the night before her departure, she added with the utmost simplicity—"Now good-bye, Mr. God, I'm going to Boston in the morning, to be gone two weeks."

☞ The Bedouins, says Ritson, are a most alert and military race, and yet it is an undoubted fact that the quantity of food usually consumed by the greatest part of them does not exceed six ounces a day. Six or seven dates, soaked in melted butter, serve a man a whole day and he esteems himself happy when he can add a small quantity of course flour or a little ball of rice.

☞ Several Swiss journals announce that there is a project on foot for making a new passage through the Alps for the railway, not under Mont Cenis, but under the Simplon. The tunnel is to have a total length of from forty-six to forty-seven hundred metres. The rock is easy to permeate, and is so uniform and solid that there are hopes that masonry may be dispensed with.

Miscellaneous.

"OH, KISS ME AND GO."

There is poetry in the following:—

"Oh, kiss me and go," said the maid of my heart,
And proffered her lips as my pay to depart;
"The morn is approaching, my mother will know,
My kindest and dearest, oh, kiss me and go!"
She gave me the blessing in such a sweet way,
That the thrill of its pleasure enticed me to stay;
So we kissed till the morning came in with its glow,
For she said every moment, "Oh, kiss me and go!"

THE DRUMMER BOY.—A letter from the western army, says:—

We have had a little drummer boy here, only 13 years old; he was taken prisoner out west at Spring Hill, and brought and marched along by the rebels to Richmond and confined in prison, and then paroled and brought here.—He was the most intelligent boy for his years I ever knew. The story of his sufferings was very touchingly told in a very modest way.—One incident connected with his march quite affected me; when the rebel officer took away his haversack of gingerbread the sutlers had given him,—he said he cried then for he was very hungry. He is a good and noble boy, and is now on his way to his mother in Racine, Wisconsin. His Adjutant told me that he stood and drummed when the bullets were flying round him like hail-stones."

OUR COAST DEFENCES.—We are pleased to learn that our State authorities do not mean to be behind the rebels in the efficiency of the guns to be placed in the works about to be erected in different parts of its coast. At the last session of the Legislature an appropriation of one million of dollars was made for coast defence, and at a recent meeting of the Executive Council, two hundred and fifty thousand dollars were appropriated for the purpose of procuring the most improved ordnance which can be obtained. A competent military gentleman, entrusted with the business of buying these powerful cannon will immediately proceed to fulfill his mission.

HORSE TRADE VS. UNCLE SAM.—For several weeks past, the business of selling cast-off horses to the Government, has been unusually large and the purchasing of them on speculation, by private individuals, has become an organized employment. One individual recently bought a small drove for one thousand dollars. The adventures of one of these horses is worth recording. It was purchased about two months ago for three dollars and a half, was subsequently sold to a trader for eighty dollars, and finally re-sold to the Government for one hundred and twenty dollars.

☞ A Baltimore Secesh lady has rather got ahead of the Senator who said that a stone thrown at a dog on Pennsylvania avenue one night, knocked down three Brigadier-Generals. It was at the time when Brigadiers were sprouting like mushrooms and spreading like Canada thistles that one of our soldiers entered a street car in Baltimore and unconsciously put his foot on Madame Rebel's silk dress. Without a word to him, she turned to the conductor, and said, with sublime scorn, "Sir, won't you ask this Brigadier General to take his foot off my dress!"

CRINOLINE DANGEROUS.—The French papers state that a lady and gentleman returning from a ball, given at Marseilles found themselves overtaken by a thunderstorm. To the surprise of the gentleman he suddenly found his fair companion enveloped in flames. It would appear that the electric fluid had communicated with the steel of the crinoline and ignited her dress.

THE REBEL ARMY.—The Richmond Whig says that the whole number of men now in the rebel army is 303,500, and it tells where they are. It would be difficult with them to keep more than 400,000 men in the field; therefore when our force is reduced to the lowest point, we shall not be inferior to them in numbers.

RELICS.—A pair of communion cups, formed of the feet of two altar candlesticks, belonging to the ancient church of Kilallan, those which John Knox used in dispensing the sacrament of the "new faith," are still in existence and in possession of the house of Glencairn, patrons of the church.

ILLINOIS has furnished an excess of 23,000 soldiers over the number required by all the calls of the President. That must be a pleasant State to live in about the time the draft comes along.

☞ The Coal Dealers of Philadelphia are going to have a coal exchange, to aid them in securing their interests, which we should think were well enough looked after now, by the high price of the article in this vicinity.

☞ It takes six paper dollars in Richmond now to buy a gold dollar. That is, one of their paper dollars is worth only 16⅔ cts. It will not be worth so much as that before many months elapse.

☞ The Australian farmers are so troubled with grubs that they are shipping sparrows from England to eat them up.

WAR CORRESPONDENCE.

From the 39th.

WASHINGTON, JUNE 12TH, 1863.

DEAR WIZARD,—We have all got enough Provost duty to last us during our natural term of service. We long for the Potomac, for the shady picket post, for the waving corn-fields where quails and rabbits are waiting to be fricasseed, and for the young porkers, who without our attentions will soon be overrunning Maryland. Washington is dusty and hot. The 39th is fat and lazy. Eight miles of patroling in the middle of the day is very sweet and soothing. We sometimes dare to indulge in pleasing recollections of straw hats, linen coats, open-work trousers, and other little luxuries of civilized life, but these are fleeting dreams of an aggravating character, and are soon dispelled. We often hear the remark, "A soldier's life is always gay," and I have occasionally become so demoralized, as to make it myself. But it is a mendacious statement, and was probably made originally to encourage enlistments, or to reconcile conscripts, by some man with no front teeth and seventeen orphans dependent on him for support. Poets have sung, and Cobbs have portrayed in valorous style the beauties of the tented field, but give Mr. Poet a 40lb. knapsack, and 40 rounds of cartridges lightly resting on his dexter hip, and sit Mr. Cobb down in a swamp, with a rasher of Government pig on an apple-tree limb for supper, washed down with extract of dead horse from the lovely Potomac, and the young men will change their strain to a minor key. However, we are inclined to be satisfied on the whole, with our experience thus far. We have passed the first quarter, and are in good wind and muscle yet. The boys with a very few exceptions are on duty of some kind every day. Prisoners are arriving at all hours of the day and night, and every squad is entitled to an escort, which we have to furnish. Some of them are insolent, but the majority are well-behaved. A timely and judicious application of the butt of a musket works wonders towards their regeneration. The 34th Mass. are with us here on Provost duty, and they are a fine set of men, but in the slang term of the day, "they can't eat hay."—Our boys were some afraid at first that their ancient reputation might not be so fair when they should be brought into competition with them, but I am proud to say that we are still on the top of the heap, and can afford to crow. The fact is, that the Colonel makes the regiment, and you know where Col. Davis stands as a military man. He can't be beat.

Washington is a city of temptations for a soldier. Bar-rooms are as plenty here as grocery stores in South Danvers, and of the quality of the stuff the least said, the better. Lager beer saloons flourish on every corner, where you can hear a dropsical soprano warble to verses of "cruel war," and a half-tipsey orchestra scraping out the "Phantom Chorus" or the "Devil's dream," all free and easy, if you buy six cents worth of beer. Thirteen dollars don't go more than half around the world, especially if to the above items be added the charms of fascinating female society.

I see by the evening papers that the rebels have made a small raid into Maryland and drove our pickets to within three miles of Poolesville. What a chance for glory and rusty swords we have lost! Col. Jewett, our former Brigade Commander, in his official account of the battle says that the enemy re-crossed, and were then in a threatening attitude on the other side. He will have to exercise unusual vigilance, as Seneca and Vicksburg seem to be now the turning points of the rebellion.

The South Danvers Company still holds its reputation in the Regiment for sobriety and good conduct. But one man has been in the Guard House since we arrived here, and he has been in all the time. The worthy President of the Home Guard would probably recognize this individual. Capt. Nelson has been engaged on a Court Martial for some weeks, and though temporarily detached from the Company for this duty, he still "runs the machine" and makes out to be boss of the yard. Three of the Company have been discharged, and started for home yesterday; Mansfield of Lynnfield, James F. Flint of W. Danvers, and Smith of Chatham.

Furloughs are being granted, two at a time from the regiment. Simonds and Bessom are expecting to go every day. Adjutant Moulton has been a little unwell for a day or two. He is overworked as well as the rest of us. As a general thing the regiment is in good health.

I suppose the "flowers" will soon return in full bloom; I wonder if a few could be induced to join the "buds," after they have been home and got rested. We are in a good safe place, and need recruits, but we are down on Copperheads. I don't think one could get into this regiment if he was covered all over with swords and pistols. Give us colored persons if you must, but never a t-r-r-r-aitor. You see that we have principles, and adhere to them.

C. W. H.

A SOLDIER'S OPINION.

FORT CRAIG, VA., June 7th, 1863.

DEAR FRIEND,—On the fourth of March, 1862, I gave my time to Uncle Sam for three years, or less sooner discharged. At that moment I became a soldier by name, but not by practice. My right as a citizen, however, is still to be as sacred, and should be respected the same while a soldier. The soldier in connection with the citizen is in fact the government. The President down to the corporal, of our great army, are nothing but our servants. In the citizen and soldier, then—if my statement is correct—lies all the power to make this war last one year, or close it in six months; all we want of our servants then is for them to say Yes or No; take no notice of what that man says or the other, but move on with one great and glorious purpose, to put down the rebellion as quick as God will permit. It is impossible to accomplish anything on half way ground; the steam locomotive will not go if the track is not right, or the machinery out of order. The engine may look to be in perfect trim to the impatient passengers, and they wonder why it does not move till at last the machinist comes, and finds a bolt is in the wrong place, or another one worn out by having been too long in use. By putting a bolt in the right place, or a new one to that which is worn out, the train starts off to the gratification of all. Now when Old Abe (God bless him) gets ready to put in the two bolts, and starts the train, all will rejoice [illegible] why he did not do it in the first [illegible] reason was, there were so [illegible] the broth," and hon- [illegible] machinist trade.— [illegible] and put a little of the rust taken off, which are called McClellan bolts. Jeff. thinks if the brave and noble Grant should take Vicksburg, that the war will have but just begun; but when Old Abe gets the negro engine in running order, and makes a lighting train of it, and starts it for Richmond, old Jeff may have a chance to take a ride to Washington, and find there a Yankee rope all coiled up and ready for use.—Hope he will be pleased with it, in the same way the man was that friend P—e sold the horse to. The man asked friend P—e if the horse would draw. He replied:

"Draw!—thee would be pleased to see him draw."

The man bought the horse; took him home, and the next day put him in a cart, and the horse would not start a peg.

"Confound the horse, and that———lying Quaker! I will go right to D——s and make him take the horse back."

Over to D——s he went, and found friend P—e, and the first words he said to him were—

"You're-a———liar!—you said that horse would draw."

The Quaker kept his temper, and smilingly said:

"Thee misunderstood me, friend; thee just think a moment. Did I not tell thee that thee would be pleased to see him draw?"

"Yes—believe you did."

"And would thee not be pleased to see him draw, man?"

"Yes—well—but I want you to take back the horse."

"O no—thee must keep him till he is pleased to draw!"

The man was mad; so Jeff will be when he sees that rope.

* * * * * * *

I hope the soldiers will have a chance to vote; for I want to put in one for "Picayune Butler" for President; not but what Old Abe has done well, but we want a man for the occasion.—Think Ben is a kind of Old Hickory, and admire him because he says "I won't" and "I will."

I cannot finish without saying, a word about the officers of Company D, for no company is favored with better officers than ours. Capt. Pope is like the boy whose master told him to "think three times before he spoke once." He never says much, but when he does—it is to the point. We have a spunky little lieutenant by the name of Hobbs and he is a hobety-horse the boys can't ride. We have two other lieutenants, Beardsley of Haverhill, and Erpe of Lynn, both fine fellows. Q.

The Wizard.

CHAS. D. HOWARD, EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR.

WEDNESDAY, JUNE 17, 1863.

TO CORRESPONDENTS. Communications, containing items of local news, are solicited. All those who are in possession of facts of local interest—such as casualities, incidents, doings of public meetings, projects for public improvements, new enterprises, etc.—will confer especial favor by sending the same to this office. Whatever is intended for insertion must be authenticated by the name and address of the writer, not necessarily for publication, but as a guarantee of his good faith.

AVARICE.

This iniquity is old as the world, and innate as the thoughts and aspirations of human beings who incline only to the narrow path of selfishness. We can hardly see the propriety or justice of one frail mortal's charging another mortal with this general vice, when all and every one is so very apt to be stained and polluted with this too common sin. To err is human. That man who lives and sins not, is as the waters which, in their course, make way over the mountain, or climb the rough, uneven course of the precipice. The world is filled with selfishness, as it is filled with human woe. Indeed, human life is selfishness—and why should it not be thus? If A. leaves himself and uses his energies for B., who, then, is responsible for the wants of A. himself? Surely B. is not, by any rule of common honor or of common justice. Let every tub stand upon its own bottom, is a maxim as old and as a common as that other one is true, which has come down to us even from the very origin of our world—"the soul that sinneth it shall die." The black mark of Cain is upon all who wear the human form. The blight and mildew of mean and contemptible selfishness seems to stain and blast the works of everything human.

This is the state of man. That being who would be generous, and kind, and humane, is absolutely cut off from doing so by the stern and insurmountable barrier of the law of self-defense. If one human being is true to the great law of love and kindness and charity, to some suffering son or daughter of his neighborhood, or of his kind, he, in nine instances out of ten, exposes himself to the danger of falling himself, and dragging his dependants down into the same abyss of indigence and want, into which his neighbor has already sunken. But the great question with us is, is there no palliation, no amelioration for this inherent and almost insurmountable evil? There is indeed such a thing as misfortune. There is also a sufficiency somewhere to lift the really worthy, although unfortunate, out of their despondency and misfortune, and place their feet upon the rock of competency and respectability. The unfortunate are not always guilty. The fortunate of to-day may be the unfortunate of to-morrow. There is a period in men's lives when energy fails them—when the repeated disappointments and trials of life, blunt and bend all their wonted powers and causes them to sink even to premature death, when one kind word, one little lift from some [illegible]mane friend, might save them to their friends and restore them to usefulness and to honor.

Avarice is natural—avarice is human, and it seems hardly a fault, under the general circumstances of our nature and our world. This sin is as excusable as some other sins which afflicts and sinks the children of men; but it is nevertheless a gross and unnatural sin—a heinous—a black and damning sin. It piles dollars in the coffers of A., by extracting them unjustly, frequently, from the hard and honest earnings of all the rest of the alphabet. It is a sin which, like drunkenness and lust, and many others "of the ills that flesh is heir to," spreads ruin and infamy and shame in its path. There seems to be something about avarice which is humiliating in its very nature. Other sins and other crimes—and sometimes, even, other shames—leave a semblance of honor—a shadow of manhood, or, at least a faint idea of something like manhood; but avarice seems to be the bare measuring up—the piling up of so many dollars, even though they go to offset so many human tears—so many human groans, or so many drops of human blood. It is a common sin—it is a common shame—it is a common crime against our very nature—and while thus loaded with infamy it has no saving qualities. Pile gold as high as huge Olympus and it will not wipe out one regret—open one avenue to hope—or give one moment's respite from pain, or one moment to wasted and expiring life. It is a mean sin—not even possessing the saving quality of being in consonance with our frail human nature.

It is common—it is almost self-defensive in the present state of society—but it is at the same time unnatural, strange and monstrous. It is as demoralizing and destructive, often to those who live and prosper under its green and blear efforts at smiles, as to those myriads of victims who from sunken and despondent homes and almost from their last resting places, peep out to curse them as they themselves sink into unhallowed graves. Avarice is indeed common, but at the same time it is cruel and unnatural.

THE POTTERIES.—These ancient institutions for the manufacture of earthern ware are fast disappearing in this town. Until recently we had two, but now we have but one. Workmen are now tearing down the late Mr. Richard Osborne's old pottery on Central street, which was erected in 1811, more than half a century ago. At that time there were some thirty of these factories in near proximity to this, and during the last war with England they done a thriving business, as it was impossible to import crockery ware enough to begin to supply the demand; then our grandmaams had to sip their tea (if they were fortunate enough to obtain any) from the more clumsy earthen saucers.

Before the workmen commenced taking the building down, quite a number of our citizens celebrated the last burning of the fires in the kilns in an appropriate manner—we are unable to report the speeches and toasts. And now as we have only one more pottery left—belonging to Mr. J. S. Reed—we trust it will be preserved for a long time to come, for without it, and the queer painting over the door of the engine house, "Garp Lane" would lose its identity.

"A FORWARD MOVEMENT"—BY THE REBELS.—The telegraph brings the news that the rebel army, 90,000 strong, under Gen. Lee, are invading the North, and that Pennsylvania is in great danger; and one account says that they have even occupied Chambersburg!

The President has called out 100,000 men from Pennsylvania, Maryland and Ohio for immediate service in the field. Whether this bold movement on the part of Lee will be a judicious one or not, will soon be seen. It looks to us as though he will be caught in a trap.

FIFTH REGIMENT.—This regiment, we understand, will leave Newbern to-morrow (Thursday) in the steamers Guide and Convoy, and will probably arrive home before their time of enlistment expires, which is the 29th, without they are ordered to Washington, as was the rumor yesterday. We have heard, as yet, of no arrangements made for a reception of our company.

RETURNED.—Sergeant Kirk Stark, of this town, who has shared the fortunes of the 24th regiment from the time of its enlistment, has recently returned home, having been discharged on account of some disability. Mr. Stark previously served three months in the old 5th, with the rank of lieutenant, and was engaged in the first Bull Run fight. He is a thorough soldier.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.—John P. Peabody, as will be seen, is "on the square."

D. P. Grosvenor advertises Mrs. Osborne's Infallible Remedy for Worms.

Thomas Trask announces that he has bought the right for the sale of new "Spring Bed Bottoms."

J. J. Rider intends to sell his entire stock of Fine Jewelry and Silver Ware.

Battis & Brown announce their removal.

Lyman Holman advertises an auction sale of land in Lynnfield.

SEVENTEENTH OF JUNE.

Eighty-eight years ago to-day, the yeoman soldiery of New England met old England's armed hosts upon an eminence within sight of burning Charlestown, to battle for those sacred rights and privileges that are unalienable. This mighty event—this bloody conflict for a great principle—caused the nations to stand amazed and tyrants throughout the world to tremble for their thrones. Bunker's holy heights were on that day rendered glorious as the battle ground where the sacred principles, avowed some year afterwards in the Declaration by the thirteen United States in Congress assembled, were contended for amid the terrible carnage of the battle field. The great Declaration of 4th July, 1776, ("that all men are created equal; that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable rights; that to secure these rights, governments are instituted among men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed; and that whenever any form of government becomes destructive of these ends, it is the right of the people to alter or abolish it, and to institute new government, laying its foundations on such principles and organizing its powers in such form as to them shall seem most likely to effect their safety and happiness,") was as emphatically proclaimed to the world through the fire and smoke and blood of Bunker's Hill on the 17th June, 1775, as at Philadelphia by the Continental Congress some thirteen months after. On to-day—and amid the rumbling clamor and shrieks and anguish of unnatural civil war—is it not meet that we go back to those glorious, though sanguinary scenes of the Revolution, and the later mental conflicts and difficulties in council, which established and guarded our liberties and transmitted our excellent system of government? Is this great and good government about to set in the blood of civil war! Were all the groans and tears and blood of our fathers thrown away; and has all the work they did for the children of men—for the security of their rights "and in order to form a more perfect union," proved a barren sceptre, a perfect abortion, a laughing stock, and a bye-word before the nations of the earth? We are not about discussing the causes of our present unhappy condition. It is enough for us to know, to-day, that this great people on this, one of the proudest of our Revolutionary anniversaries, is plunging and surging and groaning amid the horrid scenes of unnatural and bloody civil war.

Heaven grant that this unhappy state of things may soon pass away, and union and peace soon return to our distracted and bleeding country. Let the spirit of the fathers return to us their children. Let us reflect upon their sufferings, their hopes their fears, and how ungrateful we are to them, who laid their all, "their lives, their fortunes, and their sacred honors" on the altar of their country—not for their own particular advancement, or their own particular good, but that they might transmit a glorious, a heavenly heritage to us their children, and to ours, and to future ages. Shall we dash the golden bowl at the fountain? Shall we stand before the world and future ages as that ungrateful, maddened people who, "like the base Judean, threw a pearl away richer than all his tribe?"—that ungrateful nation which, for some imagined error, or even real abandonment of duty on the part of some section or some interest, would spitefully break into pieces the most excellent system of government that ever the wit or the wisdom of man concocted since the foundation of the earth. To turn back from so dread destruction, we must turn back to the spirit of the framers of the government and endeavor to act with a degree of that forbearance, reciprocal good will and mutual desire for future general well being to this whole people which actuated the founders of the Republic. Let the nations of the earth learn wisdom in view of our unhappy and humiliating condition, and shun the rock on which we split.

We cannot abandon all hope of a restoration of the state of things which blessed this people before the commencement of this civil war. Cannot the spirits of Washington, Adams, Jefferson, Hancock, etc., etc., move upon this great people on this anniversary and in this day of their anguish, tears, and of blood, so that they shall be inspired to return once to those days of peace, and union, and prosperity, which was the natural result of the course of government which these patriot heroes established and advised.

Americans, of whatever section, sect or condition, grieve not away the heavenly spirit of Washington and his compeers on this day on which, eighty-eight years ago, the great foundation of Republican liberty was laid in the blood of Warren and his associates on the sacred heights of then burning Charlestown.

It seems as though the heavenly influences of that sacred day must be in the air around us on this national anniversary. In heaven's name, Americans, dissipate not this patriot influence, but listen to it and be governed by it, and we may yet return to peace and union and be enabled to transmit to posterity that glorious system of government which was transmitted to us by Washington and his coadjutors.

NEW PHOTOGRAPH SALOON.—Our citizens have now a fine opportunity to have good pictures taken without going out of town. We have the best reasons for knowing that the pictures taken at Mr. Chute's saloon, over W. O. Batchelder's store, are very superior in their finish, as well as truthful and exact likenesses. There is now no need of going to Boston, much less to Salem, to get a first-rate picture. They are fully equal to those obtained in Boston of those favorite artists, Mr. Chute, of Tremont Row, and Mr. Black, of Washington. Seeing is believing, and all who call upon Mr. Chute at his pleasant rooms will be satisfied that we make no unfounded or extravagant statement.

ACCIDENT FROM POWDER.—We learn that while two lads were recently playing with a loaded pistol, one of them received a portion of the charge in his face.—Fortunately, the pistol was without shot or ball, otherwise the results might have been serious. Boys cannot be too careful in using these dangerous playthings.

JAMES D. BLACK Esq., has been appointed Deputy Provost Marshal for Danvers.

SNOWBALLS—"PEACE AND REUNION."

NEW YORK, 11th June, 1863.

Our Governor Seymour, it is said, has declined to accept the services of negro soldiers on the ground that he would dislike to expose them to the dangers of the battle-field. This is considerate on the part of our Chief Magistrate, and kind, if true. As man and politician, he has long been troubled with a disease somewhat unprofessionally termed "Abolition on the brain," and this emotion of the disease must excite the wonder of all scientific practitioners, whether of the new or the old school. Your Governor, troubled, according to some political authorities, with a disease of an entirely opposite nature (respect for the worthy man makes me hesitate to specify that it is called "Negro on the brain,") is sending the negro population off by regiments "into the jaws of death. What contradictory phenomena!

Gov. Seymour, and political reasoners of his school, have been accustomed, always, to win a certain gregarious vote by frightening it with the apparition of an immense influx of negro population in case of the success of the abolition idea. Now they refuse the blacks the chance to go off and be shot.

Free blacks, say they, are a nuisance. They delight to batter and burn down their houses, and get up riots to drive them away—pass laws to prevent their coming into the free States. Organize them in regiments and send them to South Carolina, say the Abolitionists. No! humanity forbids, say the negro haters; they will be mown down by rebel bullets, killed.

A negro is vastly inferior to the white man, his life of infinitely less value. Then send him down to storm rebel batteries, as did the 2d and 3d Louisiana, and to fling away his life at the mouth of rebel cannon, slaying rebel cannoniers. No! is the answer; let the negro stay at home and cultivate his northern garden in such peace as he may find here; send down in his place the brave and costly sons of white valor, the citizens of the Republic.

"This is a war for the negro!" Then let the negroes do their share of the fighting—let negro blood pay for negro's rights. Strange tenderness, more than woman's, bubbles from the hearts of the martyrs of Bastiles, and the petted negro is'nt allowed to expose his valuable life even in his own cause, to secure his own social salvation.

Seriously, there never was more vain and foolish babbling than this opposition to negro soldiers. An old veteran of the 104th Pennsylvania, who has been through all the battles of the Peninsula, said to me the other day, "I can see no reason why a negro's life should be held more sacred than mine. I consider myself at least as good as the negro." And so he is—the grizzly-bearded, white hero. The opposition to negro troops is the persistent, obstinate cropping out of old prejudices which might see that its day has past and that it ought to retire gracefully before the new facts and new exigencies of these troubled days.

"Peace and Re-Union." Flaming placards all over the city and where elee not, headed with these oily words, summoned the long suffering martyrs of the 'horrible despotism at Washington" to meet in mass meeting at Cooper Institute and the adjoining square the other night. The orators were George Francis Train, a modest, quiet man from Massachusetts; Fernando Wood; John H. McCunn, who left the army for the army's good a year or two ago; Edmon Blankman, of the Wood style of politicians; A. Sullivan, who boasted that not a single drop of blood, except Irish blood, flowed in his veins, and argued that as he loved Ireland and claimed freedom for her to establish her own government, so he claimed freedom for the Southern States to do the same thing. According to his statement, he had been in that "American Bastile," Ft. Lafayette; Isaiah Rynders, from time immemorial known as a peace man, that is, the kind of peace which is gained by and follows a free and easy fight terminated by the police. These were the principal speakers. They declared themselves for an "immediate proclamation of peace." The audience was large, and composed of men who follow the fortunes of Fernando Wood, whithersoever those fortunes lead. They shouted and cheered as roughly and enthusiastically as his followers usually do. Chancing to pass through the square, I listened awhile. I consider it a fact worthy of putting in print, that all the orators, little and great, of weak lungs and strong, brazen lungs assured the crowds that Abraham Lincoln and his minions had absolutely and completely suppressed the liberty of speech. In the language of Young America, at my elbow, "I couldn't see it," for every speech was loaded with the most unmeasured abuse of the Government and noisy with the fiercest calls for the immediate cessation of hostilities against our "Southern brethren," and yet not a "minion" appeared to suppress the pestiferous breath. Against the clamors of these politicians who have brute cunning enough to see that there can now be only two parties, one for and one against the war, and who are playing for the leadership of the opposition, New York sets her honor, patriotism, intelligence, morality, conservatism, and her money. Even the World, the organ of Gov. Seymour, condemned the meeting.

Yours truly, GREGORY.

FENOLLOSA'S CONCERT.—Our readers will not overlook the patriotic concert to be given this (Wednesday) evening, in aid of the Sanitary Commission. The concert will be a good one in itself, and the excellent object can hardly fail to commend itself to our citizens. About 1000 tickets have already been sold, and we are confident a handsome sum will be realized to the Sanitary Commission. Extra coaches will run from South Danvers and back, to carry passengers.

THE PRIZE FIGHTERS.—Crawford, the victor of the late prize fight in Danvers, has delivered himself up to the authorities and paid the fines; Burrows, the vanquished, has vanished, and is still at large. Frank Shaw, the bottle holder, has also delivered himself up, and paid the fines. The other accomplices were still "missing" at the time of our writing.

☞ We learn that J. S. Eveleth, proprietor of the Beverly and Salem Omnibus line, has been elected Superintendent of the Salem and South Danvers Horse Railroad Company.

PERSONAL.

The following personal items are mostly compiled from the Newburyport Herald:

GEN. FREMONT has been appointed President of the Pacific Railroad, with the understanding that he is to have contrabands to do the work.

STONEWALL JACKSON is noticed by the London papers. They say he combined in his person the intellect and religious enthusiasm—without the fanaticism—of Oliver Cromwell, the strategic ability and rapidity of execution of Bonaparte, and the patriotc devotion of Havelock.

LAMARTINE, the French poet, is seriously ill at Paris; and suffers from depression on account of the recent death of his wife—a lady much beloved. Lamartine has faults, but the French who can value his enthusiasm and know his love of country and liberty, hold him in high respect.

FERNANDO WOOD is described by "Burleigh" of the Boston Journal, as having grown gray of late. He has a wan and seedy look; and the times are evidently making an impression on him.

REV. I. S. KALLOCK, who formerly preached in the Tremont Temple, Boston, is now preaching in Leavenworth, Kansas.

GEN. MCCLELLAN has residences in so many States that there is as much difficulty in knowing where he belongs as there was to determine the city in which Homer was born. His headquarters are in New Jersey; his residence in New York; and the Buckeyes talked of him as candidate for Governor of Ohio.

COL. ISAAC F. SHEPHERD, formerly of Boston, is to be made Brigadier General in the Department of the West, and command African soldiers.

CHARLES L. FLINT, Esq., Secretary of the Massachusetts Board of Agriculture, has gone to Europe to attend the International Exhibition at Hamburg. He will probably remain some months in Europe, and visit the more noted of the agricultural schools in Ireland, Germany and France.

QUEEN VICTORIA is to visit Germany this summer. She will go to Coburg, to visit a spot hallowed to her, by being the birth-place of her beloved husband. There is something peculiarly touching in every action of Victoria connected with the death of Prince Albert.

SANTA ANNA, ex-President of Mexico, and the greatest Statesman and General that country has produced, still resides at St. Thomas, on his plantation just out of the town. He is seldom seen by the people, and his chief amusement is cock-fighting. He takes no part in the war now going on in his native country; but quietly waits a recall from the people.

LOUIS NAPOLEON is reported to be in failing health—emaciated, weak, and stooping in his gait. Fears are entertained of spinal complaint. That would be bad for him, for in the present condition of Europe he needs a strong back-bone.

GEN. MEAGHER, the brave Irish patriot, is about to revisit Europe, and for presentation to him before he goes, as a testimonial of his regard and esteem, Gen. Birney has ordered an additional "Kearney Cross" to be struck, similar to those just presented the meritorious men of his command.

GEN. ANDERSON, of Fort Sumter fame, is now stopping, with his family, in Springfield.

GEN. B. F. BUTLER of Lowell is talked of as the loyal leaguers candidate for Governor of Massachusetts in November.

GEN. JOE JOHNSTON, the rebel in command in Mississippi, is the second officer by date of commission in the Confederate service, Adjutant Gen. Samuel Cooper being the first. He is also considered second in ability, Lee alone being judged a better strategist. He was chief in command of the Confederates at the first Bull Run fi[illegible] and continued in that position till he was w[illegible]nded and disabled on the Peninsula, when Lee succeeded.

PRESIDENT LINCOLN, it is publicly announced, will be a candidate for re-election. It is early to begin; but the strings are already being pulled for the nomination, the Loyal Leaguers leading. On the 4th of July they will hold a great convention in Philadelphia, which Mr. Lincoln will attend.

SAM HOUSTON is running for Governor of Texas, under the Lone Star flag. He proposes once more to start Texas as an independent Republic. It is quite likely the people there will accept that platform. So we go. The Cotton States seceded, and are now seceding from each other; and should we fail to restore the Union, the same process of disintegration will take place here. If we break at all, we come to the same condition of Germany and Italy.

GEN. E. W. HINKS has been ordered to the North by the Medical Director of the army on account of his health. He is suffering severely from the terrible wounds he received at Antietam, one of which—that through the abdomen—yet threatens serious results; and requires that he shall avoid the enervating climate of the South during the heated term, and have absolute rest and repose. The General will probably pass the summer weeks at his home in Lynn.

GEN. ANDERSON, says the New York Herald, does not appear to have ever made a speech, or to have told any one what he would like to do against the rebels. No phrases of his live in the popular memory, and he does not even electrify the nation or the troops under his command with congratulatory orders. But he fights a great deal. He has been sneered at; he has been maligned; he has been neglected, but has done more against the rebellion than any other general now in the field. Like the other Ulysses, he has "drunk delight of battle with his peers," on terribly contested fields, where it seemed at the time that the existence of the rebellion was in question, and he has been successful always.

COAL.—Great efforts are making by coal speculators to raise the price. The New York Herald speaking of the matter, says:

"There is no reason whatever for the present exorbitant price of coal, save the grasping desire for gain which animates the speculators in this article. The coal crop has been unusually abundant this last year. The total shipments of coal from Pennsylvania for this year, up to the present date, amount to over six hundred thousand tons in excess of the shipments up to a corresponding date in 1862. Before the season is over it is more than probable the price of coal will be greatly reduced, to the serious detriment of the bulls in the coal market—a consummation devoutly to be wished for."

☞ The Ninth Army Corps, in which is our 35th regiment, has gone to Vicksburg.

ORDINATION.—The or[illegible] F. Safford, as pastor of [illegible] Society in this town, will [illegible] (Wednesday) afternoon, [illegible] The exercises will be as [illegible]

VOLUNTARY

1—Reading of the Script[illegible]
2—Invocation.
3—Voluntary by the Cho[illegible]
4—Sermon. By Rev. J. [illegible] of Roxbury.
5—Anthem.
6—Ordaining Prayer. B[illegible] of Lowell.
7—Hymn.
8—Charge to Pastor. [illegible] Weaver, of Lawrence.
9—Right Hand of Fell[illegible] C. W. Biddle, of Lynn.
10—Hymn.
11—Address to the Society [illegible] Putnam, of Danvers.
12—Voluntary by the Cho[illegible]
13—Benediction. By the [illegible]

☞ Mr. VALLANDIGH[illegible] nominated by the Democ[illegible] their candidate for Gov[illegible] genuine copperhead; a[illegible] will depend, in a great [illegible] success or defeat of our a[illegible] mer and fall campaigns.

PEACE HAS ITS VICTORIES. [illegible] fighting, let us thank the [illegible] others are engaged in the h[illegible] GRACE'S SALVE is the great r[illegible] It is the best remedy for bur[illegible] flesh wounds, boils, bruises, [illegible] every ill that "flesh is heir t[illegible] box of it. It costs only 25 c[illegible] tisement in another column.

POLAND.—European advic[illegible] that Earl Russel had taken a[illegible] matic step in advance of the [illegible] England on the Polish ques[illegible] posed to Russia a plan of pea[illegible] dependence to Poland.

MUSICAL.—Messrs. D. B. [illegible] have sent us, from their Mu[illegible] Central street, No. 3 of Jenn[illegible] songs, "Song Refines the Fe[illegible] Heuberer: published by Hors[illegible]

☞ Our army has chiefly [illegible] ginia to reinforce Hooker. Th[illegible] of soldiers in Virginia now, e[illegible] 000 for the defence of Washin[illegible] under 100,000.

☞ Generals Grant and [illegible] some years ago both Lieutenan[illegible] army and were stationed at [illegible] they are both generals, and st[illegible] burg—one inside and the oth[illegible] see which is the smartest.

☞ A Mr. Montgomery, w[illegible] at the Chantilly (French) ra[illegible] cas his residence, before thes[illegible] at times in New Orleans, and [illegible] He now considers himself a F[illegible]

☞ England is evidently a[illegible] the manifestations put forth by[illegible] in regard to the pirates and b[illegible] and is afraid after the rebelli[illegible] that we shall call her to an acc[illegible]

☞ Last week, we understa[illegible] bales of military clothing an[illegible] coutrements arrived at the [illegible] Provost Marshal. That look[illegible] Salem Gazette.

☞ A late editor, speakin[illegible] once had occasion to indulge [illegible] not tell whether it was brand[illegible] procession going down his thro[illegible]

☞ The blockade runners [illegible] find that our gunboats are too[illegible] vessels, and they are resortin[illegible] carry on their nefarious busines[illegible]

☞ Try one of Rhoadcs' N[illegible] Wringers, before purchasing [illegible] sale at the Equity Store, South[illegible] advertisement.

☞ Visit OSBORNE'S Store, [illegible] unusual variety of new style[illegible] CAPS—191 Essex street.

☞ On Sunday last, in tw[illegible] Rochester, over 700 persons ma[illegible] of religion.

BOSTON—Amusements.—We t[illegible] informing our readers that B[illegible] renowned Opera Troupe have [illegible] selves in the New Post Office H[illegible] mer Street, Boston, the best C[illegible] New England. Prof. Cutting [illegible] the Aquarial Department, whic[illegible] day, and the Buckley's appear[illegible] Julia Gould, the American p[illegible] with them.

Notwithstanding the warm we[illegible] Marshall presents varied attra[illegible] Boston Theatre, well worthy of [illegible] time.

BARGAINS | New Wrought Coll[illegible]
BARGAINS | 29 cts—Real Needl[illegible]
BARGAINS | in good styles—wo[illegible]
BARGAINS | prices from 50 to 75
BARGAINS | ceived at PEABODY
BARGAINS | Street.

BARGAINS | New Wrought Colla[illegible]
BARGAINS | 29 cts—Real Need[illegible]
BARGAINS | in good styles—wo[illegible]
BARGAINS | prices from 50 to 7[illegible]
BARGAINS | ceived at PEABOD[illegible]
BARGAINS | Street.

BARGAINS | New Wrought Colla[illegible]
BARGAINS | 29 cts—Real Need[illegible]
BARGAINS | in good styles—wor[illegible]
BARGAINS | prices from 50 to 75
BARGAINS | ceived at PEABOD[illegible]
BARGAINS | Street.

PATRIOTIC FEST[illegible]

MANUEL FENOLLOSA has the [illegible] nounce that, with the assistan[illegible] hundred of his pupils and frien[illegible] a Patriotic Concert on the 17 [illegible] Mechanic Hall, Salem, for the [illegible] Sanitary Commission. Doors o[illegible] commence at 8 o'clock. Ticke[illegible] can be had at the Bookstores, a[illegible] viously sold, at the door of the [illegible] evening of the Concert. Over [illegible] tickets have already been sold.

Where? Oh, Where?

Where shall I go for a good Breakfast?
Where shall I go for a good Dinner?
Where shall I go for a good Supper?
Where shall I go with Ladies?
Where shall I go with a Party?
Where shall I go for a quiet Dining Room?
Where shall I go and be Satisfied?
Where?—Where?—Where?

PORTER answers—

At the Tremont Dining Saloon,
No. 104 SUDBURY ST., BOSTON.

Boston, June 10, 1863. 6w

New Photograph and Ambrotype Rooms.

MR. JAMES E. CHUTE hereby gives notice to the inhabitants of South Danvers and vicinity, that he has taken rooms at No. 136 Main Street, over the store of W. O. Batchelder, where he is ready to take Card Photographs and Ambrotypes in the best style of the art. These rooms have been fitted up, and the instruments and materials selected, with the advice and assistance of my relative and friend, Mr. R. J. CHUTE, of Tremont Row, in Boston, to whom I have the liberty to refer.

I have obtained the services of a first-class operator, who has had a large experience in one of the best Photographic establishments in Boston, and my facilities are such that I trust I shall, by the production of life-like pictures, obtain a generous share of public patronage.

June 10. JAMES E. CHUTE.

BOOK BINDING.—As it is drawing near the time to have the monthly and weekly periodicals bound, we will refer our readers to the advertisement of WM. S. HILTZ, of Salem (formerly of New York city.) We can cheerfully recommend Mr. Hiltz as a good and thorough workman. We saw some specimens of his work the other day which would secure a premium in our next Annual Fair. His place of business is on Essex St., next door below the East India Marine Building.

Port of Danvers.

Ar 6th, schs John O Ireland, Chase, Philadelphia; Ada Herbert, Linnehan, New York; Sarah, Amanda, M'Carty, Boston.

Marriages.

In Cambridge, June 8, by Rev C H Wheeler, Mr Francis A. Lowe, of Salem, to Miss Mary E., daughter of Mr Jefferson Taylor, of South Danvers.

In Salem, June 11, by Rev Mr. Palmer, Mr Samuel Willis Symonds to Miss Frances Da Costa.

June 11, by Rev Mr Winn, Capt W M Sway to Miss Sylvia W Pray.

June 11, by Rev Mr Winn, Mr John Henry Marshall of South Danvers, to Miss Mary E. Ramsdell of Salem.

Deaths.

In this town, June 13th, William Freddie, only child of Wm. C. and Adaline B. Monroe, aged two years and six mos. This was a beautiful bud of promise; it is now transplanted, to blossom in a fairer world.

"Freddie's sick," and "Freddie's tired,"
O'er again he would repeat;
Now he's resting, calmly, sweetly,
With the Blest at Jesus' feet.

June 7, William, son of Nicholas and Catherine Kennedy, 3 years 3 months.

June 11, Mrs. Nancy, widow of the late Mr. William Osborne, formerly of Salem, aged 87.

In Danvers, June 7, Ann, daughter of John and Mary Cane, 6 years.

June 12, Mrs Martha C, wife of Andrew Berry, 40 years 8 mos 4 ds.

In Salem, June 10, Mrs Betsey, widow of the late Mr Oliver Berry, 68 years; 11th, very suddenly, of disease of the heart, Mr John K. Danforth, 49½ yrs; 15th, Mrs Elizabeth, widow of the late Mr Gregory Desent, 93½ yrs.

In Baton Rouge, La, May 1, of congestive fever, Mr Otis P. Preston, 19½ yrs—a member of Co. A, 50th Mass. Reg, and a son of Mr. Richard Preston of Salem.

☞ The extraordinary success of Dr. Ham's Invigorating Spirit, seems to stir up an army of Tonics, Bitters, and Cure Alls; but as a general thing they are like the Morning Glory—look very fine in the morning but wilt before the day has past. The Dr has been before the public for years; his Dyspepsia Remedy has been tested and not found wanting; it acts on the Liver, Stomach, Head and the whole system; it is good at all times and for everybody.

MANUAL FENOLLOSA,
TEACHER
OF THE
Violin, Piano and Singing,
Music Rooms, No. 7 Central Street,
SALEM, MASS.

Hunnewell's Great Remedies.

WHAT EVERY FAMILY SHOULD HAVE IN THE HOUSE AND WHY.

☞ They should have HUNNEWELL'S UNIVERSAL COUGH REMEDY, because it effectually cures Colds, Whooping and Common Coughs, Sore Throat, Hoarseness, and is the most simple and perfect Soothing Syrup in the world. For old and young, by day and night, it may be used with the greatest freedom, and three-fourths of the deaths by Consumption stopped. They should have HUNNEWELL'S TOLU ANODYNE, because it is a perfect remedy for Neuralgia, Nervous or Sick Headache, Tooth, and Earache, Pain in Stomach, or Bowels, Genuine Cholera Morbus, Rheumatism, Distress after Eating, Nervousness, Hysteria, and the chief of all causes of disease, and Insanity, Loss of Sleep. Its character, though active, is simple; its action in perfect conformity to nature; a sure cure, or relief.

For the pains in Monthly Menstruation a perfect relief, while nature's after work is not disturbed, and one of the most important points in Medicine.

They should have HUNNEWELL'S ECLECTIC PILLS, because with seldom but a single Pill for a dose all derangements of the Stomach and Bowels are cured. They cure Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Headache, when caused by foul stomach, Loss of Appetite, Biliousness, so often and so erroneously treated with Mercurials, Jaundice. For Worms a sure cure.

They act simple, assist nature, do not make a Pill Box of the stomach, as is the most fatal error of taking so many Pills at a dose and then, what is important to every Family and every Purse, one bottle goes as far as two or three of what is ordinarily sold.

The confidence of all is asked to test
Hunnewell's Universal Cough Remedy,
Hunnewell's Tolu Anodyne,
Hunnewell's Eclectic Pills.

☞ Fac-simile of J. L. Hunnewell's signature over corks of genuine only.

JOHN L. HUNNEWELL, proprietor,
9 Commercial Wharf, Boston, Mass.

George E. Meacom, Agent for Danvers.
For sale by all dealers in Salem and vicinity.
Apr. 1, 1863—1 y

Advertisements.

Salem and South Danvers Railroad Company.

THE Annual Meeting of the Stockholders of the SALEM AND SOUTH DANVERS RAILROAD COMPANY, will be held at the Room of the Company, in Creamer's Block, Essex Street, Salem, on WEDNESDAY, 24th instant, at 3 o'clock P. M.

Auction Sale of Land.

WILL be Sold at Public Auction, on the Premises, JUNE 30th, 1863, at 5 o'clock P. M., a very desirable lot of Tillage Land, of about 11 acres, situated in Lynnfield, near the Hotel.

This land is well situated for building purposes, being near the Depot of the South Reading Branch Railroad, and bounded upon two opposite sides by County roads. It is also in a good state of cultivation and well adapted to Agricultural uses. No better chance can be found for a good real estate investment, or for a snug and convenient farm.

A large part of the purchase money may remain on mortgage, if desired by the purchaser. Other conditions of sale will be made known at the time.

LYMAN HOLMAN.
South Danvers, June 15, 1863. 2w

Mothers—Take Heed!

MRS. OSBORNE'S CURE FOR PIN WORMS

GIVE no more poison to your children. Do you ever think when observing the uneasy actions of your children, that the only cause of the little sufferer's illness is worms? In nineteen cases out of twenty it is so. Of all the diseases to which children are exposed none are so fatal to them as worms. In fact, children are seldom free from them, as worms imitate the symptoms of many other complaints. They often produce alarming effects without being suspected as the cause.—The only certain cure—one of nature's own remedies, a compound of nothing but Roots and Herbs—is

Mrs. Osborne's Universal Worm Powders.

They will eradicate all worms from the system, if the directions are strictly adhered to. No more filthy vermifuge will be used by those who have once used these Powders. The active principle in all other vermifuges, Worm Killers, Syrups and Medicated Lozonges, is Mercury, as any physician will tell you. Many dealers will recommend inferior preparations, and low-priced articles, affording more profit to themselves. Be sure and obtain only Mrs. Osborne's Worm Powders. Price 25 cts. per box. Sold by D. P. GROSVENOR, Main st. South Danvers, June 17, 1863. 3m

HOLD ON! HOLD ON!

ALL those that are inclined to rest their weary limbs on the most luxurious

SPRING BED

that was ever invented, are invited to call at

No. 52 Main St., South Danvers,

and there see the very best SPRING BED BOTTOM that has been offered to the public.

Not having been able at first to meet the demands, I now have the facilities to supply all orders.

Having bought the right to make and vend for the county of Essex, the subscriber would be happy to supply all those who may favor him with a call.

Rights for sale for any town or city in the county except Haverhill and Lawrence.

THOS. TRASK.
South Danvers, June 17, 1863.

SELLING OFF! SELLING OFF!

THE undersigned intending to close up his present business at the earliest opportunity, now offers his ENTIRE STOCK OF

Fine and Plated Jewelry, Solid Silver Ware, Solid Silver Ware, &c.

AT LARGELY REDUCED PRICES,
Regardless of Cost,

FOR THIRTY DAYS ONLY.

After which, all goods remaining on hand will be sold at Public Auction.

Also, for sale, all the movable fittings of said Store, including 5 solid German Silver frame Counter Show Cases; One Tilton & McFarland Fire and Burglar Proof Safe; Chairs, Desks, Stools, &c., &c.

JOSEPH J. RIDER,
2 West Block—188 Essex st.
Salem, June 17, 1863. 1m

REMOVAL.

BATTIS & BROWN have removed from their Old Stand, 110 Derby Street, to

No. 30 Front St., Salem.

They open with a good stock of Cigars, of all the popular brands. Also, Leaf Manufactured, and Smoking Tobacco of all kinds, with the usual variety of Fancy Goods found at such an establishment, wholesale and retail.

BATTIS & BROWN,
Salem, June 17—3w 30 Front St.

SPIRITS TURPENTINE

AND Benzole Spirits, for sale at
S C & E A SIMONDS', 32 Front st.

NEW BOOKS,

AT G. M. WHIPPLE & A. A. SMITH'S.

Faith Gartney's Girlhood, a book for Girls. "It is a noble, good work that could only have been accomplished by an elevated mind, united to a chaste, tender heart."

Weak Lungs, and how to make them strong; or, Diseases of the Organs of the Chest, with home treatment by the movement cure—illustrated. By Dio Lewis, M. D.

Substance and Shadow; or, Morality and Religion in their relation to life, an essay on the Physics of Creation, by Henry James.

The Castle's Heir, by Mrs. Henry Wood.

Book of Days; Chambers' Encyclopædia.

AT COLMAN'S,

No. 10 Front St., Salem.

STRAW AND PAINTED CARPETINGS, &c.

500 Yards 1½, and 1¼ yds wide best Straw CARPETING;
20 large size LOOKING GLASSES, at about one half price;
Closing out all BOOTS and SHOES, at such prices as will suit;
CAPS and HATS—Just received, of the best styles, from Manufactory, at low prices;
CLOTHING. Just received, fresh made Summer Clothing.
Also, some NEW CLOTHING bought at Auction very cheap.
HOSIERY. 500 dozen Men's, Women's, Boys' and Girls' Hosiery:—with a great variety of other goods.

☞ NOTICE. All Goods advertised, and others, I will sell at such prices as will give satisfaction.

Salem, June 3, 1863. 3w

ANN R. BRAY,

NO. 76 FEDERAL ST, SALEM.

WE are selling out all our Black Silks;
We are selling out all our Cambric Prints;
We are selling out all our French Prints;
We are selling out all our nice Taffetas;
We are selling out all our Organdie Muslins;
We are selling out all our Lawns;
We are selling out all our Cotton Hosiery;
We are selling out all our Linen Hdkfs;
We are selling out all our Domestic Goods;
We are selling thin Dress Goods for 1s worth 25 cents;
We are selling Bleached Cottons for 12½ cts;
We are selling light Spring Prints for 1s;
We have the Quaker Skirt for ladies;
We have the Belle Point Skirt for ladies;
We have the Trail Skirt for ladies;
We have the very best Silk for Visites;

John P. Peabody.

SUN UMBRELLAS. SUN UMBRELLAS. SUN UMBRELLAS

We can show a very full and desirable stock of Sun Umbrellas and Parasols in all sizes—in Black, Brown and Green.

14 inch Sun Umbrellas;
16 inch Sun Umbrellas;
18 inch Sun Umbrellas;
20 inch Sun Umbrellas;

AT PEABODY'S.

RIBBONS AND FLOWERS. RIBBONS & FLOWERS

Our Stock of RIBBONS is good, and as many of them were bo't last season, we are enabled to show some decided bargains.—We have a very choice stock of Artificial Flowers
And
Bonnet Ruches.

AT PEABODY'S.

HOSIERY AND GLOVES. HOSIERY AND GLOVES.

Ladies' Cotton Hose,
Misses' Cotton Hose,
Children's Cotton Hose,
Infants' Cotton Socks,
Gent's Cotton Socks,
Ladies' Lisle Gloves,
Misses' Lisle Gloves,
Children's Lisle Gloves,
Paris Kid Gloves,
Embroidered Kid Gloves,
Fancy Kid Gloves,

AT PEABODY'S.

LACE GOODS. EMBROIDERIES.

Black Lace Veils,
Guipure Lace Collars,
Needle Work Collars,
Needle Work Edgings,
Black Crape Collars,
Black Crape Veils,
Grenadine Veils,
Sewing Silk Veils,
English Thread Edgidgs,
Bobbinet Web Laces,
Black Edging Laces,

AT PEABODY'S.

BUTTONS. TRIMMINGS. BINDINGS.

Dress Buttons, all kinds,
Dress Braids, all kinds,
Quilled Ribbons, all colors,
Embroid'y Braids, all colors,
Narrow Ribbons, all colors,
Steel and Jet Buttons, Marseilles Trimmings,
Black Velvet Ribbons,
Color'd Velvet Ribbons,

AT PEABODY'S.

BARGAINS LOW PRICES. BARGAINS

☞ We are selling many Goods at very Low Prices—in order to Reduce our Stock before taking our semi-annual account.

220 Essex Street.

JOHN P. PEABODY.

NEW STOCK
— OF —
DRY GOODS
— AT —
No. 238 Essex street,

(Three Doors West of the Tunnel.)

THE Subscriber opened on MONDAY, May 18th,

A Fresh Stock of Dry Goods,

Consisting of nearly all the new styles of Dress Goods, Ladies' Cloths, Cloths for Men's & Boys' Wear; Shawls, Domestic and Housekeeping Goods; Sun Umbrellas; Parasols; Hoop Skirts; Hosiery; Gloves; &c., &c., &c.

☞ All the above Goods will be sold for CASH, at Low Prices.

GEORGE P. DANIELS.
Salem, May 20.

WHITE LEAD AND LINSEED OIL,

James F. Almy.

JUST RECEIVED

1 more case of fine
BLEACHED COTTONS,
At 12¼ cents.

JAMES. F. ALMY,
je 10 188 Essex, opposite Central st.

SUMMER, 1863.

We shall open New Styles Silk Mantillas,

Saturday, May 30.

We have received a full stock of Rich Black Silks for Mantillas; also Laces, Embroidery Braids and Bugle Trimmings, for Mantillas.

We are closing our Stock of Cloth Garments at Wholesale prices.

We are selling Ladies' Cloths at very low prices.

We have received a choice stock of Summer Shawls.

We have opened a large stock of Summer Dress Goods, in good value and styles, at a Bargain.

Our General Stock of Seasonable Dress Goods was never more complete than now, and our prices are very low.

We have a fine Stock of Sun Umbrellas.

We have a fine Stock of best Kid Gloves.

We have a fine Stock of Ladies' and Misses' Summer Underclothing.

We have a fine Stock of Hosiery and Gloves, Velvet Ribbons, Ladies' and Gents' Hdkfs, etc.

We are selling Watch Spring Skirts very low.

In Domestic Goods, we offer all the advantages of the reduction in prices, as our Stock has been mainly purchased within a few days.

We offer a fine Stock of Cloth for Men's and Boys' wear.

We offer a large Stock of White Goods.

Cash buyers will find it for their advantage to examine our Stock.

JAMES F. ALMY,
188 Essex, opposite Central st.
June 3d, 1863.

M. FENOLLOSA,
TEACHER OF MUSIC,

LETS .....PIANO FORTES, at the lowest rates;
SELLS .....PIANO FORTES, at the Manufacturers Prices;
EXCHANGES....PIANO FORTES, on the easiest terms;

At Rooms No. 7 Central street,
feb 11 SALEM, MASS.

GLASS WARE.

CUT and Pressed Glass Goblets; Tumblers; Dishes, etc. just opened at
S C & E A SIMONDS' 32 Front st.

TABLE MATS.

SHAKER Table Mats—for sale by
may 27 S C & E A SIMONDS.

A Card.

Having disposed of my stock and stand to Miss M. E. CRANE, I avail myself of this opportunity to request my friends and customers who have bestowed their liberal patronage upon me, to transfer the same to my successor.

In taking leave of my business friends, I would return my warmest thanks for the generous patronage I have received. I can in the highest terms recommend Miss CRANE, and would bespeak for her your kind consideration and confidence.

I would most respectfully invite those having unsettled accounts to call and adjust the same, either with Miss CRANE or myself, at the old stand.

April 22, 1863. M. M. FLETCHER.

Notice.

The Subscriber having purchased of Mrs. M. M. FLETCHER her stock of Goods, and made additions to the same, is now prepared to furnish her patrons and the public with a large and fine assortment of

Millinery Goods,

which we will sell very low for cash. We hope by strict attention to business to merit a liberal share of patronage. M. E. CRANE,
ap 22 cor. of Essex and St. Peter sts.

WATCH SPRING SKIRTS, At 236 Essex Street. A few doors from Washington Street. SALEM, MASS. M. A. PORTER, MANUFACTURES TO ORDER

SEWING MACHINES.

PERSONS about purchasing SEWING MACHINES will find it to their advantage to consult

JOHN H. CHOATE,
SEWING MACHINE AGENT.
Over Newman & Symonds' Store, Lowell St.
Second-hand Machines bought and sold.
South Danvers, May 13—tf

Dr. Ham's Spirit

George S. Walker.

Notice to Gentlemen.

FOR THE WARM WEATHER.

SUMMER MERINO UNDER SHIRTS;
GAUZE " " " GOSSAMER " " "
SILK " " "
COTTON " " "

IN EXTRA LARGE AND SMALL SIZES.

Summer Merino, Gauze and Unbleached Cotton DRAWERS, in sizes from 28 to 44 inches.

Summer Merino, Lisle, Silk, and Cotton HALF HOSE, in a great variety of styles and in all sizes.

Many of the above goods were bought before the advance for Cash, and will be sold at the lowest prices.

GEORGE S. WALKER'S,
Gent's Furnishing Store,
may 20 228 Essex Street, Salem, Mass.

A. J. Archer & Co

WE OPEN THIS MORNING

ELEGANT

BLACK SILK GARMENTS,

At prices from $8 00 to $16 00.

A. J. ARCHER & CO.,

Salem, june 3—tf

SUMMER SHAWLS!

We open this morning beautiful new

SUMMER SHAWLS.

— Also —

A variety of THIN DRESS GOODS;
8 4 Black Hernani and Crape Maretz;
Black Grenadine. For sale by

A. J. ARCHER & CO.,

Salem, june 3—tf.

SPRING GOODS!

Entirely New Stock of

CLOTHING.

GEO. H. LANE,

CLOTHIER,

Nos. 31 and 32 Dock Square,

BOSTON,

IS now ready to show to his customers and the public an ELEGANT STOCK OF CLOTHING for MEN'S and BOYS' wear, expressly designed by himself, manufactured on the premises for the present season in all those new and choice selections of fabrics for which Lane's establishment has become celebrated. The stock consists in part of

SPRING OVERCOATS,
FROCK COATS,
BUSINESS COATS;
And ONE HUNDRED CHOICE

NEW STYLES OF PANTALOONS,

Suitable for Dress, Promenade or Business Occasions.

Mr. LANE having made Large Purchases by Contract before the Unprecedented and General Advance in Prices, has it in his power to give

REAL BARGAINS,

Acting on the principal that

"Quick Sales and Small Profits"

Are the best rules to guide the merchant.

JUVENILE ATTIRE.
Boys' Entire Suits, as

SCHOOL SUITS,
DRESS SUITS,
JACKET SUITS,
SACK SUITS, &C.

All of the newest fabrics and best workmanship.

A year since Mr. Lane advised the public that he had added a Boys' Department, and he has now the satisfaction to announce that he has secured the services of Mr. C. H. Boynton, (formerly with J. WALTER READ) to superintend it; and indeed, to make the entire establishment the COMPLETEST IN NEW ENGLAND, the Proprietor has spared no pains to secure the services of REAL ARTISTS in the Cutting Room, and accomplished, obliging, and experienced Salesman in the Show Room; and trusts by strict personal attention, and MODERATE CHARGES, to merit the support of the community.

GEO. H. LANE,
31 AND 32 DOCK SQUARE,
April 1—3m BOSTON.

Potter, Bachelder & Co.,
(Successors to M. Black)
DANVERS PORT,
DEALERS IN
WOOD AND COAL

OF the various kinds usually kept in a retail yard. Constantly on hand

Franklin, Old Company's Lehigh,
Locust Mountain, Black Heath,
Red and White Ash;

Of all sizes, of the best quality, and at as low prices as can be bought elsewhere.

OFFICE—No. 6 Allen's Building.

Order Box at post office, South Danvers, and post office, Danvers.

G. W. POTTER,
J. Q. A. BACHELDER.

Browning & Long.

LOW PRICES!

Notwithstanding the present high prices of all Goods,
MESSRS. BROWNING & LONG offer many at extremely low prices, and would call attention to the following list—being determined to offer

FIRST CLASS GOODS,
— AT THE —
Lowest Prices.

Ladies' Colored Cotton Hose,	10c;
White and Unbleached Hose,	18c;
Nice Open-work Hose,	28c;
Misses' White and Unbleached Hose,	16c;
Children's Colored Hose,	16c;
Gent's good half-Hose,	16c;
Misses' Fancy Cotton Hose,	10c;
Nice Lisle Gloves,	15c;
Ladies' Mohair Mitts,	50c;
Cotton Border Hdkfs,	5c;
Ladies' All-Linen Hdkfs,	13c;
All-Linen Hem-Stitched Hdkfs,	30c;
Embroidered Collars,	15c;
Nice Crape Collars,	25c;
Gent's Woven Bosoms,	8c;
Bead Nets,	25c,

and many others in like comparison.

Our Stock is complete and we can show a fine assortment of everything in our line.
Very large varieties of

NEW GOODS. Lace Collars, Embroidered Collars, Alexandra Bows, Cambric Edgings, Cambric Insertings, Summer Under Garments, Hosiery and Gloves, New Styles Dress Trimmings. NEW GOODS.

VEILS! VEILS!! VEILS!!!
SKIRTS, in all the styles.

☞ Our facilities for procuring Goods are superior. Having a SPECIAL AGENT in New York, we are constantly receiving SOMETHING NEW, and our stock is always kept full.

BROWNING & LONG
Essex St., 177 Essex St.,
Salem, June 10, 1863.

Quincy Mutual Fire Insurance Co.
Available and Cash Capital $500,000.

INSURES Buildings, Merchandize and Personal Property generally, on terms as favorable as any other dividend paying company.
J. D. BLACK, Agent,
april 22—1y At Danversport.

Merrimack Mutual Fire Insurance Co., Andover, Mass.

ONE of the OLD AND RELIABLE OFFICES.
J. D. BLACK is Agent for Danvers and South Danvers. apr 22—1y

VALUABLE REAL ESTATE.

THE Subscriber offers for sale on favorable terms,—or would exchange for a Farm,—his Estate on Wallis Street, near the Monumental Cemetary, consisting of THREE DWELLING HOUSES, which will be sold separately or as one Estate.

There are 75 feet of land in front, and 72 feet in the rear of the house.

The situation is pleasant, in a good neighborhood, and the houses are supplied with all the conveniences for immediate occupation. In ordinary times these tenements would rent for from 330 to 350 dollars.

The Subscriber, having made up his mind to dispose of the property, will sell it low, and it is well worth the attention of purchasers.

Apply to JOHN M'NEAL.
South Danvers, Dec. 10th, 1862. tf.

Tillage Land and Barn to Let.

ABOUT six acres of good level Tillage Land with a Barn, situated upon the "Cross Road" in Rockville. Any one wishing to work upon land a portion or the whole of his time will find this a rare chance.

For further particulars application may be made to either of the subscribers,
S. C. BANCROFT, So. Danvers.
JOHN H. NICHOLS, Salem.
South Danvers, Ap. 22.

Just Opened,

A SUPERIOR quality corded Taffeta, at 37½ cts. All wool DeLaines, desirable shades; Domestic Goods of every description.
ap 29 ANN R BRAY, 76 Federal st.

PHOTOGRAPH ALBUMS.

A FULL assortment constantly on hand.
G M WHIPPLE & A A SMITH.

WM. S. HILTZ,
Plain and Ornamental
BOOK-BINDER,

No. 157 Essex Street (up stairs), Salem.

Bibles, Music, Magazines, Periodicals, and old books of every description bound with neatness and despatch at the lowest cash prices.

Music bound and ready for delivery in 3 days.

REFERENCES—Hon. S. H. Phillips, Francis Peabody, Esq., Wm. G. Choate, Esq., R. S. Rantoul, Esq., Dr. G. A. Perkins, Dr. Der Gersdoff. may 27

CHINA WARE;

GOLD Band China Tea Ware; White and Lustre China do—at
S. C. & E. A. SIMONDS', 32 Front st.

FRUIT BASKETS.

WHITE China and White Granite Fruit Baskets—at
S. C. & E. A. SIMONDS', 32 Front st.

VARNISHES.

COACH Varnish; Furniture and Damar Varnish, of the best quality; at

☞ If you want to SAVE MONEY, in purchasing Goods, go to COLMAN'S, No. 10 Front street, Salem. ap30-tf

Auction Sales.

WILLIAM ARCHER, Jr.,
Auctioneer, Real Estate and Stock Broker,
34 Front Street.
Real Estate, Bank, Railroad and Manufacturing Stock bought and sold on Commission.

D. P. GROSVENOR, Jr.,

Druggist and Apothecary,
33 MAIN STREET.
Dealer in Drugs, Medicines, Chemicals, Dye Stuffs, and Popular Proprietary Medicines.
Personal attention to Physicians' Prescriptions.
South Danvers, May 20, 1861. 1y

GEO. E. MEACOM

Dealer in
DRUGS & MEDICINES,
Fancy & Toilet Articles, &c.
126 MAIN ST. 126
Nearly opposite Danvers Bank, So. Danvers.

T. A. SWEETSER,
Druggist & Apothecary

37 Main St., So. Danvers,
DEALER IN
Drugs, Medicines, Chemicals, Foreign Leeches, Shakers' Herbs, Dye Stuffs, Gums, Acids, Sponges, Shoulder Braces, Trusses, and Genuine Patent Medicines.
Also, Imported Cigars of choice brands, Perfumery Toilet Articles and Stationery.
Physicians' Prescriptions carefully prepared by experienced persons.
87 MAIN STREET.

GRACE'S CELEBRATED SALVE.

A SURE RELIEF FOR THE SUFFERER.

This Salve is a vegetable preparation, invented in the 17th century, by Dr. WM. GRACE, surgeon in King James's army. Through its agency he cured thousands of most serious sores and wounds that baffled the skill of the most eminent physicians of his day, and was regarded by all who knew him as a public benefactor.

Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Burns.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Scalds.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Flesh Wounds.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Corns.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Felons.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Frozen Limbs.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Wens.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Callouses.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Salt Rheum.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Chilblains.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Sore Breast.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Sore Lips.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Erysipelas Sores.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Abscesses.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Ulcers.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Chapped Hands.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Ringworms.

And from Sores and Wounds of the most serious nature down to a common Pimple. It eradicates Pimples from the face, and beautifies the skin. There is no preparation before the public that can equal this Salve in prompt and energetic action for the speedy cure of external diseases, as those who have tried its virtues testify. Soldiers, Sailors, and Fishermen, will find this Salve their best friend.

It has none of the irritating, heating properties of other remedies, but cools, cleanses, and heals the most serious Sores and Wounds. Every family, and especially those containing children, should keep a box on hand in case of accident, for it will save them much trouble, suffering, and money. All it wants is a fair trial to cure old and inveterate Sores.

MANUFACTURED BY
WILLIAM GRACE,
AMESBURY, MASS.

Price 25 cents, 50 cents, and $1 per box. A great saving is made by taking the large size.

Each box has the above cut and the fac-simile of the proprietor's signature attached to it, which is duly copyrighted.

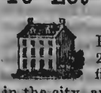
Geo. C. Goodwin & Co., 11 and 12 Marshall street, Weeks & Potter, 170 Washington street, and M. B. Burr & Co., 26 Tremont street, Boston, Wholesale Agents.

For sale by D. P. Grosvenor, T. A Sweetser and George E. Meacom, Druggists, Main street, South Danvers, and at country stores everywhere

THE CLOTHES WRINGER.

JUST OBTAINED
RHOADES' CELEBRATED
NATIONAL CLOTHES WRINGER,
THE VERY BEST YET INVENTED,
AND REALLY A LABOR SAVING MACHINE.
CALL AND EXAMINE.
For Sale by E. SOUTHWICK,
At the EQUITY GROCERY STORE,
South Danvers, Jan 21, 1863. 3m

To Let on Essex St., Salem,



The STORE and DWELLING HOUSE connected therewith, No. 250 Essex St. The store is neatly fitted up, is one of the best stands in the city, and admirably adapted for Millinery, Fancy, Dry Goods, or any light business. The Dwelling part contains nine finished rooms, and is supplied with water, gas, etc.—all in good order and very convenient.

To a satisfactory tenant, the above will be let on reasonable terms. Apply at J. PERLEY'S Shoe Store, next door west. feb 25

THE PIANO FORTES

THAT have attracted so much attention of late, and are so much admired on account of their SPLENDID FULL, RICH, MELLOW TONE, and GRAND FRENCH ACTION, are for sale only at the Office of the Agent,

218 Essex Street, Salem, Mass.,

where reference may be had to many who have purchased. Other Piano Fortes also, are for sale, varying in price from $180 upwards. Please call.

Mch 11 6m S. MACKINTIRE, Agent.

Choice Spring Pigs for Sale.

THE subscriber offers for sale nice PIGS of Mackie Prince Albert and Chester County breeds, to which the Mackie took the First Premium at the Fat Cattle Show. Prices reasonable.

BYRON GOODALE.

[From the Hingham Journal, May 21, 1863.]

Brief History of Boston Common.

Tradition has invested Boston Common with a romantic interest; and the thousands of persons who love to visit this charming spot, and who are proud of its varied beauty, give the romance of tradition the preference in their belief, to the plain historic facts in reference to it.

The tradition, which receive universal credence, says that Boston Common came into possession of the citizens, more than two hundred years ago, by deed of bequest, coupled with the condition that no house should ever be built upon it. There are probably one hundred thousand persons in the city who believe, to this day, that heirs to the property stand ready to put in their claim, watching constantly for any violation of the terms upon which their ancestor willed it to Boston. Indeed, the story was very current, when the wrietr was a boy, that the heirs would give one thousand dollars to any one who would put up a roofed shanty on the Common, and maintain it there for twenty-four hours.

It seems a pity to destroy so pretty a story. But historic accuracy puts it entirely at rest. The citizens of Boston, themselves, are the heirs of Boston Common; and there have never been any other heirs, nor can there be. Here are the simple facts.

As early as 1638, the inhabitants of the town, in town-meeting assembled, resolved to lay aside a spot to be held as a training-field forever, and the feeding of cattle. The Common was, the result of this vote. It was purchased for £36 10s., and householders assessed themselves 5s. each to pay for it. The vote and the deed of purchase are recorded, and may be seen to this day in the office of the Registry of Deeds.

This origin of the Common should rather increase our affection for it; it is a green and living monument of the foresight and care of our fathers, and the Common can never be changed from its original purpose without perpetrating a deed of violence to the bequest we have received, and so richly enjoy. We have thought this brief notice would possess an interest to the thousands who visit this lovely spot.

Davis & Co., the photographists, have frequently wished they could establish their gallery on Flag-Staff Hill; but since they cannot do so, they have done the next best thing, and have set up their standard as near as possible to it. They are on the corner of Winter and Washington Streets, where they will do you a dozen carte de visites, in the most superior style of art, and charge you but $2.50. The gallery is open for visitors daily, from 7 A. M. to sunset.

☞ The following is said to have occurred in one of the colleges in the interior of Georgia:

1st Student—"Good morning, father Abraham."

Farmer—"I am not father Abraham."

2d Student—"No, it's father Isaac."

Farmer—"Nor am I father Isaac."

3d Student—"Well, then, you are father Jacob."

Farmer—"No, nor father Jacob, either."

1st Student—"Well, then, who are you?"

Farmer—"I am Saul, the son of Kish, whom his father sent to hunt the asses, and have just found three of them."

☞ "Pa, the Temperance men say they put log-wood into Port Wine. Is that what dyes your nose red?"

"Nonsense, my son, go to bed."

TO CONSUMPTIVES.

THE ADVERTISER HAVING BEEN RESTORED to health in a few weeks, by a very simple remedy, after having suffered several years with a severe lung affection, and that dread disease, Consumption—is anxious to make known to his fellow-sufferers the means of cure.

To all who desire it, he will send a copy of the prescription used (free of charge,) with the directions for preparing and using the same, which they will find a SURE CURE for CONSUMPTION, ASTHMA, BRONCHITIS, &c. The only object of the advertiser in sending the Prescription is to benofit the afflicted, and spread information which he conceives to be invaluable, and he hopes every sufferer will try his remedy as it will cost them nothing, and may prove a blessing.

Rev. EDWARD A. WILSON, Williamsburgh,
March, 18, 3m Kings County, New York.

New Jersey Lands for Sale.

—ALSO—

GARDEN OR FRUIT FARMS,

Suitable for Grapes, Peaches, Pears, Raspberries, Strawberries, Blackberries, Currants, &c., of 1, 2½, 5, 10 or 20 acres each, at the following prices for the present, viz: 20 acres for $200, 10 acres for $110, 5 acres for $60, 2½ acres for $40, 1 acre for $20. Payable by one dollar a week.

Also, good Cranberry lands, and village lots in CHETWOOD 25 by 100 feet, at $10 each, payable by one dollar a week. The above land and farms are situated at Chetwood, Washington Township, Burlington, New Jersey. For further information, apply with a P. O. Stamp, for a circular, to

B. FRANKLIN CLARK,
feb 18, 1863 No. 90 Cedar St, New York, N. Y.

TERRIBLE DISCLOSURES—SECRETS FOR THE MILLION!—A most vainable and wonderful publication. A work of 400 pages, and 30 colored engravings. DR. HUNTER'S VADE MECUM, an original and popular treatise on Man and Woman, their Physiology, Functions, and Sexual Disorders of every kind, with Never-Failing Remedies for their speedy cure. The practice of Dr. Hunter has long been, and still is, unbounded, but at the earnest solicitation of numerous persons, he has been induced to extend his medical usefulness through the medium of his "Vade Mecum." It is a volume that should be in the hands of every family in the land, as a preventive of secret vices, or as a guide for the alleviation of one of the most awful and destructive scourges ever visited mankind. One copy, securely enveloped, will be forwarded free of postage to any part of the United States for 50 cents in post office stamps, or 3 copies for $1. Address, post paid, DR. HUNTER, No. 3 Dvision Street, New York. je 3—1y

The Diseases of Error.

(Les Maladies d'Erreur.)

I, John B. Ogden, M. D., author and publisher of the above work, do hereby promise and agree to send (free of charge) to any young man who will write for it, a sample for perusal. The proper study of mankind is MAN. This valuable work is issued and sent forth for the benefit of suffering humanity. It treats in simple language on all the diseases of Error, including Seminal Weakness, Nervous Debility, Indigestion, Melancholy, Insanity, Wasting Decay, Impotency, etc., etc.—giving safe, speedy, and effectual prescriptions for their permanent cure, together with much valuable information. All who favor me with a desire to read my work shall receive a sample copy by return mail, free of charge. Address JOHN B. OGDEN, M. D., June 3—3m No. 60 Nassau st, New York.

Cards.

WILLIAM G. CHOATE,
Attorney and Counsellor at Law,
251 Essex St., Salem.
Salem, August 6, 1862. tf

THOMAS M. STIMPSON,
Attorney and Counsellor at Law,
194 ESSEX STREET, SALEM.
Residence Lowell street, South Danvers.

B. C. PERKINS,
Attorney and Counsellor at Law,
South Danvers—Office in Allen's Building.

JOHN W. PROCTOR
Counsellor at Law,
Office near the Monument.

A. A. PUTNAM,
Attorney and Counsellor at Law,
CORNER MAPLE AND ELM ST.,
DANVERS.

ALFRED A. ABBOTT,
Attorney and Counsellor,
Office, No. 24 Washington Street, Salem; House, Main St., So. Danvers.

IVES & PEABODY,
Attorneys and Counsellors at Law,
Have removed their Office to
Rooms formerly occupied by Hon. Otis P. Lord,
NO. 27 WASHINGTON STREET, SALEM,
STEPHEN B. IVES, Jr. JOHN. B. PEABODY

SIDNEY C. BANCROFT,
Attorney and Counsellor at Law,
27 Washington Street, Salem.

H. O. WILEY,
Attorney and Counsellor at Law,
Office, Allen's Building, So. Danvers.

Claims against the Government for Bounty Back Pay, and Pensions, promptly attended to

A. S. CRAWFORD
Dentist,
No. 4 MAIN STREET, So. DANVERS SQUARE
Mechanical Dentistry Neatly Executed.
Teeth Extracted by Electricity without Extra Charge

W. L. BOWDOIN,
SURGEON DENTIST,
No, 208 Essex Street, Salem, (Opposite the Market
Residence—No. 57 Washington street.
jan 11—iy

F. POOLE
INSURANCE AGENT,
Allen's Building (up stairs),
Deeds drawn, and other common forms.

NEWMAN & SYMONDS,
DEALERS IN
Family Groceries, Flour & Grain,
HARD WARE AND CROCKERY,
Ready Made Clothing, Gents' Furnishing Goods, Hats, Caps, Boots, Shoes, &c.,
South Danvers Square, opp. Congregational Church
SAM'L NEWMAN. NATH'L SYMONDS.

S. C. & E. A. SIMONDS,
DEALERS IN
Crockery, China and Hardware; Paper Hangings; Solar and Entry Lamps; Paints, Oil, and Window Glass.
No. 32 Front street, Lawrence Place,
feb13 SALEM, MASS.

HENRY L. WHIDDEN,
HOUSE AND SIGN PAINTER
Glazier and Paperer,
Central Street, South Danvers.
All orders promptly and faithfully executed.
jan2-1y

E. S. FLINT,
DEALER IN
West India Goods, Country Produce,
No. 2 Main Street, South Danvers.

JESSE SMITH
No. 262 Essex Street, Salem,
Importer and Dealer in
Gold and Silver Watches,
MARINE CHRONOMETERS,
Aueroid Barometers, Spy Glasses, &c.

WILLIAM BLANEY,
HOUSE & SIGN PAINTER
Gruiner, Glazier and Paper Hanger.
164 MAIN STREET, Corner of Grove.
WINDOWS and BLINDS cheap for cash.
mch6-tf

JOHN MOULTON,
LIVERY STABLE,
Central Street, South Danvers.
Mr. M. will endeavor to keep up the good reputation of his stable, by still keeping good Horses and Carriages. jan 7, 1863.

SPRING STYLE
DRESS HATS,
NOW READY
AT JACKSON'S,
101 COURT STREET, BOSTON.
Also a large and varied assortment of CAPS and SOFT HATS, for Boys' and Men's wear. Those wishing articles in the above line would do well to call before purchasing.
JOSEPH A. JACKSON.
Boston, April 1, 1863. 3m

To Let.
A SMALL but pleasant and convenient Chamber Tenement, in the house formerly occupied by the late Wood Forness, upon the corner of Washington and Pleasant Streets. For particulars apply to
SIDNEY C. BANCROFT.
South Danvers, April 22. tf

JOHN FARRELL,
DRAPER AND TAILOR,
HAVING removed to his old place of business, 138 MAIN ST., South Danvers, (over Batchelder's Grocery Store), is prepared to Cut, Make, Repair, or furnish Garments, for Men and Youths at short notice.
South Danvers, April 1. tf

Crockery Ware.
A FULL assortment of China and Crockery Ware; Wooden Ware; Table Cutlery; Tea Trays; Britannia Ware and Silver Plated Ware, &c—for sale at the General Furnishing Store for Housekeepers, No. 32 Front street.
ap 22 S C & E A SIMONDS.

CARD PHOTOGRAPHS.
RAPHAEL'S Hours, Liberty, On the Beach, Evening, Prince and Princess, etc—at
may 13 G M WHIPPLE & A A SMITH'S

H. & H. G. HUBON,
WASHINGTON STREET, SALEM
Manufacturers of
Rose Wood, Mahogany, Black Walnut and Stained Wood
COFFINS and CASKETS.
MAKING this our exclusive business, we are ready at all times and at the shortest notice to furnish Grave Clothes of various styles, as well as Coffins and Caskets of the finest finish. Personal attention given, and delivered without extra charge to any of the neighboring towns. All orders by express or otherwise will receive prompt attention.
Black Walnut and White Wood Boards, Plank and Joists for sale.
dec 14—tf

GAYLE & CO.,
GENERAL COMMISSION MERCHANTS,
DEALERS IN
Flour, Grain and Produce,
Manufacturers' Agents for the sale of
Concentrated Leaven, Soda and Pearlash Saleratus, and Bi Carb. Soda.
PHILLIPS WHARF, ... Salem.

T. HARDY, JR.,
—Dealer in—
DOORS, SASHES, BLINDS,
Glazed Sash, Painted Blinds,
FENCE PALES, STAIR BALUSTERS, FRAMING PINS, &c.,
No. 26 FRONT STREET,
Salem, Jannary 14, 1863—6m

Salem and Danvers Aqueduct Co'y.
ALL persons using the water of the Salem and South Danvers Aqueduct are hereby notified that the water rents, for the six months ending May 1, 1863, are now due, and that they are required to pay the same, at the office of the Company, No 2 Sewall street, on the 1st day of May next. Should the bills remain unpaid for thirty days, the water will be stopped, in conformity to the regulations of the Company.
Office hours, from 9 to 1 o'clock, and from 2 to 5.
Per order of the Directors,
apr 1 WM. JELLY, Collector.

HEYLINGBERG'S
Hair Dressing Saloon,
24 MAIN ST., SOUTH DANVERS.
TARIFF OF PRICES:

Shaving,	6 cts.
Hair Cutting,	12 cts.
Champooing,	15 cts.
Champooing and Hair Cutting,	25 cts.

No more new Quarterly Customers taken.
In consequence of the scarcity of Change, 15 checks will be sold for one dollar.
South Danvers, Dec 17, 1862.

THOMAS DAVIS,
ADVERTISING AGENT
For the principal New England Newspapers, romains at the old stand, No. 23 Cornhill, Boston, where you will find him still loyal to the Constitution, the Laws, and Advertising.
Boston, Jan 29, 1862. tf

WALKING MADE EASY.
CORNS.
DR. P. KENISON,
CHIROPODIST,
215 Washington St., Boston,
Cures Hard and Soft Corns, Bunions, Cinb Nails, Nails penetrating the Flesh, Warts, &c., in a manner that will satisfy the most incredulous.

SPEED, COMFORT AND SAFETY!
FOR NEW YORK.
Norwich Steamboat Train.
The only Boats Landing at Jersey City.
CABIN Passage, $4.00; Deck Passage, $3.00. The new and elegant sixteen wheel cars of the steamboat express train leave the Boston & Worcester Railroad Station, Albany Street., at 5½ P. M., daily, connecting with the new steamers, (built expressly for this line,) CITY OF BOSTON, Capt. WILCOX, Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays; CITY OF NEW YORK, Capt. JEWETT, Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays, which (before proceeding to their Pier, No. 39 North River,) will touch at the wharf of the New Jersey Railroad at Jersey City, (Sundays excepted) thus enabling Southern Passengers to make sure connections with the First Southern Train, and at the same time avoid the great annoyance of the Ferry and Hack transportation in the crowded streets of New York. This insures ample time for Breakfast before the trains leave. Conductors D. F. WALLEN and W. F. BARTON accompany the passengers through.
Tickets, Berths and Staterooms secured at the Railroad Station, and at the Office of the Line, 79 Washington Street, Boston.
Through tickets to Philadelphia, Baltimore and Washington can be had at 79 Washington Street, Boston. WM. DICKEY, Jr., Agent.
Boston, January 7, 1863.

100,000 BARRELS OF THE LODI MANUFACTURING COMPANY'S
POUDRETTE,
111 COMMERCIAL ST., BOSTON, MASS.
This Company, with a capital of $150,000, the most extensive works of the kind in the world, and an experience in manufacturing of over 23 years, with a reputation long established, having also the exclusive control of all the night soil of the great city of New York, are prepared to furnish an article, which is, without doubt, the CHEAPEST AND VERY BEST fertilizer in market. It greatly increases the yield, and ripens the crop from two to three weeks earlier, at an expense of from three to four dollars per acre, with little or no labor. Also, FIFTY TONS of BONE TAFEU, being a mixture of bone and night soil ground fine, at $45 per ton—a superior article for grain, &c. A pamphlet containing all necessary information may be had free by addressing a letter to the LODI MANUFACTURING CO., No. 111 Commercial Street, Boston, Mass.
Price of POUDRETTE, $1.65 per harrell. Seven barrells and over delivered free of charge.

Chickering & Sons' Piano-Fortes.
Hallett & Cumston's Piano-Fortes.
Hallett & Davis's Piano-Fortes.
We select our Piano-Fortes from the above firms and warrant them to give perfect satisfaction Our terms are reasonable, and all persons in the city and neighboring towns can be accommodated by calling at 76 Federal street.
FOR SALE—Second-hand Piano-Fortes,—Chickering's and others.
ap 29 ANN R. BRAY.

D. W. BOWDOIN,
—ARTIST IN—
PHOTOGRAPHIC PICTURES.
Rooms No. 175 Essex st, Salem, [Downing's Block]
Portraits, Miniatures, and Views, by the Ambrotype, Daguerreotype, Photograph and Stereoscope process—finished in India Ink, Oil and Water colors.
☞ Particular attention paid to restoring old Daguerreotypes, and other pictures—and making enlarged copies, highly finished. may

NEW YORK WHITE LEAD.
2500 L New York White Lead;
Also Fores River White Lead—for sale by
mch 4 S C & E A SIMONDS.

WIRE GOODS.
WIRE Rat Traps; Broilers; Steamers; Sieves etc., just received at
S C & E A SIMONDS', 32 Front st.

DIARIES--1863-
VN excellent assortment at the lowest prices, for sale by G M WHIPPLE & A A SMITH.

NEW NEEDLE THREADER.
DOUBLE-ENDED, Excelsior Sewing Needle Threader and Worsted Lhreader combined—of great utility for near sighted or nervous people in threading needles, numbering from 4 to 12, and also Darning Needles.
Call and see them, at
mch 4 G M WHIPPLE & A A SMITH'S.

JUVENILE BOOKS,
A VERY large assortment for sale by
G M WHIPPLE & A A SMITH.

W. E. P. SMYTH,
Attorney and Counsellor at Law,
Proctor in Admiralty, and Commissioner of Deeds for the several States.
Frazier's Building, over the Post Office,
LYNN, MASS.
Having peculiar means for prosecuting, with accuracy and dispatch, all claims against Government, especially those for Bounty, Back Pay and Pensions, I have made this a specialty. Several months' residence in Washington enabled me to become thoroughly conversant with the routine of business in all the Departments, through which claims, of whatever nature, are passed, and also familiar with the practice in the U. S. Court of Claims; in addition to which I have a partner there resident, and a former partner in the Treasury Department, which advantages give me unexcelled facilities for the successful prosecution of business in any way connected with Government.

Important to Soldiers, Marines and their Heirs.
Persons enlisted in the U. S. Service, Land or Naval, since March 1, 1861, if disabled in the service, are entitled to Pension; Relatives of Persons deceased in the service are entitled to Bounty and Pension; in the following order:
1st. The Widow. 4th. The Mother.
2d. The Children. 5th The Brothers and Sisters collectively.
3d. The Father.
LETTERS OF ADMINISTRATION need not be taken out, in ordinary cases, to enable heirs of persons deceased in the service to obtain Pensions and Bounty.
When a discharge is granted for disability, in no case should the Oath of Identity on the back of the Discharge be filled up. The safest course is, to carry all papers at once to an Attorney, without tampering with them. All those who have claims, should present them without delay, as soon, the pressure will be so great upon the Auditor's Office, by reason of numerous applications, that applicants will be subjected to vexatious delay in getting their claims audited.
NO CHARGE MADE UNTIL CLAIMS ARE PAID.
Claims left at the Post Office, South Danvers, will be promptly forwarded.
Lynn, Aug 27, 1862—1y

CHARLES S. BUFFUM,
FURNISHING UNDERTAKER,
Central Street, South Danvers,
HAVING provided himself with a HEARSE, is prepared to attend Funerals in any of the neighboring towns, with one or a pair of Horses.
He keeps as good an assortment of
COFFINS AND CASKETS,
as can be found at any establishment, and at the lowest prices.
He will also attend to Laying Out, etc.
All orders from the neighboring towns met with prompt attention. jan 14

SLATING. SLATING.
GEORGE FOWLER & COMPA'Y,
NO. 2 ST. PETER COURT, SALEM, respectfully inform their friends and the citizens of this and neighboring towns and cities that they are prepared to execute all orders for Slating, promptly and faithfully.
Roofs covered with any description of Slates, or repaired at short notice.
All work undertaken will be warranted.
Address—Box 366, Salem Post Office.
Salem, January 28—1863. tf

PATTERSON S
LEATHER HANDLING MACHINE
THE undersigned are agents for the above machine. It can be seen in operation at Pinder & Brown's Tannery.
may 7—3m CLARK & GIDDINGS.

MESSRS. CLARK & GIDDINGS,
Wallis Street, South Danvers,
Are Agents for
GEORGE W. FISKE & CO.'S
PATENT EAVE TROUGHS CUTTERS, CONDUCTORS AND PIPE FOR DRAINS.
South Danvers, May 22, 1861.

R. C. MANNING & CO.
Successors to JOHN DIKE & CO.,
DEALERS IN
COAL, WOOD, BARK, HAY, &c,
183 DERBY STREET,
SALEM, MASS.
N. C. ROBBINS, R. C. MANNING.
oct17

FRANKLIN COAL.
JUST landed, a cargo of FRANKLIN COAL—the best in the world for domestic use.
POTTER, BACHELDER & CO.,
Successors to M. Black, Jr.
Danversport, May 6, 1861. tf

E. N. PRICE,
Manufacturer and Dealer in
HARNESSES,
SADDLES, BRIDLES,
AND WHIPS.
—ALSO—
Trunks, Valises and Traveling Bags.
All orders for Manufacturing and Repairing executed with promptness, and in the best manner.
237 Essex Street, Salem, Mass.
mch13-tf

THOMAS PINNOCK,
SLATER,
SALEM, MASS.
Orders may be left at his Yard, No. 25 Peabody St., or at his house No. 6 Hancock street, South Salem.
Roofs covered with any kind of Slates, according to order. All work warranted.
Salem, May 7, 1862. tf

CURRIER & MILLETT,
Dealers in

Furniture, Chairs,
MATTRESSES, FEATHERS, &c
259 & 261 ESSEX ST.
Salem, dec 14—1y

AARON T. LOWE,
DEALER IN
BOOTS, SHOES AND RUBBERS,
76 BOSTON STREET, 76.
aug 6 SALEM. tf

NOTICE.
THE subscriber being about to leave town for a few months, would take this opportunity to inform his customers and friends that his shop on Pleasant Street will be kept open during his absence by Mr. JOHN P. FRIEND, who will faithfully attend to any orders.
JAMES PERKINS.
South Danvers, Sept. 3, 1862.

E. R. PERKINS,
PHOTOGRAPHIC ARTIST
241 Essex Street, Salem.
Patent Ambrotypes, Stereoscopes,
Photographs, Sphercotypes, Melainotypes and patent leather Pictures, of various sizes, taken with all the improvements of the art. Portraits, Miniatures, Engravings, &c., accurately copied. Views taken when desired. jan 11

HILTON'S INSOLUBLE CEMENT,
UNIVERSALLY liked—for sale by
G M WHIPPLE & A A SMITH.

Dr. Ham's Spirit.

MUNROE'S
(LATE REED'S)
SOUTH DANVERS & BOSTON
RAILROAD EXPRESS.

Express leaves South Danvers at		16 1-2 a. m.
Freight " "	at	5 p. m.
Express leaves Boston at		3 1-2 p. m.
Freight " "	at	5 p. m.

OFFICE at FREIGHT DEPOT, South Danvers Square.
Order Box W. M. Jacobs' store, Main street.
EXPRESS OFFICE, in Boston, 5 Congress Square; Freight Office, 1 Fulton st.
Also an Order Box at 86 Pearl street.
Particular attention paid to removing Furniture, collecting Bills, Notes, Drafts, &c.
ARMY EXPRESS.
Packages received and sent forward daily for Baltimore, Fortress Monroe, Annapolis, Washington, Alexandria, and any other point where the different regiments are stationed.
WM. O. MUNROE,
South Danvers, may 13—tf

Eastern Railroad.

ON and after MONDAY, April 6, 1863, Trains will leave the Eastern Railroad Station, Washington street, Salem, daily, (Sundays excepted):
For Lynn and Boston, *5.50, 7, 8½, 9, *10, 11 a m., 1, *2½ 5½, 7½, p. m.
Beverly, 8½ am., 1, 3½, 3½, 5½, 6.55, 7½ p m.
W. Beach, Manl's, Gloucester, and Rockport, 8½ a m., 3½, 5½ p m.
Ipswich and Newburyport, 8½ a m., 1, 3½, 5½, 6.55 p m.
Amesbury, 8½ a m., 1, 5½ p m.
Portsmouth, 8½ a m., 3½, 5½ p m.
Portland, 8½ a m., 3½ p m.
AND FOR SALEM, FROM
Portland, 8½ a m., 3 p m.
Portsmouth, 7½, 11½ a m., 5½ p m.
Amesbury, 7.35, 9.40 a m., 5.50 p m.
Newburyport, 7, 8, 10 a m., 12 m, 6½ p m.
Ipswich, 7.25, 8.25, 10.25 a m., 12.25, 6.40 p m.
Gloucester, 7, 10, 10½ a m., 4.40 p m.
Manchester, 7.25, 10.25 a m., 4.55 p m.
Beverly, 6.50, 7.50, 8.50, 10.50 a m., 12.50, 5.20, 7.05 p m.
Lynn, 8.05, *9.05, 11.05 a m., 12.50, *1.35, 3.05, *3.35, *4.35, 5.35, *6.20, 5½, *7.35, *10.05 p m.
Boston, 7½, *8½, 10½ a m., 12½, 2½, 3, *4, 5, 6.10, *7, *9½.
*Via Saugus Branch.
†On or arrival from the East.
‡On Wednesdays this train leaves Boston at 11½ p m. and on Saturdays at 10½ p m.

MARBLEHEAD BRANCH.
Marblehead for Salem, 6½, 7½, 8½, 9½ a m., 12½, 1½, 5½, 6½, 7½ p m.
Salem for Marblehead, 7½, 8½, 9.25, 11½ a m., ½, 3½, 5½, 7, 7.50 p m.

SOUTH READING BRANCH.
Trains leave the South Reading Depot in Salem for Boston at 6½, 9.50 a m., 2.55, 4.55 p m
Boston for Salem, 7 a m., 12 m., 3, 5½ p m.

ESSEX RAILROAD.
Leave Salem for Lawrence and way stations, 7, 11½ a m., 4.50 p m.
Lawrence for Salem, 8 a m., 12.40, 6 p m.
Danvers for Salem, 8.40 a m., 1.20, 6.40 p m.
South Danvers for Salem, 7½ a m., 12½, 3½, 6½ p m.
J. PRESCOTT, Superintendent.
Boston, April 6, 1863.

Salem and Lowell Railroad.

ON and after MONDAY, April 6, 1863, Trains will run as follows:
Leave Lowell for Salem, 7.25 a m., and *2.45 p m.
Leave Salem for Lowell, *9 40 a m. and 5 55 p m.
Passengers are not allowed to carry baggage above $50 in value, and that personal, unless notice is given and an extra amount paid. Season tickets do not entitle the holder to take baggage.
*Freight Train with passenger car attached.
F. H. NOURSE, Local Superintendent.
April 6, 1863.

TAKE NOTICE.
THAT Dr. Ham's Dyspepsia Remedy has been before the public for the past ten years. And in that time the people who have used it will vouch for the benefit they have derived from it. The character of his article and its reputation can also be obtained from the dealers who sell it, or have sold it for any length of time, to both of those, Dr Ham refers and is willing to stand the test. And also challenges any new compound to produce the same results, let alone delicacy of flavor, of his INVIGORATING SPIRIT, which for ITS EFFECTS UPON THE BILE, A TORPED LIVER, LOW SPIRITS, or when the blood is affected as seen by SKIN DISEASES or its ACTION UPON THE KIDNEYS, in fact for any person who is run down by the wear and care of this world will find relief in this old and well tried remedy.

Astonishing.

TO Dr. Ham, who has modestly put before the public his DYSPEPSIA REMEDY for ten years past, to look back and see the nnmber of tremendous articles within that time, that have sprang up like a rocket, and gone down like the stick which guides it in its glorious assent. Some come out and claim to tell the public they use unknown Barks from South America, with any quantity of rum from the West Indias, &c. Dr Ham takes this opportunity to refer to the MEDICAL FACULTY here and everywhere that his article is in use, as to its qualifications, and challenges any one to produce a person, male or female, who has used it as directed, that will not speak favorable of it for DISORGANIZED STOMACH, Dyspepsia, loss of appetite, want of action of the Kidneys, as well as many other complaints that humanity are afflicted with.

To Ladies.

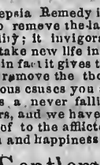
DR. HAM'S Dyspepsia Remedy is just the thing you require to remove the langour caused by weakness and debility; it invigorates the system, causes the blood to take new life in its varied course through the system, in fact it gives tone to the system and will relieve and remove the thousand irregularities that from various causes you are afflicted with. For Dyspepsia it is a never falling remedy, it has stood the test of years, and we have yet to hear of its failing to give relief to the afflicted thousands who have received health and happiness by its use.

To Gentlemen.

DR. HAM knows that you do not always pay much attention to the many different articles put before you in the paper, but we would refer you to our agents who you will find are the respectable merchants and dealers, in regard to the Invigorating Spirit; some of them have sold it for years, and know well the reputation it has amongst those who have used it in assisting nature to eradicate diseases. It will renovate the system, as it acts directly on the blood, removing all obstructions to the general health, will cure Liver Complaints, Dyspepsia, Nervous Affections, Sour Stomach, Headache, Weakness, Loss of Appetite, as well as obstruction in the Kidney, Bladder or Urinary Organs. Try it. We will guarantee you will be satisfied with the result.

General Depot, 62 Liberty Street, New York. Sold by Weeks & Potter, 154 Washington Street, M. S. Burr & Co., 26 Tremont Street, G. C. Goodwin & Co., 11 Marshall Street, Boston; and in South Danvers by George E. Meacom, T. A. Sweetser, D. P. Grosvenor, Jr., Main Street; and by Druggists everywhere.
Feb 29, 1863 1y

NEW ENGLAND
FERTILIZER DEPOT,
No. 111 Commercial St., Boston.
TO FARMERS AND TRADERS!
WE desire to call your attention to our stock of FERTILIZERS, having the largest supply and fullest assortment of reliable brands ever offered in this market. Our stock embraces
Coe's, Hoyt's, Rhodes } SUPER-PHOSPHATE LIME.
No. 1 PERUVIANGUANO.
GROUND BONE, [coarse and fine.]
BONE MEAL. LAND PLASTER.
FISH GUANO. BONE TAFEU.
LIME, CEMENT, &c., &c.
We are also Sole Agents for the
LODI MANUFACTURING CO.'S
POUDRETTE.
Get our terms before purchasing elsewhere. We sell at manufacturers' prices. Samples can be seen of all of the above; also a pamplet, with a Farmer's Almanac for 1863, may be had free on application by mail or otherwise.
J. M. & P. RICHARDS,
Sales Office 111 Commercial St., Boston, Mass.
apr 1—3m



E. S. FLINT,
Manufacturer and Dealer in
INNER SOLES,
AND SHOE STIFFENINGS OF ALL KINDS.
2 MAIN STREET, SOUTH DANVERS.

DIARIES FOR
1863. Every variety and style—all sizes—for sale at nov 26 G M WHIPPLE & A A SMITH'S, Sign of the Five Golden Books,

SOUTH DANVERS
POST OFFICE.
GENERAL MAIL ARRANGEMENT.
MAILS CLOSE
At 10 3-4 A. M., and 4 3-4 P. M.
MAILS DUE
At 9 1-2 A. M., and 3 P. M.
Post Office open (Sundays excepted) from 7 o'clock, A. M., till 8 P. M. Saturdays open till 8 1-2 P. M.
F. POOLE, P. M.
South Danvers, Oct. 1, 1862.

Poor Richard's Eye and Ear Water.
Prof. M. G. BROWN.
SCIENTIFIC ARTICLE ON THE EYE AND EAR.
Reader, allow me to call your attention to a fact which hitherto you have not been acquainted with, namely, that there is not a sound eye in the land. The eyes are the only members of the body totally neglected; there is nothing done for the eye; its wants are neither studied or regarded. This untiring servant is the first in action at birth, and the last at death, yet it seems to pass even common observation.
Notwithstanding all the ignorance and neglect of the eye, it is unquestionably true that every department of the human system is dependent on it for life and health.
The Divine Machinator has placed 8000 tubes and glands around the eyes, through which the saltish fountain (same as supplies the tear) is designed to pass as dew, finding its way to every crevice and nook in the flesh, whose chief tendency is to mucus. This fountain is to the body what dew is to the plants. The flesh can only be kept free from mucus (which is the precursor of disease) through the tubes and glands around the eyes being keep open, allowing the teary, saltish fountain to pass freely forward. If the laws of mind and body are disregarded or insulted, these faithful sentinels shut up like a sensitive plant, thus refusing to pass this life, giving dew to the parched flesh, whereby the entire machinery of the human body can alone find its natural moisture. When this fountain is cut off, the system is open to every kind of disease, which first begins with small streaks of blood-shot at the bottom of the ball of the eye; these are streaks of death if not removed. Examine your eyes and you will find these streaks moving over the white of the eye towards the pupil; generally the eye gets scumy and glassy; the ball turns a green or yellowish color, this is a sure indication of the following diseases (which are solely caused by the moisture being cut off from the system): Nervousness, headache, earache, deafness, loss of hair, neuralgia, rheumatism, blotches on the face and skin, diptheria, sore throat, bronchitis, catarrah, soreness of the chest, decay of the lungs, deprivation of the fluids; these, with all other diseases, are caused as above described. One stoppage leads to another, until disease destroys the system.
To secure moisture for a patient is the only hope of the physician. Benjamin Franklin has immortalized himself by such sayings as, an ounce of prevention is better than a pound of cure.
Reader, if you desire to be saved from the kindred diseases which make life a burden, then create an appetite in your eyes by giving them a drink of Poor Richard every morning immediately after you wash, and just before retiring at night. Do not say—Let well enough alone; consider the lilies of the field, they receive the life giving dew while they are in perfect health—go thou and do likewise.
Please read the following letter from the Rev. P. S. Henson, pastor of the Broad Street Baptist Church:
Philadelphia, Oct. 17, 1862.
From injuries received in my right eye when a boy, a chronic inflammation had been produced, in consequence of which I suffered constant martyrdom. Every moment of my waking life was embittered, and I was frequently unable to sleep at night.
A variety of remedies had been resorted to without success, and I entertained the purpose, as a last resort, of having the ball taken out of its sockett in the hope of finding thus relief.
In the meanwhile, most providentially I noticed one day in a shop window a bottle of Poor Richard's Eye Water. I had never heard of it before, but determined to try it—and did with the most delightful results. In a very few days the painful irritation was removed—I could bear the strongest light, and went forth as it were to the enjoyment of a new life. I now keep a bottle of it always in the house, and if my eye seems at all disposed to anoy me, I give it a dose, and that is an end of it. I take occasion to say further, that my wife used to suffer severely at times from protracted pain in and over her eyes, and she has found Poor Richard's Eye Water a sovereign specific in her case, giving her almost instant relief.
Grateful to God for the benefit I have personally received, I cannot but recommend the preparation most cordially to all who have been sufferers like myself.
P. S. HENSON,
Pastor of the Broad Street Baptist Church.
Residence 1430 Poplar St., Philadelphia.
Thousands of certificates could be published, of the most remarkable cures on record. It is a perfect restorer of weak sight and dim vision; it cures Deafness, Catarrh, Sore Throat, prevents Loss of Hair, with all kindred diseases.
Directions.—Bathe with a glass tube, at least the ear (many bathe the eyes with the finger). Ask the druggist for the tube—it costs 6 cents.
Poor Richard's Eye Water sells at 25 cents per bottle.
Sold by George E. Meacom, South Danvers, and Druggists everywhere. Weeks & Potter, wholesale agents, Boston.
MRS. M. G. BROWN,
410 Arch St. Philadelphia, Proprietor.

Are you Insured?
THE subscriber would respectfully call your attention to the fact that he is fully prepared to effect INSURANCE AGAINST FIRE, to any amount, at current rates, on
Dwelling Houses, Barns and their contents, Stores, Stocks of Goods, Furniture, &c. &c., and on buildings in process of erection,
And that he is the authorized Agent for the following responsible Stock and Mutual Companies, viz:
Thames Insurance Co., (Stock,) Norwich, Conn.
Capital—$500,000. Amos W. Prentice, Pres. Oliver F. Rice, Sec'y
Conway Insurance Company, (Stock) Boston.
Capital and Surplus—$260,000.
James F. Whitney, Pres. David C. Rogers, Sec'y.
City Insurance Company, (Stock) Boston.
Capital—$150,000. Samuel P. Hayward, Pres. Austin W. Benton, Sec'y
Also, will effect Insurance on the LIVES OF INDIVIDUALS, for one year, seven years, or for the whole term of life, in the Massachusetts Mutual Life Ins. Co., Springfield, Mass.
Capital and Assets—$373,000.
Caleb Rice, Pres. D. B. Bacon, Sec'y.
William Mack, M. D., Medical Examiner.
WM. ARCHER, Jr.,
18 Washington st. and 34 Front st., Salem.
ej b20-1

E. F. BURNHAM,
SOLE AGENT FOR
SARGENT & CO.S'
MAGIC SOAP
For South Danvers & Salem.
OFFICE—Central St., opp. Lowell Depot, at Burnham's Express Office, So. Danvers.
Price $3.50 per 100 Lbs.
Orders sent by mail or otherwise to So. Danvers will be promptly attended to. tf-oct3

WM. C. HENDERSON,
MANUFACTURER OF
PLAIN AND FANCY
PAPER BOXES,
No. 235 ESSEX STREET,
Sign of "Nest of Boxes,"
July 23 SALEM. tf

SUMMER ARRANGEME
TO LYNN & BOSTO
BY
OMNIBUS & HORSE C
W. F. BURNHAM'S
Line of Omnibuses will leave the Lynn and Omnibus Office, No. 6 Allen's Building, Sou vers, passing down Main Street, through Wash Street, to Lynn, daily.
Leave South Danvers at 7 50 o'clock, A. M and 4 50 P. M.
Leave Lynn (Horse Car Depot, West Lynn) A. M., 2 40 and 6 40 P. M.
Horse Cars leaving Scollay's Building, Court at 8 15 A M., 1 15 and 5 15 P. M., will meet th buses at Lynn, at the above named hours, passengers to South Danvers.
Sunday Arrangements.
Leave S. Danvers at 7.50 a.m., and

South Danvers Wizard.

VOL. IV. SOUTH DANVERS, MASS., WEDNESDAY, JUNE 24, 1863. NO. 2

THE SOUTH DANVERS WIZARD
Is published every WEDNESDAY, at Allen's Building, South Danvers Square.
TERMS—Two Dollars a year.
ADVERTISEMENTS inserted at reasonable rates.

CHARLES D. HOWARD,
EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR.

Selected Poetry.

"ABIDE WITH US."

To our conception there is great beauty in the ensuing fervid lines. We know nothing of the author, save that they are said to be by a lady. Read it before you go to church on Sunday:

Tarry with me, O my Saviour,
For the day is passing by;
See! the shades of evening gather,
And the night is drawing nigh;
Tarry with me! tarry with me!
Pass me not unheeded by.

Many friends were gathered round me,
In the bright days of the past;
But the grave has closed above them,
And I linger here the last:
I am lonely; tarry with me,
Till the dreary night is past.

Dimmed for me is earthly beauty;
Yet the Spirit's eye would fain
Rest upon Thy lovely features;
Shall I seek, dear Lord! in vain?
Tarry with me, O, my Saviour!
Let me see Thy smile again.

Dull my ear to earth-born music;
Speak Thou, Lord, in words of cheer;
Feeble, tottering my foot-step,
Sinks my heart with sudden fear;
Cast Thine arms, dear Lord! around me,
Let me feel Thy presence near.

Faithful Memory paints before me
Every deed and thought of sin;
Open Thou the blood-filled fountain,
Cleanse my guilty soul within:
Tarry, thou forgiving Saviour,
Wash me wholly from my sin.

Deeper, deeper grow the shadows,
Paler now the glowing west:
Swift the night of death advances—
Shall it be the night of rest?
Tarry with me, O my Saviour!
Lay my head upon Thy breast.

Feeble, trembling, fainting, dying,
Lord, I cast myself on Thee;
Tarry with me through the darkness;
While I sleep, still watch by me.
Till the morning, then awake me,
Dearest Lord, to dwell with thee!

Selected.

[From the London Court Gazette.]

AN ADVENTURE OF CHARLES II.

There is not in the British Isles a fairer valley than the Vale of Dolgelly, or one that combines sweetness and magnificence in such perfect and varied beauty. But when the storm sweeps from the hills, and to the darkness of night is added the gloomy shadow of the mountain—when every stream becomes a torrent, and mingles its roar with the howls of the blast; when the vapory clouds hang in blackness, and shroud not only the stars, but the twinkling cottage light, there are few places which create such feelings of dreariness and desolation.

It was even in such a night that a single horseman urged his strong black steed along the rough pathway that formed the mountain pass—now clattering upon the smooth-worn rock—now snorting and plunging up to the saddle girth in the splashing stream; again, aided and urged by hand and spur, toiling up the rugged bank, and then bounding forward with unabated vigor over the broken heath, in the direction of a more level country that stretched to the plains of Shropshire.

"What, ho! sir stranger" cried a deep-toned voice, as the stout steed extricating himself by a violent effort from a swamp, was again moving forward.

"What, ho! sir stranger, whither so fast?" repeated the voice, as three men well mounted issued from the shadow of some scattered trees, and joined the traveller, who at the second challenge reined up his steed, and laid his hand upon his holster.

"Who be ye that inquire?" he demanded. "I have small time or pleasure to answer such greetings that bode me hindrance."

The party who addressed him gave a loud laugh. "By Becket's bones, fair sir, ye speak as though it were a matter of thine own choice to answer us or no."

"Ay, marry, and so it is. Nay, friend, handle not my bridle," said the horseman, drawing a pistol from his saddle.

"Hold, hold!" cried the other speaker, "an ye be wise, trifle not with such trinkets as these. Put up thy pistol and thou shalt know thy company."

"Nay, by heaven, it were more fitting right, good will to see them, were it but to repay thee for thy suspicions."

"By my faith, I doubt it not, for thou seemest a cock of game. But thou art in better company than thou couldst have bargained for. Here at my side rides the worthy and worshipful Obadiah Strong-in-faith, captain of certain pious dragoons in the service of the state; and to his left, is the devout Zacharias Trust-in-good-works, an officer in the same troop, marvellous and edifying disputants, as thou may'st have an opportunity of hearing. For myself, I am known by the carnal name of Richard Scapegrace, and am also an officer in the army of the Parliament. Now, who or what art thou, in the devil's name?"

"A soldier of fortune, and an adherent to the king."

"A long hair cavalier—be it so, and whither art thou bound?"

"To the castle of Sir David Tudor."

"That thou can'st not reach to-night; you have many a long mile to ride, and your steed pants and moves but dully. What say ye to passing the night at yonder hosterly, where ye see the light?"

The other paused ere he replied, and as he hesitated, one of his companions wheeled from the left, a movement that passed not unobserved by the cavalier, and with somewhat sorry grace, he declared his willingness to visit the hosterly.

"By our lady! comrades of mine," said he, "you have brought me into a fortalice instead of a hosterly."

"It is, in truth, somewhat of both, and, as occasion requires, serves for either; but that little recketh, thou shall find good entertainments, and thy steed shall be cared for."

It was now too late to retreat, and the cavalier dismounting, and giving his horse to the groom, entered the building, followed by his companions. He had no sooner seated himself than Scapegrace again addressed him. "Sir Cavalier, you must give up your papers and arms, and when Major Holdenburg returns, and is satisfied with thee and thine errand, in the morning thou may'st depart without further questions."

"By St. George of England!" said the cavalier, starting to his feet, "this is churlish courtesy. You have invited me hither, and now—"

"Small words will suffice," replied the other. "We have orders to guard the mountain passes, and to arrest all suspicious persons. So give up thy papers and weapons at once, and save us the trouble of taking them by rougher means."

The eyes of the cavalier flashed with anger at the cool, determined manner of the roundhead, and he seemed as if disposed forcibly to effect his retreat; but a moment's reflection showed him the madness of such an attempt, and unbuckling his belt, he flung his sword on the table, threw down his pistols, and declaring he had no papers to submit, gloomily resumed his seat.

There was something in the air of the youth that repelled closer communication with his captors, and made them reluctant—they knew not why—to come to extremities; they forbore, therefore, to search or lay hands on him, but in a more respectful tone invited him to partake of the cheer which had just been laid on the board.

"Ah!" cried Scapegrace, "here comes the daughter of our host, fair Ellen Wynne, and I warrant for no other object than to see the young cavalier; for well I wot, Ellen, thou comest but rarely amongst us."

She blushed at the words, and the cavalier, dashing his heavy locks from his brow, gazed with admiration on the maiden before him. Long tresses of auburn fell in silken luxuriance over her tight boddice—her hazel eyes brightened with her smile, the lurking sweetness of which played around her lips, that, parting, showed teeth of pearly whiteness—her light and graceful figure—the fawn-like timidity of her approach, and the look of interest which she gave the young stranger, might have aroused the attention of a more apathetic gallant than he.

"By mine honor, comrade," cried he, you spoke well in saying that the daughter of our host was fair. Wilt thou judge me, pretty maiden?—for on a soldier's word, I have never had such a cup-bearer before."

The maiden touched the goblet with her lips, and the youth, raising it in his hand, exclaimed—"I drink to thee, fair Ellen, and good, leal and true may he be who kneels at the altar with such a knightly boon or courtesy," added he, rising from his seat and drawing a sparkling ring from his finger, which he placed on that of the blushing girl, and then with the customary gallantry of the times drew her towards him and kissed her cheek. But he had whispered something in Ellen's ear that drove the blood from her face and she stood as if petrified.

The din of revelry was over in the hostlery, the soldiers slumbered on the benches, and the prisoner sat alone in the narrow chamber in which his humble pallet had been spread. The dull tread of the guard, the howl of the blast, and the roar of the mountain torrent, fell cheerless on his ear, the sickly flame of the lamp seemed like the waning of hope, and the loneliness of the hour added melancholy to his musings.

"Fool that I was," he exclaimed, "to have left the open heath for this paltry prison-house, where I am at the mercy of my deadliest enemies. Would to God I had my good steed under me and the sword in my grasp, these prick-eared dogs would hardly again wile me into their lure. Fool! fool! that I was," he repeated, as chafing like a prisoned tiger, he hurriedly paced the apartment. A light step was heard approaching, the cavalier suddenly paused; immediately the door of his apartment was cautiously opened, and Ellen Wynne, pale and agitated, and bearing a small lamp, glided noiselessly to his side. Her long hair hung dishevelled over her heaving bosom, her eyes were glistening with tears, and her hand trembled as she placed the lamp upon the hearth.

"My fair Ellen," cried the cavalier, a flush of joy brightened his features, "I knew thou would'st not betray me."

"Betray thee!" cried the maiden, clasping her hands, "never! never! but alas! to aid thee exceeds my power!"

"Say not so," replied the cavalier; "the eyes, my pretty Ellen, that can break hearts can undo iron bars. Is there no soldier of the guard that calls himself the lover of Ellen Wynne?"

"Alas!" said Ellen in a tone of despondency, "he is far from here, and it would go hard with him if he fell into the hands of the troops of Cromwell.—But I have sent a messenger to him, and were you once beyond these walls you would find Edgar Vaughan and a true and trusty escort."

"I shall have small need of his services if I escape not ere Major Holdenburg arrives, to whom I cannot be unknown. S'death, Ellen, could'st thou but procure me a brand, I would even—"

Here a suppressed scream from the maiden caused the cavalier to pause, and turning to the door, he perceived the dark look of the soldier, who at supper had so closely watched him, fixed scowling and steadily upon the maiden and himself. At that instant the sound of advancing horsemen was heard. "They come! they come!" cried Ellen, in terror, grasping with hands the arm of the cavalier. Then turning to the soldier, "Ralph, Ralph!" she cried in an imploring tone, "would you betray your king?"

"Ha!" cried the soldier, in a voice of exultation, "it is even as I thought." But as he spoke, the royal prisoner sprung suddenly upon him, wresting his dagger from his hand, and held it gleaming before his eyes, exclaiming, "One word miscreant, and thou diest!"

"The King! the King!" shouted the struggling soldier, extricating his arm and drawing a pistol from his belt; but his active antagonist on the instant struck his dagger in his throat, and hurled him down the narrow staircase.

"The King! King," echoed again the horseman without, as the clashing of arms was followed by the ring of a peal of musketry, and ere its tingle left the ear a loud voice was heard to cry, "Surrender to the soldiers of King Charles!"

"'Tis he," cried Ellen, starting up with a sudden animation from the dropping into which she had shrunk with terror, "'tis Edgar!"

"Surrender, dogs of Cromwell, shouted the same voice, as the pike-butts of the horsemen thundered at the door.

It was soon burst open. Startled, weakened and dispirited, the assailed offered but feeble resistance, and yielded themselves prisoners to the adherents of the King. But they sought not thus to profit by the surrender. Rushing in, Edgar Vaughan caught Ellen in his arms; then recognizing the King, doffing his bonnet and bending his knees, he exclaimed, "Mount, mount, my liege! the passes are beset, and the beacons are burning on the hills of Shropshire and

THE FIREMAN'S SONG.

BY MARY A. DENNISON.

The grey light of morning
Breaks on the walls;
There's the sign of warning—
The fire bell calls;
The streets are all frozen,
Our couches are warm,
'Tis a hard wind to battle,
And a wild winter storm:—
But rattle bells, ring bells,
Burn flame and brand,
We are the gallant firemen,
Always on hand.

To us 'tis no matter
What the weather say,
From bed, bench, shop, we scatter,
At night or noonday;
With hearts full of daring,
We hear our leaders shout,
And no one asks his neighbor
If his mother knows he's out.
Then rattle bells, &c.

Cheery toil the brakemen!
Up the ladder goes!
Like a black snake writhing,
Seems the long hose;
Frost benumbs our fingers,
Still we toil away,
Strange that men should thus be Working to play.
Rattle bells, &c.

Red glare the heavens
Paling the moon;
Oh! to see yon noble pile
Perish so soon!
Stand by the wall, boys,
While there's life to save—
It totters—falls—oh! heaven,
It makes a fireman's grave.
Ring bells, solemnly
Smoulder flame and brand,
There's one of our gallant boys
No more on hand.

Bear him off gently,
There'll be sorrow to-night—
His wife will gaze upon him,
With brow all wild and white;
But he perished on duty,
A HERO he died,—
One tear—then to work, boys!
The ruin spreads wide.
Rattle bells, &c.

TORTURE IN COCHIN CHINA.

I went on one occasion to see two unfortunate men tortured. They were led out with ropes round their necks. The young man was crying bitterly, for he knew that the flower of his youth would be withered ere sunset. He knew that his strong and active limbs, which bore him easily and firmly along, would be this day so crippled, that walking would be either an impossibility, or cause him such pain as to be worse than decrepid old age; that his youth's blood, flowing freely in his veins, must this day be sweated by red-hot irons; that he had to undergo excruciating torments. And all this was only on suspicion of having committed a crime, of which perhaps he was innocent. What must this poor young man's feelings have been!

They were bound hand and foot, and pegged to the ground with strong pegs, preparatory to being flogged. In front, squatted upon a platform, was the judge, a mandarin of high rank, with four other mandarins, and a Budhist priest around him. These were to see that the torture was performed effectually. To the right was a small smith's forge, with a fire lighted, and blown by a bellows in the shape of a square box, having an air-tight slide in the inside, which worked by the hand like a piston, forcing out air through two square holes in the side against the fire. By each of the prisoners stood four soldiers; two at the head and two at the feet. To the left were twelve soldiers drawn up in line, holding long spears mounted on bamboo poles.

The torturer was a cadaverous-looking man, with a scoundrel-looking aspect, hook nose, tall, and ghastly lean. He was dressed in fawn-colored clothes, and had a black sugar-loaf hat on his head. By his side stood two satellites, dressed in similar clothing, and dangling heavy chains, pincers, long irons, and other instruments of torture in their hands; looking as if they had been selected for these offices on account of their hideous and forbidding aspect.

At a word from the mandarin, who was on the platform, the twelve soldiers came to the charge with their spears. The torturers ran to the forge, with two pairs of tongs having broad ends, like those used to press women's hair, only much larger, and capable of retaining the heat a long time. These were placed in the forge, and the two boys, or satellites, commenced blowing the fire with the box bellows.

A procession came forward, consisting of a Budhist priest, with some incense sticks burning in his hands, accompanied after admonishing the prisoners, asked them if they would confess their crime. The young man cried pitifully, begging for mercy. The old man said nothing, nor showed any emotion whatever; he knew well enough it was useless. Presently the priest and three mandarins left them, and returned to the judge, who called out again loudly; when the soldier who stood by the prisoners stripped them of their nethermost garments, and laid them bare. The judge gave another order, and four soldiers with rattans ran on each side of the prisoners, flogging them most barbarously. One stood at the head, on the right hand side, and one at the feet, on the left side, two to each prisoner, their rattans converging across the persons of the poor wretches.

The young man cried bitterly for mercy; but the old man only groaned in his agony. The flogging was so severe that in a few moments the flesh rose in pustules, which soon burst open from other and repeated blows. Each of them received about one hundred lashes, when the judge called out to cease. The priest and three mandarins came forward in the same manner as before, to ask them to confess, but by this time the young man had become insensible. The old man denied the crime still. The procession returned to the judge, who called out again, when two soldiers ran forward, each with a pair of scissors, and cropped off the prisoners' hair. This being finished, the judge gave another order, when the torturers ran to them with red-hot tongs; the priest and two mandarins came also, the former with a cup full of some spirit, a few drops of which he spilt on the hot irons and then waved his hands to the judge, who gave the final order, when the two satellites seized the red-hot pincers, flourished them in their hands, sprang forward, and clasped them firmly on the thickest part of the left thigh of each prisoner. The muscles trembled with pain all over their bodies, both groaned fearfully, and at intervals gave a loud shriek. The flesh swelled with the heat of the irons, and a blue, steamy smoke arose, attended with a low crackling, or rather fizzing noise, causing a very offensive odor. When the irons had been on two minutes, they were taken off, and oh! what a disgusting sight the wounds were!—Narrative of a Seaman's Adventures.

A SPLENDID DESCRIPTION.

One Paul Denton, a Methodist preacher in Texas, advertised a barbeque, with better liquor than usually furnished.—When the people were assembled, a desperado in the crowd cried out—"Mr. Paul Denton, your riverence has lied.—You promised us not only a good barbeque but better liquor. Where is the liquor?"

"There!" answered the missionary in tones of thunder, and pointing his motionless finger at the matchless double spring, gushing up in two strong columns, with a sound like a shout of joy from the bosom of the earth.

"There!" he repeated, with a look terrible as the lightning, while his enemy actually trembled on his feet; "there is the liquor which God, the Eternal, brews for all his children!

"Not in the simmering still, over smoky fires, choked with poisonous gases, and surrounded with the stench of sickening odors and rank corruptions, doth your Father in heaven prepare the precious essence of life, the pure cold water. But in the green glade and grassy dell, where the red deer wanders, and the child loves to play, there God brews it; and down, low down in the deepest valleys, where the fountain murmurs and the rills sing; and high upon the tall mountain tops, where the naked granite glitters like gold in the sun, where the storm-cloud broods and the thunder storms crash, and away far out on the wide, wild sea, where the hurricane howls music, and the big waves roar the chorus, sweeping the march of God—there he brews it, that beverage of life, health-giving water. And everywhere it is a thing of beauty, gleaming in the dew drops; singing in the summer rain; shining in the ice-gem, till the trees all seem turned to living jewels; spreading a golden veil over the setting sun, or a white gauze around the midnight moon; sporting in the cataract; sleeping in the glacier; dancing in the hail-shower; folding its bright snow-curtains softly about the wintry world; and weaving the many-colored iris, that seraph's zone of the sky, whose warp is the rain-drop of earth, whose woof is the sunbeam of heaven, all checked over with celestial flowers, by the mystic hand of refraction. Still always it is beautiful—that blessed life-water! No poison bubbles on its brink; its foam brings not madness and murder; no blood stains its liquid glass; pale widows and starving orphans weep not burning tears in its depths; no drunkard's shrieking ghost from the grave curses it in words of eternal despair!—Speak out, my friends, would you exchange it for demon's drink, alcohol?"

A shout like the roar of a tempest answered—

"No!"

THE PRINTER.

Among the race of human kind,
Some go before and some behind;
But mind them well and you will find,
Not hindmost is the Printer.

The lessons which you learned at school,
That you might not grow up a fool,
Had all, in scientific rule,
Been published by the Printer.

How do your Presidents and Kings
Govern so many troubled things?
'Tis by the types, the screws and springs,
Belonging to the Printer.

The farmer and mechanic, too,
Would sometimes scarce know what to do,
Could they not get a certain view
Of work done by the Printer.

The doctor cannot meet the crooks
Of all the ailments, till he looks
Upon the pages of the books
Supplied him by the Printer.

The lawyer for a wit has passed,
But high as his head may be cast,
He would but be a dunce at last,
Were it not for the Printer.

Who is it that so neatly tells
Of various goods the merchant sells,
Inviting all the beaux and belles—
Who is it but the Printer!

The classes of the human race,
Of different size, of different face,
Appear in this and EVERY place
How obvious to the Printer!

EYES.

A knowledge of the structure and functions of the eye has been prescribed as a cure for Atheism. I am not certain that the prescription would prove generally efficacious among the fools who say in their hearts, "there is no God." But certainly the evidences of skill and wisdom are so apparent in the mechanism of the human eye, as to make manifest the stupid depravity of those who fail to see that a divine hand was employed in its creation. Nor is the human eye more curious or beautiful than the organs of vision of many of the lower orders of animals. The investigations of the anatomist, especially when aided in his studies by the microscope, make us acquainted with a world of wonderful facts. Crabs have their eyes "placed at the extremity of shelly foot-stalks, which are themselves on moveable hinges, capable of being projected at pleasure, moved in different directions, and packed away, when not in active use, in certain grooves hollowed out expressly for them in the front margin of the shell." The garden snail carries his eyes at the extremity of a pair of horns. Most persons suppose the scallop to be blind, but it has eyes by the score, and every one of them bright as an emerald, and beautifully set. A single dragon-fly, according to the computation of naturalists, has more than twenty thousand eyes, and splendid ones they are. The spider has fewer eyes—generally not more than eight in number—but they are perfect in form, finely set, and almost as brilliant as diamonds. The eye of the eel is protected by a tough transparent covering that enables him to thrust his head through sand and mud without at all impairing his vision. The fish-hawk has eyes that are both telescopic and microscopic, to fit him for the life he leads. Animalculæ, too minute to be seen by the human eye, are found, when examined by a magnifying glass, to have well-defined and useful organs of vision. Solomon seems to have made the eye a study, and frequently refers to it in his writings. He warns us against eating the bread of him that hath an evil eye—that is, of the covetous hypocrite who grudges his guests the entertainments to which he has invited them. In the East, the words of Solomon would receive a more literal application; for to this day there are whole nations that have full faith in the malignant potency of an evil eye. Thomson tells us that the Syrians stand in such dread of this blight, that they resort to countless charms to ward it off. If you only look at a beautiful child, you must repeat the name of the Prophet of God, or of the Virgin, with a prayer for protection. If you extol the beauty of a horse, you must immediately spit on it; and the same is sometimes done to a child, though most persons are content to blow in its face and pron a charm. Bright and striking figu made on fig trees to draw attentio the fruit, lest it should be blaste too steadfast look. We read haughty and lofty eyes, of eyes th wanton, of the eyes of a fool that the ends of the earth, and of the the spouse in Canticle, which are l

"fishpools in Heshlow, by the Bath-rabbin."—R. M. Hatfield.

ARTEMUS WARD AMONG T SPIRITS.

The cumpany then drew rou
table and the Sircle kommenst t
Thay axed me ef thare was anyb the Sperret land which I wood converse with, I sed of Bill Tom who was onct my partner in th biznis, was sober, I shood like varse with him a few periods.
"Is the Sperret of William Tom present?" sed I of the long hared and thare was three knox on the t
Sez I, "William, how goze i Sweetness?"
"Pretty ruff, old hoss," he repl
That was a pleasant way we addressin each other when he was flesh.
"Air you in the show buzini liam?" sex I.
He sed he was. He sed he an Bunyan was travelin with a side s connection with Shakspeer, Jon
Co.'s Circus. He sed Old Bun (
Mr. Bunyan,) stird up the anim ground the orgin while he tendi Occashunally Mr. Bunyan sung song. The circus was doin middli
Bill Shakspeer had made a grate h "Old Bob Ridley," and Ben Jons delitin the peple with his trooly g of hossmanship without saddul or Thay was rehersin "Dixey's Lan expected it wood knock the peple Sez I, "William, my luvly fre you pay me that 13 dollars you owe
He sed no, with one of the mo
The Sircle sed he had gone.
you gone, William?" I axed.
"Raythe," he replide, and I kn was no use to pursoo the subjeck
I then called fur my farther.
"How's things, daddy?"
"Middlin, my son, middlin."
"Ain't you prowd of your boy?"
"Scarcely."
"Why not, my parient?"
"Becawz you hav gone to wr the noospapers, my son. Bimeb lose all your character for trooth a rasserty. When I helpt you i show biznis I told you to dign perfeshun. Litteratoor is low."
He also statid that he was do dlin well in the peanut biznis & putty well, tho' the climate was warm.
When the Sircle stopt thay
what I thawt of it.
Sez I, "my frends, I've been show biznis now goin on 23 year.
a artikil in the Constitooshun
United States which sez in eff everybody may think jest as pleazes, & them is my sentimen hare. You dowtlis beleeve this doctrin while I think it is a litt
Jest so soon as a man becums out and out Sperret rapper he le workin, lets his hare grow all fase & commensis spungin his of other peple. He eats all t shunaries he can find & goze chock full of big words, scarein t min folks & little children & d
the peece of mind of evry fam enters. He don't do nobody no is a cuss to socierty & a pirit o peple's corn beef barrils. Ad yu say abowt the doctrin to b must say the reglar Sperret r them as makes a biznis on it—a the most ornery set of cusses I kountered in my life." So say on my surtoot and went home.
Respectfully Yures,
ARTEMUS W

☞ One Sunday a young ge was taken into custody at Eaton, ing at cards, for which he was fi who, while the master was in t flagelation, gave several kicks an gles on which the master said, sir, you shuffle and I'll cut."

☞ Fanny Fern says that it i sensible a move to get married courting, as to attempt to suc business without advertising.

The Wizard.

CHAS. D. HOWARD, EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR.

WEDNESDAY, JUNE 24, 1863.

EDITORIAL.—We are happy to inform our readers that we have secured the editorial assistance of ARTHUR A. PUTNAM, ESQ., who will take under his special charge all matters of particular and local interest in Danvers. By this arrangement we not only secure to our general readers the productions of a ready writer of no common ability, but we shall be enabled to render our journal especially attractive, if not almost indispensable, to the people of our mother town.

RECEPTION OF COMPANY C.

We hear from all quarters of preparations to receive, with becoming marks of respect, those soldiers whose time of enlistment has expired and who now return to their families and friends. We have no fears that our town will be behind other communities in its recognition of the services of its sons. The effect of a joyous and cordial welcome will be good to those who receive and those who bestow it. More than this, it will cheer the spirits of those of our citizens who are still in the army and who are destined to receive, on their return, STILL GREATER HONORS, in some proportion to the hardships and dangers they have encountered and their long time of service.

We know that our company in the 5th Regiment has been exceedingly fortunate in not losing a man by disease or casualty. We know too that it has had hard marches, it has had privations, and it has performed every duty that has been required of it. What more could it do?

We all remember the joyous excitement which prevailed at its departure, when it seemed almost our whole male population followed it to camp at Wenham. We gave good speed to the departing guests—let us welcome them cordially on their return.

A large meeting of citizens was held at the Town Hall on Thursday evening last, which was organized as follows:—Hon. Henry Poor, Chairman; F. Poole, Secretary.

Hon. A. A. Abbott made some remarks in relation to the object of the meeting, which was to adopt measures to give a public welcome to the South Danvers Company C, of the 5th Regiment.

On motion of Mr. Abbott, the following committee (nominated by the chair,) was chosen to report what arrangements should be made to carry into effect the object of the meeting:—A. A. Abbott, James P. King, Thos. E. Proctor, Moses A. Shackley, Isaac Hardy.

The committee retired and reported that the whole arrangements be made by a committee of the following gentlemen, who should have full power to act in behalf of the citizens:—A. A. Abbott, Chairman; R. S. Daniels, Francis Baker, Stephen Blaney, Amos Merrill, James P. King, John A. Lord, D. Webster King, John B. Peabody, Fitch Poole, Henry M. Osborn, Wm. Sutton, Jr., C. Warren Osborn, Edward W. Jacobs, Moscs A. Shackley, John H. Tibbetts, H. A. Hardy, Wm. H. Little, M. S. Clark, William H. Baldwin, Isaac Hardy, Bowman Viles, J. G. Walcott.

The committee have held several meetings, and it is expected that our guests will be met and escorted into town by a procession, consisting of members of D. L. I., "Old Guard," the several Fire Companies, and also by a company of veteran returned soldiers, who are to meet this evening to choose their officers and make other arrangements. This will be a most interesting feature of the occasion and would of itself be worthy of an ovation. A full band of music will lend its charms to enliven the day, which will be one of joy and thanksgiving to many families.

We also understand that it has been determined to have a social Pic-Nic gathering in some pleasant grove, in honor of the soldiers. This will not take place until a few days after their return.

The Engine Companies have entered with enthusiasm into the arrangements for the Escort, and they will make a splendid appearance.

DANIEL F. CATE.—Another South Danvers town meeting was holden at the Salem Court House last Monday, of which Judge Choate was chosen moderator, to consider matters relating to the estate of Daniel F. Cate. Many claims were presented, after which the meeting was dissolved.

"THE ESSEX STATESMAN."—This is a title of a new paper published in Salem, by Edgar Marchant. It looks well, and is edited with decided ability. In politics we should set it down as conservative, and opposed to the policy of the present national administration.

☞ The Rev. Mr. Williams of Cambridge, will preach at the Unitarian Church next Sunday.

THE HALF-MASTED FLAG.

"Hung be the heavens in black."

When the Star Spangled Banner waves at the very head of the shaft within our vision upon the Square, we feel confident that victory has again crowned our nation's arms on some field of battle. We think of the dead, the maimed, and the missing, which was the price paid for the victory, and we grieve over the anguish thus sent into the families and firesides of all the nation. The traitor and the patriot suffer alike in this particular; but the result, although the hearts' blood of our dearest friends goes to make up the sacrifice, does much to assuage the general woe thus created. The flag waves thus because the rights our revolutionary fathers fought for are upheld and defended, and as it cost human blood to plant the great tree of American liberty, so should we not murmur or repine, though its continual existence calls for more blood, more anguish, and more tears.

Thus gloriously has waved our flag on many occasions of victory during the war, and thus have the people been called upon to rejoice for victories gained in our country's cause.

But when the flag goes but half up to the peak, when it droops at half mast, it speaks of death to some townsman—of grief and anguish to some of the families of our vicinity.

The people seem to droop when the flag droops. They know a fellow-citizen has gone to his long home while in the service of his country, its laws, its rights and its privileges to all the people of all the sections and all the States. He may have died from disease, or by the steel or the lead of the foeman; but this we know, he died while defending the rights and privileges our fathers secured for us.

He left friends and home, and their comforts, to endure the dangers and trials of the battle field, and he is now brought back a stiffened corpse, having given the greatest sacrifice a man can possibly give to his country—his very life. We have witnessed many of these solemn scenes during the war, and have been as often left to enquire, how many more victims have got to be sacrificed—how long must this current of human woe continue to flow before the Union will be restored and our people again be allowed to sit down in peace and in prosperity under the benign shadow of union and liberty?

It speaks well for the community thus to honor the memory of the departed soldier. It is his just due. He has breasted the storm and the fury of battle—he has been exposed to the bleak blasts of winter and to the hot sun of a southern summer—he has been drenched by the storms of all seasons and climes, and at length has laid down his life upon the altar of his country—and would not that man be ungrateful and unnatural, if not unpatriotic, who would not respect the memory of such a brave and honorable fellow citizen who thus has died for his country?

The man who dies for his country fills up the measure of his glory, and his name and sacrifices will never be forgotten by a grateful people. We languish to behold the days of peace again. The American people grieve in view of the vast amount of sorrow created by this war; but much as they love peace, much as they deplore the sufferings, which are the legitimate result of the war, they will be content with nothing short of honorable peace—they will not be willing to submit to the dictation of traitors, even though the crimson current of human gore and all its concomitant horrors must still flow on.

When the flag waves in triumph for victory to our nation's cause, let us all rejoice, because we are thus increasing our progress towards peace and all its blessings. When it droops in commemoration of a departed soldier, let us all becomingly sympathize with the bereaved, and do all we can, legally and honorably towards, restoring our beloved land to peace and to union and thus shut up those avenues to grief and woe, which are the natural results of war. Let us have peace, if possible, with national honor; but let us rather still have war than submit to a disgraceful and humiliating peace.

"THE PUTNAM GUARDS."—News comes by a private letter, dated Saturday last, that the Captain and 40 men of Co. I (Danvers Co.,) 14th Mass. Regt., are missing. The company had recently been ordered from Maryland Heights to Winchester, and on the retreat of our forces from that place the company is reported to have conducted itself with much heroism, but by some gross neglect on the part of the authorities, became short of ammunition and was obliged either to surrender or retreat, which it does not yet appear.

STRAWBERRY FESTIVAL.—The Baptist Society of this town, will give a Strawberry Festival in the Vestry of their church on Thursday evening, July 2d. A good time may be expected.

CONUNDRUM.—How could a man on top of Bunker Hill Monument, with a goose under his arm, safely get down if the steps were taken away?

TOWN MEETINGS.—There will be a Town Meeting in South Danvers to-morrow (Thursday,) at 4 o'clock P. M., for the following purposes:—

To see what action the Town will take in regard to an act of the Legislature, passed April 29th, 1863, entitled "an Act to provide for the reimbursement of Bounties paid to Volunteers, and to apportion and assess a tax therefor."

To hear and act on the report of the Committee chosen at the Annual Meeting, to consider the subject of the purchase by the Town of a suitable tract of land for a public burial ground.

There will be a Town Meeting in Danvers next Monday, June 29, at 2 P. M., to act on the following:—

To see if the town will vote to raise or appropriate a sum of money, and if so to determine the amount, and when the same shall be made payable, to defray the expenditure contemplated by the vote of the town, passed the first day of September, 1862, whereby it was VOTED, That the Town of Danvers pay a bounty of One Hundred and Twenty-Five Dollars to each person, a resident of the town, or his legal representative, who has enlisted in the United States service for three years or the war, who has not already received a bounty from the town; provided said person has served nine months, or has been earlier discharged on account of injuries received in such service; said bounty to be payable at the end of said Volunteer's service.

To see if the town will authorize the Treasurer of the town to borrow money, if necessary, for the purposes of the foregoing articles, or take any order thereon.

CHURCH AFFAIRS.—At a meeting of the First Congregational Church in Danvers, at which a full attendance of the members was present, it was unanimously voted to extend to the Rev. Charles B. Rice of Conway, Mass., a call to become their pastor.

After the above vote was declared, a brother moved that the sisters of the church be allowed the privilege of expressing their wishes by an informal vote. This motion was sustained by several of the more gallant brethren, but the moderator flatly refused to put the question on the ground that it was unscriptural for women to take any part in the business proceedings of the church. Being pressed for Scripture to prove his position, he reminded the brethren that, at the fall of man, Eve was the first transgressor, and that Paul said "It is a shame for woman to speak in a church." We presume the application of the argument to be this:—Whereas woman is and has been so great a sinner, when compared with man, she should be restrained not only from speaking in the church, but from expressing her opinions by vote after a question has been decided.

How pure ought they to be who are so well guarded against new lights, schisms and innovations.

A SON OF MRS. J. T. FALES KILLED IN BATTLE.—At the late battle of Chancellorsville, a son of Mrs. J. T. Fales was shot in the breast, which killed him instantly. He was a member of the 2d Rhode Island Volunteers, and was with it in the first battle of Bull Run, and subsequently in all the battles and skirmishes in which that regiment was engaged—in the Peninsula, at Antietam, and at Fredericksburg in December last, through all of which he escaped unhurt, until the last battle of Chancellorsville. He was first wounded in the thigh, then again in the foot, but still attended to his duty. A few moments after he received the fatal shot. His mother made exertions to find the body, and Gen. Hooker sent a flag of truce to the enemy, asking permission for her to go to the battle field and search for his remains, but no answer was made, and, after waiting five days, she returned home sadly disappointed.

ANOTHER SOLDIER GONE.—Private HORACE MANNING, of this town, who enlisted in Lynn in Captain Chandler's company of Heavy Artillery, for the 14th Regiment, died of congestion of the brain, at Fort De Kalb Hospital, Va., the 13th inst. He was 43 years old. His comrades had the body embalmed and sent to his relatives in this place. The funeral took place last Thursday from the residence of his brother, Mr. Chas. Manning, and his remains now rest in quiet repose in Monumental Cemetary.

GEN. MCCLELLAN sent a letter to S. S. Cox, declining the use of his name in the Ohio Democratic Convention, saying that he did not sympathize in the least with the movement of the peace Democrats in that State. We now hope those who have tried so hard to make him out a traitor, will hold their peace. Call him slow, inefficient, or anything else, but do not brand him a traitor.

☞ The services at the ordination of Rev. O. F. Safford, last Wednesday, were of more than ordinary interest. The sermon, by Rev. J. G. Bartholomew, of Roxbury, was very popular in its character, and was calculated to awaken the hearer to new and useful reflections.—We are informed that the Universalist Society is in a prosperous condition.

☞ "Release unto us Barrabbas!"—The same old cry is made in our time, slightly changed. "Release unto us Vallandingham." Both mean about the same thing.

FENOLLOSA'S CONCERT on Wednesday evening last was remarkably successful. Some fourteen hundred were present, and three or four hundred were sent away unable to gain admittance. Many persons from this and neighboring towns were present, and all pronounce the concert to be extremely meritorious and satisfactory. The Gazette in alluding to the singers, says:—

The song "Il Bacio," by Miss Safford of Salem, and "I'm but a simple peasant maid," by Mrs. Upton, of South Danvers, were rendered in a manner that would have done credit to eminent professional singers, and were both heartily applauded.

The Concert will be repeated to-night at Mechanic Hall.

IMPORTANT TO OFFICERS AND SOLDIERS LATELY DISCHARGED FROM THE ARMY.—By a recent decision from the Provost Marshal General, all officers and soldiers who have discharges bearing a date later than March 3d, 1863, are not liable to draft. It is for the interest of such to see that their names are crased from the consolidated list, which forms the basis of the draft from each city or town. Prompt application to either member of the board of enrollment, or enrolling officers of towns, will relieve the party from draft on producing his discharge.

☞ We have seen several orchards in this vicinity that look as though they had been subjected to the ravages of fire. It is the work of canker worms. They are like the rebels; very industrious and persevering, but they leave blight and desolation in their track.—Neither have any business to live in this free Commonwealth of ours. Tar is a good remedy for both; a few feathers added in some cases. We don't advocate the feathers, however.

ELIAS. W. HOLDEN, late of this town, has opened a grocery store in Lynn, on the corner of North Common and Whitney streets.

THE CONSCRIPTION.—As the enrolling Marshals are now about through with their work, there is frequent enquiry when and how exemption can be obtained. No one need trouble himself about that till he has a printed notice that he has been drafted. Then he has the privilege of appearing before the Board of Enrollment during ten days after the reception of the notice and presenting the grounds upon which he claims exemption. All citizens drafted will be heard and their cases carefully considered, as the law provides that none but able bodied citizens of a certain age, legally as well as physically qualified, can be taken. After the person has been drafted and found qualified, the citizen who prefers peace to war may be exempted from service in the field by paying $300 to the government in lieu of service. It has been determined that not even "military necessity" which know no other law, shall set aside this provision. The money paid by those who do not want to fight, becomes a bounty paid to those who are willing to run that risk, and with the national bounty of $100, will make a snug little sum for every recruit who voluntarily re-enlists. One experienced soldier is worth half a dozen raw recruits, and among the nine months and two years men, just discharged, there will be found large numbers ready to return to the service with such a bounty secured to them. This $300 commutation will give the best soldiers, for immediate service, to the army, and enable the citizen who cannot afford the sacrifice of his business to relieve himself of the liability of service by lesser sacrifice in money.

THE FIGHTING METHODISTS.—The 24th Iowa regiment, called the Methodist regiment, was in the terrible conflict at Vicksburg, on the 22d ult. The colonel and several of the captains are Methodist preachers, and a majority of the soldiers are members of the Methodist church. They did some of the best fighting of the day. They went into the battle full of enthusiasm, and not one of them flinched during the engagement. Their major was wounded late in the day. He walked from the field, and on his way to the hospital, captured a stalwart Confederate, and compelled him to carry him on his back to the provost marshal's headquarters. A correspondent says "it was a laughable sight to see Major Wright riding his captive into camp. The casuality list of the Methodists is very large, and shows that they stood up to their work like true soldiers. On returning from the battlefield in the evening they held a religious meeting at which the exercises were very impressive.—Newburyport Herald.

THE SONG OF VICTORY.—The Fourth Massachusetts Regiment were marching to battle recently, when quite wearied, and some of the men falling out of the ranks by the way, the noble old tune "coronation" was started with the well known words, "All hail the power of Jesus' name," and the effect is said to have been electric. The good old tune rose as upon wings from the lips of the soldiers and flew along the column with such vigor and zest that the troops sprang along the road with invigorated spirits—thus showing that this grand old song is equally as inspiring in the army as the conference room.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS. — "Closing Out Sale"—John P. Peabody.

"South Danvers Periodical Store"—R. W Wilkinson.

"Dissolution of Co-partnership"—Welch & Fairfield.

"So. Danvers & Salem Railroad Company."

"From New York"—James F. Almy.

SHAVING SALOON.—Any person wanting a good, clean shave, would do well to call at Heylingberg's, where they can be operated upon in the best manner by his assistant, who is a giant in skill if not in stature. Mr. H. himself will get up a pleasant summer shower at short notice for those who desire a good champooing.

MASONIC.—More than one thousand members have been added to the Masonic fraternity in Maine, during the past year.

PERSONAL.

The following personal items are mostly compiled from the Newburyport Herald:

NED BUNTLINE has been sentenced to two months imprisonment at Fort Norfolk, Virginia, for the crime of desertion.

BILLY WILSON'S Zouaves, it is said, all bring home some souvenir of Secessia, in the shape of watches, gold headed canes, musical snuff-boxes and other things of the kind.

HON. CHARLES G. LORING has presented to the town of Beverly, a handsome copy of Stuart's picture of Washington richly framed, which has been placed over the rostrum in the Town Hall, so that the speaking and benignant likeness of the Father of his Country greets every one who enters the Hall.

REV. A. J. SESSIONS, formerly of the Crombie street Church, Salem, is to become pastor of the Orthodox Church in North Scituate.

EX-PRESIDENT PIERCE is to preside at a meeting for the celebration of Independence at Concord, on the 4th of July next. It is intended to be a great convention of those in favor of the "Union as it was, and the Constitution as it is."

JOHN B. GOUGH is said to have over three hundred applications for lectures this fall and winter.

DR. LYMAN BEECHER, who during his life gave so many sons to the church, and several daughters to the world, left his property, amounting to less than $5,000, to his widow.

GEN. POPE, who maintains his popularity at the West, is soon to take the field with an important command, we are told.

STEWART, the New York dry goods king, will lose $2,000 000 by the late fall in cotton goods. That is but a part of what he has made since the war commenced.

CAPT. GRAMMER'S company in the 5th Mass. Regiment, will bring home every man it carried out, unless something happens to it within a few days.

WENDELL PHILLIPS often hits our father Abraham — him of the White House—very hard. In a recent speech he said:—"The first slave to be emancipated is Abraham Lincoln in the White House, from subservience to the influences that surround him." "He was sick of honest men—utterly disgusted with them."

SIR CHARLES LYELL argues that man has been an inhabitant of this earth at least five hundred thousand years. He gives proof that six thousand years covers but a small part of the time that our race has tenanted here.

TIMOTHY TITCOMB, who is a very good "orthodox," in one of his letters tells the clergy:—"you very rarely get honestly talked to from the pews, but you would learn a great deal more from them than you imagine, if they would talk to you honestly. You rarely hear the truth. Your friends praise you, and your enemies shun you. Let me tell you this—you are fond of creeds and catechisms, and those who listen to you are instructed in creeds and catechisms; but you might just as hopefully undertake to make a living tree out of dry chips, as a living christian out of creeds and catechisms."

MRS. PRESIDENT LINCOLN is sketched by Mrs. Swisshelm thus:—"Her complexion is fair as that of a young girl, her cheeks soft, plump, blooming, and her expression tender and kindly. It was one of those faces I feel like stopping on the street to kiss, because it recalls one that was dearest of all in childhood's days. I think the features are not classical, but I forgot to look at them. It was a pleasant face to look upon."

KING LEOPOLD of Belgium, who is one of the wisest rulers in Europe, mightily alarmed lest a European war should blot out his kingdom and annex it to France, is said to be exceedingly anxious about what posterity shall say of him after he is dead. To give them correct information he has kept a diary since his accession to the throne, more than thirty years, to serve as the basis of memoirs, to be published after his decease. Leopold is a good king, but better for him—as for everybody—to live in deeds, than in his musty records.

REV. A. P. PUTNAM.—The friends of Rev. A. P. Putnam of Roxbury will be glad to learn, says the Norfolk County Journal, that the latest intelligence received from him is more favorable. He had recovered rapidly from the attack of illness under which he was prostrated—had been enabled to see much of Jerusalem, and rejoined a portion of his party at Beyrout. It was his intention to proceed soon to the German baths, where he anticipated much benefit in restoring the tone of his system. The probabilities are that he will rejoin his society in Roxbury in the earliest days of the autumn months.

REV. J. N. MARS, who was formerly pastor of a colored church in Salem, and is well known in this vicinity as the "colored revivalist," has been appointed Chaplain in General Wilde's negro brigade in North Carolina. We are not informed whether his white wife—for he has given the broadest application to the emancipation proclamation—goes with him or not.

Lieut. Col. Dalton of the 40th is at home to recruit his health, which has suffered considerably from his exposure and exertions on the Virginia peninsula.

ROYAL VISIT TO THE HAREMS.—The Princess Clotilda Bonaparte, who arrived at Alexandra, Egypt, May 8th, with her husband Prince Napoleon, on the next day visited the harem of the Viceroy. Slaves, dressed in their handsomest costumes, executed dances to the sound of music played by the musicians of the harem. The Princess, who had expressed a desire to dine in the Eastern style, found a superb repast prepared for her. The Princess remained in the apartments a considerable time, and expressed herself much pleased with the visit.

SALEM AND SOUTH DANVERS HORSE RAILROAD.—We learn that this road will be opened for travel on Wednesday, July 1. Mr. CHAS. A. PUTNAM, the Engineer of the road, will perform the duties of Superintendent, and Mr. J. S. EVELETH of the Beverly omnibus line, will act as Overseer of Stables, &c.—Reg.

PAINFUL ACCIDENT.—On Sunday a little son of Mr. John H. Grout overset a pot of hot coffee which severely scalded his back and limbs.—Beverly Citizen.

MARCHING ALONG.—The reinforcements sent to Grant at Vicksburg, number 60,000, which will make all safe in that section.

☞ The number of troops furnished by this State is 88,947; or an excess over the calls of the Government, of 6053.

[For the Wizard.]

Lines Written on the Death of Harriet E., Wife of J. W. Putnam.

A cherished wife and mother has drooped from earth away—
Like summer clouds at sunset, like flowers at heat of day;
Like shadows on the pebbly strand, like sunshine on the river,
So hath that loved one faded away from earth forever."

A loved home is made dreary, a voice is heard no more
To welcome home the husband when his daily cares are o'er;
No one to greet with kindly smile—vacant the well known chair—
All things remind us but of her—the very walls seem bare.

A heart is sad and lonely, no one to guide or cheer,
As through this pilgrimage of life days seem but one long year;
The Lord both gave and took away, but left one earthly joy
To comfort that lone father—a mother's infant boy.

A voice oft comes at midnight, when all has sunk to rest,
And speaks in silvery accents to those it loved the best;
Its tones are heard at morning ere the early dawn of day—
'Tis the voice of that loved Angel calling from earth away.

A white robe flutters in the breeze, pale fingers point the way,
They beckon us to brighter lands, to one unclouded day,
They cheer us on to higher spheres, they waft forevermore,
She is waiting for those loved ones, on that distant Heavenly shore.

GEORGIE.

☞ An elegant sword, presented to Colonel Arthur F. Devereux by CHARLES WARD, ESQ., has been exhibited at the window of Messrs. C. H. & J. Price. The weapon and scabbard are of a rich and elegant pattern, and bear the following inscriptions: "Presented to Colonel Arthur F. Devereux, 19th Mass. Reg., as a token of gallantry on the battlefield, by Chas. Ward, Salem, June 1, 1863"—"Ball's Bluff, Battles of the Peninsula, Antietam, Chancellorsville."—Salem Obs.

☞ The Horse Railroad Station, corner of Webster and Webb streets, now nearly completed, is very ingeniously contrived with reference to convenience for stabling horses and storing cars, and also for the most economical use of the land. Its architectural appearance, too, is not bad. The cost of the buildings we hear is about $5000.—Obs.

☞ We notice that in Charlestown they have a Free Public Bathing House, under control of the committee on city property. It has been recently "prepared for the use of the citizens," females in the forenoon and males in the afternoon, and a person is designated "to be in attendance and preserve order."

☞ New England is not a very healthy place for the negro to reside in. They thrive nowhere. In Boston last year the number of colored births was only 45; and the year before only 47. In the last eight years the births have been 304, and the deaths have exceeded the births. They cannot live here.

☞ The Union Convention at Concord, on Wednesday, was a great meeting. From 20 to 25,000 people were in attendance, and the procession was two miles in length. Gen. Butler was the hero of the occasion, and the enthusiasm of the people was unbounded.

☞ Augusta, Me., is one of the largest cities in the world. According to the Kennebec Journal it contains sixty square miles. In some of the wards they kill wild bears. Its citizens can have their country residences, and still live within the city limits.

☞ The Richmond Dispatch says that "ninety-nine out of every hundred Southern people are making up their minds to accept war as their natural condition for the remainder of their earthly existence."

☞ Jeff Davis feels quite sensitive because the English government considers the confederacy as still a part of the United States, and he will not recognize any consul from that government.

☞ The Salem Mechanic Light Infantry will not go to Pennsylvania, as was expected. The exigency for which its services were required having disappeared, the order for its departure has been countermanded.

☞ At the request of Napoleon III. the Austrian government has consented to the transfer of the ashes of the Duke de Reichstadt to France.

☞ Try one of Rhoades' National Clothes Wringers, before purchasing elsewhere. For sale at the Equity Store, South Danvers. See advertisement.

☞ No. 2 of Vol. 5 of the Institute Historical Collections has made its appearance and can be obtained of the publishers, Whipple & Smith.

☞ The 55th (colored) Regiment is now full, but will not leave camp for the present, unless called out in consequence of the invasion.

☞ Mr. Isaac F. Day has been appointed Post Master at Beverly Farms in place of Mrs. Emily Allen, resigned.

☞ Sergt. James Inman of Danvers has been commissioned as 2d Lieut. in the 17th Regt.

Messrs. D. B. Brooks & Brother have sent us the celebrated Laughing Chorus, as sung by Buckleys Serenaders. Published by Horace Waters.

Messrs. Brooks & Brother are closing off their books and stationery at auction prices, previous to removing to their new store.

☞ The growing crops all over the country give promise of a good harvest.

☞ The New York Commercial says Admiral Foote, although able to recognize his friends, is sinking fast.

IMPORTANT TO FIREMEN.—A ris, Esq., of the Chicago Fire ment has gone to Europe to c information possible for the ment of the Fire Department city. He will be present at th steam fire engines from all na take place in London July 1 object of his mission is three to see whether Europe has anyth for the extinguishing of fires that or superior to our steam fire eng glean information in regard to ing laws" in the old country, a tain some plan by which ladders cient length for reaching the up of very high stores and other may be constructed or procured.

ATLANTIC MONTHLY.—There is originality in the July number of th cal which makes it particularly attra is the best, as well as the most read ber we have yet read. Hawthorne's
English Poverty, Gail Hamilton's G
the paper on the Colonies and Naval Great Britain, and the sketch of " eral" Butler, are all exceedingly inte

GODEY'S LADY'S BOOK for July ha hand, with its wealth of beautiful e and cuts of fashions and patterns. Th plate has six colored figures, and th this number alone sixty-three engravi articles of letter press are the prod the first literary ability and mostly fr pens. Mr. Wilkinson takes subscrip sells single numbers of the Book.

HARPER FOR JULY is out and it h of pictures of scenes in the war of 18 number is illustrated by views of eve campaigns of Gen. Harrison. Mr.
sells it, and it goes like hot cakes.
of the XXV. Volumes is soon to be p
This will stimulate persons to own th
Mr. E. B. Waitt, of Danvers, will cept our thanks for a copy.

New Photograph and Amb Rooms.

MR. JAMES E. CHUTE hereby tice to the inhabitants of South Dan vicinity, that he has taken rooms at Main Street, over the store of W. O.
der, where he is ready to take Car graphs and Ambrotypes in the best st art. These rooms have been fitted the instruments and materials selec the advice and assistance of my re friend, Mr. R. J. CHUTE, of Tremont
Boston, to whom I have the liberty t
I have obtained the services of a operator, who has had a large expe one of the best Photographic es'ablis
Boston, and my facilities are such th
I shall, by the production of life-like obtain a generous share of public pat
June 10. JAMES E.

BARGAINS | New Wrought Collars f
BARGAINS | 29 cts—Real Needlewor
BARGAINS | in good styles—worth
BARGAINS | prices from 50 to 75 cts.
BARGAINS | ceived at PEABODY'S,
BARGAINS | Street.

BARGAINS | New Wrought Collars fo
BARGAINS | 29 cts—Real Needlewor
BARGAINS | in good styles—worth a
BARGAINS | prices from 50 to 75 cts.
BARGAINS | ceived at PEABODY'S, 2

BARGAINS | New Wrought Collars fo
BARGAINS | 29 cts—Real Needlewor
BARGAINS | in good styles—worth at
BARGAINS | prices from 50 to 75 cts.
BARGAINS | ceived at PEABODY'S, 2
BARGAINS | Street.

To. Co. M, 14th Reg. Mass. Heavy Artillery.

The relations and friends of the late
MANNING gratefully tender their thank
M, 14th Regiment Mass. Volunteers,
Artillery, for the tender care extended in sickness, and for their liberal dispo his remains.

South Danvers, June 24, 1863.

Port of Danvers

Ar 17th, schs Panthea, Clark, Philad
Gen Putnam, Young, New York;
Hutchinson, Bangor.

Ar 18th, schs Nellie Potter, Sheppard adelphia; 19th, Ellen Perkins, Eldridg York.

Marriages.

In Salem, June 15, by J. Carlton,
Edward A. Orne to Miss Malvina O. W
16th, by Rev Mr Thayer, Mr Jose to Miss Sarah B, daughter of Capt O.
18th, by Rev Dexter Clapp, Mr Sylv
Nourse of Memphis, Tenn, to Miss Ca only daughter of George Sanborn, of S.
17th, by Rev Dr Emerson, Mr Edw
Smith to Miss Sarah L. Nason.
19th, by Rev Mr Beaman, Mr John dell to Mrs Beula Ann Chase.
In Topsfield, June 22, by Rev Mr Mc
Mr Albert W Bixby to Miss Almira A ington, both of T.
In Boston, Mr George Cowee to Miss
A Dalton.

Deaths.

In South Danvers, June 18th, Ruth P of John Buxton, aged 65 years. A member of the Society of Friends.
June 22d, Mrs Hannah, widow of th
Malachi Wilson, aged —.
In Danvers, June 16th, Emeline daughter of Emeline P. and the late Jos
Black, 4⅔ yrs.
In Salem, June 15th, James B, son of
J and Harriet M Gifford, 3 yrs 10 mos.
16th, Mr Henry Rivers, 25 years—a of London. He arrived at Salem only t before his death from Africa.
18th, Mrs Mary, wife of Mr Thomas W
ity, 57 years.
20th, Charles Arthur, son of Riple
Elizabeth G Ropes, 6⅓ years; Mrs Carol wife of Mr Thomas Pitts, 39 years.
In Rowley, June 13, Mrs Mehitable L of the late Mr Thos. Appleton of Marbl 72 years.
In Essex, June 13, Mrs Augusta, wife
George W Burnham, and daughter of D ah Lamson, 31 years.
In Brooklyn, June 18, Mr Chas. T. C
ler, 22 yrs 10 mos—a member of Co. K
Mass Regt, and son of Mr Joseph T. Cha formerly of Salem.
In Westmoreland, Kanzas, Mch 24th, son of Capt George and Martha Bertran
merly of Salem, 6 mos.

☞ Visit OSBORNE's Store, and look at the unusual variety of new styles in HATS and CAPS—191 Essex street.

PEACE HAS ITS VICTORIES.—While some are fighting, let us thank the great giver that others are engaged in the healing process.—GRACE'S SALVE is the great remedy of the day. It is the best remedy for burns, scalds, felons, flesh wounds, boils, bruises, warts, and almost every ill that "flesh is heir to." Just try one box of it. It costs only 25 cents. See advertisement in another column.

Where? Oh, Where?

Where shall I go for a good Breakfast?
Where shall I go for a good Dinner?
Where shall I go for a good Supper?
Where shall I go with Ladies?
Where shall I go with a Party?
Where shall I go for a quiet Dining Room?
Where shall I go and be Satisfied?
Where?—Where?—Where?
PORTER answers—

At the Tremont Dining Saloon,

No. 104 SUDBURY ST., BOSTON.

Boston, June 10, 1863. 6w

☞ The extraordinary success of Dr. Ham's Invigorating Spirit, seems to stir up an army of Tonics, Bitters, and Cure Alls; but as a general thing they are like the Morning Glory—look very fine in the morning but wilt before the day has past. The Dr has been before the public for years; his Dyspepsia Remedy has been tested and not found wanting; it acts on the Liver, Stomach, Head and the whole system; it is good at all times and for everybody.

MANUAL FENOLLOSA,
TEACHER
OF THE
Violin, Piano and Singing,
Music Rooms, No. 7 Central Street,
SALEM, MASS.

Hunnewell's Great Remedies.

WHAT EVERY FAMILY SHOULD HAVE IN THE HOUSE AND WHY;

☞ They should have HUNNEWELL'S UNIVERSAL COUGH REMEDY, because it effectually cures Colds, Whooping and Common Coughs Sore Throat, Hoarseness, and is the most simple and perfect Soothing Syrup in the world. For old and young, by day and night, it may be used with the greatest freedom, and three-fourths of the deaths by Consumption stopped.

They should have HUNNEWELL'S TOLU ANODYNE, because it is a perfect remedy for Neuralgia, Nervous or Sick Headache, Tooth, and Earache, Pain in Stomach, or Bowels, Genuine Cholera Morbus, Rheumatism, Distress after Eating, Nervousness, Hysteria, and the chief of all causes of disease, and Insanity, Loss of Sleep. Its character, though active, is simple; its action in perfect conformity to nature; its end cure, or relief.

For the pains in Monthly Menstruation a perfect relief, while nature's after work is not disturbed, and one of the most important points in Medicine.

They should have HUNNEWELL'S ECLECTIC PILLS, because with seldom but a single Pill for a dose all derangements of the Stomach and Bowels are cured. They cure Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Headache, when caused by foul stomach, Loss of Appetite, Biliousness, so often and so erroneously treated with Mercurials, Jaundice. For Worms a sure cure.

They act simple, assist nature, do not make a Pill Box of the stomach, as is the most fatal error of taking so many Pills at a dose and then what is important to every Family and every Purse, one bottle goes as far as two or three of what is ordinarily sold.

The confidence of all is asked to test
Hunnewell's Universal Cough Remedy.
Hunnewell's Tolu Anodyne.
Hunnewell's Eclectic Pills.

☞ Fac-simile of J. L. Hunnewell's signature over corks of genuine only.

JOHN L. HUNNEWELL, proprietor,
9 Commercial Wharf, Boston, Mass.
George E. Meacom, Agent for Danvers.
For sale by all dealers in Salem and vicinity.
Apr. 1, 1863—1 y

Advertisements.

Dissolution of Co-Partnership.

THE co-partnership heretofore existing between the undersigned, under the name and style of WELCH & FAIRFIELD, is hereby dissolved by mutual consent.

All persons having claims against said firm, and all persons indebted to the same, can settle their accounts by calling upon SAMUEL WELCH, who is authorized thereto.

SAMUEL WELCH,
JOSEPH FAIRFIELD, Jr.
So. Danvers, April 1, 1863.

Mr. Welch will continue the GROCERY BUSINESS at the old stand, and hopes for a continuance of former patronage.

June 24—3w M copy

SOUTH DANVERS PERIODICAL AND CONFECTIONERY STORE.

THE subscriber having purchased of the firm of CHANDLER & CO. all their interest in the Periodical and Confectionery Store in South Danvers, and withdrawn from the firm, he now intends to remain for the present at the old stand in Central Street, where he will be glad to supply his old customers, and all others who may call upon him, with all the Newspapers and Periodicals of the day, together with such Books and Pamphlets usually found in a first-rate Periodical Store.

Back numbers of any papers or periodicals furnished at short notice. Book Binding of all kinds done on reasonable terms.

He also intends to keep a good stock of Confectionery, Refreshments, Stationery and Fancy Goods, with Domestic and Foreign Fruits, Pickles, etc.

All persons having demands against the above store are requested to present them to the subscriber for settlement, and all persons indebted to the same are requested to settle to date.

R. W. WILKINSON.

South Danvers, June 22, 1863.

Salem and South Danvers Railroad Company.

THE Annual Meeting of the SALEM AND SOUTH DANVERS RAILROAD COMPANY, will be held at the Room of the Company, in Creamer's Block, Essex Street, Salem, on WEDNESDAY, 24th instant, at 3 o'clock P. M.

GEO. D. PHIPPEN, Clerk.

Salem, June 17, 1863. 2w

NEW BOOKS,

AT G. M. WHIPPLE & A. A. SMITH'S.

ROCKFORD; or Sunshine and Storm, by Mrs. Lillie Devereux Umstead;

In the Tropics, by Richard B. Kimball, author of St Leger;

Harper's Magazine; Godey's Lady's Book; and Harper's Weekly, for July. All the new Books rec'd as soon as published.

Sign of the Five Golden Books.

RHEUMATISM AND NEURALGIA

CAN be cured by using STURGIS'S ELECTRIC COMPOUND—so say reliable people in Boston and elsewhere. For sale by

G M WHIPPLE & A A SMITH.

SUMMER READING.

THE cheapest way to get reading matter for the Summer is to take a share in our Circulating Library. All the new and popular Books go in.

je 24 G M WHIPPLE & A A SMITH.

FRUIT BASKETS.

WHITE China and White Granite Fruit Baskets—at
S. C. & E. A. SIMONDS', 32 Front st.

NEW STOCK
— OF —
DRY GOODS
— AT —
No. 238 Essex Street,

(Three Doors West of the Tunnel.)

THE Subscriber opened on MONDAY, May 18th,

A Fresh Stock of Dry Goods,

Consisting of nearly all the new styles of Dress Goods, Ladies' Cloths, Cloths for Men's & Boys' Wear; Shawls, Domestic and Housekeeping Goods; Sun Umbrellas; Parasols; Hoop Skirts; Hosiery; Gloves; &c., &c., &c.

☞ All the above Goods will be sold for CASH, at Low Prices.

GEORGE P. DANIELS.

Salem, May 20.

Auction Sale of Land.

WILL be Sold at Public Auction, on the Premises, JUNE 30th, 1863, at 5 o'clock P. M., a very desirable lot of Tillage Land, of about 11 acres, situated in Lynnfield, near the Hotel.

This land is well situated for building purposes, being near the Depot of the South Reading Branch Railroad, and bounded upon two opposite sides by County roads. It is also in a good state of cultivation and well adapted to Agricultural uses. No better chance can be found for a good real estate investment, or for a snug and convenient farm.

A large part of the purchase money may remain on mortgage, if desired by the purchaser. Other conditions of sale will be made known at the time.

LYMAN HOLMAN.

South Danvers, June 15, 1863. 2w

Mothers—Take Heed!

MRS. OSBORNE'S CURE FOR PIN WORMS

GIVE no more poison to your children. Do you ever think when observing the uneasy actions of your children, that the only cause of the little sufferer's illness is worms? In nineteen cases out of twenty it is so. Of all the diseases to which children are exposed none are so fatal to them as worms. In fact, children are seldom free from them, as worms imitate the symptoms of many other complaints. They often produce alarming effects without being suspected as the cause.—The only certain cure—one of nature's own remedies, a compound of nothing but Roots and Herbs—is

Mrs. Osborne's Universal Worm Powders.

They will eradicate all worms from the system, if the directions are strictly adhered to. No more filthy vermifuge will be used by those who have once used these Powders. The active principle in all other vermifuges, Worm Killers, Syrups and Medicated Lozenges, is Mercury, as any physician will tell you. Many dealers will recommend inferior preparations, and low-priced articles, affording more profit to themselves. Be sure and obtain only Mrs. Osborne's Worm Powders. Price 25 cts. per box. Sold by D. P. GROSVENOR, Main st.

South Danvers, June 17, 1863. 3m

HOLD ON! HOLD ON!

ALL those that are inclined to rest their weary limbs on the most luxurious

SPRING BED

that was ever invented, are invited to call at

No. 52 Main St., South Danvers,

and there see the very best SPRING BED BOTTOM that has been offered to the public.

Not having been able at first to meet the demands, I now have the facilities to supply all orders.

Having bought the right to make and vend for the county of Essex, the subscriber would be happy to supply all those who may favor him with a call.

Rights for sale for any town or city in the county except Haverhill and Lawrence.

THOS. TRASK.

South Danvers, June 17, 1863.

SELLING OFF! SELLING OFF!

THE undersigned intending to close up his present business at the earliest opportunity, now offers his ENTIRE STOCK OF

Fine and Plated Jewelry,
Solid Silver Ware,
Solid Silver Ware, &c.

AT LARGELY REDUCED PRICES,
Regardless of Cost,

FOR THIRTY DAYS ONLY.

After which, all goods remaining on hand will be sold at Public Auction.

Also, for sale, all the movable fittings of said Store, including 5 solid German Silver frame Counter Show Cases; One Tilton & McFarland Fire and Burglar Proof Safe; Chairs, Desks, Stools, &c., &c.

JOSEPH J. RIDER,
2 West Block—188 Essex st.

Salem, June 17, 1863. 1m

REMOVAL.

BATTIS & BROWN have removed from their Old Stand, 110 Derby Street, to

No. 30 Front St., Salem.

They open with a good stock of Cigars, of all the popular brands. Also, Leaf Manufactured, and Smoking Tobacco of all kinds, with the usual variety of Fancy Goods found at such an establishment, wholesale and retail.

BATTIS & BROWN,

Salem, June 17—3w 30 Front St.

SPIRITS TURPENTINE

AND Benzole Spirits, for sale at
S C & E A SIMONDS', 32 Front st.

Tillage Land and Barn to Let.

ABOUT six acres of good level Tillage Land with a Barn, situated upon the "Cross Road" in Rockville. Any one wishing to work upon land a portion or the whole of his time will find this a rare chance.

For further particulars application may be made to either of the subscribers.

S. C. BANCROFT, So. Danvers.
JOHN H. NICHOLS, Salem.

South Danvers, Ap. 22.

WHITE LEAD AND LINSEED OIL,

OF the best quality—for sale at
S C & E A SIMONDS', 32 Front st.

SEWING MACHINES

PERSONS about purchasing SEWING MACHINES will find it to their advantage to consult

JOHN H. CHOATE,
SEWING MACHINE AGENT,
Over Newman & Symonds' Store, Lowell St.

Second-hand Machines bought and sold.

South Danvers, May 13—tf

VARNISHES.

COACH Varnish; Furniture and Damar Varnish, of the best quality, at je 17 S C & E A SIMONDS', 32 Front st.

John P. Peabody.

Closing Out Sale.

OUR Stock is now very large and full of the best and most desirable Goods, and in order to reduce it as much as possible we have concluded to commence our

CLOSING OUT SALE

one week earlier than is our usual custom; and we shall during this sale offer our Goods at such prices that they will be sure to sell, making it advantageous to all to give us a call.

JOHN P. PEABODY.

LACE
GOODS.

EXTRA BARGAINS.

Real French Needle Work Collars 25c—value 50 cents;
Real French Needle Work Collars 29c—value 62 cents;
Real French Needle Work Collars 35c—value 75 cents;
Real French Needle Work Collars—42 and 50 cents;
Real Guipure and English Thread Lace Collars;
In this department we shall offer many decided bargains.

JOHN P. PEABODY.

RIBBONS
AND FLOWERS.

STILL AHEAD.

Our Customers should remember that we are always the first to Mark Down and the last to Mark Up—that our prices are governed by the market value of the goods rather than the cost—that we do not believe in monopoly—that every body who is going shopping will be the gainer by calling and examining our stock, if only to Post Up—in quality and prices.

SUN
UMBRELLAS.

READ THE PRICES.

Best Glazed Spool Cottons—200 yds—warranted—6c;
Best Black English Thread—hanks 4cts;
Best American Pins—full papers 5 cts;
Best Worsted Braids—5 yd pieces—warranted, 8 cts;
Best Gold Eyed Sewing Needles—warranted, 6 cts;
Best Gold Eyed Sewing Needles—5 papers for 25 cts;
Very Heavy Crochet Net—usually 42c, 25 cts;
Good Cotton Hosiery—Ladies' sizes—only 15c;
Nice Cotton Hosiery—Ladies' sizes—only 25c;
Everything at prices to correspond with the above.

JOHN P. PEABODY.

HOSIERY
AND GLOVES.

NEW GOODS.

We shall during the present week open the largest and choicest stock of Cambric Edgings and Insertings ever shown in Salem, to which we invite your early attention. We shall also open a full line of Black Edgings, Lace Veils, &c, &c. As we were in New York last week, we shall be able to show the latest novelties and choicest styles.

JOHN P. PEABODY.

TRIMMINGS.

DRESS TRIMMINGS.

We have a nice stock of Quilled Ribbons—Fluted Braids—Worsted Braids—Buttons—Ribbons—Bindings—Cords—Embroidery Braids—Silk, Brocade, Rubber, Steel, Pearl, Jet, Crochet and Lasting Buttons. Our stock in this department is full, and well worth the attention of every one in want of the above goods.

J. P. PEABODY.

LOW
PRICES.

This is our Semi-annual CLOSING OUT SALE. Our old customers will need no word from us as a guarantee that the prices will be the VERY LOWEST.—Our new customers will do well to call and see for themselves. Our intention is to reduce our stock to the smallest compass before taking account. As we buy for Cash and sell for Cash strictly, we are always enabled to buy and sell at lower prices than those who do both on credit.

ONE PRICE ONLY!

220 ESSEX ST., SALEM,
JOHN P. PEABODY.

James F. Almy.

FROM NEW YORK.

WE HAVE RECEIVED FROM NEW YORK—

Summer Dress Goods, at 8½ cents per yard.
Summer Dress Goods, at 12½ cents per yard.
Summer Dress Goods, at 17 cents per yard.
Summer Dress Goods, at 25 cents per yard.

SHAWLS! SHAWLS! SHAWLS!

We have received Raw Silk Shawls at from $4 50 to $7 50—a bargain.

We have received a bargain in Lima Wool Shawls at $3 50—former price $6 00.

We have received a great variety of SHAWLS of all kinds.

We have received a new stock of SUN UMBRELLAS.

JAMES. F. ALMY,
je 24 188 Essex, opposite Central st.

SUMMER, 1863.

We shall open New Styles Silk Mantillas,

Saturday, May 30.

We have received a full stock of Rich Black Silks for Mantillas; also Laces, Embroidery Braids and Bugle Trimmings, for Mantillas.

We are closing our Stock of Cloth Garments at Wholesale prices.

We are selling Ladies' Cloths at very low prices.

We have received a choice stock of Summer Shawls.

We have opened a large stock of Summer Dress Goods, in good value and styles, at a Bargain.

Our General Stock of Seasonable Dress Goods was never more complete than now, and our prices are very low.

We have a fine Stock of Sun Umbrellas.

We have a fine Stock of best Kid Gloves.

We have a fine Stock of Ladies' and Misses' Summer Underclothing.

We have a fine Stock of Hosiery and Gloves, Velvet Ribbons, Ladies' and Gents' Hdkfs, etc.

We are selling Watch Spring Skirts very low.

In Domestic Goods, we offer all the advantages of the reduction in prices, as our Stock has been mainly purchased within a few days.

We offer a fine Stock of Cloth for Men's and Boys' wear.

We offer a large Stock of White Goods.

Cash buyers will find it for their advantage to examine our Stock.

JAMES F. ALMY,
188 Essex, opposite Central st.

June 3d, 1863.

M. FENOLLOSA,
TEACHER OF MUSIC,

LETS .....PIANO FORTES, at the lowest rates;
SELLS .....PIANO FORTES, at the Manufacturers Prices;
EXCHANGES....PIANO FORTES, on the easiest terms;

At Rooms No. 7 Central street,
feb 11 SALEM, MASS.

GLASS WARE.

CUT and Pressed Glass Goblets; Tumblers; Dishes, etc. just opened at
S C & E A SIMONDS' 32 Front st.

TABLE MATS.

SHAKER Table Mats—for sale by
may 27 S C & E A SIMONDS.

A Card.

Having disposed of my stock and stand to Miss M. E. CRANE, I avail myself of this opportunity to request my friends and customers who have bestowed their liberal patronage upon me, to transfer the same to my successor.

In taking leave of my business friends, I would return my warmest thanks for the generous patronage I have received. I can in the highest terms recommend Miss CRANE, and would bespeak for her your kind consideration and confidence.

I would most respectfully invite those having unsettled accounts to call and adjust the same, either with Miss Crane or myself, at the old stand.

April 22, 1863. M. M. FLETCHER.

Notice.

The Subscriber having purchased of Mrs. M. M. FLETCHER her stock of Goods, and made additions to the same, is now prepared to furnish her patrons and the public with a large and fine assortment of

Millinery Goods,

which we will sell very low for cash. We hope by strict attention to business to merit a liberal share of patronage. M. E. CRANE,

ap 22 cor. of Essex and St. Peter sts.

M. A. PORTER,
MANUFACTURER TO ORDER
WATCH SPRING SKIRTS,
At 236 Essex Street,
A few doors from Washington Street,
SALEM, MASS.

Dr. Ham's Spirit.

George S. Walker.

Notice to Gentlemen.

FOR THE WARM WEATHER.

SUMMER MERINO UNDER SHIRTS;
GAUZE " " " GOSSAMER " " "
SILK " " "
COTTON " " "

IN EXTRA LARGE AND SMALL SIZES.

Summer Merino, Gauze and Unbleached Cotton DRAWERS, in sizes from 28 to 44 inches.

Summer Merino, Lisle, Silk, and Cotton HALF HOSE, in a great variety of styles and in all sizes.

Many of the above goods were bought before the advance for Cash, and will be sold at the lowest prices.

GEORGE S. WALKER,
Gent's Furnishing Store,
may 20 228 Essex Street, Salem, Mass.

A. J. Archer & Co

WE OPEN THIS MORNING

ELEGANT

BLACK SILK GARMENTS,

At prices from $8 00 to $16 00.

A. J. ARCHER & CO.,

Salem, june 3—tf

SUMMER SHAWLS!

We open this morning beautiful new

SUMMER SHAWLS.

—Also—

A variety of THIN DRESS GOODS;
8 4 Black Hernani and Crapo Maretz;
Black Grenadine. For sale by

A. J. ARCHER & CO.,

Salem, june 3—tf.

SPRING GOODS!

Entirely New Stock of

CLOTHING.

GEO. H. LANE,

CLOTHIER,

Nos. 31 and 32 Dock Square,

BOSTON,

IS now ready to show to his customers and the public an ELEGANT STOCK OF CLOTHING for MEN'S and BOYS' wear, expressly designed by himself, manufactured on the premises for the present season in all those new and choice selections of fabrics for which Lane's establishment has become celebrated. The stock consists in part of

SPRING OVERCOATS,
FROCK COATS,
BUSINESS COATS;

And ONE HUNDRED CHOICE

NEW STYLES OF PANTALOONS,

Suitable for Dress, Promenade or Business Occasions.

MR. LANE having made Large Purchases by Contract before the Unprecedented and General Advance in Prices, has it in his power to give

REAL BARGAINS,

Acting on the principal that

"Quick Sales and Small Profits"

Are the best rules to guide the merchant.

JUVENILE ATTIRE.

Boys' Entire Suits, as

SCHOOL SUITS,
DRESS SUITS,
JACKET SUITS,
SACK SUITS, &C.

All of the newest fabrics and best workmanship.

A year since Mr. Lane advised the public that he had added a Boys' Department, and he has now the satisfaction to announce that he has secured the services of Mr. C. H. Boynton, (formerly with J. WALTER READ) to superintend it; and indeed, to make the entire establishment the COMPLETEST IN NEW ENGLAND, the Proprietor has spared no pains to secure the services of REAL ARTISTS in the Cutting Room, and accomplished, obliging, and experienced Salesman in the Show Room; and trusts by strict personal attention, and MODERATE CHARGES, to merit the support of the community.

GEO. H. LANE,
31 AND 32 DOCK SQUARE,
April 1—3m BOSTON.

Potter, Bachelder & Co.,
(Successors to M. Black)
DANVERS PORT,
DEALERS IN
WOOD AND COAL

OF the various kinds usually kept in a retail yard. Constantly on hand

Franklin, Old Company's Lehigh,
Locust Mountain, Black Heath,
Red and White Ash.

Of all sizes, of the best quality, and at as low prices as can be bought elsewhere.

OFFICE—No. 6 Allen's Building.

Order Box at post office, South Danvers, and post office, Danvers.

G. W. POTTER,
J. Q. A. BACHELDER,
C. T. BATCHELDER. july 19—tf

Browning & Long.

LOW PRICES!

Notwithstanding the present high prices of all Goods;

MESSRS. BROWNING & LONG offer many at extremely low prices, and would call attention to the following list—being determined to offer

FIRST CLASS GOODS,

—AT THE—

Lowest Prices.

Ladies' Colored Cotton Hose,	10c;
White and Unbleached Hose,	18c;
Nice Open-work Hose,	28c;
Misses' White and Unbleached Hose,	16c;
Children's Colored Hose,	16c;
Gent's good half-Hose,	16c;
Misses' Fancy Cotton Hose,	16c;
Nice Lisle Gloves,	15c;
Ladies' Mohair Mitts,	50c;
Cotton Border Hdkfs,	5c;
Ladies' All-Linen Hdkfs,	13c;
All-Linen Hem-Stitched Hdkfs,	30c;
Embroidered Collars,	15c;
Nice Crape Collars,	25c;
Gent's Woven Bosoms,	8c;
Bead Nets,	25c,

and many others in like comparison.

Our Stock is complete and we can show a fine assortment of everything in our line.—

Very large varieties of

NEW GOODS.
Lace Collars
Embroidered Collars
Alexandra Bows
Cambric Edgings
Cambric Insertings
Summer Under Garments
Hosiery and Gloves
New Styles Dress Trimmings.
NEW GOODS.

VEILS! VEILS!! VEILS!!!
SKIRTS, in all the styles.

☞ Our facilities for procuring Goods are superior. Having a SPECIAL AGENT in New York, we are constantly receiving SOMETHING NEW, and our stock is always kept full.

BROWNING & LONG
Essex St., 177 Essex St.,
Salem, June 10, 1863.

Quincy Mutual Fire Insurance Co.

Available and Cash Capital $500,000.

INSURES Buildings, Merchandize and Personal Property generally, on terms as favorable as any other dividend paying company.

J. D. BLACK, Agent,
april 22—1y At Danversport.

Merrimack Mutual Fire Insurance Co., Andover, Mass.

ONE of the OLD AND RELIABLE OFFICES.

J. D. BLACK is Agent for Danvers and South Danvers. apr 22—1y

VALUABLE REAL ESTATE.

THE Subscriber offers for sale on favorable terms,—or would exchange for a Farm,—his Estate on Wallis Street, near the Monumental Cemetary, consisting of THREE DWELLING HOUSES, which will be sold separately or as one Estate.

There are 75 feet of land in front, and 72 feet in the rear of the house.

The situation is pleasant, in a good neighborhood, and the houses are supplied with all the conveniences for immediate occupation. In ordinary times these tenements would rent for from 330 to 360 dollars.

The Subscriber, having made up his mind to dispose of the property, will sell it low, and it is well worth the attention of purchasers.

Apply to JOHN M'NEAL.

South Danvers, Dec. 10th, 1862. tf.

ANN R. BRAY,
NO. 76 FEDERAL ST.,
SALEM.

WE are selling out all our Black Silks;
We are selling out all our Cambric Prints;
We are selling out all our French Prints;
We are selling out all our nice Taffetas;
We are selling out all our Organdie Muslins;
We are selling out all our Lawns;
We are selling out all our Cotton Hosiery;
We are selling out all our Linen Hdkfs;
We are selling out all our Domestic Goods;
We are selling thin Dress Goods for 1s worth 25 cents;
We are selling Bleached Cottons for 12½ cts;
We are selling light Spring Prints for 1s;
We have the Quaker Skirt for ladies;
We have the Belle Point Skirt for ladies;
We have the Trail Skirt for ladies;
We have the very best Silk for Visites;
We have a full assortment of B P R Silks, which we are selling out very low.

Just Opened,

A SUPERIOR quality corded Taffeta, at 37½ cts. All wool DeLaines, desirable shades; Domestic Goods of every description.

ap 29 ANN R BRAY, 76 Federal st.

PHOTOGRAPH ALBUMS.

A FULL assortment constantly on hand.
G M WHIPPLE & A A SMITH.

THE PIANO FORTES

THAT have attracted so much attention of late, and are so much admired on account of their SPLENDID FULL, RICH, MELLOW TONE, and GRAND FRENCH ACTION, are for sale only at the Office of the Agent,

218 Essex Street, Salem, Mass.,

where reference may be had to many who have purchased. Other Piano Fortes also, are for sale, varying in price from $180 upwards. Please call.

Mch 11 6m S. MACKINTIRE, Agent.

CHINA WARE;

GOLD Band China Tea Ware; White and Lustre China do—at
S. C. & E. A. SIMONDS', 32 Front st.

☞ If you want to SAVE MONEY, in chasing Goods, go to COLMAN'S, No. 10 street, Salem. ap30

Auction Sales.

WILLIAM ARCHER,
Auctioneer, Real Estate and Stock Broker,
34 Front Street.

Real Estate, Bank, Railroad and Manufacturing Stock bought and sold on Commission.

ON SATURDAY NEXT, at 9 1-2 o'clock, will be sold at No. 34 Front street:

A QUANTITY OF FURNITURE (new and second hand:) Ten new Bedsteads, Mahogany Centre Table, one English Piano Forte, Work Table, Carpets, Feather Beds, etc.

DRY GOODS:—1000 yds Russia Crash; Denims; Ginghams; Prints; Delaines; Tickings; Satinets; Cassimeres; Hosiery, &c.

SHOES: Women's and Children's Shoes.

HOUSE PAPER: 300 Rolls House Paper, a quantity of Bordering.

TOBACCO: 10 Boxes Tobacco.

SOAP: 25 Boxes Brown Soap. je

D. P. GROSVENOR, Jr.

Druggist and Apothecary,
36 MAIN STREET,

Dealer in Drugs, Medicines, Chemicals, Dye Stuffs, and Popular Proprietary Medicines. Personal attention to Physicians' Prescriptions.

South Danvers, May 29, 1861.

GEO. E. MEACOM

Dealer in

DRUGS & MEDICINES,

Fancy & Toilet Articles,

126 MAIN ST. 126

Nearly opposite Danvers Bank, So. Danvers.

T. A. SWEETSER

Druggist & Apothecary,
37 Main St., So. Danvers.

DEALER IN
Drugs, Medicines, Chemicals, Foreign Leeches, Shaker Herbs, Dye Stuffs, Gums, Acids, Sponges, Shoulder Braces, Trusses, and Genuine Patent Medicines.

Also, Imported Cigars of choice brands, Perfumery, Toilet Articles and Stationery.

Physicians' Prescriptions carefully prepared and perfumed persons.

37 MAIN STREET.

GRACE'S CELEBRATED SALVE.

A SURE RELIEF FOR THE SUFFERER.

This Salve is a vegetable preparation, invented in the 17th century, by DR. WM. GRACE, surgeon in King James's army. Through the agency he cured thousands of most serious sores and wounds that baffled the skill of the most eminent physicians of his day, and was regarded by all who knew him as a public benefactor.

Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Burns.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Scalds.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Flesh Wounds.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Corns.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Felons.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Frozen Limbs.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Wens.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Callouses.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Salt Rheum.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Chilblains.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Sore Breast.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Sore Lips.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Erysipelas Sores.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Abscesses.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Ulcers.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Chapped Hands.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Ringworms.

And from Sores and Wounds of the most severe nature down to a common Pimple. It eradicates Pimples from the face, and beautifies the skin. There is no preparation before the public that can equal this Salve in prompt and energetic action for the speedy cure of external diseases, as those who have tried its virtues testify. Soldiers, Sailors, and Fishermen, will find this Salve their best friend.

It has none of the irritating, heating properties of other remedies, but cools, cleanses, and heals the most serious Sores and Wounds. Every family, and especially those containing children, should keep a box on hand in case of accident, for it will save them much trouble, suffering, and money. All it wants is a fair trial to cure old and inveterate Sores.

MANUFACTURED BY
WILLIAM GRACE,
AMESBURY, MASS.

Price 25 cents, 50 cents, and $1 per box. A saving is made by taking the large size.

Each box has the above cut and the fac-simile of the proprietor's signature attached to it, which is duly copyrighted.

Geo. C. Goodwin & Co. 11 and 12 Marshall st. Weeks & Potter, 170 Washington street, and Burr & Co., 28 Tremont street, Boston, Wholesale Agents.

For sale by D. P. Grosvenor, T. A. Sweetser, George E. Meacom, Druggists, Main street, Danvers, and at country stores everywhere

THE CLOTHES WRINGER

JUST OBTAINED

RHOADES' CELEBRATED

NATIONAL CLOTHES WRINGER,

THE VERY BEST YET INVENTED,

AND REALLY A LABOR SAVING MACHINE.

CALL AND EXAMINE.

For Sale by E. SOUTHWICK,

At the EQUITY GROCERY STORE,

South Danvers, Jan 21, 1863.

To Let on Essex St., Salem.

The STORE and DWELLING HOUSE connected therewith, 250 Essex St. The store is newly fitted up, is one of the best stands in the city, and admirably adapted for Millinery, Fancy, Dry Goods, or any light business.

The Dwelling part contains nine finished rooms, and is supplied with water, gas, etc., all in good order and very convenient.

To a satisfactory tenant, the above will be let on reasonable terms. Apply at J. P. LEW'S Shoe Store, next door west. feb

Choice Spring Pigs for Sale.

THE subscriber offers for sale nice PIGS of the Prince Albert and Chester County breed, which the Mackie took the First Premium at the Cattle Show. Prices reasonable.

BYRON GOODALE,
Near Tapley's Bridge,
South Danvers, April 22, 1863.

Miscellaneous.

☞ An illiterate member of the General Court, being very desirous of making a speech, on one occasion when a bill for organizing the militia was before the House, arose and delivered himself of the following:

"Mr. Speaker. I don't know nothing about this organizing the milishy; I go for retrenchment, Mr. Speaker, and I consider drums and fifes enough, sir, for the milishy without organs, Mr. Speaker."

And down sat the worthy, in a state of great excitement.

POMPEY.—What am dat goes when de wagon goes, stops when de wagon stops. It am no use to de wagon, yet de wagon can't go widout it?

CLEM.—I gubs dat up, Pompey.

POMPEY.—Why, you fool, de noise ob course.

☞ "What object do you see?" asked the doctor. The young man hesitated for a few moments, and then replied, "It appears like a jackass, doctor, but I rather think it is your shadow!"

☞ "Bobby, what is steam?" "Boiling water." "That's right; compare it." "Positive boil, comparative boiler, superlative burst."

☞ Luncheon, says Thackeray, is base ingratitude to breakfast, and premeditated insult to dinner.

☞ A negro girl entered a variety store and asked for some flibberdy flaps—Sabberday coolers. She wanted a fan!

☞ "Toby, what did the Israelites do when they crossed the Red Sea?" I don't know, mamma, but I guess they dried themselves.

☞ Why is the letter A the best remedy for a deaf woman? Because it makes her hear.

☞ At what season of the year did Eve eat the apple? Early in the fall.

WORK OF MERCY. — Unhooking a young lady's frock to enable her to sneeze.

WANTED TO KNOW—If a good view is to be had from the top of the morning?

☞ How many peas are there in a pint? One (p.)

☞ The ladies may not go much upon the highways, but they are complained of by their husbands as being very much addicted to buy-ways.

☞ An editor says the only reason why his house was not blown away during the late gale, was because there was a heavy mortgage upon it.

☞ Blessed is the woman whose husband has a wooden leg, as she will have but one stocking to knit.

TO CONSUMPTIVES.

THE ADVERTISER HAVING BEEN RESTORED to health in a few weeks, by a very simple remedy, after having suffered several years with a severe lung affection, and that dread disease, Consumption—is anxious to make known to his fellow-sufferers the means of cure.

To all who desire it, he will send a copy of the prescription used (free of charge,) with the directions for preparing and using the same, which they will find a SURE CURE for CONSUMPTION, ASTHMA, BRONCHITIS, &c. The only object of the advertiser in sending the Prescription is to benefit the afflicted, and spread information which he conceives to be invaluable, and he hopes every sufferer will try his remedy as it will cost them nothing, and may prove a blessing.

Rev. EDWARD A. WILSON, Williamsburgh,
March, 18, 3m Kings County, New York.

New Jersey Lands for Sale.

—ALSO—

GARDEN OR FRUIT FARMS,

Suitable for Grapes, Peaches, Pears, Raspberries, Strawberries, Blackberries, Currants, &c., of 1, 2½, 5, 10 or 20 acres each, at the following prices for the present, viz: 20 acres for $200, 10 acres for $110, 5 acres for $60, 2½ acres for $40, 1 acre for $20. Payable by one dollar a week.

Also, good Cranberry lands, and village lots in CHETWOOD 25 by 100 feet, at $10 each, payable by one dollar a week. The above land and farms are situated at Chetwood, Washington Township, Burlington, New Jersey. For further information, apply with a P. O. Stamp, for a circular, to

B. FRANKLIN CLARK,
feb 18, 1863 No. 90 Cedar St, New York, N. Y.

TERRIBLE DISCLOSURES — SECRETS FOR THE MILLION!—A most valuable and wonderful publication. A work of 400 pages, and 30 colored engravings. DR. HUNTER'S VADE MECUM, an original and popular treatise on Man and Woman, their Physiology, Functions, and Sexual Disorders of every kind, with Never-Failing Remedies for their speedy cure. The practice of Dr. Hunter has long been, and still is, unbounded, but at the earnest solicitation of numerous persons, he has been induced to extend his medical usefulness through the medium of his "Vade Mecum." It is a volume that should be in the hands of every family in the land, as a preventive of secret vices, or as a guide for the alleviation of one of the most awful and destructive scourges ever visited mankind. One copy, securely enveloped, will be forwarded free of postage to any part of the United States for 50 cents in post office stamps or 3 copies for $1. Address, post paid, DR. HUNTER, No. 3 Dvision Street, New York. je 3—ly

The Diseases of Error.

(Les Maladies d'Erreur.)

I, John B. Ogden, M. D., author and publisher of the above work, do hereby promise and agree to send (free of charge) to any young man who will write for it, a sample for perusal. The proper study of mankind is MAN. This valuable work is issued and sent forth for the benefit of suffering humanity. It treats in simple language on all the diseases of Error, including Seminal Weakness, Nervous Debility, Indigestion, Melancholy, Insanity, Wasting Decay, Impotency, etc., etc.—giving safe, speedy, and effectual prescriptions for their permanent cure, together with much valuable information. All who favor me with a desire to read my work shall receive a sample copy by return mail, free of charge. Address JOHN B. OGDEN, M. D., June 3—3m No. 60 Nassau st, New York.

Cards.

WILLIAM C. CHOATE,
Attorney and Counsellor at Law,
251 Essex St., Salem.
Salem, August 6, 1862. tf

THOMAS M. STIMPSON,
Attorney and Counsellor at Law,
194 ESSEX STREET, SALEM.
Residence Lowell street, South Danvers.

B. C. PERKINS,
Attorney and Counsellor at Law,
South Danvers—Office in Allen's Building.

JOHN W. PROCTOR
Counsellor at Law,
Office near the Monument.

A. A. PUTNAM,
Attorney and Counsellor at Law,
CORNER MAPLE AND ELM ST.,
DANVERS.

ALFRED A. ABBOTT,
Attorney and Counsellor,
Office, No. 24 Washington Street, Salem;
House, Main St., So. Danvers.

IVES & PEABODY,
Attorneys and Counsellors at Law,
Have removed their Office to
Rooms formerly occupied by Hon. Otis P. Lord,
NO. 27 WASHINGTON STREET, SALEM,
STEPHEN B. IVES, jr. JOHN. B. PEABODY

SIDNEY C. BANCROFT,
Attorney and Counsellor at Law,
27 Washington Street, Salem.

H. O. WILEY,
Attorney and Counsellor at Law,
Office, Allen's Building, So. Danvers.

Claims against the Government for Bounty Back Pay, and Pensions, promptly attended to

A. S. CRAWFORD
Dentist,
No. 4 MAIN STREET, So. DANVERS SQUARE
Mechanical Dentistry Neatly Executed.
Teeth Extracted by Electricity without Extra Charge

W. L. BOWDOIN,
SURGEON DENTIST,
No, 208 Essex Street, Salem, (Opposite the Market
Residence—No. 57 Washington street.
jan 11—1y

F. POOLE
INSURANCE AGENT,
Allen's Building (up stairs),
Deeds drawn, and other common forms.

NEWMAN & SYMONDS,
DEALERS IN
Family Groceries, Flour & Grain,
HARD WARE AND CROCKERY,
Ready Made Clothing, Gents' Furnishing Goods,
Hats, Caps, Boots, Shoes, &c.,
South Danvers Square, opp. Congregational Church
SAM'L NEWMAN. NATH'L SYMONDS.

S. C. & E. A. SIMONDS,
DEALERS IN
Crockery, China and Hardware; Paper Hangings; Solar and Entry Lamps; Paints, Oil, and Window Glass.
No. 32 Front street, Lawrence Place,
feb13 SALEM, MASS.

HENRY L. WHIDDEN,
HOUSE AND SIGN PAINTER,
Glazier and Paperer,
Central Street, South Danvers.
All orders promptly and faithfully executed.
jan2-1y

E. S. FLINT,
DEALER IN
West India Goods, Country Produce,
No. 2 Main Street, South Danvers.

JESSE SMITH
No. 262 Essex Street, Salem,
Importer and Dealer in
Gold and Silver Watches,
MARINE CHRONOMETERS,
Aneroid Barometers, Spy Glasses, &c.

WILLIAM BLANEY,
HOUSE & SIGN PAINTER
Grainer, Glazier and Paper Hanger.
164 MAIN STREET, Corner of Grove.
WINDOWS and BLINDS cheap for cash.
mch6-tf

JOHN MOULTON,
LIVERY STABLE,
Central Street, South Danvers.
Mr. M. will endeavor to keep up the good reputation of his stable, by still keeping good Horses and Carriages. jan 7, 1863.

SPRING STYLE
DRESS HATS,
NOW READY
AT JACKSON'S,
101 COURT STREET, BOSTON.

Also a large and varied assortment of CAPS and SOFT HATS, for Boys' and Men's wear. Those wishing articles in the above line would do well to call before purchasing.

JOSEPH A. JACKSON.
Boston, April 1, 1863. 3m

To Let.

A SMALL but pleasant and convenient Chamber Tenement, in the house formerly occupied by the late Wood Forness, upon the corner of Washington and Pleasant Streets. For particulars apply to
SIDNEY C. BANCROFT.
South Danvers, April 22. tf

JOHN FARRELL,
DRAPER AND TAILOR,
HAVING removed to his old place of business, 138 MAIN ST., South Danvers, (over Batchelder's Grocery Store), is prepared to Cut, Make, Repair, or furnish Garments, for Men and Youths at short notice.
South Danvers, April 1. tf

Crockery Ware.

A FULL assortment of China and Crockery Ware; Wooden Ware; Table Cutlery; Tea Trays; Britannia Ware and Silver Plated Ware, &c—for sale at the General Furnishing Store for Housekeepers, No. 32 Front street.
ap 22 S C & E A SIMONDS.

CARD PHOTOGRAPHS.

RAPHAEL'S Hours, Liberty, On the Beach, Evening, Prince and Princess, etc—at
may 13 G M WHIPPLE & A A SMITH'S

H. & H. G. HUBON.
WASHINGTON STREET, SALEM
Manufacturers of
Rose Wood, Mahogany, Black Walnut and Stained Wood
COFFINS and CASKETS.

MAKING this our exclusive business, we are ready at all times and at the shortest notice to furnish Grave Clothes of various styles, as well as Coffins and Caskets of the finest finish. Personal attention given, and delivered without extra charge to any of the neighboring towns. All orders by express or otherwise will receive prompt attention.

Black Walnut and White Wood Boards, Plank and Joists for sale.
dec 14—tf

GAYLE & CO.,
GENERAL COMMISSION MERCHANTS,
DEALERS IN
Flour, Grain and Produce,
Manufacturers' Agents for the sale of
Concentrated Leaven, Soda and Pearlash Saleratus, and Bi Carb. Soda.
PHILLIPS WHARF, - - - - Salem.

T. HARDY, JR.,
—Dealer in—
DOORS, SASHES, BLINDS,
Glazed Sash, Painted Blinds,
FENCE PALES, STAIR BALUSTERS, FRAMING PINS, &c.,
No. 26 FRONT STREET,
Salem, January 14, 1863—6m

Salem and Danvers Aqueduct Co'y.

ALL persons using the water of the Salem and South Danvers Aqueduct are hereby notified that the water rents, for the six months ending May 1, 1863, are now due, and that they are required to pay the same, at the office of the Company, No 2 Sewall street, on the 1st day of May next. Should the bills remain unpaid for thirty days, the water will be stopped, in conformity to the regulations of the Company.

Office hours, from 9 to 1 o'clock, and from 2 to 5.

Per order of the Directors,
apr 1 WM. JELLY, Collector.

HEYLINGBERG'S
Hair Dressing Saloon,
24 MAIN ST., SOUTH DANVERS.
TARIFF OF PRICES:

Shaving,	6 cts.
Hair Cutting,	12 cts.
Champooing,	15 cts.
Champooing and Hair Cutting,	25 cts.

No more new Quarterly Customers taken.
In consequence of the scarcity of Change, 18 checks will be sold for one dollar.
South Danvers, Dec 17, 1862.

THOMAS DAVIS,
ADVERTISING AGENT
For the principal New England Newspapers, remains at the old stand, No. 23 Cornhill, Boston, where you will find him still loyal to the Constitution, the Laws, and Advertising.
Boston, Jan 29, 1862. tf

WALKING MADE EASY.
CORNS.
DR. P. KENISON,
CHIROPODIST,
215 Washington St., Boston,
Cures Hard and Soft Corns, Bunions, Club Nails, Nails penetrating the Flesh, Warts, &c., in a manner that will satisfy the most incredulous.

SPEED, COMFORT AND SAFETY!
FOR NEW YORK.
Norwich Steamboat Train.
The only Boats Landing at Jersey City.

CABIN Passage, $4.00; Deck Passage, $3.00. The new and elegant sixteen wheel cars of the steamboat express train leave the Boston & Worcester Railroad Station, Albany Street, at 5½ P. M., daily, connecting with the new steamers, (built expressly for this line,) CITY OF BOSTON, Capt. WILCOX, Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays; CITY OF NEW YORK, Capt. JEWETT, Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays, which (before proceeding to their Pier, No. 39 North River,) will touch at the wharf of the New Jersey Railroad at Jersey City, (Sundays excepted) thus enabling Southern Passengers to make sure connections with the First Southern Train, and at the same time avoid the great annoyance of the Ferry and Hack transportation in the crowded streets of New York. This insures ample time for Breakfast before the trains leave. Conductors D. F. WALLER and W. F. BARTON accompany the passengers through.

Tickets, Berths and Staterooms secured at the Railroad Station, and at the Office of the line, 79 Washington Street, Boston.

Through tickets to Philadelphia, Baltimore and Washington can be had at 79 Washington Street, Boston. WM. DICKEY, Jr., Agent.
Boston, January 7, 1863.

100,000 BARRELS OF THE LODI MANUFACTURING COMPANY'S
POUDRETTE,
111 COMMERCIAL ST., BOSTON, MASS.

This Company, with a capital of $150,000, the most extensive works of the kind in the world, and an experience in manufacturing of over 23 years, with a reputation long established, having also the exclusive control of all the night soil of the great city of New York, are prepared to furnish an article, which is, without doubt, the CHEAPEST AND VERY BEST fertilizer in market. It greatly increases the yield, and ripens the crop from two to three weeks earlier, at an expense of from three to four dollars per acre, with little or no labor. Also, FIFTY TONS of BONE TAFEU, being a mixture of bone and night soil ground fine, at $45 per ton—the superior article for grain, &c. A pamphlet containing all necessary information may be had free by addressing a letter to the LODI MANUFACTURING CO., No. 111 Commercial Street, Boston, Mass.

Price of POUDRETTE, $1.65 per harrell. Seven barrells and over delivered free of charge.

Chickering & Sons' Piano-Fortes.
Hallett & Cumston's Piano-Fortes.
Hallett & Davis's Piano-Fortes.

We select our Piano-Fortes from the above firms and warrant them to give perfect satisfaction. Our terms are reasonable, and all persons in the city and neighboring towns can be accommodated by calling at 76 Federal street.

FOR SALE—Second-hand Piano-Fortes,—Chickering's and others.
ap 29 ANN R. BRAY.

D. W. BOWDOIN,
—ARTIST IN—
PHOTOGRAPHIC PICTURES.
Rooms No. 175 Essex st, Salem, [Downing's Block]

Portraits, Miniatures, and Views, by the Ambrotype, Daguerreotype. Photograph and Stereoscope process—finished in India Ink, Oil and Water colors.

☞ Particular attention paid to restoring old Daguerreotypes, and other pictures—and making enlarged copies, highly finished. may

NEW YORK WHITE LEAD.
2500 L New York White Lead;
Also Fores River White Lead—for sale by
mch 4 S C & E A SIMONDS.

WIRE GOODS.
WIRE Rat Traps; Broilers; Steamers; Sieves etc., just received at
S C & E A SIMONDS', 32 Front st.

DIARIES--1863.
VN excellent assortment at the lowest prices, for sale by G M WHIPPLE & A A SMITH.

NEW NEEDLE THREADER.
DOUBLE-ENDED, Excelsior Sewing Needle Threader and Worsted Ehreader combined—of great utility for near sighted or nervous people in threading needles, numbering from 4 to 12, and also Darning Needles,
Call and see them, at
mch 4 G M WHIPPLE & A A SMITH'S.

JUVENILE BOOKS,
A VERY large assortment for sale by
G M WHIPPLE & A A SMITH.

W. E. P. SMYTH,
Attorney and Counsellor at Law,
Proctor in Admiralty, and Commissioner of Deeds for the several States.
Frazier's Building, over the Post Office,
LYNN, MASS.

Having peculiar means for prosecuting, with accuracy and dispatch, all claims against Government, especially those for Bounty, Back Pay and Pensions, I have made this a specialty. Several months' residence in Washington enabled me to become thoroughly conversant with the routine of business in all the Departments, through which claims, of whatever nature, are passed, and also familiar with the practice in the U. S. Court of Claims; in addition to which I have a partner there resident, and a former partner in the Treasury Department, which advantages give me unexcelled facilities for the successful prosecution of business in any way connected with Government.

Important to Soldiers, Marines and their Heirs.

Persons enlisted in the U. S. Service, Land or Naval, since March 1, 1861, if disabled in the service, are entitled to Pension; Relatives of Persons deceased in the service are entitled to Bounty and Pension; in the following order:

1st. The Widow. 4th. The Mother.
2d. The Children. 5th The Brothers and Sisters collectively.
3d. The Father.

LETTERS OF ADMINISTRATION need not be taken on, in ordinary cases, to enable heirs of persons deceased in the service to obtain Pensions and Bounty.

When a discharge is granted for disability, In no case should the Oath of Identity on the back of the Discharge be filled up. The safest course is, to carry all papers at once to an Attorney, without tampering with them. All these who have claims, should present them without delay, as soon, the pressure will be so great upon the Auditor's Office, by reason of numerous applications, that applicants will be subjected to vexatious delay in getting their claims audited.

NO CHARGE MADE UNTIL CLAIMS ARE PAID.

Claims left at the Post Office, South Danvers, will be promptly forwarded.

Lynn, Aug 27, 1862—1y

CHARLES S. BUFFUM,
FURNISHING UNDERTAKER,
Central street, South Danvers,

HAVING provided himself with a HEARSE, is prepared to attend Funerals in any of the neighboring towns, with one or a pair of Horses.

He keeps as good an assortment of

COFFINS AND CASKETS,

as can be found at any establishment, and at the lowest prices.

He will also attend to Laying Out, etc.

All orders from the neighboring towns met with prompt attention. jan 14

SLATING. SLATING.
GEORGE FOWLER & COMPA'Y,

NO. 2 ST. PETER COURT, SALEM, respectfully inform their friends and the citizens of this and neighboring towns and cities that they are prepared to execute all orders for Slating, promptly and faithfully.

Roofs covered with any description of Slates, or repaired at short notice.

All work undertaken will be warranted.
Address—Box 366, Salem Post Office.
Salem, January 28—1863. tf

PATTERSON S
LEATHER HANDLING MACHINE

THE undersigned are agents for the above machine. It can be seen in operation at Pinder & Brown's Tannery.

may 7—3m CLARK & GIDDINGS.

MESSRS. CLARK & GIDDINGS,
Wallis Street, South Danvers,
Are Agents for
GEORGE W. FISKE & CO.'S
PATENT EAVE TROUGHS
CUTTERS, CONDUCTORS AND PIPE FOR DRAINS.
South Danvers, May 22, 1861.

R. C. MANNING & CO.
Successors to JOHN DIKE & CO.,
DEALERS IN
COAL, WOOD, BARK, HAY, &c,
183 DERBY STREET,
SALEM, MASS.
N. C. ROBBINS, R. C. MANNING.
oct17

FRANKLIN COAL.

JUST landed, a cargo of FRANKLIN COAL —the best in the world for domestic use.
POTTER, BACHELDER & CO.,
Successors to M. Black, Jr.
Danversport, May 6, 1861. tf

E. N. PRICE,
Manufacturer and Dealer in
HARNESSES,
SADDLES, BRIDLES,
AND WHIPS.
— ALSO —
Trunks, Valises and Traveling Bags.

All orders for Manufacturing and Repairing executed with promptness, and in the best manner.

237 Essex Street, Salem, Mass.
mch13-tf

THOMAS PINNOCK,
SLATER,
SALEM, MASS.

Orders may be left at his Yard, No. 25 Peabody St., or at his house No. 6 Hancock street, South Salem.

Roofs covered with any kind of Slates, according to order. All work warranted.
Salem, May 7, 1862. tf

CURRIER & MILLETT,
Dealers in

Furniture, Chairs,
MATTRESSES, FEATHERS, &c
259 & 261 ESSEX ST.
Salem, dec 14—1y

AARON T. LOWE,
DEALER IN
BOOTS, SHOES AND RUBBERS,
76 BOSTON STREET, 76.
aug 6 SALEM. tf

NOTICE.

THE subscriber being about to leave town for a few months, would take this opportunity to inform his customers and friends that his shop on Pleasant Street will be kept open during his absence by Mr. JOHN P. FRIEND, who will faithfully attend to any orders.
JAMES PERKINS.
South Danvers, Sept. 3, 1862.

E. R. PERKINS,
PHOTOGRAPHIC ARTIST
241 Essex Street, Salem.
Patent Ambrotypes, Stereoscopes,
Photographs, Sphereotypes, Melainotypes and patent leather Pictures, of various sizes, taken with all the improvements of the art. Portraits, Miniatures, Engravings, &c., accurately copied. Views taken when desired. jan 11

HILTON'S INSOLUBLE CEMENT,
UNIVERSALLY liked—for sale by
G M WHIPPLE & A A SMITH.

Dr. Ham's Spirit.

MUNROE'S
(LATE REED'S)
SOUTH DANVERS & BOSTON
RAILROAD EXPRESS.

Express leaves South Danvers at		10 1-2 a. m.
Freight " "	at	5 p. m.
Express leaves Boston at		3 1-2 p. m.
Freight " "	at	5 p. m.

OFFICE at FREIGHT DEPOT, South Danvers Square.
Order Box W. M. Jacobs' store, Main street.

EXPRESS OFFICE, in Boston, 5 Congress Square; Freight Office, 1 Fulton st.
Also an Order Box at 86 Pearl street.

Particular attention paid to removing Furniture, collecting Bills, Notes, Drafts, &c.

ARMY EXPRESS.

Packages received and sent forward daily for Baltimore, Fortress Monroe, Annapolis, Washington, Alexandria, and any other point where the different regiments are stationed.

WM. C. MUNROE,
South Danvers, may 13—tf

Eastern Railroad.

ON and after MONDAY, April 6, 1863, Trains will leave the Eastern Railroad Station, Washington street, Salem, daily. (Sundays excepted):

For Lynn and Boston, *5.50, 7, 8¼, 9, *10, 11 a m., 1, *2½, 5½, 7½ p. m.
Beverly, 8¼ am., 1, 3½, 5¼, 6.55, 7½ p m.
W. Beach, Man'r, Gloucester, and Rockport, 8¼ a m., 3½, 5¼ p m.
Ipswich and Newburyport, 8¼ a m., 1, 3½, 5½, 6 55 p m.
Amesbury, 8¼ a m., 1, 5¼ p m.
Portsmouth, 8¼ a m., 3½, 5¼ p m.
Portland, 8¼ a m., 3½ p m.

AND FOR SALEM, FROM

Portland, 8¼ a m, 3 p m.
Portsmouth, 7½ †11¼ a m., †5½ p m.
Amesbury, 7.35, 9 40 a m., 5.50 p m.
Newburyport, 7, 8, 10 a m, 12 m. 6½ p m.
Ipswich, 7 25, 8.25, 10.25 a m, 12 25, 6.40 p m.
Gloucester, 7, 10, 10 10 a m., 4.40 p m.
Manchester, 7.25, 10.25 a m., 4 55 p m.
Beverly, 6.50, 7.50, 8 50, 10.50 a m., 12.50, 5.20, 7 05 pm.
Lynn, 8.05, *9 05, 11 05 a m, 12 50, *1.35, 3.05, *3.35, *4 35, 5.35, *6 20, 5¼, *7 35, *8.05 p m
Boston, 7½, *8½, 10½ a m., 12½, 2½, 3, *4, 5, 6.10, *7, *9½.

*Via Sangus Branch.
†On or arrival from the East.
‡On Wednesdays this train leaves Boston at 11½ p m. and on Saturdays at 10½ p m.

MARBLEHEAD BRANCH.

Marblehead for Salem, 6¾, 7¾, 8¾, 9¾ a m., 12¾, 1¾, 5½, 6¾, 7½ p m.
Salem for Marblehead, 7½, 8½, 9.25, 11½ a m., 1, 3½, 5¾, 7, 7.50 p m.

SOUTH READING BRANCH.

Trains leave the South Reading Depot in Salem for Boston at 6¾, 9.50 a m., 2.55, 4.55 p m
Boston for Salem, 7 a m, 12 m., 3, 5½ p m.

ESSEX RAILROAD.

Leave Salem for Lawrence and way stations, 7, 11½ a m., 4.50 p m.
Lawrence for Salem, 8 a m., 12.40, 6 p m.
Danvers for Salem, 8 40 a m., 1.20, 6.40 p m.
South Danvers for Salem, 7¾ a m., 12¾, 3¾, 6½ p m.

J. PRESCOTT, Superintendent.
Boston, April 6, 1863.

Salem and Lowell Railroad.

ON and after MONDAY, April 6, 1863, Trains will run as follows:

Leave Lowell for Salem, 7.25 a m., and *2.45 p m.
Leave Salem for Lowell, *9 40 a m. and 5 55 p m.

Passengers are not allowed to carry baggage above $50 in value, and that personal, unless notice is given and an extra amount paid. Season tickets do not entitle the holder to take baggage.

*Freight Train with passenger car attached.

F. H. NOURSE, Local Superintendent.
April 6, 1863.

TAKE NOTICE.

THAT Dr. Ham's Dyspepsia Remedy has been before the public for the past ten years. And in that time the people who have used it will vouch for the benefit they have derived from it. The character of his article and its reputation can also be obtained from the dealers who sell it, or have sold it for any length of time, to both of those, Dr Ham refers and is willing to stand the test. And also challenges any new compound to produce the same results, let alone delicacy of flavor, of his INVIGORATING SPIRIT, which for ITS EFFECTS UPON THE BILE, A TORPED LIVER, LOW SPIRITS, or when the blood is affected as seen by SKIN DISEASES or its ACTION UPON THE KIDNEYS, in fact for any person who is run down by the wear and care of this world will find relief in this old and well tried remedy.

Astonishing.

TO Dr. Ham, who has modestly put before the public his DYSPEPSIA REMEDY for ten years past, to look back and see the number of tremendous articles within that time, that have sprung up like a rocket, and gone down like the stick which guides it in its glorious ascent. Some come out and claim to tell the public they use unknown Barks from South America, with any quantity of rum from the West Indias, &c. Dr Ham takes this opportunity to refer to the MEDICAL FACULTY here and everywhere that his article is in use, as to its qualifications, and challenges any one to produce a person, male or female, who has used it as directed, that will not speak favorable of it for DISORGANIZED STOMACH, Dyspepsia, loss of appetite, want of action of the Kidneys, as well as many other complaints that humanity are afflicted with.

To Ladies.

DR. HAM'S Dyspepsia Remedy is just the thing you require to remove the languor caused by weakness and debility; it invigorates the system, causes the blood to take new life in its varied course through the system, in fact it gives tone to the system and will relieve and remove the thousand irregularities that from various causes you are afflicted with. For Dyspepsia it is a never failing remedy, it has stood the test of years, and we have yet to hear of its failing to give relief to the afflicted thousands who have received health and happiness by its use.

To Gentlemen.

DR. HAM knows that you do not always pay much attention to the many different articles put before you in the paper, but we would refer you to our agents who you will find are the respectable merchants and dealers, in regard to the Invigorating Spirit; some of them have sold it for years, and know well the reputation it has amongst those who have used it in assisting nature to eradicate diseases. It will renovate the system, as it acts directly on the blood, removing all obstructions to the general health, will cure Liver Complaints, Dyspepsia, Nervous Affections, Sour Stomach, HEADACHE, Weakness, Loss of Appetite, as well as obstruction in the Kidney, Bladder or Urinary Organs. Try it. We will guarantee you will be satisfied with the result.

General Depot, 63 Liberty Street, New York. Sold by Weeks & Potter, 154 Washington Street, M. S. Burr & Co., 26 Tremont Street, G. C. Goodwin & Co., 11 Marshall Street, Boston; and in South Danvers by George E. Meacom, T. A. Sweetser, D. P. Grosvenor, Jr., Main Street; and by Druggists everywhere.
Feb 29, 1863 1y

NEW ENGLAND
FERTILIZER DEPOT,
No. 111 Commercial St., Boston.

TO FARMERS AND TRADERS!

WE desire to call your attention to our stock of FERTILIZERS, having the largest supply and fullest assortment of reliable brands ever offered in this market. Our stock embraces

Coe's, Hoyt's, Rhodes } SUPER-PHOSPHATE LIME.
No. 1 PERUVIANGUANO.
GROUND BONE, [coarse and fine.]
BONE MEAL. LAND PLASTER.
FISH GUANO. BONE TAFEU.
LIME, CEMENT, &c., &c.

We are also Sole Agents for the
LODI MANUFACTURING CO.'S
POUDRETTE.

Get our terms before purchasing elsewhere. We sell at manufacturers' prices. Samples can be seen of all of the above; also a pamplet, with a Farmer's Almanac for 1863, may be had free on application by mail or otherwise.

J. M. & P. RICHARDS,
Sales Office 111 Commercial St., Boston, Mass.
apr 1—3m

E. S. FLINT,
Manufacturer and Dealer in
INNER SOLES,
AND SHOE STIFFENINGS OF ALL KINDS.
2 MAIN STREET, SOUTH DANVERS.

DIARIES FOR
1863. Every variety and style—all sizes—for sale at nov 26 G M WHIPPLE & A A SMITH'S, Sign of the Five Golden Books,

SOUTH DANVERS
POST OFFICE.
GENERAL MAIL ARRANGEMENT.
MAILS CLOSE
At 10 3-4 A. M., and 4 3-4 P. M.
MAILS DUE
At 9 1-2 A. M., and 3 P. M.

Post Office open (Sundays excepted) from 7 o'clock, A. M., till 8 P. M. Saturdays open till 8 1-2 P. M.

F. POOLE, P. M.
South Danvers, Oct. 1, 1862.

Poor Richard's Eye and Ear Water.
Prof. M. G. BROWN.
SCIENTIFIC ARTICLE ON THE EYE AND EAR.

Reader, allow me to call your attention to a fact which hitherto you have not been acquainted with, namely, that there is not a sound eye in the land. The eyes are the only members of the body totally neglected; there is nothing done for the eye; its wants are neither studied or regarded. This untiring servant is the first in action at birth, and the last at death, yet it seems to pass even common observation.

Notwithstanding all the ignorance and neglect of the eye, it is unquestionably true that every department of the human system is dependent on it for life and health.

The Divine Machinator has placed 8000 tubes and glands around the eyes, through which the saltish fountain (same as supplies the tear) is designed to pass as dew, finding its way to every crevice and nook in the flesh, whose chief tendency is to mucus. This fountain is to the body what dew is to the plants. The flesh can only be kept free from mucus (which is the precursor of disease) through the tubes and glands around the eyes being keep open, allowing the teary, saltish fountain to pass freely forward. If the laws of mind and body are disregarded or insulted, these faithful sentinels shut up like a sensitive plant, thus refusing to pass this life, giving dew to the parched flesh, whereby the entire machinery of the human body can alone find its natural moisture. When this fountain is cut off, the system is open to every kind of disease, which first begins with small streaks of blood-shot at the bottom of the ball of the eye; these are streaks of death if not removed. Examine your eyes and you will find these streaks moving over the white of the eye towards the pupil: generally the eye gets scumy and glassy; the ball turns a green or yellowish color, this is a sure indication of the following diseases (which are solely caused by the moisture being cut off from the system): Nervousness, headache, earache, deafness, loss of hair, neuralgia, rheumatism, blotches on the face and skin, diptheria, sore throat, bronchitis, catarrah, soreness of the chest, decay of the lungs, deprivation of the fluids; these, with all other diseases, are caused as above described. One stoppage leads to another, until disease destroys the system.

To secure moisture for a patient is the only hope of the physician. Benjamin Franklin has immortalized himself by such sayings as, an ounce of prevention is better than a pound of cure.

Reader, if you desire to be saved from the kindred diseases which make life a burden, then create an appetite in your eyes by giving them a drink of Poor Richard every morning immediately after you wash, and just before retiring at night. Do not say—Let well enough alone; consider the lilies of the field, they receive the life giving dew while they are in perfect health—go thou and do likewise.

Please read the following letter from the Rev. P. S. Henson, pastor of the Broad Street Baptist Church:

Philadelphia, Oct. 17, 1862.

From injuries received in my right eye when a boy, a chronic inflammation had been produced, in consequence of which I suffered constant martyrdom. Every moment of my waking life was embittered, and I was frequently unable to sleep at night.

A variety of remedies had been resorted to without success, and I entertained the purpose, as a last resort, of having the ball taken out of its socket in the hope of finding thus relief.

In the meanwhile, most providentially I noticed one day in a shop window a bottle of Poor Richard's Eye Water. I had never heard of it before, but determined to try it—and did with the most delightful results. In a very few days the painful irritation was removed—I could bear the strongest light, and went forth as it were to the enjoyment of a new life. I now keep a bottle of it always in the house, and if my eye seems at all disposed to annoy me, I give it a dose, and that is an end of it. I take occasion to say further, that my wife used to suffer severely at times from protracted pain in and over her eyes, and she has found Poor Richard's Eye Water a sovereign specific in her case, giving her almost instant relief.

Grateful to God for the benefit I have personally received, I cannot but recommend the preparation most cordially to all who have been sufferers like myself.

P. S. HENSON,
Pastor of the Broad Street Baptist Church.
Residence 1430 Poplar St., Philadelphia.

Thousands of certificates could be published, of the most remarkable cures on record. It is a perfect restorer of weak sight and dim vision; it cures Deafness, Catarrh, Sore Throat, prevents Loss of Hair, with all kindred diseases.

Directions.—Bathe with a glass tube, at least the ear (many bathe the eyes with the finger). Ask the druggist for the tube—it costs 6 cents.

Poor Richard's Eye Water sells at 25 cents per bottle.

Sold by George E. Meacom, South Danvers, and Druggists everywhere. Weeks & Potter, wholesale agents, Boston.

MRS. M. G. BROWN,
410 Arch St. Philadelphia, Proprietor.

Are you Insured?

THE subscriber would respectfully call your attention to the fact that he is fully prepared to effect INSURANCE AGAINST FIRE, to any amount, at current rates, on

Dwelling Houses, Barns and their contents, Stores, Stocks of Goods, Furniture, &c. &c., and on buildings in process of erection,

And that he is the authorized Agent for the following responsible Stock and Mutual Companies, viz:

Thames Insurance Co., (Stock.) Norwich, Conn.
Capital—$500,000.
Amos W. Prentice, Pres. Oliver F. Rice, Sec'y
Conway Insurance Company, (Stock) Boston.
Capital and Surplus—$260,000.
James F. Whitney, Pres. David C. Rogers, Sec'y.
City Insurance Company, (Stock) Boston.
Capital—$150,000.
Samuel P. Hayward, Pres. Austin W. Benton, Sec'y

Also, will effect Insurance on the LIVES OF INDIVIDUALS, for one year, seven years, or for the whole term of life, in the

Massachusetts Mutual Life Ins. Co., Springfield, Mass.
Capital and Assetts—$375,000.
Caleb Rice, Pres. D. B. Bacon, Sec'y.
William Mack, M. D., Medical Examiner.

WM. ARCHER, Jr.,
18 Washington st. and 34 Front st., Salem.
ej b20-1

E. F. BURNHAM,
SOLE AGENT FOR
SARGENT & CO.S'
MAGIC SOAP
For South Danvers & Salem.
OFFICE—Central St., opp. Lowell Depot, at Burnham's Express Office, So. Danvers.
Price $3.50 per 100 Lbs.
Orders sent by mail or otherwise to So. Danvers will be promptly attended to. tf-oct3

WM. C. HENDERSON,
MANUFACTURER OF
PLAIN AND FANCY
PAPER BOXES,
No. 235 ESSEX STREET,
Sign of "Nest of Boxes,"
July 23 SALEM. tf

SUMMER ARRANGE
TO LYNN & BOST
BY OMNIBUS & HORSE
W. F. BURNHAM

Line of Omnibuses will leave the Ly
Omnibus Office, No. 6 Allen's Buildin vers passing down Main Street, throug
Street, to Lynn, daily.
Leave South Danvers at 7 50 o'cloc
and 4 50 P. M.
Leave Lynn (Horse Car Depot, West
A. M., 2 40 and 6 40 P. M.
Horse Cars leaving Scollay's Building at 8 15 A. M., 1 15 and 5 15 P. M., will m buses at Lynn, at the above named passengers to South Danvers.

Sunday Arrangements

Leave S. Danvers at 7.50 a.m., 8
Leave Lynn at 9.40 a.m., and 6.
Cars leave Scollay's Building, Court to meet the Omnibuses in Lynn for Sou
8 15 A. M., and 5 15 P. M.
Tickets to Lynn, - -
Through to Boston, - -
Through Tickets to and from Boston
the Drivers and Conductors.
Passengers called for at reasonable c
is given at the office.

EXPRESS BUSINE
Between South Danvers and Lynn p ed to, on reasonable terms.
Extra Coaches furnished at short no

South Danvers Wizard.

VOL. IV. SOUTH DANVERS, MASS., WEDNESDAY, JULY 1, 1863. NO. 26.

THE SOUTH DANVERS WIZARD
Is published every WEDNESDAY, at Allen's building, South Danvers Square.
TERMS—Two Dollars a year.
ADVERTISEMENTS inserted at reasonable rates.

CHARLES D. HOWARD,
EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR.

A. A. PUTNAM,
ASSISTANT EDITOR, DANVERS.

Selected Poetry.

A HOMELY SONG OF TOIL.

I passed by the door of the workshop—
The workmen they were three;
And they blithely sang, while the anvils' clang
Made music to their glee:

"Ho! for the strength to do!
Ho! for the will to dare!
Ho! for the patience, long and true,
That baffles want and care!

"We view not with hatred or envy
The lords of sloth and ease;
But may heaven forefend that our sons should lend
In aping things like these!

"What are they but tares
That fall before the plough?
And what the diamonds Beauty wears,
To the sweat on Labor's brow?

"The sluggard may sicken of pleasure,
'Mid feasts of gay delight;
But we find our wealth in the pulse of health,
And our sauce in appetite.

"Ah! wife and child are dear,
And home is doubly sweet,
To men who seek but humble cheer,
And earn the bread they eat!

"We would not abide in a palace,
To sleep 'twixt doubt and fear;
We would never sup from a prince's cup,
To taste the widow's tear;

"We would not stoop to strike
A neighbor for his spoil;
We think, and feel, and share alike,
In the brotherhood of toil.

"The earth hath enough for her children;
But she loves the sturdy heart;
And she says that all may be free from thrall,
If each will bear his part.

"Then let us live content,
To learn in Nature's school,
That riches are the accident,
And labor is the rule!"

I pass by the door of the workshop;
And I lift my cap in air, [Skill
To the Strength, and Will, and the Patient
That have their dwelling there.

Ho! for the strength to do!
Ho! for the will to dare!
Ho! for the patience, long and true,
That baffles want and care.

Selected.

THE GIRL AND BASKET TRICK.

The juggler calls the little girl to him and begins to play with her, at first gently, then a little more boisterously, until at last he thrusts her roughly under the basket, tells her he shall keep her there until she is good. The little girl begins to whine and remonstrate from underneath the basket; the juggler gets angry, scolds her, and tells her to hold her tongue, else he will whip her; but the little one is unappeasable, and the quarrel goes on, increasing in intensity, until at last the man in a paroxysm of anger, draws his sword, and thrusts it wildly into the basket. The screams of the child are heart-rending—her yells and cries agonizing; but the juggler stabs and stabs again, and works his sword about the wicker work in uncontrollable and fiendish fury. The child's voice ceases, and just a few heavy sobs are heard, fainter—fainter, as the last gasps of a murdered child would be—and then, all is still. The juggler pulls his bloody sword from the basket, wipes it, and composedly salaams Mem Sahib and her friends, who are generally in a state of hysterical distress; sometimes, indeed, the soldiers are with difficulty restrained from tearing the man to pieces, especially in one case known to me, when the captain of the company, himself quivering in every limb with horror and agitation, had actually to defend the juggler from the excited men. How it might have fared with him Heaven only knows, but that, on his giving a peculiar cry, the little girl came bounding and laughing into the circle (coming from behind the soldiers,) though every man was ready to swear that she had not passed him, and could not have passed through the thick ranks anywhere. Now how is that trick done? It is nothing but jugglery from first to last—as much mere jugglery as Torrin's trick of sawing one live page in two, or as Robbins' of pulling one pigeon in two; but mere trick as it is, it is undiscovered yet, though hundreds of shrewd, hard-headed, unimaginative, and scientific Englishmen have seen it, thought about it, tried—and been baffled—for half a dozen generations.—All the Year Round.

DON'T PROPOSE IN THE DARK.

The pretty square farm house, standing at the corner near Kilbes lane (for the first phrase, although giving by far the closest picture of the place, does, it must be confessed, look rather Irish) and where the aforesaid brook winds away by another lane, until it spreads into river like dignity, as it meanders through the sunny plain of Hartly common, and finally disappears amidst the green recesses of Perge wood—that pretty square farm house, half hidden by the tall elms in the flower court before it, which with the spacious garden and orchard behind, and the extensive barn, yards and out-building, so completely occupies one of the angles formed by the crossing of the lane and the stream—that pretty farm house contains one of the happiest and most prosperous families in Aberleigh — the large and thriving families of Farmer Evans.

Whether from skill or from good fortune—or, as is most probable, from a very lucky mixture of both—everything goes right on his great farm. His crops are the best in the parish; his hay is never spoiled; his cattle never die; his servants never thieve; his children are never ill. He buys cheap and sells dear; money gathers upon him like a snow ball—and yet, in spite of all this provoking and intolerable prosperity, everybody loves Farmer Evans. He is so hospitable, so good natured, so generous and so homely!

There, after all, lies the charm. Riches have not only not spoilt the man, but they have not altered him. He is just the same in look, and word and way, that he was thirty years ago, when he and his wife, with two sorry horses, a cow and three pigs, began the world at Dean Gate, a little bargain of twenty miles off. Ay, and his wife is the same woman!—the same frugal, tidy, industrious, good natured Mrs. Evans—so noted for her activity in tongue and limb, her good looks and her plain dressing; as frugal, as good natured, as active, as plain dressing is Mrs. Evans at forty-five as she was at nineteen, and in a different way, almost as good looking.

The children six "boys," as Farmer Evans promiscuously calls them, whose ages vary from eight to twenty, and three girls, two grown up, and one the youngest of the family—are just what we might expect from parents who are so simple and so good. The young men, intelligent and well conducted; the boys, docile and promising; and the little girl, as pretty a little curly-headed, rosy-cheeked poppet as ever was the pet and plaything of a large family. It is, however, with the eldest daughters we have to do.

Jane and Patty Evans were as much alike as hath ever befallen any two sisters not born at one time; for, in the matter of twin children there has been a series of puzzles ever since the days of the Dromois. Nearly of an age, (I believe at this moment both are turned nineteen, and neither has reached twenty,) exactly of a stature, (so high that Frederick the Great would have coveted them for his tall regiment,) with hazel eyes, large mouths, full lips, white teeth, brown hair, clear, healthy complexion, and that sort of nose which is neither Greek nor Roman, nor aqualine, nor ce petit nez vet rousse, that some persons prefer to them all, but a nose which, moderately prominent, and sufficiently well shaped, is yet as far as I know, anonymous, although it be perhaps as common and as well looking a feature as is to be seen on an English face. Altogether, they were a pair of tall and comely maidens, and being constantly attired in garments of the same color and fashion, looked at all times so much alike, that no stranger ever dreamed of knowing them apart, and even their acquaintances were rather accustomed to speak and think of them generally as "the Evanses," than as the separate individuals Jane and Patty.—Even those who did pretend to distinguish the one from the other, were not exempt from mistakes, which the sisters—Patty especially, who delighted in the fun so often produced by the unusual resemblance—were apt to favor by changing places in a walk, or slipping from one side to the other at a country tea-party, or playing a hundred innocent tricks, to occasion at once a grave blunder and a merry laugh.

Old Dinah Goodwin, for instance—who being rather purblind, was jealous of being suspected of seeing less clearly than her neighbors, and had defied even the Evanses to puzzle her discernment—seeking in vain on Patty's hand the cut finger which she had dressed on Jane's, ascribed the incredible cure to her own incomparable salve; and could hardly be undeceived, even by the pulling off of Jane's glove and the exhibition of the lacerated digital sewed round by her own bandage. Young George Kelly, too, the greatest beau in the parish, having bet at a Christmas party that he would dance with every pretty girl in the room, lost his wager, which Patty had overheard, by that saucy damsel's slipping into her sisters's place, and persuading her to join her own unconscious partner: so that George danced twice with Patty and not at all with Jane. A bantering piece of malice which proved, as the young gentleman (a rustic exquisite of the first water) was pleased to assert, that Miss Patty was not displeased with her partner.—How little does a vain man know of woman-kind. If she had liked him, she would not have played the trick for all the mines of Golconda. In short, from their school days, when Jane was chidden for Patty's bad work, and Patty slapped for Jane's bad spinning, down to this their prime of womanhood, there had been no end to the confusion produced by this remarkable instance of family likeness.

And yet nature—who sets some mark of individuality upon even her meanest productions, making some unnoted difference between the lambs dropped from one ewe, the robins bred in one nest, the flowers growing on one stock, and the leaves hanging on one tree—hath not left these maidens without one great and permanent distinction — a natural and striking dissimilarity of temper. Equally industrious, affectionate, happy and kind; each was kind, happy, affectionate, and industrious, in a different way. Jane was grave; Patty was gay. If you heard a laugh or a song, be sure it was Patty; she who jumped the stile, when her sister opened the gate, was Patty; she who chased the pigs from the garden, as merrily as if she were running a race, so that the pigs did not mind her, was Patty. On the other hand, she that so carefully was making, with its own ravelled threads, an invisible darn in her mother's handkerchief, and was hearing her sister read the while; she that so patiently was feeding, one by one, two broods of young turkeys; she, too, that so pensively was watering her own bed of delicate and somewhat rare flowers—the pale hues of the Alpine pink, or the alabaster blossoms of the white, evening primrose, whose modest flowers, dying off into a blush, resembled her own character—was Jane. Some of the gossips of Aberleigh used to assert that Jane's sighing over the flowers, as well as the early steadiness of her character, arose from an engagement to my lord's head gardener, an intelligent, sedate and sober young Scotchman. Of this I know nothing. Certain it is that the prettiest and newest plants were always to be found in Jane's little flower garden; and if Mr. Archibald Maclane did sometimes come to look after them, I did not see that it was anybody's business.

In the meantime, a visitor of another description arrived at the farm. A cousin of Mrs. Evans had been as successful in trade as her husband had been in agriculture, and now he sent his only son to become acquainted with her relations, and to spend some weeks in their family. Charles Foster was a fine young man, whose father was neither more nor less than a linen draper, in a great town; but whose manners, education, mind and character might have done honor to a far higher station. He was, in a word, one of nature's gentlemen, and in nothing did he more thoroughly show his own taste and good breeding, than by entering entirely into the homely ways and old-fashioned habits of his country cousins. He was delighted with the simplicity, frugality and industry, which blended well with the sterling goodness and genuine prudence of the great English farm house. The women especially pleased him much. They formed a strong contrast with any he had met with before. No finery—no coquetry—no French—no piano! It is impossible to describe the sensation of relief and comfort with which Charles Foster, sick of musical misses, ascertained that the whole dwelling did not contain a single instrument, except the bassoon, on which George Evans was wont, every Sabbath, at church, to excruciate the ears of the whole congregation. He liked both sisters. Jane's softness and considerateness engaged his full esteem; Patty's innocent playfulness suited best with his own high spirits and animated conversation. He had known them apart from the first; and indeed denied that the likeness was at all puzzling, or more than is usual among sisters; and secretly thought Patty as much prettier than her sisters as she was avowedly merrier. In doors and out, he was constantly at her side; and before he had been a month in the house all the inmates had given Charles Foster as a lover of his young cousin; and she, when rallied on the subject, cried fie! and pish! and shaw! and wondered how people could talk such nonsense—and liked to have such nonsense talked to her better than anything in the world.

Affairs were in this state, when one night Jane appeared even graver and more thoughtful than usual, and far, far sadder. She sighed deeply; and Patty—for the two sisters occupied the same room—inquired, "What ailed her!"

She burst into tears, whilst Patty hung over her and soothed her. At length, she roused herself by a strong effort, and turning away from her affectionate comforter, said in a low tone—

"I have had a great vexation to-night, Patty; Charles Foster has asked me to marry him."

"Charles Foster? did you say Charles Foster?" asked poor Patty, trembling, unwilling even to turn her own senses against the evidence of her heart; "Charles Foster?"

"Yes; our cousin, Charles Foster!"

"And you have accepted him?" inquired Patty in a hoarse voice.

"Hh, no—no—no! Did you think I had forgotten poor Archibald? Besides, I am not the person whom he ought to have asked to marry him, false and heartless as he is; I would not be his wife, cruel, unfeeling, unmanly as his conduct has been! No! not if he would make me queen of England!"

"You refused him, then?"

"No; my father met us suddenly, just as I was recovering from the surprise and indignation that at first struck me dumb. But I shall refuse him most certainly—the false, deceitful, ungrateful villain!"

"Poor father, he will be disappointed. So will mother."

"They will be disappointed, and both angry; but not at my refusal. Oh, how they will despise him," added Jane.

Poor Patty, melted by her sister's sympathy and touched by an indignation most unusual in that mild and gentle girl, could no longer command her feelings, but threw herself on the bed in that agony of passion and grief which the first great sorrow seldom fails to excite in the young heart. After awhile she again resumed the conversation.

"We must not blame him too severely. Perhaps my vanity made me think his attentions meant more than they really did, and you had all taken up the notion. But you must not speak of him so unkindly. He has done nothing but what is natural. You are so much better and wiser than I am, my own dear Jane! He laughed and talked with me—but he felt you goodness; and he was right. I was never worthy of him, and you are; and, if it were not for Archibald, I should rejoice from the bottom of my heart," continued Patty, sobbing, "if you would accept——," but unable to speak her generous wish, she burst into a fresh flow of tears; and the sisters, mutually and strongly affected, wept in each other's arms, and were comforted.

That night Patty cried herself to sleep, but such sleep is not of long duration. Before dawn she was up, and pacing with restless irritability, the dewey grass walks of the garden and orchard. In less than half an hour, a light, elastic step—she knew the sound well—came rapidly behind her; a hand—oh, how often had she thrilled at the touch of that hand—tried to draw hers under his own; whilst a well known voice addressed her in the softest and tenderest accents:—

"Patty—my own sweet Patty! have you thought of what I said to you last night?"

"Said to me?" replied Patty, with bitterness.

"Ay, to be sure—to your own dear self! do you not remember the question I asked you, when your good father—for the first time unwelcome—joined us so suddenly that you had not time to say 'yes!' and will you not say 'yes,' now?"

"Mr. Foster," said Patty, with some spirit, "you are under a mistake here? It was to Jane that you made the proposal, last evening, and you are taking me for her this very moment."

"Mistake you for your sister! Propose to Jane! Incredible! Impossible! You are jesting!"

"Then he mistook Jane for me last night, and he is no deceiver!" thought Patty to herself, as with smiles beaming brightly through her tears, she turned round at his reiterated prayers, and yielded the hand he sought to his pressure."

"He mistook her for me! He that defied us to perplex him!"

And so it was; an unconscious and unobserved change of place, as either sister resumed her station beside little Betty, who had scampered away after a glow-worm, added to the deepening twilight and the lover's embarrassment, had produced the confusion which gave poor Patty a night of misery, to be followed by a life time of happiness. Jane was almost as glad to lose a lover, as her sister was to regain one. Charles has gone home to his father's to make preparations for his bride. Archibald has taken a great nursery garden, and there is some talk in Aberleigh, that the marriage of the two sisters is to be celebrated on the same day.—Miss Mitford.

The Decline of Aristocratic Power a Condition of Progress.

Those whose knowledge gives them some acquaintance with the real course of human affairs, will see that in Scotland, as in all civilized countries, the decline of aristocratic power forms an essential part of the general progress. It must, therefore, be esteemed a fortunate circumstance that, among the Scotch, where that power had long been enormous, it was weakened in the eighteenth century, not only by general causes, which were operating elsewhere, but also by the smaller and more special causes. The first of these minor causes was, as we have just seen, the union with England. The other cause was, comparatively speaking, insignificant, but still it produced decided effect, particularly in the northern districts. It consisted in the fact, that some of the oldest Highland nobles were concerned in the rebellion of 1745, and that when that rebellion was put down, those, who escaped from the sword, were glad to save their lives by flying abroad, leaving their dependants to shift for themselves. They became attached to the court of the Pretender, or, at all events, intrigued for him. That, indeed, was their only chance, their estates at home being forfeited. For nearly forty years, several great families were in exile, and although, about 1784, they began to return, other associations had been formed during their absence, and new ideas had arisen, both in their own minds and in the minds of their retainers. A fresh generation had grown up and fresh influences had been brought to bear. Strangers with whom the people had no sympathy, had intruded upon the estates of the nobles, and though they might receive obedience, it was an obedience unaccompanied by deference. The real reverence was gone: the homage of the heart was no more. And as this state of things lasted for about forty years, it interrupted the old train of thought; and the former habits were so completely broken, that, even when the chiefs were restored to their forfeited honors, they found that there was another part of their inheritance, which they were unable to recover, and that they had lost forever that unreserved submission, which, in times of yore, had been willingly paid to their fathers.—Buckle.

A GOOD SHOT.—I never pass the old toll-gate at Newcastle bridge without thinking of the story of George Schaffer, who many years ago lived in Portsmouth. I must tell it as a tribute to his funny memory. Once he had been in Newcastle, gunning, and was coming home with his game-bag empty, and very weary,, when he stopped at the toll-house for a moment's rest. Says he to the toll-taker, "There's a fine flock of ducks back here in the pond; what will you let me fire into them for?" "Can't do it," replied the toll-man, "I don't want to have my ducks killed." George put his gun into the toll-house, and walked back to take another look at the ducks. While he was gone, the toll-man, who was a wag, drew the shot from the barrel and then replaced the gun. George returned and renewed the question. "Well," said the toll-man, "though you are called a good shot, I don't believe you could hurt them much. Give me a dollar and you may fire." The dollar was paid, and quite a party, who had gathered round, went back to witness George's discomfiture. He raised the gun, fired and killed nine of them. "The devil!" cried the toll-man, in consternation, "how did you do that? I took the charge out of your gun." "Yes," said George, "I supposed you would. I always go double charged."—B. B. Shillaber.

A TRIBUTE

Dust to dust, and earth to earth!
Birth is death, and death is birth!
Man at birth begins to die—
Death is immortality!

Life! it is a transient state,
Even at its longest date!
But how few, with lasting strength,
Linger to its greatest length!

Standing here, we mourn, to-day,
One who quickly passed away;
One who saw no waning time—
One who perished in his prime!

In his prime—Alas, too soon!
Ere his day had reached its noon!
Full of promise, earnest, true
Perished with his goal in view!

So the eagle, as he springs
Heavenward on untiring wings,
Ere he gains the starry sky,
Stricken, falls to bleed and die!

But, for him, the fatal dart
Vainly sought a vital part;
Dying here, he rose to be
Deathless through eternity!

Deathless in a world of bliss;
Safe from all the ills of this;
Let us follow where he trod,
'Twas the way to heaven and God!

Earth to earth, and dust to dust!
Mingle with the earth we must;
But beyond Death's gloomy gate,
Lies an everlasting state!

These clay tenements of ours
But restrain our nobler powers;
Only are our spirits free,
Through Death's awful mystery!

COURTSHIP.

Falling in love is an old fashion, and one that will yet endure. Cobbett, a good sound Englishman, twitted Malthus, the anti-population writer, with the fact that, do all he could—aye, all that twenty thousand governments could—he could not prevent courting and falling in love. "Between fifteen and twenty-two," said he, "all people will fall in love." Shakspeare pushes out this season to the age of forty-five. Old Burton, writing on love-melancholy, gives us a still further extension of the lease; and certainly "there be old fools as well as young fools." But no one is absolutely free from the universal passion. The Greek epigram on a statue of Cupid, which Voltaire, amongst a hundred of others, has happily produced, is perfectly true:

"Whoe'er thou art, thy master see!
Who was, or is, or is to be."

Probably no one escapes from the passion. We find in trials and in criminal history that the quaintest, quietest of men, the most outwardly, saintly, cold, stone-like beings, have had their moments of intense love-madness. Luckily, love is as lawful as eating, when properly indulged in.

Cobbett tells us how an English yeoman loved and courted, and how he was loved in return; and a prettier episode does not exist in the English language. Talk of private memoirs of courts—the gossip of this cottage is worth them all. Cobbett, who was a sergeant-major in a regiment of foot, fell in love with the daughter of a sergeant of artillery, then in the same province of New Brunswick. He had not passed more than an hour in her company, when, noticing her modesty, her quietude, and her sobriety, he said, "That is the girl for me." The next morning he was up early, and almost before it was light passed the sergeant's house. There she was on the snow, scrubbing out a washing-tub. "That is the girl for me," again cried Cobbet, although she was not more than fourteen, and he was nearly twenty-one. "From the day I first spoke to her," he writes, "I had no more thought of her being the wife of any other man than I had the thought of her becoming a chest of drawers." He paid every attention to her, and, young as she was, treated her with all confidence. He spoke to her as his friend, his second self. But in six months the artillery were ordered to England and her father with them. Here was indeed a blow. Cobbett knew what Woolwich was, and what temptation a young and pretty girl would be sure to undergo.

He therefore took to her his whole fortune, one hundred and fifty guineas, the savings of his pay and overwork, and wrote to tell her that if she did not find her place comfortable, to take lodgings, and put herself to school, and not to work too hard, for he would be home in two years. "But," he says, "as the malignity of the devil would have it, we were kept abroad two years longer than our time, Mr. Pitt having knocked up a dust with Spain about Nootka Sound. O, how I cursed Nootka Sound, and poor, bawling Pitt!" But at the end of four years Cobbett got his discharge. He found his little girl a servant of all work, at five pounds a year, in the house of a Captain Brisac; and, without saying a word about the matter, she put into his hands the whole of the hundred and fifty guineas unbroken!

What a pretty, tender picture is that!—the young sergeant, and the little girl of eighteen, who had kept for four years the treasure untouched, waiting with patience her lover's return! What kindly, pure trust on both sides! The historical painters of our Royal Academy give us scenes from English history of intrigue and bloodshed. Why can they not give us a scene of true English courtship like that? Cobbett, who knew how to write sterling English better than any man of his own day, and most men of ours, does not forget to enlarge upon the scene, and dearly he loved his wife for her share of it; but he does not forget to add that with this love was mixed "self-gratulation on this indubitable proof of the soundness of his own judgment."

FIREARMS IN EUROPE.

Historians are not agreed as to when and when artillery was first employed. It is now believed, upon good authority, that gunpowder and guns were used in China fifteen centuries before they were known in Europe. The first artillery consisted merely of small iron tubes which discharged leaden bullets armed with iron tubes and shaped like pyramids each having a square base. These tubes were usually mounted upon a carriage and the gunners who operated them were protected by iron shields. At the beginning of the fifteenth century, the use of firearms became general in the armies of Europe and in several of the Asiatic nations; and at the present day, when we make much ado about cannon throwing one hundred and twenty pound shot, and consider these missiles very large, we forget that much larger shot were used three centuries ago. The scale of calibres in the early days of gunnery ranged from 32 to the pounds up to bombards throwing stone balls of one thousand pounds. Bolts, burning arrrows, fire balls, grenades, shells, case-shot filled with bull (shrapnell) and incendiary or burning balls, were all used in the days of old. Small firearms were employed in castles and cities for defense before they were used in the field warfare. Large cannon were made of cast iron also of wrought iron welded together and hooped; and also of cylinders of iron hooped with rings. At the battle of Tougres, in France, in 1408, it is related that three cannon were used of such great size that they threw stone balls weighing three hundred and five hundred pounds. At the siege of Caen, in 1450, twenty-four mortars were fired, and the bore of each was so large that a man could sit upright in it. At the great siege of Constantinople, when taken from the Greeks by Mohamet the Second there was one cannon which threw a one hundred pound stone balls. In 1688 cartridges were first employed in the armies of Gustavus Adolphus. The first muskets were called "matchlocks," because the charge was ignited by a match their barrels were about six feet long and required a rest. The iron soldiers of Cromwell carried matchlocks; the flint lock was introduced into England in the reign of Charles II. The inventor of the percussion lock was the Rev. Alexander Forsyth, a Presbyterian clergyman who secured a patent for it, April 11, 1807. The percussion powder was put into the touch-hole by a self-acting rod.

☞ The Spahis, who are selected to guard the Tuileries and the French imperial family, are not French by birth. Arab dress, but genuine Arabs under French drill. So the Parisians are made to see these Bedouins among them. The first inquiry, on their arrival, was for their kitchen. Their food consists principally of couf coussou, a kind of wheaten meal boiled and served in round wooden vessels. It is seasoned with red pepper and slices of mutton are sometimes added. Their cook buys a sheep, kills it, and prepares it for the regiment in the Arab fashion. There are four biskris, or domestic servants, attached to each regiment, who clean their rooms and stables. The Spahis attend only to their arms and horses. They were first organized as a military corps in the month of March, 1881, and were recruited among the Arabs who volunteered to serve them as auxilliaries.

☞ It is the wife who makes the home, and the home makes the man.

The Daily Press.

WEDNESDAY, JULY 1, 1863.

FOURTH OF JULY.

Next Saturday recurs the Anniversary of American Independence—a day, which—so thought Johnny Adams—ought forever to be observed by the ringing of bells, by illuminations, by the roar of cannon, and by whatever symbolic display or the vacant places at home, the memory of the lost and the hopes of the living—let all have a meaning to make it worthy of speech of men might serve to commemorate, and render perpetual for inspiration the memorable EVENT.

Such, at least, from the establishment of Independence down to the time of its completed destruction—a period of seventy-eight years—has been the observance on another year's work, resolved to enter on another year's work, resolved thus reinforced for conflict let us gird on the armor of our fathers, and with hearts and truth's. And with the flame of patriotism thus rekindled, and with hearts our arms more our country's, our God's

"To fear the worst, oft cures the worst"—who fear the worst, because unprepared in the sentiment of those, reasonably in the arrangements for their reception. They then took their place in the center of the column and declare our fervent gratitude for the honor you have conferred upon our town, and for the services you have rendered in your country.

After the cheering from the great crowd which filled the Square, and which was most enthusiastic, had subsided, Capt. Daniels responded in fitting and appropriate words. He said that he, and his officers and men, had always felt deeply grateful for the interest manifested towards them by their townspeople, that on weary marches, by their camp-fires in dark and dreary nights, and in all their labors, sometimes arduous and severe, they had been sustained by thoughts of their friends at home and the determination to do nothing or leave nothing undone, to cause disappointment or regret—and that if what they had tried to do, simply their duty, had secured the approbation of their friends, they felt amply repaid for the toils and hardships they had endured—and then, turning to his men, he said, Fellow-soldiers, as you have been faithful, obedient and brave in the field, and have conducted yourselves like good and true soldiers, so now as you are about to return to the pursuits of civil life, let me urge upon you to be law-abiding and well-behaved men, and always so to depart yourselves as to deserve and retain the kind regards and the respect of your fellow-townsmen. [illegible]

"Take notice," said Mr. A., I have only to add, that, though with anxious hearts and tearful eyes, yet with patriotic pride, we send together to send you, away to the field of war, mustered, were left behind, and had not as then been heard from. The letter gives no names—no particulars—and, as yet, the condition of the company is unknown. Provident that has received you to us, and to our company soon returned for their homes.

"Brave rank," were now given, and the "Bright, consummate flower of the Revolution, without a break of historic to break the charm of ancestral glory, that now, with too many even among the loyal, the thought, if not spoken in terms, fancy was there with nearly a hundred unspoken, that if what they had tried to do, mon, the firemen were out in their gay uniforms, and a full band led off the escort, assisted by a drum corps almost equal to what is sufficient for a regiment. Hon. R. S. Daniels led the Old Guard, and Gen. Sutton, with his Aids, Messrs. Benj. S. Wheeler, Jos. Jacobs, Jr., Edward W. Jacobs and Geo. Upton, formed and marshalled the procession. The Fire Department looked splendidly, the Eagles, under Capt. Trask, appearing with about forty men, and the Volunteers, under Capt. Peirce, with about the same number. A delegation of returned soldiers of other regiments was also in the procession.

The returned Company was waited upon by the Committee of Arrangements and Chief Marshal at the Salem station in front. Hon. A. A. Abbott, the Chairman, then stepped to the front and addressed Capt. Daniels and the Company as follows:—

"The citizens of the town, desiring to make some suitable public recognition of the patriotic services of the company, as well as some appreciation, feeble and inadequate it must be, of their great gratification at the safe return, and held a meeting, at which a committee was appointed to make the necessary arrangements. The committee had concluded, in accordance with what they believed would be the wishes of the company, and in consonance with what some are fain, some timid, some who would merit their unenvy. Now when [illegible] with harvest, the heroic growing heavy with [illegible] and drums bands and of bells, the glorious season [illegible] day the discays of fire by night, the music of voices, the music of cession, by day the discays of fire by freedom to enjoy, the parades of processions and pleasures which it is our labor which our pleasures and public [illegible] Declaration, not as declaring ourselves free from the yoke of this Rebellion, but from the yoke of Britain, but from that such rebellions are made of. This means merciful, god-like war to the hilt till the last vestige of treason is wiped out of the land and the great ivory restored with the soul that saves than this day made memorable by a devotion such as the world had not before seen, and of whose glorious fruits we have been favored recipients? What better day to [illegible] journey a little in mind down the stream of time and make an effort to see ourselves as posterity will see us, when the [illegible] hurly-burly is over, and facts are made up into the marble of history? Hitherto, while the Flag was everywhere borne unassailed and unquestioned, the Fourth of July has carried me in contemplation to the Fountain, where we have stood and venerated the source of great rivers—magnum flumen capta veneramur—and [illegible] Providence that has restored you to us, and to declare our fervent gratitude for the honor you have conferred upon our town, and for the noble example of your county. Let [illegible] from every [illegible] from every [illegible] from every [illegible] reverence of departed [illegible] that the Fourth of July be celebrated. But let not the [illegible] be in vain. From every [illegible] hold, in every city, in every town, in every village, let the Fourth of July be [illegible] with [illegible] and [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

1000.

WE have just received a carton of

1000 Wrought Collars

well worth 50 cents, which we shall sell for 20 cents each.

Our customers who remember the last lot of 29 cent Collars that we sold, will be surprised to know that these are better still.

JOHN P. PEABODY,
jy 1 220 Essex street.

☞ Visit OSBORNE'S Store, and look at the unusual variety of new styles in HATS and CAPS—191 Essex street.

BARGAINS | New Wrought Collars for 25 and
BARGAINS | 29 cts—Real Needlework Collars
BARGAINS | in good styles—worth at regular
BARGAINS | prices from 50 to 75 cts. Just re-
BARGAINS | ceived at PEABODY'S, 220 Essex
BARGAINS | Street.

☞ Try one of Rhoades' National Clothes Wringers, before purchasing elsewhere. For sale at the Equity Store, South Danvers. See advertisement.

BARGAINS | New Wrought Collars for 25 and
BARGAINS | 29 cts—Real Needlework Collars
BARGAINS | in good styles—worth at regular
BARGAINS | prices from 50 to 75 cts. Just re-
BARGAINS | ceived at PEABODY'S, 220 Essex
BARGAINS | Street.

Jordan Lodge.

REGULAR MEETING this (Wednesday) Evening, July 1, at 7½ o'clock.

JOHN O. POOR, Sec'y.

☞ The extraordinary success of Dr. Ham's Invigorating Spirit, seems to stir up an army of Tonics, Bitters and Cure Alls, but as a general thing they are like the Morning Glory—look very fine in the morning but wilt before the day has past. The Dr has been before the public for years; his Dyspepsia Remedy has been tested and not found wanting; it acts on the Liver, Stomach, Head and the whole system; it is good at all times and for everybody.

MANUAL FENOLLOSA,
TEACHER
OF THE
Violin, Piano and Singing,
MUSIC ROOMS, No. 7 Central Street,
SALEM, MASS.

Hunnewell's Great Remedies.

WHAT EVERY FAMILY SHOULD HAVE IN THE HOUSE AND WHY;

☞ They should have HUNNEWELL'S UNIVERSAL COUGH REMEDY, because it effectually cures Colds, Whooping and Common Coughs Sore Throat, Hoarseness, and is the most simple and perfect Soothing Syrup in the world. For old and young, by day and night, it may be used with the greatest freedom, and three-fourths of the deaths by Consumption stopped.

They should have HUNNEWELL'S TOLU ANODYNE, because it is a perfect remedy for Neuralgia, Nervous or Sick Headache, Tooth, and Earache, Pain in Stomach, or Bowels, Genuine Cholera Morbus, Rheumatism, Distress after Eating, Nervousness, Hysteria, and the chief of all causes of disease, and Insanity, Loss of Sleep. Its character, though active, is simple; its action in perfect conformity to nature; its end cure, or relief

For the pains in Monthly Menstruation a perfect relief, while nature's after work is not disturbed, and one of the most important points in Medicine.

They should have HUNNEWELL'S ECLECTIC PILLS, because with seldom but a single Pill for a dose all derangements of the Stomach and Bowels are cured. They cure Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Headache, when caused by foul stomach, Loss of Appetite, Biliousness so often and so erroneously treated with Mercurials, Jaundice. For Worms a sure cure.

They act simple, assist nature, do not make a Pill Box of the stomach, as is the most fatal error of taking so many Pills at a dose, and then what is important to every Family and every Purse, one bottle goes as far as two or three of what is ordinarily sold.

The confidence of all is asked to test
Hunnewell's Universal Cough Remedy,
Hunnewell's Tolu Anodyne,
Hunnewell's Eclectic Pills.

☞ Fac-simile of J. L. Hunnewell's signature over corks of genuine only.

JOHN L. HUNNEWELL, proprietor,
9 Commercial Wharf, Boston, Mass.
George E. Meacom, Agent for Danvers.
For sale by all dealers in Salem and vicinity.
Apr. 1, 1853—1 y

Port of Danvers.

Ar 25th, sch Columbia, Crosby, Bangor.

Marriages.

In Salem, June 19th, by Rev Rufus Wendell, Mr Ephraim M Solaris to Miss Hannah S Osborne.

20th, by Stephen P Webb, Esq. Capt Sibley P Moon of Hancock, Me, to Miss Caroline S Grant of Salem.

23d, by Rev Mr Sheahan, Mr William Halliday to Miss Ellen Crohan.

23d, by Rev Mr Willson, Mr Henry Gardner to Miss Sarah E Jelly.

Deaths.

In South Danvers, June 22, Mrs Hannah L, widow of the late Malachi Wilson, and daughter of the late Thomas T Tate, formerly of Salem, 67 years.

June 26, Mr John Wilson, aged 85.

June 27, Eliza Jane, daughter of Bernard and Margaret Flynn, 10 yrs.

In Danvers, June 23, Miss Hannah V Fuller, 7 yrs 11 mos—daughter of the late Timothy Fuller, Jr.

In Salem, June 28, Mr George Hayes, 45; 28th, Mr Nathaniel S Glover, 43d; 28th, Chas , son of Charles F and Sarah S Pratt, 4 yrs.

In Boston, June 28, of consumption, Sarah , wife of Gayton P Loring, Esq, and daughter of the late Hon. Daniel P King, 36 yrs.

Advertisements.

EMAINING in the Post Office at South Danvers, June 30, 1863.—[Persons calling for these letters will please say they are advertised.]

ADDB	Leavitt Ella M
Abb Geo W	Livingston Cate E
Brackett Chas O	McEvoy H Miss
Casey Michael	Moores Susan
Cuthberton Hugh	McRenold Mary
Dolbath C C	Merritt Margaret
Horner W A	Paine Mary
Lahill Maria	Pebede Frank
Lew Harrison	Rogers Horatio
Reid A S	Rowe Mary C
Trench Robert	Richardson Geo H
Tubart Chas F 2	Sullivan James D.
Tarrigan Bartholomew	Taylor J R.
Wright Samuel Mrs

N. B. These letters are subject to an additional postage of one cent each.

FITCH POOLE, P. M.

LINSEED OIL, &C.

PURE Linseed Oil and Varnishes, of all kinds, at
S C & E A SIMONDS', 32 Front st.

WHITE LEAD IN PAILS.

1000 POUNDS New York White Lead

1000.

WE have just received a carton of

1000 Wrought Collars

well worth 50 cents, which we shall sell for 20 cents each.

Our customers who remember the last lot of 29 cent Collars that we sold, will be surprised to know that these are better still.

JOHN P. PEABODY,
jy 1 220 Essex street.

NEW STOCK
— OF —
DRY GOODS
— AT —
No. 238 Essex street,
(Three Doors West of the Tunnel.)

THE Subscriber opened on MONDAY, May 18th,

A Fresh Stock of Dry Goods,

Consisting of nearly all the new styles of Dress Goods, Ladies' Cloths, Cloths for Men's & Boys' Wear; Shawls, Domestic and Housekeeping Goods; Sun Umbrellas; Parasols; Hoop Skirts; Hosiery; Gloves; &c., &c., &c.

☞ All the above Goods will be sold for CASH, at Low Prices.

GEORGE P. DANIELS.
Salem, May 20.

Mothers—Take Heed!

MRS OSBORNE'S CURE FOR PIN WORMS

GIVE no more poison to your children. Do you ever think when observing the uneasy actions of your children, that the only cause of the little sufferer's illness is worms? In nineteen cases out of twenty it is so. Of all the diseases to which children are exposed none are so fatal to them as worms. In fact, children are seldom free from them, as worms imitate the symptoms of many other complaints. They often produce alarming effects without being suspected as the cause. The only certain cure—one of nature's own remedies, a compound of nothing but Roots and Herbs—is

Mrs. Osborne's Universal Worm Powders.

They will eradicate all worms from the system, if the directions are strictly adhered to. No more filthy vermifuge will be used by those who have once used these Powders. The active principle in all other vermifuges, Worm Killers, Syrups and Medicated Lozenges, is Mercury, as any physician will tell you. Many dealers will recommend inferior preparations, and low-priced articles, affording more profit to themselves. Be sure and obtain only Mrs. Osborne's Worm Powders. Price 25 cts. per box. Sold by D. P. GROSVENOR, Main st.
South Danvers, June 17, 1863. 3m

Dissolution of Co-Partnership.

THE co-partnership heretofore existing between the undersigned, under the name and style of WELCH & FAIRFIELD, is hereby dissolved by mutual consent.

All persons having claims against said firm, and all persons indebted to the same, can settle their accounts by calling upon SAMUEL WELCH, who is authorized thereto.

SAMUEL WELCH,
JOSEPH FAIRFIELD, Jr.
So. Danvers, April 1, 1863.

Mr. Welch will continue the GROCERY BUSINESS at the old stand, and hopes for a continuance of former patronage.
June 24—3w M copy

SOUTH DANVERS PERIODICAL AND CONFECTIONERY STORE.

THE subscriber having purchased of the firm of CHANDLER & CO. all their interest in the Periodical and Confectionery Store in South Danvers, and withdrawn from the firm, he now intends to remain for the present at the old stand in Central Street, where he will be glad to supply his old customers, and all others who may call upon him, with all the Newspapers and Periodicals of the day, together with such Books and Pamphlets usually found in a first-rate Periodical Store.

Back numbers of any papers or periodicals furnished at short notice. Book Binding of all kinds done on reasonable terms.

He also intends to keep a good stock of Confectionery, Refreshments, Stationery and Fancy Goods, with Domestic and Foreign Fruits, Pickles, etc.

All persons having demands against the above store are requested to present them to the subscriber for settlement, and all persons indebted to the same are requested to settle to date.

R. W. WILKINSON.
South Danvers, June 22, 1863.

REMOVAL.

BATTIS & BROWN have removed from their Old Stand, 110 Derby Street, to

No. 30 Front St., Salem.

They open with a good stock of Cigars, of all the popular brands. Also, Leaf Manufactured, and Smoking Tobacco of all kinds, with the usual variety of Fancy Goods found at such an establishment, wholesale and retail.

BATTIS & BROWN,
Salem, June 17—3w 30 Front St.

Tillage Land and Barn to Let.

ABOUT six acres of good level Tillage Land with a Barn, situated upon the "Cross Road" in Rockville. Any one wishing to work upon land a portion or the whole of his time will find this a rare chance.

For further particulars application may be made to either of the subscribers.

S. C. BANCROFT, So. Danvers.
JOHN L. NICHOLS, Salem.
South Danvers, Ap. 22.

SEWING MACHINES.

PERSONS about purchasing SEWING MACHINES will find it to their advantage to consult

JOHN H. CHOATE,
SEWING MACHINE AGENT.
Over Newman & Symonds' Store, Lowell St.
Second-hand Machines bought and sold.
South Danvers, May 13—tf

RHEUMATISM AND NEURALGIA

CAN be cured by using STURGIS'S ELECTRIC COMPOUND—as any reliable people in Boston and elsewhere. For sale by
G M WHIPPLE & A A SMITH.

WHITE LEAD AND LINSEED OIL,

OF the best quality—for sale at
S C & E A SIMONDS', 32 Front st.

VARNISHES.

COACH Varnish; Furniture and Damar Varnish, of the best quality, at je 17 S C & E A SIMONDS', 32 Front st.

FRUIT BASKETS.

John P. Peabody.

Closing Out Sale.

OUR Stock is now very large and full of the best and most desirable Goods, and in order to reduce it as much as possible we have concluded to commence our

CLOSING OUT SALE

one week earlier than is our usual custom; and we shall during this sale offer our Goods at such prices that they will be sure to sell, making it advantageous to all to give us a call.

JOHN P. PEABODY.

LACE GOODS.

EXTRA BARGAINS.

Real French Needle Work Collars 25c—value 50 cents;
Real French Needle Work Collars 29c—value 50 cents;
Real French Needle Work Collars 35c—value 75 cents;
Real French Needle Work Collars—42 and 50 cents;
Real Guipure and English Thread Lace Collars;
In this department we shall offer many decided bargains.

JOHN P. PEABODY.

RIBBONS AND FLOWERS.

STILL AHEAD.

Our Customers should remember that we are always the first to Mark Down and the last to Mark Up—that our prices are governed by the market value of the goods rather than the cost—that we do not believe in monopoly—that every body who is going shopping will be the gainer by calling and examining our stock, if only to Post Up—in quality and prices.

SUN UMBRELLAS.

READ THE PRICES.

Best Glazed Spool Cottons—200 yds—warranted—6c;
Best Black English Thread—hanks 4cts;
Best American Pins—full papers 5 cts;
Best Worsted Braids—5 yd pieces—warranted, 8 cts;
Best Gold Eyed Sewing Needles—warranted, 6 cts;
Best Gold Eyed Sewing Needles—5 papers for 25 cts;
Very Heavy Crochet Net—usually 42c, 25 cts;
Good Cotton Hosiery—Ladies' sizes—only 15c;
Nice Cotton Hosiery—Ladies' sizes—only 25c;
Everything at prices to correspond with the above.

JOHN P. PEABODY.

HOSIERY AND GLOVES.

NEW GOODS.

We shall during the present week open the largest and choicest stock of Cambric Edgings and Insertings ever shown in Salem, to which we invite your early attention. We shall also open a full line of Black Edgings, Lace Veils, &c, &c. As we were in New York last week, we shall be able to show the latest novelties and choicest styles.

JOHN P. PEABODY.

TRIMMINGS.

DRESS TRIMMINGS.

We have a nice stock of Quilled Ribbons—Fluted Braids—Worsted Braids—Buttons—Ribbons—Bindings—Cords—Embroidery Braids—Silk, Brocade, Rubber, Steel, Pearl, Jet, Crochet and Lasting Buttons. Our stock in this department is full, and well worth the attention of every one in want of the above goods.

J. P. PEABODY.

LOW PRICES.

This is our Semi-annual CLOSING OUT SALE. Our old customers will need no word from us as a guarantee that the prices will be the VERY LOWEST.—Our new customers will do well to call and see for themselves. Our intention is to reduce our stock to the smallest compass before taking account. As we buy for Cash and sell for Cash strictly, we are always enabled to buy and sell at lower prices than those who do both on credit.

ONE PRICE ONLY!

James F. Almy.

SUN UMBRELLAS.

WE have received a large invoice of SUN UMBRELLAS, 14 inches, at $1 25.

We have also received a large invoice of SUN SHADES, at a bargain.

JAMES F. ALMY,
jy 1 188 Essex, opposite Central st.

SUMMER, 1863.

We shall open New Styles Silk Mantillas,

Saturday, May 30.

We have received a full stock of Rich Black Silks for Mantillas; also Laces, Embroidery Braids and Bugle Trimmings, for Mantillas.

We are closing our Stock of Cloth Garments at Wholesale prices.

We are selling Ladies' Cloths at very low prices.

We have received a choice stock of Summer Shawls.

We have opened a large stock of Summer Dress Goods, in good value and styles, at a Bargain.

Our General Stock of Seasonable Dress Goods was never more complete than now, and our prices are very low.

We have a fine Stock of Sun Umbrellas.

We have a fine Stock of best Kid Gloves.

We have a fine Stock of Ladies' and Misses' Summer Underclothing.

We have a fine Stock of Hosiery and Gloves, Velvet Ribbons, Ladies' and Gents' Hdkfs, etc.

We are selling Watch Spring Skirts very low.

In Domestic Goods, we offer all the advantages of the reduction in prices, as our Stock has been mainly purchased within a few days.

We offer a fine Stock of Cloth for Men's and Boys' wear.

We offer a large Stock of White Goods.

Cash buyers will find it for their advantage to examine our Stock.

JAMES F. ALMY,
188 Essex, opposite Central st.
June 3d, 1863.

M. FENOLLOSA,
TEACHER OF MUSIC,
LETS .....PIANO FORTES, at the lowest rates;
SELLS .....PIANO FORTES, at the Manufacturers Prices;
EXCHANGES....PIANO FORTES, on the easiest terms.
At Rooms No. 7 Central street,
feb 14 SALEM, MASS.

GLASS WARE.

CUT and Pressed Glass Goblets; Tumblers; Dishes, etc, just opened at
S C & E A SIMONDS' 32 Front st.

TABLE MATS.

SHAKER Table Mats—for sale by
may 27 S C & E A SIMONDS.

HOLD ON! HOLD ON!

ALL those that are inclined to rest their weary limbs on the most luxurious

SPRING BED

that was ever invented, are invited to call at

No. 52 Main St., South Danvers,

and there see the very best SPRING BED BOTTOM that has been offered to the public.

Not having been able at first to meet the demands, I now have the facilities to supply all orders.

Having bought the right to make and vend for the county of Essex, the subscriber would be happy to supply all those who may favor him with a call.

Rights for sale for any town or city in the county except Haverhill and Lawrence.

THOS. TRASK.
South Danvers, June 17, 1863.

SELLING OFF! SELLING OFF!

THE undersigned intending to close up his present business at the earliest opportunity, now offers his ENTIRE STOCK OF

Fine and Plated Jewelry,
Solid Silver Ware,
Solid Silver Ware, &c.
AT LARGELY REDUCED PRICES,
Regardless of Cost,
FOR THIRTY DAYS ONLY.

After which, all goods remaining on hand will be sold at Public Auction.

Also, for sale, all the movable fittings of said Store, including 5 solid German Silver frame Counter Show Cases; One Tilton & McFarland Fire and Burglar Proof Safe; Chairs, Desks, Stools, &c, &c.

JOSEPH J. RIDER,
2 West Block—188 Essex st.
Salem, June 17, 1863. 1m

NEW BOOKS,
AT G. M. WHIPPLE & A. A. SMITH'S.

ROCKFORD; or Sunshine and Storm, by Mrs. Lillie Devereux Urnstead;
In the Tropics, by Richard B. Kimball, author of St Leger;
Harper's Magazine; Godey's Lady's Book; and Harper's Weekly, for July. All the new Books rec'd as soon as published.
Sign of the Five Golden Books.

George S. Walker.

REAL ROMAN SCARFS.

JUST rec'd from the Importer, a fine variety of these splendid goods, and WARRANTED GENUINE ROMAN SCARFS.

GEORGE S. WALKER'S,
Gent's Furnishing Store,
July 1 228 Essex Street, Salem, Mass.

LINEN BOSOMS & CUFFS.

FOR sale at old prices, at
GEO. S. WALKER'S, 228 Essex st,
Dealer in Gent's Furnishing Goods,
jy 1 Opp Eastern Railroad Station.

SUMMER UNDERSHIRTS,

DRAWERS, and HOSIERY. The largest assortment in the city, at the LOWEST PRICES, at GEO. S. WALKER'S,
Gent's Furnishing Store,
jy 1 228 Essex st., Stearns' Building.

A. J. Archer & Co

WE OPEN THIS MORNING

ELEGANT
BLACK SILK GARMENTS,
At prices from $8 00 to $16 00.

A. J. ARCHER & CO.,
Salem, june 3—tf

SUMMER SHAWLS!

We open this morning beautiful new

SUMMER SHAWLS.
— Also —

A variety of THIN DRESS GOODS; 8 4 Black Hernani and Crape Maretz; Black Grenadine. For sale by

A. J. ARCHER & CO.,
Salem, june 3—tf.

Potter, Batchelder & Co.,
(Successors to M. Black)
DANVERS-PORT,
DEALERS IN
WOOD AND COAL

OF the various kinds usually kept in a retail yard. Constantly on hand

Franklin, Old Company's Lehigh,
Locust Mountain, Black Heath,
Red and White Ash.

Of all sizes, of the best quality, and at as low prices as can be bought elsewhere.

OFFICE—No. 6 Allen's Building.
Order Box at post office, South Danvers, and post office, Danversport.

G. W. POTTER,
J. Q. A. BACHELDER,
C. T. BATCHELDER. July 19—tf

ANN R. BRAY,
NO. 76 FEDERAL ST,
SALEM.

WE are selling out all our Black Silks;
We are selling out all our Cambric Prints;
We are selling out all our French Prints;
We are selling out all our nice Taffetas;
We are selling out all our Organdie Muslins;
We are selling out all our Lawns;
We are selling out all our Cotton Hosiery;
We are selling out all our Linen Hdkfs;
We are selling out all our Domestic Goods;
We are selling thin Dress Goods for 1s worth 25 cents;
We are selling Bleached Cottons for 12½ cts;
We are selling light Spring Prints for 1s;
We have the Quaker Skirt for ladies;
We have the Belle Point Skirt for ladies;
We have the Trail Skirt for ladies;
We have the very best Silk for Vlaites;
We have a full assortment of B P R Silks, which we are selling out very low.

A Card.

Having disposed of my stock and stand to Miss M. E. CRANE, I avail myself of this opportunity to request my friends and customers who have bestowed their liberal patronage upon me, to transfer the same to my successor.

In taking leave of my business friends, I would return my warmest thanks for the generous patronage I have received. I can in the highest terms recommend Miss CRANE, and would bespeak for her your kind consideration and confidence.

I would most respectfully invite those having unsettled accounts to call and adjust the same, either with Miss Crane or myself, at the old stand.

April 22, 1863. M. M. FLETCHER.

Notice.

The Subscriber having purchased of Mrs. M. M. FLETCHER her stock of Goods, and made additions to the same, is now prepared to furnish her patrons and the public with a large and fine assortment of

Millinery Goods,

which we will sell very low for cash. We hope by strict attention to business to merit a liberal share of patronage. M. E. CRANE,
ap 22 cor. of Essex and St. Peter sts.

M. A. PORTER, MANUFACTURES TO ORDER
WATCH SPRING SKIRTS,
At 236 Essex Street,
A few doors from Washington Street,
SALEM, MASS.

Just Opened,

A SUPERIOR quality corded Tapeta, at 37½ cts. All wool DeLaines, desirable shades; Domestic Goods of every description.
ap 29 ANN R BRAY, 76 Federal st.

CHINA WARE;

GOLD Band China Tea Ware; White and Lustre China do—at
S. C. & E. A. SIMONDS', 32 Front st.

SUMMER READING.

THE cheapest way to get reading matter for the summer is to take A [illegible]

Browning & Long.

Embroidery Sale.

LOW PRICES!

We are determined to close out every COLLAR we have in store, and therefore offer all at extremely

LOW FIGURES!

ALL NEW GOODS JUST IN.
NEW GOODS.
NEW PATTERNS.

☞ We would invite all to call and examine our very large assortment, which we are now offering at such great bargains.

NEW GOODS.
THE LATEST NOVELTIES.

MARK THE PRICES!

Good Thread Nets,	25c;
White and Unbleached Hose,	18c;
Ladies' Colored Cotton Hose,	10c;
Nice Open-work Hose,	28c;
Misses' White and Unbleached Hose,	16c;
Children's Colored Hose,	16c;
Gent's good half-Hose,	16c;
Misses' Fancy Cotton Hose,	16c;
Nice Lisle Gloves,	15c;
Ladies' Mohair Mitts,	40c;
Cotton Border Hdkfs,	5c;
Ladies' All-Linen Hdkfs,	13c;
All-Linen Hem-Stitched Hdkfs,	30c;
Embroidered Collars,	15c;
Nice Crape Collars,	25c;
Gent's Woven Bosoms,	8c;
Bead Nets,	25c,
Fine Combs,	2c;
Children's Mitts,	15c;
Nice Embroidered Gloves,	15c;

and many others in like comparison.

JUST OPENED.

New LINEN EMBROIDERED SETS;
Something entirely new in plain LINEN GOODS;
Tucked and Fancy Bordered HDKFS;
GLOVES; MOHAIR MITTS;

BROWNING & LONG
Essex St., 177 Essex St.,
Salem, July 1, 1863.

Quincy Mutual Fire Insurance Co.

Available and Cash Capital $500,000.

INSURES Buildings, Merchandize and Personal Property generally, on terms as favorable as any other dividend paying company.

J. D. BLACK, Agent,
april 22—1y At Danversport.

Merrimack Mutual Fire Insurance Co., Andover, Mass.

ONE of the OLD AND RELIABLE OFFICES.

J. D. BLACK is Agent for Danvers and South Danvers. apr 22—1y

VALUABLE REAL ESTATE.

THE Subscriber offers for sale on favorable terms,—or would exchange for a Farm,—his Estate on Wallis Street, near the Monumental Cemetary, consisting of THREE DWELLING HOUSES, which will be sold separately or as one Estate.

There are 75 feet of land in front, and 72 feet in the rear of the house.

The situation is pleasant, in a good neighborhood, and the houses are supplied with all the convenlences for immediate occupation. In ordinary times these tenements would rent for from 330 to 350 dollars.

The Subscriber, having made up his mind to dispose of the property, will sell it low, and it is well worth the attention of purchasers.

Apply to JOHN M'NEAL.
South Danvers, Dec. 10th, 1862. tf.

THE PIANO FORTES

THAT have attracted so much attention of late, and are so much admired on account of their SPLENDID FULL, RICH, MELLOW TONE, and GRAND FRENCH ACTION, are for sale only at the Office of the Agent,

218 Essex Street, Salem, Mass.,

where reference may be had to many who have purchased. Other Piano Fortes also, are for sale, varying in price from $180 upwards. Please call.

Mch 11 6m S. MACKINTIRE, Agent.

Choice Spring Pigs for Sale.

THE subscriber offers for sale nice PIGS of Mackie, Prince Albert and Chester County breeds, which the Mackie took the First Premium at the last Cattle Show. Price reasonable.

BYRON GOODALE,
Near Tapley's Brook.
South Danvers, April 22, 1863. tf

1000.

WE have just received a carton of

1000 Wrought Collars,

well worth 50 cents, which we shall sell for 20 cents each.

Our customers who remember the last lot of 29 cent Collars that we sold, will be surprised to know that these are better still.

JOHN P. PEABODY,
jy 1 220 Essex street.

☞ If you want to SAVE MONEY, in purchasing Goods, go to COLMAN'S, No. 10 [illegible] street, Salem. ap30

Auction Sales.

WILLIAM ARCHER,
Auctioneer, Real Estate and Stock Broker,
34 Front Street.

Real Estate, Bank, Railroad and Manufacturing Stock bought and sold on Commission.

ON SATURDAY NEXT, at 9 1-2. o'clock will be sold at No. 34 Front street:

D. P. GROSVENOR, Jr.,

Druggist and Apothecary,
238 MAIN STREET.

Dealer in Drugs, Medicines, Chemicals, Stuffs, and Popular Proprietary Medicines.

Personal attention to Physicians' Prescriptions.

South Danvers, May 29, 1863.

GEO. E. MEACOM

Dealer in
DRUGS & MEDICINES,
Fancy & Toilet Articles, &c.
126 MAIN ST. 126
Nearly opposite Danvers Bank, So. Danvers.

T. A. SWEETSER
Druggist & Apothecary,
37 Main St., So. Danvers.

DEALER IN
Drugs, Medicines, Chemicals, Foreign Leeches, Shakers Herbs, Dye Stuffs, Gums, Acids, Sponges, Shoulder Braces, Trusses, and Genuine Patent Medicines.

Also, Imported Cigars of choice brands, Perfumery, Toilet Articles and Stationery.

Physicians' Prescriptions carefully prepared by experienced persons.

37 MAIN STREET.

GRACE'S CELEBRATED SALVE.

A SURE RELIEF FOR THE SUFFERER.

This Salve is a vegetable preparation, invented in the 17th century, by DR. WM. GRACE, surgeon in King James's army. Through its agency he cured thousands of most serious sores and wounds that baffled the skill of the most eminent physicians of his day, and was regarded by all who knew him as a public benefactor.

Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Burns.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Scalds.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Flesh Wounds.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Corns.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Felons.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Frozen Limbs.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Wens.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Callouses.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Salt Rheum.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Chilblains.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Sore Breast.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Sore Lips.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Erysipelas Sores.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Abscesses.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Ulcers.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Chapped Hands.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Ringworms.

And from Sores and Wounds of the most serious nature down to a common Pimple. It eradicates Pimples from the face, and beautifies the skin. There is no preparation before the public that can equal this Salve in prompt and energetic action for the speedy cure of external diseases, as those who have tried its virtues testify. Soldiers, Sailors, and Fishermen, will find this Salve their best friend.

It has none of the irritating, heating properties of other remedies, but cools, cleanses, and heals the most serious Sores and Wounds. Every family, and especially those containing children, should keep a box on hand in case of accident, for it will save them much trouble, suffering, and money. All it wants is a fair trial to cure old and inveterate Sores.

MANUFACTURED BY
WILLIAM GRACE.
AMESBURY, MASS.

Price 25 cents, 50 cents, and $1 per box. A great saving is made by taking the large size.

Each box has the above cut and the fac-simile of the proprietor's signature attached to it, which is duly copy righted.

Geo. C. Goodwin & Co., 11 and 12 Marshall street; Weeks & Potter, 170 Washington street, and M. S. Burr & Co., 36 Tremont street, Boston, Wholesale Agents.

For sale by D. P. Grosvenor, T. A. Sweetser and George E. Meacom, Druggists, Main street, South Danvers, and at country stores everywhere

THE CLOTHES WRINGER.

JUST OBTAINED
RHOADES' CELEBRATED
NATIONAL CLOTHES WRINGER,
THE VERY BEST YET INVENTED,
AND REALLY A LABOR SAVING MACHINE.

CALL AND EXAMINE.

For Sale by E. SOUTHWICK,
At the EQUITY GROCERY STORE,
South Danvers, Jan 21, 1863. 3m

To Let on Essex St., Salem,

The STORE and DWELLING HOUSE connected therewith, No. 250 Essex St. The store is neatly fitted up, is one of the best stands in the city, and admirably adapted for Millinery, Fancy, Dry Goods, or any light business.

The Dwelling part contains nine finished rooms, and is supplied with water, gas, etc.—all in good order and very convenient.

To a satisfactory tenant, the above will be let on reasonable terms. Apply at J. PERS-

Miscellaneous.

RATHER UNCEREMONIOUS. — Count D'Alembert in his "Tour en Amerique," gives the following laughable incident:

Far away from the great cities, half hidden in the foliage, was the modest log hut of a man, half trapper and half fisherman, and more than half savage; of course his name is Smith. He was married, and he and his wife, in this one little chamber, led the happiest of lives; for on occasions she would not object to go twenty miles to hear the minister preach. One evening about sun-down, they were both together in their little log cabin, both busy, and neither uttering a syllable. By degrees a dull, but regular sound breaks upon the silence of the wilderness. The steamer is ascending the river, making the best of its way against the stream. But neither Smith nor his wife pay any attention; he goes on cleaning his gun, and she knitting her stockings. The air, however, darkens; a thick smoke rises upon every side; a formidable explosion is heard like the discharge of several cannons at once.—The boiler had burst; the vessel had sunk; and everything was destroyed.—Smith and his wife were interrupted by the splitting in two of the cabin roof, and something heavy descending through the aperture. This something was a man, who dropped between the pair, without, however, disturbing either—he still cleaning his gun, she still knitting her stockings. But the traveler so rudely introduced, seemed rather astonished at his descent. After a few moments, however, he resumed his coolness, and began to look about him, fixing his attention at last upon the hole through which he had just dropped.

"Ah! my man," said he at length, "what is the damage?"

Upon this, Smith, putting aside his rifle, and looking up to estimate this loss, answered, after some little reflection—"Ten dollars."

"You be hanged?" exclaimed the traveler. "Last week in an explosion in which I happened to be at, in another steamer, I fell through three flight, in a new house, and they only charged me five dollars. No, no! I know what 'the figure' is in such cases. Here is a couple of dollars; and if that won't suit, go and sue me as quick as you like!"

☞ An amusing thing occurred in the Twenty-fourth Ohio. A few days since a soldier, in passing to the lower part of the encampment, saw two others from his company making a rude coffin. Ha inquired who it was for.

"John Bunce," said the others.

"Why," replied he, "John is not dead yet. It is too bad to make a man's coffin when you don't know if he is going to die or not."

"Don't trouble yourself," replied the others. "Doctor Coe told us to make his coffin, and I guess he knows what he gives him.

☞ A German Proverb expresses, in thirteen words, the substance of social philosophy: "What you would have in the nation, you must plant in the schools." A true thought, like this, tersely expressed, affords a refreshing contrast to the bombastic and gaseous harangues about Progress, so commonly uttered now-adays.

☞ A poet asked a gentleman what he thought of his last production, "An Ode to Sleep." The latter replied:—"You have done so much justice to the subject, that it is not possible to read it without feeling its whole weight."

☞ "Boy, did you let off that gun?" exclaimed an enraged schoolmaster.

"Yes, sir."

"Well, what do you think I will do with you?"

"Why, let me off."

☞ What kind of a fever have those who wish to have their names in print? Type-us fever.

☞ None are so weary as those who never work.

New Jersey Lands for Sale.

— ALSO —

GARDEN OR FRUIT FARMS,

Suitable for Grapes, Peaches, Pears, Raspberries, Strawberries, Blackberries, Currants, &c., of 1, 2½, 5, 10 or 20 acres each, at the following prices for the present, viz: 20 acres for $200, 10 acres for $110, 5 acres for $60, 2½ acres for $40, 1 acre for $20. Payable by one dollar a week.

Also, good Cranberry lands, and village lots in CHETWOOD 25 by 100 feet, at $10 each, payable by one dollar a week. The above land and farms are situated at Chetwood, Washington Township, Burlington, New Jersey. For further information, apply with a P. O. Stamp, for a circular, to

B. FRANKLIN CLARK,
feb 18, 1863 No. 90 Cedar St, New York, N. Y.

TERRIBLE DISCLOSURES — SECRETS FOR THE MILLION!—A most valuable and wonderful publication. A work of 400 pages, and 30 colored engravings. DR. HUNTER'S VADE MECUM, an original and popular treatise on Man and Woman, their Physiology, Functions, and Sexual Disorders of every kind, with Never-Failing Remedies for their speedy cure. The practice of Dr. Hunter has long been, and still is, unbounded, but at the earnest solicitation of numerous persons, he has been induced to extend his medical usefulness through the medium of his "Vade Mecum." It is a volume that should be in the hands of every family in the land, as a preventive of secret vices, or as a guide for the alleviation of one of the most awful and destructive scourges ever visited mankind. One copy, securely enveloped, will be forwarded free of postage to any part of the United States for 50 cents in post office stamps, or 3 copies for $1. Address, post paid, DR. HUNTER, No. 3 Dvision Street, New York. je 3—ly

Cards.

WILLIAM C. CHOATE,
Attorney and Counsellor at Law,
251 Essex St., Salem.
Salem, August 6, 1862. tf

THOMAS M. STIMPSON,
Attorney and Counsellor at Law,
194 ESSEX STREET, SALEM.
Residence Lowell street, South Danvers.

B. C. PERKINS,
Attorney and Counsellor at Law,
South Danvers—Office in Allen's Building.

JOHN W. PROCTOR
Counsellor at Law,
Office near the Monument.

A. A. PUTNAM,
Attorney and Counsellor at Law,
CORNER MAPLE AND ELM ST.,
DANVERS.

ALFRED A. ABBOTT,
Attorney and Counsellor,
Office, No. 24 Washington Street, Salem;
House, Main St., So. Danvers.

IVES & PEABODY,
Attorneys and Counsellors at Law,
Have removed their Office to
Rooms formerly occupied by Hon. Otis P. Lord,
NO. 27 WASHINGTON STREET, SALEM,
STEPHEN B. IVES, Jr. JOHN. B. PEABODY

SIDNEY C. BANCROFT,
Attorney and Counsellor at Law,
27 Washington Street, Salem.

H. O. WILEY,
Attorney and Counsellor at Law,
Office, Allen's Building, So. Danvers.

Claims against the Government for Bounty Back Pay, and Pensions, promptly attended to

A. S. CRAWFORD
Dentist,
No. 4 MAIN STREET, So. DANVERS SQUARE
Mechanical Dentistry Neatly Executed.
Teeth Extracted by Electricity without Extra Charge

W. L. BOWDOIN,
SURGEON DENTIST,
No, 208 Essex Street, Salem, (Opposite the Market
Residence—No. 57 Washington street.
jan 11—1y

F. POOLE
INSURANCE AGENT,
Allen's Building (up stairs),
Deeds drawn, and other common forms.

NEWMAN & SYMONDS,
DEALERS IN
Family Groceries, Flour & Grain,
HARD WARE AND CROCKERY,
Ready Made Clothing, Gents' Furnishing Goods, Hats, Caps, Boots, Shoes, &c.,
South Danvers Square, opp. Congregational Church
SAM'L NEWMAN. NATH'L SYMONDS.

S. C. & E. A. SIMONDS,
DEALERS IN
Crockery, China and Hardware; Paper Hangings; Solar and Entry Lamps; Paints, Oil, and Window Glass.
No. 32 Front street, Lawrence Place,
feb13 SALEM, MASS.

HENRY L. WHIDDEN,
HOUSE AND SIGN PAINTER,
Glazier and Paperer,
Central Street, South Danvers.
All orders promptly and faithfully executed.
jan2-1y

E. S. FLINT,
DEALER IN
West India Goods, Country Produce,
No. 2 Main Street, South Danvers.

JESSE SMITH
No. 262 Essex Street, Salem,
Importer and Dealer in
Gold and Silver Watches,
MARINE CHRONOMETERS,
Aneroid Barometers, Spy Glasses, &c.

WILLIAM BLANEY,
HOUSE & SIGN PAINTER
Grainer, Glazier and Paper Hanger.
164 MAIN STREET, Corner of Grove.
WINDOWS and BLINDS cheap for cash.
mch6-tf

JOHN MOULTON,
LIVERY STABLE,
Central Street, South Danvers.
Mr. M. will endeavor to keep up the good reputation of his stable, by still keeping good Horses and Carriages. jan 7, 1863.

SPRING STYLE
DRESS HATS,
NOW READY
AT JACKSON'S,
101 COURT STREET, BOSTON.

Also a large and varied assortment of CAPS and SOFT HATS, for Boys' and Men's wear. Those wishing articles in the above line would do well to call before purchasing.

JOSEPH A. JACKSON.
Boston, April 1, 1863. 3m

To Let.

A SMALL but pleasant and convenient Chamber Tenement, in the house formerly occupied by the late Wood Forness, upon the corner of Washington and Pleasant Streets. For particulars apply to
SIDNEY C. BANCROFT.
South Danvers, April 22. tf

JOHN FARRELL,
DRAPER AND TAILOR,
HAVING removed to his old place of business, 138 MAIN ST., South Danvers, (over Batchelder's Grocery Store), is prepared to Cut, Make, Repair, or furnish Garments, for Men and Youths at short notice.
South Danvers, April 1. tf

Crockery Ware.

A FULL assortment of China and Crockery Ware; Wooden Ware; Table Cutlery; Tea Trays; Britannia Ware and Silver Plated Ware, &c—for sale at the General Furnishing Store for Housekeepers. No. 32 Front street.
ap 22 S C & E A SIMONDS.

CARD PHOTOGRAPHS.

RAPHAEL'S Hours, Liberty, On the Beach, Evening, Prince and Princess, etc—at
may 13 G M WHIPPLE & A A SMITH'S

W. E. P. SMYTH,
Attorney and Counsellor at Law,
Proctor in Admiralty, and Commissioner of Deeds for the several States.
Frazier's Building, over the Post Office,
LYNN, MASS.

Having peculiar means for prosecuting, with accuracy and dispatch, all claims against Government, especially those for Bounty, Back Pay and Pensions, I have made this a specialty. Several months' residence in Washington enabled me to become thoroughly conversant with the routine of business in all the Departments, through which claims, of whatever nature, are passed, and also familiar with the practice in the U. S. Court of Claims; in addition to which I have a partner there resident, and a former partner in the Treasury Department, which advantages give me unexcelled facilities for the successful prosecution of business in any way connected with Government.

Important to Soldiers, Marines and their Heirs.

Persons enlisted in the U. S. Service, Land or Naval, since March 1, 1861, if disabled in the service, are entitled to Pension; Relatives of Persons deceased in the service are entitled to Bounty and Pension; in the following order:

1st. The Widow. 4th. The Mother.
2d. The Children. 5th The Brothers and Sisters collectively.
3d. The Father.

LETTERS OF ADMINISTRATION need not be taken out, in ordinary cases, to enable heirs of persons deceased in the service to obtain Pensions and Bounty.

When a discharge is granted for disability, in no case should the Oath of Identity on the back of the Discharge be filled up. The safest course is, to carry all papers at once to an Attorney, without tampering with them. All those who have claims, should present them without delay, as soon, the pressure will be so great upon the Auditor's Office, by reason of numerous applications, that applicants will be subjected to vexatious delay in getting their claims audited.

NO CHARGE MADE UNTIL CLAIMS ARE PAID.

Claims left at the Post Office, South Danvers, will be promptly forwarded.

Lynn, Aug 27, 1862—1y

CHARLES S. BUFFUM,
FURNISHING UNDERTAKER,
Central Street, South Danvers,
HAVING provided himself with a HEARSE, is prepared to attend Funerals in any of the neighboring towns, with one or a pair of Horses.
He keeps as good an assortment of
COFFINS AND CASKETS,
as can be found at any establishment, and at the lowest prices.
He will also attend to Laying Out, etc.
All orders from the neighboring towns met with prompt attention. jan 14

SLATING. SLATING.
GEORGE FOWLER & COMPA'Y,
NO. 2 ST. PETER COURT, SALEM, respectfully inform their friends and the citizens of this and neighboring towns and cities that they are prepared to execute all orders for Slating, promptly and faithfully.
Roofs covered with any description o Slates, or repaired at short notice.
All work undertaken will be warranted.
Address—Box 366 Salem Post Office.
Salem, January 28—1863. tf

PATTERSON S
LEATHER HANDLING MACHINE

THE undersigned are agents for the above machine. It can be seen in operation at Pinder & Brown's Tannery.
may 7—3m CLARK & GIDDINGS.

MESSRS. CLARK & GIDDINGS,
Wallis Street, South Danvers,
Are Agents for
GEORGE W. FISKE & CO.'S
PATENT EAVE TROUGHS
CUTTERS, CONDUCTORS AND
PIPE FOR DRAINS.
South Danvers, May 22, 1861.

R. C. MANNING & CO.
Successors to JOHN DIKE & CO.,
DEALERS IN
COAL, WOOD, BARK, HAY, &c,
188 DERBY STREET,
SALEM, MASS.
N. C. ROBBINS, R. C. MANNING.
oct17

FRANKLIN COAL.
JUST landed, a cargo of FRANKLIN COAL —the best in the world for domestic use.
POTTER, BACHELDER & CO.,
Successors to M. Black, Jr.
Danversport, May 6, 1861. tf

E. N. PRICE,
Manufacturer and Dealer in
HARNESSES,
SADDLES, BRIDLES,
AND WHIPS.
— ALSO —
Trunks, Valises and Traveling Bags.
All orders for Manufacturing and Repairing executed with promptness, and in the best manner.
237 Essex Street, Salem, Mass.
mch13-tf

THOMAS PINNOCK,
SLATER,
SALEM, MASS.
Orders may be left at his Yard, No. 25 Peabody St., or at his house No. 6 Hancock street, South Salem.
Roofs covered with any kind of Slates, according to order. All work warranted.
Salem, May 7, 1862. tf

CURRIER & MILLETT,
Dealers in

Furniture, Chairs,
MATTRESSES, FEATHERS, &c
259 & 261 ESSEX ST.
Salem, dec 14—1y

AARON T. LOWE,
DEALER IN
BOOTS, SHOES AND RUBBERS,
76 BOSTON STREET, 76.
aug 6 SALEM. tf

NOTICE.

THE subscriber being about to leave town for a few months, would take this opportunity to inform his customers and friends that his shop on Pleasant Street will be kept open during his absence by Mr. JOHN P. FRIEND, who will faithfully attend to any orders.
JAMES PERKINS.
South Danvers, Sept. 3, 1862.

E. R. PERKINS,
PHOTOGRAPHIC ARTIST
241 Essex Street, Salem.
Patent Ambrotypes, Stereoscopes,
Photographs, Sphercotypes, Melainotypes and patent enamel Pictures, of various sizes, taken with all the improvements of the art. Portraits, Miniatures, Engravings, &c., accurately copied. Views taken when desired. jan 11.

HILTON'S INSOLUBLE CEMENT,
UNIVERSALLY liked—for sale by
G M WHIPPLE & A A SMITH.

Dr. Ham's Spirit.

MUNROE'S
(LATE REED'S)
SOUTH DANVERS & BOSTON
RAILROAD EXPRESS.

Express leaves South Danvers at 10 1-2 a. m.
Freight " " at 5 p. m.
Express leaves Boston at 3 1-2 p. m.
Freight " " at 5 p. m.

OFFICE at FREIGHT DEPOT, South Danvers Square.
Order Box W. M. Jacobs' store, Main street.
EXPRESS OFFICE, in Boston, 5 Congress Square; Freight Office, 1 Fulton st.
Also an Order Box at 86 Pearl street.
Particular attention paid to removing Furniture, collecting Bills, Notes, Drafts, &c.
ARMY EXPRESS.
Packages received and sent forward daily for Baltimore, Fortress Monroe, Annapolis, Washington, Alexandria, and any other point where the different regiments are stationed.
WM. C. MUNROE,
South Danvers, may 13—tf

H. & H. G. HUBON,
WASHINGTON STREET, SALEM
Manufacturers of
Rose Wood, Mahogany, Black Walnut and Stained Wood
COFFINS and CASKETS.
MAKING this our exclusive business, we are ready at all times and at the shortest notice to furnish Grave Clothes of various styles, as well as Coffins and Caskets of the finest finish Personal attention given, and delivered without extra charge to any of the neighboring towns. All orders by express or otherwise will receive prompt attention.
Black Walnut and White Wood Boards, Plank and Joists for sale.
doc 14—tf

GAYLE & CO.,
GENERAL COMMISSION MERCHANTS,
DEALERS IN
Flour, Grain and Produce,
Manufacturers' Agents for the sale of
Concentrated Leaven, Soda and Pearlash Saleratus, and Bi Carb. Soda.
PHILLIPS WHARF, Salem.

T. HARDY, JR.,
—Dealer in—
DOORS, SASHES, BLINDS,
Glazed Sash, Painted Blinds,
FENCE PALES, STAIR BALUSTERS, FRAMING PINS, &c.,
No. 26 FRONT STREET,
Salem, January 14, 1863—6m

HEYLINGBERG'S
Hair Dressing Saloon,
24 MAIN ST., SOUTH DANVERS.
TARIFF OF PRICES:

Shaving, 6 cts.
Hair Cutting, 12 cts.
Champooing, 15 cts.
Champooing and Hair Cutting, 25 cts.

No more new Quarterly Customers taken.
In consequence of the scarcity of Change, 18 checks will be sold for one dollar.
South Danvers, Dec 17, 1862.

THOMAS DAVIS,
ADVERTISING AGENT
For the principal New England Newspapers, remains at the old stand, No. 23 Cornhill, Boston, where you will find him still loyal to the Constitution, the Laws, and Advertising.
Boston, Jan 29, 1862. tf

WALKING MADE EASY.

DR. P. KENISON,
CHIROPODIST,
215 Washington St., Boston,
Cures Hard and Soft Corns, Bunions, Club Nails, Nails penetrating the Flesh, Warts, &c., in a manner that will satisfy the most incredulous.

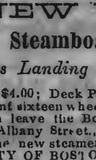
SPEED, COMFORT AND SAFETY!

FOR NEW YORK.
Norwich Steamboat Train.
The only Boats Landing at Jersey City.
CABIN Passage, $4.00; Deck Passage, $3.00. The new and elegant sixteen wheel cars of the steamboat express train leave the Boston & Worcester Railroad Station, Albany Street, at 5½ P. M., daily, connecting with the new steamers, (built expressly for this line,) CITY OF BOSTON, Capt. WILCOX, Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays; CITY OF NEW YORK, Capt. JEWETT, Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays which (before proceeding to their Pier, No. 39 North River,) will touch at the wharf of the New Jersey Railroad at Jersey City, (Sundays excepted) thus enabling Southern Passengers to make sure connections with the First Southern Train, and at the same time avoid the great annoyance of the Ferry and Hack transportation in the crowded streets of New York. This insures ample time for Breakfast before the trains leave. Conductors D. F. WALLER and W. F. BARTON accompany the passengers through.
Tickets, Berths and Staterooms secured at the Railroad Station, and at the Office of the line, 79 Washington Street, Boston.
Through tickets to Philadelphia, Baltimore and Washington can be had at 79 Washington Street, Boston. WM. DICKEY, Jr., Agent.
Boston, January 7, 1863.

Chickering & Sons' Piano-Fortes.
Hallett & Cumston's Piano-Fortes.
Hallett & Davis's Piano-Fortes.

We select our Piano-Fortes from the above firms and warrant them to give perfect satisfaction. Our terms are reasonable, and all persons in the city and neighboring towns can be accommodated by calling at 76 Federal street.
FOR SALE—Second-hand Piano-Fortes,—Chickering's and others.
ap 29 ANN R. BRAY.

D. W. BOWDOIN,
—ARTIST IN—
PHOTOGRAPHIC PICTURES.
Rooms No. 175 Essex st, Salem, [Downing's Block]
Portraits, Miniatures, and Views, by the Ambrotype, Daguerreotype, Photograph and Stereoscope process—finished in India Ink, Oil and Water colors.
☞ Particular attention paid to restoring old Daguerreotypes, and other pictures—and making enlarged copies, highly finished. may



E. S. FLINT,
Manufacturer and Dealer in
INNER SOLES,
AND SHOE STIFFENINGS OF ALL KINDS.
2 MAIN STREET, SOUTH DANVERS.

DIARIES FOR
1863. Every variety and style—all sizes—for sale at
G M WHIPPLE & A A SMITH'S,
nov 26 Sign of the Five Golden Books.

NEW YORK WHITE LEAD.
2500 L New York White Lead;
Also, Foreign River White Lead—for sale by
mch 4 S C & E A SIMONDS.

WIRE GOODS.
WIRE Rat Traps; Broilers; Steamers; Sieves etc., just received at
S C & E A SIMONDS', 32 Front st.

SOUTH DANVERS POST OFFICE.

GENERAL MAIL ARRANGEMENT.

MAILS CLOSE
At 10 3-4 A. M., and 4 3-4 P. M.
MAILS DUE
At 9 1-2 A. M., and 3 P. M.

Post Office open (Sundays excepted) from 7 o'clock, A. M., till 8 P. M. Saturdays open till 8 1-2 P. M.
F. POOLE, P. M.
South Danvers, Oct. 1, 1862.

Eastern Railroad.

ON and after MONDAY, April 6, 1863, Trains will leave the Eastern Railroad Station, Washington street, Salem, daily. (Sundays excepted):
For Lynn and Boston, *5.50, 7, 8¼, 9, *10, 11 a m., 1, *2¼, 5¼, 7½ p. m.
Beverly, 8¼ am., 1, 1¼, 3¼, 5¼, 6.55, 7½ p m.
W. Beach, Man'r, Gloucester, and Rockport, 8¼ a m., 3½, 5¼ p m.
Ipswich and Newburyport, 8¼ a m., 1, 3¼, 5¼, 6 55 p m.
Amesbury, 8¼ a m., 1, 5¼ p m.
Portsmouth, 8¼ a m., 3¼, 5¼ p m.
Portland, 8¼ a m., 3¼ p m.
AND FOR SALEM, FROM
Portland, 8¼ a m, 3 p m.
Portsmouth, 7¼ †11¼ a m., †5½ p m.
Amesbury, 7.35, 9 40 a m., 5.50 p m.
Newburyport, 7, 8, 10 a m., 12 m., 6¼ p m.
Ipswich, 7 25, 8 25, 10.25 a m., 12 25, 6.40 p m.
Gloucester, 7, 10, 10 10 a m., 4.40 p m.
Manchester, 7.25, 10.25 a m., 4.55 p m.
Beverly, 6.50, 7.50, 8 50, 10.50 a m., 12.50, 5.20, 7 05 pm.
Lynn, 8.05, *9 05, 11.05 a m., 12 50, *1.35, 3.05, *3.35, *4 35, 5.35, *6.20, 5¼, *7 35, *10.05 p m.
Boston, 7½, *8¼, 10¼ a m., 12¼, 2½, 3, *4, 5, 6.10, *7, *9¼.

*Via Saugus Branch.
†Or on arrival from the East.
On Wednesdays this train leaves Boston at 11½ p m. and on Saturdays at 10½ p m.

MARBLEHEAD BRANCH.
Marblehead for Salem, 6¼, 7¾, 8¾, 9¾ a m., 12¾, 1¾, 5¼, 6¾, 7½ p m.
Salem for Marblehead, 7¼, 8¼, 9.25, 11¼ a m., 1, 3¼, 5¾, 7, 7.50 p m.

SOUTH READING BRANCH.
Trains leave the South Reading Depot in Salem for Boston at 6¾, 9.50 a m., 3.55, 4.55 p m
Boston for Salem, 7 a m, 12 m., 3, 5¼ p m.

ESSEX RAILROAD.
Leave Salem for Lawrence and way stations, 7, 11¼ a m., 4.50 p m.
Lawrence for Salem, 8 a m., 12.40, 6 p m.
Danvers for Salem, 8.40 a m., 1.20, 6 40 p m.
South Danvers for Salem, 7¾ a m., 12¾, 3¾, 6¼ p m.
J. PRESCOTT, Superintendent.
Boston, April 6, 1863.

Salem and Lowell Railroad.

ON and after MONDAY, April 6, 1863, Trains will run as follows:
Leave Lowell for Salem, 7.25 a m., and *2.45 p m.
Leave Salem for Lowell, *9.40 a m. and 5 55 p m.
Passengers are not allowed to carry baggage above $50 in value, and that personal, unless notice is given and an extra amount paid. Season tickets do not entitle the holder to take baggage.
*Freight Train with passenger car attached.
F. H. NOURSE, Local Superintendent.
April 6, 1863.

TAKE NOTICE.

THAT Dr. Ham's Dyspepsia Remedy has been before the public for the past ten years. And in that time the people who have used it will vouch for the benefit they have derived from it. The character of his article and its reputation can also be obtained from the dealers who sell it, or have sold it for any length of time, to both of those, Dr Ham refers and is willing to stand the test. And also challenges any new compound to produce the same results, let alone delicacy of flavor, of his INVIGORATING SPIRIT, which for ITS EFFECTS UPON THE BILE, A TORPID LIVER, LOW SPIRITS, or when the blood is affected as seen by SKIN DISEASES or its ACTION UPON THE KIDNEYS, in fact for any person who is run down by the wear and care of this world will find relief in this old and well tried remedy.

Astonishing.

TO Dr. Ham, who has modestly put before the public his DYSPEPSIA REMEDY for ten years past, to look back and see the number of tremendous assholes within that time, that have sprang up like a rocket, and gone down like the stick which guides it in its glorious assent. Some come out and claim to tell the public they use unknown Barks from South America, with any quantity of rum from the West Indias, &c. Dr Ham takes this opportunity to refer to the MEDICAL FACULTY here and everywhere that his article is in use, as to its qualifications, and challenges any one to produce a person, male or female, who has used it as directed, that will not speak favorable of it for DISORGANIZED STOMACH, Dyspepsia, loss of appetite, want of action of the Kidneys, as well as many other complaints that humanity are afflicted with.

To Ladies.

DR. HAM'S Dyspepsia Remedy is just the thing you require to remove the langour caused by weakness and debility; it invigorates the system, causes the blood to take new life in its varied course through the system, in fact it gives tone to the system and will relieve and remove the thousand irregularities that from various causes you are afflicted with. For Dyspepsia it is a never failing remedy. It has stood the test of years, and we have yet to hear of its failing to give relief to the afflicted thousands who have received health and happiness by its use.

To Gentlemen.

DR. HAM knows that you do not always pay much attention to the many different articles put before you in the paper, but we would refer you to our agents who you will find are the respectable merchants and dealers, in regard to the Invigorating Spirit; some of them have sold it for years, and know well the reputation it has amongst those who have used it in assisting nature to eradicate diseases. It will renovate the system, as it acts directly on the blood, removing all obstructions to the general health, will cure Liver Complaints, Dyspepsia, Nervous Affections, Sour Stomach, Headache, Weakness, Loss of Appetite, as well as obstruction in the Kidney, Bladder or Urinary Organs. Try it. We will guarantee you will be satisfied with the result.

General Depot, 62 Liberty Street, New York. Sold by Weeks & Potter, 154 Washington Street, M. S. Burr & Co., 36 Tremont Street, G. C. Goodwin & Co., 11 Marshall Street, Boston; and in South Danvers by George E. Meacom, T. A. Sweetser, D. P. Grosvenor, Jr., Main Street; and by Druggists everywhere.
Feu 29, 1863 1y

Are you Insured?

THE subscriber would respectfully call your attention to the fact that he is fully prepared to effect INSURANCE AGAINST FIRE, to any amount, at current rates, on
Dwelling Houses, Barns and their contents, Stores, Stocks of Goods, Furniture, &c. &c., and on buildings in process of erection,
And that he is the authorized Agent for the following responsible Stock and Mutual Companies, viz:

Thames Insurance Co., (Stock,) Norwich, Conn.
Capital—$500,000.
Amos W. Prentice, Pres. Oliver F. Rice, Sec'y
Conway Insurance Company, (Stock) Boston.
Capital and Surplus—$260,000.
James F. Whitney, Pres. David C. Rogers, Sec'y.
City Insurance Company, (Stock) Boston.
Capital—$150,000.
Samuel P. Hayward, Pres. Austin W. Benton, Sec'y

Also, will effect Insurance on the LIVES OF INDIVIDUALS, for one year, seven years, or for the whole term of life, in the Massachusetts Mutual Life Ins. Co., Springfield, Mass.
Capital and Assets—$375,000.
Caleb Rice, Pres. D. B. Bacon, Sec'y.
William Mack, M. D., Medical Examiner.
WM. ARCHER, Jr.,
18 Washington st. and 34 Front st., Salem.
ej b20-1

E. F. BURNHAM,
SOLE AGENT FOR
SARGENT & CO.S'
MAGIC SOAP
For South Danvers & Salem.
OFFICE—Central St., opp. Lowell Depot, at Burnham's Express Office, So. Danvers.
Price $3.50 per 100 Lbs.
Orders sent by mail or otherwise to So. Danvers will be promptly attended to. tf-oct3

WM. C. HENDERSON,
MANUFACTURER OF
PLAIN AND FANCY
PAPER BOXES,
No. 235 ESSEX STREET,
Sign of "Nest of Boxes,"
July 23 SALEM. tf

JUVENILE BOOKS,
A VERY large assortment for sale by
G M WHIPPLE & A A SMITH.

SUMMER ARRANGEMENT.
— TO —
LYNN & BOSTON
— BY —
OMNIBUS & HORSE CAR.
W. F. BURNHAM'S

Line of Omnibuses will leave the Lynn and Boston Omnibus Office, No. 6 Allen's Building, South Danvers, passing down Main Street, through Washington Street, to Lynn, daily.
Leave South Danvers at 7.50 o'clock, A. M., 12 50 and 4 50 P. M.
Leave Lynn (Horse Car Depot, West Lynn) at 9 40 A. M., 2 40 and 6 40 P. M.
Horse Cars leaving Scollay's Building, Court Street, at 8 15 A. M., 1 15 and 5 15 P. M., will meet the Omnibuses at Lynn, at the above named hours, to take passengers to South Danvers.
Sunday Arrangements.
Leave S. Danvers at 7.50 a.m., and 4.50 p.m.
Leave Lynn at 9.40 a.m., and 6.40 p.m.
Cars leave Scollay's Building, Court Street, Boston, to meet the Omnibuses in Lynn for South Danvers, at 8 15 A. M., and 5 15 P. M.
Tickets to Lynn, - - 15 cents.
Through to Boston, - - 30 cents.
Through Tickets to and from Boston may be had of the Drivers and Conductors.
Passengers called for at reasonable charges if notice is given at the office.
EXPRESS BUSINESS
Between South Danvers and Lynn promptly attended to, on reasonable terms.
Extra Coaches furnished at short notice.
South Danvers, 1863.

South Danvers & Salem Line of Omnibuses.

ON and after MONDAY, Nov. 4, 1861, the South Danvers and Salem Line of Omnibuses will run as follows:
Leave the Hourly Office, South Danvers at 7, 8, 8 1-2, 9, 9 1-2, 10, 10 1-2, 11, 11 1-2 a. m. 12, 12 1-2, 1, 1 1-2, 2, 2 1-2, 3, 3 1-2, 4, 4 1-2, 5, 5 1-2, 6, 6 1-2, 7, 7 1-2, 8.
Leave No. 13 Central St., Salem, at 8. 8 1-2, 9, 9 1-2, 10, 10 1-2, 11, 11 1-2, a.m. 12, 12 1-2, 1, 1 1-2, 2, 2 1-2, 3, 3 1-2, 4, 4 1-2, 5, 5 1-2, 6, 6 1-2, 7, 7 1-2, 8, 9.
☞ Ladies' Room, at Needham & Hawkes's, No. 272 Essex Street, and at the Offices.
SINGLE FARE on the regular route, 6 cents, or Twenty Tickets for $1 00.
Passengers called for or left off the route, at a reasonable distance, the fare will be 13 cents.
EXTRA COACHES furnished, at all hours, at reasonable prices.
nov 27 HENRY M. MERRILL.

Abbott's South Danvers & Salem EXPRESS.

Leave South Danvers, 7¼ a m, 1 p m
Leave Salem, 10 a m, 4 p m
Orders left at Teel & Moulton's, and principal stores on Main street, South Danvers; and at 7 Washington street, and at Reed's in the Market, Salem.

MARSHALL'S
DANVERS, SO. DANVERS & SALEM EXPRESS.

Leave DANVERS (daily) at 9 A. M.
" SALEM at 1½ P. M.
OFFICES:
In Danvers—At E B Waitt's and the Post Office.
Danversport—Richards' and A W Warren's Stores.
In So. Danvers—Francis Dane & Co's, and No 2 Main street.
In Salem—No. 7 Washington street, 199 Essex st, and 17 Derby Square.
All business promptly and faithfully attended to.
☞ Our patrons are particularly requested to write their orders.
☞ Packages, left at the office, should be marked "Marshall's Express."
☞ Being connected with the RAILROAD we are enabled to forward Notes, Drafts and Bills for collection, and small packages, to all accessible points in the United States, at the usual rates.
P. G. MARSHALL.
dec1-8-tf

PINGREE'S JOB WAGON.

THE subscriber is still prepared to do all kinds of Job Work and Teaming, such as removing Furniture and Merchandize of any description about town or to and from the neighboring towns.
Orders will be received at the Essex Railroad Station, and at S. Flint's store, on the Square.
Thankful for past favors, he would solicit a continuance of the same. W. H. PINGREE.
South Danvers, 1860.

Important to the Afflicted.

DR. DOW continues to be consulted at his office, Nos. 7 and 9 Endicott street, Boston, on all diseases of a
PRIVATE OR DELICATE NATURE.
By a long course of study and practical experience of unlimited extent, Dr. D. has now the gratification of presenting the unfortunate with remedies that have never, since he first introduced them, failed to cure the most alarming cases of
GONORRHŒA AND SYPHILIS.
Beneath his treatment, all the horrors of venereal and impure blood, Impotency, Scrofula, Gonorrhœa, Ulcers, pain and distress in the regions of procreation, Inflammation of the Bladder and Kidneys, Hydrocele, Abscesses, Humors, frightful Swellings, and the long train of horrible symptoms attending this class of disease, are made to become as harmless as the simplest ailings of a child.
SEMINAL WEAKNESS.
Dr. D. devotes a great part of his time to the treatment of those cases caused by a secret and solitary habit, which ruins the body and mind, unfitting the unfortunate individual for business or society. Some of the sad and melancholy effects produced by early habits of youth, are Weakness of the Back and limbs, Dizziness of the head, Dimness of sight, Palpitation of the heart, Dyspepsia, Nervousness, Derangement of the digestive functions, Symptoms of Consumption, &c. The fearful effects on the mind are much to be dreaded; loss of memory, confusion of ideas, depression of spirits, evil forebodings, aversion of society, self-distrust, timidity, &c., are among the evils produced. Such persons should, before contemplating marriage, consult a physician of experience, and be at once restored to health and happiness.
Patients who wish to remain under Dr. Dow's treatment a few days or weeks, will be furnished with pleasant room, and charges for board moderate.
Medicines sent to all parts of the country, with full directions for use, on receiving description of your cases. Dr. Dow has also for sale the French Capottes, warranted the best preventive. Order by mail. 3 for $1 and a red stamp.

CAUTION
TO FEMALES IN DELICATE HEALTH.
DR. DOW, Physician and Surgeon, 7 and 9 Endicott street, Boston, is consulted daily for all diseases incident to the female system. Prolapsus Uteri, or falling of the Womb, Fluor Albus, Suppression, and other menstrual derangements, are all treated upon new pathological principles, and speedy relief guaranteed in a very few days. So invariably certain is the new mode of treatment, that most obstinate complaints yield under it, and the afflicted person soon rejoices in perfect health.
Dr. Dow has no doubt had greater experience in the cure of diseases of women and children, than any other physician in Boston.
Boarding accommodations for patients who may wish to stay in Boston a few days under his treatment.
Dr. Dow, since 1845, having confined his whole attention to an office practice, for the cure of Private Diseases and Female Complaints, acknowledges no superior in the United States.
N. B.—All letters must contain four red stamps, or they will not be answered.
Office Hours from 8 A. M. to 9 P. M.

CERTAIN CURE
IN ALL CASES, OR NO CHARGES MADE.
Dr. Dow is consulted daily, from 8 a m. to 8 p. m., as above, upon all difficult and chronic diseases of every name and nature, having by his unwearied attention and extraordinary success gained a reputation which calls patients from all parts of the country to obtain advice.
Among the physicians in Boston, none stand higher in the profession than the celebrated DR. DOW, No. 7 Endicott street, Boston. Those who need the services of an experienced physician and surgeon should give him a call. P. S.—Dr. Dow imports and has for sale a new article, called the French Secret. Order by mail. Two for $1 and a red stamp.
April 15, 1863—1y.

Tenements to Let.

ONE of 5 rooms in the rear of Washington Street, on a Court leading out of Thorn street. Rent $64 per year.
One of 5 rooms near Newhall's Crossing, in house lately occupied by C. B. Warner. Rent $42 per year.
One of 3 rooms, near Tapley Brook,—a small house. Rent $24 per year.
One of 3 rooms, in a new house in rear, northerly, of the Old Boston Road, near the Lynn line, with a barn if wanted and several acres of land. Rent reasonable, but dependant on privileges hired.
One of three rooms in the "Granite House," corner of Washington and Granite streets.
SIDNEY C. BANCROFT.
South Danvers, July 23d, 1862.

PRINTI

IN EVERY VA
Neatly and Pr
EXECU
—At—
The Wizard
SOUTH DANVERS
SOUTH DANVERS
POSTE (LARGE AND WHICH CAN'T — IN THIS —
VICINI
BALL CIRC
TICKE
— AND —
Orders of BUSINESS
Address Ca
Wedding
Printed in the neates
And on the finest
BILL-HE
For Manufacturing and Me
BLANK REC
And all kinds of BLANKS of Printed to suit
EVERY DESCRI
— OF —
JO

South Danvers Wizard.

VOL. IV. SOUTH DANVERS, MASS., WEDNESDAY, JULY 8, 1863. NO. 27.

THE SOUTH DANVERS WIZARD
Is published every WEDNESDAY, at Allen's Building, South Danvers Square.
TERMS—Two Dollars a year.
ADVERTISEMENTS inserted at reasonable rates.

CHARLES D. HOWARD,
EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR.

A. A. PUTNAM,
ASSISTANT EDITOR, DANVERS.

Selected.

JOHN CLARKE AND HIS FORTUNE.

'Never mind the house, John; we've got one of our own,' whispered John Clarke's wife.

She was a bright little thing only twenty years old. And how brightly and bewitchingly she shone!—a star among the sombre company.

'But what in the world has he left me?' muttered John Clarke. 'I believe he hated me—I believe they all hate me.'

'Hush, dear!' said his wife.

'I bequeath to John Clarke, my dearly beloved nephew,' read the grim attorney, 'as a reward for his firmness in resisting temptation during the last two years, and his determination to improve in all acceptable things, my one-horse chaise, which has stood in my barn more than twenty-five years, requesting that he will repair it or cause it to be repaired in suitable manner.'

That was all. Some of the people who were present tittered, and all seemed to enjoy the confusion of the poor young man. His eyes flashed fire, he trembled excessively; poor little Jenny fairly cried.

'To think,' she said to herself, 'how hard he has tried to be good, and that is all he thought of it.'

'Wish you joy!' said the red-headed youth, with a broad grin, as he came out of the room.

John sprang up to collar the fellow, but a little white hand laid on his arm, restrained him.

'Let them triumph, John, it won't hurt you,' said Jenny with her sunny smile; 'pray don't notice them, for my sake.'

'Served him right,' said Susan Spriggs, the niece of the old man just dead, to whom he had left a good deal of his money; 'Served him right for marrying that ignorant goose of a Jenny Brazier. I supposed he speculated a good deal on the old man's generosity.' To which she added in a whisper that only her own heart heard; he might have heard me; he had the chance; and loved him better than any one else—better than that pretty little simpleton, Jenny Brazier.

'Now, we shall see how deep his goodness is,' said a maiden aunt. 'He became very pious just because he expected a fortune from my poor dead brother, but we must see how much of a change there is in John Clarke—he always was an imp of wickedness.'

'Well, I think John Clarke will have to be contented with his little cottage,' said the father of Susan Spriggs, to good old Joe Hemp.

'Well, I think he is content; if he ain't he ought to be, with that little jewel of a wife,' was Joe's reply.

'Pshaw, you're all crazy about that gal,' said Spriggs. 'Why, she ain't to be compared to my Susan. Susan plays on the forty piano like sixty, and manages a house first rate.'

'Bless you, neighbor Spriggs, I'd rather have that innocent, blooming face to smile at me when I waked up of mornings than all the forty piano gals.'

'I'd like to know what you mean!' exclaimed Mr. Spriggs, firing up.

'Just what I say,' replied good old Joe, coolly.

'Well, that John Clarke'll die on the gallows yet, mark my words,' said Mr. Spriggs, spitefully.

'That John Clarke will make one of our best men yet,' replied old Joe complacently.

'Doubt it,' said Mr. Spriggs.

'Yes, may be you do,' said Joe, 'and that's a pretty way to build up a young fellow, ain't it, when he is trying to do his best. No! John Clarke won't be a great man if you can help it. People that cry mad dog, are plaguey willing to stone the animal while he's running, and if he ain't mad they're sure to drive him so. Why don't you step up to him and say, 'John, I'm glad you're going right now, and I've got faith in you; and if you want any help, come to me, and I'll assist you!' That's the way to do the business, Mr. Spriggs.'

'Well, I hope you'll do it, that's all,' replied Spriggs, sulkily.

'I hope I shall, and I'm bound to do so, if I have a chance. Fact is, he's got such a smart little wife that he don't really need any help.'

'No—it's a pity then that brother Jacob left him that one-horse chaise.'

'You needn't laugh at that, old Jacob never did anything without a meaning to it. That old chaise may help him to be great yet. Fact is, I think myself, if Jacob had left him money it might have been the ruin of him. Less things than a one-horse chaise have made a man's fortune.'

'Well, I'm glad you think so much of him; I don't,' said Spriggs.

'No,' muttered Joe as his neighbor turned away; 'but if he had married your raw-boned darter that plays on the forty pianner, he'd been all right."

'A one-horse chaise,' said Spriggs, laughing, 'what a fortune!'

And so it went from mouth to mouth. None of the relatives—some of them already rich—had offered the poorest man among them (the owner of a one-horse chaise) any of the bequeathment left to him or her; but they had rather rejoiced in his disappointment.

The truth is, that everybody had prophesied that John Clarke, a poor motherless boy, would come to ruin, and they wanted the prophecy to prove a true one. He had, in his youth, been wild and wayward, and somewhat profligate in the early years of his manhood; but his old uncle had encouraged him to reform—held out hopes to which he had hitherto been a stranger; and the love of the sweet young Jenny Brazier completed, as it seemed, his reformation.

Jenny never appeared so lovely as she did on that unfortunate day of the reading of the will, after they had returned to the poor little house that was Jenny's own.

'No matter, John,' she said cheerfully, 'you will rise in spite of them. I wouldn't let them think I was in the least discouraged; that would please them too well. We are doing finely now; and you know, if they cut the railroad through our bit of land, the money will set us up quite comfortably. Isn't our home a happy one, if it is small? And oh! John, by and by.'

An eloquent blush—a glance toward her work-basket, out of which peeped the most delicate needlework, told the story—that ever new story of innocence, beauty and helplessness.

For once, John Clarke stopped the gossip's mouth. He held his head up manfully—worked steadily at his trade and every step he took seemed a sure advance and an upward one.

Baby was just six months old when the railway company paid into John Clarke's hand a very handsome sum for the privilege of cutting a railway through his little field.

'A handsome baby, a beautiful and industrious wife, and a good round sum from the railway company,' thought John with an honest exultation; 'well this is living.'

'John,' said his wife, rising from her work, 'look there!'

'He did, and saw the old one-horse chaise dragged by a stalwart laborer.

'Master says as how the old barn is going to be pulled down, so he sent the shay,' said the laborer.

'Thank him for nothing,' said John, bitterly; but a glance at his wife removed the evil spirit, and a better one smiled out of his eyes.

'John you can spare a little money to have the old chaise done up, can't you? You ought to, according to the will,' said Jenny.

'The old trash!' muttered John.

'But you could at least sell it for what the repairs would cost,' said Jenny in her winning way.

'Yes, I suppose I could,' said John.

'Then I'd have it done,' said Jenny, 'and bless me, I'd keep it too. You've got a good horse, and can have the old chaise made quite stylish for baby and me to ride in.'

'Well, I'll send over to Hosmer's tomorrow and see what he'll do for it,' said John.

'Look here! Mr. Hosmer wants you to come over to his shop!' shouted the wheelwright's apprentice on the following day, at the the top of his lungs, "Old Joe Hemp's there an' he says he's right down glad. Its hundreds, and hundreds, and hun—.'

'Stop, boy—what does he mean, Jenny?' cried John, putting the baby in the cradle, face downwards.

'My patience, John! just look at that child—precious darling! I'm sure I don't know, John. I'd go over and see,' said Jenny.

'Taint any fun, I tell you,' said the boy, while John hurried on his coat and hat; 'my gracious! you'll say it ain't fun when you come to see all them gold things, and the papers.'

This added wings to John's feet, and in a moment he stood breathless in the wheelwright's shop.

'Wish you joy, my fine feller!' cried Joe Hemp.

'Look here! what'd you take for that old chaise? I'll give you four hundred,' cried the old wheelwright, in great glee.

'Four hundred?' repeated John Clarke, aghast.

'Yes, just look at it! You're a rich man, sir, and I'm glad of it. You deserve to be,' said the wheelwright, shaking John's hand heartily.

What do you suppose was the consternation, delight, gratitude—the wild, wild joy that filled the heart of Clarke when he found the old chaise lined with gold and bank notes? I mean the cushions, the linings, and every place where they could be placed without danger or injury.

Poor John—or rather rich John—his head was nearly turned. It required all the balance of Jenny's nice equipoise of character to keep his ecstatic brain from spinning like a humming top. Now he bequeathed to his red-headed cousin, who had wished him joy when the will was read—the dear old uncle! What a genuine sorrow he felt as he thought of the many times he had heaped reproaches upon his memory!

Imagine if you can, dear reader, the peculiar feelings of those kind friends who had prophesied that John Clarke would come to grief. At first old Joe Hemp proposed to take the old chaise just as it was—linings stripped, bits of cloth hanging—and proclaim with a trumpet the glad tidings to the whole village, taking especial care to stop before the house of Mr. Spriggs and blowing loud enough to drown all the forty pianos in the universe, but was voted down by John's kind little wife.

'La! they'll all know of it soon enough!' she said, kissing the baby; 'I wouldn't hurt their feelings.'

They will know of it; and a few years afterward they all agreed that John Clarke had really turned out a really good man. So much for the one-horse chaise.

OUR FOREFATHERS.

Throughout the whole controversy which preceded the Revolution, we find constant occasion to admire the prudence, forbearance and conciliatory temper that shone so conspicuously in our forefathers. As men of high principles, they entered carefully into the question thus forced upon their attention. They reasoned, they deliberated, they cautioned, they admonished, they adjured. The ties of consanguinity, the remembrance of a common ancestry, the cords of a common interest were wound around the fibres of their souls, and they felt that they too were of the lineage of Bacon, and Locke, of Milton and Shakspeare. From time to time the Continental Congress addressed to the mother country petitions, entreaties and remonstrances, whose unrivalled eloquence and overwhelming body of argument, whose matchless strength, beauty and reasoning, commanded the admiration of Burke and Chatham. On what a group of giant forms did the morning beams of the Revolution shine! Men, who sprang up as in a night, armed in the panoply of intellect! men whose glory will not fade until the eternal stars shall be dimmed with age. The ball of the Revolution rested on such Atlantean shoulders, and nobly and fearlessly did they sustain its weight. When compelled to draw the sword, they cast aside all timid wavering, and braved the issue as men to whose memory suspicion and dishonor should never cling, Crippled at all points, with an exhausted treasury, a small and half-organized army, with an impaired and almost ruined pecuniary credit, without fleets, and well nigh without the munitions of war, they desponded not in the darkest hour, but like Antæus gathered strength at the moment they were crushed to the ground.

There was an humanity too in their greatest excitement, that indicated the high motives under which they fought, and contrasted most favorably with the wanton butcheries and the employment of savage allies, which will forever affix a stigma to the British name. What wonder is it that such men, in defence of a righteous cause, and advocating their principles in such a firm, humane and exalted a manner, should have won the sympathy and succor of mankind and forced a stern enemy to relent? Nay, rather what amazement would have seized on the general mind, had so much magnanimity and nobleness proved fruitless and unavailing.—Wm. H. Fondey.

THE LOVE OF POWER.—I may here express a general remark, which the history of slavery seems to justify, that it is not founded solely on the avarice of the planter. We sometimes say, the planter does not want slaves, he only wants the immunities and the luxuries which the slaves yield him: give him money, give him a machine that will yield him as much money as the slaves, and he will thankfully let them go. He has no love of slavery, he wants luxury, and he will pay even this price of crime and danger for it. But I think experience does not warrant this favorable distinction, but shows the existence, besides the covetousness, of a bitterer element, the love of power, the voluptuousness of holding a human being in his absolute control. We sometimes observe, that spoiled children contract a habit of annoying quite wantonly those, who have charge of them, and seem to measure their own sense of well-being, not by what they do, but by the degree of reaction they can cause. It is vain to get rid of them by not minding them, if purring and humming is not noticed, they squeal and screech: then if you chide and console them, they find the experiment succeeds, and they begin again. The child will sit in your arms contented, provided you do nothing. If you take a book and read, he commences hostile operations The planter is the spoiled child of his unnatural habits and has contracted in his indolent and luxurious climate the need of excitement by irritating and tormenting his slaves.—R. W. Emerson.

PATRIOTISM.—Patriotism is the love for our country, warmed into the love of purifying, strengthening and adorning her institutions. Thus rising into an active principle, as well as a fervid emotion, it becomes an expanded virtue. It embraces its native land in its length and breadth; it knows neither the North nor the South; it mingles abroad in the cares of business, and at home in the household scenes of life; it blends with the charity that distils as the gentle dew from heaven; with the justice whose sacred ermine the meanest may teach and live; with the sympathy that links man to his kind; with the heroism that in the defence of right, sacrifices comfort, fortune, life itself and all but honor; with the intellect that makes tributary all science, and grasps at stars and orbs, and worlds, in their revolving order; with the devotion that kneels at the shrine of a pure religion, and offers up its incense to the skies. No rivers so broad that it cannot traverse, no mountains so lofty that it cannot leap; it recognizes but one soil, one home, one kindred. Wherever the feet of the patriot may wander, whether he lingers beside the stream of the Nile or the Indus, whether chilled in the regions of polar cold or burned by the rays of a torrid sun, whatever lands divide, whatever oceans roll between, he shall look upward to the banner of his country and draw hope and reviving courage from the symbols of her freedom.—Anonymous.

IMAGINATION.—A contented citizen of Milan, who had never passed beyond its walls during the course of sixty years, being ordered by the Government not to stir beyond the gates, became immediately miserable, and felt so powerful an inclination to do that which he had so long contentedly neglected, that on his application for a release from this restraint being refused, he became quite melancholy, and at length died of grief. The pains of imprisonment, also, like those of servitude, are more in conception than reality. We are all prisoners. What is life but the prison of the soul?

☞ An exchange paper tells a good story of a shrewd but not over-honest stock-raiser in Canada—who took the first prize at an agricultural show for a bull on which he had fitted a handsome pair of horns taken from a dead animal, whose skin he had puffed out artificially in various places to conceal defects, with numerous other defective contrivances, which he had learned by watching his wife, from time to time, as she made her toilet for a ball or party.

☞ Gen. Scott has completed his 77th year. His battles are over. Older men have won fields of fame, but the bugle notes will call him to fight no more.

Miscellaneous.

PERSONAL.

PIERRE SOULE, it is said, is again within the limits of the Southern Confederacy. He reached Nassau about a week ago, and left on the steamer Cuba for Charleston, which is reported to have arrived in safety.

HAWTHORNE, in the quiet of his home at Concord, is hard at work on a new romance, which is well advanced toward completion.

MAJOR GEN. DAN. SICKLES has returned to his home in New York, and it is rumored that he will not go back to the army of the Potomac. He has proved himself to be one of the best commanders in the field, and but for him the battle at Chancellorsville might have been more disastrous than it was.

HON. GEO. WOODSWORTH, the democratic nominee for Governor of Pennsylvania, is an able lawer and a strong partizan. He is of the straightest sect of State rights men.

JUAREZ, the President of Mexico, has personally assumed the command of the army for the defence of his capital, besieged by the French.

COL. KANE, formerly marshal of Baltimore, has escaped to Dixie and been appointed a Major General in the rebel army.

MR. RUSSELL.—The Times' correspondent, was sent years ago to Ireland to report O'Connell's speeches during the repeal agitation. The following is told as the result of his mission:

One of the first meetings the newspaper man attended was in Kerry. Having heard of O'Connell's polite qualities, he thought he would ask that gentleman's permission to take a verbatim account of the oration. The "liberator" not only consented, but in his oiliest manner informed his audience that "until that gintleman was provided with all writin' convaniencies, he wouldn't spake a word," assuming an extra brogue, which was altogether unnecessary. Russell was delighted. The preparations began and were completed. Russell was ready.

"Are you quite ready?" asked Dan.

"Quite ready."

"Now, are you sure you're entirely ready?"

"I am certain, sir. Yes."

The crowd becoming excited and impatient, Dan said: "Now, 'pon my conscience, I wont begin the speech till the London gintleman is entirely ready."

After waiting another moment or so, O'Connell advanced; eyes glistened; ears were all attention, and the reportorial pencil arose. Dan gave one more benignant smile on the correspondent, winked at the auditors, and commenced his speech in the Irish language, to the inexpressible horror of the present editor of the Army and Navy Gazette, and to the infinite delight of all Kerry.

REVIVAL OF MOSAIC ART IN VENICE. The beautiful art of producing various designs by inlaying in colored glass, minerals and metals, which had become almost obsolete, has been revived in Venice. A correspondent of the Boston Advertiser, writing from that city, states that he has lately visited the mosaic manufactory, which is in an old palace on the banks of the Grand Canal. He states that about two hundred artisans are employed in cutting tho colored glass, grinding and polishing the pieces and fitting them together, forming most beautiful productions. Groups of the Saviour and the Apostles, figures of saints, etc., are produced in exquisite style, for windows of cathedrals. Inlaid tables, caskets and rich vases, mounted in silver and precious stones, are also made. A beautiful mosaic floor is being made for the Viceroy of Egypt, and mosaics for windows in the Queen's chapel at Windsor are being produced from designs drawn by the princess of Prussia.

THE CONSCRIPTION.—The number of soldiers under the next draft, we are told, will be 300,000, the draft to be made by the middle of July. The number from this Congressional district, it is supposed by the uniforms sent to the Provost Marshal, will be about 1200. The same number of uniforms (1200) have also been sent to Lawrence for that congressional district. If that was the average of all the districts in the country, it would not give more than 200,000 men. But some of the States have more than furnished their quotas, and others are behind. Massachusetts is among the former, having a surplus of 7,000, and we shall therefore have fewer to raise now.

A LOCAL PREACHER'S SOMERSAULT. On a recent Sunday evening, says the Newcastle Journal, (England) the pulpit of the Primitive Methodist Chapel, Williamson-terrace, Monkwearmouth was occupied by a Hetton pitman, a local preacher connected with the Primitive Methodist body, who after discoursing on the Jewish year of Jubilee, proceeded to wind up with a brilliant peroration of unusual force and power. While leaning over the front of the pulpit and delivering himself with much fervor, he suddenly overbalanced himself, being a man of many inches, and came tumbling over into the singing-pew, to the great dismay of the congregation. He appeared to fairly turn a somersault, carrying the book-board over with him, and probably his descent in this manner saved him from fracturing his skull on the floor.—Fortunately no one happened to be sitting below, and the falling orator came down with his broadside upon a music-stand, shivering its timbers in a very complete manner. Of course, there was much alarm among the congregation, and much shrieking from the female part of it; but our hero was soon "himself again." Rising to his feet with wonderful alacrity, he exclaimed, "be calm people, I'm none the worse; and, bless God, I believe, if I'd fallen twice as far, I wouldn't have been killed." The layman then bravely mounted a bench in the singing-pew, and, though as fervid as ever, managed to finish his peroration without upsetting his second locus standi.

SLEEPING IN RIFLE PITS.—A letter from Vicksburg says that many men stay in the rifle pits day and night. There is one that extends nearly half a mile, which is only three feet wide, but about ten feet deep. In the side of this they have cut bunks like those upon a ship. A man measures himself and makes a recess about his size, spreads his India-rubber blanket in it, and sleeps as quiet as at home. In the forts where the artillerists are at work, I have seen men sleep beside the guns that fairly shook the hills, and sleep as soundly and sweetly as though peace still spread her kindly mantle o'er us and silence reigned supreme.

RELIGIOUS REVIVALS.—There is much religious interest in several towns in Essex County. Rev. A. D. Gorham, of Wenham, a part of whose parish is in Beverly, has recently baptized seven persons, and some religious interest still continues. At the female academy at Bradford, Mass, thirty-one young ladies have recently indulged a hope in Christ, and of the eleven unconverted members six are anxious inquirers. In Newburyport there is unusual religious interest.—Forty-three conversions have recently occurred in the Green street church. At Amesbury there is also much interest; meetings are held every day and evening.

VICKSBURG.—Grant's force, mostly massed against the city, is estimated at 100,000 men. The rebel force is divided; Pemberton may have 25,000 in the city, and Johnston's army is reckoned anywhere from fifteen to fifty thousand. Grant is superior in numbers and greatly superior in position, and there is no fear of any attack from the enemy, while there is every prospect of taking the city.

CANKER WORMS.—The Newburyport Herald states that an individual in that city has adopted the plan of placing light dry sand around the butt of the tree, making the pile as steep as possible.—The insect in attempting to pass up over that would crawl but a short distance when the sand would give way and back it would roll. The insects can then be gathered and destroyed.

☞ The Richmond correspondent of the London Times says that Jeff. Davis is suffering under a severe bronchial affection, his cough is "exhaustive and distressing," and although it is his practice to ride twenty miles on horseback daily, his condition is such as to inspire considerable uneasiness.

☞ Marblehead has become a place of resort in summer, for people from the country. This season the Neck will have the appearance of a military camp. Fifty tent lots—they tent it at Marblehead—have already been engaged by parties in Lowell. The place is pleasant; so is tent life.

☞ The defences of Washington are said to have never been so strong since the rebellion broke out as they are at this day. Work has not ceased upon them for the past seven months.

☞ The novel fashion of ladies wearing stuffed birds, as a portion of the head dress or ornament for the bonnet, has given the taxidermists more work than they can do, and so advanced the price of birds that some Yankee has patented a new bonnet, with a cage in front, in which live birds can be kept. The cage occupies so small a space that not more than two or three varieties of birds can be covered at once; but the cage is beautifully located between two flower beds of less than a half acre each. The whole gives a very unique and picturesque appearance, and sets off the human face divine as did the head dresses of Queen Elizabeth's time, that were seven stories high, the upper decorations being reached by spiral stairs, such as are seen in the pictures of the ancient tower of Babel.—Newburyport Herald.

☞ There has been no more disgraceful defeat and blundering during the war than Gen. Milroy's defeat at Winchester. He stated in his first account that he lost about 2000 men in all, but details since received show that he had 7000 men at Winchester, of whom 1600 have reached Maryland Heights, and probably 300 or 400 escaped to Hancock and Cumberland. Some 1700 more arrived at Bloody Run, and there are some 3500 yet unaccounted for.

☞ The sharpshooters at Vicksburg intersperse their crackling fire with frequent passages of polite conversation. One of the rebels three days since asked if he could have a drink of coffee if he came over, and was allowed. His comrades calling to him to return he replied that the coffee was so tempting he intended to remain. This was the first coffee he had tasted for a twelvemonth.

☞ Notwithstanding the raid of the rebels into Pennsylvania, and the advance of the rebel army down the Shenandoah valley, and into the vicinity of Washington, the government credit is not in the slightest degree impaired by the events of the past few days. On the contrary, our national securities are firm, and the subscribers to the five-twenty loan more numerous than ever before.

☞ A fellow was kicked out of an editorial room the other day, for imprudently stating that "he had seen, in Germany, a fiddle so large that it required two horses to draw the bow across the strings, which would continue to sound six weeks!"

☞ "They have Jews and Jackasses together in Poland," said a smart fellow to an Israelite. "Ah, friend," the latter replied, "is that so? That would be a bad country for you and me." Good for the Israelite!

☞ Pittsburg is said to be impregnably fortified. Over 200 pieces of heavy artillery have already been planted, and 20,000 men are said to be manning the works, under command of Major General Brooks.

☞ The emperor of Russia has given one of the thirty copies of the history of his coronation, printed at a cost of $20,000, to Thomas H. Seymour of Hartford, formerly minister to Russia.

"WE SWEAR IT."—At the great Union meeting held in Chicago on Thursday evening a most thrilling and impressive scene occurred. The Hon. Wm. Kellogg of Peoria, was addressing the vast crowd with his accustomed eloquence, in behalf of supporting the Government and the laws. Suddenly pausing, he exclaimed:

"Would that I could lift to Heaven the hands of those thousands which I see before me, and have an oath registered there, that never! NEVER! while a Rebel lives, or a spark of treasonable soil is to be found, shall the war cease; and that it shall be prosecuted with all the vigor and with all the terrible means at our disposal, until the entire Union shall be restored."

"Administer it!" Administer it!"—shouted scores of voices. "Administer it!" swelled upon the air, as thousands took up the cry. "Then lift up your hands," said Judge Kellogg, and, bending down, he ran his eye over the vast crowd. "I can see no Copperheads," he shouted; "these uplifted hands are those of loyal freemen—patriots all." And amidst the most impressive silence he administered the oath, the substance of which is given above, and thousands of voices mingled in the mighty response—"We swear it!"

"BUTTON ON THE BRAIN."—It is a weakness with most females to be infatuated and bedecked with the feathers, buttons, and straps of the military. Put the devil in uniform and he will the women would fall down and worship him. This is a disease which the Springfield Republican calls "button on the brain." The disease is not confined to this country or to this generation; it has prevailed in all lands and all ages

The Wizard.

WEDNESDAY, JULY 8, 1863.

SUMMARY OF THE WEEK.

Lee's raid into Pennsylvania, having filled the papers with reports sufficiently true of rebel pillaging, levying, burning and boasting, culminated on Wednesday, the 1st inst, at Gettysburg in a pitched battle. The fighting, which all accounts concur in pronouncing the fiercest and most terrific of the war, continued three days and resulted in a Union victory, great, glorious, and it would seem, decisive. All honor to the Army of the Potomac and its new commander, General MEAD!

The siege of Vicksburg appears to be advancing to certain success and the doom of "the doomed city" must ere long be written Whether the same may be said of Port Hudson is more problematical—much more if there are many Major Mulvey's there like him, who the other day committed such a shame to our arms. Either he got to sleep or had put out no guard and the rebels gobbled up him and five companies of his cavalry. Doubtless it was a sweet morsel to the rebs., but it is a kind of rations we can't afford to serve them with.

The engagement at Hanover, Pa., June 30th, was a brilliant Federal triumph. Our forces numbered only 1800—the rebels had 6000. The fight lasted all day and was a succession of charges, re-charges, advances and repulses. The Federals routed the rebels, took nearly a whole South Carolina Regiment prisoners, one piece of artillery, one field piece, and one breach loading rifle piece, while our loss in prisoners was only sixty.

We hear not much of Rosecrans but believe he is doing well. It is his practice.

A bounty of $402 is to be paid such nine monthers as shall re-enlist. Truly of Uncle Sam it may be said, "For his bounty there is no winter in't."

The draft is coming, several Provosts in this State having received orders to proceed. Let it come.

A grand Union State Convention held at Bangor, Me., the 1st inst., nominated for Governor Samuel A. Coney of Augusta. The convention assembled under a call for those in favor of unconditional support of the Government. The proceedings were harmonious and the spirit manifested that of true patriotism.

The Missouri State Convention, held the same day, passed by a vote of 51 to 30 an ordinance of Emancipation, declaring free all slaves within the State July 4th, 1780.

The Fourth, though less observed than formerly by celebrations, so-called, was nevertheless, as to powder and so forth, celebrated pretty much as of old. Boston did her duty. Dr. Holmes was her orator and equaled expectation. Higher praise need not be spoken. Whether Concord, N. H., did her duty, query. There was a crowd there to be sure, estimated at 25,000, whereof Ex-President Pierce was President. The man made a speech and said he did not believe "aggression by arms was either a suitable, or possible remedy for existing evils." Have you heard the news from Gettysburg, Franklin? Have you heard? Was there no "moral force" there?

Men and newspapers are talking as if there was a democratic party of national dimensions! They are nominating a President on that assumption. Herein, gentlemen, you are fast, just as in other respects you are slow. There will be no more "democratic" presidents.—The Republic has been afflicted with two or three too many and proposes to travel on in the future unencumbered by such luggage.—Cannot say who will be the next President, further than this—it will be a man of the 19th century. The audacity of democracy is truly appalling. Think of a party that drugged the nation with Buchanan, now asking for toleration or existence!

THE CONSTITUTION.

Of the multitude of forcible things written by him, whom Buckle calls "the greatest of the sons of men," it has always seemed to us that few are so gisty and truth-hitting, flash with such a sudden sheet of flame to set matters right, as that voice:

"The devil can cite Scripture for his purpose."

Ever since the date of Scripture the devil as been citing it and has always found a troop of followers to be duped by his sophistry. With us Americans the Constitution is our political Bible, and looking back and looking round, it is pretty certain that the Scripture profane is not less likely to be profaned than the Scripture sacred. Whenever, since the establishment of the government, a measure has been projected or a scheme set on foot against right, against humanity, against the age, the Constitution has been pleaded in defence of the outrage. Benedict Arnold was a professed Constitutionist—by anticipation. Foiled in his attempt to crush the Constitution in the womb of the Revolution, in his wail back from British camps he seemed to strike the key note of that Constitutional refrain which it has ever since been our destiny to be disturbed with day and night.

So far as we recollect Aaron Burr, under the Constitution, was about the first, who had the requisite ear for music to operaize the song handsomely. Reeking with treason and arrested, in the name of the Constitution he cried Help! so loud that even Henry Clay, it is said, thought there might be music there worth hearing. Who shall name the lesser Burrs, who have sung? Not to name them or call them Burrs, it is sufficient that the strain has been incessant and troublesome—diverting sometimes—but for the dignity of the case and the justice of the matter, too bad! In the name of the Constitution the Missouri Compromise was made—an outrage. In the name of the Constitution we had the chapter from the text of Texas—an outrage. In the name of the Constitution the Missouri Compromise was repealed—an outrage. In the name of the Constitution the ruffianism of Kansas was justified—an outrage. In the name of the Constitution came the "old public functionary" addling about the White House—an outrage. In the name of the Constitution the plot of this Rebellion was consummated, as it were, nicely and attractively fashioned, dressed and tricked out in the very halls of Congress and then with bows and honors escorted out to the carriage of terror and blood—ten thousand outrages!

Yet all these could we have endured and slept nights and felt that after all, those, who love darkness better than light, were but a large handful. But what shall we say? Now when the country is heaving with such commotion that ruin or safety is the question of the hour—when indeed the time has at last arrived to test the Constitution in the extremest possible case, and, reading it in the light of events, we find its magnificent proportions so equal to the emergency that we grow amazed at the wisdom of its framers and would more than ever perpetuate the sublime work of their hands—what shall we say of those who professing loyalty to the Union, loyalty to the Government, loyalty to Freedom and superiority to party, yet at such a time,

> "Do stave and tail with writs of error, > Reverse of judgment and demurrer,"

as to whether the Constitution in saying, "The privilege of the writ of habeas corpus shall not be suspended unless in cases of rebellion or invasion when the public safety may require it," MEANS what it says; and as to whether the Constitution in constituting the President commander-in-chief means to invest him with power to act in cases of necessity as all other commanders-in-chief, throughout the realm of common sense, are expected to act, do and ever must! Really it is time to stop discussing these points. Questions they are not. They are the fol-de-rols of theology which used to vex the heads of cumbersome learning in the dark ages. They are the dichotomy and trichotomy, the tertium quid and what you call it, which most folk now laugh at.

But what is most surprising, the clearer the case and the greater the argument—the plainer the Constitution and the more rational the interpretation, the louder the lament of the chotomists. No provision of the Constitution more plain than the one above cited, but with what clouds of lettered darkness has it not been victimized! No reasoning more lucid or cogent than the recent letter of the President, but what a ratiocination! About every newspaper we saw that couldn't stand that letter, said they would stand it till the next day or so or week. That is to say, they went into their monastries and fumbled monkish books, searching for some new light on logos, eis or iota. The next day or week the spiders were out replenished and ever since we have had to take it, cobweb on cobweb, till our chief danger seems to be not from rebel spies, but from Constitution spiders.

Now let us stop this nonsense and go about saving the country. No longer, friend,

> "Get thee glass eyes
> And, like a scurvy politician seem,
> To see the things thou dost not,"

but get the Constitution and read it with your mother tongue for the sake of your mother country. Our fathers spoke plain English and thank God! the English language yet liveth. When the President says Emancipation! there is no quarrel what emancipation means. No longer let us quarrel over the plain English of the Constitution. Let our quarrel be with the avowed enemies of the nation. We need all our strength and all our ingenuity to combat them, and bring the States out of the conflict with the Constitution not "melted and thawed away by secession," but covering with its protecting ægis the whole family of States.

☞ "We may flatter ourselves as we will, deceive ourselves as we may, shut our eyes to obvious facts, disregard as we may, the warnings of wisdom and experience, we come necessarily at length to this—without unanimity of purpose and unanimity of action among loyal people the rebellion cannot be suppressed."—Essex Statesman.

This is what loyal people have been saying from the first. Has the Statesman just found it out? But the Statesman asks:

"Is there any common ground upon which the administration can place itself with dignity and self-respect and challenge the support of the Democratic party and thus secure unanimity?"

Quite evidently there is none; for what means to this end have not been tried by the administration, except the utter abandonment of its principles. That no such common ground can be taken consistent "with dignity and self-respect" even the Statesman admits thus: "It is perfectly clear that some things will prevent the accomplishment of the object." The Italics are ours, but for the "things" such organs as the Statesman is responsible.

EDITORIAL LOCALS.

RETURNED SOLDIERS.—Lieut. Millally of Co. B, 17th Regiment, has arrived home on leave of absence. We regret to hear that sickness has compelled him to this course, to recruit his health.

Joseph Dakin and Israel Leavitt both of Co. B, 17th Regiment, have been discharged for inability and have returned home, from Newbern.

GOOD ENOUGH FOR HIM.—Our reporter tells the story of a trial the other day in the Salem Police Court. It seems that some lark from Beverly being over to Salem on a bender stepped into an eating place not a thousand miles from the Market House, and made vociferous complaints against the government, the war, and the conscription law threatening to blow out the brains of any officer who should attempt to draft him. His clamor becoming annoying to the patrons of the house the keeper told him stop his noise—he then assailed the keeper with insulting epithets and when ordered to leave swore he would not and defied the keeper to put him out—this he proceeded to do whereupon the offender showed fight but was straightway leveled to the floor by a well directed blow. He said no more about blowing officers brains out, but beat a hasty retreat—got a warraut and had the keeper brought before Judge Waters, who after a patient trial mulcted the keeper 50 cts. without costs. As the complainant could not appeal he afterwards sued the keeper in a civil suit for damages.

THE DROUGHT.—We hear from all quarters great apprehensions expressed as to the effects of the drought in this vicinity. Upland grass has suffered a good deal and will yield but a moderate crop of hay, though the damp and cool spring was rather favorable than otherwise for a good crop. Meadow hay and the early grains will be heavier than common. Oats, barley, and the like which were sowed so late as not to be up high enough to shade the ground will not bear half a crop unless rain comes copiously very soon. Pea vines are dying most every where before maturing half their pods.—Strawberries have also about died with thirst.

LABOR SAVING MACHINERY.—We were amused as well as interested at witnessing, the other day, in the field of Mr. Henry Bushby, the operation of a new horse hoe. We have seen horse hoes before, but this throws them all into the shade. It has a wheel projecting from the rear with revolving arms that turn rapidly as the horse drags the apparatus along, throwing the dirt from between the rows among the plants;—reminding one of the screw propeller of a monitor. The workman said he could hoe with it an acre in two hours. Its cost is $15. When we get a farm we shall buy one of them.

SOLDIERS' MONEY.—We now and then see in local papers statements made of the large amounts of money sent by our country's brave defenders home to their families. Such statements are creditable to our soldiers; they show the materials of our army. Prudence, thoughtfulness, kind-heartedness, self-denial are the traits of character of which they tell. Prudent and self-denying in their personal needs and gratifications, and thoughtful and kind-hearted for the weaker friends at home. So long as they are thus actuated we need not fear for them individually, or as an army. These qualities combined with their patience—which every day's history proclaims—are their support and strength which shall endure and finally triumph over all disasters.

One Express (Townsend's,) alone has distributed in our community, since the war broke out, the following amount of money, which have been delivered to nearly five hundred persons:—

1861,	109 packages	containing	$4,040.92
1862,	379 "	"	22,982.27
1863,	180 "	"	16,545.58
Total,	668		$42,568.77

All, so far as is known, have been delivered satisfactory to the consignees.

THE STRAWBERRY FESTIVAL in the Baptist vestry, last Thursday, was a successful and gratifying affair. The tables were soon relieved of their delicious berries and tempting cake; and most of the boquets which adorned them were disposed of after the feast. The vestry was handsomely decorated with flags, bunting, evergreens and flowers. The singing, by a select choir, was excellent and alone was worth the price of admission. These pleasant gatherings are now getting to be quite universal during the strawberry season.

DESERTER ARRESTED.—J. Harris Larrabee of this town, a member of Co. H, 19th Regiment Mass. Vols., was arrested at his father's house in Rockville, Friday night last, by Provost Marshal Johnson and his assistant, M. A. Shackley, on the charge of being a deserter. It is said he left his regiment the day before the battle of Antictam, giving as an excuse that he wished to find some water. Instead of returning to the camp, like a good soldier, he returned home, and accordingly orders were sent to arrest him. The officers have had considerable difficulty in finding him, he alternately turning up in Wenham and Rockville, and when he was finally discovered, it was not till after the house had been searched a second time, he being concealed in a bed between two mattresses.

RE-ENLISTED.—Mr. William H. Southwick, a member of Co. C, 5th Regiment, did not leave Newbern with the 5th Regiment, but re-enlisted for detached service. He was in the U. S. Frigate Colorado during the first of the war, and was present at the taking of New Orleans.

HANDSOME PRESENTS.—Miss E. L. Evans, teacher of the Second Intermediate in Wallis District, was agreeably surprised last Friday evening by being presented with a large and beautiful Album and a silver napkin ring. The presentation took place at the residence of Mr. Aaron F. Clark on Washington street, Miss Ida Blake doing the honors for the occasion in a short address, as follows:—

"Dear Teacher—As a school we are deeply grateful for the earnest and heart-felt interest you have ever manifested for our promotion. As a mark of our gratitude, please accept these little tokens with many kind wishes for your present and future welfare."

Miss Evans, on receiving the presents, thanked the little ones very kindly, assuring them that the kind manifestations of their regard to her as a teacher and friend on this and many other occasions, would always be gratefully remembered by her. The ceremony being over the children soon found means of enjoying themselves in their own way. During the evening they were favored with a visit from Dame Partington, who in her quaint and original way soon made friends of all of them.

FARMERS' CLUBS.—Is there any reason why a Farmers' Club cannot be organized and supported in South Danvers, as in other towns? If there is we should like to know it; and if there is not we move that one be organized.—Who'll second the motion?

THE HORSE RAILROAD will probably commence running regular trips this (Wednesday) morning. The company have had to re-lay one track from the Square in this town to the "big tree" in Salem. It seems the guage of the track laid here was about half an inch narrower than the Salem guage, causing the wheels to bind the track so hard as to throw the cars off.

FLAG STAFF AT DANVERS PLAINS.—The erection of a staff dedicated to the National Flag is, at any time an act of patriotism, but now when the old flag is encompassed with danger the act seems peculiarly patriotic and appropriate. When such an enterprise has been in contemplation, we have heard it said, "Wait for some glorious news—that will be the time for the staff and the flag!" Not so. Put them up when courage inclines to sink and hope to wane, and derive nerve and spirit from the labor and the expense. It is a re-taking of the oath of allegiance,—an act which now-a-days can hurt nobody and would do many much good.

We are much gratified in seeing erected at last a large and excellent flag staff on the main square at the Plains in Danvers, and it is not the least of our satisfaction that it has been purchased and set up just at this time, without lugubrious remark-making, but in a spirit of confidence and resolution. The staff measures from base to summit 125 feet and is surmounted with an elegant vane. It is an ornament to the village and now that it is in its place, we wonder why so striking an appendage has been so long dispensed with. The cost of the work was some $250, and what seems to add to its value is that the money was contributed in small sums by a good many citizens. Credit is due to Capt. Andrew M. Putnam and Mr. Alfred Fellows who have acted officially as committee men, and to postmaster Shattuck for his industry in soliciting subscriptions and collecting them.

FIRE IN DANVERS.—A large two-story dwelling house at Danvers Centre (Tapley Village) was burned to the ground Friday afternoon last. The house was occupied by four families and was the property of Gilbert Tapley. Abraham North, one of the tenants, had a son (a recently returned soldier,) lying very sick in the house, but who was fortunately removed without serious effect. The building burned formerly stood at the head of Salem Common, near where Dr. Flint's church now stands, and was removed to Danvers some 20 years ago by Perley Tapley. The fire is believed to have been caused, though not purposely, by one of the inmates. The building was well insured. Happily there was but little air stirring, otherwise the large shoe manufactory of the Messrs. Silvesters, which was near by, might have taken fire, and in that event there must have been a large conflagration.

——The bed, the bed,
A rest for the weary head.—Hood.

There is an old proverb which says, "He who sleeps well, lives long." The truth of this sentiment is confirmed by common observation. The long-lived are good sleepers. Like Sancho Panza, they pronounce blessings on the man who first invented sleep. Sleep is truly "tired nature's sweet restorer." It is therefore incumbent upon us all who would have long life and enjoy it, to sleep well. To this end two things are requisite, a good conscience and a good bed. Mr. Thomas Trask, our fellow-citizen, supplies the latter with his spring bed, while the former must be gained by right living. The bed furnished by Mr. Trask has many advantages over the common cord and slat bedsteads. It rides on springs, which yield gently to every movement of the body, while it affords all parts of it equal support. On such a bed no indentions can be made as in the common kind. The instant you leave it, it assumes its original form and may be said to "make" itself. It allows the freest ventilation and offers no harbors for vermin. Its equal and gentle pressure invites repose, and you arise from it strengthened and refreshed. It is no small luxury in the heats of summer to repose on one of these beds, and they must now come into general use.

☞ Gen. Milroy has been severely censured for abandoning Winchester while having "plenty of ammunition;" but by a letter which we publish in another column and which comes from a very observing person, who was in the same fort where Gen. Milroy had his quarters, it will be seen that the town was evacuated for the very reason that there was a scarcity of ammunition.

☞ The late battle of Gettysburg is the most brilliant and most decisive of the war so far. The conflicts of Bull Run, Antietam and Chancellorsville pale before it. The trophies of the victory are 28,000 prisoners, 118 pieces of artillery, thousands upon thousands of muskets, and all other munitions of war in the same proportion. Our own gallant NINETEENTH, it is stated, captured four stands of colors, and lost in killed, wounded and missing about 70, three of whom are from South Danvers. viz:—Corporal B. Scammell, killed; W. H. Bailey, slightly wounded; C. A. Brown, do. Capt. W. L. Palmer, of Salem, was also slightly wounded.

☞ The new Aquarial Garden and Minstrel Hall, on the corner of Summer and Chauncey streets, Boston, is a decided success. Buckley's Opera Troupe are crowded nightly in the new hall. It is one of the coolest halls we were ever in. Prof. Cutting is adding daily to the stock of the Aquarial.

ECONOMY IN FUEL.—Now that the price of coal has gone up so far, every one must study economy, and we know of no surer way than by the use of Shaw's new Patent Heaters and Ranges, of which we shall say more next week.

Jeff Davis, do you see the Hand-writing on the Wall?

Mene Mene

Tekel Upharsen.

GETTYSBURG! VICKSBURG!

LETTER FROM CO. I, OF THE 14TH REGIMENT.

We have been handed a long and very interesting letter written by Mr. Chas. A. Shepard of this company and regret that we have not space to publish it in full. It is a detailed account of the experiences of the company from the time they left Maryland Hights, June 10th, until the return of so much of the Company, as was not missing at the date of writing, to their old camp ground on Monday night June 15th. The Co. arrived at Winchester about dark June 11th after a tiresome march and occupied Flag Fort. The letter describes the situation and speaks of the town as once the home of Ex-Senator traitor Mason. The Co. arrived at the very time an attack on the town was expected, a flag of truce having been previously sent in by the rebels demanding a surrender. Friday the 12th the Co. pitched their tents, &c., without much interruption from rebel sources, but during nearly all day Saturday there was artillery firing in which Co. I., forming a battery of itself, did its share. Of Sunday's doings the letter says:

"The boys did not get much rest last night. They had just got laid down by their pieces when it began to rain and they went into their tents. They had just lain down when the Long Roll beat for all hands to turn out and man the guns. But it proved to be a false alarm—the rebs did not trouble us during the night. This morning (Sunday) the rebs. came out within 3000 yards of the Fort and commenced the attack. Skirmishers were immediately thrown out and quite a smart fight was kept up all day. As soon as the rebs. showed themselves Capt. Martins ordered detachments of Battery I to throw a few shell amongst them. The boys sprang to the work with a will and soon 20 pound shell were heard hissing and tearing through the air. The effect could not be discerned farther than after one or two shots the rebs. would be seen skedaddling for a new position. Our boys continued firing at intervals all day. Wherever a squad of rebs. appeared there our shell were directed. Gen. Milroy took up his headquarters in the Fort. He occupied a place called the "look out," located on the Flag Staff about 50 feet from ground. From it he viewed the country around in every direction. He concluded they were having a pretty little fight down near the City. Orderlies and scouts were going and coming continually bringing information. The rebs. occupied one part of the city. An orderly came in and said the citizens were firing on our men from the houses. The 87th Pa. Regt., were ordered down to drive them out of the city. A scout came in and painted a house the rebs. occupied and from which they were firing on our men. Immediately our Parrotts are looking that way and a shell goes hissing in the direction. Then another and another. But we cannot see the effect. The Va. Battery is on our right and throwing shell into the city and some houses are on fire. The 87th Pa. have got to work and firing is going on rapidly throughout the city. At this point a report is brought that ten companies of rebs. occupy a brick house in front of us on the outskirts of the city—and that they are firing on our men and that some rebel women in a house near by are waving their handkerchiefs whenever any of our men fall. We received orders to shell the house which were promptly obeyed but for some cause many of the shell did not burst and it was found impossible to dislodge the rebs. with the Parrots. Our boys then brought up the 24 pound Howitzer and fired a few shell from that, but the shell were only 5 second fuse and the house could not be reached. Soon another messenger came in saying the house was full of rebs. Gen. Milroy then ordered Capt. Martins to send down one of the brass Howitzers and drive the rebs. out. Accordingly one of the pieces was limbered and 6 horses attached.—Lieut. Hanson with a detachment of Battery I, was ordered to take charge of the pieces, and they moved off in the direction accompanied by a squadron of cavalry. When they got within easy range they commenced shelling the house and the woods in that vicinity, and the rebs. began to skedaddle. Our boys continued shelling until their ammunition was nearly out when they sent back for more. A supply was obtained and Lieut. Hanson moved his piece within 200 yards of the house and commenced throwing canister. The rebs. scampered out of the house like rats from a burning barn. It was at this time that Hodgden of the Co. lost his arms and was otherwise injured.

After describing the fight, which continued through the afternoon without anything occurring of special interest, the letter proceeds:

"The Fort was lined with infantry. Gen. Milroy came round just at dark and rallied them, and said the rebs. were advancing in column to storm the fort. The men rallied, and after a few rounds from the infantry, mixed with cannister from the big guns, the rebs. fell back. This ended the day's fight. Battery I, Alexander's battery, and the Va. Battery, had worked their pieces well and kept the rebs. at bay, but their ammunition was nearly gone and something must be done before morning or we must be captured. A council of war resulted in an order to evacuate and fall back to Harper's Ferry. Spiking our pieces we left the fort at 2½ o'clock Monday morning (the 15th.) Battery I was formed on to the rear of the column. Having proceeded about four miles we were attacked by an overwhelming force of infantry and artillery. Our forces suffered considerably. Gen. Milroy, with the advanced guard, cut their way through. Battery I and the Md. Regiment (which were next to us ahead) were cut off from the main column and struck out in the direction of the Shenandoah river, passing between Berryville and Charlestown. After a tedious march of 50 miles the most of them arrived at Harper's Ferry at dark. But the march proved too much for many of the boys. Marching as far as they could, they fell out and probably were captured by guerillas who infest the country. It is strange that any of us got through when it is considered that our march lay through a country already occupied by the enemy. But the fact of our getting through is doubtless due to Col. Horn of the 6th Md. Regiment, under whose guidance we took a circuitous route under cover of the woods, halting only at long intervals. One squad of about a dozen of our men halted in the edge of a piece of wood, near a little creek, to quench their thirst and bathe their worn out feet. A squad of guerillas came up mounted and fired on them and demanded a surrender. Our boys seized their muskets and fired and the guerillas retired. Our boys then hurried up and joined the advance.

Forty-four men of our Company are missing. None of them are known to be killed, but two or three are said to have been wounded. Capt. Martins and his son (a boy 15 years old,) are missing, I think it probable that all of our missing have been captured and are now held as prisoners. The following is a list of the names of those missing:—

Capt. Martins, Sergeants Kelly and Smith, Corporals Dudley, Callahan, Parsons, Mack and Kittredge, E. G. Pearson (musician), and Privates William Brown, J. S. Brown, B. S. Buckley, J. Brownhill, R. C. Bassett, Geo. G. Clark, J. M. Coffin, J. Drysdale, W. F. Davis, C. F. Dresser, E. F. Estey, J. M. Harlow, Chas. Hiller, J. F. Hodgden (arms shot off,) L. Howard, W. H. Haskell, J. H. Ham, Wm. Johnson, T. Kennedy, E. McKerron, W. K. Merrill, T. Maloney, W. O. Mahoney, L. F. Norris, Geo. Peterson, A. Sinclair, T. Sheehan, J. Salmon, J. C. Smith. David Smith, J. F. Trask, A. Wilkins, W. W. Wilson, J. Wescott, A. E. Warren."

WAR CORRESPONDENCE.

CAMP DALE, CAROLINA CITY,
June 13th, 1863.

DEAR WIZARD,—As I have a few hours today I may call my own, I will improve them by writing to you about matters in general as they are out here in North Carolina. In the first place I will tell you the nine months' troops are very highly elated at the present time owing to their expiration of service in the army. Two Regiments have already passed our camp on their route home to dear old Massachusetts. It is true we three years troops would like to follow them, if the curse, for whose extinction we enlisted was removed (secession.) I understand the fifth regiment, in which South Danvers must be interested, is to return next month. All is quiet in and about Newbern at present. But we expect to hear from the rebs this summer or coming fall. I expect our regiment (the 23d Mass.) will remain here in Carolina City during the summer—that is, if the chivalry will not come and teaze our Newbern neighbors. We are engaged at present in building a five gun battery on the entrance to Morehead City, and as this is the first time our regt. has been called on to use the pick and spade, we cannot complain. The boys were very sorry to hear of Gen. Hooker's repulse. But we are very far from being discouraged.

I suppose you have some of those new species of reptiles called Copperheads, even in Massachusetts. Now if you have, I would not have you send them inside the enemy's lines. The Southern vipers will face you courageously, and you can be prepared to meet them on equal ground, while the Northern viper skulks before the breath of honesty and seeks a cowardly advantage to accomplish his hellish purpose. I would that the American people could realize the danger their country is in; but they do not. If they did there would be no need of having recourse to the hateful necessity of conscripting. I would say a word to the young, able-bodied men who are loafing and sporting round through the Northern cities and villages: while your brothers are out to the seat of war 'midst the dangers of pestilence and rebel bullets fighting for your liberties, prove yourselves worthy of your noble Sires, who sprang to arms in defence of their country in its infancy, met the well disciplined hordes of the tyrant George of England, and wrested from them their independence. Oh shall the spirits of those Martyrs look down and see the Liberty for which they sacrificed their noble lives, basely murdered by treason's foul hands—God forbid it!—you young men of the Loyal States forbid it, by volunteering as your fathers did to preserve the Liberties which was given into your care and which you are in duty bound to leave unimpaired to your children. Come on young men. don't disgrace yourselves by waiting for conscription or bounty, and God will bless your efforts with success and we will soon enjoy the blessings of the good old Union times.

Newbern is a very strong position and I think will withstand any shock which the rebels of North Carolina can bring to bear on it. I need not tell you, Mr. Editor, that our love for our chief is like unto the love an affectionate son harbors for a good father. I am very happy to inform you that Co. F is blessed with a commander, who is the choice and favorite of the whole company—Capt. HENRY WOODBURY, of Beverly. He is a soldier and a gentleman in every sense. We are all as happy and contented as circumstances will allow. Furloughs are being granted to our regiment and we are all on the tip-toe of expectation of seeing home this summer or fall. I tell you it is an exciting scene to see the boys draw lots for the next going home.

The weather is very fine, and the sun begins to show us his burning powers, but the health of the troops at present is very good. I am sorry to record the death of a member of Co. F—CHARLES M. DOW of Salem. His loss is keenly felt by his comrades. A good soldier, and possessed of all the qualities of a moral young man, we deeply sympathize with his parents and relatives in this their hour of affliction.

J. T.

CAMP E. V. SUMNER.—The encampment at Wenham and Hamilton under this new name destined for the invalid corps, has already received about forty men, good and true at heart though crippled in body, as the nucleus of a force to be raised for harbor defences, and in the place of the able bodied men now in the forts there. The camp is under the command of Col. Sewall of Maine.—Reg.

STATE NORMAL SCHOOL.—We have received the register of this school for the Spring and Summer Term. In the list of names in the junior class, from this town, are EMMA H. PROCTOR and MARY E. TORR. Number of students in attendance during the term, 117.

FREEDOM TO 50,000 SLAVES.—By a decree of the government of Holland, 50,000 slaves were made free men on Wednesday last, July 1.

GLORIOUS NEW

VICKSBURG OU

"Our Flag is there!"

CAIRO,

VICKSBURG SURRENDERE

WASHINGTON, July 7—1 P following dispatch has just ceived:—

U. S. FLAG SHIP BLACK H
July 4, 18

To. Hon. Gideon Welles:

Sir: I have the honor to that Vicksburg has surrende
United States forces on this July.

Very respectfully your obed
(Signed) D. D. POR
Act'g Rear

AN IMMEDIATE DRAFT.—Capt.
Provost Marshal for this Congressi
the 5th, yesterday received ord
President of the United States, draft with the least possible delay class of the National forces," to 1851, with fifty per cent. in addi any deficiencies created by physi exemptions. The first class, wh exhausted before any draft will be second, includes all men, marrie between the ages of 20 and 35, a men between the ages of 35 and 4
"unmarried" as used above,
widowers.

We give below a table showin of enrolled men of the first class and city, the number to be draft the 50 per cent. to cover exemp number of drafted men who will required to serve:—

Sub-districts.	Whole No. enrolled.	No. for pr
1 Amesbury,	296
2 Beverly,	269
3 "	223
4 Danvers,	395
5 Essex,	155
6 Georgetown,	183
7 Gloucester,	395
8 "	553
9 Groveland,	160
10 Hamilton,	71
11 Ipswich,	223
12 Lynnfield,	68
13 Manchester,	97
14 Marblehead,	319
15 "	281
16 Middleton,	84
17 Nahant,	21
18 Newbury,	138
19 Rockport,	314
20 Rowley,	92
21 Salisbury,	292
22 South Danvers,	395
23 Swampscott,	105
24 Topsfield,	114
25 Wenham,	108
26 West Newbury,	157
27-31 Lynn,	1770
32-37 Newburyport,	796
	SALEM.
38 Ward 1,	190
39 " 2,	300
40 " 3,	157
41 " 4,	180
42 " 5,	204
43 " 6,	162
—Gaz.	1193

☞ Butter's Grand Combinat from New York, have taken th
seum for a short season.

Marriages.

In Danvers, May 23, by Rev
Christopher Hammond to Miss den. July 1st, by Rev J W
David N Ward to Miss Ellen M of Wenham.

In Salem, June 23d, by Rev
Mr Edward Smith to Miss Sarah
June 23d, by Rev Mr Cox, M of Kennebunk, Me., to Miss Ca
Alfred, Me.

July 1, by Rev Mr Palmer,
Harris to Miss Frances A Hende
In Marblehead, June 26, by R
Mr Edward Homan Jr to Miss M
urst; July 2, by Rev Mr Allen
Stone to Miss Lois, daughter o
Russell; June 28, by Rev Mr
Samuel A Snow to Miss Harriet
In Boston, June 30, by Rev M
William L Tutt to Miss Hanna
both of Marblehead.

Deaths.

In South Danvers, June 3d,
Oscar and Irene T. Phillips, 2 yrs
In Salem, June 29, Mrs Mary, late Mr Timothy Welch, 38 yrs.
July 1st, Mrs Anastatia Cunnin
2d, Mr John M'Carthy, 74 yrs; 3d,
Francis, 87 yrs; Hannah, daug and Eliza Welch, 6 yrs 8 mos; 4th Woodbridge, 61 yrs; Alice, daug ley and Elizabeth G Ropes, 9 yrs
Mary, daughter of Thomas and M yrs; 5th, Myra Sophronia, daught
W and Elizabeth O Phillips, 3 m
In Middleton, June 30, Flore daughter of John A and Laura A 13 mos 4 days.
In Lynn, July 4, Mr Lot Peac
Salem, 56 years 2 mos 23 days.
In Boston, July 1, Mrs Abbie
Bowker, 48 yrs; 5th, Harriot L the late Benj. Howard, Esq., o daughter of the late Wm. Lang,
In Wendell, Mass. June 18,
Dodge, a native of Wenham, 35 of the Mendi Mission, Western A
Died in Hospital from woun engagement at Port Hudson, Serg
Rayner, aged 25 years.
This young man was a native o
ing in this State where his paren
A number of years ago many her ber him as a clerk in the store of man & Symonds. Serving in t short time he soon afterwards w where he was engaged as clerk i
Rockford and taken in a simi
Chicago. About a year ago he e 72d Illinois Regt. Volunteers, he was serving when he receiv which resulted in his sad but her
Mr. Rayner was a young m nature and possessed a character strictest adherence to good pri death is lamented by a large circ and friends.

1000.

WE have just received a carton of

1000 Wrought Collars

ell worth 50 cents, which we shall sell for 29
nts each.
Our customers who remember the last lot of cent Collars that we sold, will be surprised know that these are better still.
JOHN P. PEABODY,
jy 1 220 Essex street.

PEABODY'S PRICE LIST OF SUN UMBRELLAS:

14 inch Steel Frames,	$1 20;
14 inch Steel Frames,	$1 20;
16 inch Steel Frames,	$1 50;
18 inch Steel Frames,	$1 75;
20 inch Steel Frames,	$2 00;

SUN UMBRELLAS
—at—
Reduced Prices,
—at—
JOHN P. PEABODY'S.

Soldiers' Aid Society.

There will be a meeting of the Soldiers' Aid
ciety on Thursday, July 9th, for the choice
Officers for the ensuing year.

BURNS AND SCALDS.—The ancient Scalds ver, perhaps, thought of Burns. Dr. Graee s literalized Scandinavium literature, and w produces a Salve which cures burns and lds. It also cures flesh wounds, boils, felons rts, banishes freckles, dissipates tan, and is e mother's favorite remedy. Get a box of it.
ly 25 cts. See advertisement in another lumn.

☞ Try one of Rhoades' National Clothes ringers, before purchasing elsewhere. For at the Equity Store, South Danvers. See vertisement.

☞ The extraordinary success of Dr. Ham's Invigor g Spirit, seems to stir up an army of Tonics, ters, and Cure Alls; but as a general thing they like the Morning Glory—look very fine in the rning but wilt before the day has past. The Dr been before the public for years; his Dyspopsia medy has been tested and not found wanting; it s on the Liver, Stomach, Head and the whole tem; it is good at all times and for everybody.

MANUAL FENOLLOSA,
TEACHER
OF THE
olin, Piano and Singing,
MUSIC ROOMS, No. 7 Central Street,
SALEM, MASS.

Hunnewell's Great Remedies.

WHAT EVERY FAMILY SHOULD HAVE IN THE HOUSE AND WHY;

☞ They should have HUNNEWELL'S UNIVERSAL
IGH REMEDY, because it effectually cures Colds' ooping and Common Coughs Sore Throat, Hoarse
s, and is the most simple and perfect Soothing up in the world. For old and young, by day and ht, it may be used with the greatest freedom, and e-fourths of the deaths by Consumption stopped.
They should have HUNNEWELL'S TOLU ANODYNE, ause it is a perfect remedy for Neuralgia, Ners or Sick Headache, Tooth, and Earache, Pain in mach, or Bowels, Genuine Cholera Morbus, Rhea tism, Distress after Eating, Nervousness, Hyste-and the chief of all causes of disease, and Insanity.
Loss of Sleep. Its character, though active, is ple; its action in perfect conformity to nature;
nd cure, or relief
or the pains in Monthly Menstruation a perfect re.
while nature's after work is not disturbed, and of the most important points in Medicine.
They should have HUNNEWELL'S ECLECTIC PILLS, ause with seldom but a single Pill for a dose all angements of the Stomach and Bowels are cured-y cure Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Headache, when sed by foul stomach, Loss of Appetite, Biliousness
ften and so erroneously treated with Mercurials, ndice. For Worms a sure cure.
hey act simple, assist nature, do not make a Pill of the stomach, as is the most fatal error of takso many Pills at a dose and then, what is import to every Family and every Purse, one bottle goes ar as two or three of what is ordinarily sold.
No confidence of all is asked to test
Hunnewell's Universal Cough Remedy.
Hunnewell's Tolu Anodyne.
Hunnewell's Eclectic Pills,
☞ Fac-simile of J. L. Hunnewell's signature over ks of genuine only.
JOHN L. HUNNEWELL, proprietor,
9 Commercial Wharf, Boston, Mass.
George E. Meacom, Agent for Danvers.
For sale by all dealers in Salem and vicinity.
pr. 1, 1853—1 y

Advertisements.

STRAW HATS, &c.,

At No. 10 Front St. Salem.

JUST received — a large lot of STRAW
HATS, which will sell at less than origicost.
HATS AND CAPS—good styles—at the est possible prices—viz: some that are sold other stores for $1, for 40 cents.
BOOTS AND SHOES, for Men and Boys.
ne and sec.
Silver Plated Table and Tea Spoons, at about
f price.
Crockery and Glass Ware closing out at old ces.
Fancy Goods, Dry Goods, Clothing—selling such prices as will suit; Looking Glasses, cks, etc., etc.
Straw and Painted Carpeting; 1 Regulator
35 days.
☞ Now is a chance to purchase, as I am ermined to sell.
BENJ. COLMAN,
uly 8—3w 10 Front st. Salem.

THE CLOTHES WRINGER.

RHOADES' CELEBRATED

ATIONAL CLOTHES WRINGER,

THE VERY BEST YET INVENTED,
ND REALLY A LABOR SAVING MACHINE.
CALL AND EXAMINE.
For Sale by C. T. SOUTHWICK,
At the EQUITY GROCERY STORE,
South Danvers, July 8, 1863.

PUTNAM & MUNROE'S

OUTH DANVERS & BOSTON

RAILROAD EXPRESS.

Express leaves South Danvers at	10 1-2 a. m.
Freight " " " at	5 p. m.
Express leaves Boston at	3 1-2 p. m.
Freight " " at	5 p. m.

OFFICE at FREIGHT DEPOT, South
Danvers Square.
Order Box W. M. Jacobs' store, Main street.
EXPRESS OFFICE, in Boston, 5 Congress
Square; 3 Washington St; Freight Office,
4 Blackstone St.
Also an Order Box at 36 Pearl street.
Particular attention paid to removing Fur ure, collecting Bills, Notes, Drafts, &c.

ARMY EXPRESS.

Packages received and sent forward daily for Balti
re, Fortress Monroe, Annapolis, Washington, Al xandria, and any other point where the different regnts are stationed:
South Danvers, july 8—tf

☞ Visit OSBORNE'S Store, and look at the unusual variety of new styles in HATS and CAPS—191 Essex street.

1000.

WE have just received a carton of

1000 Wrought Collars

well worth 50 cents, which we shall sell for 29 cents each.
Our customers who remember the last lot of 20 cent Collars that we sold, will be surprised to know that these are better still.
JOHN P. PEABODY,
jy 1 220 Essex street.

CHOICE FAMILY FLOUR,

100 BBLS. Jordan Mills Flour, rec'd this day by rail. For Sale by
GAYLE & CO.
jy 8 Phillips' Wharf.

SALEM SUPERIOR,

150 BBLS. of this favorite brand rec'd this day by rail.
For Sale by GAYLE & CO.,
jy 8 Phillip's Wharf.

BAKERS' FLOUR,

150 BBLS. Union Mills, made expressly for Bakers' use. For sale by
GAYLE & CO.,
jy 8 Phillips' Wharf.

NEW STOCK

— OF —

DRY GOODS

— AT —

No. 238 Essex street,

(Three Doors West of the Tunnel.)

THE Subscriber opened on MONDAY, May 18th,

A Fresh Stock of Dry Goods,

Consisting of nearly all the new styles of Dress Goods, Ladies' Cloths, Cloths for Men's & Boys' Wear; Shawls, Domestic and Housekeeping Goods; Sun Umbrellas; Parasols; Hoop Skirts; Hosiery; Gloves; &c., &c., &c.

☞ All the above Goods will be sold for Cash, at Low Prices.

GEORGE P. DANIELS.
Salem, May 20.

Mothers—Take Heed!

MRS. OSBORN'S CURE FOR PIN-WORMS.

GIVE no more poison to your children. Do you ever think when observing the uneasy actions of your children, that the only cause of the little sufferer's illness is worms? In nineteen cases out of twenty it is so. Of all the diseases to which children are exposed none are so fatal to them as worms. In fact, children are seldom free from them, as worms imitate the symptoms of many other complaints. They often produce alarming effects without being suspected as the cause.—The only certain cure—one of nature's own remedies, a compound of nothing but Roots and Herbs—is

Mrs. Osborne's Universal Worm Powders.

They will eradicate all worms from the system, if the directions are strictly adhered to. No more filthy vermifuge will be used by those who have once used these Powders. The active principle in all other vermifuges, Worm Killers, Syrups and Medicated Lozenges, is Mercury, as any physician will tell you. Many dealers will recommend inferior preparations, and low-priced articles, affording more profit to themselves. Be sure and obtain only Mrs. Osborne's Worm Powders. Price 25 cts. per box. Sold by D. P. GROSVENOR, Main st.
South Danvers, June 17, 1863. 3m

Dissolution of Co-Partnership.

THE co-partnership heretofore existing between the undersigned, under the name and style of WELCH & FAIRFIELD, is hereby dissolved by mutual consent.
All persons having claims against said firm, and all persons indebted to the same, can settle their accounts by calling upon SAMUEL WELCH, who is authorized thereto.
SAMUEL WELCH,
JOSEPH FAIRFIELD, Jr.
So. Danvers, April 1, 1863.

Mr. Welch will continue the GROCERY BUSINESS at the old stand, and hopes for a continuance of former patronage.
June 24—3w M copy,

SOUTH DANVERS
PERIODICAL AND CONFECTIONERY STORE.

THE subscriber having purchased of the firm of CHANDLER & CO. all their interest in the Periodical and Confectionery Store in South Danvers, and withdrawn from the firm, he now intends to remain for the present at the old stand in Central Street, where he will be glad to supply his old customers, and all others who may call upon him, with all the Newspapers and Periodicals of the day, together with such Books and Pamphlets usually found in a first-rate Periodical Store.
Back numbers of any papers or periodicals furnished at short notice. Book Binding of all kinds done on reasonable terms.
He also intends to keep a good stock of Confectionery, Refreshments, Stationery and Fancy Goods, with Domestic and Foreign Fruits, Pickles, etc.

All persons having demands against the above store are requested to present them to the subscriber for settlement, and all persons indebted to the same are requested to settle to date.
R. W. WILKINSON.
South Danvers, June 22, 1863.

Tillage Land and Barn to Let.

ABOUT six acres of good level Tillage Land with a Barn, situated upon the "Cross Road" in Rockville. Any one wishing to work upon land a portion or the whole of his time will find this a rare chance.
For further particulars application may be made to either of the subscribers.
S. C. BANCROFT, So. Danvers.
JOHN H. NICHOLS, Salem.
South Danvers, Ap. 22.

RHEUMATISM AND NEURALGIA

CAN be cured by using STURGIS'S ELECTRIC COMPOUND—so say reliable people in Boston and elsewhere. For sale by
G M WHIPPLE & A A SMITH.

BILL PAPER,

OF the best patterns, at
G M WHIPPLE & A A SMITH'S.

FLEXIBLE WALLETS,

DESIRABLE styles, adapted for treasury notes and bills—a large and attractive assortment, at
G M WHIPPLE & A A SMITH'S.

NEW BOOKS,

AT G. M. WHIPPLE & A. A. SMITH'S.
THE Drummer Boy, a Story of the Burnside Expedition;
Skirmishing, by the author of Cousin Stella;
Rebellion Record; "Who Breaks—Pays."

John P. Peabody.

Closing Out Sale.

OUR Stock is now very large and full of the best and most desirable Goods, and in order to reduce it as much as possible we have concluded to commence our

CLOSING OUT SALE!

one week earlier than is our usual custom; and we shall during this sale offer our Goods at such prices that they will be sure to sell, making it advantageous to all to give us a call.
JOHN P. PEABODY.

LACE
GOODS.

EXTRA BARGAINS.

Real French Needle Work Collars 25c—value 50 cents;
Real French Needle Work Collars 29c—value 62 cents;
Real French Needle Work Collars 35c—value 75 cents;
Real French Needle Work Collars—42 and 50 cents;
Real Guipure and English Thread Lace Collars;
In this department we shall offer many decided bargains.
JOHN P. PEABODY.

RIBBONS
AND FLOWERS.

STILL AHEAD.

Our Customers should remember that we are always the first to Mark Down and the last to Mark Up—that our prices are governed by the market value of the goods rather than the cost—that we do not believe in monopoly—that every body who is going shopping will be the gainer by calling and examining our stock, if only to Post Up—in quality and prices.

SUN
UMBRELLAS.

READ THE PRICES.

Best Glazed Spool Cottons—200 yds—warranted—6c;
Best Black English Thread—hanks 4cts;
Best American Pins—full papers 5 cts;
Best Worsted Braids—5 yd pieces—warranted, 8 cts;
Best Gold Eyed Sewing Needles—warranted, 6 cts;
Best Gold Eyed Sewing Needles—5 papers for 25 cts;
Very Heavy Crochet Net—usually 42c, 25 cts;
Good Cotton Hosiery—Ladies' sizes—only 15c;
Nice Cotton Hosiery—Ladies' sizes—only 25c;
Everything at prices to correspond with the above.
JOHN P. PEABODY.

HOSIERY
AND GLOVES.

NEW GOODS.

We shall during the present week open the largest and choicest stock of Cambric Edgings and Insertings ever shown in Salem, to which we invite your early attention. We shall also open a full line of Black Edgings, Lace Veils, &c, &c. As we were in New York last week, we shall be able to show the latest novelties and choicest styles.
JOHN P. PEABODY.

TRIMMINGS.

DRESS TRIMMINGS.

We have a nice stock of Quilled Ribbons—Fluted Braids — Worsted Bralds—Buttons—Ribbons — Bindings — Cords — Embroidery Braids—Silk, Brocade, Rubber, Steel, Pearl, Jet, Crochet and Lasting Buttons. Our stock in this department is full, and well worth the attention of every one in want of the above goods.
J. P. PEABODY.

LOW
PRICES.

This is our Semi-annual CLOSING OUT SALE. Our old customers will need no word from us as a guarantee that the prices will be the VERY LOWEST.—Our new customers will do well to call and see for themselves. Our intention is to reduce our stock to the smallest compass before taking account. As we buy for Cash and sell for Cash strictly, we are always enabled to buy and sell at lower prices than those who do both on credit.

ONE PRICE ONLY!

220 ESSEX ST., SALEM,
JOHN P. PEABODY.

James F. Almy.

SUN UMBRELLAS.

WE have received a large invoice of SUN UMBRELLAS, 14 inches, at $1 25.

We have also received a large invoice of SUN SHADES, at a bargain.

JAMES. F. ALMY,
jy 1 188 Essex, opposite Central st.

SUMMER, 1863.

We shall open New Styles Silk Mantillas,
Saturday, May 30.

We have received a full stock of Rich Black Silks for Mantillas; also Laces, Embroidery Braids and Bugle Trimmings, for Mantillas.

We are closing our Stock of Cloth Garments at Wholesale prices.

We are selling Ladies' Cloths at very low prices.

We have received a choice stock of Summer Shawls.

We have opened a large stock of Summer Dress Goods, in good value and styles, at a Bargain.

Our General Stock of Seasonable Dress Goods was never more complete than now, and our prices are very low.

We have a fine Stock of Sun Umbrellas.

We have a fine Stock of best Kid Gloves.

We have a fine Stock of Ladies' and Misses' Summer Underclothing.

We have a fine Stock of Hosiery and Gloves, Velvet Ribbons, Ladies' and Gents' Hdkfs, etc.

We are selling Watch Spring Skirts very low.

In Domestic Goods, we offer all the advantages of the reduction in prices, as our Stock has been mainly purchased within a few days.

We offer a fine Stock of Cloth for Men's and Boys' wear.

We offer a large Stock of White Goods.

Cash buyers will find it for their advantage to examine our Stock.

JAMES F. ALMY,
188 Essex, opposite Central st.
June 3d, 1863.

M. FENOLLOSA,
TEACHER OF MUSIC,
LETS .....PIANO FORTES, at the lowest rates;
SELLS .....PIANO FORTES, at the Manufacturers Prices;
EXCHANGES....PIANO FORTES, on the easiest terms;
At Rooms No. 7 Central street,
feb 11 SALEM, MASS.

GLASS WARE.

CUT and Pressed Glass Goblets; Tumblers; Dishes, etc, just opened at
S C & E A SIMONDS' 32 Front st.

TABLE MATS.

SHAKER Table Mats—for sale by
may 27 S C & E A SIMONDS.

HOLD ON! HOLD ON!

ALL those that are inclined to rest their weary limbs on the most luxurious

SPRING BED

that was ever invented, are invited to call at

No. 52 Main St., South Danvers,

and there see the very best SPRING BED BOTTOM that has been offered to the public.
Not having been able at first to meet the demands, I now have the facilities to supply all orders.
Having bought the right to make and vend for the county of Essex, the subscriber would be happy to supply all those who may favor him with a call.
Rights for sale for any town or city in the county except Haverhill and Lawrence.
THOS. TRASK.
South Danvers, June 17, 1863.

SELLING OFF! SELLING OFF!

THE undersigned intending to close up his present business at the earliest opportunity, now offers his ENTIRE STOCK OF

Fine and Plated Jewelry,
Solid Silver Ware,
Solid Silver Ware, &c.

AT LARGELY REDUCED PRICES,
Regardless of Cost,
FOR THIRTY DAYS ONLY.

After which, all goods remaining on hand will be sold at Public Auction.
Also, for sale, all the movable fittings of said Store, including 5 solid German Silver frame Counter Show Cases; One Tilton & McFarland Fire and Burglar Proof Safe; Chairs, Desks, Stools, &c., &c.
JOSEPH J. RIDER,
2 West Block—188 Essex st.
Salem, June 17, 1863. 1m

WHITE LEAD AND LINSEED OIL,

OF the best quality—for sale at
S C & E A SIMONDS', 32 Front st.

VARNISHES.

COACH Varnish; Furniture and Damar Varnish, of the best quality, at jc 17 S C & E A SIMONDS', 32 Front st.

FRUIT BASKETS.

WHITE China and White Granite Fruit Baskets—at
S. C. & E. A. SIMONDS', 32 Front st.

George S. Walker.

REAL ROMAN SCARFS.

JUST rec'd from the Importer, a fine variety of these splendid goods, and WARRANTED GENUINE ROMAN SCARFS.
GEORGE S. WALKER'S,
Gent's Furnishing Store,
july 1 228 Essex Street, Salem, Mass.

LINEN BOSOMS & CUFFS.

FOR sale at old prices, at
GEO. S. WALKER'S, 228 Essex st,
Dealer in Gent's Furnishing Goods,
jy 1 Opp Eastern Railroad Station.

SUMMER UNDERSHIRTS,

DRAWERS, and HOSIERY. The largest assortment in the city, at the LOWEST PRICES, at GEO. S. WALKER'S,
Gent's Furnishing Store,
jy 1 228 Essex st., Stearns' Building.

A. J. Archer & Co

WE OPEN THIS MORNING

ELEGANT

BLACK SILK GARMENTS,

At prices from $8 00 to $16 00.

A. J. ARCHER & CO.,
Salem, june 3—tf

SUMMER SHAWLS!

We open this morning beautiful new

SUMMER SHAWLS.

— Also —

A variety of THIN DRESS GOODS;
8 4 Black Hernani and Crape Maretz;
Black Grenadine. For sale by

A. J. ARCHER & CO.,
Salem, june 3—tf.

Potter, Batchelder & Co.,
(Successors to M. Black)
DANVERS-PORT,
DEALERS IN

WOOD AND COAL

OF the various kinds usually kept in a retail yard. Constantly on hand

Franklin, Old Company's Lehigh,
Locust Mountain, Black Heath,
Red and White Ash.

Of all sizes, of the best quality, and at as low prices as can be bought elsewhere.
OFFICE---No. 6 Allen's Building.
Order Box at post office, South Danvers, and post office, Danvers.
G. W. POTTER,
J. Q. A. BACHELDER,
C. T. BATCHELDER. july 19—tf

ANN R. BRAY,
NO. 76 FEDERAL ST,
SALEM.

WE are selling out all our Black Silks;
we are selling out all our Cambric Prints;
We are selling out all our French Prints;
We are selling out all our nice Taffetas;
We are selling out all our Organdie Muslins;
We are selling out all our Lawns;
We are selling out all our Cotton Hosiery;
We are selling out all our Linen Hdkfs;
We are selling out all our Domestic Goods;
We are selling thin Dress Goods for 1s worth 25 cents;
We are selling Bleached Cottons for 12½ cts;
We are selling light Spring Prints for 1s;
We have the Quaker Skirt for ladies;
We have the Belle Point Skirt for ladies;
We have the Trail Skirt for ladies;
We have the very best Silk for Visites;
We have a full assortment of B P R Silks, which we are selling out very low.

A Card.

Having disposed of my stock and stand to Miss M. E. CRANE, I avail myself of this opportunity to request my friends and customers who have bestowed their liberal patronage upon me, to transfer the same to my successor.
In taking leave of my business friends, I would return my warmest thanks for the generous patronage I have received. I can in the highest terms recommend Miss CRANE, and would bespeak for her your kind consideration and confidence.
I would most respectfully invite those having unsettled accounts to call and adjust the same, either with Miss Crane or myself, at the old stand.
April 22, 1863. M. M. FLETCHER.

Notice.

The Subscriber having purchased of Mrs. M. M. FLETCHER her stock of Goods, and made additions to the same, is now prepared to furnish her patrons and the public with a large and fine assortment of

Millinery Goods,

which we will sell very low for cash. We hope by strict attention to business to merit a liberal share of patronage. M. E. CRANE,
ap 22 cor. of Essex and St. Peter sts.

WATCH SPRING SKIRTS,
At 236 Essex Street,
A few doors from Washington Street,
SALEM, MASS.
M. A. PORTER,
MANUFACTURES TO ORDER

SPIRITS TURPENTINE

AND Benzole Spirits, for sale at
S C & E A SIMONDS', 32 Front st.

SEWING MACHINES.

PERSONS about purchasing SEWING MACHINES will find it to their advantage to consult

JOHN H. CHOATE,
SEWING MACHINE AGENT.
Over Newman & Symonds' Store, Lowell St.
Second-hand Machines bought and sold.
South Danvers, May 13—tf

Browning & Long.

Embroidery Sale.

LOW PRICES!

We are determined to close out every COLLAR we have in store, and therefore offer all at extremely

LOW FIGURES!

ALL NEW GOODS DAILY.

NEW PATTERNS.

☞ We would invite all to call and examine our very large assortment, which we are now offering at such great bargains.

THE LATEST NOVELTIES.

MARK THE PRICES!

Good Thread Nets,	25c;
White and Unbleached Hose,	18c;
Ladies' Colored Cotton Hose,	10c;
Nice Open-work Hose,	28c;
Misses' White and Unbleached Hose,	16c;
Children's Colored Hose,	16c;
Gent's good half-Hose,	16c;
Misses' Fancy Cotton Hose,	16c;
Nice Lisle Gloves,	15c;
Ladies' Mohair Mitts,	40c;
Cotton Border Hdkfs,	5c;
Ladies' All-Linen Hdkfs,	13c;
All-Linen Hem-Stitched Hdkfs,	30c;
Embroidered Collars,	15c;
Nice Crape Collars,	25c;
Gent's Woven Bosoms,	8c;
Bead Nets,	25c,
Fine Combs,	2c;
Children's Mitts,	15c;
Nice Embroidered Gloves,	15c;

and many others in like comparison.

JUST OPENED.

New LINEN EMBROIDERED SETS;
Something entirely new in plain LINEN Goods;
Tucked and Fancy Bordered HDKFS;
GLOVES; MOHAIR MITTS;

BROWNING & LONG

Essex St., 177 Essex St.,
Salem, July 1, 1863.

Quincy Mutual Fire Insurance Co.
Available and Cash Capital $500,000.

INSURES Buildings, Merchandize and Personal Property generally, on terms as favorable as any other dividend paying company.
J. D. BLACK, Agent,
april 22—1y At Danversport.

Merrimack Mutual Fire Insurance Co., Andover, Mass.

ONE of the OLD AND RELIABLE OFFICES.
J. D. BLACK is Agent for Danvers and South Danvers. apr 22—1y

VALUABLE REAL ESTATE.

THE Subscriber offers for sale on favorable terms,—or would exchange for a Farm,—his Estate on Wallis Street, near the Monumental Cemetary, consisting of THREE DWELLING HOUSES, which will be sold separately or as one Estate.
There are 75 feet of land in front, and 72 feet in the rear of the house.
The situation is pleasant, in a good neighborhood, and the houses are supplied with all the conveniences for immediate occupation. In ordinary times these tenements would rent for from 330 to 350 dollars.
The Subscriber, having made up his mind to dispose of the property, will sell it low, and it is well worth the attention of purchasers.
Apply to JOHN M'NEAL.
South Danvers, Dec. 10th, 1862. tf.

THE PIANO FORTES

THAT have attracted so much attention of late, and are so much admired on account of their SPLENDID FULL, RICH, MELLOW TONE, and GRAND FRENCH ACTION, are for sale only at the Office of the Agent,
218 Essex Street, Salem, Mass.,
where reference may be had to many who have purchased. Other Piano Fortes also, are for sale, varying in price from $180 upwards. Please call.
Mch 11 6m S. MACKINTIRE, Agent.

Choice Spring Pigs for Sale.

THE subscriber offers for sale nice PIGS of Mackie Prince Albert and Chester County breeds, of which the Mackie took the First Premium at the last Cattle Show. Prices reasonable.
BYRON GOODALE,
Near Tapley's Brook.
South Danvers, April 22, 1863. tf

PHOTOGRAPH ALBUMS.

A FULL assortment constantly on hand.
G M WHIPPLE & A A SMITH.

1000.

WE have just received a carton of

1000 Wrought Collars,

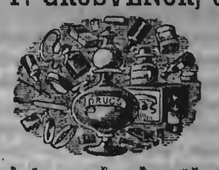
well worth 50 cents, which we shall sell for 29 cents each.
Our customers who remember the last lot of 29 cent Collars that we sold, will be surprised to know that these are better still.
JOHN P. PEABODY,
jy 1 220 Essex street.

☞ If you want to SAVE MONEY, in purchasing Goods, go to COLMAN'S, No. 10 Front street, Salem. ap30-tf

Auction Sales.

WILLIAM ARCHER, Jr.,
Auctioneer, Real Estate and Stock Broker,
34 Front Street.
Real Estate, Bank, Railroad and Manufacturing Stock bought and sold on Commission.
ON SATURDAY NEXT, at 9 1-2 o'clock, will be sold at No. 34 Front street:
A QUANTITY OF FURNITURE (new and second hand); Ten new Bedsteads, Sofa, Mahogany Centre Table, one English Piano Forte, Work Table, Carpets, Feather Beds etc., etc.
DRY GOODS:—1000 yds. Russia Crash; 4 ps Denims Ginghams; Prints; Delaines; Doeskins; Satinets; Cassimeres; Hosiery, &c.—Also—10 ps Sheeting.
SHOES: Women's and Children's Shoes.
HOUSE PAPER: 300 Rolls House Paper, a quantity of Bordering.
Also—A lot of Rattan Baskets; 10 doz Wash Boards; 10 boxes Clothes Pins; Crockery Ware, &c. jy 8.

D. P. GROSVENOR, Jr.,



Druggist and Apothecary,
88 MAIN STREET.
Dealer in Drugs, Medicines, Chemicals, Dye Stuffs, and Popular Proprietary Medicines.
Personal attention to Physicians' Prescriptions.
South Danvers, May 29, 1861. 1y

GEO. E. MEACOM

Dealer in
DRUGS & MEDICINES,
Fancy & Toilet Articles, &c.
126 · · MAIN ST. · · 126
Nearly opposite Danvers Bank, So. Danvers.

T. A. SWEETSER,

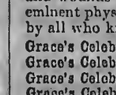
Druggist & Apothecary
37 Main St., So. Danvers,
DEALER IN
Drugs, Medicines, Chemica Foreign Leeches, Shakers' Herbs, Dye Stuffs, Gums, Acids, Sponges, Shoulder Braces, Trusses, and Genuine Patent Medicines.
Also, Imported Cigars of choice brands, Perfumery Toilet Articles and Stationery.
Physicians' Prescriptions carefully prepared by experienced persons.
37 MAIN STREET.

GRACE'S CELEBRATED SALVE.

A SURE RELIEF FOR THE SUFFERER.

This Salve is a vegetable preparation, invented in the 17th century, by DR. WM. GRACE, surgeon in King James's army. Through its agency he cured thousands of most serious sores and wounds that baffled the skill of the most eminent physicians of his day, and was regarded by all who knew him as a public benefactor.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Burns.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Scalds.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Flesh Wounds.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Corns.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Felons.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Frozen Limbs.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Wens.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Callouses.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Salt Rheum.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Chilblains.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Sore Breast.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Sore Lips.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Erysipelas Sores.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Abscesses.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Ulcers.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Chapped Hands.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Ringworms.
And from Sores and Wounds of the most serious nature down to a common Pimple. It eradicates Pimples from the face, and beautifies the skin. There is no preparation before the public that can equal this Salve in prompt and energetic action for the speedy cure of external diseases, as those who have tried its virtues testify. Soldiers, Sailors, and Fishermen, will find this Salve their best friend.
It has none of the irritating, heating properties of other remedies, but cools, cleanses, and heals the most serious Sores and Wounds. Every family, and especially those containing children, should keep a box on hand in case of accident, for it will save them much trouble, suffering, and money. All it wants is a fair trial to cure old and invetcrate Sores.
MANUFACTURED BY
WILLIAM GRACE.
AMESBURY, MASS.
Price 25 cents, 50 cents, and $1 per box. A great saving is made by taking the large size.
Each box has the above cut and the fac-simile of the proprietor's signature attached to it, which is duly copy righted.
Geo. C. Goodwin & Co., 11 and 12 Marshall street, Weeks & Potter, 170 Washington street, and M. S. Burr & Co., 26 Tremont street, Boston, Wholesale Agents.
For sale by D. P. Grosvenor, T. A Sweetser and George E. Meacom, Druggists, Main street, South Danvers, and at country stores everywhere.

To Let on Essex St., Salem,



The STORE and DWELLING HOUSE connected therewith, No. 250 Essex St. The store is neatly fitted up, is one of the best stands in the city, and admirably adapted for Millinery, Fancy, Dry Goods, or any light business.
The Dwelling part contains nine finished rooms, and is supplied with water, gas, etc.—all in good order and very convenient.
To a satisfactory tenant, the above will be let on reasonable terms. Apply at J. PERLEY'S Shoe Store, next door west. feb 26

LINSEED OIL, &C.

PURE Linseed Oil and Varnishes, of all kinds, at
S C & E A SIMONDS', 32 Front st.

WHITE LEAD IN PAILS,

1000 POUNDS New York White Lead in pails of 25 lbs. each, just received at S C & E A SIMONDS',

A DIGNIFIED CONSTABLE.—A constable had served a legal precept of some sort upon an old friend of his, who, very drunk at the time, rebelled against the law and its myrmidon, seizing the officer and shaking him almost to pieces. The parties meeting a few days after, Jim, the offender, was profuse in his apologies.

"You know, Jake," said he, "I could not have served you so if I had been sober; it was the whiskey did it all."

The official was at last mollified, and relented under Jim's expolations.

"As to the shaking, I don't bear any malice, nor value it a cent on my account; but as an officer, Jim, recollect whoever shakes me, shakes the Commonwealth!"

☞ As a polite omnibus agent was going through the ladies' car, checking baggage, he asked a very pretty young lady if she had any baggage he wished taken to the hotel.

"No, sir," was her reply.

The agent then asked her if she desired a 'bus.

She instantly gave him a very sweet smile, and replied:

"No, sir, I am not in a bussing humor this evening,"

The agent dropped his memorandum books, hastily retired to the baggage car, and said he felt unwell.

☞ Reasons why a ship is called she:—Because man knows not the expense till he gets them. Because they are useless without employment. Because they look best when well rigged. Because their value depends upon age. Because they are upright when in stays. Because they bring news from abroad. Because they are often abandoned. Because they wear caps and bonnets. Because they are often painted.

YANKEE BRAGGING.—An Englishman had heard of the Yankee habit of bragging, and thought he would cut the comb ot that propensity. He saw some huge watermelons on a market woman's stand, and walking up to her and pointing to them with a look of disappointment, said: "What, don't you raise bigger apples than those in America?"—The woman looked at him one moment, and retorted: "Apples, anybody might know you was an Englishman. There's huckleberries."

☞ Some of the medical journals are much distracted about the custom of lying in bed; the habit of LIE-ing out of bed is, we think, a great deal more to be guarded against.

☞ "Boy, why don't you go to school?" "'cause, sir, daddy is afeard that if I learns everything now, I want have anything to learn when I come to go to the 'cademy."

☞ Rulers wield the people, but schoolmasters wield rulers. Powerful people are schoolmasters.

☞ An editor says: "If we have offended any man in the short, but brilliant course of our career, let him send us a new hat, and say nothing about it."

THE CONFESSIONS AND EXPERIENCE OF A NERVOUS YOUNG MAN.—Published as a warning and for the especial benefit of young men, and those who suffer with Nervous Debility, Loss of Memory, Premature Decay, etc., etc., by one who has cured himself by simple means, after being put to great expense and inconvenience, through the use of worthless medicines prescribed by learned doctors. Single copies may be had (free) of the author, C. A. Lambert, Esq., Greenpoint, Long Island, by enclosing an addressed envelope. Address CHARLES A. LAMBERT, Greenpoint, Long Island, New York.

New Jersey Lands for Sale,

— ALSO —

GARDEN OR FRUIT FARMS,

suitable for Grapes, Peaches, Pears, Raspberries, Strawberries, Blackberries, Currants, &c., of 1, 2½, 5, or 20 acres each, at the following prices for the present, viz: 20 acres for $200, 10 acres for $110, 5 acres for $60, 2½ acres for $40, 1 acre for $20. Payable by one dollar a week.

Also, good Cranberry lands, and village lots in WETWOOD 25 by 100 feet, at $10 each, payable by one dollar a week. The above land and farms are located at Chetwood, Washington Township, Burlington, New Jersey. For further information, apply with a P. O. Stamp, for a circular, to

B. FRANKLIN CLARK,
feb 18, 1863 No. 90 Cedar St, New York, N. Y.

TERRIBLE DISCLOSURES—SECRETS FOR THE MILLION!—A most valuable and wonderful publication. A work of 400 pages, and 30 colored engravings. DR. HUNTER'S VADE MECUM, an original and popular treatise on Man and Woman, their Physiology, Functions, and Sexual Disorders of every kind, with Never-Failing Remedies for their speedy cure. The practice of Dr. Hunter has long been, and still is, unbounded, but at the earnest solicitation of numerous persons, he has been induced to extend his medical usefulness through the medium of his "Vade Mecum." It is a volume that should be in the hands of every family in the land, as a preventive of secret vices, or as a guide for the alleviation of one of the most awful and destructive scourges ever visited mankind. One copy, securely enveloped, will be forwarded free of postage to any part of the United States for 50 cents in post office stamps

Cards.

WILLIAM G. CHOATE,
Attorney and Counsellor at Law,
251 Essex St., Salem.
Salem, August 6, 1862. tf

THOMAS M. STIMPSON,
Attorney and Counsellor at Law,
194 ESSEX STREET, SALEM.
Residence Lowell street, South Danvers.

B. C. PERKINS,
Attorney and Counsellor at Law,
South Danvers—Office in Allen's Building.

JOHN W. PROCTOR
Counsellor at Law,
Office near the Monument.

A. A. PUTNAM,
Attorney and Counsellor at Law,
CORNER MAPLE AND ELM ST.,
DANVERS.

ALFRED A. ABBOTT,
Attorney and Counsellor,
Office, No. 24 Washington Street, Salem;
House, Main St., So. Danvers.

IVES & PEABODY,
Attorneys and Counsellors at Law,
Have removed their Office to
Rooms formerly occupied by Hon. Otis P. Lord,
NO. 27 WASHINGTON STREET, SALEM,
STEPHEN B. IVES, jr. JOHN. B. PEABODY

SIDNEY C. BANCROFT,
Attorney and Counsellor at Law,
27 Washington Street, Salem.

H. O. WILEY,
Attorney and Counsellor at Law,
Office, Allen's Building, So. Danvers.

Claims against the Government for Bounty Back Pay, and Pensions, promptly attended to

A. S. CRAWFORD
Dentist,
No. 4 MAIN STREET, SO. DANVERS SQUARE
Mechanical Dentistry Neatly Executed.
Teeth Extracted by Electricity without Extra Charge

W. L. BOWDOIN,
SURGEON DENTIST,
No, 208 Essex Street, Salem, (Opposite the Market.
Residence--No. 57 Washington street.
jan 11—1y

F. POOLE
INSURANCE AGENT,
Allen's Building (up stairs),
Deeds drawn, and other common forms.

NEWMAN & SYMONDS,
DEALERS IN
Family Groceries, Flour & Grain,
HARD WARE AND CROCKERY,
Ready Made Clothing, Gents' Furnishing Goods, Hats, Caps, Boots, Shoes, &c.,
South Danvers Square, opp. Congregational Church
SAM'L NEWMAN. NATH'L SYMONDS.

S. C. & E. A. SIMONDS,
DEALERS IN
Crockery, China and Hardware; Paper Hangings; Solar and Entry Lamps; Paints, Oil, and Window Glass.
No. 32 Front street, Lawrence Place,
feb13 SALEM, MASS.

HENRY L. WHIDDEN,
HOUSE AND SIGN PAINTER,
Glazier and Paperer,
Central Street, South Danvers.
All orders promptly and faithfully executed.
jan2-1y

E. S. FLINT,
DEALER IN
West India Goods, Country Produce,
No. 2 Main Street, South Danvers.

JESSE SMITH
No. 262 Essex Street, Salem,
Importer and Dealer in
Gold and Silver Watches,
MARINE CHRONOMETERS,
Aneroid Barometers, Spy Glasses, &c.

WILLIAM BLANEY,
HOUSE & SIGN PAINTER
Grainer, Glazier and Paper Hanger.
164 MAIN STREET, Corner of Grove.
WINDOWS and BLINDS cheap for cash.
mch6-tf

JOHN MOULTON,
LIVERY STABLE,
Central Street, South Danvers.
Mr. M. will endeavor to keep up the good reputation of his stable, by still keeping good Horses and Carriages. jan 7, 1863.

SPRING STYLE
DRESS HATS,
NOW READY
AT JACKSON'S,
101 COURT STREET, BOSTON.

Also a large and varied assortment of CAPS and SOFT HATS, for Boys' and Men's wear. Those wishing articles in the above line would do well to call before purchasing.

JOSEPH A. JACKSON.
Boston, April 1, 1863. 3m

To Let.

A SMALL but pleasant and convenient Chamber Tenement, in the house formerly occupied by the late Wood Forness, upon the corner of Washington and Pleasant Streets. For particulars apply to
SIDNEY C. BANCROFT.
South Danvers, April 22. tf

JOHN FARRELL,
DRAPER AND TAILOR,
HAVING removed to his old place of business, 138 MAIN ST., South Danvers, (over Batchelder's Grocery Store), is prepared to Cut, Make, Repair, or furnish Garments, for Men and Youths at short notice.
South Danvers, April 1. tf

Crockery Ware.

A FULL assortment of China and Crockery Ware; Wooden Ware; Table Cutlery; Tea Trays; Britannia Ware and Silver Plated Ware, &c—for sale at the General Furnishing Store for Housekeepers, No. 32 Front street.
ap 22 S C & E A SIMONDS.

CARD PHOTOGRAPHS.

RAPHAEL'S Hours, Liberty, On the Beach, Evening, Prince and Princess, etc—at

W. E. P. SMYTH,
Attorney and Counsellor at Law,
Proctor in Admiralty, and Commissioner of Deeds for the several States.
Frazier's Building, over the Post Office,
LYNN, MASS.

Having peculiar means for prosecuting, with accuracy and dispatch, all claims against Government, especially those for Bounty, Back Pay and Pensions, I have made this a specialty. Several months' residence in Washington enabled me to become thoroughly conversant with the routine of business in all the Departments, through which claims, of whatever nature, are passed, and also familiar with the practice in the U. S. Court of Claims; in addition to which I have a partner there resident, and a former partner in the Treasury Department, which advantages give me unexcelled facilities for the successful prosecution of business in any way connected with Government.

Important to Soldiers, Marines and their Heirs.

Persons enlisted in the U. S. Service, Land or Naval, since March 1, 1861, if disabled in the service, are entitled to Pension; Relatives of Persons deceased in the service are entitled to Bounty and Pension; in the following order:

1st. The Widow. 4th. The Mother.
2d. The Children. 5th The Brothers and Sisters collectively.
3d. The Father.

LETTERS OF ADMINISTRATION need not be taken out, in ordinary cases, to enable heirs of persons deceased in the service to obtain Pensions and Bounty.

When a discharge is granted for disability, in no case should the Oath of Identity on the back of the Discharge be filled up. The safest course is, to carry all papers at once to an Attorney, without tampering with them. All those who have claims, should present them without delay, as soon, the pressure will be so great upon the Auditor's Office, by reason of numerous applications, that applicants will be subjected to vexatious delay in getting their claims audited.

NO CHARGE MADE UNTIL CLAIMS ARE PAID.

Claims left at the Post Office, South Danvers, will be promptly forwarded.

Lynn, Aug 27, 1862—1v

CHARLES S. BUFFUM,
FURNISHING UNDERTAKER,
Central Street, South Danvers,
HAVING provided himself with a HEARSE, is prepared to attend Funerals in any of the neighboring towns, with one or a pair of Horses.
He keeps as good an assortment of
COFFINS AND CASKETS,
as can be found at any establishment, and at the lowest prices.
He will also attend to Laying Out, etc.
All orders from the neighboring towns met with prompt attention. jan 14

SLATING. SLATING.
GEORGE FOWLER & COMPA'Y,
NO. 2 ST. PETER COURT, SALEM, respectfully inform their friends and the citizens of this and neighboring towns and cities that they are prepared to execute all orders for Slating, promptly and faithfully.
Roofs covered with any description of Slates, or repaired at short notice.
All work undertaken will be warranted.
Address—Box 366 Salem Post Office.
Salem, January 28—1863. tf

PATTERSON'S
LEATHER HANDLING MACHINE

THE undersigned are agents for the above machine. It can be seen in operation at Pinder & Brown's Tannery.
may 7—3m CLARK & GIDDINGS.

MESSRS. CLARK & GIDDINGS,
Wallis Street, South Danvers,
Are Agents for
GEORGE W. FISKE & CO.'S
PATENT EAVE TROUGHS,
CUTTERS, CONDUCTORS AND PIPE FOR DRAINS.
South Danvers, May 22, 1861.

R. C. MANNING & CO.,
Successors to JOHN DIKE & CO.,
DEALERS IN
COAL, WOOD, BARK, HAY, &c,
188 DERBY STREET,
SALEM, MASS.
N. C. ROBBINS, R. C. MANNING.
oct17

FRANKLIN COAL.

JUST landed, a cargo of FRANKLIN COAL —the best in the world for domestic use.
POTTER, BACHELDER & CO.,
Successors to M. Black, Jr.
Danversport, May 6, 1861. tf

E. N. PRICE,
Manufacturer and Dealer in
HARNESSES,
SADDLES, BRIDLES,
AND WHIPS.
— ALSO —
Trunks, Valises and Traveling Bags.
All orders for Manufacturing and Repairing executed with promptness, and in the best manner.
237 Essex Street, Salem, Mass.
mch13-tf

THOMAS PINNOCK,
SLATER,
SALEM, MASS.
Orders may be left at his Yard, No. 25 Peabody St., or at his house No. 6 Hancock street, South Salem.
Roofs covered with any kind of Slates, according to order. All work warranted.
Salem, May 7, 1862. tf

CURRIER & MILLETT,
Dealers in
Furniture, Chairs,
MATTRESSES, FEATHERS, &c
259 & 261 ESSEX ST.
Salem, dec 14—1y

AARON T. LOWE,
DEALER IN
BOOTS, SHOES AND RUBBERS,
76 BOSTON STREET, 76.
aug 6 SALEM. tf

NOTICE.

THE subscriber being about to leave town for a few months, would take this opportunity to inform his customers and friends that his shop on Pleasant Street will be kept open during his absence by Mr. JOHN P. FRIEND, who will faithfully attend to any orders.
JAMES PERKINS.
South Danvers, Sept. 3, 1862.

E. R. PERKINS,
PHOTOGRAPHIC ARTIST
241 Essex Street, Salem.
Patent Ambrotypes, Stereoscopes,
Photographs, Sphere otypes, Melainotypes, and patent leather Pictures, of various sizes, taken with all the improvements of the art. Portraits, Miniatures, Engravings, &c., accurately copied. Views taken when desired. jan 11

HILTON'S INSOLUBLE CEMENT,
UNIVERSALLY liked—for sale by
G M WHIPPLE & A A SMITH.

Dr. Ham's Spirit.

H. & H. G. HUBON,
WASHINGTON STREET, SALEM
Manufacturers of
Rose Wood, Mahogany, Black Walnut and Stained Wood
COFFINS and CASKETS.
MAKING this our exclusive business, we are ready at all times and at the shortest notice to furnish Grave Clothes of various styles, as well as Coffins and Caskets of the finest finish. Personal attention given, and delivered without extra charge to any of the neighboring towns. All orders by express or otherwise will receive prompt attention.
Black Walnut and White Wood Boards, Plank and Joists for sale.
dec 14—tf

GAYLE & CO.,
GENERAL COMMISSION MERCHANTS,
DEALERS IN
Flour, Grain and Produce,
Manufacturers' Agents for the sale of
Concentrated Leaven, Soda and Pearlash Saleratus, and Bi Carb. Soda.
PHILLIPS WHARF, - - Salem.

T. HARDY, JR.,
—Dealer in—
DOORS, SASHES, BLINDS,
Glazed Sash, Painted Blinds,
FENCE PALES, STAIR BALUSTERS, FRAMING PINS, &c.,
No. 26 FRONT STREET,
Salem, January 14, 1863—6m

HEYLINGBERG'S
Hair Dressing Saloon,
24 MAIN ST., SOUTH DANVERS.
TARIFF OF PRICES:

Shaving,	6 cts.
Hair Cutting,	12 cts.
Champooing,	15 cts.
Champooing and Hair Cutting,	25 cts.

No more new Quarterly Customers taken.
In consequence of the scarcity of Change, 18 checks will be sold for one dollar.
South Danvers, Dec 17, 1862.

THOMAS DAVIS,
ADVERTISING AGENT
For the principal New England Newspapers, remains at the old stand, No. 23 Cornhill, Boston, where you will find him still loyal to the Constitution, the Laws, and Advertising.
Boston, Jan 29, 1862. tf

WALKING MADE EASY.

DR. P. KENISON,
CHIROPODIST,
215 Washington St., Boston,
Cures Hard and Soft Corns, Bunions, Club Nails. Nails penetrating the Flesh, Warts, &c., in a manner that will satisfy the most incredulous.

SPEED, COMFORT AND SAFETY!

FOR NEW YORK.
Norwich Steamboat Train.
The only Boats Landing at Jersey City.

CABIN Passage, $5.00; Deck Passage, $4.00. The new and elegant sixteen wheel cars of the steamboat express train leave the Boston & Worcester Railroad Station, Albany Street, at 5½ P. M., daily, connecting with the new steamers, (built expressly for this line,) CITY OF BOSTON, Capt. WILCOX, Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays; CITY OF NEW YORK, Capt. LAWTON, Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays which (before proceeding to their Pier, No. 39 North River,) will touch at the wharf of the New Jersey Railroad at Jersey City, (Sundays excepted) thus enabling Southern Passengers to make sure connections with the First Southern Train, and at the same time avoid the great annoyance of the Ferry and Hack transportation in the crowded streets of New York. This insures ample time for Breakfast before the trains leave. Conductors D. F. WALLER and W. F. BARTON accompany the passengers through.
Tickets, Berths and Staterooms secured at the Railroad Station, and at the Office of the line, 79 Washington Street, Boston.
Through tickets to Philadelphia, Baltimore and Washington can be had at 79 Washington Street, Boston.
WM. DICKEY, Jr., Agent.
Boston, January 7, 1863.

Chickering & Sons' Piano-Fortes.
Hallett & Cumston's Piano-Fortes.
Hallett & Davis's Piano-Fortes.

We select our Piano-Fortes from the above firms and warrant them to give perfect satisfaction. Our terms are reasonable, and all persons in the city and neighboring towns can be accommodated by calling at 76 Federal street.

FOR SALE—Second-hand Piano-Fortes,—Chickering's and others.
ap 29 ANN R. BRAY.

D. W. BOWDOIN,
—ARTIST IN—
PHOTOGRAPHIC PICTURES.
Rooms No. 175 Essex st, Salem, [Downing's Block]
Portraits, Miniatures, and Views, by the Ambrotype, Daguerreotype, Photograph and Stereoscope process—finished in India Ink, Oil and Water colors.
☞ Particular attention paid to restoring old Daguerreotypes, and other pictures—and making enlarged copies, highly finished. may

E. S. FLINT,
Manufacturer and Dealer in
INNER SOLES,
AND SHOE STIFFENINGS OF ALL KINDS.
2 MAIN STREET, SOUTH DANVERS.

NEW BOOKS,
AT G. M. WHIPPLE & A. A. SMITH'S.
ROCKFORD; or Sunshine and Storm, by Mrs. Lillie Devereux Umstead;
In the Tropics, by Richard B. Kimball, author of St Leger;
Harper's Magazine; Godey's Lady's Book; and Harper's Weekly, for July. All the new Books rec'd as soon as published.
Sign of the Five Golden Books.

Just Opened,
A SUPERIOR quality corded Taffota, at 37½ cts. All wool DeLaines, desirable shades; Domestic Goods of every description.
ap 29 ANN R BRAY, 76 Federal st.

CHINA WARE;
GOLD Band China Tea Ware; White and Lustre China do—at
S. C. & E. A. SIMONDS', 32 Front st.

SUMMER READING.
THE cheapest way to get reading matter for the Summer is to take a share in our Circulating Library. All the new and popular Books go in.
je 24 G M WHIPPLE & A A SMITH.

DIARIES FOR
1863. Every variety and style—all sizes—for sale at
G M WHIPPLE & A A SMITH'S,
nov 26 Sign of the Five Golden Books,

NEW YORK WHITE LEAD.
2500 L New York White Lead;
Also, Foreign River White Lead—for sale by
mch 4 S C & E A SIMONDS.

WIRE GOODS.
WIRE Rat Traps; Broilers; Steamers; Sieves etc., just received at
S. C. & E. A. SIMONDS', 32 Front st.

SOUTH DANVERS POST OFFICE.

GENERAL MAIL ARRANGEMENT.

MAILS CLOSE
At 10 3-4 A. M., and 4 3-4 P. M.

MAILS DUE
At 9 1-2 A. M., and 3 P. M.

Post Office open (Sundays excepted) from 7 o'clock, A. M., till 8 P. M. Saturdays open till 8 1-2 P. M.

F. POOLE, P. M.
South Danvers, Oct. 1, 1862.

Eastern Railroad.

ON and after MONDAY, April 6, 1863, Trains will leave the Eastern Railroad Station, Washington street, Salem, daily. (Sundays excepted):

For Lynn and Boston, *5.50, 7, 8¼, 9, *10, 11 a m., 1, *2½ 5½, 7½ p. m.
Beverly, 8¼ am., 1, 3½, 5½, 6.55, 7½ p m.
W. Beach, Man'r, Gloucester, and Rockport, 8¼ a m., 3½, 5½ p m.
Ipswich and Newburyport, 8¼ a m., 1, 3½, 5½, 6.55 p m.
Amesbury, 8¼ a m., 1, 5½ p m.
Portsmouth, 8¼ a m., 3½, 5½ p m.
Portland, 8¼ a m., 3½ p m.

AND FOR SALEM, FROM
Portland, 8¾ a m., 3 p m.
Portsmouth, 7½ †11½ a m., †5½ p m.
Amesbury, 7.35, 9 40 a m., 5.50 p m.
Newburyport, 7, 8, 10 a m., 12 m, 6½ p m.
Ipswich, 7 25, 8 25, 10.25 a m, 12 25, 6.40 p m.
Gloucester, 7, 10, 10 10 a m., 4.40 p m.
Manchester, 7.25, 10.25 a m., 4.55 p m.
Beverly, 6.50, 7.50, 8 50, 10.50 a m., 12.50, 5.20, 7 05 pm.
Lynn, 8.05, *9 05, 11 05 a m., 12 50, *1.35, 3.05, *3.35, *4 35, 5.35, *6 20, 5¾, *7 35, *.05 p m
Boston, 7¼, *8¼, 10¼ a m., 12¼, 2¾, 3, *4, 5, 6.10, *7, *9¼.

*Via Saugus Branch.
†Or on arrival from the East.
‡On Wednesdays this train leaves Boston at 11½ p m. and on Saturdays at 10½ p m.

MARBLEHEAD BRANCH.
Marblehead for Salem, 6¾, 7¾, 8¾, 9¾ a m., 12¾, 1¾, 5¼, 6¾, 7½ p m.
Salem for Marblehead, 7½, 8½, 9.25, 11½ a m., 1, 3¾, 5¾, 7, 7.50 p m.

SOUTH READING BRANCH.
Trains leave the South Reading Depot in Salem for Boston at 6¾, 9.50 a m., 2.55, 4.55 p m
Boston for Salem, 7 a m, 12 m., 3, 5½ p m.

ESSEX RAILROAD.
Leave Salem for Lawrence and way stations, 7, 11½ a m., 4.50 p m.
Lawrence for Salem, 8 a m, 12.40, 6 p m.
Danvers for Salem, 8.40 a m., 1.20, 6.40 p m.
South Danvers for Salem, 7½ a m., 12¾, 3¾, 6½ p m.

J. PRESCOTT, Superintendent.
Boston, April 6, 1863.

Salem and Lowell Railroad.

ON and after MONDAY, April 6, 1863, Trains will run as follows:

Leave Lowell for Salem, 7.25 a m., and *2.45 p m.
Leave Salem for Lowell, *9.40 a m. and 5.55 p m.

Passengers are not allowed to carry baggage above $50 in value, and that personal, unless notice is given and an extra amount paid. Season tickets do not entitle the holder to take baggage.

*Freight Train with passenger car attached.

F. H. NOURSE, Local Superintendent.
April 6, 1863.

TAKE NOTICE.

THAT Dr. Ham's Dyspepsia Remedy has been before the public for the past ten years. And in that time the people who have used it will vouch for the benefit they have derived from it. The character of his article and its reputation can also be obtained from the dealers who sell it, or have sold it for any length of time, to both of those, Dr Ham refers and is willing to stand the test. And also challenges any new compound to produce the same results, let alone delicacy of flavor, of his INVIGORATING SPIRIT, which for ITS EFFECTS UPON THE BILE, A TORPID LIVER, LOW SPIRITS, or when the blood is affected as seen by SKIN DISEASES or its ACTION UPON THE KIDNEYS, in fact for any person who is run down by the wear and care of this world will find relief in this old and well tried remedy.

Astonishing.

TO Dr. Ham, who has modestly put before the public his DYSPEPSIA REMEDY for ten years past, to look back and see the number of tremendous articles within that time, that have sprang up like a rocket, and gone down like the stick which guides it in its glorious assent. Some come out and claim to tell the public they use unknown Barks from South America, with any quantity of rum from the West Indias, &c. Dr Ham takes this opportunity to refer to the MEDICAL FACULTY here and everywhere that his article is in use, as to its qualifications, and challenges any one to produce a person, male or female, who has used it as directed, that will not speak favorable of it for DISORGANIZED STOMACH, Dyspepsia, loss of appetite, want of action of the Kidneys, as well as many other complaints that humanity are afflicted with.

To Ladies.

DR. HAM'S Dyspepsia Remedy is just the thing you require to remove the langour caused by weakness and debility; it invigorates the system, causes the blood to take new life in its varied course through the system, in fact it gives tone to the system and will relieve and remove the thousand irregularities that from various causes you are afflicted with. For Dyspepsia it is a never failing remedy, it has stood the test of years, and we have yet to hear of its failing to give relief to the afflicted thousands who have received health and happiness by its use.

To Gentlemen.

DR. HAM knows that you do not always pay much attention to the many different articles put before you in the paper, but we would refer you to our agents who you will find are the respectable merchants and dealers, in regard to the Invigorating Spirit; some of them have sold it for years, and know well the reputation it has amongst those who have used it in assisting nature to eradicate diseases. It will renovate the system, as it acts directly on the blood, removing all obstructions to the general health, will cure Liver Complaints, Dyspepsia, Nervous Affections, Sour Stomach, Headache, Weakness, Loss of Appetite, as well as obstruction in the Kidney, Bladder or Urinary Organs. Try it. We will guarantee you will be satisfied with the result.

General Depot, 62 Liberty Street, New York. Sold by Weeks & Potter, 154 Washington Street, M. S. Burr & Co, 26 Tremont Street, G. C. Goodwin & Co., 11 Marshall Street, Boston; and in South Danvers by George E. Mascom, T. A. Sweetser, D. P. Grosvenor, Jr., Main Street; and by Druggists everywhere.
Feb 29, 1863 1y

Are you Insured?

THE subscriber would respectfully call your attention to the fact that he is fully prepared to effect INSURANCE AGAINST FIRE, to any amount, at current rates, on

Dwelling Houses, Barns and their contents, Stores, Stocks of Goods, Furniture, &c. &c., and on buildings in process of erection,

And that he is the authorized Agent for the following responsible Stock and Mutual Companies, viz:

Thames Insurance Co., (Stock.) Norwich, Conn.
Capital—$500,000.
Amos W. Prentice, Pres. Oliver F. Rice, Sec'y
Conway Insurance Company, (Stock) Boston.
Capital and Surplus—$260,000.
James F. Whitney, Pres. David C. Rogers, Sec'y.
City Insurance Company, (Stock) Boston.
Capital—$150,000.
Samuel P. Hayward, Pres. Austin W. Benton, Sec'y

Also, will effect Insurance on the LIVES OF INDIVIDUALS, for one year, seven years, or for the whole term of life, in the

Massachusetts Mutual Life Ins. Co., Springfield, Mass.
Capital and Assets—$375,000.
Caleb Rice, Pres. D. B. Bacon, Sec'y.
William Mack, M. D, Medical Examiner.

WM. ARCHER, Jr.,
18 Washington st. and 34 Front st., Salem.
ej b20-1

E. F. BURNHAM,
SOLE AGENT FOR
SARGENT & CO.S'
MAGIC SOAP
For South Danvers & Salem.
OFFICE—Central St., opp. Lowell Depot, at Burnham's Express Office, So. Danvers.
Price $3.50 per 100 Lbs.
Orders sent by mail or otherwise to So. Danvers will be promptly attended to. tf-oct3

WM. C. HENDERSON,
MANUFACTURER OF
PLAIN AND FANCY
PAPER BOXES,
No. 235 ESSEX STREET,
Sign of "Nest of Boxes,"
July 23 SALEM. tf

JUVENILE BOOKS,
A VERY large assortment for sale by
G M WHIPPLE & A A SMITH.

SUMMER ARRANGEMENT.

— TO —

LYNN & BOSTON

— BY —

OMNIBUS & HORSE CAR.

W. F. BURNHAM'S

Line of Omnibuses will leave the Lynn and Boston Omnibus Office, No. 6 Allen's Building, South Danvers, passing down Main Street, through Washington Street, to Lynn, daily.

Leave South Danvers at 7 50 o'clock, A. M., 12 50 and 4 50 P. M

Leave Lynn (Horse Car Depot, West Lynn) at 9 40 A. M., 2 40 and 6 40 P. M.

Horse Cars leaving Scollay's Building, Court Street, at 8 15 A. M., 1 15 and 5 15 P. M., will meet the Omnibuses at Lynn, at the above named hours, to take passengers to South Danvers.

Sunday Arrangements.

Leave S. Danvers at 7.50 a.m., and 4.50 p.m.
Leave Lynn at 9.40 a.m., and 6.40 p.m.

Cars leave Scollay's Building, Court Street, Boston, to meet the Omnibuses in Lynn for South Danvers, at 8 15 A. M., and 5 15 P. M.

Tickets to Lynn, - - 15 cents.
Through to Boston, - 30 cents.

Through Tickets to and from Boston may be had of the Drivers and Conductors.

Passengers called for at reasonable charges if notice is given at the office.

EXPRESS BUSINESS

Between South Danvers and Lynn promptly attended to, on reasonable terms.

Extra Coaches furnished at short notice.
South Danvers, 1863.

South Danvers & Salem Line of Omnibuses.

ON and after MONDAY, Nov. 4, 1861, the South Danvers and Salem Line of Omnibuses will run as follows:

Leave the Hourly Office, South Danvers at 7, 8, 8 1-2, 9, 9 1-2, 10, 10 1-2, 11, 11 1-2 a. m. 12, 12 1-2, 1, 1 1-2, 2, 2 1-2, 3, 3 1-2, 4, 4 1-2, 5, 5 1-2, 6, 6 1-2, 7, 7 1-2, 8.

Leave No. 13 Central St., Salem, at 8. 8 1-2, 9, 9 1-2, 10, 10 1-2, 11, 11 1-2, a.m. 12, 12 1-2, 1, 1 1-2, 2, 2 1-2, 3, 3 1-2, 4, 4 1-2, 5, 5 1-2; 6, 6 1-2, 7, 7 1-2, 8, 9.

☞ Ladies' Room, at Needham & Hawkes's, No. 272 Essex Street, and at the Offices.

SINGLE FARE on the regular route, 6 cents, or Twenty Tickets for $1 00.

Passengers called for or left off the route, at a reasonable distance, the fare will be 13 cents.

EXTRA COACHES furnished, at all hours, at reasonable prices.
nov 27 HENRY M. MERRILL.

Abbott's South Danvers & Salem EXPRESS.

Leave South Danvers, - - - 7½ a m, 1 p m
Leave Salem, - - - - 10 a m, 4 p m

Orders left at Teel & Moulton's, and principal stores on Main street, South Danvers; and at 7 Washington street, and at Reed's in the Market, Salem.

MARSHALL'S
DANVERS, SO. DANVERS & SALEM EXPRESS.

Leave DANVERS (daily) at 9 A. M.
" SALEM at 1½ P. M.

OFFICES:
In Danvers—At E B Waitt's and the Post Office.
Danversport—Richards' and A W Warren's Stores.
In So. Danvers—Francis Dane & Co's, and No 2 Main street.
In Salem—No 7 Washington street, 199 Essex st, and 17 Derby Square.
All business promptly and faithfully attended to.
☞ Our patrons are particularly requested to write their orders.
☞ Packages, left at the office, should be marked "Marshall's Express."
☞ Being connected with the RAILROAD we are enabled to forward Notes, Drafts and Bills for collection, and small packages, to all accessible points in the United States, at the usual rates.
P. G. MARSHALL.
dec1-6-tf

PINGREE'S JOB WAGON.

THE subscriber is still prepared to do all kinds of Job Work and Teaming, such as removing Furniture and Merchandize of any description about town, or to and from the neighboring towns.

Orders will be received at the Essex Railroad Station, and at S. Flint's store, on the Square.

Thankful for past favors, he would solicit a continuance of the same.
W. H. PINGREE
South Danvers, 1860.

Important to the Afflicted.

DR. DOW continues to be consulted at his office, Nos. 7 and 9 Endicott street, Boston, on all diseases of a

PRIVATE OR DELICATE NATURE.

By a long course of study and practical experience of unlimited extent, Dr. D. has now the gratification of presenting the unfortunate with remedies that have never, since he first introduced them, failed to cure the most alarming cases of

GONORRHŒA AND SYPHILIS.

Beneath his treatment, all the horrors of venereal and impure blood, Impotency, Scrofula, Gonorrhœa, Ulcers, pain and distress in the regions of procreation, Inflammation of the Bladder and Kidneys, Hydrocele, Abscesses, Humors, frightful Swellings, and the long train of horrible symptoms attending this class of disease, are made to become as harmless as the simplest ailings of a child.

SEMINAL WEAKNESS.

Dr. D. devotes a great part of his time to the treatment of those cases caused by a secret and solitary habit, which ruins the body and mind, unfitting the unfortunate individual for business or society. Some of the sad and melancholy effects produced by early habits of youth, are Weakness of the Back and limbs, Dizziness of the head, Dimness of sight, Palpitation of the heart, Dyspepsia, Nervousness, Derangement of the digestive functions, Symptoms of Consumption, &c. The fearful effects on the mind are much to be dreaded; loss of memory, confusion of ideas, depression of spirits, evil forebodings, aversion of society, self-distrust, timidity, &c., are among the evils produced. Such persons should, before contemplating matrimony, consult a physician of experience, and be at once restored to health and happiness.

Patients who wish to remain under Dr. Dow's treatment a few days or weeks, will be furnished with pleasant rooms, and charges for board moderate.

Medicines sent to all parts of the country, with full directions for use, on receiving description of your cases. Dr. Dow has also for sale the French Capottes, warranted the best preventive. Order by mail. 3 for $1 and a red stamp.

CAUTION

TO FEMALES IN DELICATE HEALTH.

DR. DOW, Physician and Surgeon, 7 and 9 Endicott street, Boston, is consulted daily for all diseases incident to the female system. Prolapsus Uteri, or falling of the Womb, Fluor Albus, Suppression, and other menstrual derangements, are all treated upon new pathological principles, and speedy relief guaranteed in a very few days. So invariably certain is the new mode of treatment, that most obstinate complaints yield under it, and the afflicted person soon rejoices in perfect health.

Dr. Dow has no doubt had greater experience in the cure of diseases of women and children, than any other physician in Boston.

Boarding accommodations for patients who may wish to stay in Boston a few days under his treatment.

Dr. Dow, since 1845, having confined his whole attention to an office practice, for the cure of Private Diseases and Female Complaints, acknowledges no superior in the United States.

N. B.—All letters must contain four red stamps, or they will not be answered.

Office Hours from 8 A. M. to 9 P. M.

CERTAIN CURE

IN ALL CASES, OR NO CHARGES MADE.

Dr. Dow is consulted daily, from 8 a m. to 8 p. m., as above, upon all difficult and chronic diseases of every name and nature, having by his unwearied attention and extraordinary success gained a reputation which calls patients from all parts of the country to obtain advice.

Among the physicians in Boston, none stand higher in the profession than the celebrated DR. DOW, No. 7 Endicott street, Boston. Those who need the services of an experienced physician and surgeon should give him a call. P. S.—Dr. Dow imports and has for sale a new article, called the French Secret. Order by mail. Two for $1 and a red stamp.
April 15, 1863—1y.

Tenements to Let.

ONE of 5 rooms in the rear of Washington Street, on a Court leading out of Aborn street. Rent $54 per year.

One of 5 rooms near Newhall's Crossing, in house lately occupied by C. B. Warner. Rent $42 per year.

One of 3 rooms, near Tapley Brook,—a small house. Rent $24 per year.

One of 3 rooms, in a new house in rear, northerly, of the Old Boston Road, near the Lynn line, with a barn if wanted and several acres of land. Rent reasonable, but dependant on privileges hired.

One of three rooms in the "Granite House," corner of Washington and Granite streets.
SIDNEY C. BANCROFT.
South Danvers, July 23d, 1862.

PRINTING

IN

EVERY VARIETY,

Neatly and Promptly

EXECUTED

— At —

The Wizard Office

SOUTH DANVERS SQUARE,

SOUTH DANVERS, MASS.

POSTERS,

(LARGE AND SMALL,)

WHICH CAN'T BE BEAT

— IN THIS —

VICINITY.

BALL CIRCULARS

TICKETS,

— AND —

Orders of Dances.

BUSINESS CARDS

Address Cards,

Wedding Cards

Printed in the neatest manner,

And on the finest stock.

BILL-HEADS

South Danvers Wizard.

VOL. IV. SOUTH DANVERS, MASS., WEDNESDAY, JULY 15, 1863. NO. 28.

THE SOUTH DANVERS WIZARD
Is published every WEDNESDAY, at Allen's building, South Danvers Square.
TERMS—Two Dollars a year.
ADVERTISEMENTS inserted at reasonable rates.

CHARLES D. HOWARD,
EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR.

A. A PUTNAM,
ASSISTANT EDITOR, DANVERS.

Selected Poetry.

SECRET FEELING.

Deep in the fountain of the soul
The spring of pure emotion lies;
And oft 'mid seeming calm repose,
Those hidden waters swell and rise.

Yet sometimes, though the feeling heart
Gives all the token that it can
Of life and warmth—frail man will sit
In judgment on his brother man.

Alas! how little do we dream
What passes in another's breast!
How can we know but there may dwell
Rich thoughts that cannot be suppressed?

O! thou, whose lot it is to be Cast down for thy opinion's sake,
There's one above, who hath declared,
The bruised reed He will not break.

Cherish thine earnest nature still,
And strive to reach the wished for goal;
Nor let the absurd mistakes of men
Disturb thy reverential soul.

And while thou giv'st an eager ear
To all that Christ, thy Master, saith,
And keep'st an open humble mind,
Hold firm and fast thy honest faith.

And be thou candid; this will prove
How firm thy faith; for all men know
That age together—closely leagued—
Intolerance and weakness go.

THE BATTLE OF GETTYSBURG.

Extracts from "Carleton's" Letter to the Boston Journal.

A BATTLE.

How poor, how tame, how insignificant are all descriptions of a great battle. Victor Hugo stirs your blood with his description of Waterloo. Kinglake gives you the battle of the Alma in detail, with a minuteness that wearies, and yet neither of them has produced a picture much like the reality. I shrink from the task of attempting even an outline of the series of battles at Gettysburg, where nearly two hundred thousand men have met upon the field. I cannot picture the ground, the hills, ravines, fields, houses, roads, rocks, trees, the little things of locality all important to a military commander; neither can I place the men in proper position in line of battle, behind walls and fences, sheltered by hillocks, gathered in groups in some all important position, the holding of which may turn the tide of battle. Then there are the batteries in play, flashing and thundering, hills smoking like volcanoes, and hollows vomiting flames, as if subterranean fires were bursting upward.

All this to the sight, and quite as much to the ear—the rolls of musketry, like ocean breakers on the beach; the rattling fire, which is as you have heard hailstones upon a window pane, or the great drops of a summer shower upon a roof. There is the screaming of the shot, the explosion of shells, the terrifying whizzing of pieces in the air; and then there are the groans of the wounded, which touch one's sensibilities, and if he be not indurated to scenes of suffering it takes his strength away and unmans him. And yet, while the battle is still raging, while the deep boom of the cannon is reverberating among the mountains, notwithstanding the wear and tear to nerves, to the physical and mental of hardship, sleepless nights, long days in the saddle, I attempt to give a description of the battle.

GETTYSBURG.

It is the county seat of Adams, Pennsylvania. Nearly forty miles, a little north of east from Frederick on the head waters of the Monocacy. Rock creek, which in spring time leaps over huge granite boulders, runs south, a mile east of the town, and is the main stem of the Monocacy. Being a county seat, it is also a grand centre for this section of the State, contains six or eight thousand inhabitants, and has a beautiful location, surrounded with scenery of quiet beauty, hills, valleys, the dark outline and verdure clad sides of the Blue Ridge in the west, and the heaved up, billowy Cacoctin range on the south.

If you have a map, you will see it is a focus for roads north, east, south, west, from nearly all points of the compass. You are reminded of a spider, or a bug, or, an old daddy long-legs, with its numerous limbs reaching in all directions.

THE GROUND.

I have said that Rock creek runs south about a mile east of the town. As you approach town from the southeast on the Littletown road, or the Baltimore pike as it is called, you have a gradual ascent nearly a mile from Rock creek before gaining the top of the ridge—not an even inclined plane, but undulating—the ground being broken, heaved up on either hand into rocky hills and knolls, nearly all cleared—here and there an oak and chestnut grove, scattered houses, small gardens, apple orchards, stone walls in abundance — the ground divided into small patches to get rid of the rocks. As you approach the top of the ridge your face set to the northwest, you notice a hill a half mile to your right, quite sharp and steep, and wooded. Remember it, because it is an important point; on it, as we shall see, rests our right wing.

Looking straight ahead you notice on the very top of the ridge a house. It is not a dwelling house, but the gateway of the Gettysburg cemetery. The living do not dwell there, but through its portal pass the dead to their long appointed home. You see the marble slabs, the mural shafts clearly cut against the sky, or dotting the green sward of the slope along the winding graveled walks and avenues. Remember this, also, for it is the strongest point of Meade's position. It is the highest point. The 11th corps is there, and Howard has his batteries standing over the mouldering forms of the dead who have been borne hither in times of peace by mourning friends. Often there has been weeping, last farewells, aching hearts upon this lovely spot, but never before such a scene as that which is opening to day. Roses, cypress and daisies are in bloom, scenting the morning air; but the hoofs of horses, the rumble of ammunition trains, and the roar of cannon, resound through the streets of the silent city.

Mounting the top of the gate-way, or keeper's lodge, let us behold the panorama. You look a half mile distant in the northeast and see the wooded hill before mentioned. Turning northwest, right in front of you on the western slope lies the town—a beautiful place. It is not more than forty or fifty rods to the buildings. On the north side of the Baltimore pike, between the buildings and the wooded hill are newly mown fields, the grass springing fresh and green since the mower has swept over it. In these fields are batteries with breastworks thrown up by Howard on Wednesday night—light affairs, not intended to resist cannon shot, but to protect the cannoniers from sharp shooters. You see his lines of infantry behind stone walls. The cannoniers are lying beside their pieces—sleeping perhaps, but at any rate keeping close, for, occasionally, a bullet comes this way. Looking north over the fields, a mile or two across the railroad, you see a beautiful farming country—fields of ripened grain—russet mingled with the green in the landscape. Across the railroad which comes into town from the northeast you see the rebel batteries. Horsemen are galloping over the fields, sharp shooters are lying under the fences. There are puffs of smoke from hedges, and you hear the sharp crack of the rifle and at the same instant the flight of the unseen something in the air close at hand, which, though you have heard it, often causes you to shrug your shoulders.

FIRST DAY'S ENGAGEMENT.

There is no doubt that this engagement was prematurely brought on by Gen. Reynolds. Gen. Meade desired to find the enemy, and compel Lee to make the attack. But perhaps, after all, it was the very thing needed. The enemy was flushed by the success. He was confident. He had beaten us both at Fredericksburg and Chancellorsville. He had done it in the first conflict in Pennsylvania. He felt he could always do it.—A mistake. There are tides in the affairs of men and nations. Stars are not always in the ascendant. But stimulated, encouraged, he became confident of crushing the General who never had been heard of except as a plain, modest, unassuming corps commander.

SECOND DAY'S ENGAGEMENT.

In the afternoon the 3d corps was ordered to advance across the fields and reconnoiter the enemy on the left. Some movements had been noticed in the woods beyond Stevens' run. Sickles advanced nearly a mile. Bigelow's battery was taken forward nearly to the Emmettsburg road to cover the advance or the recall.

It was not the intention of Gen. Meade to bring on the battle, but the enemy was ready, and in reality had begun to move at the time the 3d advanced. A battery opened on Longstreet's extreme right. Another and another. The fire run along the entire front line up to Rev. Dr. Schusuaker's house. It was furious. I was at the moment near the cemetery. It rained shot and shell. Knocking over the marble slabs, shattering the iron fences, disemboweling horses, tearing up the graves. The air was full of wild, hideous noises—the low buzz of round shot, whizzing of the elongated rifle bolts, screaming and screeching, the sharp stunning explosions of shells—over head and all around.

There was a quick response. In three minutes' time the earth shook with the tremendous concussion of two hundred pieces of artillery. The skirmishers came up and engaged the 3d corps, followed by two lines of the enemy—thirty to forty thousand men. They came with cheers—yells, like Indians sounding a warhoop. The men who stood like granite blocks at the apex of the triangle at Chancellorsville against the impetuous dash of Jackson, were not to be easily turned back. They engaged the entire mass of the enemy, holding Longstreet in check till word could be sent to Meade as to what might be expected. While thus holding them a division was detached by Longstreet, which moved upon Sickles's left flank, to get between him and the base of Round Top hill.

NINTH MASSACHUSETTS BATTERY.

"Send up batteries and send up men," was Sickles's request. They were close upon Bigelow's battery. It was its first experience under fire.

"I want you to hold on till I can get up two batteries on the ridge," said Maj. McGilvray, in command of the artillery on the left." "Give them grape and canister," he added. Capt. Bigelow gave them all he had, the last round, and commenced on spherical case.

The rebels were desperate. Sickles was pushed back. It was impossible for him to stay so far in front. There was no rout—no disorder, but a steady, backward movement toward the ridge as orderly as if at dress parade.

A rebel battery hastened up and unlimbered close upon Bigelow. He gave them a shot and they limbered up again. The two batteries were not yet up and the Captain and his brave men would not leave. The rebels rushed upon his guns. He blew them from the muzzles, and filled the air with legs, heads and arms. Still they came with demoniac screams, climbing upon his limbers and shooting his horses. Sergeant Dodge went down killed instantly; also Sergeant Gilson. Lipman, Ferris and Nutting, three of his cannoniers were gone, twenty-two of his men were wounded, and himself shot through the side; also four men missing, yet he held on till McGilvray got up his two batteries. He brought off five limbers and two of his pieces, dragging them in part by hand! More than half his horses were shot. The rebels seized the four pieces with shouts, waved their flags and came on for new triumphs.

But the two batteries, with McGilvray there to superintend them, were doing finely. The division which had come on Sickles' flank received an enfilading fire, and was driven back. Bigelow's guns were recovered.

Now is apparent the beauty of Meade's plan. The Fifth corps started from the position upon the run, reached the ridge, came up to the front and were ready to give the third a little rest.

Before the Fifth arrived the Second was engaged, and Doubleday's division of the First. Hotter grew the fire. The rebels became desperate. As there were no particular signs of an attack in front of Slocum, two of his divisions were sent over. Still the rebels pressed on.—The reserve artillery was called for, battery after battery. The Sixth corps, which had just arrived, all weary as they were, moved up with alacrity and became supports.

From five P. M. till eight the struggle went on. The rebels charged repeatedly upon our lines, but were as often driven back, and then our men improving their opportunity would dash out and gather up prisoners—fifteen hundred were brought in, offsetting our losses of yesterday.—They were all from Hill's and Longstreet's commands.

Where was Ewell? He was not in sight. We found him suddenly, while the fire on the left was hottest. Our pickets on the right discovered here and there a rebel coming stealthily down Rock creek. A scathing fire begun.—Ewell, with the remainder of the rebel army, was coming down Rock creek, and was within musket shot of our lines before discovered.

Looking down from his position on the hill, Howard saw them two hundred feet below him, a half mile distant. The guns among the tombs, which had been hurling death far off to the southwest, were wheeled to the northeast, their muzzles depressed, and then with the utmost rapidity from forty pieces there was hurled a continuous storm of shells into the wooded ravine.

But Ewell pressed on. He had sworn to break through and reach our rear.—His men climbed the steep ascent. Slocum's skirmishers fell back from rock to rock and from tree to tree. But gradually the line of fire crept nearer the top. Another battery now opened south of the turnpike, its line of fire being directly up the creek. Hotter, fiercer grew the musketry, more terrible the cannonades.

On the right the rebels rushed up to the rifle pits. There were desperate hand to hand encounters—thrusts with the bayonet. Men nerved themselves for desperate efforts. It was the fury of tigers. Foes became impaled on each others bayonets and fell to the ground together. But the line had been so much weakened that notwithstanding Slocum's efforts his extreme right was pushed back a little from the creek. The door was partly opened. There was a little break, and one more vigorous push on the part of Ewell might be fatal. Late at night both parties ceased their efforts and prepared for the morning.

Longstreet had failed—Ewell had partly succeeded. The first thing for the morning was to close the Rock creek door and send Ewell back. The 6th corps was moved back to support the 12th and the 1st. Two batteries were brought into position, on some rocky hillocks between the Baltimore pike and the Taneytown road, their muzzles pointing north, straight up Rock creek.

Ewell, doubtless well pleased that he had gained a foothold, had placed the door ajar and kept his troops on their arms in Slocum's rifle pits. He was within forty rods of the Baltimore pike. If he could gain it then there would be trouble in Meade's camp. All night long in the pale moonbeams shimmering through the leafy branches of the forest the pickets watched each other. Occasionally there were rifle shots—some deadly ones on each side, but the men on either side were too wearied to keep awake over such trifling matters, and they reposed as sweetly upon the ground which at daybreak was to be their last earthly resting-place, as when in childhood they were soothed to slumber in a mother's arms. All knew that at daylight the terrible contest would be renewed, and that thousands would sleep in death; but as I passed along the lines at nightfall I never saw men more cheerful, more determined. It was not an unthinking carelessness of the uncertainty—or, rather the certainty of the morrow,—but the calm resolution to yield their lives cheerfully for their country. We who lie down upon our beds at home to quiet slumber know but little of the indurating process which men must undergo before they can sleep so composedly with the conviction on their minds that before another night their souls will be beyond the scenes of earth, friends — all that makes life desirable will be shut forever from them, and they launched upon the great uncertainty and the unknown.

In this terrible fight on the right Gen. Green's division of Slocum's corps sustained the onset of Ewell till a brigade from the First corps was moved down to assist.

THE SECOND ATTACK ON THE LEFT.

On the left, when the Fifth corps was brought into action, Gen. Barnes was sent with his division to the base of Round Top hill. The Third brigade, were on the extreme left, and the second brigade, comprising the Sixty-second Pennsylvania, Lieut. Col. Hull; Thirty-second Massachusetts, Col. Prescott, and Fourth Michigan, Col. Jefferds. The Ninth Massachusetts, Col. Quiney, was absent on picket on their right. Colonel Titton's brigade, composed of the Eighteenth Massachusetts, Col. Hayes; First Michigan, Col. Abbott, Twenty-second Massachusetts, Lieut. Col. West, and One Hundred and Eighteenth Pennsylvania, Lieut. Col. Gywn, acted as support.

The enemy fell upon Col. Vincent first. Their first attempt to turn our flank had driven the Third corps back from its advanced reconnoissance, but the valor of the Second corps had checked their advance.

The second attempt was still upon the flank, and was made with greater rashness than the first. The Third was in rear of the Fifth, ready to support, if necessary, their gallant comrades.

The voice of Col. Vincent rang clear above the din of preparation and the tramp, tramp, tramp of the advancing enemy. "Don't yield an inch" were his words. He jumped upon a rock, waved his sword, and at the moment received a ball which shattered his thigh. Col. Rice took command, and the men stood steadily up to the terrible work, taking deliberate aim.

General Barnes was cool and as firm as the massive boulders of granite around him. Nearer came the rebels—no longer marching, but running for a bayonet charge. General Barnes did not run. His men did not. They stood. They met the shock. The lines mingled.—There was a confused mass of men. Swords were swinging in air. There were pistol shots, musket shots, bursting shells from the rebel batteries, tornadoes of grape and canister from our own. There were cuts, thrusts, explosions, flashes, clouds of smoke, yells, curses, groans, hurrahs—an infernal uproar—men falling, heads blown off, arms and legs tossed into the air—a horrid, indescribable scene—confusion, carnage, death!

It is terrible to think of it; horrible to behold, but it is the stern necessity. So justice comes through suffering—so peace, pure, gentle, beautiful, holy, through atonement for crime.

While this was going on in Barnes' division, General Ayers' division came in just in time to save the First from being pushed back, or trampled down by the still advancing enemy. General Ayers' division has the two brigades of regulars, those who all day long hung to the hollow in front of Fredericksburg, and refused to retire even when their ammunition was gone, and all hope of winning the hights had departed.

As they came in fresh troops came up for Longstreet, and again the contest went on—the rolls of musketry like the roaring of the wind through a forest—the thunder of the cannonade incessant, reverberating far away along the mountain passes.

While all this was taking place in the fields and pastures, the Fourth and Fifth brigades of the Pennsylvania Reserves, commanded by General Crawford, were sent by Gen. Meade to clear the enemy from Round Top hill, which they had secured in their desperate onset. It is exceedingly rocky and covered with scrub oak. The Bucktails led the charge.—Col. Taylor, leading them, was shot, but they moved on, gained the summit, drove the rebels, poured over the other side and swept down upon the flank of the force, attacking Barnes and Ayers at the base. Hazlitt's battery, by almost superhuman effort, was dragged, or lifted over the rocks to the top and as the darkness came on, lighted up its fires, hurling death upon the masses below.

We are not to forget that while this is taking place an hundred pieces of artillery along the ridge reaching up to the cemetery are hurling shells and bolts here and there upon the struggling infantry and upon the rebel batteries across the fields, and that from beneath those distant trees beyond the little gurgling brook that winds through the meadows there is an answer for every shot, a cannonade kept up, till Longstreet's shattered columns have fallen back, discomfited, into the woods from whence they came. Confidence in themselves and confidence in their leaders were the marked features in the morale of the army that night. They had no fear for the result of the morrow.

What deeds of valor were performed! There were many heroes that day. A rebel officer seized the colors of the 4th Michigan, Col. Jefferds, seizing his revolver, shot him and regained the flag.—A rebel soldier, with a bayonet thrust, run the Colonel through the body, inflicting a mortal wound, but as he fell he held the flag he loved so well with a firmer grasp, clasping it in his arms and pressing it to his heart. The rebel soldier too went down, his brain pierced by a bullet from Major Hall's revolver.

THE GREAT BATTLE OF FRIDAY.

Boom! boom! Two guns, deep and heavy, at four o'clock. It was a cloudy, sultry morning. The clouds hung thick and heavy, and came down low upon the hills. Two more, and then more rapidly than the tick of a pendulum came the concussions. The cemetery was hid from sight by the thick sulphurous folds rolling over and over, unfolding and expanding. Without cessation, increasing in force and intensity, was the cannonade, breaking the stillness of the morning and drowning all other sounds. Riding up the turnpike near to the batteries, I had a good view of what was going on.—Gen. Sickles, borne on a bier, was passing to the rear. He had suffered amputation. Behind him was a large number of prisoners also passing to the rear, taken in the fight upon the left the evening previous. Some were haggard and care-worn, some indifferent, some sulky, and some others very jolly. "I have got into the Union after hard fighting," said one, "and I intend to stay there."

There were a few musket shots in the woods upon the hill from the pickets in advance. Beneath the trees were Slocum's lines, preparing to regain what had been lost during their absence. It was seven o'clock before he was ready to make the attempt to close the door. The men moved up slowly, but determinedly. The rebels were in pits and a furious fire began. A thin veil of smoke rose above the trees and floated away before the morning breeze. More rapid was the fire of musketry, more terrific the cannonade. Ewell was evidently determined not to be driven back. He held on with dogged pertinacity. But in vain his oath, in vain his effort. The door was closed, the rifle pits regained. Ewell was driven back inch by inch, up Rock creek, and the line was intact.

A dragoon came dashing in from the Bonaughton road with the information that the rebel cavalry was coming down upon the turnpike to capture our trains. Gen. Pleasanton's compliments to Gens. Gregg and Kilpatrick. He desires Gen. Gregg to check Stuart on the right and protect the trains. He also desires Kilpatrick to sweep down beyond Round Top and feel of the enemy in the direction of Fairfield Gap.

"That's good — first-rate," is Kilpatrick's exclamation. He rubs his hands with satisfaction as you have seen children at unexpected pleasure. His eyes gleam. His face lights with smiles. His division is close by and in five minutes you see his long column of horsemen defiling along Rock creek, ascending the bank, sweeping over the fields and disappearing in woods beyond Round Top.

A half hour passes and you see far down toward the hills of the Cacoctin, the pillars of smoke rising above the forests, and you hear the sullen roar from his light battery. He is upon Longstreet's flank, pushing on, evidently troubling that General.

Gregg has gone north, and is at it with Stuart. Riding up the Bonaughton road we find him in position, sending shells over a long stretch of field into the rebel column, just visible in the edge of distant forests. Stuart replies and retires. He would like to get at that long line of wagons coming in, but is thrust back unceremoniously.

I must pass over the two attempts of the enemy on the left flank. I do not attempt to give a history of the three days' engagements, but simply an outline. Twice during the forenoon of Friday there were attacks which were successfully repulsed.

I could hear at times far off to the north a dull report of artillery, and could see little handfuls of smoke in the air in the direction of Carlisle. It was not Gregg, neither Kilpatrick nor Buford, for they were otherwhere. Who then? Couch or Smith, coming down on Lee's flank? What he has to do must be done quickly. He will have a new foe at hand to-morrow. There are signs of the coming struggle—ammunition going up to the batteries, boxes of spherical shell, grape and cannister.

You see movements along the enemy's lines—troops taking position south of Dr. Schumacher's. The forenoon passes. Between one and half-past one a rebel battery north of the seminary fires a gun, and then all along the rebel line, from the right to the left, the rebel batteries pour a concentrated fire upon Howard's position. The lines cover an hundred and eighty degrees of the circle.

Their intention is well understood—to silence Howard's batteries because they enfilade the attacking force ready to move over the fields toward the centre—our weakest point. If they can give to the living a quiet as profound as that of the sleepers beneath the ground, molding to dust, they may hope to break through the thin line of men at the Second corps.

But Howard is not the man to keep silent at such a time without especial cause. It rains, hails, pours upon him. His batteries and horses are knocked to pieces, the tomb stones are knocked over, iron railing torn, shrubs and trees cut down, here and there a limb damaged, but is not silenced. He keeps at it coolly and spiritedly. Not only Howard's, but all the batteries along the lines of both armies are in full play.

Howard allowed them to think that they had silenced him. He slackened fire to allow his guns to cool. The time has come for Lee to make his last grand effort. Stand then by the cemetery and look south along the lines. Across the meadows, emerging from the woods, is a long line of skirmishers in double ranks. Behind you see the first attacking force and then the second attacking force. The lines are long and straight. They march excellently. The ranks bend over a hillock, dip into a hollow, but are unbroken. The open field is a half mile wide. Solid shot plow through them. Shells make great gaps. Men toss their arms wildly and fall headlong, but the movement is still on. The movement mainly is against the Second, Third and Fifth corps. Hill, Longstreet and Anderson's reserves are expected to be there—forty thousand men. The Second corps is like a thin blue ribbon—a single line. The men are kneeling in the rifle-pits—not in reverent acts of worship, but to shelter themselves from the fire of the foe. Forty pieces of cannon cut and gash the line of men in blue.

General Gibbon—in command of the Second, now that Hancock is wounded—walks composedly along the ranks. "Hold your fire, boys—they are not near enough yet," is his command. Still nearer, and then, with bayonets at the charge, they sweep up to the rifle-pits. A line of fire flashes suddenly from the ranks of the Second. Scores, hundreds of rebels go down, but they do not falter. They charge over the pits. Gibbon orders his men to fall back to the rear of the batteries. It is done, without confusion, to allow the artillery the privilege of using grape. Still on, up to the muzzles of the guns. They are blown away—mangled, torn, piled in heaps.

They move to their right. Their flank is perhaps 15 rods distant from Howard. The time has come for a decisive blow. Forty pieces of artillery pour grape and canister into the ranks. They melt away. You cannot burn a straw in a candle flame with greater rapidity. Their courage, determination, bragadocia and bravery triumph. They flee. The plain is a mass of discomfitted rebels. The ground is thick with dead. They lie thick as fallen leaves of autumn.

The enemy was repulsed—now was the time for action. Webb's brigade, without waiting for orders, dashed into the flying mass and came back with eight hundred prisoners. Stannard's brigade of nine months Green Mountain boys, their uniforms clean and new, improved the opportunity and took as many more.

The Massachusetts 15th, reduced to two score of men, rushed into the melee and came back with four stand of colors. Hall's brigade, including the 19th and 20th Massachusetts, the 7th Michigan, and a Pennsylvania regiment, captured eleven colors.

When the fight was most terrific, Col. Hall, commanding the brigade, quietly ordered the color bearer of the 15th Massachusetts to advance upon the enemy alone. It was like an electric impulse. It thrilled the entire line. Men forgot that they were on the defensive, and without an order from a commanding officer, the line, as if bent on one common purpose, surged ahead. Thousands of bayonets flashed in the beams of the setting sun. Then came a wild hurrah, and the mass of rebels melted away over the plain.

THE RETREAT.

The invasion of the North was over, the power of the Southern Confederacy broken. There at that sunset hour I could discern the future—no longer an overcast sky, but clear, unclouded starlight—a country redeemed, saved, baptized, consecrated anew to the coming ages.

All honor to the heroic living, all glory to the gallant dead! They have not fought in vain, they have not died for nought. No man liveth to himself alone. Not for themselves, but for their children, for those who may never hear of them in their nameless graves, have they yielded life—for the future—for all that is good, pure, holy, true, just—for humanity, righteousness, peace—for paradise on earth—for Christ and for God—they have given themselves a willing sacrifice. Blessed be their memory forevermore.

☞ It is often a nobler work to conquer a doubt than a redoubt.

The Wizard.

WEDNESDAY, JULY 15, 1863.

SUMMARY OF THE WEEK.

As we thought it would soon be, when we ere footing up the column last week, so it has rned out—Vicksburg is ours! That key, if u please, to De Soto's discovery, is in Uncle m's bundle—that mouth through which so uch nutriment has gone to rebeldom is lock- wed. No more will it open and shut at the lition of treason's appetite. This was the ay the gallant Grant and his host celebrated e 4th of July—putting Vicksburg as a rebel ty into the preterit — Vicksburgus fuit. hile Grant was thus hitting the rebel right, to speak, Gen. Meade was earning the meed praise by entertaining the rebel left led by ce. It was not such an entertainment as Lee ad counted on. The price of his admission to oyal soil was extremely high. It cost him at ast one-fourth of his army (say 25,000,) the emoralization of another fourth of it and a aking of the confidence of the rest. That aid on which such high hopes were built— hich was to be the superstructure whereof Vashington, Baltimore, Philadelphia, and pos- bly New York, were to be the pedestal, may e summed up thus: Rebellion, thy name is Defeat! The enterprise of great pith and oment—its currents turned away—has lost he name of action. We say this in view of he two Burgs and because Gen. Meade is fol- owing up his advantage with a firm hand and vith a full appreciation of the importance of what the Romans called, "using victory." Lee in his yearning for "old Virginny" has been hard pressed—in fact, stopped, not on chosen ground, where it would seem he must give battle with a decimated army dispirited by defeat, and, if accounts are true, not over- stocked with ammunition or rations. Possibly he may succeed in crossing the Potomac, but in making that passage Meade will be likely to inflict serious damage on him, so that whether he gets back to his native soil or not, it alto- gether looks as if the days of his glory (?) were numbered.

July 4th was further celebrated by General Prentiss, who, with some 4000 men repulsed thrice that number of rebels under Price, Holmes and Marmaduke, at Helena, Arkansas. Our side took 1000 prisoners and 1200 stand of arms, the rebel loss in all being some 2500. It is a good thing to be able to repulse thrice our number, but as the chances are against doing it, it is better to match the enemy numerically.—An assault made by the rebels on Donaldson- ville, La., was handsomely repulsed by our troops.

The draft has prevailed during the week and the mortality has been great. The victims are numbered by thousands. The only sure escape from the epidemic is money, matrimony and antediluvianism. Many have wished they had "a thousand a year"—many that they were married, or had a thousand children—many that they had been sooner born and not a few have thought it would have been better had they never been born at all. Meanwhile the country rejoices in statistics as they are. O hard-hearted country!

Thirty thousand black troops in the field and they are still coming. They prove good fight- ers, believing (who doubt it?) that "who would be free, themselves must strike the blow."—The Washington Star says that in three months the surrender of Vicksburg gives 100,000, if not 200,000, additional black troops.

The rebel Morgan, with some 7000 of his myrmidons, has invaded Indiana and captured the town of Salem, taking 500 prisoners, less or more and doing other damage to rail- roads, etc. But the raid will be only ashes to the raid projectors. The Hoosiers are spring- ing to arms in grand shape and the desperados will soon find they have gained but little nor gained that little long. The best medicine for our sick Union proves to be that decoction called "raid," put up by a house in Richmond, whose war cry is, "carry the war into Africa!" It is the pulse-quickener and blood-invigorator of the North. If we were going to write poor verses, we should say:

Let eloquence with blust'ring voice appeal,
"To arms!" and cry, "God save the common weal!"
To rouse the Union's heart and whet her blade,
Give us a regular Pennsylvania raid.

It was ascertained last week what that big meeting at Concord, N. H., was held for. It turns out that it was to build a mausoleum for Frank Pierce; the exercises of the occasion were appropriately terminated by interring that deceased personage in it. Thus there are now but two surviving ex-Presidents—James and Millard.

We shall tell our readers about the fall of Port Hudson next week.

The "Alabama" continues to be heard from, and something is beginning to be done in self- defence of some of our Atlantic ports. Poor suffering Gloucester is a little encouraged.—Would she were more.

They are popping peace propositions again. They are urged now in the name, not of merey but of magnanimity. M also stands for mean- ness. What do you say to that, gentlemen?

A copperhead organ says that, because Alex. H. Stephens was not received into the Presi- dent's parlor with many a bow and politeness, we slammed the door in the face of our mis- guided brethren, who were kindly ringing the door bell for re-admission into the Union, or words to that effect. Good! If we have got up to the slamming point there is no danger. When Alex. H. Stevens and his confreres will lay down their arms, there will be no door-bell ringing. We shall throw open the doors and ring the meeting house bells, and say welcome!

What has been not unexpected has occurred in that wicked city of New York, viz: a vio- lent resistance to the draft—in short, a riot. Such an occasion is to be deeply deplored, but it can avail little in staying the onward move- ment of the Union cause. It only shows the desperation of Copperheadidity, as raids show that of southern rebels. To use a forcible fig- ure of Wendell Phillips, as applied to another matter, these resistances to the draft will be as they tell as a heavy mass of iron is when lodg- ed on the surface of the cataract of Niagara. "Niagara tosses it like a chip and bears it on- ward." Behind the conscript act is the mighty power of a mighty cause, and resistance is peril.

☞ The letter of our New York cor- respondent was not received in season for our last paper, but it will not the less repay reading.

SUPPORTING THE GOVERNMENT.

"Resolved that we will support the Government in all its constitutional measures;" and "resolved that we are in favor of putting down this rebellion by all means known to civilized warfare," is the stereotyped speech of all conven- tions, mass-meetings and the like held by that class of the Northern people to whom is now quite generally applied the epithet of Copperhead. By the first re- solve the Government is to be supported, if its measures are constitutional accord- ing to us, the resolvers. This of course leaves a margin for treasonable things as wide as Jeff. Davis or any of his fol- lowers ever had or asked. By the second resolve it is consented that the rebellion may be put down, if the blacks are not armed, but are meanwhile kept securely enslaved, and if —— ——. We think there is no question, by this time, but that is what is meant by resolve second.

Respectfully now we suggest if it would not sound a little more patriotic, a little more Union-saving, Constitution- loving and (pardon the word) sensible, if the resolves should read thus:—Resolved that we will support the Government to whose hands the affairs of the country, for the time being, have been constitu- tionally committed by the people, be- cause the presumption, at least, is that the Government is constitutionally dis- posed and that its chiefs are tolerably well-learned and well-inclined, and be- cause by no other course, in the midst of this destroying rebellion, do we see cer- tain safety for the country and the Con- stitution. And resolved that we will put down this rebellion by war.

Talk of "civilized warfare!" Who are you, gentlemen, that you address your fellow-citizens—to whom the people have entrusted the Government—as if they were barbarians? What superior civilizing influences have you had that you assume to sit in judgment as to what is or is not civilization? We object to the assumption, and we must either pity the blissful ignorance of those, who use the phrase, or else conclude that by "civilized warfare," is meant no war at all. Who has proposed a warfare other than civilized? Who, if he propose it, can carry it on? It needs but common reading to understand that a people will wage a war civilizedly, according to the degree of their civilization. War will assume different phases and be character- ized by different measures and severities, according to circumstances, but the hu- manity of its conduct, its relieving fea- tures, will be in the ratio of the humanity and civilization of the belligerents. One war is not a repetition in manner and character of another, because circum- stances do not repeat themselves. Nor is what was civilized warfare a hundred years ago necessarily so now. The world moves. The incorporation of this phrase, "civilized warfare," into all the hum- drum resolutions of the last two years would seem to imply that we were about to relapse from the noon-tide of civiliza- tion into barbarism. That, thank Heaven! is not the direction of things. Much less is it the direction of events in this war of ours. When the drift of a war— though not the main purpose as pursued by the belligerents—but the drift of the war as brought about by the circum- stances of the case, is to break chains and enlarge the number of freemen, never fear for civilization. And when a war puts arms into the hands of those, who would and ought to be free, never fear that the future will call the warfare un- civilized.

As we like to see people say what they mean and not lumber their meaning with sounding phrases and balderdash, we venture to offer for the consideration of all Copperhead meetings in the future the following whereases and resolves:

Whereas we are fixedly opposed to the Government, because Abraham Lincoln is at the head of it and does not take our advice on most matters; and where- as we are chronically disposed to resist the progress of the age; and whereas it will not answer to do these things in the manner of the rebels, so called, with whom we cordially sympathize, lest the people despise us and the Government chastise us; but whereas, from long practice, we are so schooled in the art of special pleading that in the name of the Constitution we can be about as rebel- lious as the rebels in chief and at the same time save our necks, therefore,

Resolved, That we will break down the Government by all the means con- sistent with our purpose to install in the office of the Presidency a Brockinridge Democrat.

Resolved, That we are opposed to the war because thereby hangs a tale—the end of slavery.

☞ By a close examination of the list of drafted in South Danvers, we should judge that there would be full 50 per cent of exempts; and that at least 50 out of the 79 required would pay their $300, and clear the PRESENT call.

☞ We regret that the pressure on our columns prevents the publication this week of a very interesting camp journal as kept by our townsman, a surgeon in the 1st Mass. Cavalry.

☞ "Is there any common ground upon which the administration can place itself with dignity, with self-respect, and challenge the support of the Democratic party, and thus secure unanimity, or transfer the responsibility to the Demo- cratic party?" is the question asked by the Essex Statesman Saturday, June 20th; and on the same day, in the same article, and with the next breath the Statesman answered the question thus:

"It is perfectly clear that some things will prevent the accomplishment of the object."

Now that organ says this was its answer:

"We believe there is one spot—one cherish- ed, holy spot—on which all loyal men can meet—and we believe there is but one. That holy ground is the Constitution of the United States."

Very well. Then the Statesman, in the same article, gave to the same ques- tion two answers diametrically opposite, and gave each answer as matter of its belief! If our neighbors thus choose to confess their own stultification, we cer- tainly have no objection. As to the Constitution being the common ground on which all loyal people may take their stand and save the country, we have only to say, this is our faith, strong and abiding, and great will be the public satisfaction when it becomes the faith of such journals as the Statesman, with works. It is not the practice of the "Republican WIZARD"—that is not our name, but the Statesman is not particular about facts—to honor the Constitution by the use alone of "holy" epithets. We believe there is a better way of re- specting and preserving that instrument, namely: by reading it in the spirit of Freedom and obeying it in the spirit of justice. Whoever does this now when the Constitution needs friends, will rise superior to the appellations of Repub- lican and Democrat, and merit the fairer and more enduring name of patriot. The Statesman, in its article above quoted, handles with surprising felicity that old Locofoco blind—"the democ- racy." Five times this ridiculous note is sounded in so many consecutive sen- tences. With striking somersaults to be sure, you would think the old Whigs and Locofocos were at it again. When it is considered who are understood to be the conductors of this organ of "democ- racy," if anybody can help laughing, please let him rise! What the Post and kindred sheets think of this blushless use of their ancient thunder, we are not apprised, but suspect. Of course the Post's eye twinkles complacently, but that old Laocoon is duly distrustful of all wooden horses, and whatever pretty things he may say to these present-bear- ing Greeks of Salem, he will be all the time saying to the Trojans—

"——Equo ne credite, Teucri Quidquid id est, timeo Danaos et dona ferentes."

BURKE AND COPPERHEADS.

Our New York correspondent refers to the passion the Copperhead fraternity have for quoting Burke in support of their doctrines. We have to confess to much admiration for that great statesman, Edmund Burke, the Englishman—rather the Irishman, to put history right. We think we have read his speeches and most of his writings not without advantage. We remember Rufus Choate once said, not without show of reason: "Read Burke—he knew everything." At the same time we cannot but remember that in the course of his career he took and defended about as many positions in poli- tics as he lived years. Nor can we over- look the fact (undoubted amongst the highest literary authorities) that when he wrote his "Reflections" he was labor- ing under hallucination. In a word Burke, as an authority in politics, is well disposed of in the language of Thomas Moore in his Memoirs of Sheridan: "He (Burke) has left behind him two sepa- rate and distinct armories of opinion, from which both Whig and Tory may furnish themselves with weapons the most splendid, if not the most highly tempered, that ever Genius and Elo- quence have condescended to bequeathe to party. He has thus too, by his own personal versatility, attained in the world of politics, what Shakspeare, by the versatility of his character, achieved for the world in general—namely: Such a universality of application to all opinions and purposes, that it would be difficult for any statesman of any party to find himself placed in any situation for which he could not select some golden sentence from Burke either to strengthen his posi- tion by reasoning, or illustrate and adorn it by fancy."

HORSE CARS.—We have heard com- plaints about the lack of civilities on the part of some of the conductors and driv- ers on our horse cars. No doubt the company will hold all such to a strict ac- count, if passengers thus annoyed will promptly act up to the regulation, post- ed in the cars, viz: "Passengers are requested to report to the Superintendent any incivility or want of politeness on the part of the conductors and drivers."

☞ Gen. Grant always signs his name U. S. Grant, and inquiry is made, what do the initials stand for? We are in- formed that his full name is, Uncondi- tional Surrender Grant.

PERSONAL.

The return home of one of our citizens who has been absent from his native town more than seventeen years, is an incident of no little in- terest, and is calculated to give rise to various reflections. When a young man, being pos- sessed of great energy and decision of charac- ter, Mr. THOMAS HARDY left his home, full of the spirit of enterprise, to seek some wider sphere for the improvement of his fortunes. Now, in the vigorous middle-age of his life he has returned again to his friends, after achiev- ing a material success beyond his most san- guine youthful anticipations. Although he finds here great changes and an abundance of strange faces, he has a wonderful power of re- cognizing his old friends and acquaintances. The lapse of time has probably made greater changes in them than in himself. To those who knew him well, and who have advanced in life with him, he appears to have changed but little.

MR. HARDY is evidently an acute observer, He has not travelled over the world without seeing it. What he has seen makes an impress on his mind and fixes it there. He has also had personal risks and adventures in reality, such as we generally meet only in fiction. His personal narratives are eagerly listened to by those of our citizens who have access to him, and he has a happy and graphic mode of re- porting them.

He has brought with him from Copperopolis, California, (where the mines he holds are situ- ated) various valuable specimens of that rich mining region. He has also a nugget of gold weighing a little more than $50, but worth quadruple that money as a unique specimen of virgin gold. It is most curious in its form, corrugated and wavy in its outlines, showing what freaks of form may be made by the unit- ed action of fire and water. Another curiosity of the Golden State he is daily expecting to receive. It is a pair of Elk horns, the size of which may be imagined when we state that the freight money on the box containing them amounts to $96.

It is reported that some of these curiosities are intended for the cabinet of the Peabody Institute.

MOSES A. CARTLAND of Lee, N. H., died in Providence, R. I., on Sunday last. He was a poet of considerable reputation, a Quaker in religion; and we think a relative of John G. Whittier. He has been widely known as pos- sessed of much literary ability; was a teacher of some distinction; and has been an active politician of the Republican school for twenty years. At one time he was a candidate for Congress in the first New Hampshire district. He attended the late Yearly Meeting of the Friends in Newport, R. I., and was orator for the Alumni of the Friends' School.—Ex.

MR. CARTLAND was well known in this town, where there are many of his former pupils, now among our most re- spected citizens, who appreciated and loved him. We knew him as the as- sociate editor of the N. H. Journal of Agriculture, which was often enlivened by his genial wit and sound learning. He had an accurate knowledge of the principles of grammar, and doubtful question were often submitted to him, which he solved in his paper. He had a way of teaching it in a manner plain to the understanding and stripped of the technicalities and pedantry of the books. Few men pass away from earth with a name so unsullied and a memory so hon- nred as MOSES A. CARTLAND.

☞ Among the drafted in this town, are Rev. E. C. BARROWS, pastor of the Baptist church; ALBERT C. PERKINS, principal of the High School; WARREN E. EATON, principal of the Bowditch Grammar School; and JOHN S. TORR, custom house officer.

WAR CORRESPONDENCE.

WASHINGTON, JULY 6th, 1863.

FRIEND HOWARD,—A week ago last night we were ordered to Chain Bridge to repel the invader. The invader had captured a train of 150 wagons in the vicinity of Rockville, and it was reported that the city was seriously men- aced by the rebel hosts. One day's rations and 100 rounds of cartridges were delivered to each man, and in the dead of night we silently marched to the anticipated scene of conflict.—The different guards on duty around the city could not get into barracks in time to start with the regiment, so we formed a sort of rear guard. We found the regiment about two miles beyond the Bridge, opposite Fort Alex- andria, and covered by its guns. The men were lying down in the road on their arms, and as we approached, we could hear the order given to fall in, and no man to fire until he heard the order. When we came up, it was to find the men, some just rubbing their eyes open, and blindly pawing around for their weapons, others getting the position of "aim" in a style that would have made Casey's heart bleed with disappointment at the ill success of his "Tactics." Before the murderous com- mand was given however, we were recognized by the sutler, (for a creditor's eyes are gener- ally sharp) and rejoicing at our narrow escape, we mingled with our comrades and exchanged congratulations with them. A small tree had been felled across the road for a barricade, against which it was expected confederate horsemen would vainly buck.

But daylight slowly appeared, and the still- ness remained unbroken save by the orders of the captains to roll blankets, the groans of some rheumatic as he slowly essayed an up- right position, or the deliberate tones of Wil- liam as he tolls in the Adjutant's horse from the jungle. We arrived here about 9 o'clock, and guard duty again took the place of march- ing and picketing. I think there is no danger of Washington being attacked, so long as the 39th remain here. The very name is a terror to our foes, and we have never been able to run fast enough to catch them.

Fourth of July, I see by the city papers was celebrated here in an appropriate manner, al- though where the adjective comes in, we can't see. The authorities toted us from one end of the city to the other under a broiling sun, and the glass at 100°. We halted once for the Brig- adier Generals to step into Willard's to hear the news from Meade, and after saluting a Ma- jor General or two, were dismissed. How different the day from our former recollections of it? No youthful indiscretions were com- mitted as once tried the temper of the law- abiding law-expounding and law-enforcing citizens of South Danvers, on the morning of a Fourth of July many years ago; no enticing bowl of punch debtor to every fruit of the tropics for its fragrance, stood waiting for a swallow, and we were not even allowed to burn an extra pound of powder in honor of the day. Two or three of the originals met in the Cap- tain's quarters, and talked of old times, but there was not even a "Morill to adorn the tale."

The news from Meade's army to-day, is very encouraging. Cavalry, artillery, pontoons and every imaginable vehicle of war have been passing through here to-day, but for what pur- pose, no one but the proprietors is supposed to know. We are having heavy rains and the river is rising rapidly. It is now of a beauti- ful light coffee color, and tastes barn-yardish. Most people here dilute it with ardent spirit before daring to use it.

The South Danvers company is looking fine- ly. I believe there are none on the sick list.—The Hospital contains some 8 or 10 inmates, and is an example of the neatness of Nurse Simonds.

Capt. N. is well and hearty. Lieut. Wiley is on night patrol, and is doing well. We are all waiting anxiously for this war to wind up, and the order given to break ranks on Boston Common.

C. W. H.

POLITICAL SNIVELLING.

NEW YORK, July, 1863.

On the Fourth of July, while Gettysburg fields were streaming with the sacred blood of our brave soldiers, the leaders of the opposition party were congregated in our Academy of Music ostensibly to celebrate the anniversary of Independence.

On the stage sat that modest, quiet, man from Mass., George Francis Train, Gov. Sey- mour, Gov. Parker of N. J., Ex-Gov. Seymour of Ct., Pendleton of Ohio and other like poli- ticians. Our Governor delivered an oration and was followed by the Connecticut Seymour and Ohio Pendleton. One ignorant of the condition of our public affairs would have in- ferred from the language of the speakers, not that Lee was on the soil of Pennsylvania and hurling a veteran army upon the only living barrier which guarded the capital and the life of the Republic, but that Gen. Meade, under command of President Lincoln, was marching on the North to subvert the liberties and de- stroy the lives and property of the citizens.

Almost within sound of those terrible can- non that were shrieking their shell and grape through the unwavering ranks of our heroic defenders, the dull clods whined and whimper- ed their brief hour over the sins of the admin- istration. The Governor, alluding to his late military labors intimated that they were put forth in the defence of a sister State and our own State. The Federal Government is always spoken of in these meetings as of secondary importance and the State organization is laud- ed in true South Carolina style as the palladi- um of our liberties. Such dangerous roads do these time servers travel.

Some cant and some snivelling must be tol- erated, I suppose, in political agitators, but they hardly become the chief magistrate of a great State. The Governor was lachrymose in the extreme, ah, poor Liberty! dreadful des- potism! lost franchises! sacred, dishonored hearth stones! transported Vallandigham!—But Lee and the rebellion, what of them?—Not a syllable—ignored entirely. The enemy is in Washington, the tyrant in the White House. The orator weeps and snivels, but for what? For the national honor disgraced by an invasion of the peaceful national territory? for the flag torn down over half of the great State of Pennsylvania? No, he sees only the North, on its back, gagged and bound and gi- gantic Lincoln preparing to devour its liberties and property at his leisure.

It is a good thing, this unparalled enthusi- asm for the elementary principles of constitu- tional liberty, but the hollowness of Copperhead devotion thereto becomes apparent when you observe that their mouths are always full of apologies for the vandals who have confederated at Richmond to destroy that liberty. It is only the first scene in their presidential play.

Burke is their favorite author. They all quote Burke. A new edition of that famous orator and statesman, with Copperhead Ameri- can notes, would have quite a sale. The Gov- ernor quoted Burke at the Academy, to show that the rebellion might have been "prevented by a compromise made in a timely and grace- ful manner." "Graceful" is the word when methods of dealing with the rebellion are dis- cussed. We ought to have graceful cannon and graceful gentlemen to shoot them, grace- ful generals (McClellan is an ideal,) graceful strategy, that is, parallel lines of operations which shall never cross ungracefully the rebel tracks; but when our imperilled Government is the subject of discussion it is defied and beaten without particular regard for grace.—Such victories as this of Gen. Meade's will dis- concert their plans, which are predicted in mil- itary disasters. Their scheme is to dishearten and by snivelling and tear-shedding when they ought to use brave, hearty words, to make the people distrustful, impatient and at last ready to fly from their imaginary evils to any change of rulers. To this end the late anniversary of American Independence was here prostituted. But before the sun of victory the copperhead visions of political success will wither. No doubt the administration understand this and will neglect no effort to save the country from snivellers as well as armed rebels.

Yours, &c.,

GREGORY.

A GOOD EXAMPLE.—A company of gentle- men, with ladies, who went from this place, one day last week, in a chowder excursion to Salem Neck, were on settling their bills as- sessed for an extra ten dollars, which went to the Soldiers' Aid Society. This is a way to be patriotic. Government, by some oversight, failed to levy a tax on pleasure-seeking. The tax may be justly due, nevertheless. At any rate, it cannot detract from the common good to show by such tokens that even in our turns of merry-making we remember those who are suffering in the cause of their country. We commend the example.

And Salem Neck, by the way, is a fine place to go to for a chowder—especially if Mrs. Welch oversees the making of it.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.—GEO. S. WALKER, (a conscript) is advertising Gent's furnishing goods at "Reduced prices."

E. T. SOUTHWICK has a few more of the cel- ebrated "National Clothes Wringers" left.

The Salem & South Danvers Railroad com- pany offer a reward of $100 for the detection of the person or persons placing obstructions on the track.

J. MAGUIRE & Co. advertises their "Cream Ale."

JAS. F. ALMY (now a conscript) is closing out his entire stock of Summer Dress Goods, at reduced prices.

A. J. ARCHER & Co. are also offering their stock of summer goods at greatly reduced prices.

THE DRAFTING BEGUN.

The drafting commenced in Salem Friday morning at 8 o'clock, at Lyceum Hall, Capt. Daniel H. Johnson, Jr. the Provost Marshal, conducting the drawing in a prompt, fair, and expeditious manner. His arrangements were very judicious, and we believe gave general satisfaction to all interested. Delegations were present from most if not all the towns of the district. The drawing was conducted as fol- lows: A large metallic revolving cylinder was placed forward on the rostrum constructed with a moveable end, or cover, which when taken off exposed the whole interior to view.—Into the cylinder thus opened the Provost Mar- shal put the slips of paper containing the names of each person liable to draft in the district then to be drawn from. An assistant was blind folded and seated beside the cylinder.

It was turned a few times and the blindfold- ed operator put his hand through a small open- ing and drew in succession five slips, the names on which were read by the Provost Marshal as they came out and immediately recorded. In this way all the names were drawn. The fol- lowing is the list of those drawn from this town, Danvers and Salem:

SOUTH DANVERS.

Daniel C Brown	Chas M Stimpson
Caleb W Osborn	John S Torr
Wesley Williams	Edward E Taylor
Chas L Peirce	Eri Littlefield
John Motley	John F Pickering
Bowman Viles	Timothy Sullivan
Christopher Docket	Jos Jacobs jr
Jas C George	Comfort E Barrows
Benj T Tilton	Milton Hyde
Warren E Eaton	Daniel B Southwick
Wm Trask	Henry Manning
Geo W Ravell	Elijah Wilson jr
Byron Goodale	Henry Bushby jr
Nathl K Hodgkins	John E Galeucia
Alfred Ward	Geo Jeffrey
Thos J Jones	Henry W Moore
Albert C Perkins	Thos T Southwick
Amos S Lane	Joel L Bacon
Daniel H Felton	Henry Lane
Thos L Putnam	Chas A Smith
Caleb T Southwick	Thos E Proetor
Joseph R Patterson	Jos A Nason
Wm Bell	Robt H Wilson
And W D Murray	Jos T Barnes
Benj F Larrabee	Geo Peirce
Benj G Osborne	Eben N Moulton
Hugh McKenney	Mathew H Mason
Edward W Jacobs	Abraham H Fisk
Thos E Cressy	Geo Upton
Geo A Farnham	Sam H Ormsby
Francis Seeley	Edward S Towne
Sylvester B Williams	Chas H Dodge
Samuel A Newhall	Webster Twiss
John P Winchester	Chas E Whidden
Nathan H Poor 2d	Chas E Moore
Saml H Buxton	Asa Galeucia
Henry K Boynton	Chas N Beedee
John Adams	John Shaw 2d
Geo F Stone	Geo Twiss jr
Nathl Holden	Orlando E Alley
Wm H Price 2d	Chris Campbell
Jas F Wiggins	Mich'l Cassidy
Alvah G Burroughs	Chas P Peirce
Wm F Perry	Lewis P Clark
Thos W Osborne	Henry Symonds
Jas L Smith	Walter S Lovejoy
Nathl Putnam	Geo O Peirce
Lewis B Staples	Silas A Smith
Wm C Munroe	Winsor L Clark
Jas O Whitten	Jas A Boynton
Warren A Poor	Levi W Farwell
Peter Twiss	Chas H Hayward
Geo W Bodge	Wm O'Donnel
Jos W Ferren	Dennison P Moore
Albert Dwight	Chas A Nevers
John P Rust	Bernard Flynn
Geo H Merrill	Albert W Buxton
Benj H Millett	Silas A Wentworth
Andrew N Jacobs	Chas B Porter.
Philip Bushby

DANVERS.

John Daily	Chas C Pateh
Perkins Foster	Newton S Turner
Wm J Obear	Franklin Gray
Milton A Bennet	Samuel F Gray
Geo H Fuller	Daniel J Taply
Wm A Legro	Jos B Towle
Chas H Brown	Richard Burnham
Edmund F Henderson	Wm N Sanborn
Elias A Peabody	Geo N Raymond
Jas H Battye	Edmund Legro
Geo C Johnson	Benj F Marden
Edward B Grout	Edward Mitchell
Henry C Putnam	Richard Abbott
Jos G Whitehouse	John S Learoyd
Chas A Hayward	Chas O Brackett
Porter G Nayson	Ralph Harris
Geo Lilley	Jacob B Marston
Jas Munroe	Ambrose Sopher
Alonzo A Tapley	Wm H Stetson
Warren Goodale	Cornelius Doyle
Jacob P Blackington	Wm H Southwick
Irad P Goodale	Wm Caird
Jas A C Curtis	Thos J Downs
Stephen Henderson	Thos Pulmer
George A Elliot	Thos Greig
Amos A Pope	Nathaniel P Merriam
Darling L Trafton	Nathan H Brown
Warren Thomas	Ezra W Eaton
Alonzo Fowler	Ruel B Pray
George F Leighton	Alfred P Stetson
Lorenzo D George	Geo D Goldthwait
Charles Kliham	Moses N Hunt
William H Bomer	Chas G Hobson
Charles H Peabody	Luther C Lewton
Levi J Owen	Israel R Bradstreet
Augustus Thompson	Daniel Marrs
Arthur M Black	Geo P Fairfield
Charles J Dempsey	John A Blake
Thomas Ferguson	Joseph Inman
Franklin A Batchelder	Geo W Russell
George Cheever	Alden A Dempsey
Franklin W Putnam	David H Kelley
Warren P Pateh	Eugene A Putnam
Smith Dore	John Kirby
Austin S Richards	Aaron P Tufts
Horace M Batson	Chas A Edgecomb
David A Fuller	Jas H Page
Fred'k A Wentworth	Wm E Putnam
Samuel H Seroeton	Samuel D Benson
John Swinerton	Jonas M Rollins
Isaac H Clapp	Geo H Perkins
Harrison P Bradstreet	Michael O'Connor
Lewis W Day	Patrick O'Neil
Andrew E Baker	Benj F Porter
Stephen W Roberts	Nath H Boardman
James O Fish	Jas R Hobbs
Chas E Moore	Alfred Briggs
Nelson E Jefferson	Edwin W French
Horace W Boardman	Chas A Gilman
Nathan K Cross

SALEM.

District 38—Ward 1.

John F Collier	Wm R Burgh
Nathaniel Phippen jr	Charles H Dodge
Benjamin Hersey	Samuel Ober jr
Edward A Orne	Timothy Driscoll
William Byers	John McCloy
Geo Nichols Lane	Joseph Perkins jr.
Geo H Currier	Chas H. Grey
Edward B Haskell	James L. Ward
Robert McCloy	Albert McFadden
Joseph B Osborne	Thomas S Call
Wm Bray	Charles H Collins
Samuel Grant	William A Brooks
Jacob Anderson jr	Daniel M Frye
Asa B. Perkins	Cornelius O'Donnell
Simon O Dalrymple, 2d	Clark M Scott
Daniel W Steele	Isaac B Goodwin
Wm F Gavett	William H Getchell
John Fullam	George B Lewis
John B W Russ	James Dix
Moses W Bailey	Edward S Thayer
Wm M Upton	Henry McCloy
Edward Collins jr.	Thos Cahill
Benjamin H Grant	George Henry Hill
Francis W Lyford	Henry J Adams
James A Smith jr	Samuel W Perkins
John Quinn	Charles Henry Berry
Geo O Sanborn	Nathaniel A Gray
Rufus Wendall	Samuel A Foye
David A Nichols

District 39—Ward 2.

Erastus P Greeley	Richard M Lefavour
Wm A Summers	James Kenney
Frank Kent Marston	Caleb C Johnson
Richard F Dodge	Nathaniel Kinsman
Theodore A Wyman	John W Standley
Henry K Benson	Samuel G Andrew
Thomas Taylor	Charles R Waters
Henry C Perkins	Francis Upton
Chas D Paine	Joseph A Colcord
Arthur S Rogers	Thomas H Hall
George H Nourse	Joseph W Goldthwaite
John H Downing	Benjamin A Reed
George B Phippen	Charles F W Brown
James W Averill	George J Breed
Andrew Ropes	Chas S Osgood
Charles I. Tate	Jacob C Chase
Charles P Dodge	Charles P Mason
Edward F Brown	Andrew J Tibbets
Josiah A Nason	Silas M Downs
John J Walsh	Lewis L Robbins
Benjamin F Colman	Charles P Todd
Wm A Howard	John F Brooks
Jacob C Rogers	Geo A Burnham
Chas Woodbury	Samuel S Southward
Nathaniel Weston jr	Edward Tucker
Charles H Upton	Joseph C Kehew
Charles Ray Palmer	Amos F Smith
John Henry Cook	Edward T Abbott
Jesse W Lewis	George Fowler
George T Chipman	Joseph H Millett jr
Joseph H Brooks	Nathaniel J Holden
George C Goldthwaite	Franklin S. Story
Aaron Augustus Smith	Wm Landergan
John C Works	John Newcomb
Benjamin I Henderson	John W McKenzie
Joseph Price	Wm Henry Rice
Edward C Peabody	C Warren Brown
David Campbell	David B Newcomb
James Fallon	David Pingree
James F Gwinn	George A Peabody
Edward C Cheever	Augustus M Haskell
Nelson H L Moulton	William R Pickman
Charles P Osborne	Chas C Burbank
Edward B Spalding	Wm Fernandez
William L Kinsman	George B Lefavour

District 40—Ward 3.

Samuel Johnson	Frederick Creamer
Orrin F Thompson	Benj Newhall
Walter A Keazer	Stephen H Phillips
Wm Stone jr	Isaac Call
Hiram B Goodhue	William Foster
Cyrus Parsons	Charles Morris
George A Fuller	Daniel Lowe
Aaron W Call	T J Griffin
Henry R Stone	William Gowen
George P Emerson	Geo S Walker
Frank Millett	Patrick McBride
James Hale	Daniel S Emmerton
Langdon Ward	Edward Cox
John H Abbott	James B Eagan
Joseph W Stone	Austin Jowders
Stephen S Reed	Geo S Arrington
Charles Goldthwait	Geo F Morse
Elbertone Murray	Charles Bush
Charles H Shearman	Geo G Noah
George R Emmerton	Geo Jelley
Edward A Berry	Lewis B Moody
Augustus Lake	Jonathan Osborne
Geo Bowker	Chas H Hayward
Jona K Davenport

District 41—Ward 4.

Charles Odell	William A Knowlton
James Sprigg	Henry A Trask
John Nolan	John R Knowland
Sam'l F Southwick	John F Ferguson
Lionel S Milton	James E Reynolds
John Frost	Charles A Larabee
James B Lemon	Albert W Brown
John Dummer	Geo F Putnam
Benj T Walton	Augustus D Rogers
Dan'l Teague	Thos A Arnold
Daniel A Marrs	John F Varney
Hosea P Griffin	Henry W Ferguson
Edward E Odell	Thos M Gardner
Octavis B Shreve	John W Lefavour
Jeremiah Curtin	Samuel F Larabee
Geo F Moulton	Charles H Allen
Jos H Ross	Geo W Varney
Nath'l S Averill	Geo F Jelly
Wm T Servey	Jos F Dalton
Geo F Derby	Henry F Shepard
John H Johnson	Charles Sewall
Alfred F Ware	John H Richards
Elias W Ashby	James Frye
Wm Lummus	James A Chamberla
Charles H Weston	Thomas Griffin
James S Putnam	James Boyce
Richard J Campbell	Albert A Marshall

District 42—Ward 5.

Daniel Quinn	James M Patten
Thomas W Lacy	Aaron Shaw
Geo F Austin	William Roberts
William H Gardner	John Jackson
Edward A Day	William Symonds
Martin Ham	Franklin White
John P Browning	Charles H Elwell
Charles A Metcalf	Geo P Colman
Augustus T Trull	Thos P Russell
Micajah B Mansfield	Wm C Horton
John S Ives	Charles H Towne
Geo W Wilson	Cane Henehley
James F Almy	Patrick H Driscoll
James H Stillman	Jona D Kelly
Richard N Knight	Charles Tate
Joseph H Seaver	John L Page
William Clark	John Minnehan
Aaron Osborne	Dorliss J N Franc
Jonathan Ropes jr	Geo B Stone
Zina Goodell	William A Allen
James P Dailey	Joseph C Gomes
Geo Keyes	Edward A Wiggin
Patrick Devine	William B Clark
John Kilburn	Albert P Smith
Judson Dodge	Edward Turner
George Perkins	Geo H Pitts
Warren Daniels	Joseph Cook
Thomas Lunt	John Collins Rope
James A Mattison	Frederick L Miller
Charles M Farley	Daniel A Mudgett
James Quinn

District 43—Ward 6.

Seth Flanders	Charles T Gibney
John Caller	Walter S Dickson
William H Thing	Dennis Roderick
William Dolan	Thomas Ashby
Charles H Buxton	William M Hill
James E Phelps	William H Mitche
Alvan A Evans	John W Waters
Joseph Clark	John W Carleton
Charles H Pepper	Richard C Mannix
Charles H Ingalls	Joseph C Bolton
Geo H Davis	Timothy Putnam
Philip G Skinner	Frederick Porter
James A Sanborn	Daniel Mahoney
Geo F Tilton	Stephen W Gardn
Geo F Buxton	Henry O Roberts
Augustus C Nelles	John Drinan
Ephraim Solaris	John H Wheeler
Charles E Skinner	William Hennesse
John Henry Trefatter

DEATH OF CORP. SCANNELL.

[We have been handed the following letter, relating to the death of the above, with the request that it be published.]

Near GETTYSBURG, Pa., July 5, 1863.

To JOHN SCANNELL, South Danvers:

DEAR SIR,—It is my melancholy duty to communicate to you the intelligence that your gallant son—Corp. SCANNELL, of my company, was instantly killed by a fragment of shell during the battle fought near Gettysburg, Pa., on the third of this month. Your son passed safely through the engagement of the 2d inst., and entered that on the 3d with his usual courage and gallantry. How fatal to him was that day I need not repeat.

I cannot express my sympathy with you in your present affliction, but I trust that you will not mourn as one that cannot be comforted. Your brave son fell in defense of his country upon a day when the army of his country obtained for a sacred cause a glorious triumph, and at a time when his regiment particularly distinguished itself.

In your sorrow you have much consolation for your son has left an honorable name as a man and as a soldier, and his name will not appear the least among the many thousand heroes who have laid down their lives upon the altar of constitutional liberty and constitutional union.

His prayer book and pocket book I took from his person, and will forward them to you at the earliest opportunity; they were the only articles which he had about him of value, or capable of being sent to his friends. With unfeigned sympathy with your sorrow, and regret at the loss which his company have sustained, I remain sincerely yours,

MOSES SHACKLEY,
2d Lieut. 19th Mass. Vols., com'd'g Co. B.

P. S. Your son was buried on the field as well as circumstances would admit, and I had a headboard placed at the grave bearing his name and regiment, which is all that can be done for our dead, and far more than is possible to do for all. M. S.

JAMES F. MCINTIRE, aged 44, died at University Hospital, New Orleans, July 2d, of gun shot wounds received at Port Hudson. He was a member of Co. E, 38th Mass. Vols;—a resident of Lynn, and a native of Danversport.

AERATED BREAD.—It is claimed that this bread—unrivalled in point of sweetness and wholesomeness—is more nutritious than that made in the usual way, that it will keep much longer, and is moister and more palatable, having the taste of new bread, even when it is several days old. Mr. F. H. Kirk is agent for South Danvers, and vicinity. It can also be obtained at most of the grocery stores. Try it and see for yourselves.

SALVE AND SALVATION.—That "little pot of ointment" might have meant Grace's Salve, which cures everything on the skin in the shape of eruptions. It cures boils also, and felons, and sore breast. In short there is such an emollience about it that the ladies use it as a cosmetic. Only 25 cents. See advertisement in another column.

Lost!

A nice CARRIAGE BLANKET was lost last Thursday Evening, between Park Street and the stable of the subscriber.

A suitable reward will be paid when returned. JOHN MOULTON.

CAMBRIC EDGINGS AND INSERTINGS.—A full stock of Cambric Edgings and Insertings in new and desirable patterns, just opened at J. P. PEABODY'S; also a full line of White Cambrics, Jaconets, Lawns, Book Muslins, &c., &c. His 29 cent Collars are worth remembering.—Examine his new goods. 220 Essex street.

☞ Best American Pins 5 cts.—Best White Spool Cottons, glazed, 6 cts.—Nice Honey Soap 5 cts.—Castile Soap 8 cts.—Rose Soap, 2 cakes for 5 cts.—Best Worsted Braids, 8 cts.—Everything at prizes to correspond, at PEABODY'S, 220 Essex st., Salem.

☞ Try one of Rhoades' National Clothes Wringers, before purchasing elsewhere. For ale at the Equity Store, South Danvers. See advertisement.

☞ The extraordinary success of Dr. Ham's Invigorating Spirit, seems to stir up an army of Tonics, Bitters, and Cure Alls; but as a general thing they are like the Morning Glory—look very fine in the morning but wilt before the day has past. The Dr has been before the public for years; his Dyspepsia Remedy has been tested and not found wanting; it acts on the Liver, Stomach, Head and the whole system; it is good at all times and for everybody.

MANUAL FENOLLOSA,
TEACHER
OF THE
Violin, Piano and Singing,
Music Rooms, No. 7 Central Street,
SALEM, MASS.

Hunnewell's Great Remedies.

WHAT EVERY FAMILY SHOULD HAVE IN THE HOUSE AND WHY;

☞ They should have HUNNEWELL'S UNIVERSAL COUGH REMEDY, because it effectually cures Colds, Whooping and Common Coughs, Sore Throat, Hoarseness, and is the most simple and perfect Soothing Syrup in the world. For old and young, by day and night, it may be used with the greatest freedom, and three-fourths of the deaths by Consumption stopped.

They should have HUNNEWELL'S TOLU ANODYNE, because it is a perfect remedy for Neuralgia, Nervous or Sick Headache, Tooth, and Earache, Pain in Stomach, or Bowels, Genuine Cholera Morbus, Rheumatism, Distress after Eating, Nervousness, Hysteria, and the chief of all causes of disease, and Insanity, Loss of Sleep. Its character, though active, is simple; its action in perfect conformity to nature; its end cure, or relief.

For the pains in Monthly Menstruation a perfect relief, while nature's after work is not disturbed, and one of the most important points in Medicine.

They should have HUNNEWELL'S ECLECTIC PILLS, because with seldom but a single Pill for a dose all derangements of the Stomach and Bowels are cured. They cure Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Headache, when caused by foul stomach, Loss of Appetite, Biliousness, so often and so erroneously treated with Mercurials, Jaundice. For Worms a sure cure.

They act simple, assist nature, do not make a Pill Box of the stomach, as is the most fatal error of taking so many Pills at a dose: and then, what is important to every Family and every Purse, one bottle goes as far as two or three of what is ordinarily sold.

The confidence of all is asked to test
Hunnewell's Universal Cough Remedy.
Hunnewell's Tolu Anodyne.
Hunnewell's Eclectic Pills.

☞ Fac-simile of J. L. Hunnewell's signature over corks of genuine only.

JOHN L. HUNNEWELL, proprietor,
9 Commercial Wharf, Boston, Mass.
George E. Meacom, Agent for Danvers.
For sale by all dealers in Salem and vicinity.
Apr. 1, 1863—1 y

☞ Visit OSBORNE'S Store, and look at the unusual variety of new styles in HATS and CAPS—191 Essex street.

PEABODY'S PRICE LIST OF SUN UMBRELLAS:

14 inch Steel Frames,	$1 20;
14 inch Steel Frames,	$1 20;
16 inch Steel Frames,	$1 50;
18 inch Steel Frames,	$1 75;
20 inch Steel Frames,	$2 00;

SUN UMBRELLAS
—at—
Reduced Prices,
—at—
JOHN P. PEABODY'S.

M. FENOLLOSA,
TEACHER OF MUSIC,
LETS.....PIANO FORTES, at the lowest rates;
SELLS.....PIANO FORTES, at the Manufacturers Prices;
EXCHANGES....PIANO FORTES, on the easiest terms;
At Rooms No. 7 Central street,
feb 11 SALEM, MASS.

Port of Danvers.

Ar 2d, schs Ada Herbert, Linehan, and Geo R Lunfair, Snow, New York; 7th, Georgia, Alley, Bangor; 9th, Niger, Thompson, Rondout; 13th, Br sch H O Warren, Clementsport.

Marriages.

In this city, July 1, by Rev Mr Hartney, Mr W Honnell to Miss Margaret A Burton; 5th, by Rev Mr Winn, Mr George O Samborn to Miss Sarah Ellen, daughter of the late Capt John B Osborn; 6th, Mr Wm Cook of Boston, to Miss Almyra, daughter of Mr Peter Ames, of S; 11th, by Rev Dr Emerson, Mr Orrin R Evans to Miss Annie M H Conway.

In Lynn, July 1, by Rev Mr Wright, Mr Warren A Galeucia of South Danvers, to Miss Mary J Batchelder of L.

Deaths.

In Salem, July 6th, Mr Stephen Symonds, 72½ years; Mr Luke Killonn, 40; 8th, Miss Augusta Lamson, daughter of the late Mr Robert Trofatter, 19 yrs 11 mos 8 ds; 10th, James W Stocker, 23¾ yrs; 12th, Mrs Mercy L, wid. ow of the late Mr Samuel Ferguson, 60; 13th, Mrs Lucetta M, wife of Mr Henry W Perry, 30 years.

In Middleton, July 9, of heart complaint, Mr Samuel Weston, 63.

In Milton, July 12, Mr Edmund Ryan, printer, 24 years.

Advertisements.

AT REDUCED PRICES.
GENT'S SUMMER UNDER - SHIRTS, DRAWERS, HOSIERY, GLOVES, TIES, &c., &c.,
FOR the balance of the season, can be bought at Low Prices, at
GEORGE S. WALKER'S,
Gent's Furnishing Store,
july 15 228 Essex Street, Salem, Mass.

SUSPENDERS.
COMMON, Medium and Superior qualities, at the lowest prices, at
GEO. S. WALKER'S, 228 Essex st.

Gent's Linen Handkerchiefs.
PLAIN, Col'd and Hem-Stitched—for sale by GEO. S. WALKER,
Dealer in Gent's Furnishing Goods,
jy 15 Opp Eastern Railroad Station.

THE CLOTHES WRINGER.

RHOADES' CELEBRATED
NATIONAL CLOTHES WRINGER,
THE VERY BEST YET INVENTED,
AND REALLY A LABOR SAVING MACHINE.
CALL AND EXAMINE.
For Sale by C. T. SOUTHWICK,
At the EQUITY GROCERY STORE,
South Danvers, July 8, 1863.

$100 Reward!
A REWARD OF ONE HUNDRED DOLLARS will be paid by the Salem and South Danvers Railroad Company, to the person giving the information by which any one shall be convicted of placing stones or other obstructions upon their track.
W. P. PHILLIPS, Pres't.
Salem, July 15, 1863.—3w

CREAM ALE.

THIS Ale is highly recommended by Physicians for
FAMILY USE AND INVALIDS.
Put up in Half Barrels and Barrels,
And for sale by
J. MAGUIRE & CO.,
No. 6 Derby Square, Salem.

Also, Agent for
MASSEY & COLLINS'
PHILADELPHIA ALES,
BUCKHART'S
CREAM ALE,
And Dealer in
LONDON PORTER, SCOTCH ALE, Atkinson's Wormwood Cordial, Drake's Plantation Bitters, &c., &c.

J. MAGUIRE & CO.,
july 15 No. 6 Derby Square, Salem.

NEW BOOKS,
AT G. M. WHIPPLE & A. A. SMITH'S.
NANETTE and Her Lovers, by Talbot Gwynne, author of "The School for Fathers;"
North American Review, for July;
The Drummer Boy, a Story of Burnside's Expedition, by author of Father Brighthopes;
Mrs Kemble's Journal of Residence on a Georgia Plantation;
Skirmishing, by author of "Who Breaks, Pays;"
Who Breaks, Pays;
Frank Leslie's Ten Cent Monthly.
jy Sign of the Five Golden Books.

EMANCIPATION HYMN.
QUARTETTE and Chorus—composed and dedicated by permission to the Salem Union League, Manuel Fenollosa—for sale by
jy 15 G M WHIPPLE & A A SMITH.

WALLETS.
NEW and desirable patterns—just received by
jy 15 G M WHIPPLE & A A SMITH.

SAUCE PANS AND KETTLES.
A full stock of Enamelled Kettles and Sauce Pans, just opened at
jy 15 S C & E A SIMONDS',
32 Front street.

WIRE COVERS.
WIRE Dish Covers in sets of five, at
S C & E A SIMONDS, 32 Front st.

John P. Peabody.

Closing Out Sale.

OUR Stock is now very large and full of the best and most desirable Goods, and in order to reduce it as much as possible we have concluded to commence our

CLOSING OUT SALE'

one week earlier than is our usual custom; and we shall during this sale offer our Goods at such prices that they will be sure to sell, making it advantageous to all to give us a call.

JOHN P. PEABODY.

LACE
GOODS.

EXTRA BARGAINS.

Real French Needle Work Collars 25c—value 50 cents;
Real French Needle Work Collars 29c—value 62 cents;
Real French Needle Work Collars 35c—value 75 cents;
Real French Needle Work Collars—42 and 50 cents;
Real Guipure and English Thread Lace Collars;
Black Grape—Grenadine and Lace Collars;
In this department we shall offer many decided bargains.

JOHN P. PEABODY.

RIBBONS
AND FLOWERS.

STILL AHEAD.

Our Customers should remember that we are always the first to Mark Down and the last to Mark Up—that our prices are governed by the market value of the goods rather than the cost—that we do not believe in monopoly—that every body who is going shopping will be the gainer by calling and examining our stock, if only to Post Up—in quality and prices.

SUN
UMBRELLAS.

READ THE PRICES.

Best Glazed Spool Cottons—200 yds—warranted—6c;
Best Black English Thread—banks 4cts;
Best American Pins—full papers 5 cts;
Best Worsted Braids—5 yd pieces—warranted, 8 cts;
Best Gold Eyed Sewing Needles—warranted, 6 cts;
Best Gold Eyed Sewing Needles—5 papers for 25 cts;
Very Heavy Crochet Net—usually 42c, 25 cts;
Good Cotton Hosiery—Ladies' sizes—only 15c;
Nice Cotton Hosiery—Ladies' sizes—only 25c;
Everything at prices to correspond with the above. JOHN P. PEABODY.

HOSIERY
AND GLOVES.

NEW GOODS.

We shall during the present week open the largest and choicest stock of Cambric Edgings and Insertings ever shown in Salem, to which we invite your early attention. We shall also open a full line of Black Edgings, Lace Veils, &c, &c. As we were in New York last week, we shall be able to show the latest novelties and choicest styles.

JOHN P. PEABODY.

TRIMMINGS.

DRESS TRIMMINGS.

We have a nice stock of Quilled Ribbons—Fluted Braids—Worsted Braids—Buttons—Ribbons—Bindings—Cords—Embroidery Braids—Silk, Brocade, Rubber, Steel, Pearl, Jet, Crochet and Lasting Buttons. Our stock in this department is full, and well worth the attention of every one in want of the above goods. J. P. PEABODY.

LOW
PRICES.

This is our Semi-annual CLOSING OUT SALE. Our old customers will need no word from us as a guarantee that the prices will be the VERY LOWEST.—Our new customers will do well to call and see for themselves. Our intention is to reduce our stock to the smallest compass before taking account. As we buy for Cash and sell for Cash strictly, we are always enabled to buy and sell at lower prices than those who do both on credit.

ONE PRICE ONLY!

220 ESSEX ST., SALEM,

James F. Almy.

PRICES REDUCED.

We are closing our entire stock of
SUMMER DRESS GOODS,
MANTILLAS,
SUMMER SHAWLS,
HOSIERY,
GLOVES,
SUN UMBRELLAS,
&c., &c.,
— AT —
REDUCED PRICES.

Our stock is too well known to require enumeration, and we are assured that we have never been able to offer better prices, compared with ruling rates, than at the present time.

JAMES F. ALMY,
188 Essex, opposite Central st.
July 15, 1863.

NEW STOCK
— OF —
DRY GOODS
— AT —
No. 238 Essex street,
(Three Doors West of the Tunnel.)

THE Subscriber opened on MONDAY, May 18th,

A Fresh Stock of Dry Goods,

Consisting of nearly all the new styles of Dress Goods, Ladies' Cloths, Cloths for Men's & Boys' Wear; Shawls, Domestic and Housekeeping Goods; Sun Umbrellas; Parasols; Hoop Skirts; Hosiery; Gloves; &c., &c., &c.

☞ All the above Goods will be sold for CASH, at Low Prices.

GEORGE P. DANIELS.
Salem, May 20.

CHOICE FAMILY FLOUR,
100 BBLS. Jordan Mills Flour, rec'd this day by rail. For Sale by
GAYLE & CO.
jy 8 Phillips' Wharf.

SALEM SUPERIOR.
150 BBLS. of this favorite brand rec'd this day by rail.
For Sale by GAYLE & CO.,
jy 8 Phillip's Wharf.

BAKERS' FLOUR,
150 BBLS. Union Mills, made expressly for Bakers' use. For sale by
GAYLE & CO.,
jy 8 Phillips' Wharf.

STRAW HATS, &c.,
At No. 10 Front St. Salem.

JUST received—a large lot of STRAW HATS, which will sell at less than original cost.

HATS AND CAPS—good styles—at the lowest possible prices—viz: some that are sold at other stores for $1, for 40 cents.

BOOTS AND SHOES, for Men and Boys. Come and see.

Silver Pluted Table and Tea Spoons, at about half price.

Crockery and Glass Ware closing out at old prices.

Fancy Goods, Dry Goods, Clothing—selling at such prices as will suit; Looking Glasses, Clocks, etc., etc.

Straw and Painted Carpeting; 1 Regulator or 35 days.

☞ Now is a chance to purchase, as I am determined to sell.

BENJ. COLMAN,
july 8—3w 10 Front st. Salem.

Mothers—Take Heed!

MRS. OSBORN'S CURE FOR PIN-WORMS

GIVE no more poison to your children. Do you ever think when observing the uneasy actions of your children, that the only cause of the little sufferer's illness is worms? In nineteen cases out of twenty it is so. Of all the diseases to which children are exposed none are so fatal to them as worms. In fact, children are seldom free from them, as worms imitate the symptoms of many other complaints. They often produce alarming effects without being suspected as the cause.—The only certain cure—one of nature's own remedies, a compound of nothing but Roots and Herbs—is

Mrs. Osborne's Universal Worm Powders.

They will eradicate all worms from the system, if the directions are strictly adhered to. No more filthy vermifuge will be used by those who have once used these Powders. The active principle in all other vermifuges, Worm Killers, Syrups and Medicated Lozenges, is Mercury, as my physician will tell you. Many dealers will recommend inferior preparations, and low-priced articles, affording more profit to themselves. Be sure and obtain only Mrs. Osborne's Worm Powders. Price 25 cts. per box. Sold by D. P. GROSVENOR, Main st.
South Danvers, June 17, 1863. 3m

Tillage Land and Barn to Let.

ABOUT six acres of good level Tillage Land with a Barn, situated upon the "Cross Road" in Rockville. Any one wishing to work upon land a portion or the whole of his time will find this a rare chance.

For further particulars application may be made to either of the subscribers.

S. C. BANCROFT, So. Danvers.
JOHN H. NICHOLS, Salem.
South Danvers, Ap. 22.

FLEXIBLE WALLETS,
DESIRABLE styles, adapted for treasury notes and bills—a large and attractive assortment, at
G M WHIPPLE & A A SMITH'S.

SELLING OFF! SELLING OFF!

THE undersigned intending to close up his present business at the earliest opportunity, now offers his ENTIRE STOCK OF

Fine and Plated Jewelry,
Solid Silver Ware,
Solid Silver Ware, &c.
AT LARGELY REDUCED PRICES,
Regardless of Cost,
FOR THIRTY DAYS ONLY.

After which, all goods remaining on hand will be sold at Public Auction.

Also, for sale, all the movable fittings of said Store, including 5 solid German Silver frame Counter Show Cases; One Tilton & McFarland Fire and Burglar Proof Safe; Chairs, Desks, Stools, &c., &c.

JOSEPH J. RIDER,
2 West Block—188 Essex st.
Salem, June 17, 1863. 1m

WHITE LEAD AND LINSEED OIL,
OF the best quality—for sale at
S C & E A SIMONDS', 32 Front st.

A. J. Archer & Co

REDUCED PRICES.

A. J. ARCHER & CO.,

Offer their stock of

Summer Dress Goods,
Summer Shawls,
and Capes,

at REDUCED PRICES—to close.

Salem, july 15—tf

SUMMER SHAWLS!

We open this morning beautiful new

SUMMER SHAWLS.

— Also —

A variety of THIN DRESS GOODS;
8 4 Black Hernani and Crape Maretz;
Black Grenadine. For sale by

A. J. ARCHER & CO.,

Salem, june 3—tf.

Potter, Bachelder & Co.,
(Successors to M. Black)
DANVERS-PORT,
DEALERS IN
WOOD AND COAL

OF the various kinds usually kept in a retai yard. Constantly on hand

Franklin, Old Company's Lehigh,
Locust Mountain, Black Heath,
Red and White Ash.

Of all sizes, of the best quality, and at as low prices as can be bought elsewhere.

OFFICE---No. 6 Allen's Building.

Order Box at post office, South Danvers, and post office, Danvers.

G. W. POTTER,
J. Q. A. BACHELDER,
C. T. BATCHELDER. july 19—tf

ANN R. BRAY,
NO. 76 FEDERAL ST,
SALEM.

WE are selling out all our Black Silks;
we are selling out all our Cambric Prints;
We are selling out all our French Prints;
We are selling out all our nice Taffetas;
We are selling out all our Organdie Muslins;
We are selling out all our Lawns;
We are selling out all our Cotton Hosiery;
We are selling out all our Linen Hdkfs;
We are selling out all our Domestic Goods;
We are selling thin Dress Goods for 1s worth 25 cents;
We are selling Bleached Cottons for 12½ cts;
We are selling light Spring Prints for 1s;
We have the Quaker Skirt for ladies;
We have the Belle Point Skirt for ladies;
We have the Trail Skirt for ladies;
We have the very best Silk for Visites;
We have a full assortment of B P R Silks, which we are selling out very low.

A Card.

Having disposed of my stock and stand to Miss M. E. CRANE, I avail myself of this opportunity to request my friends and customers who have bestowed their liberal patronage upon me, to transfer the same to my successor.

In taking leave of my business friends, I would return my warmest thanks for the generous patronage I have received. I can in the highest terms recommend Miss CRANE, and would bespeak for her your kind consideration and confidence.

I would most respectfully invite those having unsettled accounts to call and adjust the same, either with Miss Crane or myself, at the old stand.

April 22, 1863. M. M. FLETCHER.

Notice.

The Subscriber having purchased of MRS. M. M. FLETCHER her stock of Goods, and made additions to the same, is now prepared to furnish her patrons and the public with a large and fine assortment of

Millinery Goods,

which we will sell very low for cash. We hope by strict attention to business to merit a liberal share of patronage. M. E. CRANE,
ap 22 cor. of Essex and St. Peter sts.

M. A. PORTER,
MANUFACTURER TO ORDER
WATCH SPRING SKIRTS,
At 236 Essex Street,
A few doors from Washington Street,
SALEM, MASS.

SPIRITS TURPENTINE
AND Benzole Spirits, for sale at
S C & E A SIMONDS', 32 Front st.

SEWING MACHINES.

PERSONS about purchasing SEWING MACHINES will find it to their advantage to consult

JOHN H. CHOATE,
SEWING MACHINE AGENT.
Over Newman & Symonds' Store, Lowell St.
Second-hand Machines bought and sold.
South Danvers, May 13—tf

SPRING BEDS! SPRING BEDS!

ALL those that are inclined to rest their weary limbs on the most luxurious

SPRING BED

that was ever invented, are invited to call at

No. 52 Main St., South Danvers,

and there see the very best SPRING BED BOTTOM that has been offered to the public.

Not having been able at first to meet the demands, I now have the facilities to supply all orders.

Having bought the right to make and vend for the county of Essex, the subscriber would be happy to supply all those who may favor him with a call.

Rights for sale for any town or city in the county except Haverhill and Lawrence.

THOS. TRASK.

Browning & Long.

Embroidery Sale.

LOW PRICES!

We are determined to close out every COLLAR we have in store, and therefore offer all at extremely

LOW FIGURES!

ALL NEW AND SELECT GOODS

NEW PATTERNS.

☞ We would invite all to call and examine our very large assortment, which we are now offering at such great bargains.

NEW GOODS DAILY.

THE LATEST NOVELTIES.

MARK THE PRICES!

Good Thread Nets,	25c;
White and Unbleached Hose,	18c;
Ladies' Colored Cotton Hose,	10c;
Nice Open-work Hose,	28c;
Misses' White and Unbleached Hose,	16c;
Children's Colored Hose,	16c;
Gent's good half-Hose,	16c;
Misses' Fancy Cotton Hose,	16c;
Nice Lisle Gloves,	15c;
Ladies' Mohair Mitts,	40c;
Cotton Border Hdkfs,	5c;
Ladies' All-Linen Hdkfs,	13c;
All-Linen Hem-Stitched Hdkfs,	30c;
Embroidered Collars,	15c;
Nice Crape Collars,	25c;
Gent's Woven Bosoms,	8c;
Bead Nets,	25c,
Fine Combs,	2c;
Children's Mitts,	15c;
Nice Embroidered Gloves,	15c;

and many others in like comparison.

JUST OPENED.
New LINEN EMBROIDERED SETS;
Something entirely new in plain LINEN Goods;
Tucked and Fancy Bordered HDKFS;
GLOVES; MOHAIR MITTS;

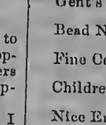
BROWNING & LONG
Essex St., 177 Essex St.,
Salem, July 1, 1863.

Quincy Mutual Fire Insurance Co.
Available and Cash Capital $500,000.
INSURES Buildings, Merchandize and Personal Property generally, on terms as favorable as any other dividend paying company.
J. D. BLACK, Agent,
april 22—1y At Danversport.

Merrimack Mutual Fire Insurance Co., Andover, Mass.
ONE of the OLD AND RELIABLE OFFICES.
J. D. BLACK is Agent for Danvers and South Danvers. apr 22—1y

---

VALUABLE REAL ESTATE.



THE Subscriber offers for sale on favorable terms,—or would exchange for a Farm,—his Estate on Wallis Street, near the Monumental Cemetary, consisting of THREE DWELLING HOUSES, which will be sold separately or as one Estate.

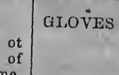
There are 75 feet of land in front, and 72 feet in the rear of the house.

The situation is pleasant, in a good neighborhood, and the houses are supplied with all the conveniences for immediate occupation. In ordinary times these tenements would rent for from 330 to 350 dollars.

The Subscriber, having made up his mind to dispose of the property, will sell it low, and it is well worth the attention of purchasers.

Apply to JOHN M'NEAL.
South Danvers, Dec. 10th, 1862. tf.

THE PIANO FORTES



THAT have attracted so much attention of late, and are so much admired on account of their SPLENDID FULL, RICH, MELLOW TONE, and GRAND FRENCH ACTION, are for sale only at the Office of the Agent,
218 Essex Street, Salem, Mass.,
where reference may be had to many who have purchased. Other Piano Fortes also, are for sale, varying in price from $180 upwards. Please call.
Mch 11 6m S. MACKINTIRE, Agent.

Choice Spring Pigs for Sale.
THE subscriber offers for sale nice PIGS of Mackie Prince Albert and Chester County breeds, of which the Mackie took the First Premium at the late Cattle Show. Prices reasonable.
BYRON GOODALE,
Near Tapley's Brook.
South Danvers, April 22, 1863. tf

PHOTOGRAPH ALBUMS.

☞ If you want to SAVE chasing Goods, go to COLMAN street. Salem.

Auction S

WILLIAM ARC
Auctioneer, Real Estate and 34 Front Stree
Real Estate, Bank, Railroad an Stock bought and sold on
ON SATURDAY NEXT, a will be sold at No. 34 Front
QUANTITY OF FUR
A reaus, Sofas, Chairs, 2 d old fashioned Clock, with day old fashioned Desk in good Beds, Mattrasses, Carpets, &c.
DRY GOODS:—An invoice
Cassimeres, Satinets, Dress
Sheetings, Russia Crash, Denim
SHOES:—Women's and Child
Also—10 doz Rattan Baskets
Market do; Rattan Mats; 8 doz etc., etc.
Also—Watches, Levers and perior Gold full jewelled Englis
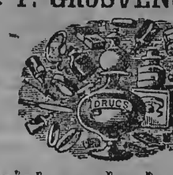
At Private Sa
An assortment of Rattan
Mats, &c., at auction prices;
Auction prices.

D. P. GROSVEN



Druggist and Ap
38 MAIN STR
Dealer in Drugs, Medicines,
Stuffs, and Popular Proprietary
Personal attention to Physici
tions.
South Danvers, May 29, 1861.

GEO. E. MEA

Dealer in DRUGS & MEDIC
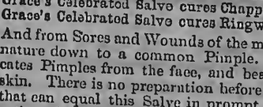
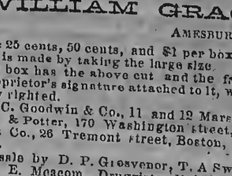
Fancy & Toilet Arti
126 MAIN ST.
Nearly opposite Danvers Bank,

T. A. SWEET



Druggist &
37 Main St.,
DEALE
Drugs, Medicine
Foreign Leech
Herbs, Dye St
Acids, Spong
der Braces,
and Genuine Pat
Also, Imported Cigars of choice bra
Toilet Articles and Stationery.
Physicians' Prescriptions carefully p
perienced persons.
37 MAIN STRE

GRACE'S CELEBRATED



A SURE RELIEF FOR THE S

This Salve is a vegetable preparat ed in the 17th century, by Dr. W
surgeon in King James's army.
agency he cured thousands of most s and wounds that baffled the skill o eminent physicians of his day, and w by all who knew him as a public be
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Burns
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Scalds
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Flesh
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Cuts.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Felon
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Frost
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Wens.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Calleu
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Salt R
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Chilbl
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Sore B
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Sore L
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Erysip
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Abscess
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Ulcers
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Chapp
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Ringw
And from Sores and Wounds of the m nature down to a common Pimple.
cates Pimples from the face, and bea skin. There is no preparation before that can equal this Salve in prompt getic action for the speedy cure of ex cases, as those who have tried its virtu
Soldiers, Sailors, and Fishermen, wil
Salve their best friend.
It has none of the irritating, heatin ties of other remedies, but cools, elea heals the most serious Sores and Every family, and especially those c children, should keep a box on hand accident, for it will save them much suffering, and money. All it wants trial to cure old and inveterate Sores.

MANUFACTURED BY WILLIAM GRAG
AMESBUR
Price 25 cents, 50 cents, and $1 per box saving is made by taking the large size.
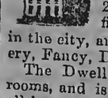
Each box has the above cut and the fa the proprietor's signature attached to it, w
ly copy righted.
Geo. C. Goodwin & Co., 11 and 12 Mars
Weeks & Potter, 170 Washington street,
Burr & Co., 26 Tremont street, Boston,
Agents.
For sale by D. P. Grosvenor, T. A Sw
George E. Meacom, Druggists, Main str
Danvers, and at country stores everywhere

To Let on Essex St.,



The STORE and DW
HOUSE connected there
250 Essex St. The store fitted up, is one of the be in the city, and admirably adapted for ery, Fancy, Dry Goods, or any light b
The Dwelling part contains nine rooms, and is supplied with water, ga all in good order and very convenient.
To a satisfactory tenant, the above
let on reasonable terms. Apply at J
LEY'S Shoe Store, next door west.

LINSEED OIL, &C.
PURE Linseed Oil and Varnishes, kinds, at
S C & E A SIMONDS', 32 Fro

WHITE LEAD IN PAILS.
1000 POUNDS New York Whit in pails of 25 lbs. each, ceived at S C & E A SIMOND

VARNISHES.
COACH Varnish; Furniture and Varnish, of the best quality, at je 17 S C & E A SIMONDS', 32 Fron

FRUIT BASKETS.
WHITE China and White Granite Baskets—at
S. C. & E. A. SIMONDS' 32 Fr

Selected.

HOW IT CAME ABOUT.

he sat in the shade of the portico,
Busy with some sweet task;
he Spanish eyes and the forehead low,
Hid by the airy masque
If the dusky hair that had rippled down
As he sprang o'er the flower-bed—
1 sooth, she had purposed to frame a frown,
But she framed a smile instead!

Ie took her hand in that certain way,
More eloquent than words,
To sound fell into the silent day,
Save the chirp of the orchard birds;
Her work lay close by her side unscann'd,
The book on her knee unread—
In sooth, she had purposed to loose her hand,
But he caught the other instead!

And when with the wealth of the rosy June,
The bees to their hives had got,
He leaned, through the lull of the sleepy noon,
And whispered a—you know what!
She swayed from his earnest eyes, and low
She buried her blushing head—
In sooth, she had purposed to say "No! no!"
But she murmured "Yes!" instead!

THE "COPPERHEAD."

What is to fear from the Copperhead,
That starts and shrinks from a patriot's tread;
That squirms and wriggles in corners mean;
To vent the gall of his timid spleen?

What is to fear from the Copperhead,
That hears his own hiss with secret dread;
That would, but dare not; that hates, but fears;
And ends his fury in feeble sneers?

What is to fear from the Copperhead,
Bursting with venom he dare not shed,
And scorned by his brother Rattlesnake
That boldly strikes from the Southern brake?

What shall we do with the Copperhead?
Seed of the woman, the word is said:
Bruise his head, or your naked heel
Shall ache for the silly trust ye feel.

What shall we do with the Copperhead?
Stamp out the reptile's loathsome bed!
Trample to powder his poisoned fang!
And then, as a sign, let his carcass hang!

Strike, strike at the traitor Copperhead!
Beat up the land till the thing is dead!
Women with distaffs and boys with stones
Are stout enough for the heart he owns!

Who then shall pity the Copperhead,
When life from his lying lips has fled,
If not the father of lies in hell,
For he served that household passing well?

No one shall grieve for the Copperhead!
His Southern lord when he finds him sped,
Shall spit in his white and viscid blood,
And swear he died as a coward should!

—Phila. Evening Bulletin.

SCEPTICISM.

Men who are perfectly satisfied with their own knowledge will never attempt to increase it. Men who are perfectly convinced of the accuracy of their opinions, will never take the pains to examine the basis on which they are built. They look always with wonder, and often with terror, on views contrary to those which they inherited from their fathers; and while they are in this state of mind, it is impossible that they should receive any new truth which interferes with their foregone conclusions.

On this account it is, that although the acquisition of fresh knowledge is the necessary precursor of every step in social progress, such acquisition must itself be preceded by a love of inquiry, and therefore by a spirit of doubt; because without doubt there will be no inquiry, and without inquiry there will be no knowledge. For knowledge is not an inert and passive principle, which comes to us whether we will or no; but it must be sought before it can be won; it is the product of great labor and therefore of great sacrifice. And it is absurd to suppose that men will incur the labor and make the sacrifice, for subjects respecting which they are already perfectly content. They who do not feel the darkness, will never look for the light. If on any point we have attained to certainty, we make no further inquiry on that point; because inquiry would be useless, or perhaps dangerous. The doubt must intervene, before the investigation can begin. Here, then, we have the act of doubting as the originator, or, at all events, the necessary antecedent of all progress.—Here we have that scepticism, the very name of which is an abomination to the ignorant; because it disturbs their lazy and complacent minds; because it troubles their cherished superstitions; because it imposes on them the fatigue of inquiry; and because it arouses even sluggish understandings to ask if things are as they are commonly supposed, and if all is really true which they from their childhood have been taught to believe.

The more we examine this great principle of scepticism, the more distinctly shall we see the immense part it has played in the progress of European civilization. To state in general terms, it may be said, that to scepticism we owe that spirit of inquiry, which during the last two centuries, has gradually encroached on every subject; has reformed every department of practical and speculative knowledge; has weakened the authority of the privileged classes, and thus placed liberty on a surer foundation; has chastized the despotism of princes; has restrained the arrogance of the nobles; and has even diminished the prejudices of the clergy. In a word, it is this which has reminded the three fundamental errors of the olden time; errors which made the people, in politics too confident; in science too credulous; in religion too intolerant.—Buckle.

THE CONFESSIONS AND EXPERIENCE OF A NERVOUS YOUNG MAN.—Published as a warning and for the especial benefit of young men, and those who suffer with Nervous Debility, Loss of Memory, Premature Decay, etc., etc., by one who has cured himself by simple means, after being put to great expense and inconvenience, through the use of worthless medicines prescribed by learned Doctors. Single copies may be had (free) of the author, C. A. Lambert, Esq., Greenpoint, Long Island, by enclosing an addressed envelope. Address
CHARLES A. LAMBERT, Greenpoint, Long Island, New York.

New Jersey Lands for Sale,
— ALSO —
GARDEN OR FRUIT FARMS,

Suitable for Grapes, Peaches, Pears, Raspberries, Strawberries, Blackberries, Currants, &c., of 1, 2½, 5, 10 or 20 acres each, at the following prices for the present, viz: 20 acres for $200, 10 acres for $110, 5 acres for $60, 2½ acres for $40, 1 acre for $20. Payable by one dollar a week.

Also, good Cranberry lands, and village lots in CHETWOOD 25 by 100 feet, at $10 each, payable by one dollar a week. The above land and farms are situated at Chetwood, Washington Township, Burlington, New Jersey. For further information, apply with a P. O. Stamp, for a circular, to
B. FRANKLIN CLARK,
feb 18, 1863 No. 90 Cedar St, New York, N. Y.

TERRIBLE DISCLOSURES — SECRETS FOR THE MILLION!—A most valuable and wonderful publication. A work of 400 pages, and 30 colored engravings. DR. HUNTER'S VADE MECUM, an original and popular treatise on Man and Woman, their Physiology, Functions, and Sexual Disorders of every kind, with Never-Failing Remedies for their speedy cure. The practice of Dr. Hunter has long been, and still is, unbounded, but at the earnest solicitation of numerous persons, he has been induced to extend his medical usefulness through the medium of his "Vade Mecum." It is a volume that should be in the hands of every family in the land, as a preventive of secret vices, or as a guide for the alleviation of one of the most awful and destructive scourges ever visited mankind. One copy, securely enveloped, will be forwarded free of postage to any part of the United States for 50 cents in post office stamps or 3 copies for $1. Address, post paid, DR. HUNTER No. 3 Division Street, New York. je 3—ly

Cards.

WILLIAM C. CHOATE,
Attorney and Counsellor at Law,
251 Essex St., Salem.
Salem, August 6, 1862. tf

THOMAS M. STIMPSON,
Attorney and Counsellor at Law,
194 ESSEX STREET, SALEM.
Residence Lowell street, South Danvers.

B. C. PERKINS,
Attorney and Counsellor at Law,
South Danvers—Office in Allen's Building.

JOHN W. PROCTOR
Counsellor at Law,
Office near the Monument.

A. A. PUTNAM,
Attorney and Counsellor at Law,
CORNER MAPLE AND ELM ST.,
DANVERS.

ALFRED A. ABBOTT,
Attorney and Counsellor,
Office, No. 24 Washington Street, Salem;
House, Main St., So. Danvers.

IVES & PEABODY,
Attorneys and Counsellors at Law,
Have removed their Office to
Rooms formerly occupied by Hon. Otis P. Lord,
NO. 27 WASHINGTON STREET, SALEM,
STEPHEN B. IVES, jr. JOHN. B. PEABODY

SIDNEY C. BANCROFT,
Attorney and Counsellor at Law,
27 Washington Street, Salem.

H. O. WILEY,
Attorney and Counsellor at Law,
Office, Allen's Building, So. Danvers.

Claims against the Government for Bounty Back Pay, and Pensions, promptly attended to

A. S. CRAWFORD:
Dentist,
No. 4 MAIN STREET, So. DANVERS SQUARE
Mechanical Dentistry Neatly Executed.
Teeth Extracted by Electricity without Extra Charge

W. L. BOWDOIN,
SURGEON DENTIST,
No, 208 Essex Street, Salem, (Opposite the Market
Residence—No. 57 Washington street.
Jan 11—ly

F. POOLE
INSURANCE AGENT,
Allen's Building (up stairs),
Deeds drawn, and other common forms.

NEWMAN & SYMONDS,
DEALERS IN
Family Groceries, Flour & Grain,
HARD WARE AND CROCKERY,
Ready Made Clothing, Gents' Furnishing Goods, Hats, Caps, Boots, Shoes, &c.,
South Danvers Square, opp. Congregational Church
SAM'L NEWMAN. NATH'L SYMONDS.

S. C. & E. A. SIMONDS,
DEALERS IN
Crockery, China and Hardware; Paper Hangings; Solar and Entry Lamps; Paints, Oil, and Window Glass.
No. 32 Front street, Lawrence Place,
feb13 SALEM, MASS.

HENRY L. WHIDDEN,
HOUSE AND SIGN PAINTER,
Glazier and Paperer,
Central Street, South Danvers.
All orders promptly and faithfully executed.
jan2-1y

E. S. FLINT,
DEALER IN
West Inula Goods, Country Poduce,
No. 2 Main Street, South Danvers.

JESSE SMITH
No. 262 Essex Street, Salem,
Importer and Dealer in
Gold and Silver Watches,
MARINE CHRONOMETERS,
Aueroid Barometers, Spy Glasses, &c.

WILLIAM BLANEY,
HOUSE & SIGN PAINTER
Grainer, Glazier and Paper Hanger.
164 MAIN STREET, Corner of Grove.
WINDOWS and BLINDS cheap for cash.
mch6-tf

JOHN MOULTON,
LIVERY STABLE,
Central Street, South Danvers.
Mr. M. will endeavor to keep up the good reputation of his stable, by still keeping good Horses and Carriages. jan 7, 1863.

BILL PAPER,
OF the best patterns, at
G M WHIPPLE & A A SMITH'S.

W. E. P. SMYTH,
Attorney and Counsellor at Law,
Proctor in Admiralty, and Commissioner of Deeds for the several States.
Frazier's Building, over the Post Office,
LYNN, MASS.

Having peculiar means for prosecuting, with accuracy and dispatch, all claims against Government, especially those for Bounty, Back Pay and Pensions, I have made this a specialty. Several months' residence in Washington enabled me to become thoroughly conversant with the routine of business in all the Departments, through which claims, of whatever nature, are passed, and also familiar with the practice in the U. S. Court of Claims; in addition to which I have a partner there resident, and a former partner in the Treasury Department, which advantages give me unexcelled facilities for the successful prosecution of business in any way connected with Government.

Important to Soldiers, Marines and their Heirs.

Persons enlisted in the U. S. Service, Land or Naval, since March 1, 1861, if disabled in the service, are entitled to Pension; Relatives of Persons deceased in the service are entitled to Bounty and Pension; in the following order:

1st. The Widow. 4th. The Mother.
2d. The Children. 5th The Brothers and Sisters collectively.
3d. The Father.

LETTERS OF ADMINISTRATION need not be taken ou, in ordinary cases, to enable heirs of persons deceased in the service to obtain Pensions and Bounty.

When a discharge is granted for disability, in no case should the Oath of Identity on the back of the Discharge be filled up. The safest course is, to carry all papers at once to an Attorney, without tampering with them. All those who have claims, should present them without delay, as soon, the pressure will be so great upon the Auditor's Office, by reason of numerous applications, that applicants will be subjected to vexatious delays in getting their claims audited.

NO CHARGE MADE UNTIL CLAIMS ARE PAID.

Claims left at the Post Office, South Danvers, will be promptly forwarded.

Lynn, Aug 27, 1862—1v

CHARLES S. BUFFUM,
FURNISHING UNDERTAKER,
Central Street, South Danvers,
HAVING provided himself with a HEARSE, is prepared to attend Funerals in any of the neighboring towns, with one or a pair of Horses.
He keeps as good an assortment of
COFFINS AND CASKETS,
as can be found at any establishment, and at the lowest prices.
He will also attend to Laying Out, etc.
All orders from the neighboring towns met with prompt attention. jan 14

SLATING. SLATING.
GEORGE FOWLER & COMPA'Y,
NO. 2 ST. PETER COURT, SALEM, respectfully inform their friends and the citizens of this and neighboring towns and cities, that they are prepared to execute all orders for Slating, promptly and faithfully.
Roofs covered with any description of Slates, or repaired at short notice.
All work undertaken will be warranted.
Address—Box 366, Salem Post Office.
Salem, January 28—1863. tf

PATTERSON'S
LEATHER HANDLING MACHINE

THE undersigned are agents for the above machine. It can be seen in operation at Pinder & Brown's Tannery.
may 7—3m CLARK & CIDDINGS.

MESSRS. CLARK & CIDDINGS,
Wallis Street, South Danvers,
Are Agents for
GEORGE W. FISKE & CO.'S
PATENT EAVE TROUGHS
CUTTERS, CONDUCTORS AND
PIPE FOR DRAINS.
South Danvers, May 22, 1861.

R. C. MANNING & CO.
Successors to JOHN DIKE & CO.,
DEALERS IN
COAL, WOOD, BARK, HAY, &c,
183 DERBY STREET,
SALEM, MASS.
N. C. ROBBINS, R. C. MANNING.
oct17

FRANKLIN COAL.
JUST landed, a cargo of FRANKLIN COAL —the best in the world for domestic use.
POTTER, BACHELDER & CO.,
Successors to M. Black, Jr.
Danversport, May 6, 1861. tf

E. N. PRICE,
Manufacturer and Dealer in
HARNESSES,
SADDLES, BRIDLES,
AND WHIPS.
— ALSO —
Trunks, Valises and Traveling Bags.
All orders for Manufacturing and Repairing executed with promptness, and in the best manner.
237 Essex Street, Salem, Mass.
mch13-tf

THOMAS PINNOCK,
SLATER,
SALEM, MASS.
Orders may be left at his Yard, No. 25 Peabody St., or at his house No. 6 Hancock street, South Salem.
Roofs covered with any kind of Slates, according to order. All work warranted.
Salem, May 7, 1862. tf

CURRIER & MILLETT,
Dealers in

Furniture, Chairs,
MATTRESSES, FEATHERS, &c
259 & 261 ESSEX ST.
Salem, dec 14—1y

AARON T. LOWE,
DEALER IN
BOOTS, SHOES AND RUBBERS,
76 BOSTON STREET, 76.
aug 6 SALEM. tf

E. R. PERKINS,
PHOTOGRAPHIC ARTIST
241 Essex Street, Salem.
Patent Ambrotypes, Stereoscopes,
Photographs, Sphercotypes, Melainotypes, and patent oat'ler Pictures, of various sizes, taken with all the improvements of the art. Portraits, Miniatures, Engravings, &c., accurately copied. Views taken when desired. jan 11

HILTON'S INSOLUBLE CEMENT,
UNIVERSALLY liked—for sale by
G M WHIPPLE & A A SMITH.

Crockery Ware.
A FULL assortment of China and Crockery Ware; Wooden Ware; Table Cutlery; Tea Trays; Britannia Ware and Silver Plated Ware, &c—for sale at the General Furnishing Store for Housekeepers, No. 32 Front street.
ap 22 S C & E A SIMONDS.

CARD PHOTOGRAPHS.
RAPHAEL'S Hours, Liberty, On the Beach, Evening, Prince and Princess, etc—at
may 13 G M WHIPPLE & A A SMITH'S

H. & H. G. HUBON,
WASHINGTON STREET, SALEM
Manufacturers of
Rose Wood, Mahogany, Black Walnut and Stained Wood
COFFINS and CASKETS.
MAKING this our exclusive business, we are ready at all times and at the shortest notice to furnish Grave Clothes of various styles, as well as Coffins and Caskets of the finest finish. Personal attention given, and delivered without extra charge to any of the neighboring towns. All orders by express or otherwise will receive prompt attention.
Black Walnut and White Wood Boards, Plank and Joists for sale.
dec 14—tf

GAYLE & CO.,
GENERAL COMMISSION MERCHANTS,
DEALERS IN
Flour, Grain and Produce,
Manufacturers' Agents for the sale of
Concentrated Leaven, Soda and Pearlash Saleratus, and Bi Carb. Soda.
PHILLIPS WHARF, - - - - Salem.

T. HARDY, JR.,
—Dealer in—
DOORS, SASHES, BLINDS,
Glazed Sash, Painted Blinds,
FENCE PALES, STAIR BALUSTERS, FRAMING PINS, &c.,
No. 26 FRONT STREET,
Salem, Jannary 14, 1863—6m

HEYLINGBERG'S
Hair Dressing Saloon,
24 MAIN ST., SOUTH DANVERS.
TARIFF OF PRICES:

Shaving,	6 cts.
Hair Cutting,	12 cts.
Champooing,	15 cts.
Champooing and Hair Cutting,	25 cts.

No more new Quarterly Customers taken.
In consequence of the scarcity of Change, 18 checks will be sold for one dollar.
South Danvers, Dec 17, 1862.

THOMAS DAVIS,
ADVERTISING AGENT
For the principal New England Newspapers, remains at the old stand, No. 23 Cornhill, Boston, where you will find him still loyal to the Constitution, the Laws, and Advertising.
Boston, Jan 29, 1862. tf

WALKING MADE EASY.

DR. P. KENISON,
CHIROPODIST,
215 Washington St., Boston,
Cures Hard and Soft Corns, Bunions, Club Nails, Nails penetrating the Flesh, Warts, &c., in a manner that will satisfy the most incredulous.

SPEED, COMFORT AND SAFETY!

FOR NEW YORK.
Norwich Steamboat Train.
The only Boats Landing at Jersey City.
CABIN Passage, $5.00; Deck Passage, $4.00. The new and elegant sixteen wheel cars of the steamboat express train leave the Boston & Worcester Railroad Station, Albany Street., at 5½ P. M., daily, connecting with the new steamers, (built expressly for this line,) CITY OF BOSTON, Capt. WILCOX, Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays; CITY OF NEW YORK, Capt. JEWETT, Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays, which (before proceeding to their Pier, No. 39 North River,) will touch at the wharf of the New Jersey Railroad at Jersey City, (Sundays excepted) thus enabling Southern Passengers to make sure connections with the First Southern Train, and at the same time avoid the great annoyance of the Ferry and Hack transportation in the crowded streets of New York. This insures ample time for Breakfast before the trains leave. Conductors D. F. WALLER and W. F. BARTON accompany the passengers through.
Tickets, Berths and Staterooms secured at the Railroad Station, and at the Office of the line, 79 Washington Street, Boston.
Through tickets to Philadelphia, Baltimore and Washington can be had at 79 Washington Street, Boston. WM. DICKEY, JR., Agent.
Boston, January 7, 1863.

Chickering & Sons' Piano-Fortes.
Hallett & Cumston's Piano-Fortes.
Hallett & Davis's Piano-Fortes.

We select our Piano-Fortes from the above firms and warrant them to give perfect satisfaction. Our terms are reasonable, and all persons in the city and neighboring towns can be accommodated by calling at 76 Federal street.
FOR SALE—Second-hand Piano-Fortes,—Chickering's and others.
ap 29 ANN R. BRAY.

D. W. BOWDOIN,
—ARTIST IN—
PHOTOGRAPHIC PICTURES.
Rooms No. 175 Essex st, Salem, [Dowuing's Block]
Portraits, Miniatures, and Views, by the Ambrotypo, Daguerreotype, Photograph and Stereoscope process—finished in India Ink, Oil and Water colors.
☞ Particular attention paid to restoring old Daguerreotypes, and other pictures—and making enlarged copies, highly finished. may

E. S. FLINT,
Manufacturer and Dealer in
INNER SOLES,
AND SHOE STIFFENINGS OF ALL KINDS.
2 MAIN STREET, SOUTH DANVERS.

Just Opened,
A SUPERIOR quality corded Taffeta, at 37½ cts. All wool DeLaines, desirable shades; Domestic Goods of every description.
ap 29 ANN R BRAY, 76 Federal st.

CHINA WARE;
GOLD Band China Tea Ware; White and Lustre China do—at
S. C. & E. A. SIMONDS', 32 Front st.

SUMMER READING.
THE cheapest way to get reading matter for the Summer is to take a share in our Circulating Library. All the new and popular Books go in.
je 24 G M WHIPPLE & A A SMITH.

DIARIES FOR
1863. Every variety and style—all sizes—for sale at
G M WHIPPLE & A A SMITH'S,
nov 26 Sign of the Five Golden Books,

NEW YORK WHITE LEAD.
2500 L New York White Lead;
Also, Forest River White Lead—for sale by
mch 4 S C & E A SIMONDS.

WIRE GOODS.
WIRE Rat Traps; Broilers; Steamers; Sieves etc., just received at
S C & E A SIMONDS', 32 Front st.

JOHN FARRELL,
DRAPER AND TAILOR,
HAVING removed to his old place of business, 138 MAIN ST., South Danvers, (over Batchelder's Grocery Store), is prepared to Cut, Make, Repair, or furnish Garments, for Men and Youths at short notice.
South Danvers, April 1. tf

SOUTH DANVERS
POST OFFICE.
GENERAL MAIL ARRANGEMENT.
MAILS CLOSE
At 10 3-4 A. M., and 4 3-4 P. M.
MAILS DUE
At 9 1-2 A. M., and 3 P. M.
Post Office open (Sundays excepted) from 7 o'clock, A. M., till 8 P. M. Saturdays open till 8 1-2 P. M.
F. POOLE, P. M.
South Danvers, Oct. 1, 1862.

Eastern Railroad.
ON and after MONDAY, April 6, 1863, Trains will leave the Eastern Railroad Station, Washington street, Salem, daily. (Sundays excepted):
For Lynn and Boston, *5.50, 7, 8½, 9, *10, 11 a m., 1, *2½ 5½, 7½, p. m.
Beverly, 8½ am., 1, 3½, 5½, 6.55, 7½ p m.
W. Beach, Man'r, Gloucester, and Rockport, 8½ a m., 3½, 5½ p m.
Ipswich and Newburyport, 8½ a m., 1, 3½, 5½, 6.55 p m.
Amesbury, 8½ a m., 1, 5½ p m.
Portsmouth, 8½ a m., 3½, 5½ p m.
Portland, 8½ a m., 3½ p m.
AND FOR SALEM, FROM
Portland, 8½ a m., 3 p m.
Portsmouth, 7½ †11½ a m., †5½ p m.
Amesbury, 7.35, 9.40 a m., 5.50 p m.
Newburyport, 7, 8, 10 a m., 12 m, 6½ p m.
Ipswich, 7.25, 8.25, 10.25 a m., 12.25, 6.40 p m.
Gloucester, 7, 10, 10 10 a m., 4.40 p m.
Manchester, 7.25, 10.25 a m., 4.55 p m.
Beverly, 6.50, 7.50, 8.50, 10.50 a m., 12.50, 5.20, 7 05 pm.
Lynn, 8.05, *9 05, 11.05 a m., 12 50, *1.35, 3.05, *3.35, *4 35, 5.35, *6.20, 5½, *7.35, *10.05 p m.
Boston, 7½, *8½, 10½ a m., 12½, 2½, 3, *4, 5, 6.10, *7, *9½.

*Via Saugus Branch.
†Or on arrival from the East.
‡On Wednesdays this train leaves Boston at 11½ p m. and on Saturdays at 10½ p m.

MARBLEHEAD BRANCH.
Marblehead for Salem, 6½, 7½, 8½, 9½ a m., 12½, 1½, 5½, 6½, 7½ p m.
Salem for Marblehead, 7½, 8½, 9.25, 11½ a m., 1, 3½, 5½, 7, 7.50 p m.

SOUTH READING BRANCH.
Trains leave the South Roading Depot in Salem for Boston at 6½, 9.50 a m., 2.55, 4.55 p m
Boston for Salem, 7 a m., 12 m., 3, 5½ p m.

ESSEX RAILROAD.
Leave Salem for Lawrence and way stations, 7, 11½ a m., 4.50 p m.
Lawrence for Salem, 8 a m., 12.40, 6 p m.
Danvers for Salem, 8.40 a m., 1.20, 6.40 p m.
South Danvers for Salem, 7½ a m., 12½, 3½, 6½ p m.
J. PRESCOTT, Superintendent.
Boston, April 6, 1863.

Salem and Lowell Railroad.
ON and after MONDAY, April 6, 1863, Trains will run as follows:
Leave Lowell for Salem, 7.25 a m., and *2.45 p m.
Leave Salem for Lowell, *9.40 a m. and 5 55 p m.
Passengers are not allowed to carry baggage above $50 in value, and that personal, unless notice is given and an extra amount paid. Season tickets do not entitle the holder to take baggage.
*Freight Train with passenger car attached.
F. H. NOURSE, Local Superintendent.
April 6, 1863.

TAKE NOTICE.
THAT Dr. Ham's Dyspepsia Remedy has been before the public for the past ten years. And in that time the people who have used it will vouch for the benefit they have derived from it. The character of his article and its reputation can also be obtained from the dealers who sell it, or have sold it for any length of time, to both of those, Dr Ham refers and is willing to stand the test. And also challenges any new compound to produce the same results, let alone delicacy of flavor, of his INVIGORATING SPIRIT, which for ITS EFFECTS UPON THE BILE, A TORPED LIVER, LOW SPIRITS, or when the blood is affected as seen by SKIN DISEASES or its ACTION UPON THE KIDNEYS, in fact for any person who is run down by the wear and care of this world will find relief in this old and well tried remedy.

Astonishing.
TO Dr. Ham, who has modestly put before the public his DYSPEPSIA REMEDY for ten years past, to look back and see the number of tremendous articles within that time, that have sprang up like a rocket, and gone down like the stick which guides it in its glorious ascent. Some come out and claim to tell the public they use unknown Barks from South America, with any quantity of rum from the West Indias, &c. Dr Ham takes this opportunity to refer to the MEDICAL FACULTY here and everywhere that his article is in use, as to its qualifications, and challenges any one to produce a person, male or female, who has used it as directed, that will not speak favorable of it for DISORGANIZED STOMACH, Dyspepsia, loss of appetite, want of action of the Kidneys, as well as many other complaints that humanity are afflicted with.

To Ladies.
DR. HAM'S Dyspepsia Remedy is just the thing you require to remove the langour caused by weakness and debility; it invigorates the system, causes the blood to take new life in its varied course through the system, in fact it gives tone to the system and will relieve and remove the thousand irregularities that from various causes you are afflicted with. For Dyspepsia it is a never failing remedy, it has stood the test of years, and we have yet to hear of its failing to give relief to the afflicted thousands who have received health and happiness by its use.

To Gentlemen.
DR. HAM knows that you do not always pay much attention to the many different articles put before you in the paper, but we would refer you to our agents who you will find are the respectable merchants and dealers, in regard to the Invigorating Spirit; some of them have sold it for years, and know well the reputation it has amongst those who have used it in assisting nature to eradicate diseases. It will renovate the system, as it acts directly on the blood, removing all obstructions to the general health, will cure Liver Complaints, Dyspepsia, Nervous Affections, Sour Stomach, Headache, Weakness, Loss of Appetite, as well as obstruction in the Kidney, Bladder or Urinary Organs. Try it. We will guarantee you will be satisfied with the result.
General Depot, 69 Liberty Street, New York. Sold by Weeks & Potter, 154 Washington Street, M. S. Burr & Co., 26 Tremont Street, G. C. Goodwin & Co., 11 Marshall Street, Boston; and in South Danvers by George E. Meacom, T. A. Sweetser, D. P. Grosvenor, Jr., Main Street; and by Druggists everywhere.
Feb 29, 1863 1y

Are you Insured?
THE subscriber would respectfully call your attention to the fact that he is fully prepared to effect INSURANCE AGAINST FIRE, to any amount, at current rates, on
Dwelling Houses, Barns and their contents, Stores, Stocks of Goods, Furniture, &c. &c., and on buildings in process of erection,
And that he is the authorized Agent for the following responsible Stock and Mutual Companies, viz:
Thames Insurance Co., (Stock,) Norwich, Conn. Capital—$500,000.
Amos W. Prentice, Pres. Oliver F. Rice, Sec'y
Conway Insurance Company, (Stock) Boston. Capital and Surplus—$260,000.
James F. Whitney, Pres. David C. Rogers, Sec'y.
City Insurance Company, (Stock) Boston. Capital—$150,000.
Samuel P. Hayward, Pres. Austin W. Benton, Sec'y
Also, will effect Insurance on the LIVES OF INDIVIDUALS, for one year, seven years, or for the whole term of life, in the Massachusetts Mutual Life Ins. Co., Springfield, Mass. Capital and Assets—$375,000.
Caleb Rice, Pres. D. B. Bacon, Sec'y.
William Mack, M. D., Medical Examiner.
WM. ARCHER, Jr.,
18 Washington st. and 34 Front st., Salem.
ej b20-1

E. F. BURNHAM,
SOLE AGENT FOR
SARGENT & CO.S'
MAGIC SOAP
For South Danvers & Salem.
OFFICE—Central St., opp. Lowell Depot, at Burnham's Express Office, So. Danvers.
Price $3.50 per 100 Lbs.
Orders sent by mail or otherwise to So. Danvers will be promptly attended to. tf-oct3

WM. C. HENDERSON,
MANUFACTURER OF
PLAIN AND FANCY
PAPER BOXES,
No. 235 ESSEX STREET,
Sign of "Nest of Boxes,"
July 23 SALEM. tf

JUVENILE BOOKS,
A VERY large assortment for sale by
G M WHIPPLE & A A SMITH.

PUTNAM & MUNROE'S
SOUTH DANVERS & BOSTON
RAILROAD EXPRESS.

Express leaves South Danvers at	10 1-2 a. m.
Freight " " " at	5 p. m.
Express leaves Boston at	3 1-2 p. m.
Freight " " at	5 p. m.

OFFICE at FREIGHT DEPOT, South Danvers Square.
Order Box W. M. Jacobs' store, Main street.
EXPRESS OFFICE, in Boston, 5 Congress Square; 3 Washington St; Freight Office, 24 Blackstone St.
Also an Order Box at 86 Pearl street.
Particular attention paid to removing Furniture, collecting Bills, Notes, Drafts, &c.
ARMY EXPRESS.
Packages received and sent forward daily for Baltimore, Fortress Monroe, Annapolis, Washington, Alexandria, and any other point where the different regiments are stationed:
South Danvers, july 8—tf

GLASS WARE.
CUT and Pressed Glass Goblets; Tumblers; Dishes, etc, just opened at
S C & E A SIMONDS' 32 Front st.

TABLE MATS.
SHAKER Table Mats—for sale by
may 27 S C & E A SIMONDS.

RHEUMATISM AND NEURALGIA
CAN be cured by using STURGIS'S ELECTRIC COMPOUND—so say reliable people in Boston and elsewhere. For sale by
G M WHIPPLE & A A SMITH.

SUMMER ARRANGEMENT.
— TO —
LYNN & BOSTON
— BY —
OMNIBUS & HORSE CAR.
W. F. BURNHAM'S
Line of Omnibuses will leave the Lynn and Boston Omnibus Office, No. 6 Allen's Building, South Danvers, passing down Main Street, through Washington Street, to Lynn, daily.
Leave South Danvers at 7 50 o'clock, A. M., 12 50 and 4 50 P. M
Leave Lynn (Horse Car Depot, West Lynn) at 9 40 A. M., 2 40 and 6 40 P. M.
Horse Cars leaving Scollay's Building, Court Street, at 8 15 A. M., 1 15 and 5 15 P. M., will meet the Omnibuses at Lynn, at the above named hours, to take passengers to South Danvers.
Sunday Arrangements.
Leave S. Danvers at 7.50 a.m., and 4.50 p.m.
Leave Lynn at 9.40 a.m., and 6.40 p.m.
Cars leave Scollay's Building, Court Street, Boston, to meet the Omnibuses in Lynn for South Danvers, at 8 15 A. M., and 5 15 P. M.
Tickets to Lynn, - - 15 cents.
Through to Boston, - - 30 cents.
Through Tickets to and from Boston may be had of the Drivers and Conductors.
Passengers called for at reasonable charges if notice is given at the office.
EXPRESS BUSINESS
Between South Danvers and Lynn promptly attended to, on reasonable terms.
Extra Coaches furnished at short notice.
South Danvers, 1863.

Abbott's South Danvers & Salem
EXPRESS.
Leave South Danvers, - - - - 7½ a m, 1 p m
Leave Salem, - - - - - 10 a m, 4 p m
Orders left at Teel & Moulton's, and principal stores on Main street, South Danvers; and at 7 Washington street, and at Reed's in the Market, Salem.

MARSHALL'S
DANVERS, SO. DANVERS & SALEM
EXPRESS.
Leave DANVERS (daily) at 9 A. M.
" SALEM at 1½ P. M.
OFFICES:
In Danvers—At E B Waitt's and the Post Office. Danversport—Richards' and A W Warren's Stores.
In So. Danvers—Francis Dane & Co's, and No 2 Main street.
In Salem—No 7 Washington street, 199 Essex st, and 17 Derby Square.
All business promptly and faithfully attended to.
☞ Our patrons are particularly requested to write their orders.
☞ Packages, left at the office, should be marked "Marshall's Express."
☞ Being connected with the RAILROAD we are enabled to forward Notes, Drafts and Bills for collection, and small packages, to all accessible points in the United States, at the usual rates.
P. G. MARSHALL.
dec16-tf

PINGREE'S JOB WAGON.
THE subscriber is still prepared to do all kinds of Job Work and Teaming, such as removing Furniture and Merchandize of any description about town, or to and from the neighboring towns.
Orders will be received at the Essex Railroad Station, and at S. Flint's store, on the Square.
Thankful for past favors, he would solicit a continuance of the same. W. H. PINGREE.
South Danvers, 1860.

Important to the Afflicted.
DR. DOW continues to be consulted at his office, Nos. 7 and 9 Endicott street, Boston, on all diseases of a
PRIVATE OR DELICATE NATURE.
By a long course of study and practical experience of unlimited extent, Dr. D. has now the gratification of presenting the unfortunate with remedies that have never, since he first introduced them, failed to cure the most alarming cases of
GONORRHŒA AND SYPHILIS.
Beneath his treatment, all the horrors of venereal and impure blood, Impotency, Scrofula, Gonorrhœa, Ulcers, pain and distress in the regions of procreation, Inflammation of the Bladder and Kidneys, Hydrocele, Abscesses, Humors, frightful Swellings, and the long train of horrible symptoms attending this class of disease, are made to become as harmless as the simplest ailings of a child.
SEMINAL WEAKNESS.
Dr. D. devotes a great part of his time to the treatment of those cases caused by a secret and solitary habit, which ruins the body and mind, unfitting the unfortunate individual for business or society. Some of the sad and melancholy effects produced by early habits of youth, are Weakness of the Back and limbs, Dizziness of the head, Dimness of sight, Palpitation of the heart, Dyspepsia, Nervousness, Derangement of the digestive functions, Symptoms of Consumption, &c. The fearful effects on the mind are much to be dreaded; loss of memory, confusion of ideas, depression of spirits, evil forebodings, aversion of society, self-distrust, timidity, &c., are among the evils produced. Such persons should, before contemplating matrimony, consult a physician of experience, and be at once restored to health and happiness.
Patients who wish to remain under Dr. Dow's treatment a few days or weeks, will be furnished with pleasant rooms, and charges for board moderate.
Medicines sent to all parts of the country, with full directions for use, on receiving description of your cases. Dr. Dow has also for sale the French Capottes, warranted the best preventive. Order by mail. 3 for $1 and a red stamp.

CAUTION
TO FEMALES IN DELICATE HEALTH.
DR. DOW, Physician and Surgeon, 7 and 9 Endicott street, Boston, is consulted daily for all diseases incident to the female system. Prolapsus Uteri, or falling of the Womb, Fluor Albus, Suppression, and other menstrual derangements, are all treated upon new pathological principles, and speedy relief guaranteed in a very few days. So invariably certain is the new mode of treatment, that most obstinate complaints yield under it, and the afflicted person soon rejoices in perfect health.
Dr. Dow has no doubt had greater experience in the cure of diseases of women and children, than any other physician in Boston.
Boarding accommodations for patients who may wish to stay in Boston a few days under his treatment.
Dr. Dow, since 1845, having confined his whole attention to an office practice, for the cure of Private Diseases and Female Complaints, acknowledges no superior in the United States.
N. B.—All letters must contain four red stamps, or they will not be answered.
Office Hours from 8 A. M. to 9 P. M.

CERTAIN CURE
IN ALL CASES, OR NO CHARGES MADE.
Dr. Dow is consulted daily, from 8 a m. to 8 p. m., as above, upon all difficult and chronic diseases of every name and nature, having by his unwearied attention and extraordinary success gained a reputation which calls patients from all parts of the country to obtain advice.
Among the physicians in Boston, none stand higher in the profession than the celebrated DR. DOW, No. 7 Endicott street, Boston. Those who need the services of an experienced physician and surgeon should give him a call. P. S.—Dr. Dow imports and has for sale a new article, called the French Secret. Order by mail. Two for $1 and a red stamp.
April 15, 1863—1y.

PRINTING

IN EVERY VARIETY
Neatly and Promptly
EXECUTED
—At—
The Wizard Office
SOUTH DANVERS SQUARE
SOUTH DANVERS, MASS.

POSTERS
(LARGE AND SMALL,
WHICH CAN'T BE BEAT
— IN THIS — VICINITY.

BALL CIRCULARS
TICKETS,
— AND —
Orders of Dance

BUSINESS CARDS
*Address

South Danvers Wizard.

VOL. IV. SOUTH DANVERS, MASS., WEDNESDAY, JULY 22, 1863. NO. 2

THE SOUTH DANVERS WIZARD
Is published every WEDNESDAY, at Allen's Building, South Danvers Square.
TERMS—Two Dollars a year.
ADVERTISEMENTS inserted at reasonable rates.

CHARLES D. HOWARD,
EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR.

A. A PUTNAM,
ASSISTANT EDITOR, DANVERS.

Original Poetry.

The Last Words of Col. Cowles, at Port Hudson, May 28, 1863.

"Tell my mother that I perished
In the bloody fearless fight,
Full of high hopes fondly cherished,
For the victory of right;—

"Full of hope, and love of glory,
Full of love for friends at home;
Now my life-long work is ended,
And my Maker bids me "come."

"Tell me, comrades, have I faltered?
Ever failed my work to do—
E'er forget my worthy duty,
What a true born man should do?

"Tell me, soldier, have I ever
Failed you in your hour of need?
E'er belied my name of soldier,
Or neglected word or deed?

"Leave me, comrades I am weary,
Life is now of little worth;
Thankful I that strength is given
Me to enter nobler birth.

"Leave me, soldiers, duty calls you,
Haste, nor yield your honors now,
At Port Hudson glory waits you;
Wreathe those laurels round your brow."

Sadly, silently, we left him,
Reverently left the sod;
His brave spirit nothing daunted
Fearless sought its master, God.

Ever will his loving memory
Cheer us in the toilsome march,
Ever his undaunted spirit
Lead us through triumphal march.

WHITE FEATHER.

Selected.

[From the Des Moines Register.]

BRIG. GEN. G. M. DODGE.

Gen. DODGE's recent successful expedition through Northern Mississippi and Alabama having made him the subject of favorable mention in the newspapers of the Country, I am assured that a brief sketch of his military career will be eagerly perused, at least by your Iowa readers.

Gen. DODGE entered the service as Col. of the 4th Iowa Infantry which was organized at Council Bluffs, at which place Gen. DODGE resided. As soon as organized the regiment was ordered to Jefferson Barracks, reporting to Major General Curtis, remaining there about three weeks during which brief period the young Colonel attracted the attention and won the esteem of his Commanding General, and was at once recognized and regarded in distinguished and military circles as a "growing man."

When Gen. C's. command reached Rolla Col. Dodge was appointed to the responsible position of Commandant of that post and in that capacity acquitted himself with great credit. When the command moved Southward in pursuit of Van Dorn and Price, Col. Dodge was assigned command of a brigade and on the bloody field of Pea Ridge (where he was wounded and had two horses shot under him,) his bravery and skill contributed largely toward securing one of the most important victories of the war, and in consideration of which gallant service he was promptly rewarded with the Silver Star, and soon thereafter was assigned to the command of the Central District of West Tenn. headquarters at Trenton, where he very soon attracted the attention of his Commanding General; and was assigned command of the District of Columbus, then one of the most important commands in the Department. There his sparkling genius was more fully displayed, and the young Brigadier soon regarded as one of the most efficient and reliable Generals in the Department. When Rosecrans was assigned to the command of the Department of the Cumberland General Dodge was, at his own request, ordered there and took command of the glorious old 2d Division, and soon thereafter was assigned to his present command, the District of Corinth; embracing the posts of Corinth, Bethel, Chewalla, Danvell, Davis Mills and Glendale. Entering upon the discharge of his responsible duties with characteristic energy, he has completely Federalized the entire sect within the command; having driven the enemy far beyond our lines, ridded the country of Guerillas and established order where confusion ran riot and by the exercise of his eminent abilities as an engineer has rendered this place, possessing no natural advantages for defence whatever, a perfect Gibralter. Removing all restriction previously existing thereto, he has encouraged Union citizens to come within our lines and join our army, thus developing and rendering practical the Union sentiment existing in the adjacent country; having formed companies and battalions of Union troops of men who otherwise would have been conscripted into the rebel service. An eminent patriot, Gen. Dodge is an ardent supporter of the Administration in its general war policy, and particularly its progressive measures. In nothing is he more supremely consistent than in his hatred of traitors, rebels, and rebel sympathizers, all of whom he ranks in the same category, and treats accordingly. He believes in making war in earnest, as the country wherever any of his company has been, will readily attest. Having been very energetic enforcing the Emancipation Conscription measures, he has collected here about 3000 contrabands, all of whom he has rendered useful and and profitable, and has recently organized one full regiment of Colored troops, and will have another organized at an early day. His system of scouting and disposition of his secret service corps is probably the most perfect in the army. So masterly is their management that with but a few men he performs the service usually performed by heavy forces of cavalry. Any movements of the enemy in force within 75 miles of here is at once understood by him; and in fact, a party of a dozen guerillas cannot approach our most remote outposts without his knowledge. I am informed that when the Vicksburg campaign was being arranged, he asked to be relieved of his command and to have his glorious old 2d Division under his command form part of that expedition. But his valued service could not be spared here, and though the refusal of his request was a distinguished compliment, he chafed under it like a caged lion.

Gen. Dodge is by nature and education a military man, having all the requisite endowment and attainments for a leader and commander. Few men are endowed with his remarkable versatility of genius. Possessing executive and administrative abilities of the highest order, he is well fitted for a Department Commander. Endowed with keen perceptive faculties, exhaustless energy, and indomitable will, the bravery of Richard Ceur de Leon; daring yet prudent, thoroughly posted in general and minor tactics and logistics, he is qualified for a field commander. A practical engineer, he is peculiarly fitted for superintending and directing siege operations and constructing defenses. Plain, kind-hearted, unostentatious and agreeable, there is in his manner and deportment none of that "stuck up," repulsive, fuss-and-feathers, red-tape, "get-thee-behind-me-Satan" style, so unfortunately common to our distinguished military men. I would not draw the line of illiberal comparison, or attempt to filch one laurel won by their heroism and gallantry; for every loyal Iowan is justly proud of our Curtis, Herron, McKean, Lauman, Warren, Tuttle, Elliott, Crocker, and Vandever. Their deeds of noble daring upon many sanguinary battle fields, where patriotism wrestled with treason, entitle them honor and gratitude.

I therefore do but simple justice to his merits, and disparage nothing when I say that Gen. Dodge has but few superiors in the field from any State, and none from our own. Had he been a scheming politician, instead of an honest man and earnest patriot, he would, long since, have been made a Major General, and given a command commensurate with his merits. He may still continue to perform the service of a Major General without wearing the two stars, or receiving the pay of one, and be outranked and commanded by political Generals, but when this war is over, and the history of its heroes is written, prominent among the master spirits, whose wisdom, valor and patriotism have reflected honor upon the Government, and secured the success of its arms, will be found our gallant young Brigadier General GRANVILLE M. DODGE.

TEMPERANCE CONVENTION.

The Essex South District Temperance Union held its quarterly session at the Town Hall in Beverly on Thursday, 9th inst., Isaac Hardy of South Danvers, Vice President, in the chair. The attendance was large and the exercises quite interesting and spirited.

A very fine address was delivered by Rev. W. F. Mallalieu of Lynn, and the subject of temperance and the most efficient means of promoting the cause was discussed by Rev. Dr. Abbott, Rev. A. B. Rich, Rev. J. C. Foster, and Mr. S. D. Herrick, of Beverly; Messrs. Phillips and Nutter of South Danvers; Rev. C. L. M'Curdy and Mr. J. E. Hiller, of Marblehead; Messrs. J. S. Oliver, Josiah Starr, and J. W. Newhall, of Saugus; Rev. Edwin Thompson of East Walpole; Mr. J. A. Bassett, of Salem; Rev. Sam'l Kelly and Messrs. W. D. Thompson, T. C. Cummings, and Christopher Johnson, of Lynn, and several others. Mrs. J. H. Hanaford of Beverly recited the following original poem:

ONWARD! FRIENDS OF TEMPERANCE.

There's a work to be done, friends of Temper-
There's a work for us to do, [ance,
Say, shall we lose heart, and retreating,
Give up the bright prize in our view?

No! no! while the bugle is calling
The hosts of the brave to the field,
And they give to the Southron no quarter,—
Why should we to king alcohol yield?

Long, long had our armies contended
With Victory far out of sight,
Yet boldly they held up our banner,
And under its stars fought for Right.

So we see not all the Intemp'rate
Their wine-cups now casting away,
Yet earnest should still be our effort—
Fidelity winning the day.

On! on! then, O soldiers of Temp'rance!
With courage and faith one and all.
The Vicksburgs that we are besieging,
Must ere long surrender or fall.

On! on! with the Cross for our banner,
The hosts which invaded our soil
Are fleeing before our brave soldiers,
And we shall King Alcohol spoil!

On! on! with a courage undaunted,
A zeal that will never give o'er,
Our motto should ever be onward,
Till the foe shall assail us no more.

The following resolutions were adopted:

WHEREAS, The temptations to intemperance make their appeal to the appetites of all mankind, and the excitements of stimulating drinks are at first productive of pleasurable sensations, and eminently deceptive in their results—therefore—

Resolved, That the friends of temperance ought not to expect the speedy triumph of the cause, nor be discouraged because it progresses so slowly; but have occasion rather for gratitude to God that he has given it so great success.

Resolved, That stringent legal measures for the suppression of the traffic in alcoholic beverages, and the restraint of those who are given to indulgence, are in themselves righteous, and, in their results, when enforced, (as experience has proved,) successful; and we pledge ourselves anew to give them our hearty support.

Resolved, That the success of our cause requires the establishment of temperance organizations in every community; and we especially recommend such organizations as shall most effectually reach the great mass of the people, especially the young.

Resolved, That the present crisis calls imperatively upon the ministry and the members of our Christian churches, and men of influence in every station of life to identify themselves openly with the cause, and thus give efficiency to the law, save the coming age from intemperate habits, and educate the entire community into the consciousness of the essential degradation, and the sin of all the drinking usages of the present age.

Resolved, That we regard with favor the operations of the Temperance Alliance, as adapted to keep alive the public interest in the cause, and we recommend its friends to sustain it by the payment of $1 annually to make themselves members of that society.

After a vote of thanks to the people of Beverly for their hospitality, &c., the Union adjourned to meet at Lynn on the second Tuesday in October next.

HENRY CLAY ON SLAVERY.—If I could be instrumental in eradicating this deepest stain (slavery) upon the character of our country, and removing all cause for reproach on account of it by foreign nations—if I could only be instrumental in ridding, of this foul blot, that revered State (Virginia) that gave me birth—or that not less beloved State (Kentucky) which kindly adopted me as her son, I would not exchange the proud satisfaction I should enjoy for all the honor of all the triumphs ever decreed to the most successful conquerer. * * * * * If they would repress all tendencies towards liberty and ultimate emancipation, they must do more than put down the benevolent efforts of this society. They must go back to the era of our liberty and independence, and muzzle the cannon, which thunders its annual joyous return. They must revive the slave-trade, with all its train of atrocities. They must repress the workings of British philanthropy, seeking to ameliorate the condition of the unfortunate West India slaves. They must arrest the career of South American delivorance from thraldom. They must blow out the moral lights around us, and extinguish the greatest torch of all, which America presents to a benighted world, pointing the way to their rights, their liberties and their happiness. They must penetrate the human soul, and eradicate the light of reason and the love of liberty. Then and not until then, when universal darkness and despair prevail, can you perpetuate slavery, and repress all sympathies and all humane and benevolent efforts among freemen, in behalf of the unhappy portions of our race who are doomed to bondage.

DUTIES OF THE CITIZEN IN TIMES OF TRIAL OR DANGER.

In all circumstances, at all times, war is to be deprecated. The evil passions, which it excites, its ravages, its bloody conflicts, the distress and terror which it carries into domestic life, the tears which it draws from the widow and the fatherless, all render war a tremendous scourge.

There are indeed conditions in which war is justifiable, is necessary. It may be the last and only method of repelling lawless ambition, and of defending invaded liberty and essential rights. It may be the method which God's providence points out by furnishing the means of success. In these we must not shrink from war; though even in these we should deeply lament the necessity of shedding human blood. In such wars our country claims and deserves our prayers, our cheerful services, the sacrifice of wealth and even of life. In such wars, we have one consolation, when our friends fall on the field of battle; we know that they have fallen in a just cause. Such conflicts, which our hearts and consciences approve, are suited to call forth generous sentiments, to breathe patriotism and fortitude through a community.

* * * * * * *

A solemn question now offers itself. What conduct belongs to a good citizen in our present trying condition? To this I call your serious attention.

Our condition induces me to begin with urging on you the important duty of cherishing respect for civil government, and a spirit of obedience to the laws. I am sensible that many whom I address consider themselves as called to oppose the measures of our present rulers. Let this opposition breathe nothing of insubordination, impatience of authority, or love of change. It becomes you to remember, that government is a divine institution, essential to the improvement of our nature, the spring of industry and enterprise, the shield of property and of life, the refuge of the weak and the oppressed. It is to the security which laws afford, that we owe the successful application of human powers. Government, though often perverted by ambition and other selfish passions, still holds a distinguished rank among those influences by which man can be rescued from barbarism, and conducted through the ruder stages of society to the habits of order, the diversified employments and dependencies, the refined and softened manners, the intellectual, moral and religious improvements of the age in which we live. We are bound to respect government, as the great security for social happiness; and we should carefully cherish that habit of obedience to the laws, without which the ends of government cannot be accomplished. All wanton opposition to the constituted authorities; all censures of rulers, originating in a factious, aspiring, or envious spirit; all unwillingness to submit to laws which are directed to the welfare of the community, should be rebuked and repressed by the frown of public indignation.

It is impossible that all the regulations of the wisest government should equally benefit every individual; and sometimes the general good will demand arrangements, which will interfere with the interests of particular members or classes of the nation. In such circumstances the individual is bound to regard the inconveniences under which he suffers, as inseparable from a social, connected state as the result of the condition which God has appointed, and not as the fault of his rulers; and he should cheerfully submit, recollecting how much more he receives from the community than he is called to resign to it. Disaffection towards a government which is administered with a view to the general welfare, is a great crime; and such opposition even to a bad government, as springs from and spreads a restless temper, an unwillingness to yield to wholesome and necessary restraint, deserves no better name. In proportion as a people want a conscientious regard to the laws, and are prepared to evade them by fraud, or to arrest their operation by violence,—in that proportion they need and deserve an arbitrary government, strong enough to crush at a blow every symptom of opposition.—Dr. Channing.

A ROMANTIC ENCOUNTER.

A Cincinnati paper relates the following romantic incident which occurred in that famous city for pork, which had a very happy denouement:

It seems that a large crowd of young bucks stand on the corner of Fourth and Vine streets on balmy days to see the pretty women pass, which innocent amusement gives no offence, so long as the young men conduct themselves properly. But one day the wife of a prominent citizen, a young and fascinating creature, noticed that she was followed from the corner, as she went from shop to shop making purchases, and the offence was repeated three days in succession.—Her husband was away at the time, but on his return, to him was detailed the conduct of the "villain, braggart, and scoundrel," as she termed him. The picture of what transpired was highly drawn, and the sequel of the interview was an indignant husband, and a threatened murder on the highway. The plan was arranged that on the next afternoon the wife was again to promenade Fourth street, the husband and a police officer was to follow a few yards in the rear, and if the youth again continued his insolence he was to be seized and made to apologize to the lady publicly on the street, cowhided, and then permitted to depart with the advice, "go and sin no more." The afternoon came, and the hasten-to-be-revenged husband and his lady went forth to meet the disturber of their peace and happiness. The lady took the lead half a square, and when a short distance east of Race, on Fourth street, met the "gay deceiver," who wheeled as soon as she passed, and kept a few paces behind. The lady continued along Fourth to Walnut, and crossed over to the south side of the street. The young man turned on the first crossing west of Walnut to confront her if she should return westward. The husband's wrath was at fever heat, and approaching the stranger he grappled him by the coat collar, when the following conversation ensued:

Husband—What do you mean, sir, by following that lady day after day in the most insolent manner?

Stranger—Before I answer your question I have a right to know who it is that thus makes such a demand.

Husband (excitedly)—You shall know sir. I am the husband of that lady.

Stranger—Sir, I am happy to make your acquaintance. If you will release your hold, I will satisfy you with, I trust, an ample explanation.

Husband hesitates, but finally releases his hold, and angrily demands of the young man to proceed.

Stranger—Sir, that lady in appearance is the counterpart of my mother now deceased about twelve years, and when I show you her daguerrotype, which I have carried since her death nearest my heart, you will, I think, also perceive a striking resemblance to your lady. If what I have done seems insolent, you must forgive me—for the reason that I loved my mother so dearly and devotedly. Here, sir, is the likeness, judge for yourself.

Husband—Why sir, (looking upon the daguerreotype) you really astonish me.—The likeness is a striking resemblance to the mother of my wife, who died a dozen years since. What was your mother's name?

Stranger—Her name was M——r.

Husband—Starting back much agitated, further inquired, "Sir, what is your name!"

Stranger—"William M——r! I have been absent in California about sixteen years."

Husband—Great God, young man, my wife is your sister!

Stranger—My sister? It cannot be possible. I had only one sister and she died two years before my mother.

During all this conversation the wife was in a bookstore, nervously watching the proceedings in the street, and when the two seized each other by the hand cordially, looked at the picture, and evinced surprise, pleasure, etc., at what the conversation developed, and finally arm in arm, crossed the street to meet her, her amazement was at the culminating pitch. She was called out, and the following conversation took place:

Husband—Wife, cannot you recognize this gentleman, and have you not met him previous to the past week?

Wife—Why, husband, what do you mean! I appeal to the stranger if we ever spoke to each other or ever met before.

Stranger—Yes, madame, we have met frequently before, and on the most intimate terms.

Wife—It is false, sir, it is a slander! (The tears coursing down her cheeks profusely.)

Stranger—Madame, I will prove to you the truth of my assertion. (Here the stranger drew forth the daguerreotype and presented it to the lady, who, turning pale, excitedly exclaimed:

"My mother! my dear mother! How came you by this?" (clasping it to her bosom.)

Husband—Wife, there must be no more mystery about this matter. This young man is William M——r, your only brother.

The brother and sister eyed each other for a moment, as if to become assured of the truth of the astounding declaration, and then as if by instinct, clasped each other around the neck and wept tears of joy. Policeman Homer from whom we received the above, states that he never witnessed such a greeting.

The three took the first car that came along, and went home overjoyed at the day's developments, where no doubt a full narration of their youthful histories was given, their parting when young, and all the events which have transpired.

STRUGGLES OF LITERATURE.

Voltaire almost immediately after the death of Louis XIV., was falsely charged ed with having composed a libel on that prince; and for this imaginary offence, without the pretence of a trial, and without even the shadow of a proof, he was thrown into the Bastile, where he was confined more than twelve months. His work, which he called Philosophic Letters, was received with general applause; but unfortunately for himself he adopted in it the arguments of Locke against innate ideas. The rulers of France, though not likely to know much about innate ideas, had a suspicion that the doctrine of Locke was in some way dangerous, and, as they were told that it was a novelty, they felt themselves bound to prevent its promulgation. Their remedy was very simple. They ordered Voltaire to be again arrested and that his work should be burned by the common hangman.

Imbert translated Clarke's Letters on Spain; one of the best works then existing on that country. This work however, was suppressed as soon as it appeared; and the only reason assigned for such a stretch of power is, that it contained some remarks respecting the passion of Charles III. for hunting, which were considered disrespectful to the French crown, because Louis XV. was himself a great hunter.

Freret, an eminent French critic and scholar, was confined in the Bastile, because he stated, in one of his memoirs, that the earliest Frankish chiefs had received their titles from the Romans.

The celebrated treatise of Helvicticus on the Mind, was suppressed by an order from the Royal council; it was burned by the common hangman, and the author was compelled to write two letters, retracting his opinions.

Some of the geological views of Buffon having offended the clergy, that illustrious nationalist was obliged to publish a formal recantation of doctrines which are now known to be perfectly accurate.

Lunjuinais, in his well known work of Joseph II., advocated not only religious toleration, but even the abolition of slavery; his work therefore, was declared to be "seditious," it was pronounced "destructive of all subordination," and was sentenced to be burned.

Desforges, having written against the arrest of the Pretender to the English throne, was solely on that account, hurried in a dungeon eight feet square and confined there for three years.

These things were as late as the last half of the eighteenth century. Against such obstacles have literature and science had to contend.

VICKSBURG.

Vicksburg is the heart of the C eracy; it is there that the life-arter Mississippi, pours its tide; and s as the rebels could hold Vicksburg could not be beaten. We might Richmond and Virginia—those we fingers; we might take Tennesse drive them out of Kentucky, Mi and Arkansas—those were but li we might capture Charleston and nah and Mobile—those were but Vicksburg was the great central p the key of the Mississippi, the h the Confederacy. It was not alor portant in location; but it was str Nature had fortified it; and m science had been exhausted to stren it. It is upon an upheaved bluf was surrounded with trenches, whe fortification overlooks another, lik seats of an amphitheatre; and the was shot proof and bomb proof bristled with guns and bayonets stood brisk as feathers upon a porc Jeff. Davis was not blind to its and had declared that it should b to the last and defended by all t sources of rebeldom. He knew while he held that the Northwest, from its natural highway to the sea suffer, and could be kept in a st semi-rebellion. He knew that Vicksburg stood, cotton and sug provisions—all trade which requi tide for success, was within his c The fate of Vicksburg was made, mind, a type of the fate of the reb So we see the foreign nations re it, and the Confederate loan was down as the prospect of holding o ing the place varied.

Its military importance was a hu fold greater than its commercial va On the land the rebels have shown strength, as on the waters they hav played much weakness. In the fiel approached an equality with us where our navy could go we have b them back and held their territo yond recovery. The Mississippi wi our ships a short run through the c eracy, and it is equally adapted to tary and naval uses. It divides the federacy in two—cutting its back and actually killing it in all those west of the river, while it allows surround and girdle the remainin tion. If there was no Mississipp they could hold it, the war might b tinued indefinitely. They could fal from State to State away down into as, the Indian districts, and Mexic now one half is paralyzed and dea our anaconda is around its living stopping the circulation necessary existence, leaving it as a tree girdl the woodman's axe in the forest; a may well believe the report tha Davis has sent messengers to Wa ton to negotiate for peace.

Let us repeat, that this is not al important victory commercially, as ing the storehouse of the Northwe Southwest—not important simply b Vicksburg has strategic value, as mond or Washington have? it is a tion of empire. Look on the map! we have the Mississippi river, w cut off from Jeff. Davis as much te as he has left east of the river. I ana, Texas, and Arkansas contain 000 square miles of territory. more than France, Great Britain a land together; equal to Austri Prussia. Texas is bigger than F Arkansas is bigger than Naples Louisiana is bigger than Denma Belgium combined. If then we c ed only what is west of the river; it be an empire in area; but it sett whole thing, since it makes the certain.—Newburyport Herald.

COAL.—Another advance in co been made by the carriers and sho on board vessels, who have raised terms for shovelling from 25 to 50 a ton. Possibly the wood sawye also raise their price from 50 cents a cut, per cord, which would induce of us to saw our own wood and th improve our health and lengthen our

In connection with the cost of one thing might be suggested: we plenty of peat meadows in the cou Essex—as good peat as can be fo the world. The meadows need di and draining, and the peat will great value for fuel. With a cuttin chine it is no great labor to secure of peat, and thousands of cords be thrown into the market to adva When our Irish "fellow citizens" their fifty cents for shovelling co hope they will not expend it in c $12 per ton, or wood at $11 per cord; but quietly place it in safe keeping, where so much of their money goes, and cut peat to feed their fires. We know of no business that would prove more profitable in this county than the cutting of peat.—Newburyport Herald.

The Wizard.

WEDNESDAY, JULY 22, 1863.

SUMMARY OF THE WEEK.

The interruption of communication, consequent upon the riot in New York, for several days noticeably diminished the number of telegrams in the papers, but—saving the riots—what news we have had in the last week is generally of the most cheering character. As to the riots—though shocking to the sense of humanity and disgraceful in the extreme to those directly or indirectly, responsible for their existence—they are not to be regarded in the light of injury to the Union cause. On the contrary they will help it. The bad speeches of Franklin Pierce—no thanks to him—help the Union; and as the New York riot was but a monstrous incarnation of the Concord harangue, and the riots elsewhere lesser incarnations of lesser harangues, it is easy to calculate that the gross riotousness has been just about as good as a Union victory in the field. Thro' all this tumult of rebellion the Higher Law reigns. God is in and above all, and the wrath of man is made to praise Him.

In accordance with our promise of last week we report the fall of Port Hudson. That last obstacle to the federal navigation of the Great River yielded to the strong arm of loyalty the 8th inst.; and soon after the heroic Banks, with his heroic army, took possession of the place, and ran up the old Stars and Stripes. Thus is the march of loyalty onward, and thus is wreathed another laurel round the brow of the "Bobbin Boy," who indeed has proved himself to be of the first of generals, as he had before taken rank among the first of statesmen.

It had been hoped that Gen. Meade would succeed in capturing Lee's whole army—what there is left of it—or, at least, cause him to suffer a disastrous defeat on the hither side of the Potomac. But Lee has got back to his desolated soil, and in pretty good order, probably. As it turned out, had Meade attacked him when five of his corps commanders desired it, Lee and his legions would doubtless have been routed, demolished. By chance the opportune moment was not seized, but the country has not less confidence in the hero of Gettysburg. He is on the track of the retreating foe, whose rout is only a question of time—and a short time. As to bagging an entire large army in the field—this is more easily spoken of than done, so long as men have legs. The inferior army has this particular advantage—it knows when and in what manner it will undertake to retreat. It buys its opportunity to do so, by keeping up a show of fight. The brigade, etc., our army captured from Lee was the price Lee paid for his escape over the Potomac. He got off cheap, to be sure, but it was his advantage that he so far had the bargain in his own hands.

Gen. Sherman brought the rebel Gen. Johnson to a smart battle near the Big Black, and surrounded and captured 6000 rebels.

The rebel Morgan having extended his raid into Ohio, is in the way of having his whole force captured, having already lost 1300.

Rosecrans is ending Bragg, who has now steered for Georgia, with his ship of rebellion tattered as to canvass, battered as to sides, and leaky as to bottom.

The news from North Carolina is good both in respect to the progress of our arms and the progress of union sentiment among the Carolinans.

The pirate Florida was not idle in June.—She captured at least four vessels, burning, bonding or sinking them, as circumstances made it best. Our dear cousins of England have presented our dear brethren of the South with another pirate, named Gibraltar. She will need more than one by and by.

In round numbers we took 30,000 prisoners at Vicksburg, 8000 at Port Hudson, and 12,000 at Gettysburg—in all 50,000. Reckon a third of these fighting again if they get a chance.—For the rest they will scatter through the South and sow the moral of defeat, and the harvest will be—Union.

The attack on Charleston is in a hopeful way of success, and we confidently expect to announce the fall of that unrighteous city next week. Surely the supports of rebellion are fast giving away.

The weather for the most part during the week has, in the language of another, been "most ridiculous." Sunshine and hay makers have been all at loggerheads. Saturday the stopples of the sky were out, and the firmament became an immense water-pot. Out doors everything was drenched, and in doors everything was damp. Matches wouldn't go, and fire itself began to mould. Meanwhile everything was growing "the most distressest kind." We undertook to measure a pumpkin vine, and couldn't keep up with it, it grew so.

FREEDOM OF SPEECH.

This war, which the Government is waging is emphatically a war for the rights of man; and not less a war for the freedom of speech than for any other right, which appertains to humanity. The Rebellion had its origin in the slavery of the black race on this continent.—This was the visible, particular, more impelling cause of that irrepressible agitation, which during forty years had kept the sea of our politics in a state of violent commotion. Against this overtopping sin an indignant people, aroused to a sense of justice and constantly increasing in numbers, had directed their voice and vote, without apparent consciousness that they were at the same time vindicating their own rights, and defending the very citadel of Liberty.—But, by the inevitable order of things, so gigantic a wrong as the abject servitude of millions of human beings could not exist without corrupting the whole frame of society responsible for the evil. The principle of corruption is alike in the moral, the political and physical world. Arrest, expel the insidious element, or the mass is hopelessly leavened. And so it was. Slowly but surely the putrescence of slavery was permeating the entire body of the nation. True as the needle to the pole a growing public sentiment pointed in warning to that dangerous increasing rot. But it was not wholly the negro slavery which gave growth and vitality to this public sentiment. It was, in large measure, alarm for individual safety—alarm arising from the sense of approaching infection. The sensation of coursing poison was felt.—Men of the North and men everywhere who shuddered at the thought of this universal corruption of the system, sprang, not to arms, but to agitation, to ballots. The trampled rights of millions at the South were a sufficient cause—the imperiled rights of more millions at the North was an imperative cause for anxiety, for action, for resistance.

Of the liberties, which the people of the North felt were being wrested from them, none was so conspicuous as the freedom of speech. No other liberty had been so assailed. Piece meal this sacred right was being trodden in the dust, and, as it is the palladium of Liberty in general, the ultimate consequences of the reigning national policy were manifest. Observe to what extent the freedom of speech had been encroached upon. In nearly one-half of the States the majority of the people of the other States could not travel and converse after the manner of their education. It was at the peril of life that they did so. On the soil of the slave States the majority of the more prominent public men of the free States could not step, though they opened not their lips. It was at the peril of life, that they did so in silence. The majority of the national legislators could not travel in half the national domain. It was at the peril of life that they did so, though silent as the grave. This was the extent to which the people's lips were muzzled. Meanwhile, in all the large cities of the North, many Northern men, whose scholarship, eloquence and devotion to principle are destined to be a perpetual glory to the American name, could not speak in public without incurring the risk of mob violence. And to crown all, a Senator of the United States is ruthlessly bludgeoned in the Senate chamber for honest, constitutional speech in the Senate! Of Southern slavery and this consequential abridgment of the freedom of speech the Presidential campaign of 1860, ending in the election of Abraham Lincoln, was the legitimate, but most timely result. The Rebellion followed; and this great war is waged to put down the Rebellion, and, by consequence to vindicate, and render secure the liberties, in the name of whose destruction the Rebellion arose and has raged. We are fighting indeed for Freedom in the large sense—on a grand scale; but if Freedom is to be classified—if it have divisions, branches, the branch of Free Speech is the capital attainment in the struggle of this war. Without that Liberty is dead; with it Slavery is no more.

Now saith the Copperhead we have you. "Fighting for the freedom of speech, yet ostracizing those, who would enjoy it! Behold Vallandigham and blush!" We behold him, and do not blush. Vallandigham was using speech—for what? to carry on the war? Nay, to frustrate it. Yet is the war for free speech; and is it not a mad way to save liberty, to strike at it? No more mad than it is to use the rod to save the child—to splinter the broken limb for future fleetness—to prune the lusty twig for better growth—to silence the room for the progress of the school. It is a slight thing, or may be, to cut a rope, except when it holds the anchor of a ship. This is what Vallandigham was doing. To the limit of his power he was using the axe of his wicked tongue to sever the cable, which holds our Ship of State to the sheet-anchor of Liberty! Rightly he was arrested, branded, exiled. Every well-wisher of the Ship breathed freer, and said, God bless the Captain! This is the freedom that Franklin Pierce and Fernando Wood are complaining of the loss of—the freedom to cut the cable, and let us on the rocks. This is the freedom for having exercised which and been punished, maudlin politicians would erect Vallandigham to the respectability of a Governor? Yes, a martyr! God forbid! It is not freedom—it is licentiousness. It is "lying, vainness, babbling, drunkenness."

The plea of the martyr-makers is that the people cannot honestly criticise their rulers without imprisonment, expatriation or worse. Never since the Constitution has politician made a more groundless assertion. Never were rulers criticised more freely, scathingly, remorselessly than our present rulers. The venom of the Worlds, the rebukes of the Tribunes, the sarcasms of the Phillipses have been heaped upon them, Ossa on Pelion. Have the Worlds, the Tribunes, the Phillipses been molested? Not honest criticism therefore, is deprecated. The charge is yet to be made and sustained that the administration has plucked to the ground one hair from the freedom of speech. Never in forty years has free speech been better off in the North than during this fearful Rebellion. It is only when speech, not content with honest criticism in its rightful place, has descended to the level of treason to defeat the righteous ends of Government that Government has said, silence. Vallandigham is too pithless, pointless, harmless, brainless a man to be feared in legitimate speech. So with Franklin Pierce of the Golden Circle. One sentence from Phillips would rout ten thousand of the speeches of either in fair battle. But Vallandigham cannot fight fair. He went sneaking among the soldiers. He was caught outting the cable in the dark. If well-meaning strictures were penal, Phillips had been hung, Greeley had been incarcerated, and a hundred newspapers, republican and democratic, ended. They have fairly fought; but since Vallandigham cannot, since he is chronically disposed to treason, if he ever return from treasondom with a treasonable tongue,

> "Be ready, gods, with all your thunderbolts;
> Dash him to pieces!"

We speak of Vallandigham simply as the representative of a class.

☞ The Statesman, in referring to the WIZARD's remark that Edmund Burke was undoubtedly laboring under hallucination when he wrote his "Reflections," says it is a revival of "the old Jacobin story"—"a rehash of the slanders of his political opponents"—that anything to the contrary is "the highest literary gossip," not to be credited until "a jury empannelled from the readers of Burke," and having "the highest medical authority" have given a verdict in support of the "gossip." This is simply ipse dixit. Nor is the fact that "Webster and Choate read and loved and praised Burke," any more to the purpose; because every lover of literature and eloquence loves and praises him also. Nobody disputes the greatness of Burke; and the question is not, was he great? but in his later years was he Burke? Did he see with the same vision and think with the same brain that distinguished him during the American Revolution, or in his own language did he "lie like one of those old oaks which the late hurricane had scattered about him?" Not the incident which the Statesman relates as from Mr. Everett, started and now supports the "story" of Burke's hallucination. The "story" rests upon the internal evidence itself of Burke's later writings—the best of all evidence. Of course, as the Statesman has taken its position so categorically, it will be likely to call every author a "gossiper," whose authority is not "medical," or, at all events, medieval. And we are but too credulous that the name of one, who has handled the murky dogmas of the past rather roughly, but whose praise is on the lips of this age, and whose higher praise the ages are to proclaim, will excite in the Statesman only derision, disgust and despair. Nevertheless, as the best authority possible, we adduce the ever-to-be-lamented Buckle, than whom Burke has not had a greater admirer, and invite the Statesman, not only to a second reading of the extract we elsewhere publish, but to a re-perusal of all that great historian has to say of Burke from page 326 to 342 in his first volume.

FOR SALE.

$15,000,000 Confederate Bonds. Will be sold very low if applied for immediately.

JOHN BULL.

London, July, 1863.

MILITARY ITEMS FROM DANVERS.—Some ten of the drafted men in Danvers have enlisted in a company being raised by Capt. A. P. Fuller (late of the 17th Regiment,) for the 2d Heavy Artillery Regiment, Col. Frankle. A few also have enlisted in the Navy.

A number of the missing men of Company I, 14th Regiment, have written to their friends from the paroled prisoners' camp at Annapolis.

Capt. Wm. Smith of the 17th Regiment is at home on a short furlough and looking finely. Capt. G. W. Kenney of the same Regiment is reported to be quite sick, and is at Beaufort in the hope of deriving benefit from the sea air.

Danvers has thirteen commissioned officers in the service—five captains and eight lieutenants. It is thought Capt. Fuller will be promoted to the Majorship of the new Artillery Regiment, and that Capt. D. J. Preston of the 35th Regiment, now at Vicksburg, will receive the appointment of Lieutenant Colonel in one of the colored regiments being raised by Col. Wilde. Both of these officers, by long and faithful service, well merit such distinction. Of the eight lieutenants from Danvers, six entered the service as sergeants—J. B. Hanson, A. O. Carter, E. W. Guilford, James Inman, Lewis Cann and Andrew Cooke.

☞ We learn that the Horse Railroad Company have not yet received the road from the contractors; when they do they will announce to the public their regular hours of running. Notwithstanding the many interruptions and difficulties—which all enterprises of this kind are more or less subject to—the travel has been very large, far exceeding the anticipations of its most sanguine friends.

☞ At the recent commencement of the Universalist Theological School at Canton, N. Y., Miss Olympia Brown was graduated. Rev. Miss Brown has already occupied the pulpit to some extent, and is said to be a promising clergywoman.

☞ The anti-put-down-the-rebellion men are counting on the Conscription Act to furnish them much capital in the next Presidential election. The character of their party is typified in the character of the recent riots and its strength in the number of the rioters.

☞ The Boston Courier can see in the New York riot nothing but an intemperate zeal—a sort of "failing leaning to virtue's side." It is a hopeful sign if that benighted sheet has come to recognize such a thing as virtue.

☞ $510 have been contributed to the Christian Commission by the county officers of Essex County in token of their gratitude for the recent successes of our arms. A worthy act!

PEABODY LIBRARY.—Our readers will see by notice in another column, that the Library will be open on Saturday to receive books. Let the delinquents look out and save their dollar.

POSTPONEMENT.—The Pic-Nic which was to have been held to-day by Company C, is postponed until Friday afternoon and evening, if pleasant.

NAVY.—Mr. Leonidas R. Porter, of this town, has enlisted in the navy. He is now in search of the pirates.

GODEY'S Lady's Book for August is received. Like its predecessors, it is rich and racy. Godey knows what the people want—and they appreciate his efforts.

LIFE IN THE SADDLE.

Some more pencilled journal leaves (sent to his friends here by one of our citizens in the 1st Mass. Cavalry,) on the march back from the Rappahannock with the Army of the Potomac:

June 14th, 1863.—Yesterday P. M. the camp was ordered to be moved; but after preparing everything, the order was countermanded; not long after another order came to break camp and move down to Bealeton. We arrived last night about six o'clock and went into camp at eight, the weather threatening rain. On the way here we passed camps of infantry, and it is reported that a general movement across the Rappahannock is anticipated; but this morning another and more startling rumor is afloat—"that the Rebel army has moved and is now in the neighborhood of Manassas, one day's march ahead of us." The plains about Bealeton looked very busy last night, an immense number of wagons moving about in various directions, as well as bodies of cavalry.

June 15th, 1863.—After writing the above yesterday, Col. Curtis came in from the picket camp and ordered everything up to that camp, except quarter-master's wagons, and guard to protect the latter. I had a few sick men, but could not move them, as the ambulances went with the brigade last night to Grove Church. I had quite a pleasant ride up to the camp, Col. Curtis, Major Chamberlain and myself going on ahead with one orderly only. The camp was quite near the former picket camp of week before last.

I was glad to rejoin the regiment again, for it is now four days since the detail. I found the officers feasting on cherries and field strawberries. I had some of the former, which, though small, were quite refreshing. At seven o'clock this morning we left the camp and returned to Bealeton, where we obtained forage, and after picking up all our men and horses and destroying the hay and oats which were left on the way, moved on alongside of the railroad and have now halted until 3½ o'clock at Warrenton Junction. The whole army is said to be before us, and that the Potomac Creek bridge has been burned and Aquia Creek buildings been evacuated. Continued on the march until 11½ in the evening—arrived at Manassas Junction, where we encamped for the night. This march has been excessively hot and dusty—more so than any before.

In the vicinity of the Junction were a number of earthworks, the remains of the rebel fortifications of the summer of 1861. To-day—the 16th—we moved about two or three miles beyond Manassas to Bull Run Creek, and have been encamped here all day. I had a delicious bath and wash in Bull Run itself this afternoon. All the region is covered with huts, the winter quarters of the rebel army in 1861-2.

* * * * * * * * *

June 17th, 1863.—Marched from Union Mills, near Bull Run, to Aldie, the weather fine, but the heat and dust intolerable; we reached Aldie, which is at the top of Bull Run chain of mountains, somewhere about two or three o'clock P. M. As we approached, the battery of two pieces was sent forward, and the regiment formed line-of-battle without halting at all from the march, men and horses being quite used up. Gen. Kilpatrick said he had taken prisoners from three different rebel regiments, and he was at first indisposed to engage the enemy, but hearing that Gen. Gregg was close up in his rear to support, he pushed on, passing through the town. The battery took up a position on a hill at the right of the road and our regiment supported it for awhile, but soon it was ordered on and became engaged in a very severe skirmish, or rather fight, in which it drove the enemy, but with great loss—about 160 in killed, wounded and missing, including three officers wounded and four made prisoners. The regiment took about fifty prisoners.

Gen. Kilpatrick said afterwards, "My Massachusetts boys have been fighting on the right and have done nobly." However, our regiment was obliged to retire, as the rebels were strongly posted behind stone walls and fences and in superior numbers. Very soon the wounded begun to come in. It was a fearful list, 154 in our regiment killed, wounded and missing; being the only surgeon connected with the regiment present, I was at once overwhelmed with work, which kept me busily engaged until late in the night. In the confusion, I could not select cases of those exclusively from my own regiment, but dressed the wounds of any man who needed it as I came upon them. Before the regiment was engaged I went back into the town to obtain instructions of the Medical Director of Brigade, Dr. Hackley, with regard to the disposition of the wounded, for the fight threatened and did follow so closely upon the march, and at such little notice that no provision had been made and our ambulances even had not come up. But I did not find him, and concluded to rejoin the regiment and act on my own judgment. As I was returning, and when about a quarter of a mile beyond the position in which I had left them, several bullets struck near me, and I saw a portion of one of the supporting regiments returning in some confusion. I thought it best to turn aside, and as I turned I saw the 4th N. Y. Cavalry, led by Col. Osinola, just breaking into a charge down the road in the direction of the fighting. I was in the field on the right of the road, thence I started for a house just on the edge of the town which I had determined to make my hospital, and sent out word to have the wounded of the regiment brought here. The surgeon of the 4th N. Y. also stopped here. But after dressing several wounds at this point, we learned that the Brigade Surgeon had established his hospital at another house near by, belonging to an apothecary, who had generously thrown it open for use. The 4th N. Y. Cavalry Surgeon and myself therefore removed to that position, where we remained until all the wounded had been dressed, and sent in ambulances to a barn about a mile out from the town, on the road to Fairfax. This work was very fatiguing, as we had marched all day with scarcely any rest or refreshment; I finally joined the regiment (encamped in the town,) about one o'clock A. M., and laid down thoroughly fagged.

The next morning, or rather same morning, (18th inst., Thursday,) I received orders to go over the battlefield and gather up such wounded men as had missed our notice the night before. I proceeded with four ambulances to a house about two miles from the town, in which I found several of our regiment killed and four severely wounded. I also obtained information of Capt. Sargent, and after a ride of a mile across lots, found him, and was much pleased to find he was not so fearfully wounded as was first supposed. He had been picked up by some people in the neighborhood, who had given him a bed and comfortable quarters for the night. His wound was a pistol shot, passing directly through the chest from front to back about the third or fourth rib. As I could find no others wounded, I returned to Aldie and reported to Dr. Paucoast, the surgeon of the cavalry corps, who detailed me to the hospital to assist Dr. Colby, the surgeon in charge. The hospital was a church situated about half a mile from Aldie, on the pike road to Fairfax Court House. Remained here until morning, when I was relieved after representing to Dr. Paucoast that I was the only surgeon that our regiment now had with it. On reaching the regiment, found them just ready to move. We marched out of Aldie on the Middleburg road, about eight or nine o'clock, the roads muddy from the rain of day before—the first for nearly two months.

On entering the town of Middleburgh, five miles from Aldie, it was evident another engagement was expected. The firing of skirmishers was heard in front and the regiments formed, squadrons in line of battle on either side of the road, the battery going to the front also. I was ordered to remain with the other surgeons at a store in the town, which the Division surgeon had designated as the hospital in case of wounded.

The rebels had retired from the town in order to avoid the destruction of it by our shells, as all these towns about here are strongly secesh. We remained without work for about three hours uncertain what was going on; then the wounded began to come in, and we were well occupied until night, the principal casualities being in the 1st Maine and 6th Ohio, and among the rebels. The injuries to the wounded prisoners seemed to be severe in a much larger proportion, than among our own men.—No accidents in our regiment to-day. G.

(To be Continued.)

☞ During the frequent cessations of the bombardment of Vicksburg, for an hour or two, the children would come out from the caves and engage in juvenile sports upon the sidewalk. The sound of a mortar a mile or two away, behind the trees skirting the bend, would send them, like a flock of frightened partridges, into the caves. The boldest of them would remain at the door and watch the shell mounting upward, until they could observe the direction it was taking, when, if it was not likely to fall near them, the reckless youngsters would come out and resume their play.

☞ When Tybalt asked Mercutio, "What would'st thou have of me?" the answer was, "Good king of cats, only one of your nine lives." General Longstreet has already been killed three times since the war commenced, upon the report of the telegraph, besides being wounded and taken prisoner, on the same excellent authority.

☞ The greatest capture of men mentioned in modern history was made by Bonaparte at Austerlitz, where he took 20,000 men. Gen. Grant, it is now reported, took nearly 31,000 at Vicksburg. Napoleon's spoil at Austerlitz was 150 pieces of artillery; Gen. Grant's at Vicksburg is stated to be 238—embracing nine siege guns and 209 pieces of light artillery.

☞ The trial of Rev. Chas. Beecher on a charge of heresy, has been concluded, and the case referred to a committee of four of the Council, to report, an adjourned meeting to be held at Georgetown to-day.

☞ Gen. Meade sends to Washington thirty-one of the regimental battle-flags captured at the late battle of Gettysburg. Thirteen of these were taken from Virginia infantry regiments.

☞ Prentice finds in Humphrey Marshall's obesity a never failing butt for jocose allusion. "We should think," said the invetcrate wag, "Humphrey Marshall would have to march slow. He looks as if it would be a heavy task to fetch up his rear."

☞ The Ladies Aid Society respectfully acknowledge the receipt of thirteen dollars from STEPHEN BLANEY, Esq., for the benefit of our sick and wounded soldiers.

A PUGILIST RESISTS THE MOB.—John Morrissey saved the Troy House from the mob.—The rioters wished to make a demonstration on the colored waiters, Mr. Morrissey had the pluck to prevent it.

BURKE IN HIS LATTER YEARS.

At this distance of time, when his nearest relations are no more, it would be affectation to deny that Burke, during the last few years of his life, fell into a state of complete hallucination. When the French Revolution broke out, his mind, already fainting under the weight of incessant labor, could not support the contemplation of an event so unprecedented, so appalling, and threatening results of such frightful magnitude. And when the crimes of that great revolution, instead of diminishing, continued to increase, then it was that the feelings of Burke finally mastered his reason; the balance tottered; the proportions of that gigantic intelleot were disturbed. From this moment his sympathy, with present suffering was so intense, that he lost all memory of the tyranny by which the sufferings were provoked. His mind once so steady, so little swayed by prejudice and passion reeled under the pressure of events, which turned the brains of thousands. And whoever will compare the spirit of his latest works with the dates of their publication, will see how this melancholy change was aggravated by that bitter bereavement (the loss of his son) from which he never rallied, and which alone was sufficient to prostrate the understanding of one in whom the severity of the reason was so tempered, so nicely poised, by the warmth of the affections.

* * * * * * * * *

It would perhaps be displaying a morbid curiosity to attempt to raise the veil, and trace the decay of so mighty a mind. * * * * But it is certain that the change was first clearly seen immediately after the breaking out of the French Revolution; that it was aggravated by the death of his son; and that he became progressively worse till death closed the scene. In his Reflections on the French Revolution; in his Remarks on the Policy of the Allies; in his Letter to Elliot; in his Letter to a Noble Lord; and in his Letters on a Regicide Peace, we may note the consecutive steps of an increasing, and at length an uncontrollable, violence. To the single principle of hatred of the French Revolution, he sacrificed his oldest associations and his dearest friends.

* * * * * * * * *

Nor is it true, as some have supposed, that this mania of hostility was solely directed against the criminal part of the French people. It would be difficult in that or in any other age, to find two men of more active, or indeed enthusiastic benevolence, than Condorcet and La Fayette. Besides this, Condorcet was one of the most profound thinkers of his time, and will be remembered as long as genius is honored among us. La Fayette was no doubt inferior to Condorcet in point of ability; but he was the intimate friend of Washington, on whose conduct he modelled his own, and by whose side he had fought for the liberties of America; his integrity was, and still is, unsullied; and his character had a chivalrous and noble turn which Burke, in his latter days would have been the first to admire. Both, however, were natives of that hated country whose liberties they vainly attempted to achieve. On this account, Burke declared Condorcet to be guilty of "impious sophistry;" to be a "fanatic atheist and furious democratic republican;" and to be capable of the "lowest, as well as the highest and most determined villainies." As to La Fayette, when an attempt was made to mitigate the cruel treatment he was receiving from the Pussian government, Burke not only opposed the motion made for that purpose in the House of Commons, but took the opportunity of grossly insulting the unfortunate captive, who was then languishing in a dungeon. So dead had he become on this subject, even to the common instincts of our nature, that, in his place in parliament, he could find no better way of speaking of this injured and high-souled man, than by calling him a ruffian: "I would not," says Burke, "I would not debase my humanity by supporting an application in behalf of such a horrid ruffian!"—Buckle.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.—Gayle & Co. are constantly receiving fresh lots of the choicest brands of flour.

JOHN P. PEABODY is offering great "Bargains" in Ladies' Furnishing Goods. Read his column advertisement.

BROWNING & LONG are offering great inducements in their line.

JAMES F. ALMY is selling his goods at reduced prices in order to close out his present stock, and to prepare for a fresh lot of new goods.

CAMBRIC EDGINGS AND INSERTINGS.—A full stock of Cambric Edgings and Insertings in new and desirable patterns, just opened at J. P. PEABODY'S; also a full line of White Cambrics, Jaconets, Lawns, Book Muslins, &c., &c. His 29 cent Collars are worth remembering. Examine his new goods. 220 Essex st.

☞ Best American Pins 5 cts.—Best White Spool Cottons, glazed, 6 cts.—Nice Honey Soap 5 cts.—Castile Soap 8 cts.—Rose Soap, 2 cakes for 5 cts.—Best Worsted Braids 8 cts.—Everything at prizes to correspond, at

PEABODY'S, 220 Essex st.

TO THE PEOPLE OF MASSACHUSETTS.

In the present public emergency, when those who are combined against the government of our country, and the liberties of our people, emboldened by their long persistence in opposing the restoration of law and order at the South, and rendered desperately their dangers and disasters in Tennessee and on the Mississippi, are making a final effort to invade the hitherto free territory of the Middle States, the President has called for an additional force to repel the invasion, to put down forever the rebellion which is distracting our common country, and restore peace in the only manner in which it can ever be restored—by a determined and vigorous prosecution of the war.

Under the authority of General Orders, No. 191 of the War Department, volunteer infantry, cavalry and artillery may be enlisted, from the present time until the 23d of September next, who will constitute a force, to be designated "Veteran Volunteers," and to serve for three years or during the war. They must be men who have served at least nine months; and all who have served for that length of time, whether they originally enlisted for nine months or for any longer period, have the privilege, now, of re-enlisting, and receiving the additional bounty which is offered.

The bounty and premium for this re-enlistment amount to four hundred and two dollars for each soldier, in addition to the monthly pay. One month's pay will be paid in advance, on being mustered into service. The bounty and premium, in addition to the monthly pay, will be $27 on being mustered in, $50 more in two months, $50 more in six months, $50 more after one year, $50 more after eighteen months, $50 more after two years, $50 more after two years and a half, and $75 more at the expiration of three years' service. And if the war should not last three years from the present time, still the whole bounty will be paid to those who shall have served to the end; and if they die in service their heirs will receive it.

The expiration of the terms of enlistment of our nine month's troops affords an opportunity for a renewed display of patriotic zeal and devotion, in again enlisting under the banners of the Republic and filling the ranks of our veteran regiments.

A soldier who has seen nine months of actual service is of more value than two new recruits, and a new recruit who enlists in an old regiment in the field becomes of more value there than three who enlist in new and untried levies.

Favorable opportunities are also presented for officers whose terms are expiring, and who have shown by their bravery and good conduct, that they were worthy of the trusts committed to them, to raise new companies and regiments, within sixty days, and thus to be again commissioned, and to render their skill and experience once more available to the country. For the time thus spent in recruiting, under proper authority from the State Executive, they will receive the pay belonging to their rank.

To the nine months' volunteers, whose time of service is now closing, an earnest appeal is now made to re-enlist. Now is the time, when effectual and decisive blows are to be struck for the achievement of permanent success. Now is the most important crisis, the golden opportunity, which should be seized upon with alacrity and determination. All that is wanting to end the rebellion, is the present and timely aid of tried and experienced soldiers. We have the men among us; they are coming home from their brave and honorable toils and exposures;—from fields where they have shown themselves worthy of our confidence and our praise. Let us now witness again the same alacrity, spirit and earnest patriotism which distinguished the earlier days of the war; and the assurance of success, which this time shall be permanent and decisive, will crown our labors and sacrifices for our country.

Opportunities for enlisting are not confined to those who have been in service. All who wish may enlist—(and all who will, are called and urged to come)—either in new organizations, or, what is far more preferable, in the old regiments now in the field; although the large amount of bounty, mentioned in the General Orders just issued, is only offered to those who have served at least nine months. All are called upon, the new and inexperienced recruit, as well as the veteran soldier; and all will be welcomed to the service.

Instructions for the appointment of recruiting officers, and for enlisting veteran volunteers, have been issued by the War Department and are this day promulgated by the Adjutant General of Massachusetts. Those who would re-enlist should give immediate notice. Those who wish to recruit, either for our veteran three years' regiments and batteries now in the field, or for the recruitment of nine months troops re-organizing for three years' service are invited to report in writing to the Adjutant General of Massachusetts, without delay.

It is my earnest desire to encourage to the utmost the enlistment of all who are willing, but especially the officers and men of every existing corps, to recruit their ranks and to march anew. I know the immeasurable value such veterans would be to the service, especially at an hour like this. And if I could imagine a word which might add impression to the events now crowding upon the scenes of war, or could emphasize, by ever so little, the weight of those transactions visible to every eye, I would attempt its utterance. But the day has come when words are weak, and exhortation feeble and vain.

The voice of our brothers' blood cries to us from the ground, from a hundred battle fields and from fair valleys now torn and trampled by the hoofs of invading foes. The cannon thunders the inexorable call; and the flame of the burning dwellings of our loyal brethren on the banks of the Susquehannah light the way to Duty.

Men of Massachusetts! Sooner or later, the rebellion shall be crushed; this horrible crime against our country, against the order and very existence of a government of peaceful law against society and against human nature itself shall be overtaken by a punishment as terrible as the crime. The people will one day inflict the blow, which history will record and mankind will recognize as the vengeance of God. Will they do it only when worn with delay, wearied with defeats, and desperate with suffering, or will they do it now? Now, in the dignity, the majesty, and the calm of their glorious might, while their eye is not dim, nor their strength abated!

And finally—to all the people of Massachusetts, let me make the appeal. On this, the eve of our national anniversary of Independence, let me appeal to every patriotic and manly heart in our venerable Commonwealth! I pray you to dedicate yourselves anew to-morrow, by the altar of your country, to your country's service; and the next—the Sabbath day of our Christian religion, in holier hours repeat your vows. Assemble yourselves and take counsel of each other. In your primary assemblies, warm, stimulate, encourage and instruct one another as patriot and loyal heart must and always will do, when they approach each other. Arouse each man his neighbor and let the slumbering echoes of every hillside in the Commonwealth ring with the shouts of courageous freemen, exulting in the glorious privilege of living now, in these great days for Valor, for the love of Liberty, of Man, and of God.

JOHN A. ANDREW,
Governor of Massachusetts.

COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS,
HEADQUARTERS, Boston, July 3, 1863.
GENERAL ORDER, No. 14.

The accompanying General Orders, No. 191 of the War Department of the United States and the Circular of Instructions of the Provost Marshal General, dated June 29, 1863, are hereby promulgated; and the attention of all the loyal citizens of Massachusetts, and particularly those officers and men who have returned and are returning from active service, is earnestly invoked, to their provisions.

By order of JOHN A. ANDREW, Governor and Commander-in-Chief.

WM. SCHOULER,
Adjutant General.

GENERAL ORDERS—No. 191.

WAR DEPARTMENT,
ADJUTANT GENERAL'S OFFICE,
Washington, June 25, 1863.

For Recruiting Veteran Volunteers.

In order to increase the armies now in the field, volunteer infantry, cavalry and artillery may be enlisted at any time within ninety days from this date, in the respective States under the regulations hereinafter mentioned. The volunteers enlisted, and such of the three years' troops now in the field as may re-enlist in accordance with the provisions of this order, will constitute a force to be designated "Veteran Volunteers." The regulations for enlisting this force are as follows:—

I. The period of service for the enlistments and re-enlistments above mentioned shall be for three years or during the war.

II. All able-bodied men, between the ages of eighteen and forty-five years, who have heretofore been enlisted, and have served for not less than nine months, and can pass the examination required by the mustering regulations of the United States, may be enlisted under this Order as Veteran Volunteers, in accordance with the provisions hereinafter set forth.

III. Every volunteer enlisted and mustered into service as a Veteran, under this Order, shall be entitled to receive from the United States one month's pay in advance, and a bounty and premium of four hundred and two ($402) dollars, to be paid as follows:—

1	Upon being mustered into service, he shall be paid one month's pay in advance,	$13 00
	First instalment of bounty,	25 00
	Premium,	2 00
	Total payment on muster,	$40 00
2	At the first regular pay day, or two months after muster in, an additional instalment of bounty will be paid,	$50 00
3	At the first regular pay day after six months' service, he shall be paid an additional instalment of bounty,	$50 00
4	At the first regular pay day after the end of the first year's service, an additional instalment of bounty will be paid,	$50 00
5	At the first regular pay day after eighteen months' service, an additional instalment of bounty will be paid,	$50 00
6	At the first regular pay day after two years' service, an additional instalment of bounty will be paid,	$50 00
7	At the first regular pay day after two and a half years' service, an additional instalment of bounty will be paid,	$50 00
8	At the expiration of three years' service, the remainder of the bounty will be paid,	$75 00

IV. If the Government shall not require these troops for the full period of three years, and they shall be mustered honorably out of service before the expiration of their term of enlistment, they shall receive, upon being mustered out, the whole amount of bounty remaining unpaid, the same as if the full term had been served. The legal heirs of volunteers who die in service shall be entitled to receive the whole bounty remaining unpaid at the time of the soldier's death.

V. Veteran Volunteers enlisted under this order will be permitted at their option to enter old regiments now in the field; but their service will continue for the full term of their own enlistment, notwithstanding the expiration of the term for which the regiment was originally enlisted. New organizations will be officered only by persons who have been in service, and have shown themselves properly qualified for command. As a badge of honorable distinction, "service cheverons" will be furnished by the War Department, to be worn by the Veteran Volunteers.

VI. Officers of regiments whose terms have expired, will be authorized on proper application, and approval of their respective Governors, to raise companies and regiments within the period of sixty days; and if the company or regiment authorized to be raised shall be filed up and mustered into service within the said period of sixty days, the officers may be recommissioned of the date of their original commissions, and for the time engaged in recruiting they will be entitled to receive the pay belonging to their rank.

VII. Volunteers or militia, now in service, whose term of service will expire within ninety days, and who shall then have been in service at least nine months, shall be entitled to the aforesaid bounty and premium of $402 provided they re-enlist, before the expiration of their present term, for three years or the war; and said bounty and premium shall be paid in the manner herein provided for other troops re-entering the service. The new term will commence from date of re-enlistment.

VIII. After the expiration of ninety days from this date, volunteers serving in three years' organizations, who may re-enlist for three years or the war, shall be entitled to the aforesaid bounty and premium of $402, to be paid in the manner herein provided for other troops re-entering the service. The new term will commence from dato of re-enlistment.

IX. Officers in service, whose regiments or companies may re-enlist, in accordance with the provisions of this order, before the expiration of their present term, shall have their commissions continued so as to preserve their date of rank, as fixed by their original muster into United States service.

X. As soon after the expiration of their original term of enlistment as the exigencies of the service will permit, a furlough of thirty days will be granted to men who may re-enlist in accordance with the provisions of this order.

XI. Volunteers enlisted under this order will bo credited as three years' men in the quota of their respective States. Instructions for the appointment of recruiting officers and for enlisting Veteran Volunteers will be immediately issued to the Governors of states.

By order of the Secretary of War:

E. D. TOWNSEND.
Assistant Adjutant General.

[CIRCULAR.]

PROVOST MARSHAL GENERAL'S OFFICE,
WASHINGTON, June 29, 1863.

His Excellency the Governor of Massachusetts, Boston, Massachusetts:

Sir—Under General Orders No 191, current series, from the War Department, you are hereby authorized to raise four regiments Veteran Volunteer Infantry, and three batteries Veteran Volunteer Artillery.

In addition to the requirements of the General Orders cited, the following instructions will govern:

I. Under par. III of the Orders, all men, before they can re enter the service, must produce an honorable discharge from the service, of the usual form.

II. Under par. IV of the Orders, the advance pay, first instalment of bounty and premium, will be paid as directed in General Orders No 163, current series, from the Adjutant General's office.

The additional instalments of bounty will be paid under the regulations of the Pay Department, by Paymasters when they make the periodical payments of the troops. The final instalment or remainder of the bounty will be paid on the muster-out rolls, at the expiration of the term.

III. All volunteers who enlist for regiments in the field will be provided for, and forwarded to their commands by the Superintendent of the Recruiting Service of the State, in the same manner as recruits sent heretofore.

IV. For such new organizations as you may raise, the requirements of General Order of No 75 of 1862 will govern. If you conclude to reorganize regiments or companies, the officers of the regiments or companies, will act as recruiting officers. Should they reorganize their commands within the period of sixty days they will be paid according to their rank on the muster and pay rolls of their regiments and companies; should they fail, the requirements of Sec. 2, Part 1, of General Orders 75 of 1862 will be applied to them. In other respects, the requirements of General Order 75 will govern the recruitment.

V. In selecting officers, the selections will necessarily have to be made from two classes, viz:

1st, Those honorably discharged, "by expiration of service" of the organization with which they served.

2d, Those honorably discharged, by resignation or otherwise, prior to "expiration of service" of their organization.

The selections from the 1st Class can be made by you, without reference to this Department, in accordance with your usual rules.—In selecting from the Second, the approval of the War Department will be necessary. To this end, you will please submit to the Adjutant General of the Army, for the action of the War Department, the names of such officers as you may select from this class.

In doing this you will first assure yourself that they were honorably discharged, and, if the discharge was on account of physical disability, a certificate from the Surgeon General of your State, to the effect that the applicant has fully recovered, and is able to undergo the fatigues of a campaign, must accompany the application to reappoint. The report received, you will be authorized to recommission, provided the records of the War Department show that the military history of the officer will justify it.

VI. Re-enlistments under paragraphs 8 and 9 will be conducted under the immediate orders of the War Department, through the Adjutant General of the Army. These orders will be communicated to the Generals Commanding the Armies and Departments, and their re-enlistments and consequent re-musters will be under the supervision of the Commissaries and Assistant Commissaries of Musters for the Army or Department.

I have the honor to be, Sir,
Very respectfully,
Your obedient servant,
JAMES B. FRY,
July 22, 1863. 3t Provost Marshal General.

Peabody Library.

Owing to the inclement weather last Saturday the Library will be open on SATURDAY next, afternoon and evening, until 8 o'clock, to receive Books and Periodicals.

There are several missing numbers of Periodicals which should be immediately returned.

South Danvers, July 22, 1863.

MANUAL FENOLLOSA,
TEACHER
OF THE
Violin, Piano and Singing,
Music Rooms, No. 7 Central Street,
SALEM, MASS.

SALVE AND SALVATION.—That "little pot of ointment" might have meant Grace's Salve, which cures everything on the skin in the shape of eruptions. It cures boils also, and felons, and sore breast. In short there is such an emollience about it that the ladies use it as a cosmetic. Only 25 cents. See advertisement in another column.

☞ Try one of Rhoades' National Clothes Wringers, before purchasing elsewhere. For ale at the Equity Store, South Danvers. See advertisement.

PEABODY'S PRICE LIST OF SUN UMBRELLAS:

14 inch Steel Frames,	$1 20;
14 inch Steel Frames,	$1 20;
16 inch Steel Frames,	$1 50;
18 inch Steel Frames,	$1 75;
20 inch Steel Frames,	$2 00;

SUN UMBRELLAS
—at—
Reduced Prices,
—at—
JOHN P. PEABODY'S.

☞ Visit OSBORNE'S Store, and look at the unusual variety of new styles in HATS and CAPS—191 Essex street.

Port of Danvers.

Arr 11th, Br sch H O Warren, Clementsport; 12th, schs Sarah Buck, Bangor; 13th, Pearl, Rockland; 16th, Catharine, Bangor.

Marriages.

In this town, July 4, by Rev Mr Barber, Mr Charles Lyon to Miss Patience Albee, both of Salem; 15th, Mr Francis Patch to Miss Clarinda E Whipple, both of Hamilton.

In Salem, July 16th, by Rev Dr Briggs, Mr Edward A Day to Miss Margaret W, daughter of Nathan Millett, Esq.; 16th, by Rev Mr Beaman. Mr Wm H Grimes to Miss Josephine Broderick; July 2d, by Rev Mr Hartney, Mr Patrick Scanlan to Miss Catharine Kenny.

In Freedom, N H, June 3, by Rev Mr Slason, of Topsfield, Mass, to Mr John Bailey jr, of Parsonsfield, Me., to Miss Mary A Moore of Topsfield.

Deaths.

In this town, July 20, Mr Augustus Hammond, 58 years 6 months.

In Salem, July 14, Peirce L Wiggin, Esq, 81 years 5 mos; 14th, Mr Henry M'Cloy, 34; 17th, Dr John R Putten, 56 years 4 mos 10 ds; Mrs Hannah Crowell, 88; 19th, Edward, son of the late Mr Robert Farrell, 8 yrs 7 mos 21 ds—accidentally drowned while bathing near Fryo's Mill.

In Beverly, Mrs Dorcas, wife of Mr Samuel Thissell, 83; Mrs Mary K, widow of the late Wm Dodge, 89; Mrs Lucretia, widow of late Nathan Poland, 79; Mrs Betsy, widow of the late Josiah Foster, 70 years 11 mos.

In Worcester, 10th, Miss Abigail L Pope, 59, formerly of Danvers port.

In Northampton, July 12, Miss Mary Lander, 17 yrs—daughter of Wm A Lander, Esq, of Danvers.

☞ The extraordinary success of Dr. Ham's Invigorating Spirit, seems to stir up an army of Tonics, Bitters, and Cure Alls; but as a general thing they are like the Morning Glory—look very fine in the morning but wilt before the day has past. The Dr has been before the public for years; his Dyspepsia Remedy has been tested and not found wanting; it acts on the Liver, Stomach, Head and the whole system; it is good at all times and for everybody.

Hunnewell's Great Remedies.

WHAT EVERY FAMILY SHOULD HAVE IN THE HOUSE AND WHY;

☞ They should have HUNNEWELL'S UNIVERSAL, COUGH REMEDY, because it effectually cures Colds, Whooping and Common Coughs Sore Throat, Hoarseness, and is the most simple and perfect Soothing Syrup in the world. For old and young, by day and night, it may be used with the greatest freedom, and three-fourths of the deaths by Consumption stopped.

They should have HUNNEWELL'S TOLU ANODYNE, because it is a perfect remedy for Neuralgia, Nervous or Sick Headache, Tooth, and Earache, Pain in Stomach, or Bowels, Genuine Cholera Morbus, Rheumatism, Distress after Eating, Nervousness, Hysteria, and the chief of all causes of disease, and Insanity, Loss of Sleep. Its character, though active, is simple; its action in perfect conformity to nature; its end cure, or relief.

For the pains in Monthly Menstruation a perfect relief, while nature's after work is not disturbed, and one of the most important points in Medicine.

They should have HUNNEWELL'S ECLECTIC PILLS, because with seldom but a single Pill for a dose all derangements of the Stomach and Bowels are cured. They cure Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Headache, when caused by foul stomach, Loss of Appetite, Biliousness, so often and so erroneously treated with Mercurials, Jaundice. For Worms a sure cure.

They act simple, assist nature, do not make a Pill Box of the stomach, as is the most fatal error of taking so many Pills at a dose; and then, what is important to over, nearly one-half a dose, one-third goes as far as two or three of what is ordinarily sold.

The confidence of all is asked to test
Hunnewell's Universal Cough Remedy.
Hunnewell's Tolu Anodyne.
Hunnewell's Eclectic Pills.

☞ Fac-simile of J. L. Hunnewell's signature over corks of genuine only.

JOHN L. HUNNEWELL, proprietor,
9 Commercial Wharf, Boston, Mass.

George E. Meacom, Agent for Danvers.
For sale by all dealers in Salem and vicinity.
Apr. 1, 1863—1 y

M. FENOLLOSA,
TEACHER OF MUSIC,
LETS.....PIANO FORTES,
at the lowest rates;
SELLS.....PIANO FORTES,
at the Manufacturers Prices;
EXCHANGES....PIANO FORTES,
on the easiest terms;
At Rooms No. 7 Central street,
feb 11 SALEM, MASS.

Advertisements.

MORRIS'
RESTAURANT,
18 and 20 Derby Square, Salem.

Oysters, Clams, Steak, Poultry, Game, Fish, &c., &c., cooked to order.

Pickled Oysters, Lobsters and Clams.

Salem, July 22, 1863. tf

List of Letters

REMAINING in the Post Office at South Danvers, July 21, 1863. [Persons calling for these letters will please say they are advertised.]

Butler Chas N		McKenney Lewis
Brackett Clara F		Miller Wm
Bray B S.		McDonnell John
Crawford Wm		McLeonard John
Chute J E	3	Muzzy Martha A
Caird Abby		Miller Wm
Frye Peter J		Nevers James
Foster Abbie A		Newhall L H
Ferguson Mich'l C		Neal Lizzie
Herrick John		Ridcout Maria
Hamilton A T		Rhodes Agnes M
Kneeland Hattie		Sylvester John
Kennedy B Mrs	2	Scott Freddie G
Lightfoot Elizabeth		Walsh Mary
Marshall John Henry

N. B. These letters are subject to an additional postage of one cent each.

FITCH POOLE, P. M.

FLOUR.
200 BBLS. Arcade Mills, received this day—for sale by jy 22 GAYLE & CO, Phillips Wharf.

FLOUR.
100 BBLS. Jordan Mills, rec'd this day. For sale by jy 22 GAYLE & CO, Phillips Wharf.

FLOUR.
100 BBLS. Fagin's Invincible, rec'd this day—for sale by
jy 22 GAYLE & CO., Phillips Wharf.

BROKEN BARK.
DAMAGED Bark, suitable for kindling, for sale by GAYLE & CO., Phillips Wharf.

$100 Reward!

A REWARD OF ONE HUNDRED DOLLARS will be paid by the Salem and South Danvers Railroad Company, to the person giving the information by which any one shall be convicted of placing stones or other obstructions upon their track.

W. P. PHILLIPS, Pres't.
Salem, July 16, 1863.—3w

John P. Peabody.

BARGAINS.

Nice Crochet Nets—heavy	25c
Nice Cord Nets—double	25c
Fine Crochet Nets—pretty	25c
Fifty Cent Wrought Collars	29c
Forty Cent Wrought Collars	25c
Very nice Linen Collars	8c
Nice Linen Bosoms	25c
Nice Linen Bosoms	18c
Nice Linen Handkorchiefs—fine	15c
Good Linen Hdkfs.	12½c
Lace Sleeves—new styles	19c
Ladies' Fancy Linen Hdkfs.	25c
Hand-made Bonnet Ruches	15c
Hand-made Bonnet Ruches	25c
Very fine Ruches—the best	35c
Nice Black Lace Veils	42c
Good Black Lace Veils—new styles	50c
Extra Bargains in Black Veils	88c
Nice French Lace Veil	$1 25
Brown, blue, green and drab Veils 85 and	$1 00
Double Collarette Ruffle	12½c
Fancy Dress Ruche, hand-made	15c
Fancy Dress Ruffles—new	25c
Linen Setts, Collar and Sleeves	17c

Our whole Stock is marked at prices that cannot fail to suit any one in search of bargains.

JOHN P. PEABODY.

14 inch Sun Umbrellas	$1 10
14 inch Sun Umbrellas	$1 10
16 inch Sun Umbrellas	$1 50
16 inch Sun Umbrellas	$1 50
18 inch Sun Umbrellas	$1 75
18 inch Sun Umbrellas	$1 75
20 inch Sun Umbrellas	$2 00
20 inch Sun Umbrellas	$2 00

We warrant these the best Goods and sell them at these prices only to Reduce Stock.

JOHN P. PEABODY.

HOSIERY and GLOVES,
HOSIERY and GLOVES,
HOSIERY and GLOVES.

The Largest and most desirable StOck of Ladies, Misses, and Children's Hosiery and Gloves in this city, and many styles at prices far below the present Market value.

Ladies' Cotton Hosiery, Misses' COtton Hosiery, ChIldren's Cotton Hosiery.

Lisle Thread,
Silk Taffeta,
Silk and Linen,
Raw Silk,
Kid Finished,
and all the common grades of GLOVES, in all sizes and prices.

KID GLOVES.

Our Best Kid Gloves—in all sizes and colors—a fresh stock.

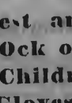
JOHN P. PEABODY.

MITTS.

Black Lace Mitts in all sizes, for Ladies, Misses and Children.

MITTS for 40—45—60—75—90—95—$1—1 25.

BARGAINS.



OUR PRICE LIST OF
FANCY GOODS.

Rose Soap—two cakes for	5c
Pumice Soap—the best per cake	5c
Honey Soap—large size per cake	5c
Brown Windsor per package	25c
White Castile Soap—nice, per cake	10c
Castile Soap—imported	8c
Almond Soap—highly scented	10c
Amber Soap—round cakes	4c
Barber's Soap—for shaving	6c
Tooth Brushes—8, 10, 12½, and	25c
Hair Brushes 25, 38, 50, 75, and	$1 25
Clark's Indellible Pencils	17c
Ladies' Rubber Pages	12½c
Leather Wallets 25, 50, 62, $1 and	$1 25
Puff Boxes, Powders, Brushes, &c.

STOCK TO BE REDUCED.

ONE PRICE ONLY!

280 ESSEX ST., SALEM,
JOHN P. PEABODY.
July 22d, 1863.

James F. Almy.

PRICES REDUCED.

We are closing our entire stock of
SUMMER DRESS GOODS,
MANTILLAS,
SUMMER SHAWLS,
HOSIERY,
GLOVES,
SUN UMBRELLAS,
&c., &c.,
—AT—
REDUCED PRICES.

Our stock is too well known to require enumeration, and we are assured that we have never been able to offer better prices, compared with ruling rates, than at the present time.

JAMES F. ALMY,
188 Essex, opposite Central st.
July 15, 1863.

NEW STOCK
—OF—
DRY GOODS
—AT—
No. 238 Essex street,
(Three Doors West of the Tunnel.)

THE Subscriber opened on MONDAY, May 18th,

A Fresh Stock of Dry Goods,

Consisting of nearly all the new styles of Dress Goods, Ladies' Cloths, Cloths for Men's & Boys' Wear; Shawls, Domestic and Housekeeping Goods; Sun Umbrellas; Parasols; Hoop Skirts; Hosiery; Gloves; &c., &c., &c.

☞ All the above Goods will be sold for CASH, at Low Prices.

GEORGE P. DANIELS.
Salem, May 20.

SALEM SUPERIOR.
150 BBLS. of this favorito brand rec'd this day by rail.
For Sale by GAYLE & CO.,
jy 8 Phillip's Wharf.

BAKERS' FLOUR,
150 BBLS. Union Mills, made expressly for Bakers' use. For sale by
GAYLE & CO.,
jy 8 Phillips' Wharf.

STRAW HATS, &c.,
At No. 10 Front St. Salem.

JUST received—a large lot of STRAW HATS, which will sell at less than original cost.

HATS AND CAPS—good styles—at the lowest possible prices—viz: some that are sold at other stores for $1, for 40 cents.

BOOTS AND SHOES, for Men and Boys. Come and see.

Silver Plated Table and Tea Spoons, at about half price.

Crockery and Glass Ware closing out at old prices.

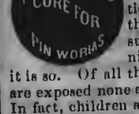
Fancy Goods, Dry Goods, Clothing—selling at such prices as will suit; Looking Glasses, Clocks, etc., etc.

Straw and Painted Carpeting; 1 Regulator or 35 days.

☞ Now is a chance to purchase, as I am determined to sell.

BENJ. COLMAN,
july 8—3w 10 Front st. Salem.

Mothers—Take Heed!



GIVE no more poison to your children. Do you ever think when observing the uneasy actions of your children, that the only cause of the little sufferer's illness is worms? In nineteen cases out of twenty it is so. Of all the diseases to which children are exposed none are so fatal to them as worms. In fact, children are seldom free from them, as worms imitate the symptoms of many other complaints. They often produce alarming effects without being suspected as the cause.—The only certain cure—one of nature's own remedies, a compound of nothing but Roots and Herbs—is

Mrs. Osborne's Universal Worm Powders.

They will eradicate all worms from the system, if the directions are strictly adhered to. No more filthy vermifuge will be used by those who have once used these Powders. The active principle in all other vermifuges, Worm Killers, Syrups and Medicated Lozenges, is Mercury, as any physician will tell you. Many dealers will recommend inferior preparations, and low-priced articles, affording more profit to themselves. Be sure and obtain only Mrs. Osborne's Worm Powders. Price 25 cts. per box. Sold by D. P. GROSVENOR, Main st. South Danvers, June 17, 1863. 3m

Tillage Land and Barn to Let.

ABOUT six acres of good level Tillage Land with a Barn, situated upon the "Cross Road" in Rockville. Any one wishing to work upon land a portion or the whole of his time will find this a rare chance.

For further particulars application may be made to either of the subscribers.

S. C. BANCROFT, So. Danvers.
JOHN H. NICHOLS, Salem.
South Danvers, Ap. 22.

FLEXIBLE WALLETS,

DESIRABLE styles, adapted for treasury notes and bills—a large and attractive assortment, at
G M WHIPPLE & A A SMITH'S.

SELLING OFF! SELLING OFF!

THE undersigned intending to close up his present business at the earliest opportunity, now offers his ENTIRE STOCK OF

Fine and Plated Jewelry, Solid Silver Ware, Solid Silver Ware, &c.

AT LARGELY REDUCED PRICES,
Regardless of Cost,

FOR THIRTY DAYS ONLY.

After which, all goods remaining on hand will be sold at Public Auction.

Also, for sale, all the movable fittings of said Store, including 5 solid German Silver frame Counter Show Cases; One Tilton & McFarland Fire and Burglar Proof Safe; Chairs, Desks, Stools, &c., &c.

JOSEPH J. RIDER,
2 West Block—188 Essex st.
Salem, June 17, 1863. 1m

WHITE LEAD AND LINSEED OIL,

OF the best quality—for sale at
SC & EA SIMONDS', 32 Front st.

SAUCE PANS AND KETTLES.

A full stock of Enamelled Kettles and Sauce Pans, just opened at
jy 15 SC & EA SIMONDS',
32 Front street.

A. J. Archer & Co

REDUCED PRICES.

A. J. ARCHER & CO.,

Offer their stock of

Summer Dress Goods, Summer Shawls, and Capes,

at REDUCED PRICES—to close.

Salem, july 15—tf

SUMMER SHAWLS!

We open this morning beautiful new

SUMMER SHAWLS.

—Also—

A variety of THIN DRESS GOODS;
8 4 Black Hernani and Crape Maretz;
Black Grenadine. For sale by

A. J. ARCHER & CO.,
Salem, june 3—tf.

Potter, Batchelder & Co.,
(Successors to M. Black)
DANVERS-PORT,
DEALERS IN
WOOD AND COAL

OF the various kinds usually kept in a retai yard. Constantly on hand

Franklin, Old Company's Lehigh,
Locust Mountain, Black Heath,
Red and White Ash.

Of all sizes, of the best quality, and at as low prices as can be bought elsewhere.

OFFICE—No. 6 Allen's Building.

Order Box at post office, South Danvers, and post office, Danvers.

G. W. POTTER,
J. Q. A. BACHELDER,
C. T. BATCHELDER. july 19—tf

ANN R. BRAY,
NO. 76 FEDERAL ST,
SALEM.

WE are selling out all our Black Silks;
We are selling out all our Cambric Prints;
We are selling out all our French Prints;
We are selling out all our nice Taffetas;
We are selling out all our Organdie Muslins;
We are selling out all our Lawns;
We are selling out all our Cotton Hosiery;
We are selling out all our Linen Hdkfs;
We are selling out all our Domestic Goods;
We are selling thin Dress Goods for 1s worth 25 cents;
We are selling Bleached Cottons for 12½ cts;
We are selling light Spring Prints for 1s;
We have the Quaker Skirt for ladies;
We have the Belle Point Skirt for ladies;
We have the Trail Skirt for ladies;
We have the very best Silk for Visites;
We have a full assortment of B P R Silks, which we are selling out very low.

A Card.

Having disposed of my stock and stand to Miss M. E. CRANE, I avail myself of this opportunity to request my friends and customers who have bestowed their liberal patronage upon me, to transfer the same to my successor.

In taking leave of my business friends, I would return my warmest thanks for the generous patronage I have received. I can in the highest terms recommend Miss CRANE, and would bespeak for her your kind consideration and confidence.

I would most respectfully invite those having unsettled accounts to call and adjust the same, either with Miss Crane or myself, at the old stand.

April 22, 1863. M. M. FLETCHER.

Notice.

The Subscriber having purchased of MRS. M. M. FLETCHER her stock of Goods, and made additions to the same, is now prepared to furnish her patrons and the public with a large and fine assortment of

Millinery Goods,

which we will sell very low for cash. We hope by strict attention to business to merit a liberal share of patronage. M. E. CRANE,
ap 22 cor. of Essex and St. Peter sts.

SPIRITS TURPENTINE

AND Benzole Spirits, for sale at
SC & EA SIMONDS', 32 Front st.

SEWING MACHINES.

PERSONS about purchasing SEWING MACHINES will find it to their advantage to consult

JOHN H. CHOATE,
SEWING MACHINE AGENT.
Over Newman & Symonds' Store, Lowell St.
Second-hand Machines bought and sold.
South Danvers, May 13—tf

SPRING BEDS! SPRING BEDS!

ALL those that are inclined to rest their weary limbs on the most luxurious

SPRING BED

that was ever invented, are invited to call at

No. 52 Main St., South Danvers,

and there see the very best SPRING BED BOTTOM that has been offered to the public.

Not having been able at first to meet the demands, I now have the facilities to supply all orders.

Having bought the right to make and vend for the county of Essex, the subscriber would be happy to supply all those who may favor him with a call.

Rights for sale for any town or city in the county except Haverhill and Lawrence.

THOS. TRASK.
South Danvers, June 17, 1863.

George S. Walker.

AT REDUCED PRICES.

GENT'S SUMMER UNDER-SHIRTS, DRAWERS, HOSIERY, GLOVES, TIES, &c., &c.,

FOR the balance of the season, can be bought at Low PRICES, at
GEORGE S. WALKER'S,
Gent's Furnishing Store,
july 15 228 Essex Street, Salem, Mass.

SUSPENDERS.

COMMON, Medium and Superior qualities, at the lowest prices, at
GEO. S. WALKER'S, 228 Essex st.

Gent's Linen Handkerchiefs.

PLAIN, Col'd and Hem-Stitched—for sale by
GEO. S. WALKER,
Dealer in Gent's Furnishing Goods,
jy 15 Opp Eastern Railroad Station.

FIRST CLASS GOODS
AT THE LOWEST PRICES

"POPULAR PRICES."

MESSRS. BROWNING & LONG, finding that "Low Prices" are appreciated, continue offering Great Inducements.

Constantly on hand the Largest Assortment of Ladies' Furnishing Goods in the city.

MARK THE PRICES!

Good Thread Nets,	25c;
White and Unbleached Hose,	18c;
Ladies' Colored Cotton Hose,	10c;
Nice Open-work Hose,	28c;
White Misses' and Unbleached Hose,	16c;
Children's Colored Hose,	16c;
Gent's good half-Hose,	16c;
Misses' Fancy Cotton Hose,	16c;
Nice Lisle Gloves,	15c;
Ladies' Mohair Mitts,	40c;
Ladies' All-Linen Hdkfs,	13c;
All-Linen Hem-Stitched Hdkfs,	30c;
Embroidered Collars,	15c;
Nice Crape Collars,	25c;
Gent's Woven Bosoms,	8c;
Bead Nets,	25c.
Fine Combs,	2c;
Children's Mitts,	15c;
Nice Embroidered Gloves;	15c;

and many others in like comparison.

THE VERY LATEST STYLES
—OF—
NEW GOODS.

We have many Goods on hand which were bought at very low prices, and can therefore offer many Bargains.

BROWNING & LONG
Essex St., 177 Essex St.,
Salem, July 22, 1863.

Quincy Mutual Fire Insurance Co.
Available and Cash Capital $500,000.

INSURES Buildings, Merchandize and Personal Property generally, on terms as favorable as any other dividend paying company.

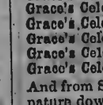
J. D. BLACK, Agent,
april 22—1y At Danversport.

Merrimack Mutual Fire Insurance Co., Andover, Mass.

ONE of the OLD AND RELIABLE OFFICES.

J. D. BLACK is Agent for Danvers and South Danvers. apr 22—1y

VALUABLE REAL ESTATE.



THE Subscriber offers for sale on favorable terms,—or would exchange for a Farm,—his Estate on Wallis Street, near the Monumental Cemetary, consisting of THREE DWELLING HOUSES, which will be sold separately or as one Estate.

There are 75 feet of land in front, and 72 feet in the rear of the house.

The situation is pleasant, in a good neighborhood, and the houses are supplied with all the conveniences for immediate occupation. In ordinary times these tenements would rent for from 330 to 350 dollars.

The Subscriber, having made up his mind to dispose of the property, will sell it low, and it is well worth the attention of purchasers.

Apply to JOHN M'NEAL.
South Danvers, Dec. 10th, 1862. tf.

THE PIANO FORTES

THAT have attracted so much attention of late, and are so much admired on account of their SPLENDID FULL, RICH, MELLOW TONE, and GRAND FRENCH ACTION, are for sale only at the Office of the Agent,

218 Essex Street, Salem, Mass.,

where reference may be had to many who have purchased. Other Piano Fortes also, are for sale, varying in price from $180 upwards. Please call.

Mch 11 6m S. MACKINTIRE, Agent.

Choice Spring Pigs for Sale.

THE subscriber offers for sale nice PIGS of Mackie Prince Albert and Chester County breeds, of which the Mackie took the First Premium at the last Cattle Show. Prices reasonable.

BYRON GOODALE,
Near Tapley's Brook.
South Danvers, April 22, 1863. tf

PHOTOGRAPH ALBUMS.

A FULL assortment constantly on hand.
G M WHIPPLE & A A SMITH.

THE CLOTHES WRINGER.

RHOADES' CELEBRATED
NATIONAL CLOTHES WRINGER,
THE VERY BEST YET INVENTED,
AND REALLY A LABOR SAVING MACHINE.
CALL AND EXAMINE.
For Sale by C. T. SOUTHWICK,
At the EQUITY GROCERY STORE,
South Danvers, July 8, 1863.

NEW BOOKS,
AT G. M. WHIPPLE & A. A. SMITH'S.

WAR Pictures from the South, by B Estvan, Colonel of Cavalry in the Confederate Army;

Cattle and their Diseases, by Rbt Jennings, V. S.;

The Tiger Slayer, a Tale of the Indian Desert, by Gustave Aimard.

jy 22 Sign of the Five Golden Books.

SUMMER EXCURSIONS.

EASTMAN'S White Mountain Guide;
Map of Massachusetts with Railroads and Town ships;
Map of New England, New York and Canada, with Railroads and Townships;
Appleton's Companion Hand-Book of travel;
Books from the Circulating Library at half-price. For sale by
G M WHIPPLE & A A SMITH.

Dr. Ham's Spirit.

☞ If you want to SAVE MONEY, in purchasing Goods, go to COLMAN'S, No. 10 Front street, Salem. ap30-tf

Auction Sales.

WILLIAM ARCHER, Jr.,
Auctioneer, Real Estate and Stock Broker,
34 Front Street.
Real Estate, Bank, Railroad and Manufacturing Stock bought and sold on Commission.

D. P. GROSVENOR, Jr.,

Druggist and Apothecary
63 MAIN STREET.
Dealer in Drugs, Medicines, Chemicals, Dye Stuffs, and Popular Proprietary Medicines.
Personal attention to Physicians' Prescriptions.
South Danvers, May 29, 1861. 1y

GEO. E. MEACOM

Dealer in
DRUGS & MEDICINES,
Fancy & Toilet Articles, &c
126 MAIN ST. 126
Nearly opposite Danvers Bank, So. Danvers

T. A. SWEETSER

Druggist & Apothecary
37 Main St., So. Danvers
DEALER IN
Drugs, Medicines, Chemicals, Foreign Leeches, Shaker Herbs, Dye Stuffs, Gums, Acids, Sponges, Shoulder Braces, Trusses, and Genuine Patent Medicines.
Also, Imported Cigars of choice brands, Perfumery, Toilet Articles and Stationery.
Physicians' Prescriptions carefully prepared by experienced persons.
37 MAIN STREET.

GRACE'S CELEBRATED SALVE

A SURE RELIEF FOR THE SUFFERER

This Salve is a vegetable preparation, invented in the 17th century, by Dr. Wm. Grace, surgeon in King James's army. Through his agency he cured thousands of most serious sores and wounds that baffled the skill of the most eminent physicians of his day, and was regarded by all who knew him as a public benefactor.

Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Burns.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Scalds.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Flesh Wounds.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Corns.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Felons.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Frozen Limbs.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Wens.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Callouses.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Salt Rheum.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Chilblains.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Sore Breast.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Sore Lips.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Erysipelas.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Abscesses.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Ulcers.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Chapped Hands.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Ringworms.

And from Sores and Wounds of the most severe nature down to a common Pimple. It eradicates Pimples from the face, and beautifies the skin. There is no preparation before the public that can equal this Salve in prompt and energetic action for the speedy cure of external diseases, as those who have tried its virtues testify. Soldiers, Sailors, and Fishermen, will find GRACE'S Salve their best friend.

It has none of the irritating, heating properties of other remedies, but cools, cleanses and heals the most serious Sores and Wounds. Every family, and especially those containing children, should keep a box on hand in case of accident, for it will save them much trouble, suffering, and money. All it wants is a fair trial to cure old and inveterate Sores.

MANUFACTURED BY
WILLIAM GRACE,
AMESBURY, MASS.

Price 25 cents, 50 cents, and $1 per box. A saving is made by taking the large size.

Each box has the above cut and the fac-simile of the proprietor's signature attached to it, which is copy righted.

Geo. O. Goodwin & Co., 11 and 12 Marshall; Weeks & Potter, 170 Washington street, and Burr & Co., 26 Tremont street, Boston, Wholesale Agents.

For sale by D. P. Grosvenor, T. A Sweetser, George E. Meacom, Druggists, Main street, Danvers, and at country stores everywhere.

LINSEED OIL, &C.

PURE Linseed Oil and Varnishes, kinds, at
S C & E A SIMONDS', 32 Front

WHITE LEAD IN PAILS.

1000 POUNDS New York White in pails of 25 lbs. each, received at S C & E A SIMONDS'

VARNISHES.

COACH Varnish; Furniture and Varnish, of the best quality, at je 17 SC & E A SIMONDS', 32 Front

FRUIT BASKETS.

WHITE China and White Granite Baskets—at
S. C. & E. A. SIMONDS', 32 Front

WIRE COVERS.

WIRE Dish Covers, in sets of five, at
SC & E A SIMONDS, 32 Front

CREAM ALE

THIS Ale is highly recommended by physicians for
FAMILY USE AND INVALIDS.
Put up in Half Barrels and Barrels.
And for sale by
J. MAGUIRE & CO.,
No. 6 Derby Square, Salem.

Also, Agent for
MASSEY & COLLINS'
PHILADELPHIA ALE.
BUCKHART'S
CREAM ALE.
And Dealer in
LONDON PORTER, SCOTCH ALE, Kinson's Wormwood Cordial, Dr. Plantation Bitters, &c., &c.

J. MAGUIRE & CO.,
july 15 No. 6 Derby Square.

EMANCIPATION HYMN.

QUARTETTE and Chorus—composed and dedicated by permission to the Salem Light Guard, Manuel Fenollosa—for sale by
jy 15 G M WHIPPLE & A A SMITH.

Miscellaneous.

QUICK ON THE TRIGGER.—"You will please observe," said old Mr. Lambwell, as he led us through his school the other day, "that the boys are required to display the utmost attention to questions and discipline, and in a short time become divested of that most annoying disposition to each other; in short, they soon settle down in all the gravity of mature years, under the wholesome system I have introduced."

We at this moment arrived in front of several boys, who were standing around a bucket of water, and one had just charged his mouth with the contents of a tin cup, while the old gentleman was stooping to recover his pen from the floor, when another boy passing behind snapped his finger quietly behind the boy's ear, causing him by a sudden start to eject the contents over the pedagogue's bald pate. Starting upright with his face and hair dripping, the master shouted:

"Who done that?"

The party unanimously cried out, "Jim Gun, sir."

"Jim Gun, you rascal, what did you do that for?"

Jim, appalled at the mischief he had done, muttered out that it was not his fault, but Tom Owen had snapped him.

This changed the direction of old Lambwell's wrath, and shaking his hand portentiously over Owen's head, he asked, "Did you snap Gun?"

The culprit, trembling with fear, murmured, "Yes, sir, I snapt Gun, but I didn't know that he was loaded!"

☞ The Post Office in a town in Dixie was kept in the bar-room of a tavern, a great resort for loungers. An old chap more remarkable for his coarseness and infidelity than for his good manners, was sitting there one day with a lot of his boon companions, when the Methodist Minister, a new comer, entered and asked for letters.

Old Swipes spoke up bluntly,

"Are you the Methodist parson just come here to preach?"

"I am," pleasantly replied the minister.

"Well," said Swipes, "will you tell me how old the devil is?"

"Keep your own family record," replied the preacher, and left the house amid the roars of the company.

AN ABUNDANCE OF RED TAPE.—A Newbern correspondent of the Worcester Spy writes:—

I understand, but won't vouch for the truth of the story (for it is only a camp rumor,) that one of our Generals rejected a paper the other day, because a house fly—of which we have an innumerable number just now—settled on the paper and left a "period" in the wrong place—where there should have been only a blank. It was a terrible breach of military discipline, and "red tape" couldn't submit.

☞ An abolition officer wanted to compliment a negro by drinking with him. "Well, Captain," replied Cuff, "I'se very dry, so I won't be ugly about it. Some niggers is too proud to drink with a milishy ossifer; but I think a milishy ossifer, when sober, is just as good as a nigger—specially if the nigger is dry!"

☞ How many fond mothers and frugal housewives keep their pretty daughters and their preserves for some extra occasion—some "big bug" or other—till both turn sour.

☞ If a woman marries a man aged between 35 and 45, thus exempting him from the first class of conscripts, which alone is likely to be called out, is she not guilty of "disloyal practices!"

☞ An Irish pedagogue recently informed his pupils that the feminine gender should be applied to all ships and vessels afloat excepting mail steamers and men-of-war.

☞ A Spanish proverb says—"A little in the morning is enough; enough at dinner is but little; but a little at night is too much." The Indian philosopher, equally profound, held that "too much rum was just enough."

☞ Why cannot two slender persons ever become great friends? Because they will always be slight acquaintances.

☞ A drunkard, hearing that the earth was round, said that accounted for his rolling over so often.

☞ Some men ought to have a very clear conscience—if straining would do it.

☞ Unpleasant—to kiss a rosy-cheeked girl and get a mouthful of rouge.

☞ Seneca calls sloth "the nurse of beggary, the mother of misery."

☞ You are writing my bill on very rough paper, said a client to his attorney. Never mind, said the lawyer, it has to be filled before it comes into court.

THE CONFESSIONS AND EXPERIENCE OF A NERVOUS YOUNG MAN.—Published as a warning and for the especial benefit of young men, and those who suffer with Nervous Debility, Loss of Memory, Premature Decay, etc., etc., by one who has cured himself by simple means, after being put to great expense and inconvenience, through the use of worthless medicines prescribed by learned Doctors. Single copies may be had (free) of the author, C. A. Lambert, Esq., Greenpoint, Long Island, by enclosing an addressed envelope. Address

CHARLES A. LAMBERT, Greenpoint, Long Island, New York.

New Jersey Lands for Sale,

— ALSO —

GARDEN OR FRUIT FARMS,

Suitable for Grapes, Peaches, Pears, Raspberries, Strawberries, Blackberries, Currants, &c., of 1, 2½, 5, 10 or 20 acres each, at the following prices for the present, viz: 20 acres for $200, 10 acres for $110, 5 acres for $60, 2½ acres for $40, 1 acre for $20. Payable by one dollar a week.

Also, good Cranberry lands, and village lots in CHETWOOD 25 by 100 feet, at $10 each, payable by one dollar a week. The above land and farms are situated at Chetwood, Washington Township, Burlington, New Jersey. For further information, apply with a P. O. Stamp, for a circular, to

B. FRANKLIN CLARK,
feb 18, 1863 No. 90 Cedar St, New York, N. Y.

TERRIBLE DISCLOSURES—SECRETS FOR THE MILLION!—A most valuable and wonderful publication. A work of 400 pages, and 30 colored engravings. DR. HUNTER'S VADE MECUM, an original and popular treatise on Man and Woman, their Physiology, Functions, and Sexual Disorders of every kind, with Never-Failing Remedies for their speedy cure. The practice of Dr. Hunter has long been, and still is, unbounded, but at the earnest solicitation of numerous persons, he has been induced to extend his medical usefulness through the medium of his "Vade Mecum." It is a volume that should be in the hands of every family in the land, as a preventive of secret vices, or as a guide for the alleviation of one of the most awful and destructive scourges ever visited mankind. One copy, securely enveloped, will be forwarded free of postage to any part of the United States for 50 cents in post office stamps or 3 copies for $1. Address, post paid, DR. HUNTER, No. 3 Division Street, New York. je 3—1y

Cards.

WILLIAM G. CHOATE,
Attorney and Counsellor at Law,
251 Essex St., Salem.
Salem, August 6, 1862. tf

THOMAS M. STIMPSON,
Attorney and Counsellor at Law,
194 ESSEX STREET, SALEM.
Residence Lowell street, South Danvers.

B. C. PERKINS,
Attorney and Counsellor at Law,
South Danvers—Office in Allen's Building.

JOHN W. PROCTOR
Counsellor at Law,
Office near the Monument.

A. A. PUTNAM,
Attorney and Counsellor at Law,
CORNER MAPLE AND ELM ST.,
DANVERS.

ALFRED A. ABBOTT,
Attorney and Counsellor,
Office, No. 24 Washington Street, Salem; House, Main St., So. Danvers.

IVES & PEABODY,
Attorneys and Counsellors at Law,
Have removed their Office to
Rooms formerly occupied by Hon. Otis P. Lord,
NO. 27 WASHINGTON STREET, SALEM,
STEPHEN B. IVES, jr. JOHN. B. PEABODY

SIDNEY C. BANCROFT,
Attorney and Counsellor at Law,
27 Washington Street, Salem.

H. O. WILEY,
Attorney and Counsellor at Law,
Office, Allen's Building, So. Danvers.

Claims against the Government for Bounty Back Pay, and Pensions, promptly attended to

A. S. CRAWFORD!
Dentist,
No. 4 MAIN STREET, So. DANVERS SQUARE
Mechanical Dentistry Neatly Executed.
Teeth Extracted by Electricity without Extra Charge

W. L. BOWDOIN,
SURGEON DENTIST,
No, 208 Essex Street, Salem, (Opposite the Market
Residence—No. 57 Washington street.
jan 11—1y

F. POOLE
INSURANCE AGENT,
Allen's Building (Entrance)
Deeds drawn, and other common forms.

NEWMAN & SYMONDS,
DEALERS IN
Family Groceries, Flour & Grain,
HARD WARE AND CROCKERY,
Ready Made Clothing, Gents' Furnishing Goods, Hats, Caps, Boots, Shoes, &c.,
South Danvers Square, opp. Congregational Church
SAM'L NEWMAN. NATH'L SYMONDS.

S. C. & E. A. SIMONDS,
DEALERS IN
Crockery, China and Hardware; Paper Hangings; Solar and Entry Lamps; Paints, Oil, and Window Glass.
No. 32 Front street, Lawrence Place,
feb13 SALEM, MASS.

HENRY L. WHIDDEN,
HOUSE AND SIGN PAINTER,
Glazier and Paperer,
Central Street, South Danvers.
All orders promptly and faithfully executed.
jan2-1y

E. S. FLINT,
DEALER IN
West India Goods, Country Produce,
No. 2 Main Street, South Danvers.

JESSE SMITH
No. 262 Essex Street, Salem,
Importer and Dealer in
Gold and Silver Watches,
MARINE CHRONOMETERS,
Aneroid Barometers, Spy Glasses, &c.

WILLIAM BLANEY,
HOUSE & SIGN PAINTER
Grainer, Glazier and Paper Hanger.
164 MAIN STREET, Corner of Grove.
WINDOWS and BLINDS cheap for cash.
mch8-tf

JOHN MOULTON,
LIVERY STABLE,
Central Street, South Danvers.
Mr. M. will endeavor to keep up the good reputation of his stable, by still keeping good Horses and Carriages. jan 7, 1863.

BILL PAPER,
OF the best patterns, at
G M WHIPPLE & A A SMITH'S.

W. E. P. SMYTH,
Attorney and Counsellor at Law,
Proctor in Admiralty, and Commissioner of Deeds for the several States.
Frazier's Building, over the Post Office,
LYNN, MASS.

Having peculiar means for prosecuting, with accuracy and dispatch, all claims against Government, especially those for Bounty, Back Pay and Pensions, I have made this a specialty. Several months' residence in Washington enabled me to become thoroughly conversant with the routine of business in all the Departments, through which claims, of whatever nature, are passed, and also familiar with the practice in the U. S. Court of Claims; in addition to which I have a partner there resident, and a former partner in the Treasury Department, which advantages give me unexcelled facilities for the successful prosecution of business in any way connected with Government.

Important to Soldiers, Marines and their Heirs.

Persons enlisted in the U. S. Service, Land or Naval, since March 1, 1861, if disabled in the service, are entitled to Pension; Relatives of Persons deceased in the service are entitled to Bounty and Pension; in the following order:

1st. The Widow. 4th. The Mother.
2d. The Children. 5th The Brothers and Sisters collectively.
3d. The Father.

LETTERS OF ADMINISTRATION need not be taken out, in ordinary cases, to enable heirs of persons deceased in the service to obtain Pensions and Bounty.

When a discharge is granted for disability, in no case should the Oath of Identity on the back of the Discharge be filled up. The safest course is, to carry all papers at once to an Attorney, without tampering with them. All those who have claims, should present them without delay, as soon, the pressure will be so great upon the Auditor's Office, by reason of numerous applications, that applicants will be subjected to vexatious delay in getting their claims audited.

NO CHARGE MADE UNTIL CLAIMS ARE PAID.

Claims left at the Post Office, South Danvers, will be promptly forwarded.

Lynn, Aug 27, 1862—1v

CHARLES S. BUFFUM,
FURNISHING UNDERTAKER,
Central Street, South Danvers,
HAVING provided himself with a HEARSE, is prepared to attend Funerals in any of the neighboring towns, with one or a pair of Horses.
He keeps as good an assortment of
COFFINS AND CASKETS,
as can be found at any establishment, and at the lowest prices.
He will also attend to Laying Out, etc.
All orders from the neighboring towns met with prompt attention. jan 14

SLATING. SLATING.
GEORGE FOWLER & COMPA'Y,
NO. 2 ST. PETER COURT, SALEM, respectfully inform their friends and the citizens of this and neighboring towns and cities that they are prepared to execute all orders for Slating, promptly and faithfully.
Roofs covered with any description of Slates, or repaired at short notice.
All work undertaken will be warranted.
Address—Box 366, Salem Post Office.
Salem, January 28—1863. tf

PATTERSON S
LEATHER HANDLING MACHINE

THE undersigned are agents for the above machine. It can be seen in operation at Pinder & Brown's Tannery.
may 7—3m CLARK & GIDDINGS.

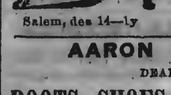
MESSRS. CLARK & GIDDINGS,
Wallis Street, South Danvers,
Are Agents for
GEORGE W. FISKE & CO.'S
PATENT EAVE TROUGHS
GUTTERS, CONDUCTORS AND
PIPE FOR DRAINS.
South Danvers, May 22, 1861.

R. C. MANNING & CO,
Successors to JOHN DIKE & CO.,
DEALERS IN
COAL, WOOD, BARK, HAY, &c,
183 DERBY STREET,
SALEM, MASS.
N. C. ROBBINS, R. C. MANNING.
oct17

FRANKLIN COAL.
JUST landed, a cargo of FRANKLIN COAL—the best in the world for domestic use.
POTTER, BACHELDER & CO.,
Successors to M. Black, Jr.
Danversport, May 6, 1861. tf

E. N. PRICE,
Manufacturer and Dealer in
HARNESSES,
SADDLES, BRIDLES,
AND WHIPS.
— ALSO —
Trunks, Valises and Traveling Bags.
All orders for Manufacturing and Repairing executed with promptness, and in the best manner.
237 Essex Street, Salem, Mass.
mch13-tf

THOMAS PINNOCK,
SLATER,
SALEM, MASS.
Orders may be left at his Yard, No. 25 Peabody St., or at his house No. 6 Hancock street, South Salem.
Roofs covered with any kind of Slates, according to order. All work warranted.
Salem, May 7, 1862. tf

CURRIER & MILLETT,
Dealers in


Furniture, Chairs,
MATTRESSES, FEATHERS, &c
259 & 261 ESSEX ST.
Salem, dec 14—1y

AARON T. LOWE,
DEALER IN
BOOTS, SHOES AND RUBBERS,
76 BOSTON STREET, 76.
aug 6 SALEM. tf

E. R. PERKINS,
PHOTOGRAPHIC ARTIST
241 Essex Street, Salem.
Patent Ambrotypes, Stereoscopes,
Photographs, Sphereotypes, Melainotypes and patent cartes de Pictures, of various sizes, taken with all the improvements of the art. Portraits, Miniatures, Engravings, &c., accurately copied. Views taken when asired. jan 11

HILTON'S INSOLUBLE CEMENT,
UNIVERSALLY liked—for sale by
G M WHIPPLE & A A SMITH.

Crockery Ware.
A FULL assortment of China and Crockery Ware; Wooden Ware; Table Cutlery; Tea Trays; Britannia Ware and Silver Plated Ware, &c—for sale at the General Furnishing Store for Housekeepers, No. 32 Front street.
ap 22 S C & E A SIMONDS.

CARD PHOTOGRAPHS.
RAPHAEL'S Hours. Liberty, On the Beach, Evening, Prince and Princess, etc—at
may 13 G M WHIPPLE & A A SMITH'S

H. & H. G. HUBON,
WASHINGTON STREET, SALEM
Manufacturers of
Rose Wood, Mahogany, Black Walnut and Stained Wood
COFFINS and CASKETS.
MAKING this our exclusive business, we are ready at all times and at the shortest notice to furnish Grave Clothes of various styles, as well as Coffins and Caskets of the finest finish. Personal attention given, and delivered without extra charge to any of the neighboring towns. All orders by express or otherwise will receive prompt attention.
Black Walnut and White Wood Boards, Plank and Joists for sale.
dec 14—tf

GAYLE & CO.,
GENERAL COMMISSION MERCHANTS,
DEALERS IN
Flour, Grain and Produce,
Manufacturers' Agents for the sale of
Concentrated Leaven, Soda and Pearlash Saleratus, and Bi Carb. Soda.
PHILLIPS WHARF, - - - - Salem.

T. HARDY, JR.,
—Dealer in—
DOORS, SASHES, BLINDS,
Glazed Sash, Painted Blinds,
FENCE PALES, STAIR BALUSTERS, FRAMING PINS, &c.,
No. 26 FRONT STREET,
Salem, January 14, 1863—6m

HEYLINGBERG'S
Hair Dressing Saloon,
24 MAIN ST., SOUTH DANVERS.
TARIFF OF PRICES:

Shaving,	6 cts.
Hair Cutting,	12 cts.
Champooing,	15 cts.
Champooing and Hair Cutting,	25 cts.

No more new Quarterly Customers taken.
In consequence of the scarcity of Change, 18 checks will be sold for one dollar.
South Danvers, Dec 17, 1862.

THOMAS DAVIS,
ADVERTISING AGENT
For the principal New England Newspapers, remains at the old stand, No. 23 Cornhill, Boston, where you will find him still loyal to the Constitution, the Laws, and Advertising.
Boston, Jan 29, 1862. tf

WALKING MADE EASY.

DR. P. KENISON,
CHIROPODIST,
215 Washington St., Boston,
Cures Hard and Soft Corns, Bunions, Club Nails, Nails penetrating the Flesh, Warts, &c., in a manner that will satisfy the most incredulous.

SPEED, COMFORT AND SAFETY!

FOR NEW YORK.
Norwich Steamboat Train.
The only Boats Landing at Jersey City.
CABIN Passage, $5.00; Deck Passage, $4.00. The new and elegant sixteen wheel cars of the steamboat express train leave the Boston & Worcester Railroad Station, Albany Street., at 5½ P. M., daily, connecting with the new steamers, (built expressly for this line,) CITY OF BOSTON. Capt. WILCOX, Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays; CITY OF NEW YORK, Capt. JEWETT, Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays, which (before proceeding to their Pier, No. 39 North River,) will touch at the wharf of the New Jersey Railroad at Jersey City, (Sundays excepted) thus enabling Southern Passengers to make sure connections with the First Southern Train, and Ferry and Hack transportation in the crowded streets of New York. This insures ample time for Breakfast before the trains leave. Conductors D. F. WALLER and W. F. BARTON accompany the passengers through.
Tickets, Berths and Staterooms secured at the Railroad Station, and at the Office of the line, 79 Washington Street, Boston.
Through tickets to Philadelphia, Baltimore and Washington can be had at 79 Washington Street, Boston. WM. DICKEY, JR., Agent.
Boston, January 7, 1863.

Chickering & Sons' Piano-Fortes.
Hallett & Cumston's Piano-Fortes.
Hallett & Davis's Piano-Fortes.

We select our Piano-Fortes from the above firms and warrant them to give perfect satisfaction. Our terms are reasonable, and all persons in the city and neighboring towns can be accommodated by calling at 76 Federal street.
FOR SALE—Second-hand Piano-Fortes,—Chickering's and others.
ap 29 ANN R. BRAY.

D. W. BOWDOIN,
—ARTIST IN—
PHOTOGRAPHIC PICTURES.
Rooms No. 175 Essex st, Salem, [Downing's Block]
Portraits, Miniatures, and Views, by the Ambrotype, Daguerreotype, Photograph and Stereoscope process—finished in India Ink, Oil and Water colors.
☞ Particular attention paid to restoring old Daguerreotypes, and other pictures—and making enlarged copies, highly finished. may

E. S. FLINT,
Manufacturer and Dealer in
INNER SOLES,
AND SHOE STIFFENINGS OF ALL KINDS.
2 MAIN STREET, SOUTH DANVERS.

Just Opened,
A SUPERIOR quality corded Taffeta, at 37½ cts. All wool DeLaines, desirable shades; Domestic Goods of every description.
ap 29 ANN R BRAY, 76 Federal st.

CHINA WARE;
GOLD Band China Tea Ware; White and Lustre China do—at
S. C. & E. A. SIMONDS', 32 Front st.

SUMMER READING.
THE cheapest way to get reading matter for the Summer is to take a share in our Circulating Library. All the new and popular Books go in.
je 24 G M WHIPPLE & A A SMITH.

DIARIES FOR
1863. Every variety and style—all sizes—for sale at
G M WHIPPLE & A A SMITH'S,
nov 26 Sign of the Five Golden Books,

NEW YORK WHITE LEAD.
2500 L New York White Lead;
Also, Foreign River White Lead—for sale by
mch 4 S C & E A SIMONDS.

WIRE GOODS.
WIRE Rat Traps; Broilers; Steamers; Sieves etc., just received at
S C & E A SIMONDS', 32 Front st.

JOHN FARRELL,
DRAPER AND TAILOR,
HAVING removed to his old place of business, 188 MAIN ST., South Danvers, (over Batchelder's Grocery Store), is prepared to Cut, Make, Repair, or furnish Garments, for Men and Youths at short notice.
South Danvers, April 1. tf

SOUTH DANVERS
POST OFFICE.
GENERAL MAIL ARRANGEMENT.
MAILS CLOSE
At 10 3-4 A. M., and 4 3-4 P. M.
MAILS DUE
At 9 1-2 A. M., and 3 P. M.
Post Office open (Sundays excepted) from 7 o'clock, A. M., till 8 P. M. Saturdays open till 8 1-2 P. M.
F. POOLE, P. M.
South Danvers, Oct. 1, 1862.

Eastern Railroad.
ON and after MONDAY, April 6, 1863, Trains will leave the Eastern Railroad Station, Washington street, Salem, daily. (Sundays excepted):
For Lynn and Boston, *5.50, 7, 8¼, 9, *10, 11 a m., 1, *2¼, 5¼, 7¼ p. m.
Beverly, 8¼ am., 1, 3½, 5¼, 6.55, 7¼ p m.
W. Beach, Manr, Gloucester, and Rockport, 8¼ a m., 3½, 5¼ p m.
Ipswich and Newburyport, 8¼ a m., 1, 3½, 5¼, 6.55 p m.
Amesbury, 8¼ a m., 1, 5¼ p m.
Portsmouth, 8¼ a m., 3½, 5¼ p m.
Portland, 8¼ a m., 3½ p m.
AND FOR SALEM, FROM
Portland, 8¼ a m., 3 p m.
Portsmouth, 7¼, †11¼ a m., †5¼ p m.
Amesbury, 7.35, 9.40 a m., 5.50 p m.
Newburyport, 7, 8, 10 a m., 12 m, 6¼ p m.
Ipswich, 7.25, 8.25, 10.25 a m, 12.25, 6.40 p m.
Gloucester, 7, 10, 10 10 a m., 4.40 p m.
Manchester, 7.25, 10.25 a m., 4.55 p m.
Beverly, 6.50, 7.50, 8.60, 10.50 a m., 12.50, 5.20, 7 05 pm.
Lynn, 8.05, *9.05, 11.05 a m., 12.50, *1.35, 3.05, *3.35, *4.35, 5.35, *6.20, 58, *7.55, *10.05 p m.
Boston, 7½, *8½, 10½ a m., 12¼, 2½, 3, *4, 5, 6.10, *7, *9½.
*Via Saugus Branch.
†On or on arrival from the East.
‡On Wednesdays this train leaves Boston at 11½ p m. and on Saturdays at 10½ p m.

MARBLEHEAD BRANCH.
Marblehead for Salem, 6¾, 7¾, 8¾, 9¾ a m., 12¾, 1¾, 5¼, 6¾, 7¾ p m.
Salem for Marblehead, 7¼, 8¼, 9.25, 11¼ a m., 1, 3¼, 5¼, 7, 7.50 p m.

SOUTH READING BRANCH.
Trains leave the South Reading Depot in Salem for Boston at 6¾, 9.50 a m., 2.55, 4.55 p m
Boston for Salem, 7 a m., 12 m., 3, 5½ p m.

ESSEX RAILROAD.
Leave Salem for Lawrence and way stations, 7, 11¼ a m., 4.50 p m.
Lawrence for Salem, 8 a m., 12.40, 6 p m.
Danvers for Salem, 8.40 a m., 1.20, 6.40 p m.
South Danvers for Salem, 7¾ a m., 12¾, 3¾, 6¼ p m.
J. PRESCOTT, Superintendent.
Boston, April 6, 1863.

Salem and Lowell Railroad.
ON and after MONDAY, April 6, 1863, Trains will run as follows:
Leave Lowell for Salem, 7.25 a m., and *2.45 p m.
Leave Salem for Lowell, *9.40 a m. and 5.55 p m.
Passengers are not allowed to carry baggage above $50 in value, and that personal, unless notice is given and an extra amount paid. Season tickets do not entitle the holder to take baggage.
*Freight Train with passenger car attached.
F. H. NOURSE, Local Superintendent.
April 6, 1863.

TAKE NOTICE.
THAT Dr. Ham's Dyspepsia Remedy has been before the public for the past ten years. And in that time the people who have used it will vouch for the benefit they have derived from it. The character of his article and its reputation can also be obtained from the dealers who sell it, or have sold it for any length of time, to both of those, Dr Ham refers and is willing to stand the test. And also challenges any new compound to produce the same results, let alone delicacy of flavor, of his INVIGORATING SPIRIT, which for ITS EFFECTS UPON THE BILE, A TORPED LIVER, LOW SPIRITS, or when the blood is affected as seen by SKIN DISEASES or its ACTION UPON THE KIDNEYS, in fact for any person who is run down by the wear and care of this world will find relief in this old and well tried remedy.

Astonishing.
TO Dr. Ham, who has modestly put before the public his DYSPEPSIA REMEDY for ten years past, to look back and see the number of tremendous articles within that time, that have sprang up like a rocket, and gone down like the stick which guides it in its glorious assent. Some come out and claim to tell the public they use unknown Barks from South America, with any quantity of rum from the West Indias, &c. Dr Ham takes this opportunity to refer to the MEDICAL FACULTY here and everywhere that lengthy one to prove a purification of female, who has used it as directed, that will not speak favorable of it for DISORGANIZED STOMACH, Dyspepsia, loss of appetite, want of action of the Kidneys, as well as many other complaints that humanity are afflicted with.

To Ladies.
DR. HAM'S Dyspepsia Remedy is just the thing you require to remove the langour caused by weakness and debility; it invigorates the system, causes the blood to take new life in its varied course through the system, in fact it gives tone to the system and will relieve and remove the thousand irregularities that from various causes you are afflicted with. For Dyspepsia it is a never failing remedy, it has stood the test of years, and we have yet to hear of its failing to give relief to the afflicted thousands who have received health and happiness by its use.

To Gentlemen.
DR. HAM knows that you do not always pay much attention to the many different articles put before you in the paper, but we would refer you to our agents who you will find are the respectable merchants and dealers, in regard to the Invigorating Spirit; some of them have sold it for years, and know well the reputation it has amongst those who have used it in assisting nature to eradicate diseases. It will renovate the system, as it acts directly on the blood, removing all obstructions to the general health, will cure Liver Complaints, Dyspepsia, Nervous Affections, Sour Stomach, Headache, Weakness, Loss of Appetite, as well as obstruction in the Kidney, Bladder or Urinary Organs. Try it. We will guarantee you will be satisfied with the result.
General Depot, 62 Liberty Street, New York. Sold by Weeks & Potter, 154 Washington Street, M. S. Burr & Co, 25 Tremont Street, G. G. Goodwin & Co., 11 Marshall Street, Boston; and in South Danvers by George E. Meacom, T. A. Sweetser, D. P. Grosvenor, Jr., Main Street; and by Druggists everywhere.
FEB 29, 1863 1y

Are you Insured?
THE subscriber would respectfully call your attention to the fact that he is fully prepared to effect INSURANCE AGAINST FIRE, to any amount, at current rates, on
Dwelling Houses, Barns and their contents, Stores, Stocks of Goods, Furniture, &c. &c., and on buildings in process of erection,
And that he is the authorized Agent for the following responsible Stock and Mutual Companies, viz:
Thames Insurance Co., (Stock,) Norwich, Conn. Capital—$500,000.
Amos W. Prentice, Pres. Oliver F. Rice, Sec'y
Conway Insurance Company, (Stock) Boston. Capital and Surplus—$260,000.
James F. Whitney, Pres. David C. Rogers, Sec'y.
City Insurance Company, (Stock) Boston. Capital—$150,000.
Samuel P. Hayward, Pres. Austin W. Benton, Sec'y
Also, will effect Insurance on the LIVES OF INDIVIDUALS, for one year, seven years, or for the whole term of life, in the Massachusetts Mutual Life Ins. Co., Springfield, Mass. Capital and Assets—$375,000.
Caleb Rice, Pres. D. B. Bacon, Sec'y.
William Mack, M. D., Medical Examiner.

WM. ARCHER, Jr.,
18 Washington st. and 34 Front st., Salem.
oj b20-1

E. F. BURNHAM,
SOLE AGENT FOR
SARGENT & CO.S'
MAGIC SOAP
For South Danvers & Salem.
OFFICE—Central St., opp. Lowell Depot, at Burnham's Express Office, So. Danvers.
Price $3.50 per 100 Lbs.
Orders sent by mail or otherwise to So. Danvers will be promptly attended to. tf-oct3

WM. C. HENDERSON,
MANUFACTURER OF
PLAIN AND FANCY
PAPER BOXES,
No. 235 ESSEX STREET,
Sign of "Nest of Boxes,"
july 23 SALEM. tf

JUVENILE BOOKS,
A VERY large assortment for sale by
G M WHIPPLE & A A SMITH.

PUTNAM & MUNROE'S
SOUTH DANVERS & BOSTON
RAILROAD EXPRESS.
Express leaves South Danvers at 10 1-2 a. m.
Freight " " " at 5 p. m.
Express leaves Boston at 3 1-3 p. m.
Freight " " at 5 p. m.
OFFICE at FREIGHT DEPOT, South Danvers Square.
Order Box W. M. Jacobs' store, Main street.
EXPRESS OFFICE, in Boston, 5 Congress Square; 3 Washington St; Freight Office, 24 Blackstone St.
Also an Order Box at 86 Pearl street.
Particular attention paid to removing Furniture, collecting Bills, Notes, Drafts, &c.
ARMY EXPRESS.
Packages received and sent forward daily for Baltimore, Fortress Monroe, Annapolis, Washington, Alexandria, and any other point where the different regiments are stationed.
South Danvers, july 8—tf

GLASS WARE.
CUT and Pressed Glass Goblets; Tumblers; Dishes, etc, just opened at
S C & E A SIMONDS' 32 Front st.

TABLE MATS.
SHAKER Table Mats—for sale by
may 27 S C & E A SIMONDS.

RHEUMATISM AND NEURALGIA
CAN be cured by using STURGIS'S ELECTRIC COMPOUND—so say reliable people in Boston and elsewhere. For sale by
G M WHIPPLE & A A SMITH.

SUMMER ARRANGEMENT.
— TO —
LYNN & BOSTON
— BY —
OMNIBUS & HORSE CAR.
W. F. BURNHAM'S
Line of Omnibuses will leave the Lynn and Boston Omnibus Office, No. 6 Allen's Building, South Danvers, passing down Main Street, through Washington Street, to Lynn, daily.
Leave South Danvers at 7 50 o'clock, A. M., 12 50 and 4 50 P. M.
Leave Lynn (Horse Car Depot, West Lynn) at 9 40 A. M., 2 40 and 6 40 P. M.
Horse Cars leaving Scollay's Building, Court Street, at 8 15 A. M., 1 15 and 5 15 P. M., will meet the Omnibuses at Lynn, at the above named hours, to take passengers to South Danvers.
Sunday Arrangements.
Leave S. Danvers at 7.50 a.m., and 4.50 p.m.
Leave Lynn at 9.40 a.m., and 6.40 p.m.
Cars leave Scollay's Building, Court Street, Boston, to meet the Omnibuses in Lynn for South Danvers, at 8 15 A. M., and 5 15 P. M.
Tickets to Lynn, - - 15 cents.
Through to Boston, - 30 cents.
Through Tickets to and from Boston may be had of the Drivers and Conductors.
Passengers called for at reasonable charges if notice is given at the office.
EXPRESS BUSINESS
Between South Danvers and Lynn promptly attended to, on reasonable terms.
Extra Coaches furnished at short notice.
South Danvers, 1863.

Abbott's South Danvers & Salem
EXPRESS.
Leave South Danvers, - - - - 7½ a m, 1 p m
Leave Salem, - - - - - 10 a m, 4 p m
Orders left at Teel & Moulton's, and principal stores on Main street, South Danvers; and at 7 Washington street, and at Reed's in the Market, Salem.

MARSHALL'S
DANVERS, SO. DANVERS & SALEM
EXPRESS.
Leave DANVERS (daily) at 9 A. M.
" SALEM at 1½ P. M.
OFFICES:
In Danvers—At E B Waitt's and the Post Office.
Danversport—Richards' and A W Warren's Stores.
In So. Danvers—Francis Dane & Co's, and No 2 Main street.—NO 7 Washington street, 105 Essex st, and 17 Derby Square.
All business promptly and faithfully attended to.
☞ Our patrons are particularly requested to write their orders.
☞ Packages, left at the office, should be marked "Marshall's Express."
☞ Being connected with the RAILROAD we are enabled to forward Notes, Drafts and Bills for collection, and small packages, to all accessible point in the United States, at the usual rates.
P. G. MARSHALL.
dec18-tf

PINGREE'S JOB WAGON.
THE subscriber is still prepared to do all kinds of Job Work and Teaming, such as removing Furniture and Merchandize of any description about town, or to and from the neighboring towns.
Orders will be received at the Essex Railroad Station, and at S. Flint's store, on the Square.
Thankful for past favors, he would solicit a continuance of the same. W. H. PINGREE.
South Danvers, 1860.

Important to the Afflicted.
DR. DOW continues to be consulted at his office, Nos. 7 and 9 Endicott street, Boston, on all diseases of a
PRIVATE OR DELICATE NATURE.
By a long course of study and practical experience of unlimited extent, Dr. D. has now the gratification of presenting the unfortunate with remedies that have never, since he first introduced them, failed to cure the most alarming cases of
GONORRHŒA AND SYPHILIS.
Beneath his treatment, all the horrors of venerea' and impure blood, Impotency, Scrofula, Gonorrhœa Ulcers, pain and distress in the regions of procreation, Inflammation of the Bladder and Kidneys, Hydrocele, Abcesses, Tumors, frightful Swellings, and the long train of horrible symptoms attending this class of disease, are made to become as harmless as the simplest allings of a child.
SEMINAL WEAKNESS.
Dr. D. devotes a great part of his time to the treatment of those cases caused by a secret and solitary habit, which ruins the body and mind, unfitting the unfortunate individual for business or society. Some of the sad and melancholy effects produced by early habits of youth, are Weakness of the Back and limbs, Dizziness of the head, Dimness of sight, Palpitation of the heart, Dyspepsia, Nervousness, Derangement of the digestive functions, Symptoms of Consumption, &c. The fearful effects on the mind are much to be dreaded; loss of memory, confusion of ideas, depression of spirits, evil forebodings, aversion of society, self-distrust, timidity, &c., are among the evils produced. Such person should, before contemplating marrimony, consult a physician of experience, and be at once restored to health and happiness.
Patients who wish to remain under Dr. Dow's treatment a few days or weeks, will be furnished with pleasant rooms, and charges for board moderate.
Medicines sent to all parts of the country, with full directions for use, on receiving description of your cases. Dr. Dow has also for sale the French Capotes, warranted the best preventive. Order by mail. 3 for $1 and a red stamp.

CAUTION
TO FEMALES IN DELICATE HEALTH.
DR. DOW, Physician and Surgeon, 7 and 9 Endicott street, Boston, is consulted daily for all diseases incident to the female system. Prolapsus Uteri, or falling of the Womb, Fluor Albus, Suppression, and other menstrual derangements, are all treated upon new pathological principles, and speedy relief guaranteed in a very few days. So invariably certain is the new mode of treatment, that most obstinate complaints yield under it, and the afflicted person soon rejoices in perfect health.
Dr. Dow has no doubt had greater experience in the cure of diseases of women and children, than any other physician in Boston.
Boarding accommodations for patients who may wish to stay in Boston a few days under his treatment.
Dr. Dow, since 1845, having confined his whole attention to an office practice, for the cure of Private Diseases and Female Complaints, acknowledges no superior in the United States.
N. B.—All letters must contain four red stamps, or they will not be answered.
Office Hours from 8 A. M. to 9 P. M.

CERTAIN CURE
IN ALL CASES, OR NO CHARGES MADE.
Dr. Dow is consulted daily, from 8 a m. to 8 p. m., as above, upon all difficult and chronic diseases of every name and nature, having by his unwearied attention and extraordinary success gained a reputation which calls patients from all parts of the country to obtain advice.
Among the physicians in Boston, none stand higher in the profession than the celebrated DR. DOW, No. 7 Endicott street, Boston. Those who need the services of an experienced physician and surgeon should give him a call. P. S.—Dr. Dow imports and has for sale a new article, called the French Secret. Order by mail. Two for $1 and a red stamp.
April 15, 1863—1y.

PRINTIN

IN EVERY VARIE
Neatly and Promptly
EXECUTE
At
The Wizard O
SOUTH DANVERS SQUA
SOUTH DANVERS, MAS
POSTER
(LARGE AND SMALL
WHICH CAN'T BE B
IN THIS VICINITY
BALL CIRCUL
TICKETS,
AND
Orders of Danc
BUSINESS CAR
Address Cards,
Wedding Ca
Printed in the neatest mann
And on the finest stock.
BILL-HEA
For Manufacturing and Mercantile B
BLANK RECEIP
And all kinds of BLANKS of every de
Printed to suit.
EVERY DESCRIPTIO
OF
JOB PRINTI
Done in the best manner, and at t
LOWEST PRICES
AND WARRANT
To please or no pay, at the
WIZARD OFFIC
Allen's Building,
SOUTH DANVERS, M

South Danvers Wizard.

VOL. IV. SOUTH DANVERS, MASS., WEDNESDAY, JULY 29, 1863. NO. 30.

THE SOUTH DANVERS WIZARD
Is published every WEDNESDAY, at Allen's building, South Danvers Square.
TERMS—Two Dollars a year.
ADVERTISEMENTS inserted at reasonable rates.

CHARLES D. HOWARD,
EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR.

A. A. PUTNAM,
ASSISTANT EDITOR, DANVERS.

TO THE PEOPLE OF MASSACHUSETTS.

In the present public emergency, when those who are combined against the government of our country, and the liberties of our people, emboldened by their long persistence in opposing the restoration of law and order at the South, and rendered desperately their dangers and disasters in Tennessee and on the Mississippi, are making a final effort to invade the hitherto free territory of the Middle States, the President has called for an additional force to repel the invasion, to put down forever the rebellion which is distracting our common country, and restore peace in the only manner in which it can ever be restored—by a determined and vigorous prosecution of the war.

Under the authority of General Orders, No. 191 of the War Department, volunteer infantry, cavalry and artillery may be enlisted, from the present time until the 23d of September next, who will constitute a force, to be designated "Veteran Volunteers," and to servo for three years or during the war. They must be men who have served at least nine months; and all who have served for that length of time, whether they originally enlisted for nine months or for any longer period, have the privilege, now, of re-enlisting, and receiving the additional bounty which is offered.

The bounty and premium for this re-enlistment, amount to four hundred and two dollars for each soldier, in addition to the monthly pay. One month's pay will be paid in advance, on being mustered into service. The bounty and premium, in addition to the monthly pay, will be $27 on being mustered in, $50 more in two months, $50 more in six months, $50 more after one year, $50 more after eighteen months, $50 more after two years, $50 more after two years and a half, and $75 more at the expiration of three years' service. And if the war should not last three years from the present time, still the whole bounty will be paid to those who shall have served to the end; and if they die in service their heirs will receive it.

The expiration of the terms of enlistment of our nine month's troops affords an opportunity for a renewed display of patriotic zeal and devotion, in again enlisting under the banners of the Republic and filling the ranks of our veteran regiments.

A soldier who has seen nine months of actual service is of more value than two new recruits, and a new recruit who enlists in an old regiment in the field becomes of more value there than three who enlist in new and untried levies.

Favorable opportunities are also presented for officers whose terms are expiring, and who have shown by their bravery and good conduct, that they were worthy of the trusts committed to them, to raise new companies and regiments, within sixty days, and thus to be again commissioned, and to render their skill and experience once more available to the country. For the time thus spent in recruiting, under proper authority from the State Executive, they will receive the pay belonging to their rank.

To the nine months' volunteers, whose time of service is now closing, an earnest appeal is now made to re-enlist. Now is the time, when effectual and decisive blows are to be struck for the achievement of permanent success. Now is the most important crisis, the golden opportunity, which should be seized upon with alacrity and determination. All that is wanting to end the rebellion, is the present and timely aid of tried and experienced soldiers. We have the men among us; they are coming home from their brave and honorable toils and exposures;—from fields where they have shown themselves worthy of our confidence and our praise. Let us now witness again the same alacrity, spirit and earnest patriotism which distinguished the earlier days of the war; and the assurance of success, which this time shall be permanent and decisive, will crown our labors and sacrifices for our country.

Opportunities for enlisting are not confined to those who have been in service. All who wish may enlist—(and all who will, are called and urged to come)—either in new organizations, or, what is far more preferable, in the old regiments now in the field; although the large amount of bounty, mentioned in the General Orders just issued, is only offered to those who have served at least nine months. All are called upon, the new and inexperienced recruit, as well as the veteran soldier; and all will be welcomed to the service.

Instructions for the appointment of recruiting officers, and for enlisting veteran volunteers, have been issued by the War Department, and are this day promulgated by the Adjutant General of Massachusetts. Those who would re-enlist should give immediate notice. Those who wish to recruit, either for our veteran three years' regiments and batteries now in the field, or for the recruitment of nine months' troops re-organizing for three years' service, are invited to report in writing to the Adjutant General of Massachusetts, without delay.

It is my earnest desire to encourage to the utmost the enlistment of all who are willing, but especially the officers and men of every existing corps, to recruit their ranks and to march anow. I know the immeasurable value such veterans would be to the service, especially at an hour like this. And if I could imagine a word which might add impression to the events now crowding upon the scenes of war, or could emphasize, by ever so little, the weight of those transactions visible to every eye, I would attempt its utterance. But the day has come when words are weak, and exhortations feeble and vain.

The voice of our brothers' blood cries to us from the ground, from a hundred battle fields and from fair valleys now torn and trampled by the hoofs of invading foes. The cannon thunders the inexorable call; and the flames of the burning dwellings of our loyal brethren on the banks of the Susquehannah light the way to Duty.

Men of Massachusetts! Sooner or later, this rebellion shall be crushed; this horrible crime against our country, against the order and very existence of a government of peaceful law, against society and against human nature itself, shall be overtaken by a punishment as terrible as the crime. The people will one day inflict the blow, which history will record and mankind will recognize as the vengeance of God. Will they do it only when worn with delay, wearied with defeats, and desperate with suffering, or will they do it NOW? Now, in the dignity, the majesty, and the calm of their glorious might, while their eye is not dim, nor their strength abated!

And finally—to all the people of Massachusetts, let me make the appeal. On this, the eve of our national anniversary of Independence, let me appeal to every patriotic and manly heart in our venerable Commonwealth! I pray you to dedicate yourselves anew to-morrow, by the altar of your country, to your country's service; and the next—the Sabbath day of our Christian religion, in holier hours repeat your vows. Assemble yourselves and take counsel of each other. In your primary assemblies, warm, stimulate, encourage and instruct one another as patriot and loyal hearts must and always will do, when they approach each other. Arouse each man his neighbor; and let the slumbering echoes of every hillside in the Commonwealth ring with the shouts of courageous freemen, exulting in the glorious privilege of living now, in these great days for Valor, for the love of Liberty, of Man, and of God.

JOHN A. ANDREW,
Governor of Massachusetts.

COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS.

HEADQUARTERS, Boston, July 3, 1863.
GENERAL ORDER, No. 14.

The accompanying General Orders, No. 191 of the War Department of the United States, and the Circular of Instructions of the Provost Marshal General, dated June 29, 1863, are hereby promulgated; and the attention of all the loyal citizens of Massachusetts, and particularly those officers and men who have returned and are returning from active service, is earnestly invoked, to their provisions.

By order of JOHN A. ANDREW, Governor and Commander-in-Chief.

WM. SCHOULER,
Adjutant General.

GENERAL ORDERS—No. 191.

WAR DEPARTMENT,
ADJUTANT GENERAL'S OFFICE,
Washington, June 25, 1863.

For Recruiting Veteran Volunteers.

In order to increase the armies now in the field, volunteer infantry, cavalry and artillery may be enlisted at any time within ninety days from this date, in the respective States under the regulations hereinafter mentioned. The volunteers enlisted, and such of the three years' troops now in the field as may re-enlist in accordance with the provisions of this order, will constitute a force to be designated "Veteran Volunteers." The regulations for enlisting this force are as follows:—

I. The period of service for the enlistments and re-enlistments above mentioned shall be for three years or during the war.

II. All able-bodied men, between the ages of eighteen and forty-five years, who have heretofore been enlisted, and have served for not less than nine months, and can pass the examination required by the mustering regulations of the United States, may be enlisted under this Order as Veteran Volunteers, in accordance with the provisions hereinafter set forth.

III. Every volunteer enlisted and mustered into service as a Veteran, under this Order, shall be entitled to receive from the United States one month's pay in advance, and a bounty and premium of four hundred and two ($402) dollars, to be paid as follows:—

1	Upon being mustered into service, he shall be paid one month's pay in advance,	$13 00
	First instalment of bounty,	25 00
	Premium,	2 00
	Total payment on muster,	$40 00
2	At the first regular pay day, or two months after muster in, an additional instalment of bounty will be paid,	$50 00
3	At the first regular pay day after six months' service, he shall be paid an additional instalment of bounty,	$50 00
4	At the first regular pay day after the end of the first year's service, an additional instalment of bounty will be paid,	$50 00
5	At the first regular pay day after eighteen months' service, an additional instalment of bounty will be paid,	$50 00
6	At the first regular pay day after two years' service, an additional instalment of bounty will be paid,	$50 00
7	At the first regular pay day after two and a half years' service, an additional instalment of bounty will be paid,	$50 00
8	At the expiration of three years' service, the remainder of the bounty will be paid,	$75 00

IV. If the Government shall not require these troops for the full period of three years, and they shall be mustered honorably out of service before the expiration of their term of enlistment, they shall receive, upon being mustered out, the whole amount of bounty remaining unpaid, the same as if the full term had been served. The legal heirs of volunteers who die in service shall be entitled to receive the whole bounty remaining unpaid at the time of the soldier's death.

V. Veteran Volunteers enlisted under this order will be permitted at their option to enter old regiments now in the field; but their service will continue for the full term of their own enlistment, notwithstanding the expiration of the term for which the regiment was originally enlisted. New organizations will be officered only by persons who have been in service, and have shown themselves properly qualified for command. As a badge of honorable distinction, "service chevrons" will be furnished by the War Department, to be worn by the Veteran Volunteers.

VI. Officers of regiments whose terms have expired, will be authorized on proper application, and approval of their respective Governors, to raise companies and regiments within the period of sixty days; and if the company or regiment authorized to be raised shall be filled up and mustered into service within the said period of sixty days, the officers may be recommissioned of the date of their original commissions, and for the time engaged in recruiting they will be entitled to receive the pay belonging to their rank.

VII. Volunteers or militia, now in service, whose term of service will expire within ninety days, and who shall then have been in service at least nine months, shall be entitled to the aforesaid bounty and premium of $402 provided they re-enlist, before the expiration of their present term, for three years or the war; and said bounty and premium shall be paid in the manner herein provided for other troops re-entering the service. The new term will commence from date of re-enlistment.

VIII. After the expiration of ninety days from this date, volunteers serving in three years' organizations, who may re-enlist for three years or the war, shall be entitled to the aforesaid bounty and premium of $402, to be paid in the manner herein provided for other troops re-entering the service. The new term will commence from date of re-enlistment.

IX. Officers in service, whose regiments or companies may re-enlist, in accordance with the provisions of this order, before the expiration of their present term, shall have their commissions continued so as to preserve their date of rank, as fixed by their original muster into United States service.

X. As soon after the expiration of their original term of enlistment as the exigencies of the service will permit, a furlough of thirty days will be granted to men who may re-enlist in accordance with the provisions of this order.

XI. Volunteers enlisted under this order will be credited as three years' men in the quota of their respective States. Instructions for the appointment of recruiting officers and for enlisting Veteran Volunteers will be immediately issued to the Governors of states.

By order of the Secretary of War:
E. D. TOWNSEND.
Assistant Adjutant General.

[CIRCULAR.]

PROVOST MARSHAL GENERAL'S OFFICE,
WASHINGTON, June 29, 1863.

His Excellency the Governor of Massachusetts, Boston, Massachusetts:

Sir—Under General Orders No 191, current series, from the War Department, you are hereby authorized to raise four regiments Veteran Volunteer Infantry, and three batteries Veteran Volunteer Artillery.

In addition to the requirements of the General Orders cited, the following instructions will govern:

I. Under par. III of the Orders, all men, before they can re enter the service, must produce an honorable discharge from the service, of the usual form.

II. Under par. IV of the Orders, the advance pay, first instalment of bounty and premium, will be paid as directed in General Orders No 163, current series, from the Adjutant General's office.

The additional instalments of bounty will be paid under the regulations of the Pay Department, by Paymasters when they make the periodical payments of the troops. The final instalment or remainder of the bounty will be paid on the muster-out rolls, at the expiration of the term.

III. All volunteers who enlist for regiments in the field will be provided for, and forwarded to their commands by the Superintendent of the Recruiting Service of the State, in the same manner as recruits sent heretofore.

IV. For such new organizations as you may raise, the requirements of General Order of No 75 of 1862 will govern. If you conclude to reorganize regiments or companies, the officers of the regiments or companies, will act as recruiting officers. Should they reorganize their commands within the period of sixty days they will be paid according to their rank on the muster and pay rolls of their regiments and companies; should they fail, the requirements of Sec. 2, Part 1, of General Orders 75 of 1862 will be applied to them. In other respects, the requirements of General Order 75 will govern the recruitment.

V. In selecting officers, the selections will necessarily have to be made from two classes, viz:

1st, Those honorably discharged, "by expiration of service" of the organization with which they served.

2d, Those honorably discharged, by resignation or otherwise, prior to "expiration of service" of their organization.

The selections from the 1st Class can be made by you, without reference to this Department, in accordance with your usual rules.—In selecting from the Second, the approval of the War Department will be necessary. To this end, you will please submit to the Adjutant General of the Army, for the action of the War Department, the names of such officers as you may select from this class.

In doing this you will first assure yourself that they were honorably discharged, and, if the discharge was on account of physical disability, a certificate from the Surgeon General of your State, to the effect that the applicant has fully recovered, and is able to undergo the fatigues of a campaign, must accompany the application to reappoint. The report received, you will be authorized to recommission, provided the records of the War Department show that the military history of the officer will justify it.

VI. Re-enlistments under paragraphs 8 and 9 will be conducted under the immediate orders of the War Department, through the Adjutant General of the Army. These orders will be communicated to the Generals Commanding the Armies and Departments, and their re-enlistments and consequent re-musters will be under the supervision of the Commissaries and Assistant Commissaries of Musters for the Army or Department.

I have the honor to be, Sir,
Very respectfully,
Your obedient servant,
JAMES B. FRY,
July 22, 1863. 3t Provost Marshal General.

☞ A sentimental young man wrote a letter to his fair enslaver in which he said: "How I wish, my dear Adeline, my engagements would permit me to leave town and go to see you!—It would be like visiting some old ruin hallowed by time, and fraught with a thousand pleasing recollections."

☞ Gen. Banks has ordered that hereafter none but negroes shall be employed as government teamsters in the department of the gulf. As long as the South teems with negroes why shouldn't General Banks?

☞ "'Tis strange," said a young man, as he staggered home from a supper party, "how evil communications corrupt good manners. I've been surrounded with tumblers all the evening, and now I'm a tumbler myself."

☞ The oldest newspaper in the world is published in Pekin. It is printed on a large sheet of silk, and it has made a weekly appearance for over a thousand years.

☞ Mr. Gough lectured at Amherst Commencement, to a crowded audience. His subject was "Eloquence," his time, two hours, and his coat tails, says a correspondent, had their usual amount of work to perform his gestures.

☞ The Newburyport Herald says that since the draft there has been an alarming amount of sickness in that city. It is very unhealthy here also.

☞ Smith, the razor strop man, volunteered for the emergency. He was wounded in one leg at Gettysburg but has still "just one more left."

☞ Gen. Banks having taken Port Hudson, may now be honored with the title of the Banks of the Mississippi.

Selected.

THE PATRIOT GIRL.

In one of the romantic valleys of Silesia, lived a young girl of surpassing beauty, the pride and delight of her parents, whose only occupation was to attend to their flocks, and bear the scant produce of their little farm to a neighboring market-town. Ella, like the wild-flower, had grown and bloomed in obscurity, adorned and beautified by the unerring hand of nature. She had known but little of the world, until the trump of war sounded over the country, and echoed discordantly amidst the darkest recesses of solitude; and when, in consequence of her inquiries, her father was obliged to tell her of the distracted state of her native land, the indignant blush and the high heaving of her bosom proclaimed how much she felt for her enterprising sovereign, and the brave people that were arrayed to defend his dominion.

"Heaven grant us victory!" exclaimed she, in the patriotic enthusiasm of her soul; "I would, father, that nature had made women strong enough to fight."

The old man only smiled a reply, and, kissing her rosy cheeks, bade her keep out of the sight of the soldiers.

This caution was scarcely needed.—Ella knew where to find one on whom she could gaze, and be gazed upon for hours; and who, though not dressed out in the trappings of the military, was more to her that all the world beside.—She was soon on the mountain slope watching her herds, and listening to the mellow notes as they flowed from the pipe of Adolph, a fine featured young man, who sat at her feet gazing tenderly upon her smiling face.

"That hair of yours, Ella," said he, laying down the instrument; "I would give the world for one little lock;" and he ran his fingers through the glossy tresses as they hung luxuriantly around her finely-moulded shoulders.

"The world is not yours to give, Mr. Adolph," said she, archly; "but do you only love me for my curls, which you are always praising?"

"I love you for yourself, dear Ella; but these rich ringlets, which might grace a queen, I almost idolize them, and yet you refuse to bestow upon me one little tress."

"Have I not reason? Were I to give you a lock, I might never see you again; for then you would have your idol by you, and I should be forsaken. No, Adolph, first prove yourself worthy of the gift, and then you shall not only have a tress, but my hand, too, if you desire it."

"Tell me how to become worthy of so inestimable a gift," exclaimed the enraptured youth; "and I will follow the path you shall point out."

"There it is," answered the maiden, pointing toward Breslau, and looking her lover fixedly in the face.

"And what am I to do in Breslau?"

"Join the bravo men who are struggling for our liberties, and tenfold shall be the love of Ella."

A slight blush overspread the face of young Adolph, and kissing the hand of the fair shepherdess, he turned away, and was soon lost among the deep recesses of the valley.

There was more courtliness in the last salutation of Adolph than generally falls to the lot of the untutored and robust mountaineers of Silesia, and Ella thought, as he wended down the narrow defile, that there was more dignity in his mien than she had ever before observed. She scarcely dared ask herself who he was; for he had been but a short while among the shepherds, and no one knew aught of his birth or profession, and every one loved him for his generosity and nobleness of spirit.

"My hair," said Ella to herself, as the youth vanished from her sight; "I will dress it for his sake. They say it is rich and beautiful. Ah! how freely would I destroy each ample tress, and scatter it upon the winds, did he not love to smooth it with his fingers."

Months rolled away, and Ella watched her herds alone and in sadness, for nothing was heard of Adolph, and the demon of war continued to spread his desolation over the land. It was proposed to raise a sum by contribution among the inhabitants of the mountains, which should be placed into the general fund, and appropriated to the use of the intrepid defenders of the King. When the father of Ella was called upon for his proportion, he had nothing to give, and the noble-hearted girl then, for the first time, felt the want of wealth.

"Father, let us sell our flocks," said she; "we will be amply repaid in the freedom we shall enjoy; and, when peace comes back, I'm sure I can work for you."

"No, my daughter," answered the old man, "our country requires no such sacrifice; we must not deprive ourselves of the means of livelihood."

Ella reflected for a long while, and formed a thousand plans for raising a sum of money worthy of being given in aid of the patriotic cause; but all her schemes were impracticable, and she even wept in solitude over her inability to serve her country.

"Would that these locks were wires of gold," exclaimed she, running her fingers through the clustering tresses, as they dallied with the wind; "I might then give them for the general good.—Can they not be sold? I will go to Breslau and offer them; they may bring but a trifle, yet they are all I have to bestow. But Adolph, when he returns and beholds me deprived of my greatest beauty, what will he say? Alas! he will turn from me; he will love me no more. Well, be it so; I will sacrifice even his love for liberty!"

She accordingly proceeded to Breslau, and offered her hair for sale to the first friseur of the city. The loveliness of the young girl, and the novelty of the offer, caused the person to enquire why she robbed herself of such beautiful tresses. On receiving her answer, he was astonished at the feeling of patriotism displayed by one so young and interesting.

"I will take the locks, my pretty girl," said he, admiring the softness of their texture, "and turn them into bracelets. Everybody will buy when they know of whose hair they were made."

The delighted girl received the proffered sum, and flew to add it to the general fund. The friseur predicted right; the story got wind, and the ladies and gentlemen of the city flocked to his store to purchase the bracelets marked with the name of "Ella." Among others, a young officer of high rank, hearing the story, endeavored to obtain one of the articles. The vender had but one left, and as he had already raised a considerable sum from their sale, he intended to keep that for himself. The officer examined the color and texture of the hair, and when his eyes fell upon the name of "Ella," a smile of pride and gratitude curled his lip, and he uttered, "It must be she."—He emptied his purse upon the counter, and told the man to take it all for the bracelet, who, being dazzled by so much gold, readily consented, and the officer left the shop with the treasure pressed to his lips.

"Ella," said Adolph, as he sat by the side of the mountain maid, "where are the luxuriant locks that formerly hung around your neck? I went and fought at your bidding, and I now come to claim my reward."

"Adolph," answered she, "I became jealous of my hair: your heart was entangled among its thick curls; the more I combed them the more they webbed around the heart; and so I cut them off. Do you not love me without my locks?"

"Love you, Ella? Could I do less than worship you, since you have so nobly marred your beauty for the benefit of your country? Look at this bracelet; the hair is yours—the name is yours."

Thus caught, the generous girl thought it useless to deny the facts here recorded. She confessed all, and shortly afterwards was the wife of the stranger, Adolph, and Countess of Rutland.

☞ To the question, "What is the weight of a million dollars in gold?" an officer of the mint answers as follows:—"The weight of one million dollars United States currency in gold is, 53 760 troy ounces. This makes 4,470 pounds, 2 ounces—or nearly two tons and a quarter, reckoning 2000 pounds to each ton."

☞ One of the saddest things about human nature is that a man may guide others in the path of life, without walking in it himself; that he may be a pilot and yet a cast-away.

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE.—A man at Bristol advertised in a Providence paper for a wife, and found one who brought him a fortune of $20,000.

CARELESSNESS.—According to the report of the Postmaster General eight hundred and twenty-two letters were deposited in various offices of the department during the year 1862 without any address whatever.

☞ Low as the grave is, you cannot climb high enough to see beyond it.

A SAILOR'S STORY.

A young sailor, who had been roving round the world for several years, on his returning home, was constantly and annoyingly lionized on account of his having had "personal relations" with cannibals, anacondas, sharks, tigers, elephants, pirates and other creatures, that inspire the untravelled mind with terror. He hated above all things to "spin yarns," and still he was constantly beset to do so. Being at a party one evening he was, as usual, importuned to spin them a yarn, and finally, at the request of his father, he related the following harrowing tale, the circumstances mentioned in which he saw with his own eyes:

"As one of the Panama steamers was leaving the harbor of Havana, a beautiful widow lady, named Howard, was standing by the gunwale, on which her son, a little boy some four years old, was sitting, playing on a sugar flageolet, which his fond mother had purchased for him in port, of an ingenious Spanish confectioner. The child was greatly delighted with the toy, and blew vigorously, while Mrs. Howard seemed to enjoy the little fellow's delight as much as he enjoyed the flageolet. The transcendant beauty of the mother, and the angelic loveliness of the child, riveted every eye that observed them, and various were the speculations advanced as to their history.

After some time, a sailor shouted,—'A shark! a shark!' and everybody crowded to see the huge creature that was swimming alongside the vessel. As the passengers were remarking upon the appearance of the shark, a shriek was suddenly heard, then a splash; and quick as lightning the ravenous monster darted upon his prey. Little Tommy Howard had fallen from the gunwale, and the widowed mother was now childless. Mrs. Howard, who had fainted, was carried below in a state of insensibility.

"The shark still swam by the vessel's side. Some of the men determined, if possible, to avenge little Tommy's death, and baiting a huge hook with a piece of fresh beef, cast it overboard. Almost immediately the shark swallowed it; and fifty stalwart arms pulled lustily at the stout rope. He was an immense monster, and struggled violently. As soon as his nose was pulled out of the water, a number of Californians began to practice pistol-shooting at his eyes. Their balls soon put a quietus upon him, and he was hauled, lifeless and limb, on board. When his huge bulk had been stretched along the deck, it was proposed that he should be opened, and the remains of the boy be taken from his stomach and given a christian burial. The proposition was immediately acted upon, and soon the carcass was laid open; when, to the astonishment of every one present, the boy was found snugly seated between a couple of the monster's ribs, still playing his flageolet.'

The young sailor has not been annoyed since that evening, by requests to 'spin a yarn.'—N. Y. Observer.

REMARKABLE LAKES IN PORTUGAL.—On the top of the ridge of mountains in Portugal called Estralla, are two lakes of great extent and depth, especially one of them, which is said to be unfathomable. What is chiefly remarkable in them is, that they are calm when the sea is so, and rough when it is stormy. It is, therefore, probable that they have a subterranean communication with the ocean; and this seems to be confirmed by the pieces of ships they throw up, though almost forty miles from the sea. There is another extraordinary lake in that country, which, before a storm, is said to make a frightful, rumbling noise that may be heard a distance of several miles. And we are also told of a pool or fountain called Fervencais, about twenty-four miles from Comby, that absorbs not only wood, but the lightest bodies thrown into it, such as cork, straw, feathers, etc., which sink to the bottom and are never seen more. To these we may add a remarkable spring near Estreme, which petrifies wood, or rather enerusts it with a case of stone; but the most remarkable circumstance is, that in summer it throws up water enough to turn several mills, and in winter is perfectly dry.

☞ The true way of reaching the right is through the heart of the wrong; he who goes around it finds but the other side of wrong, and the wrong side of right.

☞ It is generally believed that Meade will yet get to the windward of Lee, who at any rate will be to the leeward of him.

ANTIQUITY OF LOAFERS.—It may be consoling to some busy people, who groan over the losses of time occasioned by the visits of idlers, to know that similar feelings have been experienced ages ago, as is revealed by a curious inscription discovered among the ruins of Pompeii:

The excavations at the buried cities of Pompeii, Herculaneum, Pozzerol and Capua are going on with renewed vigor under the stimulus of an appropriation of money for the purpose from the Italian Government. Heretofore Naples had the work under its exclusive care and control. At Pompeii new frescoes have been discovered, and there is an inscription on the wall of what was probably a workshop of some kind, as follows: "Otiosi hic locus non est. Discede Morator."—This may be translated, "This place is not for the lazy. Loafer, depart." This inscription is as good for industrial habits of modern times, as it was for those of ancient Pompeii. Its discovery is interesting, from the fact that it shows that human nature was the same eighteen centuries ago in Italy, as it is now in America; that there were lazy folks and loafers who would intrude into workshops, and waste the time or divert the attention of the workmen; and that it became necessary to put up inscriptions, giving a general warning to all such to depart.

LIFE IN THE SADDLE.

Some more pencilled journal leaves (sent to his friends here by one of our citizens in the 1st Mass. Cavalry,) on the march back from the Rappahannock with the Army of the Potomac:

For the first time since leaving Washington (viz: April 4th) slept in a house and on a bed. A Dr. Powell, a rebel surgeon who had charge of a rebel hospital in town, lived directly opposite to our hospital, and he invited the surgeons to tea with him that night. I was away to the regimont at the time of the invitation, but on returning went in and had a very pleasant tea, chatting with the Dr. and his wife, who kept me company while eating. They then gave us a room. But after living in the open air so long, the house seemed somewhat oppressive. It rained heavily all night. The next day (Sunday, the 31st of June,) we were again in motion and evidently had received reinforcements and were bound to push on.

After marching two miles from town on road to Upperville, several batteries were moved to the front and the regiment were formed in rear of some woods; here we were shelled for a couple of hours, the shells passing over our heads or striking among the trees of the woods in front of us. Some of them I could see as they passed over. The sound was the most disagreeable. After two hours our guns, which were stationed in front of the woods, disabled one of the enemy, which caused them to fall back to a new position. We of course advanced. As soon as we came out of the woods a most splendid view of the whole valley this side the Blue Ridge opened upon us.

The fighting continued all day, chiefly with artillery, until about 2 o'clock, when it became a severe hand to hand contest; our men were said to have charged with the most intense spirit, and I think this is proved by the large number wounded (about 60) and especially by the large proportion of sabre wounds.

The enemy were steadily driven quite into Ashby's Gap in the Blue Ridge. Our regiment stopped at Upperville on the reserve of pickets. At one time during the day whilst the artillery fighting was the most severe, I obtained a very commanding position from which I could see almost every movement on the centre and two flanks. The regiment was divided up into three squadrons, sent to support different batteries. Could see Buford, who was on the right driving the enemy; also our own forces in the centre, where the chief portions of the artillery were posted, were succeeding equally as well. Driving one discharge of artillery, lasting an hour, the scene quite conformed with my idea of a battlefield. The shells burst over, behind, above, and on either side of our cavalry who would now and then change their positions as the firing became too accurate. Very little damage was done us by the shells, one man of a battery bled to death suddenly, his leg being blown off by a shot. The chief accidents occurred about 2 o'clock, after the charges began to be made. The 1st Regulars and the 1st Maine suffered the most, about 50 wounded altogether.

A house about a mile from Upperville, on the right of the road, was made the hospital, and here I remained till late in the afternoon. As I was returning to the regiment, Dr. Pancoust met me, and requested me to render assistance to two rebel surgeons who were left in town in charge of the rebel wounded. One belonged to the 3d Va. Cavalry. After attending to his cases in the hospital I went to his quarters and chatted very pleasantly for an hour. One of them expressed a strong wish that the war might terminate; but apparently was ready only for a recognition of the Confederacy. He thought that too bitter feelings existed for the States ever again to be united.

Spent the night in the town in a field with the regiment, and the next morn on waking saw a line of skirmishers formed in a field in our rear. I did not understand it at first, but we soon were ordered to pack up, and we then fell behind this line and in an hour took up the line of march backward over the same road upon which we advanced the day before. It was a retreat, but I think not a compulsory one, as the enemy had made no demonstration ever, and they did not until we had got nd Middleburgh, between it and Aldie.—

we had halted and our wagons come up, heavy firing and skirmishing was heard rds Middleburgh, and we were soon in our les again, and our train moved back to e, while the Cavalry and a portion of In-ry formed on the hills west of Aldie ready an attack; but none was made, except a skirmishing and a few shells which burst re they reached us.

was told that the 1st Maine did quite a iant thing during this assault; they were ged upon by squadron of 70 rebels; the ne regiment separated, allowed them to pass ugh, then formed on the other side, made harge in their rear, and then took them all oners.

ur regiment took up a position on a very manding hill, near the residence of Norman keley, a rebel officer of some note. It is a gnificent farm, and has in former years been l stocked and still bears the appearance of ourishing farm, but a few more days of our upation will make a desert of it; as it begs to secesh, all property, especially eatables sheep, calves, &c., are fast disappearing.—
r rations and forage for the four days before came here were very short, and therefore harvest we obtain here is the more welcome.
n taken from the barns in the vicinity has en the place of Government oats. We went camp at this spot after it was certain that enemy had been checked and here we have ained up to present writing. G.

Saturday, June 27th.—On Thursday last, while the regiment was in camp near the rkley Mansion, west of the town of Aldie, I nt down to the hospital, which is a barn, out one mile east of Aldie, on the Fairfax d. Here I found one man of the regi-nt—Ammon, of Company C, I think, who d been left as too sick to be moved, and also illiams of Company H, who fractured his the day before. I had it put in a fracture x and had sent him to the hospital. Am-on had a dislocation of shoulder, and another ost serious injury was a pistol shot through e head of the tibia; he was doing badly, and was evident the wound would prove mortal. here were about fifty other patients in the spital with wounds received in the late bat-es, and some few sick. The surgeon in charge, r. Dewnot, told me that the whole number at had passed through the hospital since the 7th, was about 300.

On returning from hospital, I found the regi-ent had gone out on picket, and no one in amp, except Lieut. Flint, who was sick, and ad remained behind with Major Chamberlain, who had a "sick leave" of absence and was oing home. I took this opportunity to send ny leaves which I had just written up to that day.

I followed the regiment out on picket and found it about two miles on the road to Mid-dleburgh. Here I had my shelter pitched, and was just turning in when an order came about ½ P. M. relieving us from picket, but directing us to join the brigade, who would in an hour's time be on its way to Thoroughfare Gap. This was very hard for us all, for we had just made ourselves comfortable. I went on in advance in order to notify Lieut. Flint of the change of movements and to make disposition of him in an ambulance if possible. On reaching the old camp, I found everything deserted,—the other regiment had moved and Major Chamber-lain and Flint also. I overtook the latter on my way into the town, but lost them again and have not seen or heard from them since. Pre-sume they have gone on in advance. On reach-ing the town, the street was full of our brigade, evidently ready for a move. As I passed through the town, I came across a headquarter ambulance in which, to my delight, I found they were assorting a mail for our brigade, and I got my letters. After waiting in the street for two hours at Aldie, the brigade moved back to the old camp. It seems that the signal tele-graph had been misunderstood, and instead of our going to Thoroughfare Gap, it was intend-ed that a force at that point should move up to Aldie. These mistakes, I am sorry to say, often occur, and it makes great and unneces-sary labor. Almost the rule for us is, by their mistakes, to take the longest road. It is very aggravating.

The next day (Friday,) we broke camp, and at 1 o'clock A. M. marched to a church east of Aldie 1½ mile. We halted 'till 3 o'clock P. M., during which time all the other forces—wagon trains, mule trains, &c.—moved away in the direction of Leesburgh. We followed on, our brigade forming the rear guard, and our regiment the rear of all. Arrived after a steady march, halting only at Goose Creek, to water the horses, near Leesburg, and encamped for the night. This morn (27th,) have moved on through the town and are now bivouacked about 1½ mile east of it Great delay has been caused by the other brigades getting on the wrong road yesterday. Ours was the only one that took the right road. We are near the river (Potomac,) I believe, at Edward's Ferry.

Leesburgh is just such a city or town as could be made out of the suburbs of a large city; i. e., the houses look citified; many of them are of brick, but old and dilapidated; the streets are paved, the road leading from Aldie forming the principal one, and besides this, there are several running at right angles, one of which, about the centre of the town, we turned off to the right upon leading straight to Edward's Ferry, finally crossing (the last of the army) about 7 o'clock, on a pontoon bridge, consisting of 64 boats. Two bridges had been laid, but one was in process of removal. After crossing, the regiment formed squadrons, and forage was issued for one day,—we have had none for the two previous. The grazing about is excellent, otherwise we should be badly off.

Sunday, June 28th—1½ P. M.—Camp near Frederick, Md. After obtaining forage last night, the regiment moved on, and, it was rumored, were to reach Frederick by noon. Started about 10½ P. M., and even on the start the men were so tired as to sleep in the saddle.

I travel now, using one horse as a pack horse and on my own carry only a spare blanket, my overcoat and poncho, everything else goes nicely in the saddlebags, viz: one change of under-clothes, soap, towel, pair of socks and hand-kerchief. I have travelled so now for a fort-night, and require nothing more. I am thus quite untrammelled, my valise, buffalo robe, etc., going in the hospital wagon. I am in constant fear, lest the wagon may be gobbled. My servant, whom, for some unknown reason, we call Strikers, leads the pack horse, and al-most always comes up when we halt. But, to be on the safe side, I carry sufficient hard bread, tea and sugar, for one day, lest he should be separated from me by some accident. Our fare the past few days has been heard, nothing but tack, some tea, and pork of course, or rather bacon, so salt as not to be palatable.

Our present neighborhood appears to be very flourishing. There are fine farms all about here and I shall send my striker out to pick up what eatables he can. The wheat fields through this valley are very extensive and well looking

I hear that all our wounded officers are doing well in Washington, except, perhaps, Fillebrown, who had a shot in the abdomen.

Tuesday, June 30th.—Camp near Westminister, Md. After writing up my record on Sunday last, just as I was about to turn in for a doze, much to my surprise, "Boots and saddles" sounded, and the regiment was soon on the march, said to be for Newmarket, ten miles on the pike road to Baltimore. I was disappointed not to get into Frederick; it is a beautifully situated city.

On the march, for the first time, we missed the usual sour faces of the inhabitants, and in place of them we were welcomed with smiles, greetings, waving of handkerchiefs, etc., especially in Newmarket. The regiment moved four miles beyond Newmarket and encamped at Ridgville. The people all around seemed quite friendly, supplying us with bread, butter, etc., at very cheap rates,—butter 14 cts. pr. lb.

Yesterday (Monday 29th June,) the regiment moved to the railroad station at Ridgville and took rations and forage; they then moved a few miles northward toward Westminister, and after a halt for two hours, started out on the road about 9 o'clock. Did not move more than a mile when we were halted, and through some blundering mistake, we were kept so until about two o'clock this morning, the men sleeping in the road with the bridle rein in their hands all night. Have moved this morning to this point, 11 miles from Ridgville, and hear news of the rebels under Stewart and Lee, who have passed through, taking all the horses they could lay hands on. They are now about three hours ahead of us.

The people on our route seemed much pleased when they found we were not rebels, and freely supplied us with bread, etc., etc., as soon as they discovered our true entity and complexion.

* * * * * * * * * *

Lapsus.—P. S. We are in Manchester, Md. Started at 2 o'clock from Westminister, passing through the edge of the town. On our whole route there has been quite an ovation, and here in Manchester girls with boquets, wreaths of flowers and waving handkerchiefs at points in the streets, are welcoming us, cheering us onward. The rebels are reported to be on the road to Gettysburg. Have a chance to post this here. G.

(To be Continued.)

The Wizard.

WEDNESDAY, JULY 29, 1863.

THE TIMES WE LIVE IN.

"We live in the midst of stirring times!" was the remark of Webster in 1850. But as we look back to that incipient flowering of the bud of secession it seems to us the calm of summer day. Yet was it the calm presaging the storm. Wise men—as wisdom went—thought they should avert the tempest by pouring on the waters the oil of compromise. Vain oblations! Not so was Neptunus to be appeased. Not so were the Ælian caves to be kept shut The lasting resentment of outraged Liberty was of the counsel of the gods, and the slaver ship of State was destined in "the middle passage" to encounter the fury of the winds until the chained blacks below were unbound and tasting the free air of heaven. We are in the midst of the Middle Passage and of the storm. The condition of clear skies and a fair sea is divine decree. But the condition is beginning to be fulfilled. Already we hear the sound of falling chains below and see the oppressed coming up the gangway with Phrygian bonnets on their lips. Only that spectacle appeases the Arbiter of storms. Before only that day-star will the clouds break away, and favoring winds waft us on our voyage.

☞ The Statesman makes an effort at ridicule, but it does not succeed very well. Ridicule will sometimes answer in the place of argument, but will not in the case of Burke, unless it employs a sharper pen than the Statesman shows. Before that organ attempts ridicule again it better restudy him, who seems to be its favorite author—Tom Paine. Let the Statesman support itself by better authority than Buckle, if it can. That's all we ask.

Death of Corp. Friend.—A letter has been received in this town from Capt. Gardner, stating that Corp. A. Friend of Co. B, 24th Mass Vols., was seriously wounded in the thigh by a piece of shell in the late attack of the rebels on James Island (16th), and that he died on the following day. His remains now rest, with others of the same regiment, on Folly Island, marked by a suitable head-board. Corp. Friend leaves a wife and three little ones to mourn his loss.

☞ Mr. R. W. Wilkinson has entered into contract with the Horse Rail Road Company, to rent the room in the Warren Bank Building, formerly occupied by Amos Mcrrill, Esq., which will be used as a depot for passengers. The store will also be stocked with such necessaries as the travelling public may require,—such as newspapers, periodicals, ice creams, confectionary, refreshments, &c.

Navy Enlistments.—Mr. Leonidas King Porter and George O. Peirce have recently enlisted in the navy.

Sedaddled—Some of our conscripts.

CONVERSATION.

"Be thou familiar, but by no means vulgar.
The friends thou hast, and their adoption tried,
Grapple them to thy soul with hooks of steel;
But do not dull thy palm with entertainment
Of each new-hatch'd, unfledg'd comrade."

We design, in our few imperfect remarks of to-day upon the subject named in the caption, to take a somewhat wide and extended range, and rather consider it in its more general character of deportment, behavior, general course of manners, than to confine ourselves within the narrow limits of one and the most common of its definitions—general intercourse of sentiment.

To the young of both sexes, and especially to the young of the female sex, would we, in a particular manner, direct our remarks on this occasion. A person of good conversation has a recommendation to all good society, and will be received by every one, whose good opinion is worth the having, with favor and with encouragement. A kind and dignified demeanor in a young man or young woman is such an acquisition as will loom highly and honorably above even an ancestral dower as an assistant to promote and advance the well being of its possessor while journeying through this vale of tears. A young man or woman of coarse, harsh and unkind words or actions, although possessed of riches or beauty, or high position, seem to repel the advance, from generous souls, of kind wishes or kind words, or kind acts, as by a natural law of our common nature; while on the other hand, a truly pleasant tone of voice, a beneficient expression of countenance, a hearty sociality, seems to carry a halo of benevolence, an attractiveness of congeniality which draws with it all good souls to the person extending such moral effulgence. as the needle is attracted to the pole, or as the sun, in its infinite influence, holds the solar system within the limits prescribed for it by the Great Eternal when he spake the nations into being, and from which it can never break away until the Great Archangel shall proclaim time no longer. Conversation is a mighty engine to make or to unmake a young man or woman. Its consequence has been too little understood or heeded. The world, or that portion of it at least, which is worthy of our notice, or our emulation, almost invariably gives a character to an individual in consonance with their appearance, whether expressed in words or in acts.

Every one of us has a test upon this point in his or her experience. On some occasion in our lives many of us, undoubtedly, have looked upon and admired the natural beauty and symmetry of some stranger lady or gentleman, who, upon expressing themselves in some of the coarse, uncouth and hackneyed epithets of the street—some low and rowdy slang which we have heard among almost every group of low rowdies we have passed—have thus driven from our souls every feeling, every sentiment of admiration or even common respect; and that person who but a moment before, as it were, appeared to be a superior fellow-creature upon earth, has now become an object of disgust and loathing. "Be thou familiar, but by no means vulgar." These words of the great poet, although written near three hundred years ago, are as applicable to the young, in particular, of to-day, as they were appropriate in the month of old Polonius when addressed to his son Laertes on his departure for France. Vulgarity of language and acts in the young, at the present day, is a far too common sin, having a baleful effect upon the state of society. The remedy is in the power of every one. Let it be applied to the life and conduct of our young men and young women, and save them from the contaminating influence of vulgarity upon their future lives.

An honest and generous soul is often, no doubt, hidden under a very rough exterior—although this is like marble in the quarry which shows none of its inherent beauty until the skill of the artist brings out the colors, it nevertheless is a great misfortune to the individual and to society, and should be improved by education and every day life.

Many an honest man and virtuous woman have passed to the tomb without power and without the kind endearments and encouragement of good and kind friends, from the wilful or innocent absence of genuine urbanity and natural and pleasant politeness.

Where a kind of natural vulgarity exists, we may pity but can hardly forgive in a society so blessed with means of education as ours is. The really polite man or woman carrys a continual moral sunshine in his or her path, whose influence is felt by all they meet. This virtue dies as a man dies by poison, when some silly dolt attempts to propel it by vain affectation. Affectation is as baneful to the life of true politeness, as was hemlock to the life of Socrates, or as the fang of the poisonous viper infuses death through the mortal body. A plessant word is frequently a solace to a wounded soul. A kind and encouraging smile often proves light to break the deep gloom of a long and heavy day, and sometimes, no doubt, of a long and heavy life.

These remarks may appear of little avail—of trifling importance in the view of some—but we are aware that their truthfulness, though very imperfectly presented, will have due weight upon the heart and life of every one who really desires to assist in promoting the good of society in every good word and work.

TRUE PATRIOTISM.

The genial author, Washington Irving, than whom scarce ever was a man more entirely divested of partizan feelings, thus expressed himself, during the war of 1812, in respect to the duties of the citizen. His patriotic words are as pertinent to our day as to his. Mark them: "Whatever we may think of the expediency or inexpediency of the present war, we cannot feel indifferent to its operations. Whenever our arms come in competiton with those of the enemy, jealousy for our country's honor will swallow up every other consideration—our feelings will ever accompany the flag of our country to battle, rejoicing in its glory, lamenting over its defeat. For there is no such thing as releasing ourselves from the consequences of the contest. He who fancies he can stand aloof in interest, and by condemning the present war, can exonerate himself from the shame of its disasters, is wofully mistaken. Other nations will not trouble themselves about our internal wranglings and party questions—they will not ask who among us fought, or why we fought, but how we fought. The disgrace of defeat will not be confined to the contrivers of the war, or the party in power, or the conductors of the battle; but will extend to the whole nation, and come home to every individual.

If the name of American is to be rendered honorable in the fight, we shall each participate in the honor; if otherwise, we must inevitably support our share of the ignominy."

FURLOUGHS.

We know of a recipe better than bounties for encouraging enlistments, which we will communicate to the Secretary of War on proper application at our sanctum. We give it confidentially to our readers. It is this: Make a new "army regulation" to the effect that each private and non-commissioned officer shall be entitled to a furlough to visit their friends ten days each year. Of course there should be proper guards annexed to the rule, such as power on the part of the commanding general to suspend the rule when active field operations are expected, or to grant money or other commutation when the post is at great distance from the soldier's home.

Although there are generally reasonable facilities—barring the circumlocution and red tape which officers often have nothing else to attend to—for officers getting leaves of absence, it is notoriously difficult for a private to get a furlough unless when too sick to enjoy it—and even then it is often impossible.

The idea of a private going to the war for three years without any assurance or reasonable hope of visiting his friends for this length of time is more repugnant to the feelings of our New England boys, who are bred to the joys of social and domestic life, than the dangers of battle.

Fires.—The alarm of fire on Friday afternoon last was caused by the burning of a wood shed, in rear of the Bleachery. A dwelling-house near by, occupied by Mr. Murray, was singed a little.

The building on the scorner of Main and Grove Sts., in this town, owned by Gen. Wm. Sutton, and occupied by Mr. Blaney as a paint shop, was, with its contents, badly damaged by fire last Sunday night. The firemen were promptly on hand, and by their exertions saved the building almost entire; but owing to the combustible nature of its contents, Mr. Blaney's loss will be heavy. There was no insurance. Various reasons have been assigned for the fire, such as spontaneous combustion, incendiarism, etc. The most explosive article in the shop—a large can of benzole—was found unharmed.

Another Soldier Gone.—Amos Osborne 3d, a late member of Co. C, 5th Regiment, died in this town yesterday morning of malarial fever. He was about 23 years old. The funeral will take place to-morrow afternoon at 3 o'clock, from the residence of his father on Andover St.

Company C's Pic-nic, held last Friday afternoon and evening, was one of the most successful affairs of that kind we ever witnessed. Good company, good music, good fare, and good management, were its characteristics.

☞ Hon. John J. Crittenden died at half past 2 o'clock last Sunday morning, without pain or a struggle, and in the full possession of his faculties. His disease was general debility. His age was 77 years.

☞ Large numbers of the prisoners captured at Port Hudson are joining the Federal army.

☞ Why are the South Danvers ladies like Sailors? Because they are delighted with the C's.

"ON THE TRAIL."

Philadelphia, July, 20th, 1863.

Friend Howard,—I have visited the army. Followed it, or accompanied it, from Frederick to Williamsport, Md. The "sights" more than recompensed me for the long walks and severe exposure incident to such an expedition. I was astonished at the magnitude of army operations—leagues of wagons, artillery and horses, vast expanses of tented fields, immense masses of troops. From the summit of South Mountain we beheld the fairest scene on earth. Far off arose mountains blue and indistinct in the distance, between which and us was one of the finest valleys in the world, peaceful with its farms and villages; rich in its crops; traversed by the forces of the Republic in long lines, now rising a hill here and disappearing in a valley there, 'till lost to sight in the shadows of the great ridges. And I saw 40,000 men in line of battle march across a plain a mile and a half wide, banners flying, horses prancing, bugles sounding, artillery, ammunition wagons and ambulances following, making up one of the most splendid pageants of the age, heightened in thrilling interest by the rattle of musketry along the extreme front. But I saw no battle. Day after day the battle was thought to be at hand. Finally, on Tuesday, I believe, we found ourselves near Sykes's headquarters.

A Division from each corps had been sent to find the enemy in his woody retreat, and half an hour would tell us whether he was ready to fight or not. The whole army was ready to move to the support of the advance divisions. Half an hour passed in almost breathless anxiety. Another half hour dragged itself away. Still no sound. All was as silent as the grave. Three mortal hours elapsed, and not a word from the front! Suddenly the men rush to a certain point. Rebel prisoners are coming! Twenty or thirty were marched into camp. Their story was short. On the previous evening they received word to fall back in all haste, the barefooted to take care of themselves. Not being able to find their way to Williamsport, 4 miles off, through the woods, at night, barefooted, they were caught. They however seemed defiant, and maintained the air of rebels. We dropped our chin and started for home. The disappointment at not seeing a battle was great. But this soon wore off, as we reflected that Lee's army was quite as strong as ours, and that he had the advantage of position. Our army is a noble one, ready for any work, but really worked almost to death. Brigadiers who have not changed an article of clothing for a month, soldiers who are barefooted and have marched so 35 miles a day without a morsel to eat, are as common as military men in that army. I saw Generals Meade, Sykes, French, and Birney—a personal acquaintance.

Yours, Frank.

The Militia System.—Can any one tell us if we have an organized militia in this State? If we have not, is it not time to have such an organization, such as will be effectual in case of need. We know not what sudden calls may be made on the strength of the country. Our foreign relations are not yet in such a satisfactory state as to viewed without apprehension. It may be that not only the able-bodied and the young will be needed, but also the exempted. In the war of 1812 there were many companies raised from the exempted by law. Cannot our town sustain at least one good full company of able-bodied young men. It would be for its credit to have such a one. Cincinatus.

Capture of John Morgan.—Gen. Shochford telegraphs to headquarters, the following:

By the blessing of Almighty God I have succeeded in capturing Gen. John H. Morgan, Col. Clarke, and the balance of the command, amounting to about 400 prisoners. I will start with Morgan and staff on the first train for Cincinnati, to await the General's order for transportation for the balance.

Colored Men can Fight.—The Mass. 54th (colored) have had a chance to try their metal. On the 16th inst., Gen. Ferry's division on James Island near Charleston, was attacked by the rebels. The 54th Mass. regiment, then doing picket duty, fought bravely, losing 46 in killed, wounded and missing. The rebels were defeated and driven back.

☞ Among those who volunteered in the storming party which was to lead in the attack on Port Hudson was James Miller, of Salem, a youth of 19, son of E. F. Miller, Esq., Deputy Collector, and the namesake and grandson of the hero of Lundy's Lane, whose fearlessness and bravery he shows that he inherits.—He was one of two voluntcers from the 50th regiment.—Reg.

☞ The legs of the Colossus of Rhodes were stretched so wide that ships passed between them. But this was nothing to what we see now when many a mangled hero's legs are a thousand miles apart.

☞ Long Island, in Boston Harbor, has been designated as the camp for the drafted men.

WAR CORRESPONDENCE.

☞ The following letter is from one of our townsmen, Charles Augustus Goldthwait, who was in New York at the time the Rebellion broke out, and volunteered with the three months' men, whose stay was four months, and then returned and joined the New York State Volunteers (three years' men,) 48th Regiment,—has been in eleven engagements, and escaped with a slight wound on the leg, which has not detained him from service one hour. His remarkably good health has not caused him to be off duty but two days during twenty-two months' service:

Morris Island, S. C., July 14th, 1863.

Dear Brother,—I take this opportunity of penning you a few lines to let you know how we are getting along. We have at last left Fort Pulaski and taken the field in earnest. Our boys have been in a row and came out successful. The enemy is whipped badly, but they still hold the biggest part of this Island and have two batteries stationed here, which are bothering us very much, but which I hope will soon be ours. We have lost quite a number of men, but it is nothing in comparison to what some of the regiments have lost here. I myself am laid up, as I was sun-struck the first day, in the charge on the batteries. This island is situated in easy range of Sumter, but I don't think it will bother us much longer, or Charleston either, as I hope, in my next letter, to inform you that both places are in our possession.

The 54th Massachusetts (colored) are doing splendid work on James Island. The General in charge of them says they fight like tigers. They are sweeping everything before them, and I hope they will continue on in the good work.

We will have hard work before we get possession of the rebel stronghold, but success will finally crown our arms, and the 10th Army Corps be immortalized.

FOREIGN AFFAIRS.

A friend has handed us a copy of the John O'Groat's Journal, from Scotland. The paper is exceedingly well got up; about the size of the Boston Post and in its literary and mechanical merits will compare favorably with the first American journals;—differing however in this, its advertisements take up comparatively but a small portion of its columns. We scissorize and epitomize some items. The Report of the "Imperial Department," shows that Parliament is doing or attempting to do several things. For instance: A bill has passed to the second reading for administering corporeal punishment upon garotters. Lord Cranworth opposed the bill as a retrograde measure.

The Lord Chancellor has proposed a bill for revising the statute law of England.

Mr. Buxton, in the House of Commons proposed to relax the rule that required the clergy to subscribe to the Thirty Nine Articles and the Prayer Book. He agreed that many conscientious and able men were excluded from the ministry by their repugnance to subscribe this useless test. The proposition was warmly opposed by Messrs. Milnes, Walpole, and Disraeli, and will probably be defeated.

In reply to Sir A. Agnew, the Attorney General said that a railway or steamboat company would not be justified in forcibly removing a passenger although laboring under the small pox, and that no magistrate would be justified in inflicting a penalty upon a person travelling from place to place and spreading this scourge.

Col. Dunn inquired why Ireland during the last 60 years had become impoverished and England was prosperous. And proceeded to show by statistics that she had been over taxed. The Chancellor of the Exchequer said in reply that Ireland paid no tax that England and Scotland did not pay, and that England and Scotland paid numerous taxes which Ireland did not pay. He attributed the present depressed state of Ireland to a succession of bad harvests.

The lawyers have a nice bone to pick in the matter of the Breadalbane succession. This is a little case involving the ownership of an Earldom worth five million dollars. The decision will depend upon the legality of the marriage of one of the claimant's grandmothers. The certificate of marriage was lost in America and other proof will have to be relied on.

New Advertisements.—Joseph J. Rider is closing out his stock of Jewelry; Wm. H. Little and others are petitioning for a charter for a Horse Railroad between South Danvers and Lynn; Parker Webber has commenced running a mail express between here and Salem, four times daily; C. T. Southwick publishes his business card; James F. Almy advertises a large stock of mourning goods; and Wm. Archer, Jr., offers great attraction to buyers under the head of Auction Sales. For further particulars read the advertisements.

Railroad Accident in South Reading.—Miss Abby J. Cox, a young lady twenty year of age, daughter of Mr. Thomas Cox, of Lynnfield, was instantly killed, about six o'clock on Monday evening, at the crossing near Wakefield's rattan factory, in South Reading. She was sitting in a carriage waiting for some trains to pass, and when the Georgetown train had passed, the horse started to cross the track, and the carriage was dashed in pieces by the South Reading and Danvers train.

Lee has Escaped.—Washington, July 28th, 1863.—According to information received today, the report is now fully confirmed that the corps of Gen. Lee's army under Longstreet, Hill and Ewell, passed through Chester Gap on Thursday and Friday, and are now at and South of Culpepper.

The passages of the rebels was opposed by Buford's cavalry, but he was compelled to fall back. Buford, however, hung upon the rebel rear, and captured many prisoners and the herds of cattle heretofore mentioned.

Beverly.—At a Town meeting held on Saturday afternoon last, it was voted by a vote of 84 to 42, to pay each conscript a bounty of $8 per month while he might be in actual service, this will equal $300 for the whole term of service.

☞ Rev. Dr. Lord has resigned his office as President of Dartmouth College.

☞ We are authorized to state that, for the present the Horse Cars will run on Sunday, the first one leaving South Danvers at 9½ o'clock A. M., and every hour following 'till 10½ in the evening.

The first car will leave Salem at 9 o'clock A. M., and every hour following, 'till 10 o'clock in the evening.

General Hooker.—This distinguished officer takes his removal from the army in the right spirit. He doesn't go about whining and accusing others of interfering with his plans and frustrating his endeavors. A correspondent of the Portland Courier, speaking of the General, says that some one remarked to him a few nights ago, that it was a pity he couldn't have been in command when that victory was won at Gettysburg; the General laughed and replied in this way, "Oh d—n the difference, the country don't care whether Meade or I whip the rebels, all we want is the victory, I'm satisfied."—That's the spirit!

☞ Two noted politicians of the South have recently declared in favor of the Union, and taken the oath of allegiance—Albert G. Brown of Mississippi, and M. P. Gentry of Tennessee. Mr. Brown was Jeff. Davis' colleague in the U. S. Senate, when Mississippi seceded, and was a member of the Confederate Senate when he took the oath, which for him makes a second secession. Mr. Gentry has been a member of the federal Congress from Tennessee, and also of the Confederate Congress, and was once the Know Nothing candidate for Governor of that State. "Old rats leave a sinking ship."

☞ It is gratifying to learn as we do from the Port Hudson news, communicated to a Cincinnati paper, that Gen. Banks completed the reduction of that stronghold and received its capitulation, without the aid of reinforcements from General Grant. It might have detracted somewhat from the glory of his triumph if he had owed any part of it to the flushed legions that captured Vicksburg.

☞ The Princess of Wales wore at the last grand ball in London a deep white tulle over a white glace silk, veiled with spotted tulle and trimmed with flowees, the white rose and vinca pervinca. The ornaments were emeralds and diamonds. Her head-dress was composed of a wreath of flowers corresponding with the trimming of the dress, interspersed with diamond ornaments.

☞ The Richmond papers publish the correspondence between Jeff. Davis and Alexander H. Stephens, concerning the mission of the latter to Washington. It is clear, from the tenor of Davis's letter of instructions to Stephens, that the whole affair was nothing but a trick of the rebels to obtain a recognition from our Government, but the scheme failed.

☞ The rebels will have additions to their navy. The Sumter, after being thoroughly repaired in Liverpool, has sailed for Nassau, armed with heavy guns. A powerful iron-plated ram of 1900 tons, had also been launched from Laird's yard, ostensibly for the Emperor of China, but really for the rebels. She is to have revolving cupolas.

☞ Following the order of Gen. Rosecran to banish all the "frail" women from Nashville, 25 marriages took place in that city in one day, most of them where soldiers were parties, and women who thereby obtain sufficient respectability to follow the army.

☞ A shell for rifles has been invented by a captain of the British army. It is charged with solid phosphorus. Projected from a cavalry pistol, it lodged in a deal board and burned with a fierce flame for some time.

☞ The draft for soldiers has started a new business in the cities, and substitutes are getting plenty. In Boston the business has become excellent. From one to two hundred per day can now be furnished.

☞ Rochester, N. Y., has appropriated $207,000, to pay for each man drawn under the conscription $300; the money to go to himself if he goes to the army, and to the government if he stays at home.

☞ Writes an enthusiastic cavalier after a glorious dash of a few hundred miles through the enemy's country in Mississippi: "Solomon in all his glory was never on a raid like one of these."

☞ Prentice says that when Pennsylvania invited the rebel army to her borders she provided a Couch and a Curtin for their reception.

Musical.—Messrs. D. B. Brooks & Brother have sent us from their Music Rooms (entrance through their bookstore,) the "Nay-A Schottisch"—published by Horace Waters.

Messrs. Brooks & Brother have greatly enlarged their musical department. Their stock of musical publications, pianos, melodeons, and musical instruments, is very complete. They offer very liberal inducements to purchasers of pianos and melodeons.

Atlantic Monthly.—The August number of this standard periodical fully sustains the reputation the work has gained. Hawthorne, Ike Marvel and Gail Hamilton, furnish it with well written papers, and several new contributors make their first appearance in the number. For sale at Wilkinson's Periodical Depot.

Harper's Magazine comes this time with its usual rich illustrations and spicy and agreeable reading. The monthly notice of current events in the political world, is of itself worth the whole cost of the Magazine. The leading article, giving illustrations of the battle of Tippecanoe, is intensely interesting. For sale of Danvers, and Wilkinson of South Danvers have it for sale.

Notice.

The members of Co. C, 5th Regiment are requested to meet at the Room in Warren Bank Building, in dress uniform, next Thursday afternoon, at 2 o'clock, to attend the funeral of our late companion-in-arms, Mr. Amos Horn, 3d. Per order, Robt. S. Daniels, Jr., Capt.

South Danvers, July 29th, 1863.

Card.

The members of Volunteer Engine Co. No. 4 would take this method to return their sincere thanks to Gen. William Sutton for the bountiful supply of refreshments furnished them after the fire. Per order, Geo. C. Peirce, Foreman.

C. Leonard Peirce, Clerk.

☞ The Buckley Serenaders, at the new Aquarial Garden, Boston, continue to produce new novelties every week. Go and hear them.

☞ Butler's Combination Company, at the Museum, Boston, are giving some of the best and most varied entertainments ever seen here. Crowded houses nightly testify to this.

☞ The New Tremont, Boston, was opened by the Excelsior Troupe on Monday last, with Mazzoni, the unrivalled Magician—Dick Sands and Sam Hague, the champion clog dancers.

☞ Try one of Rhoades' National Clothes Wringers, before purchasing elsewhere. For sale at the Equity Store, South Danvers. See advertisement.

PEABODY'S PRICE LIST OF SUN UMBRELLAS:

14 inch Steel Frames,	$1 20;
14 inch Steel Frames,	$1 20;
16 inch Steel Frames,	$1 50;
18 inch Steel Frames,	$1 75;
20 inch Steel Frames,	$2 00;

SUN UMBRELLAS
—at—
Reduced Prices,
—at—
JOHN P. PEABODY'S.

CAMBRIC EDGINGS AND INSERTINGS.—A full stock of Cambric Edgings and Insertings in new and desirable patterns, just opened at J. P. PEABODY'S; also a full line of White Cambrics, Jaconets, Lawns, Book Muslins, &c., &c. His 29 cent Collars are worth remembering. Examine his new goods. 220 Essex st.

☞ Best American Pins 5 cts.—Best White Spool Cottons, glazed, 6 cts.—Nice Honey Soap 6 cts.—Castile Soap 8 cts.—Rose Soap, 2 cakes for 5 cts.—Best Worsted Braids 8 cts.—Everything at prizes to correspond, at PEABODY'S, 220 Essex st.

☞ Visit OSBORNE'S Store, and look at the unusual variety of new styles in HATS and CAPS—191 Essex street.

Port of Danvers.

Ar 19th, schs Yarmouth, Baxter, New York; 21st, St Lucar, Barnes, Rondout; 23d, Telegraph, New York; 24th, Boxer, Bangor.

Marriages.

In Salem, July 25, by Rev Mr Winn, Mr B F Crowell of Marblehead, to Miss Helen B Foster of Salem.

Deaths.

In Danvers, July 14, Mrs Jane W, wife of Mr David Dwinnell, 75 years 1 month.

In South Danvers, July 26th, Mrs Betsey Marsh, aged 86 years 3 months 15 days.

In Salem, July 21, Miss Elizabeth Carleton, 22 years—one of the teachers of the State Normal School in Salem, and youngest daughter of Rev Michael Carleton; 26th, George Buxton, son of John W Buxton, 7 months.

In Cambridgeport, July 19, Mrs Hannah H, widow of the late Moses Dole, formerly of So. Danvers, 68 years.

☞ The extraordinary success of Dr. Ham's Invigorating Spirit, seems to stir up an army of Tonics, Bitters, and Cure Alls; but as a general thing they are like the Morning-Glory—look very fine in the morning but wilt before the day has past. The Dr. has been before the public for years; his Dyspepsia Remedy has been tested and not found wanting; it acts on the Liver, Stomach, Head and the whole system; it is good at all times and for everybody.

Hunnewell's Great Remedies.

WHAT EVERY FAMILY SHOULD HAVE IN THE HOUSE AND WHY;

☞ They should have HUNNEWELL'S UNIVERSAL COUGH REMEDY, because it effectually cures Colds, Whooping and Common Coughs Sore Throat, Hoarseness, and is the most simple and perfect Soothing Syrup in the world. For old and young, by day and night, it may be used with the greatest freedom, and three-fourths of the deaths by Consumption stopped.

They should have HUNNEWELL'S TOLU ANODYNE, because it is a perfect remedy for Neuralgia, Nervous or Sick Headache, Tooth, and Earache, Pain in Stomach, or Bowels, Genuine Cholera Morbus, Rheumatism, Distress after Eating, Nervousness, Hysteria, and the chief of all causes of disease, and Insanity, Loss of Sleep. Its character, though active, is simple; its action in perfect conformity to nature; its end cure, or relief.

For the pains in Monthly Menstruation a perfect relief, while nature's after work is not disturbed, and one of the most important points in Medicine.

They should have HUNNEWELL'S ECLECTIC PILLS, because while seldom but a single Pill for a dose all derangements of the Stomach and Bowels are cured. They cure Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Headache, when caused by foul stomach, Loss of Appetite, Biliousness so often and so erroneously treated with Mercurials, Jaundice. For Worms a sure cure.

They act simple, assist nature, do not make a Pill Box of the stomach, as is the most fatal error of taking so many Pills at a dose and then, what is important to every Family and every Purse, one bottle goes as far as two or three of what is ordinarily sold.

The confidence of all is asked to test
Hunnewell's Universal Cough Remedy.
Hunnewell's Tolu Anodyno.
Hunnewell's Eclectic Pills.

☞ Fac-simile of J. L. Hunnewell's signature over corks of genuine only.

JOHN L. HUNNEWELL, proprietor,
9 Commercial Wharf, Boston, Mass.

George E. Meacom, Agent for Danvers.
For sale by all dealers in Salem and vicinity.
Apr. 1, 1853—1 y

M. FENOLLOSA,
TEACHER OF MUSIC,
LETS.....PIANO FORTES, at the lowest rates;
SELLS.....PIANO FORTES, at the Manufacturers Prices;
EXCHANGES....PIANO FORTES, on the easiest terms;
At Rooms No. 7 Central street,
feb 11 SALEM, MASS.

MANUAL FENOLLOSA,
TEACHER
OF THE
Violin, Piano and Singing,
MUSIC ROOMS, No. 7 Central Street,
SALEM, MASS.

Advertisements.

FOR THIS WEEK ONLY!

THE STOCK OF JEWELRY, SILVER PLATED WARE, and FANCY GOODS in Store
No. 2 West Block—188 Essex Street, will be sold at Reduced Prices during this week only, after which, all the Goods remaining on hand will be sold at auction, as per advertisement in Auction Sales.
JOSEPH J. RIDER,
July 29 2 West Block—188 Essex St.

LAVA WARE.

LAVA Tea Sets, Vases, &c. Also, Parian Ware—at jy 29 SC&EA SIMONDS', 32 Front St.

To the Honorable, the Senate and House of Representatives of Massachusetts:

THE undersigned hereby ask that they may be incorporated as the SOUTH DANVERS AND LYNN RAILROAD COMPANY, with a capital of one hundred thousand dollars, with power to construct a Horse Railroad from some convenient point in the town of South Danvers to some convenient point in the city of Lynn, and with power to connect with the roads of the Lynn and Boston Railroad Company, and the Salem and South Danvers Railroad Company, and to use such portions of the road of the latter company as public convenience may require; and as in duty bound will
WM. H. LITTLE,
HENRY POOR,
LEWIS ALLEN,
STEPHEN BLANEY,
C. W. OSBORNE.

Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

SECRETARY'S DEPARTMENT,
Boston, July 18, 1863.

I approve the publication of the above petition in the Lynn Reporter and the South Danvers Wizard. OLIVER WARNER,
July 29 Secretary.

WEBBER'S
South Danvers & Salem Mail Express

WILL leave South Danvers at 7 and 11½ A M, and 1½ and and 5 P M.
Leaves Salem at 8.45 A M and 12 M, and 2½ and 6 P M.
Slates will be found in South Danvers at the Post Office, and at Blake & Holman's store at the Monument, and in Salem at the Coach Station, 13 Central Street, and at E F & J W Roberts', corner of Front & Washington Streets.
Any packages or business entrusted to this Express will have prompt attention and care. A share of public patronage is solicited.
July 29, 1863 PARKER WEBBER.

HOUSE OF EQUITY,
—BY—
C. T. SOUTHWICK.

FIRST Quality Family Groceries sold at the lowest prices. Also a large assortment of
CROCKERY AND GLASS WARE,
Constantly on hand at
NO. 1 LOWELL STREET,
ASHLAND HALL BUILDING.
South Danvers, July 29, 1863.

THE CLOTHES WRINGER.
RHOADES' CELEBRATED
NATIONAL CLOTHES WRINGER,
THE VERY BEST YET INVENTED,
AND REALLY A LABOR SAVING MACHINE.
CALL AND EXAMINE.
For Sale by C. T. SOUTHWICK,
At the EQUITY GROCERY STORE,
South Danvers, July 8, 1863.

List of Letters

REMAINING in the Post Office at South Danvers, July 28, 1863. [Persons calling for these letters will please say they are advertised.]

Beckford Eben H	Babb Geo W
Bean Mary	Burren D H
Dougherty Michael	Dennis Wm H
Johnson E W Dr	Kane Catharino
McGuire Catharine	Newell Bell
Tapley G Cleaveland	Swift Miss
Wilder Geo

N. B. These letters are subject to an additional postage of one cent each.
FITCH POOLE, P. M.

MORRIS'
RESTAURANT,
18 and 20 Derby Square, Salem.

Oysters, Clams, Steak, Poultry, Game, Fish, &c., &c., cooked to order.
Pickled Oysters, Lobsters and Clams.
Salem, July 22, 1863. tf

FLOUR.

100 Bbls Fagin's "Invincible."
100 Bbls Fagin's "Keystone."
Just received and for sale by
July 29 GAYLE & CO., Phillips' Wharf.

FLOUR.

100 Bbls Fagin's "Four Bells," just received and for sale by July 29 GAYLE & CO., Phillips' Wharf.

FRENCH CHINA.

A FULL assortment of French China Tea Ware, Vases, Match Boxes, etc., just received from New York, and for sale by
jy 29 SC&EA SIMONDS, 32 Front st.

JUST PUBLISHED,

LIGHT, by Helen Modet; Little Ones in the Fold, by Rev. Edward Payson Hammond; The Senses—illustrated;
Lessons from Insect Life, with illustrations;
The Atlantic Monthly; Harper's Magazine;
Eclectic Magazine; Godey's do;
Frank Leslie's Gazette; Peterson's do;
for August. Subscriptions received for all Periodicals, and numbers promptly delivered, and single numbers for sale by
jy 29 G M WHIPPLE & A A SMITH.

SHOULD BE IN EVERY HOUSEHOLD

FAITH Gartney's Girlhood. Just the Book for family reading. The authoress says: "I began this book for young girls. It has grown as they grow, to womanhood. It makes no artistic pretensions. It is a simple record of something of the thought and life that lies between fourteen and twenty; I dedicate it to those young girls who dream and wish and strive and err, and find perhaps little help to interpret their own spirits to themselves—may there be something that shall lift them, though ever so little, up!"
One vol, 12mo, fine paper and clear print, at
jy 29 G M WHIPPLE & A A SMITH.

FLOUR.

200 BBLS. Arcade Mills, received this day—for sale by jy 22 GAYLE & CO, Phillips Wharf.

FLOUR.

100 BBLS. Jordan Mills, rec'd this day. For sale by jy 22 GAYLE & CO, Phillips Wharf.

FLOUR.

100 BBLS. Fagin's Invincible, rec'd this day—for sale by
jy 22 GAYLE & CO., Phillips Wharf.

BROKEN BARK.

DAMAGED Bark, suitable for kindling, for sale by GAYLE & CO., Phillips Wharf.

$100 Reward!

A REWARD OF ONE HUNDRED DOLLARS will be paid by the Salem and South Danvers Railroad Company, to the person giving the information by which any one shall be convicted of placing stones or other obstructions upon their track.
W. P. PHILLIPS, Pres't.
Salem, July 15, 1863.—3w

WHITE LEAD AND LINSEED OIL,

OF the best quality—for sale at
SC&EA SIMONDS', 32 Front st.

EMANCIPATION HYMN.

QUARTETTE and Chorus—composed and dedicated by permission to the Salem Union League, Manuel Fenollosa—for sale by
jy 15 G M WHIPPLE & A A SMITH.

John P. Peabody.

BARGAINS.

Nice Crochet Nets—heavy	25c
Nice Cord Nets—double	25c
Fine Crochet Nets—pretty	25c
Fifty Cent Wrought Collars	29c
Forty Cent Wrought Collars	25c
Very nice Linen Collars	8c
Nice Linen Bosoms	25c
Nice Linen Bosoms	18c
Nice Linen Handkerchiefs—fine	15c
Good Linen Hdkfs.	12½c
Lace Sleeves—new styles	19c
Ladies' Fancy Linen Hdkfs.	25c
Hand-made Bonnet Ruches	15c
Hand-made Bonnet Ruches	25c
Very fine Ruches—the best	35c
Nice Black Lace Veils	42c
Good Black Lace Veils—new styles	50c
Extra Bargains in Black Veils	88c
Nice French Lace Veil	$1 25
Brown, blue, green and drab Veils 85 and	$1 00
Double Collarette Ruffle	12½c
Fancy Dress Ruche, hand-made	15c
Fancy Dress Ruffles—new	25c
Linen Setts, Collar and Sleeves	17c

Our whole Stock is marked at prices that cannot fail to suit any one in search of bargains.

JOHN P. PEABODY.

14 inch Sun Umbrellas	$1 10
14 inch Sun Umbrellas	$1 10
16 inch Sun Umbrellas	$1 50
16 inch Sun Umbrellas	$1 50
18 inch Sun Umbrellas	$1 75
18 inch Sun Umbrellas	$1 75
20 inch Sun Umbrellas	$2 00
20 inch Sun Umbrellas	$2 00

We warrant these the best Goods and sell them at these prices only to Reduce Stock.

JOHN P. PEABODY.

HOSIERY and GLOVES,
HOSIERY and GLOVES,
HOSIERY and GLOVES.

The Largest and most desirable StOck of Ladies, Misses, and Children's Hosiery and Gloves in this city, and many styles at prices far below the present market value.

Ladies' Cotton Hosiery,
Misses' COtton Hosiery,
ChIldren's Cotton Hosiery.

Lisle Thread,
Silk Taffeta,
Silk and Linen,
Raw Silk,
Kid Finished,
and all the common grades of GLOVES, in all sizes and prices.

KID GLOVES.

Our Best Kid Gloves—in all sizes and colors—a fresh stock.

JOHN P. PEABODY.

MITTS.

Black Lace Mitts in all sizes, for Ladies, Misses and Children.
MITTS for 40—45—60—75—90—95—$1—1 25.

BARGAINS.

OUR PRICE LIST OF
FANCY GOODS.

Rose Soap—two cakes for	5c
Pumice Soap—the best per cake	5c
Honey Soap—large size per cake	5c
Brown Windsor per package	25c
White Castile Soap—nice, per cake	10c
Castile Soap—imported	8c
Almond Soap—highly scented	10c
Amber Soap—round cakes	4c
Barber's Soap—for shaving	6c
Tooth Brushes—8, 10, 12½, and	25c
Hair Brushes 25, 38, 50, 75, and	$1 25
Clark's Indellible Pencils	17c
Ladies' Rubber Pages	12½c
Leather Wallets 25, 50, 62, $1 and	$1 25
Puff Boxes, Powders, Brushes, &c.

STOCK TO BE REDUCED.

ONE PRICE ONLY!

220 ESSEX ST., SALEM,
JOHN P. PEABODY.
July 22d, 1863.

James F. Almy.

MOURNING GOODS.

We have a large stock of Mourning Dress Goods, comprising our regular make of
MOUSSELIN DELAINES; PARAMETTAS; CRAPE MARETTES; CASHMERES; and ALPACCAS.

These Goods have been bought very low for Cash—and we are offering them at our usually low prices. JAMES F. ALMY.
188 Essex, opposite Central St., Salem.

CLOSING SALE.

We are rapidly closing our stock of SUMMER DRESS GOODS; SHAWLS, LIGHT CAPES, and MANTILLAS, at Low Prices.
JAMES F. ALMY,
188 Essex, opposite Central st.
July 29, 1863.

NEW STOCK
— OF —
DRY GOODS
— AT —
No. 238 Essex street,
(Three Doors West of the Tunnel.)

THE Subscriber opened on MONDAY, May 18th,

A Fresh Stock of Dry Goods,

Consisting of nearly all the new styles of Dress Goods, Ladies' Cloths, Cloths for Men's & Boys' Wear; Shawls, Domestic and Housekeeping Goods; Sun Umbrellas; Parasols; Hoop Skirts; Hosiery; Gloves; &c., &c., &c.

☞ All the above Goods will be sold for CASH, at Low Prices.

GEORGE P. DANIELS.
Salem, May 20.

SALEM SUPERIOR.

150 BBLS. of this favorite brand rec'd this day by rail.
For Sale by GAYLE & CO,
jy 8 Phillip's Wharf.

BAKERS' FLOUR,

150 BBLS. Union Mills, made expressly for Bakers' use. For sale by
GAYLE & CO.,
jy 8 Phillips' Wharf.

Mothers—Take Heed!

MRS. OSBORN'S CURE FOR PIN WORMS

GIVE no more poison to your children. Do you ever think when observing the uneasy actions of your children, that the only cause of the little sufferer's illness is worms? In nineteen cases out of twenty it is so. Of all the diseases to which children are exposed none are so fatal to them as worms. In fact, children are seldom free from them, as worms imitate the symptoms of many other complaints. They often produce alarming effects without being suspected as the cause.—The only certain cure—one of nature's own remedies, a compound of nothing but Roots and Herbs—is

Mrs. Osborne's Universal Worm Powders.

They will eradicate all worms from the system, if the directions are strictly adhered to. No more filthy vermifuge will be used by those who have once used these Powders. The active principle in all other vermifuges, Worm Killers, Syrups and Medicated Lozenges, is Mercury, as any physician will tell you. Many dealers will recommend inferior preparations, and low-priced articles, affording more profit to themselves. Be sure and obtain only Mrs. Osborne's Worm Powders. Price 25 cts. per box. Sold by D. P. GROSVENOR, Main st.
South Danvers, June 17, 1863. 3m

Tillage Land and Barn to Let.

ABOUT six acres of good level Tillage Land with a Barn, situated upon the "Cross Road" in Rockville. Any one wishing to work upon land on partion or the whole of his time will find this a rare chance.
For further particulars application may be made to either of the subscribers.
S. C. BANCROFT, So. Danvers.
JOHN H. NICHOLS, Salem.
South Danvers, Ap. 22.

FLEXIBLE WALLETS,

DESIRABLE styles, adapted for treasury notes and bills—a large and attractive assortment, at
G M WHIPPLE & A A SMITH'S.

SELLING OFF! SELLING OFF!

THE undersigned intending to close up his present business at the earliest opportunity, now offers his ENTIRE STOCK OF
Fine and Plated Jewelry,
Solid Silver Ware,
Solid Silver Ware, &c.
AT LARGELY REDUCED PRICES,
Regardless of Cost,
FOR THIRTY DAYS ONLY.

After which, all goods remaining on hand will be sold at Public Auction.
Also, for sale, all the movable fittings of said Store, including 5 solid German Silver frame Counter Show Cases; One Tilton & McFarland Fire and Burglar Proof Safe; Chairs, Desks, Stools, &c., &c.
JOSEPH J. RIDER,
2 West Block—188 Essex st.
Salem, June 17, 1863. 1m

SAUCE PANS AND KETTLES.

A full stock of Enamelled Kettles and Sauce Pans, just opened at
jy 15 SC&EA SIMONDS',
32 Front street.

CREAM ALE.

THIS Ale is highly recommended by Physicians for
FAMILY USE AND INVALIDS.
Put up in Half Barrels and Barrels,
And for sale by
J. MAGUIRE & CO.,
No. 6 Derby Square, Salem.

Also, Agent for
MASSEY & COLLINS'
PHILADELPHIA ALES,
BUCKHART'S
CREAM ALE.
And Dealer in
LONDON PORTER, SCOTCH ALE, Atkinson's Wormwood Cordial, Drake's Plantation Bitters, &c., &c.

J. MAGUIRE & CO.,
july 15 No. 6 Derby Square, Salem.

Dr. Ham's Spirit.

A. J. Archer & Co

REDUCED PRICES.

A. J. ARCHER & CO.,

Offer their stock of
Summer Dress Goods,
Summer Shawls,
and Capes,
at REDUCED PRICES—to close.

Salem, july 15—tf

SUMMER SHAWLS!

We open this morning beautiful new
SUMMER SHAWLS.
— Also —
A variety of THIN DRESS GOODS;
8 4 Black Hernani and Crape Maretz;
Black Grenadine. For sale by
A. J. ARCHER & CO.,
Salem, june 3—tf.

Potter, Bachelder & Co.,

(Successors to M. Black)
DANVERS-PORT,
DEALERS IN
WOOD AND COAL

OF the various kinds usually kept in a retail yard. Constantly on hand
Franklin, Old Company's Lehigh,
Locust Mountain, Black Heath,
Red and White Ash.

Of all sizes, of the best quality, and at as low prices as can be bought elsewhere.
OFFICE—No. 6 Allen's Building.
Order Box at post office, South Danvers, and post office, Danvers.
G. W. POTTER,
J. Q. A. BACHELDER,
C. T. BATCHELDER. July 19—tf

ANN R. BRAY,
NO. 76 FEDERAL ST,
SALEM.

WE are selling out all our Black Silks;
we are selling out all our Cambric Prints;
We are selling out all our French Prints;
We are selling out all our mee Taffetas;
We are selling out all our Organdie Muslins;
We are selling out all our Lawns;
We are selling out all our Cotton Hosiery;
We are selling out all our Linen Hdkfs;
We are selling out all our Domestic Goods;
We are selling thin Dress Goods for 1s worth 25 cents;
We are selling Bleached Cottons for 12½ cts;
We are selling light Spring Prints for 1s;
We have the Quaker Skirt for ladies;
We have the Belle Point Skirt for ladies;
We have the Trail Skirt for ladies;
We have the very best Silk for Visites;
We have a full assortment of B P R Silks, which we are selling out very low.

A Card.

Having disposed of my stock and stand to Miss M. E. CRANE, I avail myself of this opportunity to request my friends and customers who have bestowed their liberal patronage upon me, to transfer the same to my successor.
In taking leave of my business friends, I would return my warmest thanks for the generous patronage I have received. I can in the highest terms recommend Miss CRANE, and would bespeak for her your kind consideration and confidence.
I would most respectfully invite those having unsettled accounts to call and adjust the same, either with Miss Crane or myself, at the old stand.
April 22, 1863. M. M. FLETCHER.

Notice.

The Subscriber having purchased of Mrs. M. M. FLETCHER her stock of Goods, and made additions to the same, is now prepared to furnish her patrons and the public with a large and fine assortment of
Millinery Goods,
which we will sell very low for cash. We hope by strict attention to business to merit a liberal share of patronage. M. E. CRANE,
ap 22 cor. of Essex and St. Peter sts.

M. A. PORTER,
MANUFACTURES TO ORDER
WATCH SPRING SKIRTS,
At 236 Essex Street,
A few doors from Washington Street,
SALEM, MASS.

SPIRITS TURPENTINE

AND Benzole Spirits, for sale at
SC&EA SIMONDS', 32 Front st.

SEWING MACHINES.

PERSONS about purchasing SEWING MACHINES will find it to their advantage to consult
JOHN H. CHOATE,
SEWING MACHINE AGENT,
Over Newman & Symonds' Store, Lowell St.
Second-hand Machines bought and sold.
South Danvers, May 13—tf

SPRING BEDS! SPRING BEDS!

ALL those that are inclined to rest their weary limbs on the most luxurious
SPRING BED
that was ever invented, are invited to call at
No. 52 Main St., South Danvers,
and there see the very best SPRING BED BOTTOM that has been offered to the public.
Not having been able at first to meet the demands, I now have the facilities to supply all orders.
Having bought the right to make and vend for the county of Essex, the subscriber would be happy to supply all those who may favor him with a call.
Rights for sale for any town or city in the county except Haverhill and Lawrence.
THOS. TRASK.
South Danvers, June 17, 1863.

George S. Walker.

AT REDUCED PRICES.

GENT'S SUMMER UNDER-SHIRTS, DRAWERS, HOSIERY, GLOVES, TIES, &c., &c.,
FOR the balance of the season, can be bought at Low PRICES, at
GEORGE S. WALKER'S,
Gent's Furnishing Store,
july 15 228 Essex Street, Salem, Mass.

SUSPENDERS.

COMMON, Medium and Superior qualities, at the lowest prices, at
GEO. S. WALKER'S, 228 Essex st.

Gent's Linen Handkerchiefs.

PLAIN, Col'd and Hem-Stitched—for sale by
GEO. S. WALKER,
Dealer in Gent's Furnishing Goods,
jy 15 Opp Eastern Railroad Station.

FIRST CLASS GOODS
AT THE LOWEST PRICES

"POPULAR PRICES."

MESSRS. BROWNING & LONG, finding that "Low Prices" are appreciated, continue offering Great Inducements.
Constantly on hand the Largest Assortment of Ladies' Furnishing Goods in the city.

MARK THE PRICES!

Good Thread Nets,	25c;
White and Unbleached Hose,	18c;
Ladies' Colored Cotton Hose,	10c;
Nice Open-work Hose,	28c;
White Misses' and Unbleached Hose,	16c;
Children's Colored Hose,	16c;
Gent's good half-Hose,	10c;
Misses' Fancy Cotton Hose,	16c;
Nice Lisle Gloves,	15c;
Ladies' Mohair Mitts,	40c;
Ladies' All-Linen Hdkfs,	13c;
All-Linen Hem-Stitched Hdkfs,	30c;
Embroidered Collars,	15c;
Nice Crape Collars,	25c;
Gent's Woven Bosoms,	8c;
Bead Nets,	25c,
Fine Combs,	2c;
Children's Mitts,	15c;
Nice Embroidered Gloves,	15c;

and many others in like comparison.

THE VERY LATEST STYLES
— OF —
NEW GOODS.

We have many Goods on hand which were bought at very low prices, and can therefore offer many Bargains.
BROWNING & LONG
Essex St., 177 Essex St.,
Salem, July 22, 1863.

Quincy Mutual Fire Insurance Co.

Available and Cash Capital $500,000.
INSURES Buildings, Merchandize and Personal Property generally, on terms as favorable as any other dividend paying company.
J. D. BLACK, Agent,
april 22—1y At Danversport.

Merrimack Mutual Fire Insurance Co., Andover, Mass.

ONE of the OLD AND RELIABLE OFFICES.
J. D. BLACK is Agent for Danvers and South Danvers. apr 22—1y

VALUABLE REAL ESTATE.

THE Subscriber offers for sale on favorable terms,—or would exchange for a Farm,—his Estate on Wallis Street, near the Monumental Cemetary, consisting of THREE DWELLING HOUSES, which will be sold separately or as one Estate.
There are 75 feet of land in front, and 72 feet in the rear of the house.
The situation is pleasant, in a good neighborhood, and the houses are supplied with all the conveniences for immediate occupation. In ordinary times these tenements would rent for from 330 to 350 dollars.
The Subscriber, having made up his mind to dispose of the property, will sell it low, and it is well worth the attention of purchasers.
Apply to JOHN M'NEAL.
South Danvers, Dec. 10th, 1862. tf.

THE PIANO FORTES

THAT have attracted so much attention of late, and are so much admired on account of their SPLENDID FULL, RICH, MELLOW TONE, and GRAND FRENCH ACTION, are for sale only at the Office of the Agent,
218 Essex Street, Salem, Mass.,
where reference may be had to many who have purchased. Other Piano Fortes also, are for sale, varying in price from $180 upwards. Please call.
Meh 11 6m S. MACKINTIRE, Agent.

Choice Spring Pigs for Sale.

THE subscriber offers for sale nice PIGS of Mackie Prince Albert and Chester County breeds, which the Mackie took the First Premium at the last Cattle Show. Prices reasonable.
BYRON GOODALE,
Near Tapley's Brook.
South Danvers, April 22, 1863. tf

PHOTOGRAPH ALBUMS.

A FULL assortment constantly on hand.
G M WHIPPLE & A A SMITH.

NEW BOOKS,
AT G. M. WHIPPLE & A. A. SMITH'S.

WAR Pictures from the South, by B Estvan, Colonel of Cavalry in the Confederate Army;
Cattle and their Diseases, by Rbt Jennings, V. S.;
The Tiger Slayer, a Tale of the Indian Desert, by Gustave Aimard.
jy 22 Sign of the Five Golden Books.

SUMMER EXCURSIONS.

EASTMAN'S White Mountain Guide;
Map of Massachusetts with Railroads and Town ships;
Map of New England, New York and Canada, with Railroads and Townships;
Appleton's Companion Hand-Book of travel;
Books from the Circulating Library at half-price. For sale by
G M WHIPPLE & A A SMITH.

LINSEED OIL, &C.

PURE Linseed Oil and Varnishes, of all kinds, at
SC&EA SIMONDS', 32 Front st.

WHITE LEAD IN PAILS.

1000 POUNDS New York White Lead in pails of 25 lbs. each, just received at
SC&EA SIMONDS',

VARNISHES.

COACH Varnish; Furniture and Damar Varnish, of the best quality, at
je 17 SC&EA SIMONDS', 32 Front st.

FRUIT BASKETS.

WHITE China and White Granite Fruit Baskets—at
S. C. & E. A. SIMONDS', 32 Front st.

WIRE COVERS.

WIRE Dish Covers in sets of five, at
SC&EA SIMONDS, 32 Front st.

☞ If you want to SAVE MONEY, in purchasing Goods, go to COLMAN'S, No. 10 Front street, Salem. ap30-tf

Auction Sales.

WILLIAM ARCHER, Jr.,
Auctioneer, Real Estate and Stock Broker,
34 Front Street.
Real Estate, Bank, Railroad and Manufacturing Stock bought and sold on Commission.
ON SATURDAY NEXT, at 9 1-2 o'clock will be sold at No. 34 Front street:
A QUANTITY OF FURNITURE—New and Second-hand; Sofas, Mahogany, carved Centre Table, Chairs, Tables, Carpets, &c.
DRY GOODS:—An assortment of Dress Goods. M. DeLaines, Ginghams, Muslins, etc;
Also—Cassimeres, Doeskins, Satinets, &c.
BOOTS AND SHOES:—Ladies', Misses', and Children's Boots and Shoes.
3 doz Gentlemen's Gaiter Boots.
BASKETS, &c:—A large assortment of Rattan Goods; Market Baskets; Picnic do; Word do; Clothes do; Mats; 10 Wash Boards, etc.

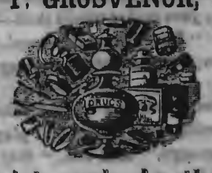
At Private Sale.

An assortment of Rattan goods, Baskets, Mats, &c., at auction prices; Dry Goods at Auction prices. jy 29.

Silver Ware, Jewelry and Fine Plated Ware at Auction.

The rich and valuable stock of Silver Ware, Jewelry, Plated Ware and Fancy Goods, in Store 188 Essex street, occupied by JOSEPH J. RIDER, will be closed out at auction.—The sale to commence on MONDAY, August 3d, at 2 o'clock, P. M., and to continue day and evening until all is sold.
THE stock consists of Silver Plated Tea Sets, Ice Pitchers, Egg Boilers, Castors, Forks, &c. Silver Cake, Pie, Pudding, Fish and Butter Knives; Table and Tea Spoons; Pickle Knives and Forks; Cups; Goblets; Napkin Rings; Child's Sets; Salts, &c. Fine Gold, Mosaic, Cameo, Lava and Onyx Sets of Pins and Ear rings; Gold and Silver Pencils; Bracelets; Studs; Sleeve Buttons; Gent's Pins; Diamond, Gennet, Emerald, Ruby and Pearl Finger Rings; Chased and Plain Gold do; Silver, Shell and Pearl Card Cases; Fine Cutlery; Rogers' Scissors and Pocket Knives; Gold, Silver and Steel Spectacles and Eye Glasses, together with an assortment of Fancy Goods.
Also—Five Solid German Silver Frame Plate and Rolled Glass Counter Cases; 1 office Desk; 1 large Burglar Proof Safe, manufactured by Tilton and McFarland, New York.
The above stock is new, having all been purchased within 3 or 4 years, and every article will be warranted as represented, or the money refunded.
The stock must be closed out, as the proprietor intends making an entire change in his business, and every article will be sold. jy 29.

D. P. GROSVENOR, Jr.,



Druggist and Apothecary,
36 MAIN STREET.
Dealer in Drugs, Medicines, Chemicals, Dye Stuffs, and Popular Proprietary Medicines.
Personal attention to Physicians' Prescriptions.
South Danvers, May 29, 1861. 1y

GEO. E. MEACOM

Dealer in
DRUGS & MEDICINES,
Fancy & Toilet Articles, &c.
126 · · MAIN ST. · · 126
Nearly opposite Danvers Bank, So. Danvers.

T. A. SWEETSER,
Druggist & Apothecary
37 Main St., So. Danvers,

DEALER IN
Drugs, Medicines, Chemicals, Foreign Leeches, Shakers' Herbs, Dye Stuffs, Gums, Acids, Sponges, Shoulder Braces, Trusses, and Genuine Patent Medicines
Also, Imported Cigars of choice brands, Perfumery Toilet Articles and Stationery.
Physicians' Prescriptions carefully prepared by experienced persons.
37 MAIN STREET.

GRACE'S CELEBRATED SALVE.

A SURE RELIEF FOR THE SUFFERER.

This Salve is a vegetable preparation, invented in the 17th century, by DR. WM. GRACE, surgeon in King James's army. Through its agency he cured thousands of most serious sores and wounds that baffled the skill of the most eminent physicians of his day, and was regarded by all who knew him as a public benefactor.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Burns.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Scalds.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Flesh Wounds.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Corns.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Felons.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Frozen Limbs.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Wens.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Callouses.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Salt Rheum.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Chilblains.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Sore Breast.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Sore Lips.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Erysipelas Sores.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Abscesses.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Ulcers.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Chapped Hands.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Ringworms.

And from Sores and Wounds of the most serious nature down to a common Pimple. It eradicates Pimples from the face, and beautifies the skin. There is no preparation before the public that can equal this Salve in prompt and energetic action for the speedy cure of external diseases, as those who have tried its virtues testify. Soldiers, Sailors, and Fishermen, will find this Salve their best friend.
It has none of the irritating, heating properties of other remedies, but cools, cleanses, and heals the most serious Sores and Wounds. Every family, and especially those containing children, should keep a box on hand in case of accident, for it will save them much trouble, suffering, and money. All it wants is a fair trial to cure old and inveterate Sores.

MANUFACTURED BY
WILLIAM GRACE,
AMESBURY, MASS.

Price 25 cents, 50 cents, and $1 per box. A great saving is made by taking the large size.
Each box has the above cut and the fac-simile of the proprietor's signature attached to it, which is duly copy righted.
Geo. C. Goodwin & Co., 11 and 12 Marshall street, Weeks & Potter, 170 Washington street, and M. S. Burr & Co., 26 Tremont street, Boston, Wholesale Agents.
For sale by D. P. Grosvenor, T. A Sweetser and George E. Meacom, Druggists, Main street, South Danvers, and at country stores everywhere.

Miscellaneous.

☞ A Methodist minister was tramping through the settlements of Wisconsin, doing good where he might. He tarried for the night at one of the "pioneer's" cabins. The old woman, while preparing supper, entered into conversation with her visitor, and the following colloquy took place:

"Stranger, where might you be from?"

"Madam, I reside in Shelby county, Kentucky?"

"Wall, stranger, hope no offence, but what mought you be doin' way up here?"

"Madam, I am searching for the lost sheep of the house of Israel."

"John, John!" shouted the old lady, "come right here this minit; here's a stranger all the way from Shelby county, Kentucky, a huntin' stock, and I'll just bet my life that that tangle-haired old ram, that's been in our lot for the last week, is one of his'n!"

STRETCH A LITTLE.—A little girl and her brother were on their way to the grocer's one wintry morning. The ground was white with frost, and the wind was very sharp. They were both poorly dressed, but the little girl had a sort of coat over her, which she seemed to have outgrown. As they walked briskly along, she drew her little companion close up to her, saying, "Come under my coat, Johnny." "It isn't big enough for both," he replied. "I think I can stretch it a little," she said; and they were soon as close together and as warm as two birds in the same nest. How many shivering bodies, and heavy hearts, and weeping eyes there are in the world, just because people do not stretch their comforts a little beyond themselves."

☞ "My dear Ellen," said Mr. Eastman to a young lady whose smiles he was seeking, "I have long wished for this opportunity, but I hardly dare trust myself now to speak the deep emotions of my palpitating heart; but I declare to you, my dear Ellen, that I love you most tenderly; your smiles would shed—would shed—" "Never mind the wood-shed," said Ellen, "go on with that pretty talk."

☞ Two idlers in a billiard saloon the other evening were engaged at play.

"By george," said one, "that was a good lick."

"No," replied the other, "I think it was good luck."

"Well," was the answer; "It's only a difference between you and I," (u and I.)

THE FIRST MARRIAGE.—"And Adam said: This is now bone of my bone and flesh of my flesh; she shall be called woman, because she was taken out of man. Therefore shall a man leave father and mother, and shall cleave unto his wife, and they shall be one flesh." (No cards.)

☞ The times are so hard I can hardly manage to keep my head above water, said a husband the other night to his wife, who was importuning him for a new dress. 'No,' she replied with some asperity, 'but you can keep it above brandy and water easy enough.'

☞ A man who had been teased almost to death for many years by a virago of a wife, when she died had the following inscription engraved upon the headstone of her grave:—"Here lies my wife, and, heaven knows, not less for mine than her repose."

☞ There may be as honest a difference between two men as between two thermometers. The difference in both cases may arise from difference in positions.

☞ Are you not afraid your wife will get married again when you die? I hope she may, as there will be one man in the world who will know how to pity me.

☞ A briefless young barrister says that any lady who possesses a thousand acres of freehold land presents sufficient ground for attachment.

☞ Honesty, says Archbishop Whately, "is the best policy; but he who acts upon this principle is not an honest man."

☞ "I am surprised, wife, at your ignorance. Have you never seen any books at all?"—"Oh, yes, in a number of cases."

☞ The very loud tones in which some people appeal to reason imply that reason is a great distance from them.

☞ Take not the echo of your own voice as confirmation of what you may say.

☞ Woman lost us one Paradise, but she can easily make us another wherever she goes.

☞ Gibbon truly says, that the best and most important part of every man's education, is that which he gives himself.

☞ The worst and most unendurable of all our ills are the imaginary ones.

☞ It is better to need relief than to want the heart to give it.

☞ Be temperate and wise.

THE CONFESSIONS AND EXPERIENCE OF A NERVOUS YOUNG MAN.—Published as a warning and for the especial benefit of young men, and those who suffer with Nervous Debility, Loss of Memory, Premature Decay, etc., etc., by one who has cured himself by simple means, after being put to great expense and inconvenience, through the use of worthless medicines prescribed by learned Doctors. Single copies may be had (free) of the author, C. A. Lambert, Esq., Greenpoint, Long Island, by enclosing an addressed envelope. Address

CHARLES A. LAMBERT, Greenpoint, Long Island, New York.

New Jersey Lands for Sale,

—ALSO—

GARDEN OR FRUIT FARMS,

Suitable for Grapes, Peaches, Pears, Raspberries, Strawberries, Blackberries, Currants, &c., of 1, 2½, 5, 10 or 20 acres each, at the following prices for the present, viz: 20 acres for $200, 10 acres for $110, 5 acres for $60, 2½ acres for $40, 1 acre for $20. Payable hy one dollar a week.

Also, good Cranberry lands, and village lots in CHETWOOD 25 hy 100 feet, at $10 each, payable by one dollar a week. The above land and farms are situated at Chetwood, Washington Township, Burlington, New Jersey. For further information, apply with a P. O. Stamp, for a circular, to

B. FRANKLIN CLARK,
feh 18, 1863 No. 90 Cedar St, New York, N. Y.

TERRIBLE DISCLOSURES—SECRETS FOR THE MILLION!—A most valuable and wonderful publication. A work of 400 pages, and 30 colored engravings. DR. HUNTER'S VADE MECUM, an original and popular treatise on Man and Woman, their Physiology, Functions, and Sexual Disorders of every kind, with Never-Failing Remedies for their speedy cure. The practice of Dr. Hunter has long been, and still is, unbounded, but at the earnest solicitation of numerous persons, he has been induced to extend his medical usefulness through the medium of his "Vade Mecum." It is a volume that should be in the hands of every family in the land, as a preventive of secret vices, or as a guide for the alleviation of one of the most awful and destructive scourges ever visited mankind. One copy, securely enveloped, will be forwarded free of postage to any part of the United States for 50 cents in post office stamps or 3 copies for $1. Address, post paid, DR. HUNTER, No. 3 Dvision Street, New York. je 3—1y

---

Cards.

WILLIAM G. CHOATE,
Attorney and Counsellor at Law,
251 Essex St., Salem.
Salem, August 6, 1862. tf

THOMAS M. STIMPSON,
Attorney and Counsellor at Law,
194 ESSEX STREET, SALEM.
Residence Lowell street, South Danvers.

B. C. PERKINS,
Attorney and Counsellor at Law,
South Danvers—Office in Allen's Building.

JOHN W. PROCTOR
Counsellor at Law,
Office near the Monument.

A. A. PUTNAM,
Attorney and Counsellor at Law,
CORNER MAPLE AND ELM ST.,
DANVERS.

ALFRED A. ABBOTT,
Attorney and Counsellor,
Office, No. 24 Washington Street, Salem;
House, Main St., So. Danvers.

IVES & PEABODY,
Attorneys and Counsellors at Law,
Have removed their Office to
Rooms formerly occupied by Hon. Otis P. Lord,
NO. 27 WASHINGTON STREET, SALEM,
STEPHEN B. IVES, Jr. JOHN B. PEABODY

SIDNEY C. BANCROFT,
Attorney and Counsellor at Law,
27 Washington Street, Salem.

H. O. WILEY,
Attorney and Counsellor at Law,
Office, Allen's Building, So. Danvers.

Claims against the Government for Bounty Back Pay, and Pensions, promptly attended to

A. S. CRAWFORD
Dentist,
No. 4 MAIN STREET, So. DANVERS SQUARE
Mechanical Dentistry Neatly Executed.
Teeth Extracted by Electricity without Extra Charge

W. L. BOWDOIN,
SURGEON DENTIST,
No, 208 Essex Street, Salem, (Opposite the Market
Residence—No. 57 Washington street.
Jan 11—ly

F. POOLE
INSURANCE AGENT,
Allen's Building (up stairs),
Deeds drawn, and other common forms.

NEWMAN & SYMONDS,
DEALERS IN
Family Groceries, Flour & Grain,
HARD WARE AND CROCKERY,
Ready Made Clothing, Gents' Furnishing Goods,
Hats, Caps, Boots, Shoes, &c.,
South Danvers Square, opp. Congregational Church
SAM'L NEWMAN. NATH'L SYMONDS.

S. C. & E. A. SIMONDS,
DEALERS IN
Crockery, China and Hardware; Paper Hangings; Solar and Entry Lamps; Paints, Oil, and Window Glass.
No. 32 Front street, Lawrence Place,
feb13 SALEM, MASS.

HENRY L. WHIDDEN,
HOUSE AND SIGN PAINTER,
Glazier and Paperer,
Central Street, South Danvers.
All orders promptly and faithfully executed.
jan2-1y

E. S. FLINT,
DEALER IN
West Inula Goods, Country Poduce,
No. 2 Main Street, South Danvers.

JESSE SMITH
No. 262 Essex. Street, Salem,
Importer and Dealer in
Gold and Silver Watches,
MARINE CHRONOMETERS,
Aueroid Barometers, Spy Glasses, &c.

WILLIAM BLANEY,
HOUSE & SIGN PAINTER
Grainer, Glazier and Paper Hanger.
164 MAIN STREET, Corner of Grove.
WINDOWS and BLINDS cheap for cash.
mch6-tf

JOHN MOULTON,
LIVERY STABLE,
Central Street, South Danvers.
Mr. M. will endeavor to keep up the good reputation of his stable, by still keeping good Horses and Carriages. jan 7, 1863.

BILL PAPER,
OF the best patterns, at
G M WHIPPLE & A A SMITH'S.

W. E. P. SMYTH,
Attorney and Counsellor at Law,
Proctor in Admiralty, and Commissioner of Deeds for the several States.
Frazier's Building, over the Post Office,
LYNN, MASS.

Having peculiar means for prosecuting, with accuracy and dispatch, all claims against Government, especially those for Bounty, Back Pay and Pensions, I have made this a specialty. Several months' residence in Washington enabled me to become thoroughly conversant with the routine of business in all the Departments, through which claims, of whatever nature, are passed, and also familiar with the practice in the U. S. Court of Claims; in addition to which I have a partner there resident, and a former partner in the Treasury Department, which advantages give me unexcelled facilities for the successful prosecution of business in any way connected with Government.

Important to Soldiers, Marines and their Heirs.

Persons enlisted in the U. S. Service, Land or Naval, since March 1, 1861, if disabled in the service, are entitled to Pension; Relatives of Persons deceased in the service are entitled to Bounty and Pension; in the following order:

1st. The Widow. 4th. The Mother.
2d. The Children. 5th The Brothers and Sisters collectively.
3d. The Father.

LETTERS OF ADMINISTRATION need not be taken on, in ordinary cases, to enable heirs of persons deceased in the service to obtain Pensions and Bounty.

When a discharge is granted for disability, in no case should the Oath of Identity on the back of the Discharge be filled up. The safest course is, to carry all papers at once to an Attorney, without tampering with them. All those who have claims, should present them without delay, as soon, the pressure will be so great upon the Auditor's Office, by reason of numerous applications, that applicants will be subjected to vexatious delay in getting their claims audited.

NO CHARGE MADE UNTIL CLAIMS ARE PAID.

Claims left at the Post Office, South Danvers, will be promptly forwarded.

Lynn, Aug 27, 1862—1v

CHARLES S. BUFFUM,
FURNISHING UNDERTAKER,
Central street, South Danvers,

HAVING provided himself with a HEARSE, is prepared to attend Funerals in any of the neighboring towns, with one or a pair of Horses.

He keeps as good an assortment of

COFFINS AND CASKETS,

as can be found at any establishment, and at the lowest prices.

He will also attend to Laying Out, etc.

All orders from the neighboring towns met with prompt attention. jan 14

SLATING. SLATING.
GEORGE FOWLER & COMPA'Y,

NO. 2 ST. PETER COURT, SALEM, respectfully inform their friends and the citizens of this and neighboring towns and cities that they are prepared to execute all orders for Slating, promptly and faithfully.

Roofs covered with any description of Slates, or repaired at short notice.

All work undertaken will be warranted.
Address—Box 366. Salem Post Office.
Salem, January 28—1863. tf

PATTERSON'S
LEATHER HANDLING MACHINE

THE undersigned are agents for the above machine. It can be seen in operation at Pinder & Brown's Tannery.

may 7—3m CLARK & GIDDINGS.

MESSRS. CLARK & GIDDINGS,
Wallis Street, South Danvers,
Are Agents for
GEORGE W. FISKE & CO.'S
PATENT EAVE TROUGHS
CUTTERS, CONDUCTORS AND
PIPE FOR DRAINS.
South Danvers, May 22, 1861.

R. C. MANNING & CO,
Successors to JOHN DIKE & CO.,
DEALERS IN
COAL, WOOD, BARK, HAY, &c,
188 DERBY STREET,
SALEM, MASS.
N. C. ROBBINS, R. C. MANNING.
oct17

FRANKLIN COAL.

JUST landed, a cargo of FRANKLIN COAL—the best in the world for domestic use.
POTTER, BACHELDER & CO.,
Successors to M. Black, Jr.
Danversport, May 6, 1861. tf

E. N. PRICE,
Manufacturer and Dealer in
HARNESSES,
SADDLES, BRIDLES,
AND WHIPS.
—ALSO—
Trunks, Valises and Traveling Bags.

All orders for Manufacturing and Repairing executed with promptness, and in the best manner.

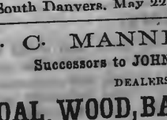
237 Essex Street, Salem, Mass.
mch13-tf

THOMAS PINNOCK,
SLATER,
SALEM, MASS.

Orders may be left at his Yard, No. 25 Peabody St., or at his house No. 6 Hancock street, South Salem.

Roofs covered with any kind of Slates, according to order. All work warranted.
Salem, May 7, 1862. tf

CURRIER & MILLETT,
Dealers in



Furniture, Chairs,
MATTRESSES, FEATHERS, &c
259 & 261 ESSEX ST.
Salem, dec 14—1y

AARON T. LOWE,
DEALER IN
BOOTS, SHOES AND RUBBERS,
76 BOSTON STREET, 76.
aug 6 SALEM. tf

E. R. PERKINS,
PHOTOGRAPHIC ARTIST
241 Essex Street, Salem.
Patent Ambrotypes, Stereoscopes,

Photographs, Sphere otypes, Melainotypes, and patent enamel Pictures, of various sizes, taken with all the improvements of the art. Portraits, Miniatures, Engravings, &c., accurately copied. Views taken when desired. jan 11

HILTON'S INSOLUBLE CEMENT,
UNIVERSALLY liked—for sale by
G M WHIPPLE & A A SMITH.

Crockery Ware.

A FULL assortment of China and Crockery Ware; Wooden Ware; Table Cutlery; Tea Trays; Britannia Ware and Silver Plated Ware, &c—for sale at the General Furnishing Store for Housekeepers, No. 32 Front street.
ap 22 S C & E A SIMONDS.

CARD PHOTOGRAPHS.

RAPHAEL'S Hours, Liberty, On the Beach, Evening, Prince and Princess, etc—at
may 13 G M WHIPPLE & A A SMITH'S

H. & H. G. HUBON,
WASHINGTON STREET, SALEM
Manufacturers of
Rose Wood, Mahogany, Black Walnut and Stained Wood
COFFINS and CASKETS.

MAKING this our exclusive business, we are ready at all times and at the shortest notice to furnish Grave Clothes of various styles, as well as Coffins and Caskets of the finest finish. Personal attention given, and delivered without extra charge to any of the neighboring towns. All orders by express or otherwise will receive prompt attention.

Black Walnut and White Wood Boards, Plank and Joists for sale.

dec 14—tf

GAYLE & CO.,
GENERAL COMMISSION MERCHANTS,
DEALERS IN
Flour, Grain and Produce,
Manufacturers' Agents for the sale of
Concentrated Leaven, Soda and Pearlash Saleratus, and Bi Carb. Soda.
PHILLIPS WHARF, Salem.

T. HARDY, JR.,
—Dealer in—
DOORS, SASHES, BLINDS,
Glazed Sash, Painted Blinds,
FENCE PALES, STAIR BALUSTERS, FRAMING PINS, &c.,
No. 26 FRONT STREET,
Salem, January 14, 1863—6m

HEYLINGBERG'S
Hair Dressing Saloon,
24 MAIN ST., SOUTH DANVERS.
TARIFF OF PRICES:

Shaving,	6 cts.
Hair Cutting,	12 cts.
Champooing,	15 cts.
Champooing and Hair Cutting,	25 cts.

No more new Quarterly Customers taken. In consequence of the scarcity of Change, 18 checks will be sold for one dollar.
South Danvers, Dec 17, 1862.

THOMAS DAVIS,
ADVERTISING AGENT
For the principal New England Newspapers, remains at the old stand, No. 23 Cornhill, Boston, where you will find him still loyal to the Constitution, the Laws, and Advertising.
Boston, Jan 29, 1862. tf

WALKING MADE EASY.

DR. P. KENISON,
CHIROPODIST,
215 Washington St., Boston,
Cures Hard and Soft Corns, Bunions, Cinh Nails, Nails penetrating the Flesh, Warts, &c., in a manner that will satisfy the most incredulous.

SPEED, COMFORT AND SAFETY!

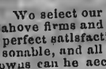
FOR NEW YORK.
Norwich Steamboat Train.
The only Boats Landing at Jersey City.

CABIN Passage, $5.00; Deck Passage, $4.00. The new and elegant sixteen wheel cars of the steamboat express train leave the Boston & Worcester Railroad Station, Albany Street., at 5½ P. M., daily, connecting with the new steamers, (built expressly for this line,) CITY OF BOSTON, Capt. WILCOX, Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays; CITY OF NEW YORK, Capt. JEWETT, Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays, which (before proceeding to their Pier, No. 39 North River,) will touch at the wharf of the New Jersey Railroad at Jersey City, (Sundays excepted) thus enabling Southern Passengers to make sure connections with the First Southern Train, and at the same time avoid the great annoyance of the Ferry and Hack transportation in the crowded streets of New York. This insures ample time for Breakfast before the trains leave. Conductors D. F. WALKER and W. F. BARTON accompany the passengers through.

Tickets, Berths and Staterooms secured at the Railroad Station, and at the Office of the line, 79 Washington Street, Boston.

Through tickets to Philadelphia, Baltimore and Washington can be had at 79 Washington Street, Boston.
WM. DICKEY, Jr., Agent.
Boston, January 7, 1863.

Chickering & Sons' Piano-Fortes.
Hallett & Cumston's Piano-Fortes.
Hallett & Davis's Piano-Fortes.



We select our Piano-Fortes from the above firms and warrant them to give perfect satisfaction. Our terms are reasonable, and all persons in the city and neighboring towns can be accommodated by calling at 76 Federal street.

FOR SALE—Second-hand Piano-Fortes,—Chickering's and others.
ap 29 ANN R. BRAY.

D. W. BOWDOIN,
—ARTIST IN—
PHOTOGRAPHIC PICTURES.
Rooms No. 175 Essex st, Salem, [Downing's Block]

Portraits, Miniatures, and Views, by the Ambrotype, Daguerreotype, Photograph and Stereoscope process—finished in India Ink, Oil and Water colors.

☞ Particular attention paid to restoring old Daguerreotypes, and other pictures—and making enlarged copies, highly finished. may

---

E. S. FLINT,
Manufacturer and Dealer in
INNER SOLES,
AND SHOE STIFFENINGS OF ALL KINDS.
2 MAIN STREET, SOUTH DANVERS.

Just Opened,

A SUPERIOR quality corded Taffeta, at 37½ cts. All wool DeLaines, desirable shades; Domestic Goods of every description.
ap 29 ANN R BRAY, 75 Federal st.

CHINA WARE;

GOLD Band China Tea Ware; White and Lustre China do—at
S. C. & E. A. SIMONDS', 32 Front st.

SUMMER READING.

THE cheapest way to get reading matter for the Summer is to take a share in our Circulating Library. All the new and popular Books go in.
je 24 G M WHIPPLE & A A SMITH.

DIARIES FOR
1863. Every variety and style—all sizes—for sale at
G M WHIPPLE & A A SMITH'S,
nov 26 Sign of the Five Golden Books,

NEW YORK WHITE LEAD.

2500 L New York White Lead;
Also. Foreign Liver White Lead—for sale by
mch 4 S C & E A SIMONDS.

WIRE GOODS.

WIRE Rat Traps; Broilers; Steamers; Sieves etc., just received at
S C & E A SIMONDS', 32 Front st.

JOHN FARRELL,
DRAPER AND TAILOR,

HAVING removed to his old place of business, 138 MAIN ST., South Danvers, (over Batchelder's Grocery Store), is prepared to Cut, Make, Repair, or furnish Garments, for Men and Youths at short notice.
South Danvers, April 1. tf

SOUTH DANVERS
POST OFFICE.

GENERAL MAIL ARRANGEMENT.

MAILS CLOSE
At 10 3-4 A. M., and 4 3-4 P. M.

MAILS DUE
At 9 1-2 A. M., and 3 P. M.

Post Office open (Sundays excepted) from 7 o'clock, A. M., till 8 P. M. Saturdays open till 8 1-2 P. M.

F. POOLE, P. M.
South Danvers, Oct. 1, 1862.

Eastern Railroad.

ON and after MONDAY, April 6, 1863, Trains will leave the Eastern Railroad Station, Washington street, Salem, daily. (Sundays excepted):

For Lynn and Boston, *5.50, 7, 8¼, 9, *10, 11 a m., 1, *2½, 5¼, 7½ p. m.
Beverly, 8¼ am., 1, 3½, 3½, 5½, 6.55, 7½ p m.
W. Beach, Man'r, Gloucester, and Rockport, 8¼ a m., 3½, 5½ p m.
Ipswich and Newburyport, 8¼ a m., 1, 3½, 5½, 6 55 p m.
Amesbury, 8¼ a m., 1, 5½ p m.
Portsmouth, 8¼ a m., 3½, 5½ p m.
Portland, 8¼ a m., 3½ p m.

AND FOR SALEM, FROM
Portland, 8½ a m., 3 p m.
Portsmouth, 7½ †11¼ a m., †5½ p m.
Amesbury, 7.35, 9.40 a m., 5.50 p m.
Newburyport, 7, 8, 10 a m., 12 m, 6½ p m.
Ipswich, 7 25, 8.25, 10.25 a m., 12 25, 6.40 p m.
Gloucester, 7, 10, 10 10 a m., 4 40 p m.
Manchester, 7.25, 10.25 a m., 4.55 p m.
Beverly, 6.50, 7.50, 8 50, 10.50 a m., 12.50, 5.20, 7 05 pm.
Lynn, 8 05, *9 05, 11 05 a m., 12 50, *1.35, 3.05, *3.35, *4 35, 5.35, *6.20, 5½, *7 35, *8.05 p m.
Boston, 7½, *8½, 10½ a m., 12½, 2½, 3, *4, 5, 6.10, *7, *9†.

*Via Saugus Branch.
†Or on arrival from the East.
‡On Wednesdays this train leaves Boston at 11½ p m. and on Saturdays at 10½ p m.

MARBLEHEAD BRANCH.
Marblehead for Salem, 6¾, 7½, 8¾, 9¾ a m., 12¾, 1¾, 5¼, 6¾, 7½ p m.
Salem for Marblehead, 7½, 8½, 9.25, 11½ a m., 1, 3½, 5¾, 7, 7.50 p m.

SOUTH READING BRANCH.
Trains leave the South Reading Depot in Salem for Boston at 6¾, 9.50 a m., 2.55, 4.55 p m
Boston for Salem, 7 a m., 12 m., 3, 5½ p m.

ESSEX RAILROAD.
Leave Salem for Lawrence and way stations, 7, 11½ a m., 4.50 p m.
Lawrence for Salem, 8 a m., 12.40, 6 p m.
Danvers for Salem, 8.40 a m., 1.20, 6.40 p m.
South Danvers for Salem, 7½ a m., 12¾, 3¾, 6½ p m.

J. PRESCOTT, Superintendent.
Boston, April 6, 1863.

Salem and Lowell Railroad.

ON and after MONDAY, April 6, 1863, Trains will run as follows:

Leave Lowell for Salem, 7.25 a m., and *2.45 p m.
Leave Salem for Lowell, *9.40 a m. and 5.55 p m.

Passengers are not allowed to carry baggage above $50 in value, and that personal, unless notice is given and an extra amount paid. Season tickets do not entitle the holdor to take baggage.

*Freight Train with passenger car attached.

F. H. NOURSE, Local Superintendent.
April 6, 1863.

TAKE NOTICE.

THAT Dr. Ham's Dyspepsia Remedy has been before the public for the past ten years. And in that time the people who have used it will vouch for the benefit they have derived from it. The character of his article and its reputation can also be obtained from the dealers who sell it, or have sold it for any length of time, to both of those, Dr Ham refers and is willing to stand the test. And also challenges any new compound to produce the same results, let alone delicacy of flavor, of his INVIGORATING SPIRIT, which for ITS EFFECTS UPON THE BILE, A TORPED LIVER, LOW SPIRITS, or when the blood is affected as seen by SKIN DISEASES or its ACTION UPON THE KIDNEYS, in fact for any person who is run down by the wear and care of this world will find relief in this old and well tried remedy.

Astonishing.

TO Dr. Ham, who has modestly put before the public his DYSPEPSIA REMEDY for ten years past, to look back and see the number of tremendous articles within that time, that have sprang up like a rocket, and gone down like the stick which guides it in its glorious ascent. Some come out and claim to tell the public they use unknown Barks from South America, with many exaggerations from the West Indies, &c. Dr. Ham takes this opportunity to refer to the MEDICAL FACULTY here and everywhere that his article is in use, as to its qualifications, and challenges any one to produce a person, male or female, who has used it as directed, that will not speak favorable of it for DISORGANIZED STOMACH, Dyspepsia, loss of appetite, want of action of the Kidneys, as well as many other complaints that humanity are afflicted with.

To Ladies.

DR. HAM'S Dyspepsia Remedy is just the thing you require to remove the langour caused by weakness and debility; it invigorates the system, causes the blood to take new life in its varied course through the system, in fact it gives tone to the system and will relieve and remove the thousand irregularities that from various causes you are afflicted with. For Dyspepsia it is a never failing remedy, it has stood the test of years, and we have yet to hear of its failing to give relief to the afflicted thousands who have received health and happiness by its use.

To Gentlemen.

DR. HAM knows that you do not always pay much attention to the many different articles put before you in the paper, but we would refer you to our agents who you will find are the respectable merchants and dealers, in regard to the Invigorating Spirit; some of them have sold it for years, and know well the reputation it has amongst those who have used it in assisting nature to eradicate diseases. It will renovate the system, as it acts directly on the blood, removing all obstructions to the general health, will cure Liver Complaints, Dyspepsia, Nervous Affections, Sour Stomach, Headache, Weakness, Loss of Appetite, as well as obstruction in the Kidney, Bladder or Urinary Organs. Try it. We will guarantee you will be satisfied with the result.

General Depot, 62 Liberty Street, New York. Sold by Weeks & Potter, 154 Washington Street, M. S. Burr & Co, 26 Tremont Street, G. C. Goodwin & Co., 11 Marshall Street, Boston; and in South Danvers by George E. Meacom, T. A. Sweetser, D. P. Grosvenor, Jr., Main Street; and by Druggists everywhere.
Feb 29, 1863 1y

Are you Insured?

THE subscriber would respectfully call your attention to the fact that he is fully prepared to effect INSURANCE AGAINST FIRE, to any amount, at current rates, on

Dwelling Houses, Barns and their contents, Stores, Stocks of Goods, Furniture, &c. &c., and on buildings in process of erection,

And that he is the authorized Agent for the following responsible Stock and Mutual Companies, viz:

Thames Insurance Co., (Stock.) Norwich, Conn.
Capital—$500,000.
Amos W. Prentice, Pres. Oliver F. Rice, Sec'y
Conway Insurance Company, (Stock) Boston.
Capital and Surplus—$260,000.
James F. Whitney, Pres. David C. Rogers, Sec'y.
City Insurance Company, (Stock) Boston.
Capital—$150,000.
Samuel P. Hayward, Pres. Austin W. Benton, Sec'y

Also, will effect Insurance on the LIVES OF INDIVIDUALS, for one year, seven years, or for the whole term of life, in the

Massachusetts Mutual Life Ins. Co., Springfield, Mass.
Capital and Assets—$375,000.
Caleb Rice, Pres. D. B. Bacon, Sec'y.
William Mack, M. D., Medical Examiner.

WM. ARCHER, Jr.,
18 Washington st. and 34 Front st., Salem.
ej b20-1

E. F. BURNHAM,
SOLE AGENT FOR
SARGENT & CO.S'
MAGIC SOAP
For South Danvers & Salem.
OFFICE—Central St., opp. Lowell Depot, at Burnham's Express Office, So. Danvers.
Price $3.50 per 100 Lbs.

Orders sent by mail or otherwise to So. Danvers will be promptly attended to. tf-oct3

WM. C. HENDERSON,
MANUFACTURER OF
PLAIN AND FANCY
PAPER BOXES,
No. 235 ESSEX STREET,
Sign of "Nest of Boxes,"
July 23 SALEM. tf

JUVENILE BOOKS,

A VERY large assortment for sale by
G M WHIPPLE & A A SMITH.

PUTNAM & MUNROE'S
SOUTH DANVERS & BOSTON
RAILROAD EXPRESS.

Express leaves South Danvers at	10 1-2 a. m.
Freight " " " at	5 p. m.
Express leaves Boston at	3 1-2 p. m.
Freight " " at	5 p. m.

OFFICE at FREIGHT DEPOT, South Danvers Square.
Order Box W. M. Jacobs' store, Main street.

EXPRESS OFFICE, in Boston, 5 Congress Square; 3 Washington St; Freight Office, 24 Blackstone St.

Also an Order Box at 86 Pearl street.

Particular attention paid to removing Furniture, collecting Bills, Notes, Drafts, &c.

ARMY EXPRESS.

Packages received and sent forward daily for Baltimore, Fortress Monroe, Annapolis, Washington, Alexandria, and any other point where the different regiments are stationed:

South Danvers, july 8—tf

GLASS WARE.

CUT and Pressed Glass Goblets; Tumblers; Dishes, etc, just opened at
S C & E A SIMONDS' 32 Front st.

TABLE MATS.

SHAKER Table Mats—for sale by
may 27 SC & E A SIMONDS.

RHEUMATISM AND NEURALGIA

CAN be cured by using STURGIS'S ELECTRIC COMPOUND—so say reliable people in Boston and elsewhere. For sale by
G M WHIPPLE & A A SMITH.

SUMMER ARRANGEMENT.
TO LYNN & BOSTON
BY
OMNIBUS & HORSE CAR.
W. F. BURNHAM'S

Line of Omnibuses will leave the Lynn and Boston Omnibus Office, No. 6 Allen's Building, South Danvers, passing down Main Street, through Washington Street, to Lynn, daily.

Leave South Danvers at 7 50 o'clock, A. M., 12 50 and 4 50 P. M.

Leave Lynn (Horse Car Depot, West Lynn) at 9 40 A. M., 2 40 and 6 40 P. M.

Horse Cars leaving Scollay's Building, Court Street, at 8 15 A. M., 1 15 and 5 15 P. M., will meet the Omnibuses at Lynn, at the above named hours, to take passengers to South Danvers.

Sunday Arrangements.

Leave S. Danvers at 7.50 a.m., and 4.50 p.m.
Leave Lynn at 9.40 a.m., and 6.40 p.m.

Cars leave Scollay's Building, Court Street, Boston, to meet the Omnibuses in Lynn for South Danvers, at 8 15 A. M., and 5 15 P. M.

Tickets to Lynn, - - 15 cents.
Through to Boston, - 30 cents.

Through Tickets to and from Boston may be had of the Drivers and Conductors.

Passengers called for at reasonable charges if notice is given at the office.

EXPRESS BUSINESS

Between South Danvers and Lynn promptly attended to, on reasonable terms.

Extra Coaches furnished at short notice.
South Danvers, 1863.

Abbott's South Danvers & Salem
EXPRESS.

Leave South Danvers, - - - - 7½ a m, 1 p m
Leave Salem, - - - - - 10 a m, 4 p m

Orders left at Teel & Moulton's, and principal stores on Main street, South Danvers; and at 7 Washington street, and at Reed's in the Market, Salem.

MARSHALL'S
DANVERS, SO. DANVERS & SALEM
EXPRESS.

Leave DANVERS (daily) at 9 A. M.
" SALEM at 1½ P. M.

OFFICES:

In Danvers—At E B Waitt's and the Post Office.
In Danversport—Pinkerton's and A W Wentworth's Stores.
In So. Danvers—Francis Dane & Co's, and No 2 Main street.
In Salem—No 7 Washington street, 199 Essex st, and 17 Derby Square.

All business promptly and faithfully attended to.

☞ Our patrons are particularly requested to write their orders.

☞ Packages, left at the office, should be marked "Marshall's Express."

☞ Being connected with the RAILROAD we are enabled to forward Notes, Drafts and Bills for collection, and small packages, to all accessible points in the United States, at the usual rates.
P. G. MARSHALL.
dec1-3-tf

PINGREE'S JOB WAGON.

THE subscriber is still prepared to do all kinds of Job Work and Teaming, such as removing Furniture and Merchandize of any description about town, or to and from the neighboring towns.

Orders will be received at the Essex Railroad Station, and at S. Flint's store, on the Square.

Thankful for past favors, he would solicit a continuance of the same.
South Danvers, 1860. W. H. PINGREE.

Important to the Afflicted.

DR. DOW continues to be consulted at his office, Nos. 7 and 9 Endicott street, Boston, on all diseases of a

PRIVATE OR DELICATE NATURE.

By a long course of study and practical experience of unlimited extent, Dr. D. has now the gratification of presenting the unfortunate with remedies that have never, since he first introduced them, failed to cure the most alarming cases of

GONORRHŒA AND SYPHILIS.

Beneath his treatment, all the horrors of venerea and impure blood, Impotency, Scrofula, Gonorrhœa Ulcers, pain and distress in the regions of procreation, Inflammation of the Bladder and Kidneys, Hydrocele, Abcesses, Humors, frightful Swellings, and the long train of horrible symptoms attending this class of disease, are made to become as harmless as the simplest ailings of a child.

SEMINAL WEAKNESS.

Dr. D. devotes a great part of his time to the treatment of those cases caused by a secret and solitary habit, which ruins the body and mind, unfitting the unfortunate individual for business or society. Some of the sad and melancholy effects produced by early habits of youth, are Weakness of the Back and limbs, Dizziness of the head, Dimness of sight, Palpitation of the heart, Dyspepsia, Nervousness, Derangement of the digestive functions, Symptoms of Consumption, &c. The fearful effects on the mind are much to be dreaded; loss of memory, confusion of ideas, depression of spirits, evil forebodings, aversion of society, self-distrust, timidity, &c., are among the evils produced. Such person should, before contemplating marimony, consult a physician of experience, and he at once restored to health and happiness.

Patients who wish to remain under Dr. Dow's treatment a few days or weeks, will be furnished with pleasant rooms, and charges for board moderate.

Medicines sent to all parts of the country, with full directions for use, on receiving description of your cases. Dr. Dow has also for sale the French Capotes, warranted the best preventive. Order by mail. 3 for $1 and a red stamp.

CAUTION
TO FEMALES IN DELICATE HEALTH.

DR. DOW, Physician and Surgeon, 7 and 9 Endicott street, Boston, is consulted daily for all diseases incident to the female system. Prolapsus Uteri, or fall of the Womb, Fluor Albus, Suppression, and other menstrual derangements, are all treated upon new pathological principles, and a speedy relief guaranteed in a very few days. So invariably certain is the new mode of treatment, that most obstinate complaints yield under it, and the afflicted person soon rejoices in perfect health.

Dr. Dow has no doubt had greater experience in the cure of diseases of women and children, than any other physician in Boston.

Boarding accommodations for patients who may wish to stay in Boston a few days under his treatment.

Dr. Dow, since 1845, having confined his whole attention to an office practice, for the cure of Private Diseases and Female Complaints, acknowledges no superior in the United States.

N. B.—All letters must contain four red stamps, or they will not be answered.

Office Hours from 8 A. M. to 9 P. M.

CERTAIN CURE
IN ALL CASES, OR NO CHARGES MADE.

Dr. Dow is consulted daily, from 8 a m. to 8 p. m., as above, upon all difficult and chronic diseases of every name and nature, having by his unwearied attention and extraordinary success gained a reputation which calls patients from all parts of the country to obtain advice.

Among the physicians in Boston, none stand higher in the profession than the celebrated DR. DOW, No. 7 Endicott street, Boston. Those who need the services of an experienced physician and surgeon should give him a call. P. S.—Dr. Dow imports and has for sale a new article, called the French Secret. Order by mail. Two for $1 and a red stamp.
April 15, 1863—1y.

PRINTING

IN

EVERY VARIETY

Neatly and Promptly

EXECUTED

—At—

The Wizard Office

SOUTH DANVERS SQUARE

SOUTH DANVERS, MASS.

POSTERS

(LARGE AND SMALL)

WHICH CAN'T BE BEAT

—IN THIS—

VICINITY

BALL CIRCULARS

TICKETS

— AND —

Orders of Dance

BUSINESS CARDS,

Address Cards,

Wedding Cards,

Printed in the neatest manner

And on the finest stock

BILL-HEADS

For Manufacturing and Mercantile

BLANK RECEIPTS

And all kinds of BLANKS of every

Printed to suit.

EVERY DESCRIPTION

— OF —

South Danvers Wizard.

VOL. IV. SOUTH DANVERS, MASS., WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 5, 1863. NO. 31.

THE SOUTH DANVERS WIZARD
ublished every WEDNESDAY, at Allen's build- South Danvers Square, ERMS—Two Dollars a year.
DVERTISEMENTS inserted at reasonable rates.

CHARLES D. HOWARD,
EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR.

A. A PUTNAM,
ASSISTANT EDITOR, DANVERS.

Selected Poetry.

GOSSIPS.

Her looks are fair, her words are bland,
No chastening rod is in her hand,
Her tresses float in glossy curls,
Her eyes like diamonds set in pearls—
Her breath a zephyr sweet as love;
Her modest mein, her timid air—
Ah, who can say, she is not fair?

But shift the scene—another side
Is wedded to this fairy bride;
A serpent in her rich attire,
She bears a sting of deadly fire,
Her breath, so like a floating hymn,
Is steeped in poison to the brim;
Her words, that fall like a gentle note,
From golden harp or silver lute,
Distil like death's cold dew-drops, shed
Upon a young and blooming head.
Beware! Oh, then, her guileful charms,
Before she folds you in her arms.

PASSIONS IN A LOVER.

BY WYATT.

nd no peace, and all my war is done;
ar and hope, I burn, and freeze like ice;
y aloft, yet can I not arise;
d nought I have, and all the world I seize on,
t locks nor loseth, holdeth me in prison,
d holds me not, yet can I scape no wise:
lets me live, nor die, at my devise,
d yet of death it giveth me occasion.
thout eye I see: without tongue I plain:
ish to perish, yet I ask for health;
ve another, and I hate myself;
ed me in sorrow, and laugh in all my pain:
o, thus displeaseth me both death and life,
nd my delight is causer of this strife.

Original.

THE LOST CHILD.

BY JASPER.

t was an evening in June. The streets
l avenues leading to the principal hall
Springfield were thronged with people, rying to the brilliantly lighted build-
, where, from these indications, it was dent an unusual entertainment was to e place. Coaches and carriages from neighboring villages were reining up front of the building, leaving their oc-pants, and immediately driving away.
e occasion for all this confusion was a triotic concert to be given under the ection of Henry G. Hagar, assisted by hoir of three hundred singers. In ad-ion to the entertainment itself, which mised to be of a very popular charac-
, the unexpected announcement that was to be directed by Mr. Hagar, who l but recently resided in Springfield, who, in a very short time, had won esteem of all who knew him, gave a elier interest to the scene. Coming to town a few years before, he had pursed a small cottage in a remote street,
l, during most of the time of his resice, had busied himself decorating and ping in order the ground around it.— entered into none of the pleasures l gayeties of the season, and was rare-seen away from his house except from cessity, yet, whatever stranger chose visit him was treated with the utmost dness and courtesy, and no one came ay from his residence without the re-tion that, if Mr. Hagar could not be preciated, they could do no less than nor and respect him. And thus it was.
essing invitations, from every quarter the city, crowded upon him, to social tertainments and soirees, yet nearly all these were respectfully, yet persistent-declined. And when, only on a few asions, he appeared, he won, by his ability, the encomiums of all. Yet no suspected his musical talent, and it s, therefore, with agreeable expressions surprise that he was welcomed to the ection of this entertainment. Long fore the time for the commencement of exercises the hall was filled to its ut-st capacity, and when, at precisely the pointed time, the choir of singers adced in regular order to their places n the platform, with Mr. Hagar in ir midst, they were greeted with trendous applause. During the progress the concert, which was frequently ap-uded, the fine musical genius of Mr.
gar became manifest, and, at its close,
ny were the congratulations and exssions of approbation which he receiv-

His reputation soon spread through-t the vicinity, but, as he had done eviously to the concert, he declined all the efforts of his friends to popularize him, and confined himself to the seclusion of his little cottage. Various rumors, in consequence, began to be circulated about by the gossipers of the village. Some affirmed that he had been seen by night prowling around certain houses in the neighborhood, in company with other suspicious looking individuals, while others spread the report that he had caused the death of his wife under peculiar circumstances, and some had seen in their visits to his house a miniature likeness of a very beautiful young lady, with a lock of hair attached thereto; and it was remembered that there was a particular room, where, it was supposed, he was wont to pass the most of his time, and into which none of his most familiar friends in the village were permitted to enter. All these rumors disturbed him not, and, although it became manifest to all that there was some secret connected with his life, yet he won more friends by his kindness and courtesy, than he lost by the whispers of this scandal, and, in a short time, these, too, entirely ceased.

During the rehearsals for the concert one of the singers, a young lady of about eighteen years, attracted, by her unusual behavior, his personal attention. Every time his attention was directed towards her, she was observed closely watching him, but as soon as she perceived she was seen, her eyes immediately fell, and she would resume her accustomed manner. This was several times repeated during the different rehearsals, and Mr. Hagar found his attention very closely drawn towards her. This was observed by many of the singers, and she was congratulated by her companions as being the first person who had been known to make any impression upon the feelings of Mr. Hagar. In reply to their remarks she said that her observation was entirely involuntary, and she was unable to avoid it. Certain it was that Mr. Hagar lectured himself severely for noticing her, but the next minute would be seen paying her some slight mark of attention.—Upon inquiry he found that she was the adopted daughter of a poor farmer, but her rare taste for music had brought her into considerable notice among the villagers. Her rich voice and fine musical ear were also noticed by Mr. Hagar, and upon asking why she did not cultivate her voice under the direction of an experienced musician, he was informed that her father was unable to give her this advantage, being scarcely able to support himself and small family in the most economical manner. After some deliberation, Mr. Hagar formed a plan, which he immediately proceeded to carry out, and which produced the most important results to both.

One evening, as Miss Atherton was making preparations for a visit to one of her friends, she received a note from Mr. Hagar, requesting that, if not engaged, she would call upon him at the earliest opportunity. She immediately proceeded to his dwelling, and, after a cordial greeting by Mr. Hagar, he said:—

"Miss Atherton, I know that your taste for music must render it desirable to you to receive farther instruction, and, if you think what assistance I can give will be of any service to you, I would propose that you accept it. I have an hour or two each day which I can readily spare, and I know of no better way of improving them."

"I am very grateful, sir, for your kindness, but I doubt whether I ought to consider myself at liberty to accept it."

"I am aware that my proposition may appear somewhat singular to you, but I beg that you will avail yourself of it, if you consistently can."

"I will consult with my father," said Miss Atherton, "and abide by his decision."

"I am to understand that if your father consents I have your permission," questioned Mr. Hagar.

"You have," was the reply.

"Then," said Mr. Hagar, smiling, "I will spare you that trouble. I have already the consent of your father, and only await your decision."

"Indeed, Mr. Hagar, you are very kind. I shall be under many obligations to you."

"Be assured that the progress I feel confident you will make will more than compensate me."

"I shall endeavor to do my best to please you," replied Miss Atherton, rising.

"Then come to-morrow evening, and I will be ready for you," said Mr. Hagar, as Miss Atherton departed.

We now leave Miss Atherton, making rapid progress under the instruction of Mr. Hagar, braving the storm of scandal which gathered around him from the gossip of the village, and introduce the reader to a room in a dilapidated building in Salem, where lay a pale, emaciated man, wasted by extreme dissipation, evidently in the last agonies of death. Bending over him, as if to catch his last utterance, we immediately recognize our friend, Mr. Hagar, whither he had been hastily summoned, to arrive scarcely in time to close the eyes of his only surviving brother.

"I have your forgiveness, Henry," were the last audible words of the dying man.

"As I hope for God's," was the reply.

Another vain attempt to speak, a gasp, and he was gone. Mr. Hagar remained to perform the last services to the memory of the departed, and then returned to his home in Springfield, where he secluded himself and refused to see any one. After the lapse of about a week, he instructed his servants to admit Miss Atherton when she came for her lesson, which was on that evening. As, summoning all his energy, he went to meet her, his pale, agitated countenance was observed by her, and as she arose, as was her wont, to open the piano, he arrested her by a gesture, saying:—

"Sit down, Nelly. I care not for music to-night. I have something of more importance to communicate to you."

As she obeyed him, he drew from his pocket a miniature, and, after calming himself sufficiently to speak in his natural tone, said, passing her the picture,

"Do you recognize this, Nelly?"

"Why! Mr. Hagar!" was the exclamation, "it is my mother! What a beautiful picture! How did it come into your possession?"

"From her own hands. That miniature is a likeness, as I can prove, of my wife and, as I now knew, your mother, taken a few weeks after our marriage."

"Your wife! My mother! What can you mean, Mr. Hagar?"

"Precisely this. Your mother died when you were an infant leaving you in the care of him, who, she supposed, would prove faithful to his trust. That trust was betrayed. I have for some time had a vague suspicion that you were my daughter, now——"

Before he could finish his sentence, Nelly, as the truth burst upon her, with a sharp cry, fell fainting in his arms. Bearing her to a sofa, by the application of proper restoratives, she was soon restored to consciousness. As soon as she became sensible, Mr. Hagar remarked,

"Be calm, Nelly. I shall explain nothing now. In due time you will know all."

Leaving Nelly at his dwelling to recover herself, Mr. Hagar proceeded to the farm-house of Mr. Atherton, and acquainted him with sufficient proof of his true relationship to her, and, while acknowledging his superior claim to her, Mr. Atherton besought him not to remove her entirely from his sight, as to him she had become very dear.

"Be assured," was his reply, "I shall do nothing of the kind. She shall be a daughter to both, and let us thank God for this unexpected discovery."

On an evening, a few weeks subsequent to the event last mentioned, the dwelling of Mr. Hagar was brilliantly lighted throughout, and filled with his numerous friends in the city, who had gathered together at his own invitation. By a previous arrangement this new relationship had been kept entirely secret, but it had not escaped the observation of his friends that, since his return from the bedside of his brother, there was a great change in his appearance. The guests were received by Mr. Atherton, and, after they were all assembled, Mr. Hagar, supporting on his arm his beautiful daughter, entered the room. Conducting her to a seat which had been reserved for them, Mr. Hagar stepped forward, and, amid the breathless silence of the assembled guests, spoke:

"My friends, I have desired your company this evening to relate to you the story of my life, and to accept your congratulations at an event which has made me the happiest of men, and removed the only shadow which hung over my life. I was the eldest of two brothers. At the age of twenty my father died, leaving us the handsome amount of fifty thousand dollars. At twenty-five I married Clara Rivers, the reputed heiress of twenty-five thousand dollars. I had been accustomed to pass my time with gay and profligate companions and was soon led away to the participation in their evil practices. I was at home but little, and only when I was so intoxicated as to be obliged to be carried thither. My wife expostulated, but in vain. She was a delicate creature, and in a few years passed away, leaving an infant child about two years old, beseeching me on her death bed, by the love I once cherished for her, to be a faithful parent to her child. After this, I promised to myself repentance, but I soon forget all my good resolutions, and, in a short time, had sunk deeper in infamy than before. One night, as I returned from my revelling, my housekeeper, to whose charge I had intrusted my child, informed me that my brother and child had suddenly disappeared, and it was evident that he had taken her and fled. What his motives for so doing were, I have been unable to ascertain, but this occurrence roused me from my lethargy, and I registered a vow to abstain entirely from my evil practices and companions, and devote all my energy to the recovery of my lost child, and, by the blessing of God, I have kept that vow, and I stand before you to-night a guilty, yet repentant man. Hastily disposing of my property, I started in pursuit, but could obtain no clue to their whereabouts. After I had wandered about many years and had given up every hope of ever recovering my daughter, I came to Springfield, and, as you are aware, purchased this cottage. I need not remind you of the events which have transpired since my residence here. You know them. I pass on 'till about three weeks ago, when I received a letter from a gentleman in Salem, stating that a man, purporting to be my brother, was lying dangerously ill there, and desired my presence. I hastily repaired thither, and arrived just in time to close his eyes and to forgive him for the injury he had done me. He had anticipated, it seems, his death, and had written a letter to me, which I found on his person, stating that he had left my daughter in Springfield, but that the name of the individual who had adopted her had been lost by him. I also found a miniature of my wife, the only one I possessed, which he had taken with him, and the letter informed me that a duplicate had been taken and left with her adopted father. This, then, was all the clue I possessed. Something—I was unable to explain it—forced upon me the conviction that Nellie Atherton was my child. I concluded, at all events, to exhibit the miniature to her, feeling sure that, if it were a likeness of her mother, it would be recognized. She did recognize it; the only link wanting in the chain of evidence was complete, and my lost daughter was restored. My friends, I have done. You see before you a wiser, happier, and, I trust, a better man."

As he concluded his story, his friends gathered around him, with many congratulations and apologies for the injustice they had done to his character since his residence among them. All were freely pardoned, and the remainder of the evening passed pleasantly away in the enjoyment of the hospitality of Mr. Hagar. At a late hour the guests dispersed, and we, too, would leave them, in the full enjoyment of their new relationship, and abounding in gratitude to Him "who doeth all things well."

When will this Cruel War be Over?

BY A YOUNG MISS.

When will we meet our loved friends again? Fervently the anxious mother prays that God will spare the life of her only darling child, who is the comfort of her old age. The loving wife as she clasps her darlings to her bosom thinks of him who is far away amid the perilous dangers of the bloody battle-field, and almost broken-hearted whispers to Heaven a beseeching prayer to once more embrace the loved form of him who has left home with all its fond attachments to join with those who so heroically and unselfishly have risked their lives for the sake of Freedom and Union. The orphan sister, as she sits alone, dressed in sable robes, at the still hour of twilight, thinks of that brother far, far away, sick in the southern country, with no one to care for him, no kind friend near to bathe his fevered brow or moisten those parched lips which have so often uttered forth words of soothing comfort to her in hours of grief! Tears gush forth unrestrained, as the shades of night steal noiselessly around the lonely orphan girl. None but God, the Father of wisdom and goodness, can heal the bursting heart of the poor orphan kneeling in her closet, secretly mingling her prayer with thousands of others, asking in humble tones for health again to be restored to her noble-hearted brother. She seeks rest after the day's toilsome labors, committing the loving playmate of her childhood to the care of her Holy Father, who ever dwells in glorified happiness. The maiden, when she thinks of happy hours past in the society of her youthful beau, wishes with sincerity this cruel war was over, that she might once more meet her lover.

War is a cruel fate; by its ravages homes are made desolate; destruction of human life is its law. The blood of innocent victims will only quench the thirst of this terrible monster. It is ever busy in its deathly visitations in one part of the world or another. May our blessed country's share be limited, and peace find entrance before long.

May our soldiers, who have fought so bravely to shield us from danger, be blessed with health and strength to undergo the many hardships and privations which they are subjected to by the inconveniences of war. God bless them everywhere. On the battlefield, through the long, fatiguing march—in illness, when friendly attention is so much needed, bless our poor soldiers. When peace is again restored to our beloved country, and the absent ones return, we will welcome them as heroes clothed in robes of honor for the untiring energy they ever have exhibited throughout the war in behalf of the glorious Union.

Selected.

WOMAN.

First read as written, then alternate the lines.

The bliss of him no tongue can tell
Who in a woman doth confide;
Who with a woman scorns to dwell
Unnumbered evils will betide.

They fill each leisurable day
With joy and innocent delight;
With cheerless gloom and misery
Are none possessed while in their sight.

They make the daily path of life
A pleasant journey strewed with flowers,
A dreary scene of painful strife
They quickly change with matchless powers.

Domestic joys will fast decay
Where female influence is unknown;
Where'er a woman holds her sway
Man is in perfection shown.

She's never failing to display
Truth in its native loveliness;
A heart inclined to treachery
A woman never did possess.

That man true dignity will find
Who tries the matrimonial state;
Who pours contempt on woman kind
Will mourn his folly when too late.

WORDS OF WISDOM.

I never yet found pride in a noble nature, nor humility in an unworthy mind. Of all trees, I observe that God has chosen the vine—a low plant that creeps upon the helpful wall; of all beasts, the soft and patient lamb; of all fowls, the mild and guileless dove. When God appeared to Moses, it was not in the lofty cedar, nor the spreading palm, but a bush, an humble, slender, abject bush. As if He would by these selections check the conceited arrogance of man. Nothing produceth love like humility; nothing hate, like pride.—Feltham.

A Beautiful Allegory.—A humming bird met a butterfly, and being pleased with the beauty of its person and the glory of its wings, made an offer of perpetual friendship.

"I cannot think of it," was the reply, "as you once spurned me and called me a drawling dolt."

"Impossible!" exclaimed the humming bird, "I always entertained the highest respect for such beautiful creatures as you."

"Perhaps you do now," said the other, "but when you insulted me I was a caterpillar. So let me give you a piece of advice: never insult the humble, as they may one day become your superior."

The longer I live, the more certain I am that the great difference between men, the great significant, is energy, invincible determination, an honest purpose once fixed, and then victory. This quality will do anything that can be done in the world; and no talents, no circumstances, no opportunity will make a two-legged creature a man without it.—Goethe.

When virtue leaps high in the public fountain, you seek for the lofty spring of nobleness, and find it far off in the dear breast of some mother, who melted the snows of winter and condensed the summer's dew in the fair sweet humanity, which now gladdens the face of man in all the city streets.—Theodore Parker.

In the eternity of God there is nothing so past, as to have quite ceased to be present, and nothing so completely future, as though it did not already exist.

It is very curious, how the roots of one man's prosperity interlace with the causes of another man's misfortune.

The Greeks carved the butterfly sometimes in marble, as an emblem of hope for the dead.

There is no more melancholy forewarning to be learned from past ages than that of human liability to retrogression.

Vicksburg after the Capitulation.

The correspondent of the Cincinnati Gazette, writing from Vicksburg, July 4th, in speaking of the prisoners captured, says that among the brigadier generals was Stephen D. Lee of S. Carolina, a man of undoubted military genius.—He was the idol of Vicksburg, of fine military bearing and the coolest determination in battle—only thirty years of age. The next in prominence was Gen. Stevenson of Virginia—not so tall as Lee, but second to no one in the Confederacy in point of executive ability.

The appearance of some of the dead is thus described:

A remarkably sweet and youthful face was that of a rebel boy. Scarce eighteen, and as fair as a maiden, with quite small hands, long hair of the pale golden hue that auburn changes to when much in the sun, and curling at the ends. He had on a shirt of coarse white cotton, and brown pants well worn; while upon his feet were a woman's shoes of about the size known as "fours." Too delicate was his frame for war; perchance some mother's idol. His left side was torn by a shell, and his left shoulder shattered. Poor misguided boy!

Two men who had caught at a fig tree to assist them up a steep embankment lay dead at its feet, slain in all probability by an enfilade fire from their right; the branch at which they caught was still in their grasp. Some could not be recognized by their nearest friends. Several were headless—others were armless; but the manner of their death was always plain. The minnie left its large, rather clear hole; the shell its horrid rent; the shrapnel and grape their clear, great gashes, as though one had thrust a giant's spear through the tender, quivering flesh.

In one trench lay two, grasping the same weapon, friend and foe. Across their hands fell a vine, the end upon the breast of the rebel, where it had fallen with them from an elevation above, the roots still damp with the fresh earth; upon it was a beautiful passion flower in full bloom and two buds; the buds were stained with blood—the flower as bright as was the day when the morning stars sang together. On the faces of both was the calm that follows sleep—rather pale, perhaps, but seeming like him of old, of whom it was said, "He is not dead, but sleepeth."

It is remarkable with what patience the fatally wounded, they who already stood upon the shore, bore their sufferings. Some knew that they could not recover, but bore it manfully. Sometimes a tear, and a low voice would say, "My sweet wife," or "Darling," "Mother," "God forgive,"—a quiver, then all was over. Let us hope that friend and foe alike found favor in His sight where all is well.

Hanging of a Rebel Spy near Frederick.—A Frederick, Md., correspondent of the New York Tribune writes:

"At night, a spy, who was caught in the lines of the 6th New York, was hanged to the limb of a tree just out of Frederick. This morning I took horse and rode out to see the ghastly incident of war. As I looked upward to the horrid thing that hung so lankly there, and dreadfully wound and unwound itself, I had a most disagreeable remembrance of the face.

"The man's name was Richardson, and he belonged, before the war, to West Baltimore, I believe, where he peddled newspapers, maps and songs. For more than eighteen months this desperate man had strolled—he confessed it, I am abundantly assured—from camp to camp in the Union armies of the Potomac and Rappahannock, still peddling maps that were false, and songs that he sung around the camp-fires. To day, a cavalryman, fresh from the Gettysburg havoc, actually lay on the grass under that tree, and sang one of the swinging wretch's own songs to him: 'Everything looks lovely, and the goose hangs high!'

"At the drum-head Court-Martial, it is said the evidence of his guilt abounded. Drawings of fortifications were found on his person, enumerations and descriptions of forces and their position, diagrams of 'situations,' and maps of country roads. This man had bought papers from him at Fairfax, and at Falmouth; another had heard him sing such and such a song at Berryville; and one, while a prisoner in Richmond, had observed him in close conversation with Jeff. Davis.

"The proof was damning of course—and the shrift was shorter than the rope. But they mercifully 'eased him down' twice, to confess—which he did, saying that he was a 'true man to the South,' and was ready to die for it; boasting of the service he had rendered to the cause, which—infatuated wretch—he confessed he loved; boasting that he had once led a strong force of Union cavalry into an ambuscade, and that 'if you had not hung me, we should have that train to-morrow'—alluding to a long file of trains that went out to-day."

"Copperhead."—The following is extracted from a speech, as found in the report of the public meeting at Manchester, Eng., in relation to "War Ships for the Southern Confederacy:"

"I want to explain the meaning of the word 'copperhead,' which I have used. You are aware that the lion, and the unicorn, and the rose, are the national symbols of England, as the thistle is of Scotland, etc., and that the spread eagle is the symbol of Union in America. Now, South Carolina—the first State to secede, and which has always been the very hotbed of secession—when she hoisted her standard of rebellion, put upon it, as her symbol, a rattlesnake. It is an interesting fact in natural history, that this reptile, in sloughing its skin, is subject to temporary blindness, and in this state of helplessness, when it is unable to pursue its prey, it is helped by a friendly snake called a 'copperhead,' who kindly brings it food during the period of its blindness.

Now, the Democrats in the North have manifested much sympathy with the Slave States, (though I am glad to say that a very significant reaction has taken place,) and the Republicans of the North have given to the (such?) Democrats, who are peace-at-any-price men, and who would gladly compromise the principles of liberty in order to be restored to the South, the name of 'copperheads.' Now, I think, we have a good many 'copperheads' in England."

☞ I was reading the other day that on the shores of the Adriatic Sea the wives of fishermen, whose husbands have gone far off upon the deep, are in the habit at eventide of going down to the seashore, and singing, as female voices only can, the first stanza of a beautiful hymn; after they have sung it they listen, till they hear borne by the wind across the desert sea the second stanza, sung by their gallant husbands as they are tossed by the gale upon the waves, and both are happy. Perhaps if we could listen, we too might hear on this desert world of ours some sound, some whisper borne from afar, to remind us that there is a heaven and a home; and when we sing the hymn upon the shores of earth, perhaps we shall hear its sweet echo breaking in music upon the sands of time, and cheering the hearts of them that are pilgrims and strangers, and look for a city that hath foundations.—Dr. John Cumming.

A Good Stomach.—A country youth, having an uncle living in town, resolved to pay him a visit. He accordingly started off one morning, and arrived at his uncle's house just as supper was ready. Being very hungry from his long walk, he no sooner got seated at the table, than he commenced a furious onslaught on the eatables, at right and left.

"Hold on, sir," said his uncle, who was a pious man, "we always say something here before we eat."

"Say what you're a mind to," answered the boy, between two mouthfuls, "you can't turn my stomach."

☞ In the "Legend of the Tree of Life," published in New York, in 1775, occurs the following:—Trees and woods have twice saved the world—first by the ark, then by the cross; making full amends for the evil fruit of the tree of Paradise, by that which was borne on the tree in Golgotha.

☞ He was a poetical chap who described ladies' lips as the glowing gateway of beans, pork, sourkrout and potatoes.

The Wizard.

WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 5, 1863.

☞ We have been obliged to leave over several very interesting articles. A continuation of "Life in the Saddle" is in type.

SUMMARY OF THE WEEK.

As we sit down, and make an effort to recall what we have been reading about in the papers the last week, we feel the need of a sort of special conscription act for a draft on our memory. Dim recollections we have of Bragg and Beauregard, of Johnston and conscription (military,) of Lee rebased, of rebel "prospects never brighter," of a certain rebel executive's library, of rebel gold-headed cains, and of rebel Cains in general; but how to resolve these things into paragraphs is as great a problem as Roebuck's motion is, or has been to the Great Powers. It is difficult to write round sentences unless there be round performances to write them about, and of round performances in the last seven days there have been none. Except, however, one. According to the New York Herald the Breckinridge and Douglass democratic committees have PERFORMED the next President! That is to say, those committees—what is left of them—have embraced and kissed one another. Nectar, thy name is vinegar! And having ignored wars, negroes, Abraham Lincoln and all sublunary things, they have sworn—what? that the next President of the United States of America shall be the first born of their marriage!

Sheridan, you ought to have lived till to-day. You once said you had often heard of people knocking out their brains against a stone wall, but never heard of any one building a stone wall expressly for the purpose. You ought to live now. You would see the wall built or about to be built expressly for the purpose, but there is one thing you would not see. You would not see much brains knocked out against it. Not, however, for the want of split heads. Really, we had always given "democracy" credit for some brains—black—yet brains. We now see that their heads at present are like their professions formerly—empty.

It is debated in official circles whether it is not advisable to restore Morgan to his command, and put him on his raid again, it being doubtful, if Capt. Burbridge, who demanded his surrender, had authority so to do, as he was only a militia captain. This is a grave question, and ought to be decided with the greatest deliberation, even to the suspension of the war for the time being. If Captain B. has transcended his authority in overcoming the enemies of his country, let him be dealt with severely. This rebellion must not be put down unless it be done trigonometrically and according to the established principles of red tape.

The Mississippi river has risen ten feet in celebration of Vicksburg and Port Hudson. If the Mississippi river has done this simply as a militia captain, we command that that presumptuous father of waters be brought to a drum head court martial forthwith.

When a general has done well, we dislike to give him up. It was so with McDowell, so with Fremont, so with Pope, so with Butler, so with Burnside, so with Hooker, and we may add, so with McClellan; for we once saw McClellan ride over Long Bridge. He rode well. And it is so now with Meade. He did well, nobly. His defensive victory was, under the circumstances, a decisive victory; and because he did not utterly rout Lee, we have no patience with the querulousness which clamors for a change of commanders. But it is the old story. Nothing short of complete, enemy-annihilating success is tolerated in a military man. The whole country ought to have had a sound thrashing for its ingratitude to General Pope, than whom the country has not had a harder-working, better-meaning, and, up to a certain point, a more successful man engaged in its service. He failed once, and coming into Philadelphia black with the smoke of battle and fatigued quite to exhaustion, the whole city was ready to hiss him. Shame on the city! And shame on those, who blame Meade, and talk of Grant, Sherman, Sedgwick and the Lord knows whom. Meade has handsomely driven Lee home. Let him now keep him there, and it will be enough for Meade, if meanwhile we so look to it elsewhere that presently he have no home to stay in. Active operations by our army, however, would not surprise us, and such, indeed, seems to be in progress.

Gen. Blunt, who is in the wild Indian West, on the 10th ult., at Elk creek, met the enemy, and defeated him, killing 200, wounding between 300 and 400, and capturing 3 stand of colors, many guns, and over 120 prisoners. The 1st Kansas (colored) Regiment fought like tigers, avenging the death of their commander, Col. Williams. Our loss was comparatively light.

We have the reported surrender of the rebels, on the 22d ult., of Brashear city to Captain Johnson of the gunboat Sachem. City after city is falling.

Gen. Grant is said to be moving on Mobile, and the grateful hope is indulged that by the middle of August the stars and stripes will once more kiss the breeze in that city.

Col. Buford, with his cavalry, crossed the Rappahannock ford, on the 2d, as one account says, for the purpose of learning the position of the enemy along the railroad toward Culpepper. He encountered the rebel cavalry and drove them back till they found support from their infantry, when Buford in turn retreated.

North Carolina is fast putting off the ragged garments of the "Confederacy" preparatory to assuming the comely robes of Union. She pronounces Jeff. "unreliable" and says that of 95,000 men she has raised for this "causeless war," 40,000 have perished.

We put our ear to the ground, and hear thundering still the guns off Charleston. We had hoped, ere this, to record the successive falls of Wagner and Sumter and the doomed city of which they are to prove the powerless defences. We are not able to-day. Even this determined assault now being made on that original nursery of treason, may miscarry; but though this and ten more should fail, it cannot avail the heaven-accursed cause. Not on the rock of truth, but on the sands of falsehood and iniquity was built the house of this rebellion, and the descending rains of heaven-born truth are speedily bringing it to ruin, shapeless and irretrievable. Flee from under the roof, ye who would be saved, for that house shall surely fall, and great will be the fall thereof.

THE UNION AS IT WAS.

We have become so used to calling this national contest rebellion that we persist in it. It is Revolution. Not indeed in dictionary parlance, but in the sense in which before now we have heard the word used by the proprietor of some long ill-managed establishment, who has at last risen to the idea of business. "Gentlemen, I am going to have a revolution here!" Rebellion it is, and must be to rebels; revolution it is, and is to be to the country. The Government, the nation, the national establishment had, for a long term of years, been badly, deplorably managed. Indolence, laziness, sloth had crept into one department—that was slavery: corruption, hypocrisy, meanness were supreme in another department—that was democracy: lawless ambition, seize Cuba and the rest of the world ruled in another—that was filli-busterism: overthrow the ballot box—that was Kansas; in short the business of politics was without industry except as to mischief, without system except as to corruption, and without aim except as to tyranny. The rightful proprietor of this establishment called the union, the PEOPLE at length became incensed, and arose to the idea of business, and said things must be different—there must be a revolution;—laziness must cease, lawlessness be restrained, and the ballot box rule. Against this rightful resolve of the people—seconded by action—the lazy, the lawless and the tyrannous arose in rebellion, shattered the Union, and the question is: Will you have the Union as it was; or the Union revolutionized according to the people's resolution?

To be sure the people did not at the outset count on quite so extensive a revolution. It was the original intention to revolutionize to the extent only of the non-extension of the baseness of slavery. This comprehended much—indeed quite all, for it comprehended the downfall of "democracy," and the consequent overthrow of slaveocracy as a dominating power in the nation. It was a work the ultimate result of which—to be brought about in the inevitable course of things—would be free soil, free toil, free speech and free men throughout the territory waved over by the Flag, which had been too long disgraced. But slaveholders and the other bond holders of "democracy" could not endure even for four years the democratic principle of the rule of the majority. The growl of words simply, set up during and after the election of Lincoln is enough to condemn, as it will condemn, that infamous party in all succeeding time. To the Democracy that is true they would be strangers, and so they plunged us into rebellion, and out of the strife was brought forth military necessity. We like that phrase. We like it more even than some dislike it. Military Necessity! Its fame is sure. In the dictionary of phrases it will henceforth hold a place, as meaning the landmark in chief of Progress. Its work is being done apace. It is bringing about in a short time what otherwise could have occurred only in generations:

"Jumping o'er time;
Turning the accomplishments of many years
Into an hour glass."

Now when we hear any one speak of having the "Union as it was," we look upon him either as joking or as quibbling or as stark mad. Revolutions do not move backward, and as to having the Union as it was, after what military necessity has done, you might as well think of having the nations what they were before gunpowder, steamboats, railroads, telegraphs and Palmer's wooden legs. No! ye doters on the past and ye blind guides of the living, there is to be no was about it. This war means is, will, shall, to be, and the future tenses generally. It means clarification, rarefication, purgation and all the ations of creation that may tend to purify the atmosphere of American politics. It means UNION. Not the union of oil and water—of "fire and powder, which when they kiss, consume," but the chemical union—the perfect intermixture, which lasts, brightens, and improves by age.

FITCH POOLE, ESQ., has been removed from the post office in this town, and Mr. DANIEL WOODBURY has been reappointed in his place. This change caused no little surprise in this immediate community, as most of our citizens had settled down into a pleasing belief that the present popular incumbent was a "fixture" for the remainder of this administration at least. As for his successor we have no doubt that he will also perform the duties of postmaster acceptably. His former experience in this office (too well known by every one to repeat) was a bitter one, and it is now, and has been, the wish of every individual in this community that he should be amply recompensed as well as vindicated. We also concur most heartily with the suggestion made by our neighbor—the Salem Gazette—that "as both of these gentlemen, (Mr. Poole, and Mr. Charles Dodge, his assistant,) are thus suddenly deprived of employment without fault of their own, we trust the government will find some other opening in which their honesty, fidelity and capacity may be used to the advantage of the public service."

THE SALEM BRASS BAND.

We have to confess to a certain softness, if it please the reader, in loving the Salem Brass Band above all bands that ever were or doubtless ever will be. Our first recollections of martial music are the bugles of that Band. We hear them now, have heard them in the last twenty years, and shall continue to hear them "till the heavens be no more!" When the liquid notes of Morse's peerless lip floated away with his spirit—notes, which a friend once likened to "the dropping of sweet oil on a burnished steel plate"—our youthful heart almost broke, so thrilled with delight or roused into ardor had we a thousand times been by the matchless tones of his imperial horn. We went into mourning on the fatal day that the master of that instrument sounded his own requiem, and we still are not comforted. But the Band kept on, and we kept on preferring it to Flagg's, to Bond's, to Dodworth's, to the Mendelsohn, and to Gilmore's, except when Gilmore's was Salem's Band. When Smith was taken away we were a second time alarmed for our pet. Gilmore however, reassured us, and we praised that man every morning and night, until he left our Band to boss a Boston affair, and then our contempt for him became supreme, and has ever since so remained. He a musician? Never!

We had not really heard the Salem Band till July 4th the last. Some one told us it was playing on the Common, and we rode down to hear it, a little afraid all the time we should be sighing for the "other days." But when we found the Band full, and heard it play, and saw the trees all round the Common listening and moving towards Orpheus as of old, our joy was made whole, the Common became the spot of enchantment it once was, and we felt embarrassed that we did not know the popular name of Orpheus. So we inquired and were told his name was PARSONS; and we said, Parsons thou art the leader of the best Band in the United States, except always those bands that are firing the hearts of the soldiers of the Union.

THANKSGIVING SERVICES.—At the Universalist Church a sermon will be preached, by the pastor, at 6 o'clock P. M. Subject, "The Necessity and Demands of Government."

At the Universalist Church in Danvers a sermon will be preached by the pastor (Rev. J. W. Putnam) in the forenoon.

At the Methodist Church the Society have been requested to appear at their place of worship at 6 o'clock in the morning.

Services will be held at the South Church. See Special Notice.

☞ The Ladies Soldiers' Aid Society will have a Social Gathering, for the benefit of our suffering soldiers, on Thanksgiving Day and Evening, at Sutton's Hall, where a dinner will be provided at 2 o'clock.

Contributions for the tables are solicited, and will be received at the Hall on Thursday morning.

Admittance 50 cents. Tickets can be obtained at the store of B. F. Stevens, and at the threo Apothecaries.

☞ The 39th Regiment, which includes Capt. Nelson's Company of South Danvers boys, are now in the First Division of the Army of the Potomac.—Their position is in the extreme front of the advancing columns, and we doubt not, if the opportunity offers, they will prove themselves to be worthy of the good old Revolutionary town from which they have emenated.

☞ Capt. George Nelson of the 39th Regiment, and Corporal Harrison Whittemore of the 1st, came home last week. They are both detailed to obtain drafted men to fill up their respective regiments. Capt. Nelson bears the marks of hard service. Mr. Whittemore, who has served in some 16 pitched battles, and been wounded in his head, is looking well.

☞ The Massachusetts Plowman makes this remark on the ecclesiastic trial for heresy at Georgetown. "In the trial of Rev. Charles Beecher on a charge of heresy, Rev. Milton P. Braman was the prosecuting officer of the court of Divines, and he is said to have performed his task with great rudeness and malignity." Rather harsh.

MESSRS. BROWNING & LONG are showing great enterprise in their line of business, always managing to be fully up with the times. Their splendid and showy establishment reminds one of the Broadway establishments in New York city.

☞ The Universalist Church will be closed for three Sundays, while Rev. Mr. Safford takes his vacation. It will be open again the last Sunday in August.

☞ Captain Stowe, son of Mrs. Harriet Beecher Stowe, wounded at Gettysburg, is now at home in Andover, slowly recovering.

☞ Sergt. Francis E. Farnham of this town, has been appointed 2d Lieut. in the 2d Battery of Heavy Artillery.

COMPANY K, OF DANVERS.

The Eighth Regiment arrived home Wednesday last, having between 400 and 500 men in its ranks. The Danvers Company of this Regiment, Co. K, returned with only 26 muskets. This company was nearly or quite full when in camp at Wenham, but before its departure for Newbern there were 13 desertions, so that the company has had during its absence but 68 muskets. Three men have died, Corporal A. A. Horne of Danvers and Wm. E. Fish and Henry Chase of North Andover. Of those of the company unable for one cause or another to accompany the Regiment on its late marches in Maryland and Virginia, 4 were left at Newbern, 3 at Fortress Monroe, 27 at Baltimore and 6 at Maryland Heights, but nearly all of those thus left behind have now returned. The portion of the company that returned with the Regiment looked truly like veterans. For shoes they had but a remnant, and their other apparel, as well as their equipments (what remained of these) bore unmistakable marks of service. Nor less did their browned faces and hardened hands show the effect of work and exposure. Way-worn they were, but, with few exceptions, did not seem weary. Yet weary they might well have been; for, according to the best calculation the intelligent and efficient Orderly was able to make, the daily march for 12 days was 16 or 17 miles. Two other days they rested, but marched all night each night. During all these 14 days they had no tents, no shelter whatever, except as improvised with the rubber blanket, no rations but "tack," pork and snatches at coffee, no abundance indeed, of anything except marching, soakidg in rain, and wading and plunging in mud. It was march, rain, mud, and the d——l take the hindmost. Three years men, in whose company they were, said they had had nothing like it in their expcrience.

The following is the roster of this company:

Captain—Albert G. Allen.
1st Lieut.—Edwin Bailey,
2d " Benj. E. Newhall.
1st Sergt.—Chas. W. Allen,
2d " Thomas Barrett,
3d " Henry D. Wallace,
4th " James H. Sleeper,
5th " Samuel P. Fowler, Jr.
Corporal—Stephen Holt,
" Lorenzo C. Rogers,
" Frederick M. Putnam,
" Alfred Porter,
" John W. Proctor,
" Dennis Regan,
" Wm. O. Clark,
" A. A. Horne (deceased.)

Capt. Allen was quite feeble on his return home, but we are pleased to know is rapidly improving. Lieut. Newhall was conveyed to his home immediately on his return and is still, as we are informed, in a very low condition. Lieut. Bailey came home bright as gold, whose worth all say he is. The men speak in the highest terms of all their officers.

☞ Corporal Dudley of Co. I, 14th Regiment, is at home on a short furlough. He was one of the 44 of the company who were taken prisoners on the retreat from Winchester, and is furloughed from the paroled prisoners' camp at Annapolis. He and his companions were taken to Richmond where they were held 17 days when all were paroled except Captain Martins, who is now in Libby prison. Corporal Dudley reports that their treatment in Richmond, save that they were stinted in rations, was unexceptionable. No one, soldier or civilian, was allowed to insult them. One soldier who called one of the Danvers Yankees "a son of a ——," was immediately taken in hand and made to stand on a couple of barrels two hours. Richmond, it is said, is as "still as Sunday"—no men seen walking in the streets—only a few soldiers patrolling (the City Guards)—and but very few women. Stores are open, but all with a scarcity of stores. "Yankee money" readily sold $5 for $1. Corp. D. says Libby prison is kept very neat and clean. We are glad to hear so much in favor of Richmond civility and the state of its chief prison.

☞ Among the commissions issued last week were the following: Wallace A. Putnam, of Danvers, late 1st Lieut. 10th Regiment, 2d Lieut. in 56th Regiment, Veteran Volunteers; Nehemiah P. Fuller, of Danvers, late captain in 17th Regiment, to captain in 2d Regiment Heavy Artillery.

☞ Among the prisoners taken at Port Hudson was one Andrew J. Lewis, a captain in the rebel army, but in 1852 Democratic representative from Lanesbon' in this State, and custom house officer at Boston under Peirce. "Birds of a feather flock together."

☞ In accordance with the request of the graduating class at Andover Theological Seminary, the Baccalaureate sermon was preached to them, on the afternoon of last sabbath, by Rev. W. M. Barber of this town.

☞ Capt. Daniel J. Preston of the 35th Regiment, now at Vicksburg, we learn by a private letter, is quite sick and contemplates returning home, if his health will admit of the journey.

[For the Wizard.]

DARTMOUTH COLLEGE.

Rumor indicates the resignation of President Lord of Dartmouth College. There can be no doubt but that the Trustees will accept the resignation. That respectable body must be aware of the absolute necessity of a change in the governorship of the institution if it is to maintain its rank among the New England colleges. It has been a source of grief and mortification to the friends of this most esteemed college that the change, now apparently imminent, should have been deferred so long. Dr. Lord—with due respect to his age and characteristic piety be it said—as President of a college, is notoriously the wrong man in the wrong place.

Antediluvian in theology and politics, he is unfortunately possessed of a rancorous zeal for the propogation of his ideas, and by his remarkable energy of will he works not a little mischief on the facile minds of the youth under his instruction. Shut up in his little New Hampshire village he has persistently clung to his own crude, visionary misanthropic and gloomy theories, while the world has been marching on in the light of Christianity and Science. He is stubborn to such a degree that the point of honor with him lies in the acknowledgment of his absolute supremacy in all matters of controversy.

These traits and conditions do not fit him to train young men for the duties of practical life, and Dartmouth, for years, has been competing with sister colleges under great disadvantages.

We write this with regret. Dartmouth has ranked of the first among the institutions of learning in the country. Her location, charming in its seclusion in the valley of the beautiful Connecticut, her venerable age, her history, made illustrious by her distinguished sons, her complete course of study and her excellent general advantages, render a connection with her, for an acedemic course, desirable. But continued persistent bad management of superior officers will break down the best institution, and it is time that the Trustees of this college were instructed in the wishes of its true friends.

The above communication is from our correspondent, "Gregory," a talented son of Dartmouth College, who is now in successful practice of the law in New York City. He knows whereof he affirms, and, as we are not altogether unfamiliar with the experiences of Dartmouth, we fully endorse his sentiments. Something may be excused to the age of President Lord, but even his age will not, like charity, cover the multitude of the sins of his remorseless fogyism. To the extent of his ability, which is not moderate, he has for years labored, with something like satanic industry, to instil into the minds of youth love of slavery as a divine institution, to inculcate the most gloomy doctrines with reference to the future, to persuade young men that the world was going back, back to worse than heathenism, and to build up such a discipline of the college as would effectually suppress, among the students, all utterance of independent thought whether in the exercise of the class room or out of it. His iron will has been with all the professors a law, which, if it had lasted much longer, must have irretrievably sunk the alma mater of Webster and Choate. Up to the present time only six students, we are told, have been examined for the incoming class! But the college is relieved of its incubus. Dr. Lord's successor we trust may be a man possessing ability not inferior, but zeal in a widely different direction, and a spirit of far nobler instincts.

MAIL EXPRESS.—As will be seen by his cards and advertisement, Mr. PARKER WEBBER, formerly a driver on our line of omnibuses between here and Salem, has commenced to run an express between South Danvers and Salem, FOUR TIMES daily. He also carries the mail, by which arrangement our citizens are enabled to have letters some twenty minutes earlier in the morning than heretofore. We should think that this express line must be a great accommodation all round.

☞ Mr. E. B. Waitt is sole agent for Danvers of Hert's & Co.'s Amalcamated Alumnium, Zinc & Platina Pens. These pens are warranted not to corrode. From frequent use of them we are able to testify to their anti-corrosive properties, and we think them superior to the gold pen in their possessing the freedom of the quill and the flexibility of the steel pen. We advise a trial of them by those who would like a combination of the gold pen, the steel pen and the quill.

☞ We have received a communication from a very respectable source, having reference to Gail Hamilton's Glances at Harvard Class Day. We differ from our correspondent in regard to that accomplished writer. Her education was not received "in the lowest den of infamy," but up in the quiet town, we believe, of Ipswich; and as to "the courseness and vulgarity of her language," the public has already had, and, we trust, will still further have, ample opportunity to judge.

☞ Brig. Gen. G. M. Dodge was assigned, on the 5th ult., to the command of the "Left Wing of 16th Army Corps," with Head quarters at Corinth, Miss., comprising the 2d Division, heretofore under his command, together with the Division recently commanded by Major Gen. R. J. Oglesby, who has left the service.

☞ Hon. Daniel C. Baker late Mayor of Lynn, died in New Orleans on the 19th ult.

LETTER FROM NEW YORK.

NEW YORK, July 30th, 1863.

MR. WIZARD,—Since the quelling of our Copperhead Riot the metropolis has subsided into its usual quiet. Life and property are safe. Negroes walk the streets with safety, though now and then some juvenile pagans will be caught chasing some poor, defenceless negro woman or child. The military are still within ready call at the armories, and a couple of regiments of regulars are encamped on the Battery. The Police are busy recovering stolen property and, collecting arms, from suspected quarters and ferreting out the participants in the mob, but otherwise things wear their usual appearance. It is thought that some three hundred rioters were killed. The number who were beaten and hammered and shot by the Police and military must have been as many more.—The wounded keep rather secluded but now and then show their disfigured faces among civilized folks.

You are asking, no doubt, whether there is to be a repetition of the riots when the draft again commences. There are different opinions in regard to that but it is rather generally thought that there will be disturbances which will not however be able to acquire the dignity of riots before they will be suppressed by the strong arm of the military power. Some say that the rioters are organizing in their dens.—It is certain that they are still, well armed. It is common now for persons employing colored servants to be warned to dismiss them by individuals of the class just now assuming to be the masters of the city. One anecdote in this connection is worth recording: A lady living in the suburbs of the city was waited on at her house during the absence of her husband the other day, by half a dozen men who demanded to know whether she employed colored help in her house. Without a moment's hesitation she answered, drawing herself up as she spoke with the courage of a true woman, "I employ whom I please and I shall defend whomsoever I employ." As matter of fact she was not boasting vainly, for she had two loaded six shooters in the house within easy reach. It is needless to say that the ruffians moved off to less dangerous quarters.

One of the most shameful occurrences during the riots was the sacking of the elegant residence of Mr. Gibbons in 29th street. Everything of value was taken or destroyed, and among the other property a valuable library of 2700 volumes was carried away and the whole interior of the house defaced. It was set on fire, but the flames were extinguished. The reason of this vandalism was that Horace Greely, some year or more since, while sick, was taken care of there, Mr. Gibbons being a distant relative of Mr. Greely. The case is peculiarly aggravated by the fact that ever since 1861 Mrs. Gibbons and one of her daughters have devoted themselves to the hardest labor in the hospitals in Virginia and Washington, wherever they could be of most service to our sick and wounded soldiers; and even then when the creatures, the spawn of the Copperhead press, were sacking their home, these refined and wealthy ladies were absent in the discharge of their most heavenly mission in the hot and dreary Southern hospitals.

It is said that the draft will proceed very soon, probably in a few days. We have the militia all back again now. When the former riots broke out the militia were all absent.—The weather is intensely hot—much rain—little comfort.

Yours, &c.,
GREGORY.

LETTER FROM THE 35TH REGT.

The following interesting letter is from Joseph E. Hood of Danvers, a member of Co. F, of the 35th Regiment. It will be seen that the 35th had the honor of first hoisting the national colors on the capital at Jackson, and otherwise did effective service in the reduction of that rebel city. It should be remarked—what we are informed by other letters—that when the 35th moved with the 9th Army Corps from Kentucky to Vicksburg, the Western troops demurred to being assisted by the Eastern, either because they regarded themselves superior, or did not wish to divide at all the honors of the campaign. But, as the brave love the brave, we think that by this time the Western boys are in good fellowship with the gallant boys of the 35th:

NEAR JACKSON, MISS., July 18th, 1863.

To let you know how and where we are I drop you these few lines. We have won another great and glorious victory. The 35th has been highly complimented by Gen. Potter for its bravery and good conduct while engaged with the enemy. As soon as Vicksburg was taken, we started for old Joe Johnston, who was moving from the Big Black to make a stand at Jackson, 60 miles from Vicksburg. Friday morning, the 10th, we came in contact with the enemy's skirmishers, the 2d Division 9th Army Corps being in reserve. The 1st Division skirmished on Friday, and drove the rebels to their works two miles from the city. Saturday the 2d Division went at them, the 35th acting as support for the 45th Pennsylvania. We had a hard fight that day. Col. Carruth was sun struck and carried to the hospital. Sunday morning, the 35th, went to the front to relieve the 17th Michigan, and we advanced to within 500 yards of the enemy's works, driving in their skirmishers and holding them in check. We were near enough to hear them talk. We could plainly hear the gunners give their orders—load, aim, fire! One of their guns we kept silenced all day. As soon as they would begin to load, we would pick them off with our rifles. At night the rebels removed that gun to another place, and Monday morning the 2d Division, being relieved by fresh troops, fell back to rest for a while. The 35th had on Sunday 6 wounded, and one taken prisoner, but none killed. Corporal Bailey of Haverhill was taken prisoner.

Thus we had it for seven long days and nights, with little or no rest. Yesterday morning early we found the rebels had evacuated the place. To be certain, however, that they had left, the General ordered me with four others to advance slowly to their fortifications, and send word back immediately. Accordingly Davis, Hooper, Whitehouse, Davidson and myself advanced to their works and discovered that they had gone. Then we five first mounted the fortifications. Soon came the 35th and hoisted the colors on the capital. In less than an hour the whole of the 9th and 15th Army Corps were in the city. We took nearly 3000 prisoners, remained in the city all day and then went to camp a mile and a half from the city.

We are now expecting soon to go to tucky by order of Burnside. We have hard time of it I assure you, but happil had none killed or wounded in Co. F. The transports are at Vicksburg waiting 9th Army Corps. J. H.

"ESSEX STATESMAN" AND GRO SOLDIERS.

MR. EDITOR,—Having by chance se last number of the Essex Statesman, my tion was directed to the leading article, by false statements and mean assumpti tempts to show that our negro troops good soldiers, and are receiving an unw ed share of glory for their late achiev The Statesman attempts to show that the negro may fight fiercely, yet a regi whites would put ten thousand of t flight. The Statesman next says that Hudson the negroes did not fight at that at Morris Island they broke ar soon as fired upon. It then sums up b that "the whole of this writing up n artificial," and that "it is a sham fo effect." It is not, perhaps, strange Statesman should judge others ha paper got up and supported, notori political effect would naturally judge else as a sham of the same character and as for writing up a case artificiall be readily supposed that those who ha ed so hard to write up the merits of Napoleon would naturally judge their own standard. But partisan does not justify the slandering of a brave soldiers in the field. Whethe black, they are entitled to our kind and tender sympathy; and he who our brave defenders, because they ha skin, is not only wanting in a gen nanimity, but shows a deep seated continue to treat with injustice a have so long been denied their ri country.

The negroes fought well at Port is proved by correspondents of all York papers, and by the officers in At the battle of Millikin's Bend the bravery saved us the day, and at H defeated a superior force of the e James Island, on the morning of the the negro regiment (54th Mass.,) cessful charge, aided by some batt force of 6000 rebels to flight. Tho lost nearly 100 in the fight of the were placed in the front on the 18t sault on Fort Wagner. A regimen raw troops, having been only about in service, they were placed to do veterans—and how well they per duty, let their bloody roll be read. under a deadly fire, they marche and, with the 6th Conn. and 48th ments, maintained their position i half an hour, until nearly all t were killed or wounded, and they the field by a lieutenant; and w are reposing in their bloody graves larger number are this day mourni for their many wounds, a New E paper, pretended to be based on free speech (only for white men, the Government,) has the meanr them that little boon so precious of the soldier—praise for his g Partisan malignity can go no answer to the complaint of the St the negro is being written up, I w while the negro race is traduce by a portion of the press, a magn lic is determined to pay them a praise. Before concluding, I w ask of the Statesman whether, our Government ought to object negro prisoners into slavery.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.—"Bar P. Peabody; "Anderson's Spri toms"—Josiah Trask, agent; " Fruit"—S. C. & E. A. Simonds; James F. Almy; "Aerated Br Kirk; "Wanted, $1,000;" "Li "Something New"—George S.

☞ Said Mike Walsh, in o bursts at Tammany Hall:

The aristocracy of talent I re tocracy of power, fairly obtained exercised, when obtained, I res tocracy of wealth, I can tolerate dirty, codfish aristocracy of Dem and detest.

Religious Notic

☞ There will be religious South Church on Thursday—th ed for the National Thanksgi mence at 10½ o'clock. Sermon P. Field, of New London, C tion will be taken up in beha Christian Commission.

Notice.

☞ If the person who picke —containing a Coat, Spencer ar —in front of 47 Washington S day morning, August 1, will r to the above place, a reward wi August 5.*

Found.

☞ On the Picnic Ground on Friday afternoon, July 24, shade. The owner can have it C. T. Southwick's Grocery Sto August 5.

A Card.

☞ William Sutton hereb thanks to the firemen and c Danvers for their energetic ex his property from the late fire.

☞ Visit OSBORNE'S Store, unusual variety of new styl CAPS—191 Essex street.

EDITOR OF WIZARD.—Dear S mission I wish to say to the rea that I will send by return mail (free) a Recipe, with full directi using a simple Vegetable Balm, remove, in 10 days, Pimples, B les, and all Impurities of the Ski soft, clear, smooth and beautiful I will also mail free to those h Bare Faces, simple directions an will enable them to start a full Hair, Whiskers, or a Moustache days. All applications answer without charge.

Respectfully yours
THOS.
aug 5—3m No. 831 Bro

☞ Burnham's new "

gold.

PEABODY'S PRICE LIST OF SUN UMBRELLAS:

14 inch Steel Frames, $1 20;
14 inch Steel Frames, $1 20;
16 inch Steel Frames, $1 50;
18 inch Steel Frames, $1 75;
20 inch Steel Frames, $2 00;

SUN UMBRELLAS
—at—
Reduced Prices,
—at—
JOHN P. PEABODY'S.

☞ Try one of Rhoades' National Clothes Wringers, before purchasing elsewhere. For sale at the Equity Store, South Danvers. See advertisement.

Port of Danvers.

Ar 26th, schs Ada Herbert, Linnehan, New York; 29th, John Cadwallader, Clayton, Philadelphia.

Marriages.

In North Reading, July 28th, by Rev Mr Jones, Mr William H Joll to Miss Sarah Ellen Goldthwait, both of South Danvers.

In Boston, Aug 1st, by Rev Dr Bartol, Dr Benj. Pickman, of Salem, to Emily T, daughter of the late Daniel P Parker.

Deaths.

In this town, July 28, Mr Amos Osborn 3d, 28 years 3 months.

Sad and lonely is our dwelling,
Since my kinsman went away;
For the form we fondly cherished,
Now is mingling with the clay.

O we miss, we miss him sadly,
None our loss will ever know,
Save those friends to whom the mandate
Hath dealt out the self same blow.

None will ever know our sorrow
'Till the spoiler's cruel hand
Hath laid waste, and torn assunder,
One, the cherished of their band.

Sweetly in the grave we've laid him,
There his body must remain,
And the heart that still is with us
Never, never'll beat again. W. D. E.

In Salem, July 31, Miss Eliza Very, 65 yrs; Mrs Catharine, widow of the late Mr James Cass, 66; Aug 2, Mrs Sarah F, widow of the late Mr Samuel Gardner, 69; Mr Augustus Grover, 29 years 6 months.

In Tunbridge, Vt., July 26, Anna Blanchard, youngest daughter of Merrill and Elvira S Jones, 1 year 5 months.

Precious bud! e'er yet it blossomed,
Gathered for the home above;
Now her spirit safe reposes
In a Saviour's arms of love.

Mourn not for her, stricken parents,
For your loss is but her gain;
She's now free from sin and sorrow,
And the reach of earthly pain.

☞ The extraordinary success of Dr. Ham's Invigorating Spirit, seems to stir up an army of Tonics, Bitters, and Cure Alls; but as a general thing they are like the Morning Glory—look very fine in the morning but wilt before the day has past. The Dr. has been before the public for years; his Dyspepsia Remedy has been tested and not found wanting; it acts on the Liver, Stomach, Head and the whole system; it is good at all times and for everybody.

Hunnewell's Great Remedies.

WHAT EVERY FAMILY SHOULD HAVE IN THE HOUSE
AND WHY;

☞ They should have HUNNEWELL'S UNIVERSAL COUGH REMEDY, because it effectually cures Colds, Whooping and Common Coughs, Sore Throat, Hoarseness, and is the most simple and perfect Soothing Syrup in the world. For old and young, by day and night, it may be used with the greatest freedom, and three-fourths of the deaths by Consumption stopped.

They should have HUNNEWELL'S TOLU ANODYNE, because it is a perfect remedy for Neuralgia, Nervous or Sick Headache, Tooth, and Earache, Pain in Stomach, or Bowels, Genuine Cholera Morbus, Rheumatism, Distress after Eating, Nervousness, Hysteria, and the chief of all causes of disease, and Insanity, Loss of Sleep. Its character, though active, is simple; its action in perfect conformity to nature; its end cure, or relief.

For the pains in Monthly Menstruation a perfect relief, while nature's after work is not disturbed, and one of the most important points in Medicine.

They should have HUNNEWELL'S ECLECTIC PILLS, because with seldom but a single Pill for a dose all derangements of the Stomach and Bowels are cured. They cure Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Headache, when caused by foul stomach, Loss of Appetite, Biliousness, so often and so erroneously treated with Mercurials, Jaundice. For Worms a sure cure.

They act simple, assist nature, do not make a Pill Box of the stomach, as is the most fatal error of taking so many Pills at a dose and then, what is important to every Family and every Purse, one bottle goes as far as two or three of what is ordinarily sold.

The confidence of all is asked to test.

Hunnewell's Universal Cough Remedy.
Hunnewell's Tolu Anodyne.
Hunnewell's Eclectic Pills.

☞ Fac-simile of J. L. Hunnewell's signature over corks of genuine only.

JOHN L. HUNNEWELL, proprietor,
9 Commercial Wharf, Boston, Mass.
George E. Meacom, Agent for Danvers.
For sale by all dealers in Salem and vicinity.
Apr. 1, 1853—1 y

M. FENOLLOSA,
TEACHER OF MUSIC,
LETS.....PIANO FORTES, at the lowest rates;
SELLS.....PIANO FORTES, at the Manufacturers Prices;
EXCHANGES....PIANO FORTES, on the easiest terms;
At Rooms No. 7 Central street,
feb 11 SALEM, MASS.

MANUAL FENOLLOSA,
TEACHER
OF THE
Violin, Piano and Singing,
Music Rooms, No. 7 Central Street,
SALEM, MASS.

Advertisements.

WANTED!
$1000 on a prime FIRST Mortgage of valuable Real Estate. Apply at this office.
South Danvers, Aug. 5, 1863. tf

ANDERSON'S
Spring Bed Bottom
(E. HENNESSEY'S PATENT.)
THE LATEST AND BEST EVER OFFERED TO THE PUBLIC.
We defy any one to produce a better.
One that is an easier bed.
One that is less liable to get out of order.
One that has no possible place for vermin.
One that has no objections any way.
One that is so universally admired.
One that everybody WILL HAVE.
And Lastly,
WE DEFY ALL COMPETITION!
For sale by JOSIAH TRASK, Agent for Danvers and South Danvers.
August 5.

AERATED BREAD.

THE subscriber will daily leave the above new article of bread with the principal grocers in this town, of whom it may be purchased at 5 cents a loaf. It is claimed that this bread—unrivalled in point of sweetness and wholesomeness—is more nutritious than that made in the usual way, that it will keep much longer, and is moister and more palatable, having the taste of new bread, even when it is several days old. F. H. KIRK.
So. Danvers, Aug 5, 1863.

List of Letters

REMAINING in the Post Office at South Danvers, Aug 4, 1863. [Persons calling for these letters will please say they are advertised.]

Comins Catharine	Pettingill D A
Coggswell Abba	Swift Miss
Fay Emma	Stevens Augustus
Goldman Elizabeth	Tilton C G Mrs
Harris F N	Todd Hattie E
Nichols Mary H	Townsend Warren
Merritt Margaret	Walden Jessie

N. B. These letters are subject to an additional postage of one cent each.
FITCH POOLE, P. M.

PRESERVE YOUR FRUIT.
LUDLOW'S GLASS JARS AND COVERS.

FOR preserving Fruits, Vegetables, etc., in a perfectly fresh state.
They require no wax, solder or cement, seal instantly, and are more easily sealed and opened than any other article for the purpose ever invented. All kinds of wax and cement are equally disagreeable and uncertain in sealing. In presenting these articles to the public, the inventor challenges the world in an infallible, simple, easy, and rapid progress of Hermetical Sealing. All scientific and practical men who have examined them, say that they are without a fault, and are the only ones that have stood the chemical test.
The sealing is on an entirely original plan. This principle has stood the test for several years, and the best certificates of their value is, that those who have tried these articles will use no other. They are warranted as represented. Reliable directions for putting up all kinds of fruits, vegetables, etc, will accompany each jar.

PRICE LIST.
Pints, per doz, $2 25; 3 pints, per doz, $3 50;
Quarts, " 3 00; Half gallon, " 4 00;
Liberal discount to the trade.
S C & E A SIMONDS',
Salem Aug 5 32 Front Street.

MAPS.

NEW Map of Massachusetts, counties, townships, etc., 75.
New Pocket Map of New England, New York and Canada, 75c.
Large scale Map of Boston and country adjacent, giving all the rail and county roads—just the thing for travellers, $3 00.
State Map of Massachusetts—the best Map of the State ever published—large size $6 00.
Eastman's White Mountain Maps, 25c.
aug 5 G M WHIPPLE & A A SMITH.

COLOR AND PLAIN STAMPING

FOR Stationery, most desirable and fashionable styles—one or more initials to order. Samples at G M WHIPPLE & A A SMITH'S.

CARD ENGRAVING.

WEDDING, Visiting or Business Cards, engraved in the best manner and in the latest style, by an accomplished artist. Samples at G M WHIPPLE & A A SMITH'S.

OATS.

2 CARS bright and sound Oats, rec'd this day by rail from Canada, for sale by aug 3 GAYLE & CO., Phillips Wharf.

To the Honorable, the Senate and House of Representatives of Massachusetts:

THE undersigned hereby ask that they may be incorporated as the SOUTH DANVERS AND LYNN RAILROAD COMPANY, with a capital of one hundred thousand dollars, with power to construct a Horse Railroad from some convenient point in the town of South Danvers to some convenient point in the city of Lynn, and with power to connect with the roads of the Lynn and Boston Railroad Company, and the Salem and South Danvers Railroad Company, and to use such portions of the road of the latter company as public convenience may require; and as in duty bound will ever pray.

WM. H. LITTLE,
HENRY POOR,
LEWIS ALLEN,
STEPHEN BLANEY,
C. W. OSBORNE.

Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

SECRETARY'S DEPARTMENT,
Boston, July 18, 1863.

I approve the publication of the above petition in the Lynn Reporter and the South Danvers Wizard. OLIVER WARNER,
July 20 Secretary.

WEBBER'S
South Danvers & Salem Mail Express

WILL leave South Danvers at 7 and 11¼ A M, and 1¼ and 5 P M.
Leaves Salem at 8.45 A M and 12 M, and 2½ and 6 P M.
Slates will be found in South Danvers at the Post Office, and at Blake & Holman's store at the Monument, and in Salem at the Coach Station, 13 Central Street, and at E F & J W Roberts', corner of Front & Washington Streets.
Any packages or business entrusted to this Express will have prompt attention and care. A share of public patronage is solicited.
July 25, 1863 PARKER WEBBER.

HOUSE OF EQUITY,
—BY—
C. T. SOUTHWICK.

FIRST Quality Family Groceries sold at the lowest prices. Also a large assortment of
CROCKERY AND GLASS WARE,
Constantly on hand at
NO. 1 LOWELL STREET,
ASHLAND HALL BUILDING.
South Danvers, July 29, 1863.

THE CLOTHES WRINGER.
RHOADES' CELEBRATED
NATIONAL CLOTHES WRINGER,
THE VERY BEST YET INVENTED,
AND REALLY A LABOR SAVING MACHINE.
CALL AND EXAMINE.
For Sale by C. T. SOUTHWICK,
At the EQUITY GROCERY STORE,
South Danvers, July 8, 1863.

BROKEN BARK.

DAMAGED Bark, suitable for kindling, for sale by GAYLE & CO., Phillips Wharf.

MORRIS'
RESTAURANT,
18 and 20 Derby Square, Salem.

Oysters, Clams, Steak, Poultry, Game, Fish, &c., &c., cooked to order.
Pickled Oysters, Lobsters and Clams.
Salem, July 22, 1863 tf

FLOUR.

100 Bbls Fagin's "Four Bells," just received and for sale by July 29 GAYLE & CO., Phillips' Wharf.

FRENCH CHINA.

A FULL assortment of French China Tea Ware, Vases, Match Boxes, etc., just received from New York, and for sale by
jy 29 S C & E A SIMONDS, 32 Front st.

WIRE COVERS.

WIRE Dish Covers in sets of five, at
S C & E A SIMONDS, 32 Front st.

John P. Peabody.

BARGAINS.

Nice Crochet Nets—heavy	25c
Nice Cord Nets—double	25c
Fine Crochet Nets—pretty	25c
Fifty Cent Wrought Collars	29c
Forty Cent Wrought Collars	25c
Very nice Linen Collars	8c
Nice Linen Bosoms	25c
Nice Linen Bosoms	18c
Nice Linen Handkerchiefs—fine	15c
Good Linen Hdkfs.	12½c
Lace Sleeves—new styles	19c
Ladies' Fancy Linen Hdkfs.	25c
Hand-made Bonnet Ruches	15c
Hand-made Bonnet Ruches	25c
Very fine Ruches—the best	35c
Nice Black Lace Veils	42c
Good Black Lace Veils—new styles	50c
Extra Bargains in Black Veils	88c
Nice French Lace Veil	$1 25
Brown, blue, green and drab Veils 85 and	$1 00
Double Collarette Ruffle	12½c
Fancy Dress Ruche, hand-made	15c
Fancy Dress Ruffles—new	25c
Linen Setts, Collar and Sleeves	17c

Our whole Stock is marked at prices that cannot fail to suit any one in search of bargains.

HOSIERY
—AND—
GLOVES.
Cotton Hosiery for Ladies, Misses, and Children, in every variety, in open and plain,
At PEABODY'S.

EMBROIDERIES.
Collars—Sleeves—Bands—Flouncings—Edgings—Insertings—Laces—Cambric Edgings and Insertings, in great variety.
At PEABODY'S.

LACE GOODS.
Lace Veils—Guipure Edgings—Silk Laces—Bobbinet Laces—Saxony—Smyrna—Thread and Cotton Laces, all widths and prices.
At PEABODY'S.

SKIRTS.
Gore Trail and Panner Skirts, in all sizes and prices, from 35 cts. to $3 00.
We warrant every Skirt we sell,
J. P. PEABODY.

FOR THE TOILET.
Sterling's Ambrosia—Castorine—Bear's Oil—Stick Pomades—Honey, Bro'n Windsor, Castile, Barbers', Rose and Union Soaps, Puffs, Powders and Boxes.
At PEABODY'S.

TRIMMINGS.
Buttons—Bindings—Braids—Cords—Quilled Ribbons—Velvet Buttons—Leather Buttons—Hooks and Eyes—Whale Bones—Embroidered Silks and Braids, etc.
J. P. PEABODY.

OUR PRICE LIST OF
FANCY GOODS.

Rose Soap—two cakes for	5c
Pumice Soap—the best per cake	5c
Honey Soap—large size per cake	5c
Brown Windsor per package	25c
White Castile Soap—nice, per cake	10c
Castile Soap—imported	8c
Almond Soap—highly scented	10c
Amber Soap—round cakes	4c
Barber's Soap—for shaving	6c
Tooth Brushes—8, 10, 12½, and	25c
Hair Brushes 25, 38, 50, 75, and	$1 25
Clark's Indellible Pencils	17c
Ladies' Rubber Pages	12½c
Leather Wallets 25, 50, 62, $1 and	$1 25
Puff Boxes, Powders, Brushes, &c.

STOCK TO BE REDUCED.

ONE PRICE ONLY!

220 ESSEX ST., SALEM,
JOHN. P. PEABODY.
Augusts 5, 1863.

James F. Almy.

SPECIAL.

We are offering a Special Bargain in 4-4
Printed French Brilliants, at 22 cents.

We are selling these goods instead of Printed Muslins, as they are much stronger and perfectly fast colors.

JAMES F. ALMY,
183 Essex, opposite Central st.
Aug 5, 1863.

NEW STOCK
— OF —
DRY GOODS
— AT —
No. 238 Essex street,
(Three Doors West of the Tunnel.)

THE Subscriber opened on MONDAY, May 18th,
A Fresh Stock of Dry Goods,
Consisting of nearly all the new styles of Dress Goods, Ladies' Cloths, Cloths for Men's & Boys' Wear; Shawls, Domestic and Housekeeping Goods; Sun Umbrellas; Parasols; Hoop Skirts; Hosiery; Gloves; &c., &c., &c.

☞ All the above Goods will be sold for CASH, at Low Prices.

GEORGE P. DANIELS.
Salem, May 20.

SALEM SUPERIOR.
150 BBLS. of this favorite brand rec'd this day by rail.
For Sale by GAYLE & CO.,
jy 8 Phillip's Wharf.

BAKERS' FLOUR,
150 BBLS. Union Mills, made expressly for Bakers' use. For sale by
GAYLE & CO.,
jy 8 Phillips' Wharf.

Mothers—Take Heed!

MRS. OSBORNE'S CURE FOR PIN WORMS

GIVE no more poison to your children. Do you ever think when observing the uneasy actions of your children, that the only cause of the little sufferer's illness is worms? In nineteen cases out of twenty it is so. Of all the diseases to which children are exposed none are so fatal to them as worms. In fact, children are seldom free from them, as worms imitate the symptoms of many other complaints. They often produce alarming effects without being suspected as the cause.—The only certain cure—one of nature's own remedies, a compound of nothing but Roots and Herbs—is

Mrs. Osborne's Universal Worm Powders.

They will eradicate all worms from the system, if the directions are strictly adhered to. No more filthy vermifuge will be used by those who have once used these Powders. The active principle in all other vermifuges, Worm Killers, Syrups and Medicated Lozenges, is Mercury, as any physician will tell you. Many dealers will recommend inferior preparations, and low-priced articles, affording more profit to themselves. Be sure and obtain only Mrs. Osborne's Worm Powders. Price 25 cts. per box. Sold by D. P. GROSVENOR, Main st.
South Danvers, June 17, 1863. 3m

Tillage Land and Barn to Let.

ABOUT six acres of good level Tillage Land with a Barn, situated upon the "Cross Road" in Rockville. Any one wishing to work upon land a portion or the whole of his time will find this a rare chance.
For further particulars application may be made to either of the subscribers.
S. C. BANCROFT, So. Danvers.
JOHN H. NICHOLS, Salem.
South Danvers, Ap. 22.

FLEXIBLE WALLETS,
DESIRABLE styles, adapted for treasury notes and bills—a large and attractive assortment, at
G M WHIPPLE & A A SMITH'S.

SELLING OFF! SELLING OFF!

THE undersigned intending to close up his present business at the earliest oppertunity, now offers his ENTIRE STOCK OF
Fine and Plated Jewelry,
Solid Silver Ware,
Solid Silver Ware, &c.
AT LARGELY REDUCED PRICES,
Regardless of Cost,
FOR THIRTY DAYS ONLY.
After which, all goods remaining on hand will be sold at Public Auction.
Also, for sale, all the movable fittings of said Store, including 5 solid German Silver frame Counter Show Cases; One Tilton & McFarland Fire and Burglar Proof Safe; Chairs, Desks, Stools, &c., &c.
JOSEPH J. RIDER,
2 West Block—188 Essex st.
Salem, June 17, 1863. 1m

SAUCE PANS AND KETTLES.
A full stock of Enamelled Kettles and Sauce Pans, just opened at
jy 15 S C & E A SIMONDS',
32 Front street.

CREAM ALE.
THIS Ale is highly recommended by Physicians for
FAMILY USE AND INVALIDS.
Put up in Half Barrels and Barrels,
And for sale by
J. MAGUIRE & CO.,
No. 6 Derby Square, Salem.
Also, Agent for
MASSEY & COLLINS'
PHILADELPHIA ALES,
BUCKHART'S
CREAM ALE,
And Dealer in
LONDON PORTER, SCOTCH ALE, Atkinson's Wormwood Cordial, Drake's Plantation Bitters, &c., &c.
J. MAGUIRE & CO.,
july 15 No. 6 Derby Square, Salem.

FLOUR.
100 Bbls Fagin's "Ivincible."
100 Bbls Fagin's "Keystone."
Just received and for sale by
July 29 GAYLE & CO., Phillips' Wharf.

A. J. Archer & Co

REDUCED PRICES.

A. J. ARCHER & CO.,
Offer their stock of
Summer Dress Goods,
Summer Shawls,
and Capes,
at REDUCED PRICES—to close.
Salem, july 15—tf

SUMMER SHAWLS!

We open this morning beautiful new
SUMMER SHAWLS.
— Also —
A variety of THIN DRESS GOODS;
8 4 Black Hernani and Crape Maretz;
Black Grenadine. For sale by
A. J. ARCHER & CO.,
Salem, june 3—tf.

Potter, Bachelder & Co.,
(Successors to M. Black)
DANVERS-PORT,
DEALERS IN
WOOD AND COAL

OF the various kinds usually kept in a retail yard. Constantly on hand
Franklin, Old Company's Lehigh,
Locust Mountain, Black Heath,
Red and White Ash.
Of all sizes, of the best quality, and at as low prices as can be bought elsewhere.
OFFICE—No. 6 Allen's Building.
Order Box at post office, South Danvers, and post office, Danvers.
G. W. POTTER,
J. Q. A. BACHELDER,
C. T. BATCHELDER. July 19—tf

ANN R. BRAY,
NO. 76 FEDERAL ST,
SALEM.

WE are selling out all our Black Silks;
We are selling out all our Cambric Prints;
We are selling out all our French Prints;
We are selling out all our nice Taffetas;
We are selling out all our Organdie Muslins;
We are selling out all our Lawns;
We are selling out all our Cotton Hosiery;
We are selling out all our Linen Hdkfs;
We are selling out all our Domestic Goods;
We are selling thin Dress Goods for 1s worth 25 cents;
We are selling Bleached Cottons for 12½ cts;
We are selling light Spring Prints for 1s;
We have the Quaker Skirt for ladies;
We have the Belle Point Skirt for ladies;
We have the Trail Skirt for ladies;
We have the very best Silk for Visites;
We have a full assortment of B P R Silks, which we are selling out very low.

A Card.

Having disposed of my stock and stand to Miss M. E. CRANE, I avail myself of this opportunity to request my friends and customers who have bestowed their liberal patronage upon me, to transfer the same to my successor.
In taking leave of my business friends, I would return my warmest thanks for the generous patronage I have received. I can in the highest terms recommend Miss CRANE, and would bespeak for her your kind consideration and confidence.
I would most respectfully invite those having unsettled accounts to call and adjust the same, either with Miss Crane or myself, at the old stand.
April 22, 1863. M. M. FLETCHER.

Notice.

The Subscriber having purchased of Mrs. M. M. FLETCHER her stock of Goods, and made additions to the same, is now prepared to furnish her patrons and the public with a large and fine assortment of
Millinery Goods,
which we will sell very low for cash. We hope by strict attention to business to merit a liberal share of patronage. M. E. CRANE,
ap 22 cor. of Essex and St. Peter sts.

M. A. PORTER,
MANUFACTURER TO ORDER
WATCH SPRING SKIRTS,
At 236 Essex Street,
A few doors from Washington Street,
SALEM, MASS.

SPIRITS TURPENTINE
AND Benzole Spirits, for sale at
S C & E A SIMONDS', 32 Front st.

SEWING MACHINES.

PERSONS about purchasing SEWING MACHINES will find it to their advantage to consult
JOHN H. CHOATE,
SEWING MACHINE AGENT.
Over Newman & Symonds' Store, Lowell St.
Second-hand Machines bought and sold.
South Danvers, May 13—tf

SPRING BEDS! SPRING BEDS!

ALL those that are inclined to rest their weary limbs on the most luxurious
SPRING BED
that was ever invented, are invited to call at
No. 52 Main St., South Danvers,
and there see the very best SPRING BED BOTTOM that has been offered to the public.
Not having been able at first to meet the demands, I now have the facilities to supply all orders.
Having bought the right to make and vend for the county of Essex, the subscriber would be happy to supply all those who may favor him with a call.
Rights for sale for any town or city in the county except Haverhill and Lawrence.
THOS. TRASK.
South Danvers, June 17, 1863.

George S. Walker.

SOMETHING NEW.

THE WINDSOR TIE. Every new style of Tie brought out abroad and at home, will uniformly be found in my assortment.
GEO. S. WALKER,
Dealer in Men's Furnishing Goods and Toilet Articles, Opp. Eastern Railroad Station.

LINEN COLLARS.

THE best qualities, in the latest styles, at the lowest prices, at
GEO. S. WALKER'S, 228 Essex st.

SILK SCARFS.

A FINE assortment of Real Roman Scarfs.—Also, a good imitation, for sale at
GEORGE S. WALKER'S,
Gent's Furnishing Store,
aug 5 228 Essex Street, Salem, Mass.

FIRST CLASS GOODS
AT THE LOWEST PRICES
"POPULAR PRICES."

MESSRS. BROWNING & LONG, finding that "Low Prices" are appreciated, continue offering Great Inducements.
Constantly on hand the Largest Assortment of Ladies' Furnishing Goods in the city.

MARK THE PRICES!

Good Thread Nets,	25c;
White and Unbleached Hose,	18c;
Ladies' Colored Cotton Hose,	10c;
Nice Open-work Hose,	28c;
White Misses' and Unbleached Hose,	16c;
Children's Colored Hose,	16c;
Gent's good half-Hose,	16c;
Misses' Fancy Cotton Hose,	16c;
Nice Lisle Gloves,	15c;
Ladies' Mohair Mitts,	40c;
Ladies' All-Linen Hdkfs,	13c;
All-Linen Hem-Stitched Hdkfs,	30c;
Embroidered Collars,	15c;
Nice Crape Collars,	25c;
Gent's Woven Bosoms,	8c;
Bead Nets,	25c,
Fine Combs,	2c;
Children's Mitts,	15c;
Nice Embroidered Gloves,	15c;

and many others in like comparison.

THE VERY LATEST STYLES
— OF —
NEW GOODS.

We have many Goods on hand which were bought at very low prices, and can therefore offer many Bargains.
BROWNING & LONG
Essex St., 177 Essex St.,
Salem, July 22, 1863.

Quincy Mutual Fire Insurance Co.
Available and Cash Capital $500,000.

INSURES Buildings, Merchandize and Personal Property generally, on terms as favorable as any other dividend paying company.
J. D. BLACK, Agent,
april 22—1y At Danversport.

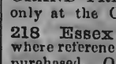
Merrimack Mutual Fire Insurance Co., Andover, Mass.

ONE of the OLD AND RELIABLE OFFICES.
J. D. BLACK is Agent for Danvers and South Danvers. apr 22—1y

VALUABLE REAL ESTATE.

THE Subscriber offers for sale on favorable terms,—or would exchange for a Farm,—his Estate on Wallis Street, near the Monumental Cemetary, consisting of THREE DWELLING HOUSES, which will be sold separately or as one Estate.
There are 75 feet of land in front, and 72 feet in the rear of the house.
The situation is pleasant, in a good neighborhood, and the houses are supplied with all the conveniences for immediate occupation. In ordinary times these tenements would rent for from 330 to 350 dollars.
The Subscriber, having made up his mind to dispose of the property, will sell it low, and it is well worth the attention of purchasers.
Apply to JOHN M'NEAL.
South Danvers, Dec. 10th, 1862. tf.

THE PIANO FORTES



THAT have attracted so much attention of late, and are so much admired on account of their SPLENDID FULL, RICH, MELLOW TONE, and GRAND FRENCH ACTION, are for sale only at the Office of the Agent,
218 Essex Street, Salem, Mass.,
where reference may be had to many who have purchased. Other Piano Fortes also, are for sale, varying in price from $180 upwards. Please call.
Mch 11 6m S. MACKINTIRE, Agent.

Choice Spring Pigs for Sale.

THE subscriber offers for sale nice PIGS of Mackie Prince Albert and Chester County breeds, of which the Mackie took the First Premium at the late Cattle Show. Prices reasonable.
BYRON GOODALE,
Near Tapley's Brook,
South Danvers, April 22, 1863. tf

PHOTOGRAPH ALBUMS.

A FULL assortment constantly on hand.
G M WHIPPLE & A A SMITH.

NEW BOOKS,
AT G. M. WHIPPLE & A. A. SMITH'S.

WAR Pictures from the South, by B Estvan, Colonel of Cavalry in the Confederate Army;
Cattle and their Diseases, by Rbt Jennings, V. S.;
The Tiger Slayer, a Tale of the Indian Desert, by Gustave Aimard.
jy 22 Sign of the Five Golden Books.

SUMMER EXCURSIONS.

EASTMAN'S White Mountain Guide;
Map of Massachusetts with Railroads and Town ships;
Map of New England, New York and Canada, with Railroads and Townships;
Appleton's Companion Hand-Book of travel;
Books from the Circulating Library at half-price. For sale by
G M WHIPPLE & A A SMITH.

LINSEED OIL, &C.

PURE Linseed Oil and Varnishes, of al kinds, at
S C & E A SIMONDS', 32 Front st.

WHITE LEAD IN PAILS.

1000 POUNDS New York White Lead in pails of 25 lbs. each, just received at S C & E A SIMONDS',

VARNISHES.

COACH Varnish; Furniture and Damar Varnish, of the best quality, at je 17 S C & E A SIMONDS', 32 Front st.

FRUIT BASKETS.

WHITE China and White Granite Fruit Baskets—at
S. C. & E. A. SIMONDS', 32 Front st.

EMANCIPATION HYMN.

QUARTETTE and Chorus—composed and dedicated by permission to the Salem Union League, Manuel Fenollosa—for sale by
jy 15 G M WHIPPLE & A A SMITH.

☞ If you want to SAVE MONEY, in purchasing Goods, go to COLMAN'S, No. 10 Front street, Salem. ap30-

Auction Sales.

WILLIAM ARCHER, Jr.,
Auctioneer, Real Estate and Stock Broker
34 Front Street.
Real Estate, Bank, Railroad and Manufactur Stock bought and sold on Commission.
ON SATURDAY NEXT, at 9 1-2 o'clock will be sold at No. 34 Front street:
At Private Sale.

D. P. GROSVENOR, Jr.,

Druggist and Apothecary
88 MAIN STREET.
Dealer in Drugs, Medicines, Chemicals, Dye Stuffs, and Popular Proprietary Medicines.
Personal attention to Physicians' Prescriptions.
South Danvers, May 29, 1861. 1y

GEO. E. MEACOM

Dealer in
DRUGS & MEDICINES,
Fancy & Toilet Articles, &c
126 MAIN ST. 126
Nearly opposite Danvers Bank, So. Danvers

T. A. SWEETSER

Druggist & Apothecary
37 Main St., So. Danvers
DEALER IN
Drugs, Medicines, Chemicals, Foreign Leeches, Shakers Herbs, Dye Stuffs, Gums, Acids, Sponges, Shoulder Braces, Trusses, and Genuine Patent Medicines.
Also, Imported Cigars of choice brands, Perfumery, Toilet Articles and Stationery.
Physicians' Prescriptions carefully prepared by experienced persons.
37 MAIN STREET.

GRACE'S CELEBRATED SALVE

A SURE RELIEF FOR THE SUFFERER.

This Salve is a vegetable preparation, invented in the 17th century, by DR. WM. GRACE, surgeon in King James's army. Through its agency he cured thousands of most serious sores and wounds that baffled the skill of the most eminent physicians of his day, and was regarded by all who knew him as a public benefactor.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Burns.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Scalds.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Flesh Wounds.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Corns.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Felons.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Frozen Limbs.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Wens.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Callouses.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Salt Rheum.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Chilblains.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Sore Breast.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Sore Lips.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Erysipelas Sores.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Abscesses.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Ulcers.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Chapped Hands.
Grace's Celebrated Salve cures Ringworms.
And from Sores and Wounds of the most serious nature down to a common Pimple. It eradicates Pimples from the face, and beautifies the skin. There is no preparation before the public that can equal this Salve in prompt and energetic action for the speedy cure of external diseases, as those who have tried its virtues testify. Soldiers, Sailors, and Fishermen, will find this Salve their best friend.
It has none of the irritating, heating properties of other remedies, but cools, cleanses, and heals the most serious Sores and Wounds. Every family, and especially those containing children, should keep a box on hand in case of accident, for it will save them much trouble, suffering, and money. All it wants is a fair trial to cure old and inveterate Sores.
MANUFACTURED BY
WILLIAM GRACE,
ANDOVER, MASS.
Price 25 cents, 50 cents, and $1 per box. A great saving is made by taking the large size.
Each box has the above cut and the fac-simile of the proprietor's signature attached to it, which is duly copy righted.
Geo. C. Goodwin & Co., 11 and 12 Marshall street; Weeks & Potter, 170 Washington street, and M. S. Burr & Co., 26 Tremont street, Boston, Wholesale Agents.
For sale by D. P. Grosvenor, T. A Sweetser and George E. Meacom, Druggists, Main street, South Danvers, and at country stores everywhere.

FLOUR.
200 BBLS. Arcade Mills, received this day—for sale by jy 22 GAYLE & CO, Phillips Wharf.

FLOUR.
100 BRLS. Jordan Mills, rec'd this day For sale by jy 22 GAYLE & CO, Phillips Wharf.

FLOUR.
100 BBLS. Fagin's Invincible, rec'd this day—for sale by
jy 22 GAYLE & CO., Phillips Wharf.

SHOULD BE IN EVERY HOUSEHOLD

FAITH Gartney's Girlhood. Just the Book for family reading. The authoress says: "I began this book for young girls. It has grown as they grow, to womanhood. It makes no artistic pretensions. It is a simple record of something of the thought and life that lies between fourteen and twenty; I dedicate it to those young girls who dream and wish and strive and err, and find perhaps little help to interpret their own spirits to themselves—may there be something that shall lift them, though ever so little, up!"
One vol, 12mo, fine paper and clear print, at
jy 29 G M WHIPPLE & A A SMITH.

JUST PUBLISHED,

LIGHT, by Helen Modet; Little Ones in the Fold, by Rev. Edward Payson Hammond; The Senses—illustrated;
Lessons from Insect Life, with illustrations;
The Atlantic Monthly; Harper's Magazine;
Eclectic Magazine; Godey's do;
Frank Leslie's Gazette; Peterson's do;
for August. Subscriptions received for all Periodicals, and numbers promptly delivered, and single numbers for sale by
jy 29 G M WHIPPLE & A A SMITH.

WHITE LEAD AND LINSEED OIL,

OF the best quality—for sale at
S C & E A SIMONDS', 32 Front st.

LAVA WARE.

LAVA Tea Sets, Vases, &c. Also, Parian Ware—at
jy 29 S C & E A SIMONDS', 32 Front St.

TO THE PEOPLE OF MASSACHUSETTS.

In the present public emergency, when those who are combined against the government of our country, and the liberties of our people, emboldened by their long persistence in opposing the restoration of law and order at the South, and rendered desperately their dangers and disasters in Tennessee and on the Mississippi, are making a final effort to invade the hitherto free territory of the Middle States, the President has called for an additional force to repel the invasion, to put down forever the rebellion, which is distracting our common country, and restore peace in the only manner in which it can ever be restored—by a determined and vigorous prosecution of the war.

Under the authority of General Orders, No. 191 of the War Department, volunteer infantry, cavalry and artillery may be enlisted, from the present time until the 23d of September next, who will constitute a force, to be designated "Veteran Volunteers," and to serve for three years or during the war. They must be men who have served at least nine months; and all who have served for that length of time, whether they originally enlisted for nine months or for any longer period, have the privilege, now, of re-enlisting, and receiving the additional bounty which is offered.

The bounty and premium for this re-enlistment amount to four hundred and two dollars for each soldier, in addition to the monthly pay. One month's pay will be paid in advance, on being mustered into service. The bounty and premium, in addition to the monthly pay, will be $27 on being mustered in, $50 more in two months, $50 more in six months, $50 more after one year, $50 more after eighteen months, $50 more after two years, $50 more after two years and a half, and $75 more at the expiration of three years' service. And if the war should not last three years from the present time, still the whole bounty will be paid to those who shall have served to the end; and if they die in service their heirs will receive it.

The expiration of the terms of enlistment of our nine month's troops affords an opportunity for a renewed display of patriotic zeal and devotion, in again enlisting under the banners of the Republic and filling the ranks of our veteran regiments.

A soldier who has seen nine months of actual service is of more value than two new recruits, and a new recruit who enlists in an old regiment in the field becomes of more value there than three who enlist in new and untried levies.

Favorable opportunities are also presented for officers whose terms are expiring, and who have shown by their bravery and good conduct, that they were worthy of the trusts committed to them, to raise new companies and regiments, within sixty days, and thus to be again commissioned, and to render their skill and experience once more available to the country. For the time thus spent in recruiting, under proper authority from the State Excutive, they will receive the pay belonging to their rank.

To the nine months' volunteers, whose time of service is now closing, an earnest appeal is now made to re-enlist. Now is the time, when effectual and decisive blows are to be struck for the achievement of permanent success. Now is the most important crisis, the golden opportunity, which should be seized upon with alacrity and determination. All that is wanting to end the rebellion, is the present and timely aid of tried and experienced soldiers. We have the men among us; they are coming home from their brave and honorable toils and exposures;—from fields where they have shown themselves worthy of our confidence and our praise. Let us now witness again the same alacrity, spirit and earnest patriotism which distinguished the earlier days of the war; and the assurance of success, which this time shall be permanent and decisive, will crown our labors and sacrifices for our country.

Opportunities for enlisting are not confined to those who have been in service. All who wish may enlist—(and all who will, are called and urged to come)—either in new organizations, or, what is far more preferable, in the old regiments now in the field; although the large amount of bounty, mentioned in the General Orders just issued, is only offered to those who have served at least nine months. All are called upon, the new and inexperienced recruit, as well as the veteran soldier; and all will be welcomed to the service.

Instructions for the appointment of recruiting officers, and for enlisting veteran volunteers, have been issued by the War Department, and are this day promulgated by the Adjutant General of Massachusetts. Those who would re-enlist should give immediate notice. Those who wish to recruit, either for our veteran three years' regiments and batteries now in the field, or for the recruitment of nine months' troops re-organizing for three years' service, are invited to report in writing to the Adjutant General of Massachusetts, without delay.

It is my earnest desire to encourage to the utmost the enlistment of all who are willing, but especially the officers and men of every existing corps, to recruit their ranks and to march anew. I know the immeasurable value such veterans would be to the service, especially at an hour like this. And if I could imagine a word which might add impression to the events now crowding upon the scenes of war, or could emphasize, by ever so little, the weight of those transactions visible to every eye, I would attempt its utterance. But the day has come when words are weak, and exhortations feeble and vain.

The voice of our brothers' blood cries to us from the ground, from a hundred battle fields and from fair valleys now torn and trampled by the hoofs of invading foes. The cannon thunders the inexorable call; and the flames on the banks of the Susquehannah light the way to Duty.

Men of Massachusetts! Sooner or later, this rebellion shall be crushed; this horrible crime against our country, against the order and very existence of a government of peaceful law, against society and against human nature itself, shall be overtaken by a punishment as terrible as the crime. The people will one day inflict the blow, which history will record and mankind will recognize as the vengeance of God. Will they do it only when worn with delay wearied with defeats, and desperate with suffering, or will they do it NOW? Now, in the dignity, the majesty, and the calm of their glorious might, while their eye is not dim, nor their strength abated!

And finally—to all the people of Massachusetts, let me make the appeal. On this, the eve of our national anniversary of Independence, let me appeal to every patriotic and manly heart in our venerable Commonwealth! I pray you to dedicate yourselves anew to-morrow, by the altar of your country, to your country's service; and the next,—the Sabbath day of our Christian religion, in holier hours repeat your vows. Assemble yourselves and take counsel of each other. In your primary assemblies, warm, stimulate, encourage and instruct one another as patriot and loyal hearts must and always will do, when they approach each other. Arouse each man his neighbor; and let the slumbering echoes of every hillside in the Commonwealth ring with the shouts of courageous freemen, exulting in the glorious privilege of living now, in these great days for Valor, for the love of Liberty, of Man, and of God.

JOHN A. ANDREW.
Governor of Massachusetts.

COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS.

HEADQUARTERS, Boston, July 3, 1863.
GENERAL ORDER, No, 14.

The accompanying General Orders, No. 191 of the War Department of the United States, and the Circular of Instructions of the Provost Marshal General, dated June 29, 1863, are hereby promulgated; and the attention of all the loyal citizens of Massachusetts, and particularly those officers and men who have returned and are returning from active service, is earnestly invoked, to their provisions.

By order of JOHN A. ANDREW, Governor and Commander-in-Chief.

WM. SCHOULER,
Adjutant General.

GENERAL ORDERS—No. 191.

WAR DEPARTMENT,
ADJUTANT GENERAL'S OFFICE,
Washington, June 25, 1863.

For Recruiting Veteran Volunteers

In order to increase the armies now in the field, volunteer infantry, cavalry and artillery may be enlisted at any time within ninety days from this date, in the respective States under the regulations hereinafter mentioned. The volunteers enlisted, and such of the three years' troops now in the field as may re-enlist in accordance with the provisions of this order, will constitute a force to be designated "Veteran Volunteers." The regulations for enlisting this force are as follows:—

I. The period of service for the enlistments and re-enlistments above mentioned shall be for three years or during the war.

II. All able-bodied men, between the ages of eighteen and forty-five years, who have heretofore been enlisted, and have served for not less than nine months, and can pass the examination required by the mustering regulations of the United States, may be enlisted under this Order as Veteran Volunteers, in accordance with the provisions hereinafter set forth.

III. Every volunteer enlisted and mustered into service as a Veteran, under this Order, shall be entitled to receive from the United States one month's pay in advance, and a bounty and premium of four hundred and two ($402) dollars, to be paid as follows:—

1 Upon being mustered into service, he shall be paid one month's pay in advance,	$13 00
First instalment of bounty,	25 00
Premium,	2 00
Total payment on muster,	$40 00
2 At the first regular pay day, or two months after muster in, an additional instalment of bounty will be paid,	$50 00
3 At the first regular pay day after six months' service, he shall be paid an additional instalment of bounty,	$50 00
4 At the first regular pay day after the end of the first year's service, an additional instalment of bounty will be paid,	$50 00
5 At the first regular pay day after eighteen months' service, an additional instalment of bounty will be paid,	$50 00
6 At the first regular pay day after two years' service, an additional instalment of bounty will be paid,	$50 00
7 At the first regular pay day after two and a half years' service, an additional instalment of bounty will be paid,	$50 00
8 At the expiration of three years' service, the remainder of the bounty will be paid,	$75 00

IV. If the Government shall not require these troops for the full period of three years, and they shall be mustered honorably out of service before the expiration of their term of enlistment, they shall receive, upon being mustered out, the whole amount of bounty remaining unpaid, the same as if the full term had been served. The legal heirs of volunteers who die in service shall be entitled to receive the whole bounty remaining unpaid at the time of the soldier's death.

V. Veteran Volunteers enlisted under this order will be permitted at their option to enter old regiments now in the field; but their service will continue for the full term of their own enlistment, notwithstanding the expiration of the term for which the regiment was originally enlisted. New organizations will be officered only by persons who have been in service, and have shown themselves properly qualified for command. As a badge of honorable distinction, "service cheverons" will be furnished by the War Department, to be worn by the Veteran Volunteers.

VI. Officers of regiments whose terms have expired, will be authorized on proper application, and approval of their respective Governors, to raise companies and regiments within the period of sixty days; and if the company or regiment authorized to be raised shall be filled up and mustered into service within the said period of sixty days, the officers may be recommissioned of the date of their original commissions, and for the time engaged in recruiting they will be entitled to receive the pay belonging to their rank.

VII. Volunteers or militia, now in service, whose term of service will expire within ninety days, and who shall then have been in service at least nine months, shall be entitled to the aforesaid bounty and premium of $402 provided they re-enlist, before the expiration of their present term, for three years or the war; and said bounty and premium shall be paid in the manner herein provided for other troops re-entering the service. The new term will commence from date of re-enlistment.

VIII. After the expiration of ninety days from this date, volunteers serving in three years' organizations, who may re-enlist for three years or the war, shall be entitled to the aforesaid bounty and premium of $402, to be paid in the manner herein provided for other troops re-entering the service. The new term will commence from date of re-enlistment.

IX. Officers in service, whose regiments or companies may re-enlist, in accordance with the provisions of this order, before the expiration of their present term, shall have their commissions continued so as to preserve their date of rank, as fixed by their original muster into United States service.

X. As soon after the expiration of their original term of enlistment as the exigencies of the service will permit, a furlough of thirty days will be granted to men who may re-enlist in accordance with the provisions of this order.

XI. Volunteers enlisted under this order will be credited as three years' men in the quota of their respective States. Instructions for the appointment of recruiting officers and for enlisting Veteran Volunteers will be immediately issued to the Governors of states.

By order of the Secretary of War:
E. D. TOWNSEND.
Assistant Adjutant General.

[CIRCULAR.]

PROVOST MARSHAL GENERAL'S OFFICE,
WASHINGTON, June 29, 1863.

His Excellency the Governor of Massachusetts, Boston, Massachusetts:

Sir—Under General Orders No 191, current series, from the War Department, you are hereby authorized to raise four regiments Veteran Volunteer Infantry, and three batteries Veteran Volunteer Artillery.

In addition to the requirements of the General Orders cited, the following instructions will govern:

I. Under par. III of the Orders, all men, before they can re enter the service, must produce an honorable discharge from the service, of the usual form.

II. Under par. IV of the Orders, the advance pay, first instalment of bounty and premium, will be paid as directed in General Orders No 163, current series, from the Adjutant General's office.

The additional instalments of bounty will be paid under the regulations of the Pay Department, by Paymasters when they make the periodical payments of the troops. The final instalment or remainder of the bounty will be paid on the muster-out rolls, at the expiration of the term.

III. All volunteers who enlist for regiments in the field will be provided for, and forwarded to their commands by the Superintendent of the Recruiting Service of the State, in the same manner as recruits sent heretofore.

IV. For such new organizations as you may raise, the requirements of General Order of No 75 of 1862 will govern. If you conclude to reorganize regiments or companies, the officers of the regiments or companies, will act as recruiting officers. Should they reorganize their commands within the period of sixty days they will be paid according to their rank on the muster and pay rolls of their regiments and companies; should they fail, the requirements of Sec. 2, Part 1, of General Orders 75 of 1862 will be applied to them. In other respects, the requirements of General Order 75 will govern the recruitment.

V. In selecting officers, the selections will necessarly have to be made from two classes, viz:

1st, Those honorably discharged, "by expiration of service" of the organization with which they served.

2d, Those honorably discharged, by resignation or otherwise, prior to "expiration of service" of their organization.

The selections from the 1st Class can be made by you, without reference to this Department, in accordance with your usual rules.—In selecting from the Second, the approval of the War Department will be necessary. To this end, you will please submit to the Adjutant General of the Army, for the action of the War Department, the names of such officers as you may select from this class.

In doing this you will first assure yourself that they were honorably discharged, and, if the discharge was on account of physical disability, a certificate from the Surgeon General of your State, to the effect that the applicant has fully recovered, and is able to undergo the fatigues of a campaign, must accompany the application to reappoint. The report received, you will be authorized to recommission, provided the records of the War Department show that the military history of the officer will justify it.

VI. Re-enlistments under paragraphs 8 and 9 will be conducted under the immediate orders of the War Department, through the Adjutant General of the Army. These orders will be communicated to the Generals Commanding the Armies and Departments, and their re-enlistments and consequent re-musters will be under the supervision of the Commissaries and Assistant Commissaries of Musters for the Army or Department.

I have the honor to be, Sir,
Very respectfully,
Your obedient servant,
JAMES B. FRY,
July 22, 1863. 3t Provost Marshal General.

Cards.

WILLIAM G. CHOATE,
Attorney and Counsellor at Law,
251 Essex St., Salem.
Salem, August 6, 1862. tf

THOMAS M. STIMPSON,
Attorney and Counsellor at Law,
194 ESSEX STREET, SALEM.
Residence Lowell street, South Danvers.

B. C. PERKINS,
Attorney and Counsellor at Law,
South Danvers—Office in Allen's Building.

JOHN W. PROCTOR
Counsellor at Law,
Office near the Monument.

A. A. PUTNAM,
Attorney and Counsellor at Law,
CORNER MAPLE AND ELM ST.,
DANVERS.

ALFRED A. ABBOTT,
Attorney and Counsellor,
Office, No. 24 Washington Street, Salem;
House, Main St., So. Danvers.

IVES & PEABODY,
Attorneys and Counsellors at Law,
Have removed their Office to
Rooms formerly occupied by Hon. Otis P. Lord,
NO. 27 WASHINGTON STREET, SALEM,
STEPHEN B. IVES, Jr. JOHN. B. PEABODY

SIDNEY C. BANCROFT,
Attorney and Counsellor at Law,
27 Washington Street, Salem.

H. O. WILEY,
Attorney and Counsellor at Law,
Office, Allen's Building, So. Danvers.

Claims against the Government for Bounty Back Pay, and Pensions, promptly attended to

A. S. CRAWFORD:
Dentist,
No. 4 MAIN STREET, So. DANVERS SQUARE
Mechanical Dentistry Neatly Executed.
Teeth Extracted by Electricity without Extra Charge

W. L. BOWDOIN,
SURGEON DENTIST,
No, 208 Essex Street, Salem, (Opposite the Marke
Residence—No. 57 Washington street.
jan 1—ly

F. POOLE
INSURANCE AGENT,
Allen's Building (up stairs).
Deeds drawn, and other common forms.

NEWMAN & SYMONDS,
DEALERS IN
Family Groceries, Flour & Grain,
HARD WARE AND CROCKERY,
Ready Made Clothing, Gents' Furnishing Goods, Hats, Caps, Boots, Shoes, &c.,
South Danvers Square, opp. Congregational Church
SAM'L NEWMAN. NATH'L SYMONDS.

S. C. & E. A. SIMONDS,
DEALERS IN
Crockery, China and Hardware; Paper Hangings; Solar and Entry Lamps; Paints, Oil, and Window Glass.
No. 32 Front street, Lawrence Place,
feb13 SALEM, MASS.

HENRY L. WHIDDEN,
HOUSE AND SIGN PAINTER,
Glazier and Paperer,
Central Street, South Danvers.
All orders promptly and faithfully executed.
jan2-1y

E. S. FLINT,
DEALER IN
West India Goods, Country Podnce,
No. 2 Main Street, South Danvers.

JESSE SMITH
No. 262 Essex Street, Salem,
Importer and Dealer in
Gold and Silver Watches,
MARINE CHRONOMETERS,
Aneroid Barometers, Spy Glasses, &c.

WILLIAM BLANEY,
HOUSE & SIGN PAINTER
Grainer, Glazier and Paper Hanger.
164 MAIN STREET, Corner of Grove.
WINDOWS and BLINDS cheap for cash.
mch6-tf

JOHN MOULTON,
LIVERY STABLE,
Central Street, South Danvers.
Mr. M. will endeavor to keep up the good reputation of his stable, by still keeping good Horses and Carriages, jan 7, 1863.

THE CONFESSIONS AND EXPERIENCE OF A NERVOUS YOUNG MAN.—Published as a warning and for the especial benefit of young men, and those who suffer with Nervous Debility, Loss of Memory, Premature Decay, etc., etc., by one who has cured himself by simple means, after being put to great expense and inconvenience, through the use of worthless medicines prescribed by learned Doctors. Single copies may be had (free) of the author, C. A. Lambert, Esq., Greenpoint, Long Island, by enclosing an addressed envelope. Address
CHARLES A. LAMBERT, Greenpoint, Long Island, New York.

New Jersey Lands for Sale,

—ALSO—

GARDEN OR FRUIT FARMS,

Suitable for Grapes, Peaches, Pears, Raspberries, Strawberries, Blackberries, Currants, &c., of 1, 2½, 5, 10 or 20 acres each, at the following prices for the present, viz: 20 acres for $200, 10 acres for $110, 5 acres for $60, 2½ acres for $40, 1 acre for $20. Payable by one dollar a week.

Also, good Cranberry lands, and village lots in CHETWOOD 25 by 100 feet, at $10 each, payable by one dollar a week. The above land and farms are situated at Chetwood, Washington Township, Burlington, New Jersey. For further information, apply with a P. O. Stamp, for a circular, to
B. FRANKLIN CLARK,
feb 18, 1863 No. 90 Cedar St, Now York, N. Y.

TERRIBLE DISCLOSURES—SECRETS FOR THE MILLION!—A most valuable and wonderful publication. A work of 400 pages, and 30 colored engravings, DR. HUNTER'S VADE MECUM, an original and popular treatise on Man and Woman, their Physiology, Functions, and Sexual Disorders of every kind, with Never-Failing Remedies for their speedy cure. The practice of Dr. Hunter has long been, and still is, unbounded, but at the earnest solicitation of numerous persons, he has been induced to extend his medical usefulness through the medium of his "Vade Mecum." It is a volume that should be in the hands of every family in the land, as a preventive of secret vices, or as a guide for the alleviation of one of the most awful and destructive scourges ever visited mankind. One copy, securely enveloped, will be forwarded free of postage to any part of the United States for 50 cents in post office stamps or 3 copies for $1. Address, post paid, DR. HUNTER, No. 3 Dvision Street, New York. je 3—ly

---

Miscellaneous.

W. E. P. SMYTH,
Attorney and Counsellor at Law,
Proctor in Admiralty, and Commissioner of Deeds for the several States.
Frazier's Building, over the Post Office,
LYNN, MASS.

Having peculiar means for prosecuting, with accuracy and dispatch, all claims against Government, especially those for Bounty, Back Pay and Pensions, I have made this a specialty. Several months' residence in Washington enabled me to become thoroughly conversant with the routine of business in all the Departments, through which claims, of whatever nature, are passed, and also familiar with the practice in the U. S. Court of Claims; in addition to which I have a partner there resident, and a former partner in the Treasury Department, which advantages give me unexcelled facilities for the successful prosecution of business in any way connected with Government.

Important to Soldiers, Marines and their Heirs.

Persons enlisted in the U. S. Service, Land or Naval, since March 1, 1861, if disabled in the service, are entitled to Pension; Relatives of Persons deceased in the service are entitled to Bounty and Pension; in the following

1st. The
2d. The
3d. The F
4th. The Mot er.
5th The Brothers and Sisters collectively.

LETTERS OF ISTRATION need net be taken on, in ordinary c to enable heirs of persons deceased in the serv c to obtain Pensions and Bounty.

When a discharge is granted for disability, in no case should the Oath of Identity on the back of the Discharge be filled up. The safest course is, to carry all papers at once to an Attorney, without tampering with them. All those who have claims, should present them without delay, as soon, the pressure will be so great upon the Auditor's Office, by reason of numerous applications, that applicants will be subjected to vexatious delay in getting their claims audited.

NO CHARGE MADE UNTIL CLAIMS ARE PAID.

Claims left at the Post Office, South Danvers, will be promptly forwarded.

Lynn, Aug 27, 1862—1v

PATTERSON S
LEATHER HANDLING MACHINE

THE undersigned are agents for the above machine. It can be seen in operation at Pinder & Brown's Tannery.

may 7—3m. CLARK & GIDDINGS.

MESSRS. CLARK & GIDDINGS,
Wallis Street, South Danvers,
Are Agents for
GEORGE W. FISKE & CO.'S
PATENT EAVE TROUGHS
GUTTERS, CONDUCTORS AND
PIPE FOR DRAINS.
South Danvers, May 22, 1861.

R. C. MANNING & CO,
Successors to JOHN DIKE & CO.,
DEALERS IN
COAL, WOOD, BARK, HAY, &c,
183 DERBY STREET,
SALEM, MASS.
N. C. ROBBINS, R. C. MANNING.
oct17

E. N. PRICE,
Manufacturer and Dealer in
HARNESSES,
SADDLES, BRIDLES,
AND WHIPS.
—ALSO—
Trunks, Valises and Traveling Bags.
All orders for Manufacturing and Repairing executed with promptness, and in the best manner.
237 Essex Street, Salem, Mass.
mch13-tf

CURRIER & MILLETT,
Dealers in
Furniture, Chairs,
MATTRESSES, FEATHERS, &c
259 & 261 ESSEX ST.
Salem, dec 14—1y

AARON T. LOWE,
DEALER IN
BOOTS, SHOES AND RUBBERS,
76 BOSTON STREET, 76.
aug 6 SALEM. tf

CLASS WARE.
CUT and Pressed Glass Goblets; Tumblers; Dishes, etc, just opened at
S C & E A SIMONDS' 32 Front st.

TABLE MATS.
SHAKER Table Mats—for sale by
may 27 S C & E A SIMONDS.

CHINA WARE;
GOLD Band China Tea Ware; White and Lustre China do—at
S. C. & E. A. SIMONDS', 32 Front st.

Dr. Ham's Spirit.

H. & H. G. HUBON,
WASHINGTON STREET, SALEM
Manufacturers of
Rose Wood, Mahogany, Black Walnut and Stained Wood
COFFINS and CASKETS.
MAKING this our exclusive business, we are ready at all times and at the shortest notice to furnish Grave Clothes of various styles, as well as Coffins and Caskets of the finest finish. Personal attention given, and delivered without extra charge to any of the neighboring towns. All orders by express or otherwise will receive prompt attention.
Black Walnut and White Wood Boards, Plank and Joists for sale.
dec 14—tf

GAYLE & CO.,
GENERAL COMMISSION MERCHANTS,
DEALERS IN
Flour, Grain and Produce,
Manufacturers' Agents for the sale of
Concentrated Leaven, Soda and Pearlash Saleratus, and Bi Carb. Soda.
PHILLIPS WHARF, Salem.

T. HARDY, JR.,
—Dealer in—
DOORS, SASHES, BLINDS,
Glazed Sash, Painted Blinds,
FENCE PALES, STAIR BALUSTERS, FRAMING PINS, &c.,
No. 26 FRONT STREET,
Salem, January 14, 1863—6m

HEYLINGBERG'S
Hair Dressing Saloon,
24 MAIN ST., SOUTH DANVERS.
TARIFF OF PRICES:

Shaving,	6 cts.
Hair Cutting,	12 cts.
Champooing,	15 cts.
Champooing and Hair Cutting,	25 cts.

No more new Quarterly Customers taken. In consequence of the scarcity of Change, 18 checks will be sold for one dollar.
South Danvers, Dec 17, 1862.

THOMAS DAVIS,
ADVERTISING AGENT
For the principal New England Newspapers, remains at the old stand, No. 23 Cornhill, Boston, where you will find him still loyal to the Constitution, the Laws, and Advertising. tf
Boston, Jan 29, 1862.

WALKING MADE EASY.

DR. P. KENISON,
CHIROPODIST,
215 Washington St., Boston,
Cures Hard and Soft Corns, Bunions, Club Nails, Nails penetrating the Flesh, Warts, &c., in a manner that will satisfy the most incredulous.

SPEED, COMFORT AND SAFETY!

FOR NEW YORK.
Norwich Steamboat Train.
The only Boats Landing at Jersey City.

CABIN Passage, $5.00; Deck Passage, $4.00. The new and elegant sixteen wheel cars of the steamboat express train leave the Boston & Worcester Railroad Station, Albany Street., at 5½ P. M., daily, connecting with the new steamers, (built expressly for this line,) CITY OF BOSTON, Capt. WILCOX, Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays; CITY OF NEW YORK, Capt. JEWETT, Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays, which (before proceeding to their Pier, No. 39 North River,) will touch at the wharf of the New Jersey Railroad at Jersey City, (Sundays excepted) thus enabling Southern Passengers to make sure connections with the First Southern Train, and at the same time avoid the great annoyance of the Ferry and Hack transportation in the crowded streets of New York. This insures ample time for Breakfast before the trains leave. Conductors D. F. WALLER and W. F. BARTON accompany the passengers through.

Tickets, Berths and Staterooms secured at the Railroad Station, and at the Office of the line, 79 Washington Street, Boston.

Through tickets to Philadelphia, Baltimore and Washington can be had at 79 Washington Street, Boston. WM. DICKEY, JR., Agent.
Boston, January 7, 1863.

Chickering & Sons' Piano-Fortes.
Hallett & Cumston's Piano-Fortes.
Hallett & Davis's Piano-Fortes.

We select our Piano-Fortes from the above firms and warrant them to give perfect satisfaction. Our terms are reasonable, and all persons in the city and neighboring towns can be accommodated by calling at 76 Federal street.
FOR SALE—Second-hand Piano-Fortes,—Chickering's and others.
ap 29 ANN R. BRAY.

D. W. BOWDOIN,
—ARTIST IN—
PHOTOGRAPHIC PICTURES.
Rooms No. 175 Essex st, Salem, [Downing's Block]
Portraits, Miniatures, and Views, by the Ambrotypo, Daguerreotype, Photograph and Stereoscope process—finished in India Ink, Oil and Water colors.
☞ Particular attention paid to restoring old Daguerreotypes, and other pictures—and making enlarged copies, highly finished. may

---

E. S. FLINT,
Manufacturer and Dealer in
INNER SOLES,
AND SHOE STIFFENINGS OF ALL KINDS,
2 MAIN STREET, SOUTH DANVERS.

JOHN FARRELL,
DRAPER AND TAILOR,
HAVING removed to his old place of business, 138 MAIN ST., South Danvers, (over Batchelder's Grocery Store), is prepared to Cut, Make, Repair, or furnish Garments, for Men and Youths at short notice.
South Danvers, April 1. tf

E. R. PERKINS,
PHOTOGRAPHIC ARTIST
241 Essex Street, Salem.
Patent Ambrotypes, Stereoscopes,
Photographs, Sphercotypes, Melainotypes, and patent leather Pictures, of varous sizes, taken with all the improvements of the art. Portraits, Miniatures, Engravings, &c., accuratcly copied. Views taken when desired. jan 11

FRANKLIN COAL.
JUST landed, a cargo of FRANKLIN COAL—the best in the world for domestic use.
POTTER, BACHELDER & CO.,
Successors to M. Black, Jr.
Danversport, May 6, 1861. tf

THOMAS PINNOCK,
SLATER,
SALEM, MASS.
Orders may be left at his Yard, No. 25 Peabody St., or at his house No. 6 Hancock street, South Salem,
Roofs covered with any kind of Slates, according to order. All work warranted.
Salem, May 7, 1862. tf

SOUTH DANVERS POST OFFICE.

GENERAL MAIL ARRANGEMENT.

MAILS CLOSE
At 10 3-4 A. M., and 4 3-4 P. M.

MAILS DUE
At 9 1-2 A. M., and 3 P. M.

Post Office open (Sundays excepted) from 7 o'clock, A. M., till 8 P. M. Saturdays open till 8 1-2 P. M.

F. POOLE, P. M.
South Danvers, Oct. 1, 1862.

Eastern Railroad.

ON and after MONDAY, April 6, 1863, Trains will leave the Eastern Railroad Station, Washington street, Salem, daily. (Sundays excepted):

For Lynn and Boston, *5.50, 7, 8½, 9, *10, 11 a m., 1, *2½ 5½, 7½ p. m.
Beverly, 8½ am., 1, 3½, 3½, 5½, 6.55, 7½ p m.
W. Beach, Manr, Gloucester, and Rockport, 8½ a m., 3½, 5½ p m.
Ipswich and Newburyport, 8½ a m., 1, 3½, 5½, 6.55 p m.
Amesbury, 8½ a m., 1, 5½ p m.
Portsmouth, 8½ a m., 3½, 5½ p m.
Portland, 8½ a m., 3½ p m.

AND FOR SALEM, FROM
Portland, 8½ a m., 3 p m.
Portsmouth, 7½, †11½ a m., †5½ p m.
Amesbury, 7.35, 9.40 a m., 5.50 p m.
Newburyport, 7, 8, 10 a m., 12 m, 6½ p m.
Ipswich, 7.25, 8.25, 10.25 a m., 12.25, 6.40 p m.
Gloucester, 7, 10, 10 10 a m., 4.40 p m.
Manchester, 7.25, 10.25 a m., 4.55 p m.
Beverly, 6.50, 7.50, 8.50, 10.50 a m., 12.50, 5.20, 7.05 pm.
Lynn, 8.05, *9.05, 11.05 a m., 12.50, *1.35, 3.05, *3.35, *4.35, 5.35, *6.20, 5½, *7.35, *10.05 p m.
Boston, 7½, *8½, 10½ a m., 12½, 2½, 3, *4, 5, 6.10, *7, *9½.

*Via Saugus Branch.
†Or on arrival from the East.
‡On Wednesdays this train leaves Boston at 11½ p m. and on Saturdays at 10½ p m.

MARBLEHEAD BRANCH.
Marblehead for Salem, 6½, 7½, 8½, 9½ a m., 12½, 1½, 5½, 6½, 7½ p m.
Salem for Marblehead, 7½, 8½, 9.25, 11½ a m., 1, 3½, 5½, 7, 7.50 p m.

SOUTH READING BRANCH.
Trains leave the South Reading Depot in Salem for Boston at 6½, 9.50 a m., 2.55, 4.55 p m
Boston for Salem, 7 a m., 12 m., 3, 5½ p m.

ESSEX RAILROAD.
Leave Salem for Lawrence and way stations, 7, 11½ a m., 4.50 p m.
Lawrence for Salem, 8 a m., 12.40, 6 p m.
Danvers for Salem, 8.40 a m., 1.20, 6.40 p m.
South Danvers for Salem, 7½ a m., 12½, 3½, 6½ p m.
J. PRESCOTT, Superintendent.
Boston, April 6, 1863.

Salem and Lowell Railroad.

ON and after MONDAY, April 6, 1863, Trains will run as follows:

Leave Lowell for Salem, 7.25 a m., and *2.45 p m.
Leave Salem for Lowell, *9.40 a m. and 5.55 p m.

Passengers are not allowed to carry baggage above $50 in value, and that personal, unless notice is given and an extra amount paid. Season tickets do not entitle the holder to take baggage.

*Freight Train with passenger car attached.
F. H. NOURSE, Local Superintendent.
April 6, 1863.

TAKE NOTICE.

THAT Dr. Ham's Dyspepsia Remedy has been before the public for the past ten years. And in that time the people who have used it will vouch for the benefit they have derived from it. The character of his article and its reputation can also be obtained from the dealers who sell it, or have sold it for any length of time, to both of those, Dr Ham refers and is willing to stand the test. And also challenges any to compound to produce the same results, let alone now compound to produce the same results, let alone now compound to produce the same results, let alone now

South Danvers Wizard.

VOL. IV. SOUTH DANVERS, MASS., WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 12, 1863. NO. 32.

THE SOUTH DANVERS WIZARD
Is published every WEDNESDAY, at Allen's building, South Danvers Square.
TERMS—Two Dollars a year.
ADVERTISEMENTS inserted at reasonable rates.

CHARLES D. HOWARD,
EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR.

A. A PUTNAM,
ASSISTANT EDITOR, DANVERS.

Selected Poetry.

[From the New York Independent]

A Memorial, to M. A. Cartland.

BY J. G. WHITTIER.

O thicker, deeper, darker growing
The solemn vista to the tomb
Must know henceforth another shadow,
And give another cypress room.

In love surpassing that of brothers,
We walked, O friend, from childhood's day;
And looking back o'er fifty summers,
Our footprints track a common way.

One in our faith, and one our longing
To make the world within our reach
Somewhat the better for our living,
And gladder for our human speech.

Thou heardst with me the far-off voices,
The old beguiling song of fame,
But life to thee was warm and pleasant,
And love was better than a name.

To homely joys and loves and friendships
Thy genial nature fondly clung;
And so the shadow on thy dial
Ran back and left thee always young.

And who could blame the generous weakness
Which, only to thyself unjust,
So overprized the worth of others,
And dwarfed thy own with self distrust?

All hearts grew warmer in the presence
Of one who, seeking not his own,
Gave freely for the love of giving,
Nor reaped for self the harvest sown.

Thy greeting smile was pledge and prelude
Of generous deeds and kindly words;
In thy large heart were fair guest chambers
Open to sunrise and the birds!

The task was thine to mould and fashion
Life's plastic newness into grace;
To make the boyish heart heroic,
And light with thought the maiden's face.

O'er all the land, in town and prairie
With bended heads of mourning, stand
The living forms that owe their beauty
And fitness to thy shaping hand.

Thy call has come in ripened manhood,
The noonday calm of heart and mind,
While I, who dreamed of thy remaining
To mourn me, linger still behind.

Live on, to own, with self-upbraiding,
A debt of love still due from me,—
The vain remembrance of occasions,
Forever lost, of serving thee.

It was not mine among thy kindred
To join the silent funeral prayers,
But all that long sad day of summer
My tears of mourning dropped with theirs.

All day the sea-waves sobbed with sorrow,
The birds forgot their merry trills,
All day I heard the pines lamenting
With thine upon thy homestead hills.

Green be those hillside pines for ever
And green the meadowy lowlands be,
And green the old memorial beeches,
Name-carven in the woods of Lee!

Still let them greet thy life companions
Who thither turn their pilgrim feet
In every mossy line recalling
A tender memory sadly sweet.

O friend! if thought and sense avail not
To know thee henceforth as thou art,
That all is well with thee for ever
I trust the instincts of my heart.

Thine be the quiet habitations,
Thine be green pastures, blossom sown,
And smiles of saintly recognition
As sweet and tender as thy own.

Thou com's't not from the hush and shadow
To meet us, but to thee we come;
With thee we never can be strangers,
And where thou art must still be home.

Army Letter.

LIFE IN THE SADDLE.

(CONTINUED.)

Friday, July 3d, 1863.—Recapitulation of course of march since leaving Aldie:—Left Aldie, Friday, June 26th, at 3 P. M.—halted one mile from Leesburgh and encamped for the night. Started on the 27th at 7 A. M.—passed through Leesburgh, and spent the whole day, with horses saddled, near Edward's Ferry. Crossed the Potomac at 7 P. M.—halted again and obtained one days's forage and rations. Started at 11 P. M.—halted for two hours for sleep. At 2 A. M., of the 28th, continued on towards Frederick City, Md.—at 3 A. M. passing through rich, populated valley. Reached a point two miles from city at 4 A. M. At 2 P. M. again on the march, passing through New market. Encamped for the night at Ridgeville. The 29th of June was spent in obtaining forage and provisions, the latter for four days. Started in the evening at 9 P. M. from the Cavalry rendezvous, six miles from Ridgeville, but halted in the road till 3 A. M. Rain fell during the night. Our cavalry became very much separated by losing the roads, &c., but became re-united about a mile from Westminister, Maryland. At this place our advance came up with the enemy and had a skirmish in the town. Our Brigade have left the main on the Baltimore pike, but turned to the left and crossed to the Hanover pike, which we struck at Hampstead—continued on to Manchester and encamped beyond the town. The people were very friendly, and supplied bread, &c., to the soldiers freely. At 7, had orders to saddle up, started about 9 P. M. July 1st, marched three miles, halted for orders; again started, advancing three miles further and encamped for the night.

The road was full of sixth corps teams. On the morn of 2d again moved on, soon struck the Littleton pike, and reached within two miles of Gettysburg at 5 P. M.—a heavy battle going on in front.

Sunday, July 5th.—Our regiment is now doing Provost duty, and is under the orders of Gen. Fitzpatrick, the Provost Marshal General of the army of the Potomac. We are encamped on the Littleton pike, two miles east of Gettysburg. Col. Curtis is now absent to escort a body of prisoners to Westminister.

As we approached Gettysburg last Thursday, 2d July, when four miles distant, as we pressed the brow of a hill on the pike, I saw smoke in the valley beyond, and looking more attentively could see shells bursting. This greatly surprised me for I had not then heard that a battle was going on, and though I could see shells burst, could hear no sound of them whatever. I suppose the sound was covered by the noise of the train which was passing alongside of us at the time. We pushed on and halted in woods just under or behind the hills on which our artillery were posted. The din now became terrific and so continued till after dark. I went forward to the top of the hills to find out from head quarters where the Sixth Corps hospital would be, and while there an officer rode up and reported to another, that the column of infantry then passing was cut off. This started me back; I reached my regiment however without interruption. At this time, (I afterward learned,) a most tremendous effort was made by the enemy, to turn our left flank, Longstreet in person leading the charge, but they were repulsed.

Next day—Friday, 3d July—firing again commenced at daybreak, continued steadily until 9 o'clock,—was quiet until one, and then commenced again with terrible fury and was kept up till late in the afternoon. Our regiment was posted on the right, with the cavalry who were guarding the right flank. The sky during the early parts of the day was cloudy, but it cleared up and the heat was very intense till about 3½ o'clock; at this time a shower came up wetting us through, but was welcome, as it cooled us so much. Soon after this the 1st Maine and the 1st Michigan were charged upon by the enemy about half a mile from us, and the 4th Pennsylvania also was engaged. We held our ground with some losses on both sides. At this time our regiment was sent back on the pike to meet some cavalry of the enemy's, said to be posted in the woods four miles back, but no enemy was discovered. The position we held during the greater part of the day was in a field on the right of the Bonaughton road, one half mile from the pike, and on the right of our line of battle. After proceeding back on the pike, we returned, halting once in a field near a blacksmith's shop, and encamped in the same woods that we used the night before. All the news during the day had been encouraging.

It seems that the night before we had been so hard pressed that in a council of war it was almost determined to fall back twenty miles, when the arrival of Sedgwick's division (the 6th corps) elevated their spirits, modified doubts, and it was resolved that they should allow the enemy to be the attacking party, but to hold their present position at all hazards. It turned out well, for though the enemy put forth their most strenuous efforts, they were decisively repulsed at all points and in the night fell back leaving the town in our possession.

Yesterday, the 4th, there was very little fighting so far as I could learn. It rained very heavily in the afternoon and all last night.—Our losses in the battles of the three days past have been severe.

I met the 2d Mass. Infantry yesterday, and they, as usual, lost heavily — 130. Charley Mudge my classmate, the major in command was killed and Robson of Jamaca Plain severely wounded, and eight officers beside—we obtained the Baltimore papers yesterday giving an account of the fight. I went down into the town this afternoon and all along the road for a mile this side the marks of battle are conspicuous. On the road, (the Emmetsburgh) where the heaviest fighting took place, there were still rebel dead lying unburied, with haversacks, canteens, &c., &c., lying scattered in confusion all over the field.

CAMP NEAR GETTYSBURG, Pa., July 5th, '63.

I take the opportunity to send you word of my safety. We arrived here July 2d, while the battle was going on, but our regiment did not get engaged directly in it, we were posted with the cavalry to guard the right flank of our army. The cannonading was tremendous and only surpassed by that of the next day, the 3d. This latter was most terrific. My friend, Lieut. Parsons, counted 64 discharges of heavy cannon, while I counted 72 beats of pulse. Our regiment is now doing Provost duty and is at present seperated from the Brigade.

Rations for men and horses are at a lower point than at any time before. It is impossible to obtain anything, our horses suffer particularly. Cannot write more now.

Tuesday, July 7th.—Our regiment ordered to report at Frederick, Md. Started at 6½ o'clock, took the Taneytown road—soon overtook the wagon train of 2d corps, met Capt. H. L. Abbott of the 20th, who is in command of the regiment, now reduced to 125 men and 3 officers, himself and 2 Lieutenants. Passed through Taneytown, the streets were full of wagons and artillery. Passed a part of 6th corps artillery and the whole artillery reserve. Here I met battery, artillery reserve. He said he lost 20 men and 40 horses in the battle of Friday.—We now came upon the 12th corps, and to get by them, were obliged to take a side road for four or five miles. We then came out on the Woodboro and Frederick pike road and then keeping steadily on reached Frederick about 7½ P. M. Here we were joined by Col. Curtis and the squadrons he took with him to Westminister and also by Capt. Crowninshield with the men who have been at Dumfries. Dr. Warren is with them also. The stormy weather continues, it has been raining at times very heavy, since Friday last P. M.

Again have a rumor of the fall of Vicksburg. It is also reported that Fitzpatrick has captured 150 wagons from the enemy near us. There has been some fighting to-day, but hear of no results.

JONES CROSS ROADS TAVERN, MD.

Monday, July 13.—For almost the first time I am writing in a house. Do not be alarmed, I am not sick, but simply obtaining the best possible dinner the country affords. We have been in this vicinity now about four days. We left Gettysburg on Tuesday and made but a single day's march through Taneytown, Woodsboro, &c., to Frederick. It rained heavily that night, though it was pleasant through the day. Wednesday I visited the city (Frederick) and made several small purchases, but tried in vain to get dinner at any of the hotels. The city is very beautifully located; though the streets are now very muddy, it is a very clean and neat city. The houses are chiefly of brick with white wood shutters, like houses in Philadelphia. There are four or five good sized hotels and several nice looking churches and other public buildings.

Thursday we marched across the mountains through Turner's Gap on the pike road to Boonsboro and went into camp on the west side of the hills. Friday we marched through Boonsboro, turned off to the left and went to Rohrsville, then marched from there over a portion of the old Antietam battle ground and then came out on the road from Boonsboro to Williamsport at a point called Union Mills, here the cavalry with our regiment in the advance were ordered to move out on the road, when half a mile out we came upon the enemy's skirmishers, who retired before us slowly to a point about half a mile beyond these cross roads. At night however we retired and left the ground for the enemy to occupy.

The next day we went through the same performance, the cavalry being in advance, dismounted as skirmishers although there were vast quantities of infantry within the command and they of course are better used to skirmishing than the cavalry. No one understand why they use the cavalry so, but they do, and on Friday our regiment had three wounded, and the 2d N. Y. one killed, 4th N. Y. the same.—But Saturday night the infantry was so posted as to hold the ground we had gained, the cavalry falling to the rear to encamp for the night. Sunday, however, the cavalry were again sent to the front and used in the same way as before. To-day however, we are remaining quietly in camp, while the infantry are throwing up intrenchments to oppose those of the enemy which are seen thrown up just this side of St. James' College, about two miles from these cross roads.

Yesterday we had a heavy rain storm again, uncomfortable, sultry, muddy. But as it will impede Lee, tolerate it patiently. This is a very long campaign; men, horses, and materials are rapidly getting used up. It is very seldom that the army is so long in active motion, without rest. U.

MR. EDITOR,—Much has been said in regard to which are the best kind of mowing machines, horse-rakes, cultivators, ploughs, &c. On the farm of THOMAS FLINT, Esq., of West Danvers, you will find the Buckeye Mower, Whitem's patent Wheel Rake, and all other improved farming tools, such as every farmer should have to make farming easy and profitable. As Mr. FLINT does not remain on the farm all the time, he has secured the services of Mr. BACON of Grafton, Mass., as foreman on his farm. Mr. B. is a thorough farmer—for the last five years carrying on one of the largest farms in Grafton—and he pronounces no mower equal to the Buckeye for a one-horse machine. Mr. Flint has a very powerful horse that has mowed his three acres in three hours and cut the grass closer and better than any man could with a scythe. When I employed the machine, one said, "give me the old hook," and another said, "there is nothing like the back-bone for mowing;" but, at about ten o'clock, where is your old man with his inexhaustible back-bone? and where is the man with the old hook? Perhaps every one could not run one of those machines as well as Mr. Bacon, for he has had some considerable experience in working it. In regard to Mr. Flint's Horse Rake, it excells any rake I ever used. I can take, in thin grass, an acre in fifteen minutes as clean as by hand—and one does the whole—drive and empty the rake as fast as the horse can walk. At the present prices of labor you can get your hay in for about one-half, by the aid of the machine, that you could by hand. The very men that spoke against the machines, when I employed them, have acknowledged that all the old maxims are not the best, but confess that the new mowers and rakes are a great improvement, and have applied to Mr. Bacon to do their mowing. V.

☞ The Troy Whig says different sounds travel with different degrees of velocity. A call to dinner will run over a ten acre lot in a minute and a half, while a summons to work will take from five to ten minutes.

☞ Miss Lovely says that males are of no account from the time ladies stop kissing them as infants till they kiss them again as lovers.

Original Poetry.

THE SALEM RIOT, JULY, 1863.

Imprisoned lightnings quickly flash
On telegraphic wires,
And rouse a quiet, peaceful class
With strange erratic fires.
They loudly speak of anarchy,
Full boldly they proclaim
That law and right shall not prevail,
That Freedom's but a name.
Conscription is not just or right,
And they will not endure
To be enrolled in Freedom's name
Without the golden lure.
Such are the words the lightning brings
To Salem's quiet street.
"Mob-law shall rule when darkness comes,"
Is Lynn's most direful threat.

Fore-warned, fore-armed, militia called,
And guards are stationed round
To well protect and safely keep
The city from all harm.
In groups collected on the streets
The craven people stand,
And on the face is terror seen
Instead of glances bland.
Red cheeks and smiles of woman's face
Are blanched with crushing fear,
Or changed by war's imaginings
To slowly falling tear;
On almost all the faces met
Are seen the signs of fear—
More frightened they could scarcely be
If war were really here.

Of the ignoble, base secesh,
Of whom there are some found,
One word need only to be said,
They glory in the sound,
And dare proclaim the dastard hope
That rioters will come,
And basely promise help and aid
Within our quiet home.
But vain their hope, and vain the words
By boasting lips foretold;
They wait and wait, and patience splice
Ere they acknowledge "sold."

We cannot help rejoicing now
O'er enemy's defeat;
Like traitors of the rebel camp
We here at home can meet.
Through selfishness we must rejoice
That our own cause gains way—
Our foe is vanquished, and his cause
Yields subject to our sway.
But more for Freedom's sake we greet
The glad, triumphant course
That we have gained in her behalf
And glory in her force.

WHITE FEATHER.

Selected.

SEEMING WISE.

It hath been an opinion that the French are wiser than they seem, and the Spaniards seem wiser than they are: but howsoever it be between nations, certainly it is so between man and man; for as the apostle saith of godliness, 'having a show of godliness, but denying the power thereof;' so certainly they are in points of wisdom and sufficiency, that do nothing or little very solemnly. It is a ridiculous thing and fit for a satire to persons of judgment to see what shifts these formalists have, and what prospectives to make superficies to seem body that hath depth and bulk. Some are so close and reserved, as they will not show their wares but by a dark light, and seem always to keep back somewhat; and when they know within themselves they speak of that they do not well know, would nevertheless seem to others to know of that, which they may not well speak. Some help themselves with countenance and gesture, and are wise by signs; as Cicero saith of Piso, that when he answered him he fetched one of his brows up to his forehead and bent the other down to his chin. Some think to bear it by speaking a great word and being peremptory; and go on, and take by admittance that, which they cannot make good. Some, whatsoever is beyond their reach, will seem to despise or make light of it, as impertinent or curious; and so would have their ignorance seem judgment. Some are never without a difference, and commonly by amusing men with a subtilty, blanch the matter. Of which kind also Plato, in his Protagoras, bringeth in Prodicus in scorn, and maketh him make a speech that consisteth of distinctions from the beginning to the end. Generally such men, in all deliberations, find ease to be of the negative side, and affect a great credit to object and foretell difficulties; for when propositions are denied, there is an end of them; but if they are allowed, it requireth a new work, which false point of wisdom, is the bane of business. To conclude there is no decaying merchant, or inward beggar, hath so many tricks to uphold the credit of their wealth, as these empty persons have to maintain the credit of their sufficiency. Seeming wise men may make shift to get opinion; but let no man choose them for employment; for certainly you better take for business a man somewhat absurd than over formal.—Bacon.

EXTRACTS.

Whether I have too little sense to see or too much to be imposed upon; whether I have too much or too little pride, or of anything else, I leave out of the question; but certain it is, that what is called monarchy, always appears to me a silly, contemptible thing. I compare it to something kept behind a curtain, about which there is a great deal of bustle and fuss, and a wonderful air of meaning solemnity; but, when, by accident the curtain happens to be open and the company see what it is, they burst into laughter.

I smile to myself when I contemplate the ridiculous insignificance into which literature and all the sciences would sink, were they made hereditary; and I carry the same idea into governments. An hereditary governor is as inconsistent as an hereditary author. I know not whether Homer or Euclid had sons; but I will venture the opinion, that if they had, and had left their works unfinished, those sons could not have completed them.

It is difficult to get over local or long-standing prejudices; yet if we will suffer ourselves to examine the component parts of the English constitution, we shall find them to be the base remains of two ancient tyrannies, compounded with some new republican materials.

The American constitutions are to liberty what grammar is to language; they define its parts of speech, and practically construct them into syntax.

MRS. SENATOR BROWN, of Mississippi, has always been a Unionist, though her husband, Hon. Albert Gallatin Brown, who was a colleague of Jeff. Davis, when the rebellion broke out, was an original secessionist, and for years had advocated rebellion and treason, though he had no taste for the battlefield himself. After the fall of Vicksburg, our troops reached his plantation, and took him a prisoner, carrying him to Snyder's Bluff, where he took the oath of allegiance. The march occupied some days and was severe, and on the way he was so badly attacked with the flux that they were forced to carry him on a litter, and he was pronounced by the Federal surgeon incurable. When he reached Gen. Washburne's headquarters he was considerably alarmed, and while he was able to say but a few words, denied he had favored the rebellion. His wife, the daughter of a Louisville merchant, who had supplied the "material aid" for the family, is made of sterner stuff. She accompanied him; and when General Washburne paroled him not to give aid or comfort to the enemies of the United States, Mrs. Brown spoke up, with much enthusiasm, "That's right, General.—And he shall keep his parole; my word for it, he shall. His tongue has been the ruin of me. The property is all mine; he don't own a cent of it. If he doesn't keep his tongue quiet after this, I'll cut it out of him, and bring it to you, General."

☞ A horrible discovery has just been made on the rebel line of fortifications. Quite a number of men have been engaged in repairing the rebel fort that was blown up on the night of the 3d ult. In the course of their operations they have exhumed sixty or eighty dead bodies found buried in the ruins of the fort. It seems that while our miners were at work making an entry into the side of the hill that was crowned by the rebel fort, a strong working party of rebels were set to work sinking a counter mine within the fort. This party, consisting, it is said, of more than a hundred men, were in the rebel mine when ours exploded, and those of them who were not killed outright were buried alive. Some of the exhumed bodies are terribly lacerated and mangled, while others have not a mark or bruise upon them. Two heads, one that of a negro, have been dug up. They were completely severed from the bodies, the latter not having yet been found. The bodies are found in almost every conceivable position—some standing erect, others sitting or lying, and in one instance the body was head downward as if it had been caught in that position by the crumbling earth while falling headlong into the pit below."

☞ The Mississippi River has been once more opened to trade. The first boat from New Orleans reached St. Louis on the 28th, when a salute was fired in honor of her arrival. Another steamer left St. Louis on the same day for the Crescent city.

KILLING HOGS IN CINCINNATI.

The hogs being confined in adjoining pens, are driven, about twenty at a time, up an inclined bridge, opening into a square room at the top just large enough to hold them. As soon as the door is closed, a man enters from an inside door, and with a hammer weighing about two pounds, fixed to a long handle, knocks each hog down by a single blow between the eyes. In the mean time, a second adjoining apartment is being filled with as many more. A couple of men seize the stunned hogs, and drag them through the inside door to the bleeding platform. Here each gets a cut in the throat with a sharp-pointed knife, and the blood falls through the lattice-floor. After bleeding a minute or two, they are slid off this platform into the scalding-vat, about twenty feet long, six feet wide, and three feet deep, kept full of water heated by steam, the temperature being easily regulated. As the hogs are slid into one end of this vat, they are pushed along slowly by men standing on each side with short poles, turning them over so as to get a uniform scalding, and moving them onward so that each will reach the other end of the vat in about two minutes from the time it entered. Ten hogs are usually passing through this scalding process at the same time, being constantly received in at one end, and taken out at the other, where there is a contrivance for lifting them out of the water two at a time, by one man operating a lever which raises them to the scraping table, five feet wide and twenty-five feet long, with eight or nine men on each side, and usually as many hogs on it at the same time, each pair of men performing a separate part of the work of removing the bristles and hair. The first two take off only those bristles which are worth saving for the brush-makers, taking only a double-handful from the back of each hog, which are deposited in a box or barrel close at hand. The hog slides on to the next two, who with scrapers remove the hair from one side, then turn it over to the next two, who scrape the other side; the next scrape the head and legs; the next shave one side with sharp knives; the next shave the other; the next do the same to the head and legs.—Each pair of the men have to do their part of the work in twelve seconds, or at the rate of five hogs a minute, for three or four hours at a time! When the hog arrives at the end of this table, all shaved smooth, another pair of men put in a gambril-stick and swing the hog off on the wheel, which is about ten feet in diameter, revolving on a perpendicular shaft extending from the floor to the ceiling, the height of the wheel being about six feet from the floor. Around its outer edge are placed eight large hooks, about four feet apart, on which the hogs are hung to be dressed.

As soon as the hog is swung from the table to one of these hooks, the wheel turns one-eighth of its circuit, and brings the next hook to the table, and carries the hog a distance of four feet, where a couple of men dash it with clean cold water and scrape it down with knives to remove any loose hair or dirt that it may have brought along off the table. Then it moves again and carries the hog four feet further, where another man cuts it open in a single second, and removes the larger intestines, or such as have no fat on them worth saving, and throws them out at an open doorway at his side; another move of four feet carries it to another man, who lifts out the rest of the intestines, the heart, liver, etc., and throws them upon a table behind him, where four or five men are engaged in separating the fat and other valuable parts; another move and a man dashes a bucket of clean water inside, and washes off all the filth and blood. This completes the cleaning, and each man has to do his part of the work in just twelve seconds, as there are only five hogs hanging on the wheel at the same time, and this number are removed and as many more added every minute. The number of men inside, not including the drivers outside, is fifty, so that each man in effect kills and dresses a hog every ten minutes of working time, or forty in a day. At the last move of the wheel, the hog is borne off, and hung up to cool.—The next day it is taken off by teams to the packing-houses.

☞ New York has the credit of furnishing the rebels with clothing. A large quantity was found in a storehouse on Morris Island by our troops, bearing "private marks," which show where it was obtained.

ARTEMAS WARD IN VIRGINIA.

The renowned Artemas recently strayed over into the rebel lines, and while there had some queer adventures, of which the following is a specimen:—

"After travelling a spell, I observed a ole house by the roadside, & feelin faint and thirsty, I entered. The only family I found at home was a likely lookin young femail gal whose Johny had gone for a soger. She was weepin bitterly.

"'Me putty rosebud,' sez I, 'why dost thou weep?'

"She made nary answer, but weepsted on. I placed me hand onto her hed, brusht back the snowy ringlets from her pale brow, and kist and passyfied her.

"'What cawsed them tears, fare maid?' I asked again.

"'What?' sez she; 'brother John promist 2 bring me home some Yankee boans to make jewelry, but he had to go and get killed, & now I won't get ary a boan and—O, it's 2 bad—boo-hoo-oo-o.'

"Yes, it was muchly 2 bad—and more too. A woman's teers brings the undersigned, an for the time being I was a rebel sympathizer.

"'Enny father?' I arskt.

'Only one. But he's dead. Mother went over to see Unkle Reub.'

"'Was John a putty good brother?'

'You—John was, O, so kind. He was the only bosom I had to repose these wearyed hed onto.'

"I pitied the maid, and hinted that she might repose her weary hed on my shirt-front—and she reposed. And I was her brother John for a while as it were.

"Ere we parted I arskt for a draft ov water to squench me thurst, an the damsel trippt gayly out of the door to procure it. As she was gone a considerable period, I lookt out of the winder and saw her hopping briskly forth accompanied by 2 secesh cusses, who war armed to the teeth. I began 2 smell as meny as 2 mouses. The 'putty dear' had discovered I was a Yankee, and was goin to have me taken prisoner. I frustrated ner plans a few—I leapt out of the back winder as quick as a Prestidigurete-terandsich, and when she entered the domicil she found 'brother John' non ester (which is Lattin or somethin) and be4 I had proceeded much I found my time repeter non ester, too. The fare maid, who was Floyd's Neece, had hookt it while reposing on my weskit. It was a hunky watch—a family hair-loom, and I wouldn't have parted with it for a dollar and sixty-nine cents,)169)."

THE CONSCRIPTION, by the way in which it is managed in some of the districts, is a farce. In the 4th (Boston) district, the whole number examined last week was 1135, of whom 937 were exempted, 70 paid $300, which makes 1007 that go clear, 108 offered substitutes, and TEN were passed as fit for duty. Thus less than one in a hundred of the original conscripts go into the army. One of two things is true; there is either much perjury, or we are the most sickly people that ever had an existence. If it be true that the young men from 20 to 45 are so diseased and debilitated as is reported, what is to be the physical condition of the next generation, of which these are to be the fathers? This is a more fearful thought than even the rebellion itself.—Newburyport Herald.

RURAL LIFE.—I confess that, when I pass through a rural town, and see the laborers among the corn, and the boys driving the cattle, and the girls busy in the dairies, and life passing away quietly, I cannot avoid a twinge of regret that it would be impossible for me to be content with this kind of life that I see around me, especially as I know that there is one kind of pleasure negative perhaps, rather than positive — which that kind of life enjoys, and in which I can never share. Relief from great responsibilities, and contentment with humble clothing, humble fare, humble means, humble society, humble aims and ambitions, and humble labors—ah! how many weary, over-loaded men — how many disappointed hearts—have sighed for such a boon, and sighed knowing they could never receive it.—Timothy Titcomb.

☞ The Provost Marshals don't quite like to publish some of the diseases of those exempted, and so cover up a multitude of sins under the term "disability."

☞ All the signers of the Declaration of Independence with but four exceptions were Freemasons.

The Wizard.

EDNESDAY, AUGUST 12, 1863.

SUMMARY OF THE WEEK.

Thursday last was a day of Thanksgiving, ordained in gratitude for the victories which ve crowned the national arms, and brought ibly near the end of the unhallowed Revolt. e day was quite generally observed by the pension of business, and by services in the urches. As usual, we were not favored with ighing, though there was plenty of ice at enham Lake and at Putnam's Pond, if not skating, at least for slaking—thirst. By cit consent poultry was dispensed with, the bes of the barn-yards being spared for the rposes of—crowing.

Letters have been captured in Mississippi hich convict ex-President James Buchanan treason, thereby confirming the accusations Gen. Scott. So the old pub. func. is a trai-r. Is any body surprised?

The news of our late victories raised partic-ar Ned with rebel stock in England. If that ock ever went up like a rocket, it certainly me down like a stick, when the London news ys got hold of the WIZARD.

Col. Bramlett, Union candidate for Gover-r in Ky., has been elected by an overwhelm-g majority.

Jeff. Davis has come out with an appeal to s soldiers (deserters—for that's what's the atter,) and the way he jabbers shows conclu-vely that his confidence in "confederacy" is nfounded.

Joe Johnston's rebel army, it would seem, is ing to universal smash. Ten thousand of em, 'tis said, have taken leave of "Joe John-y Joe," and to daddy Jeff's appeal to them put forth their hands, and take victory, they e smiling with provoking incredulity.

The channels of business in the South West e fast opening, and things are beginning to as they were, ere rebels rose and trade tum-ed. It strikes us that those confederate chaps ust feel very much like some antic horse hich the boys have at last cornered where the ll is too high for his jumping and the whips the rear too many for his facing. All he n do is leer, whisk his tail and kick. Jeff's peal may be considered the leering, the Rich-ond Examiner's fidgets the tail-whisking, d Lee's and Beauregard's operations the cking. But it is of no use, old hoss, you're ltered, and presently will be Rareyed.

The "democracy" of Maine met at Port-nd, and nominated one B. Bradbury for overnor. They nominated him NEM. CON. B. adbury thus being their kite,—and a letter m B. Bradbury being the tail thereof, they ached an exceedingly long string of resolu-ons, and undertook to fly their kite. Alas! was no go. Besides, that the kite was radi-lly bad and the tail altogether too heavy, e string broke in twelve different places.—e old Harry was in the luck all round, and ings are as if the "democracy" had never et at Portland at all. We have known brads do better than these Bradburyites.

The people are everywhere pitching copper-ads with a good deal of success. They un-rstand the business, and win every time.

The N. Y. Express is going to be sold at auc-n, Mr. Clark, one of its owners, refusing nger to bolster up that treasonable sheet.

The Union arms were successful in twenty-ght contests in the month of July! In these e captured over 300 guns and 80,000 pris-ers, July, we always loved thee and do still.

The electric light on the cupola of the State ouse at Boston, Thursday night, was seen at ason Village, N. H., a distance of 70 miles. ut why mention this? The light of that ate House penetrates to the uttermost parts the earth.

Capt. John L. Swift, the stumper and the meliest man in all the world, was not taken isoner at Port Hudson as was said. He was grain too swift for 'em. We don't mean to y that John was white feathery. That's not hn.

Capt. Semmes has put away the ALABAMA, d taken a new vessel. The Florida was late-at Bermuda, and Maffit was received with uch distinction.

The peace democrats of Egypt (Southern Il-nois) cheer "for Vallandigham and Davis." hat's peace democracy in a nut shell.

The Richmond EXAMINER says, "No! Mor-an's expedition was not a failure." That aper is evidently going to know no such thing s fail, but failure well know it.

Who but a crazy people or venomous would ave ever adopted a snake for their national mblem! The Davisites chose to identify their ame with the rattlesnake, and of course any ne sympathizing with such a snaky cause ust become snaky in turn. Accordingly the eymourites became copperheads, and a snaky ime we have truly had of it. It would seem hat the descendants of the serpent of Eden ad been making a stupendous effort to over-ule the sentence passed on their great ances-or—"upon thy belly shalt thou go, and dust halt thou eat all the days of thy life." But now ye, O rattlesnakes and Copperheads! hat sentence is not to be reversed—exceept only n so far as this—it is concluded to leave you ven no bellies to go on, and of course we shall hen have no more of that vile practice of dirt-ating, which has so long been the bane of the Republic.

Gov. Seymour has written a letter to the President to stop the draft, and the President as written a letter to Gov. Seymour, saying, top it he will not. Lincoln tells Seymore in effect: Your constitutional suggestions would e better if they were not unconstitutionally made. They imply a loss of time, and that ow is unconstitutional. The President is right. Perhaps now the Governor will See MORE.

We do not give up the going down of Charleston. Gen. Gilmore has erected a long line of batteries within 250 yards of Fort Wag-ner and mounted three heavy siege guns with-in a mile and a quarter of Fort Sumter, and was to open fire on the latter the 29th ult. It is now said a grand attack was to be made by the land and naval forces on the 8th inst. Our army is supposed to have been largely reinforce-ed. The General is confident of reducing Sumter when all his heavy guns are mounted. Our losses are small, not having averaged more than 4 a day since the 19th of July. The tak-ing of Fort Wagner, one account says, is aban-doned for the present, but Sumter has got to fall—into the Union—fall to rise—be battered into beauty—stormed into the sublimity of the

THE CONSPIRACY.

Three weeks ago, in remarking on the New York riot, we said that it was but a monstrous incarnation of the speech of Franklin Pierce at Concord. When we used those words we were not thinking they embodied so much truth as a retrospective view and the light of recent disclosures now render apparent. It now appears that Lee's invasion of Pennsylvania, the large meetings held in the name of Democracy in Ohio and elsewhere, anterior to the 4th of July, the meetings held on that sacred day simultaneously in New York and Concord, and presided over, and addressed by Gov. Seymour and Franklin Pierce, the inflammatory hand bills also circulated on that day, as well as other demonstrations less open, but not less significant, were "all but parts of one stupendous whole"—and that a deliberate conspiracy to so defeat the ends of the Government as to give Rebellion the ascendency and consummate the ruin of the country for the ambitious purposes of the conspirators. The riot of New York was in the plan. Lee's success was anticipated. Federal failure at Vicksburg was counted on, as also at Port Hudson. Hence, Horatio Seymour, in his 4th of July speech, reproached the Government for its dilatoriness at those places and elsewhere; archly excused himself for having sent troops to Pennsylvania, upon the plea that they were to defend a sister State, the Government being not in consideration, and, to the extent of his eloquence, inflamed his hearers against the national authority by pronouncing it tyrannical and bent on despotism. Meantime, Franklin Pierce at Concord was doing his part; protesting that the war was waged to no purpose; prescribing "moral force" as the only cure for rebellion; bewailing the cruel fate of the "martyr" Vallandigham; and belching enigmatical utterances about "a mausoleum of hearts" and about "taking care of yourselves." All this was the orchestral preliminary to the raising of the curtain and the beginning of the tragedy. Alas! for their hopes. While yet they were speaking—while yet their tongues dripped with treason and their hearts were thus leagued in confidence with traitors proclaimed, the God of battles was bringing their counsels to nought, at Gettysburg, at Vicksburg, at Helena and on the sea. But the plot had been too far pushed to escape development wholly. Under such high nursing the bud must flower in some way. One element had been excited, which must vent itself. The ignorant populace keep about their ways unless instigated to violence by persons of reputed respectability and presumed authority; but once thus instigated they know neither the respectability of their instigators nor their authority. Hence the New York riot, without definite aim or end—with just such marks and signs of plan only as would show its origin without in the least controlling its lawlessness. Hence Gov. Seymour's speech naming the rioters his "noble-hearted friends," allayed not their riotness. Hence also the same result from the Archbishop's effort, if it was truly an effort. Seymour's speech and his counselling the removal of the military from the 18th Ward were a confession of treason. The only difference between that Virginia fellow—we forget his name—who is now a prisoner for leading the mob, and Gov. Seymour, is that the Virginian was unwisely rash and the Governor was, is covertly a rascal.

Yet this man is the acknowledged head and soul of that portion of the people who in the name of democracy are aiming for the election of the next President of the Republic! Think of it, men of the country, you, who believe that the country ought to be saved, and its adversaries ought to perish—the Governor of the State of New York is in complicity with Davis, Stephens, Lee and the rest! There is no more doubt about it than that Fernando Wood is the vilest of the vile and the black-heartedest of the black-hearted in New York city, or that Franklin Pierce is an ass, only to be deprecated because his ears are so long that they distract the attention of the community. Mince the matter, you, who will. We are determined not to do it. In the forum of conscience we cannot—in the name of self-respect and decency we will not. We brand Horatio Seymour as the man most to be feared from the Lakes to the Gulf. He holds a large office and wields from that alone a large influence. Unlike the Woods, Pierces, and other s's of the tribe there is nothing particular known in his private character to excite, with respectable people, horror and disgust. He is what passes for a respectable man. He has a fair name, fair ability and a great office. With these he unites the designs of a villain. With these he takes rank in sublimated treason with Jefferson Davis; and thousands of well-meaning persons are accepting him as a man safe to be followed. Of those who follow him simply out of hatred of the present administration, we have nothing to say. We have nothing to fear in their number. Events will take care of them. But of those, who are deceived into following Gov. Seymour by the glare of his office and the gauze of of facts in the face. Gov. Seymour is the chief of unarmed rebels. He would stop the war to-day. He would install Jefferson Davis in the place of Abraham Lincoln. He would raze the Union, and erect the "confederacy." In a word, he is, what Alexander Hamilton pronounced Aaron Burr to be—"a man of dangerous principles."

Now the point is, to overthrow this man—to annihilate him. To do this we need to use neither courts, money nor rope. Let him alone. Cease to acknowledge him as a man of respectability, as a man of honesty, as a man of principles that are sound. Let him fill out the term of his governorship, as he may be capable, or is willing, in serene neglect. If he undertake to interfere with the rights of the nation, crush his effort. Other than this let him wag on as Governor and at the end of his term die. Thus treat Seymour the sachem and his commissioned subordinates, and the Conspiracy will die, Rebellion starve and Slavery be ended.

☞ Rev. J. W. Putnam of the Universalist Church in Danvers preached an able and eloquent sermon on Thanksgiving day. There being no service at Rev. Mr. Fletcher's church, we were glad to observe the auditors at Mr. Putnam's quite largely composed of the Congregational Society. The preacher preached from the text "Faint, but still pursuing." The sermon, not over-long, was an admirable summary of the times since the ourbreak of the rebellion. Its main idea was, that in this war, waged for the greatest of conceivable purposes, we should preserve a firm and hopeful heart—never for a moment, either in word, or deed indulging the thought that the end of the strife would not be a triumph of the cause whose name is Justice, Liberty, Right. We needed faith—the faith of our Fathers. No nation long outlived its trust in God. By that trust, by their unswerving faith in God, our Fathers overcame all obstacles. This the preacher illustrated by a running review of our history from the landing of the Pilgrims. We needed the constancy and devotion of our ancestors. In some degree we had shown the absence of these qualities. But not altogether. Much praise was due and in history would be given for the heroism and fortitude we had exhibited. If we had been faint, or were faint now, let us still pursue. There was much to encourage us. Vicksburg, Gettysburg, Port Hudson showed the progress of the good cause. Faith, with firm right arms would achieve the victory.

At the close of the service, a contribution was taken, without previous notice, and thirty dollars were given for the sanitary commission.

☞ We pity the WIZARD. It did not get publicly reproved for noticing the Statesman, but got only a Caudle lecture. Think of the poor fellow, in these seething times, with several old women of Salem Caudleizing him.—Statesman.

Has the Statesman lost its wits in attempting to prove that Burke had not lost his? Our statesmanly friends must not smart too much over their discomfiture. It was only a slight mistake in history that they made. Neighbors, you must reduce the rotundity of your pretensions, if you would not experience such sudden collapsion, when pricked.—We are unable to give the Statesman any further assurances of comfort than this: we have in mind many topics, to our view, of the first importance to the public, which must have precedence in the crowded columns of the WIZARD, and we will engage to disturb the Statesman by "notice" only when in some lucid moment it seems to present a matter, which, if passed unnoticed, might prejudice the cause of truth and of the country. Our duty as journalists forbids our promising the Statesman more than so much forbearance.

☞ At a special meeting of the Town of Danvers, held Saturday evening last, the following vote was unanimously passed, 90 voting in favor:

Voted, That the Town appropriate a sum of money not exceeding $50,000, to meet the expenditure contemplated by the vote of the Town passed September 11th, 1862, whereby it was

"Voted, That the Town of Danvers pay a bounty of One Hundred and Twenty-Five Dollars to each person, a resident of the town, or his legal representative, who has enlisted in the United States service for three years or the war, who has not already received a bounty from the town, provided said person has served nine months, or has been earlier discharged on account of injuries received in such service; said bounty to be payable at the end of said Volunteer's service"—

And that the Treasurer of the town be authorized to borrow, from time to time, such sum or sums of money as may be necessary to pay the bounty named in the above vote, as the same may become due, and be demanded by the persons entitled thereto under said vote.

MILITARY.—James Hill of Danvers, Orderly Sergeant of Co. C, 33d Regiment, has been promoted to 2d Lieutenant. Capt. Rand of the Company says the Regiment contains no better soldier than Lieut. Hill.

J. F. Dudley of Wenham, late Corparal in Co. I, 14th Regiment, has been promoted to 2d Lieutenant in the 2d Regiment, Heavy Artillery. Quite a number of the paroled of Co. I are now at home on furlough.

LADIES' SOLDIERS' AID SOCIETY'S THANKSGIVING DINNER AND LEVEE.

The Dinner and Levee given by the Ladies' Soldiers' Aid Society to raise money for the benefit of our sick and maimed soldiers, will be long marked as an interesting event in our annals. Notwithstanding the vast amount of labor and care necessarily required for a successful issue of so large an undertaking, everything glided along as smooth and evenly as a bird. Everything was cheerful and inviting; and all seemed to enjoy themselves. Music never sounded sweeter; victuals never more palatable; and as for those ladies, who had planned and carried out this patriotic design, they certainly looked ten years younger, and must have felt as though they had been amply rewarded by seeing their efforts crowned with such brilliant success.

The Dinner was served in a room in the second floor in Sutton's Building The tables, five in number, were capacious enough to seat full two hundred; and they were heavily loaded with the choicest meats, the richest pastry, the rarest fruits, the most delicious beverages (nothing exhilarating). Added to these substantials, to please the taste, there were many large and tempting boquets, tastily arranged, to please the eye. The room itself was handsomely decorated with star-spangled banners, streamers, evergreens woven into rustic figures, interspered with a galaxy of portraits, representing those whom every lover of his country delights to honor, WASHINGTON, "first in peace, first in war, and first in the hearts of his countrymen," LINCOLN, the Second Washington, WEBSTER, the Expounder, JACKSON, "by the Eternal!" BUTLER, the intrepid and never fearing, SUMNER, the scholar and patriot, and PEABODY, the generous. On the walls the words "GRANT & BANKS," and "MEADE," in rustic letters, shone forth like the recent glorious deeds of the individuals themselves.

At the hour appointed for dinner the upper or main hall was filled with a happy throng, and to the sound of the inspiring notes of Upton & Parsons' Quadrille Band they marched into the dining hall and seated themselves at the inviting tables. Rev. Mr. BARBER presided, and after a blessing was asked by Rev. Mr. DWIGHT, the company, to the number of two hundred ladies and gentlemen, were busily engaged in carrying out that part of the services specially assigned to their care.

The dinner over, the company returned to the main hall, where the Rev. Mr. BARBER occupied the chair as a presiding officer, chairman or president, or something, no matter what, for he did it to perfection; and although he waved no sceptre, we soon found he was entrusted with mighty power, as at a word brave and hardy men rose up as if by magic at his behest, and with eloquent and soul-stirring speeches enlivened the hearts of all present.

After music by the band the chairman called upon Mr. JAMES PERKINS, who, as most of our readers will recollect, patriotically volunteered last fall to serve for the defence of his country, although past the age required for a soldier. His remarks, although short, were very interesting, in the course of which he extolled the officers of Co. C, and finished by saying that if his country required it, he was willing to re-enlist for the war.

LIEUT. WM. L. THOMPSON was next ordered to appear on the stand by the chairman. His remarks were quite lengthy, and we give them in full in another column.

REV. MOSELY DWIGHT was the third speaker in order, and his theme was mostly in glorification of the President's Emancipation Proclamation. He dwelt at considerable length on the word "afflicted" in one of the sentences of the document, and adduced a great deal from it. He concluded in a patriotic strain, stating his willingness to join the ranks of our patriotic soldiers, if the country required him.

THOS. M. STIMPSON, ESQ., on being called on demonstrated to a certainty that he could plea as strongly in defence of our glorious Union as he could for his client at the bar. He dwelt largely on the wars of ancient and modern times, how much more civil we were in our mode of conducting them, and the general effect all great wars have conduced. His arguments were able and very instructive; concluded by extolling the efforts of our Ladies Soldiers' Aid Society in the efforts they have made, and the success they have obtained, in aiding the great cause of liberty.

REV. MR. SAFFORD was then called upon, and his address leterally sparkled with wit and patriotism. He eulogized Abraham Lincoln to the skies, and compared him in a glowing eulogy to the brave pilot in a storm, avoiding by his coolness and judgment the disunion breakers on a lee shore, and saving the glorious old ship of state from destruction. He spoke at some length, and we are sorry that we cannot give his address in full as it was our determination to do so at the time. It was most decidedly the speech of the evening.

THOS. HARDY, ESQ., an old townsman, who sought the golden shores of California some fourteen years ago, and lately returned, was requested to make some remarks. He said that California was thoroughly loyal. The murder of the patriot Broderick by the tools of the slavocracy settled the fate of the latter interest. He believed that if the government called they could raise 20,000 men in twenty days, and although it was not usually publicly announced, this state was constantly sending money and means to our government to contribute to the comfort of the sick and wounded in our hospitals, and to sustain the government.

MR. HORACE HADLEY, a Salem lawyer, and a late private in Co. C, next addressed the assemblage at considerable length. According to the tenor of his remarks he evidently went to the carrying out of all laws to the letter, and to have them completely understood by every man, woman, and child in the land. This is very natural, as law is his business. He thought that the people of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts (notwithstanding it was the most enlightened spot on the face of the globe) did not read enough about constitutional obligations, and that it was very essential they should give more attention to the subject. If he is right in his assertions, how lamentably ignorant some other portions of the Union must be.

ISAAC HARDY, ESQ., was called upon to make some extemporaneous remarks, and although he was not down on the programme as speaker, he did himself great credit and entertained the audience to a high degree. Mr. Hardy's speeches always have the true ring, and although this time he was unprepared for a call his effort was a creditable one—and a great deal better than we could do.

MR. JAMES PERKINS made some remarks in regard to the siege of Vicksburg, giving some experiences of his brother, who helped to reduce it. His brother must be the same kind of chip as himself, for he recently wrote to his wife that she could sell the farm, and fixin's, if she pleased, as he was bound not to come home till he had seen the war through with.

During the above speeches the intervals were interspersed with music by the band.

The afternoon's entertainment was now concluded, and after singing "America" in conjunction with the band, the assemblage dispersed.

The Levee in the evening was well patronized, and dancing and promenading were freely indulged in by the lovers of this pleasant amusement. The middle-aged folks, under the lead of our gallant Representative, were decidedly in the majority, and the way some of them tripped on the "light fantastic" clearly demonstrated that youthful impressions are rarely forgotten. The whole affair wound up about midnight, and one and all felt satisfied with the day's performance.

On Friday afternoon the children participated, there being an abundance of provender left. Over one hundred tickets were sold. The little ones had a nice time.

CARD OF THANKS.

The Ladies of the Soldiers' Aid Society would tender their thanks to the Gentlemen who so kindly volunteered their services, to assist in preparations for our Thanksgiving dinner; and to those of our friends who so generously responded to our solicitations for contributions to the table, by bountifully furnishing provisions, or funds for that purpose.

The Ladies would gratefully acknowledge a donation from our non-resident townsman "whose currency is gold," and may his gold never become dim.

We would express our obligations to Rev. Mr. Barber for presiding at our festival. The interesting address and patriotic sentiments of the speakers added much interest to the occasion. All did so well it would be invidious to particularize.

We have the pleasure to announce that our efforts in behalf of our sick and wounded soldiers, were so far a success, that the nett proceeds are $165 00.

☞ An officer from this town, belonging to the 35th Massachusetts Regiment, in the 9th Army Corps, writes "that during the march from Jackson, Miss., to Vicksburg, the heat was so intense, the suffering from want of water was so great, that the men fell by scores all along the route. No one will wonder that the announcement of Burnside's order to go back to Kentucky was received with such joy."

☞ Will those, who are such sticklers for "obedience to law," please say why they are so anxious to dangle the conscription act two or three years in the courts in order to test its constitutionality. If that law is ever to be obeyed it is now—not when the horse is stolen.—This wail for "obedience to law" comes with ill grace from the constitutional testers of conscription.

☞ Some of the Democratic papers affirm that the victory at Gettysburg was due to General McClellan, because the troops thought they were fighting under that commander! We expect the next thing we shall hear will be that it was not Gen. Grant, but McClellan who took Vicksburg.

Lieut. Thompson's Remarks at the Thanksgiving Dinner.

MR. PRESIDENT, LADIES AND GENTLEMEN,—On ordinary occasions I should be at a loss for an appropriate theme for an after dinner speech, but the day we have assembled to celebrate suggests the all-absorbing theme which is appropriate at all times and on all occasions. I refer to the present condition of the country and the great contest which now engages the nation. During our nine months' campaign, which has just terminated, we had a nearer view of the great contest in which we are engaged, and had a better opportunity of learning the character of the foe we have to contend with, and the difficulties which beset our armies and thwart our efforts. And with this experience we returned more than ever convinced of the grandeur of the principles for which we fight, and the necessity of still greater sacrifices and self-devotion on the part of the North till victory crown our efforts and this nefarious rebellion be crushed out. We know something by observation and experience of the terrible calamities of war; we know that sorrow pervades almost every family in the land, for the death of its noblest members; we know that war in itself is essentially barbarous, and that the noblest intellects of the nation are diverted from the walks of literature, art, science, and agriculture, from all the humanizing and productive pursuits of man, to the terrible work of destruction and death; but notwithstanding all these sufferings and sacrifices, the noble objects for which we fight, if secured, will more than compensate for them, and we shall be assured of the blessings of posterity. But if we fail from a want of spirit, or from selfishness, or from a failure to appreciate the magnitude and importance of the interests at stake, if we tamely yield to the demands of a weaker power, animated not by the holy spirit of liberty but by selfishness and love of tyranny, if we, possessed of the most ample resources, which you have heard enumerated a hundred times, and urged to action and endurance, by the certainty of national disgrace and ruin if we fail, if we in view of all these considerations fail of success, we deserve failure and ought to acknowledge the haughty Southerner, henceforth and forever, our rightful and legitimate master. But, fellow-citizens, we must not fail, we must not and cannot prove ourselves such unworthy sons of the noble and illustrious ancestors who transmitted to us these noble institutions which we are now called upon to defend. A distinguished Roman general once truly said, it was better never to have received a noble inheritance, than having once received to barely lose it. Our contest is peculiar; there seems to be no other alternative but victory or ruin, success or disintegration and disgrace. We are placed in a situation, in some respects similar to that of Greece, when the immense armies of barbarous Persia appeared upon her borders, and threatened her with annihilation. Every thing was then abandoned but the work of national salvation. Victory or death was the rallying cry of the heroic Greeks, victory, not death, was their inevitable destiny. While the objects of this contest remain unaccomplished, constant war and sacrifice is our destiny and our duty. We have not yet employed half the means in our power to subdue this rebellion. There are thousands of blacks at the South with hearts eager and anxious to assist us in subduing their former oppressors, who in recent battles have shown that they deserve that rich boon of liberty, which now for the first time in their long, dark history, is within their reach. We have thousands of young men still in our midst who have not yet sacrificed a dollar or a moment's time for the salvation of their contry. There is wealth enough yet to carry on the war for ten years to come, and while such is the case, we must not for a moment falter or hesitate. There was a time during the last nine months when the armies of the nation felt some degree of discouragement. It was immediately after the defeat of Burnside at Fredericksburg; not that the victory of the enemy was in itself of so much importance, or that any great advantages to the rebels ensued, but because the nation for a time seemed to be in complete despair. The letters received by the soldiers at that time were filled with the saddest and most dolorous sentiments, and the people seemed to have lost all heart. Then we began to hear of a party rising into power, hostile to the Government, the war, and its objects,—friendly to the South and really anxious for its success though professing devotion to the Union and the Constitution. We were told that they prated of compromise, alias treason, of begging the Southerners, poor offended people to return to the Union on their own terms, and then they described the blessings of peace, and contrasted the present unhappy, bleeding, distracted state of our country to what she was ere brother rose against brother and son against father, forgetful that they and such as they were in a great measure responsible for our present afflictions. Such accounts as these reached us, at intervals, by the unfreqent mail, and we from our distant view began to think that the North had lost its spirit and was fast yielding up its glory and its manhood.

Can it be, we asked each other, that our friends at home who have lost nothing but the companionship of their friends who have voluntarily entered the service of their country can counsel peace on terms proposed by the rebels? Can it be, we asked, that they are so blind to the future and the interests of posterity as to cry peace, peace! when there can be no permanent peace except as the result of victory, while every day of our own experience taught us that no sacrifices were too great to be made to secure the objects of the contest. But the sentiments of the letters received soon changed. We now heard of returning enthusiasm; of large meetings of patriots who took a just and the only consistent view of our present contest, who declared for war to the bitter end; of Union Leagues where the noblest sentiments were expressed, sentiments which encouraged us to endure the toils and dangers of the march and the irksome monotony and restraint of camp life, we felt again that our friends at home were true to themselves and their country. And now, Sir, it seems to me, that any one, who, in view of such sentiments as are expressed in the Southern papers, against re-union on any terms—sentiments which are almost universal at the South—could advise the Government to seek peace by a compromise of her dignity and honor,—

"Living, should forfeit fair renown,
And doubly dying, should go down
To the vile dust, from which he sprung,
Unwept, unhonored, and unsung."

☞ Secretary Chase passed through Salem on Saturday on a brief visit to a friend in Beverly.

SPECTRAL ILLUSION.—Many of our citizens have lately been strangely deluded under the impression that the Horse Cars are running between South Danvers and Salem! They confidently assert that they have seen these phantom cars flitting by at all hours of the day, and some of them are ready to give their solemn affidavit that they have rode in them and actually paid their money to men with the badge of a conductor on their breasts. So positive are they that they have witnessed the phenomenon, that we should be inclined to believe them if we had not been assured, officially, that the road is not yet in operation. We hope the road will soon be open to travel as the only sure way to be rid of these strange spiritual illusions.

A NEW THING ON THE BRAIN.—Its name is Draft, it particularly effects persons between the ages of 20 and 35. It produces home sickness, yet it imparts a strong desire to travel, not however in a southerly direction. It leads the sufferer to discover ailments all over his body that never before existed. It endoweth a man with marvelous modesty, so that he vaunteth no more of his muscle. He paroleth dismally through the streets and whispereth upon the corners, behold I am feeble and cannot mingle with the fighting men of Israel? AMEN.

☞ George Miller of South Danvers, a member of Co. H, 1st Mass. regiment, now stationed in Baltimore, was shot last Saturday, by an intoxicated companion, named George Funk. Miller was endeavoring to befriend him, when the intoxicated soldier drew a pistol and shot him in the left side, the charge lodging in the back. The culprit is to be tried by Court Martial. Miller was conveyed to Camden street hospital where he lies in a critical situation.

☞ We are under obligations to R. B. PRAY, late Lieutenant in the 17th Regiment, for a flag—the tri-color of France—taken by his brother, Ensign T. J. PRAY of the Santiago de Cuba, from the blockade-runner Britania. It will be recollected that the Britania had escaped from Charleston with a cargo of cotton and was about to enter Nassau when she was captured by the Santiago de Cuba.

☞ Sergt. John L. Waterman, of the 23d Regiment, is now at home on a 30 days' furlough.

THE FIFTIETH REGIMENT.—While that numerous portion of our citizens who have friends in this Regiment were anticipating the joy of a speedy meeting, the sad intelligence was received that three members of Co. A, (Salem Light Infantry,) had died on the passage home, and that five others were left sick on the way. This intelligence came yesterday, by a telegraphic dispatch sent by Capt. Putnam from Buffalo, to his father in this city. Those who have died are James V. Waters, (son of Mr. A. S. Waters, North Salem,) Elias A. Troffater, and Joseph Dodge.—Gaz.

☞ The Old Hunt House, on the corner of Washington and Lynde streets, is now in process of demolition. It was a curious old house, of the gable-roofed style. The Gazette states that the house was built by Lewis Hunt, in the year 1700. One room in the house was finished in anticipation of the birth of William Hunt, who duly honored this preparation for his coming by commencing his pilgrimage there Aug. 5, 1701—just one hundred and sixty-two years ago on the day when our neighbor Nichols was disposing of the walls which sheltered the new comer, "in lots to suit purchasers." Mr. Hunt became a prominent member of the First Church. The house has always remained in the Hunt family—the last owner (before the present,) being Eunice Hunt, widow of the late Col. John Russell, recently deceased.—Salem Observer.

